THE LISTENING POST

● Poignant memories come to me when I think of the old doctor who was laid to rest in the cemetery here today, for Dr. Gourley was intimately concerned with the lives of various members of my family. I knew him when I was a lad; he watched over us through early years, he was with us when death came, and those things always leave deep and permanent memories.

● Back in early days in the little Tennessee town where I grew up it was customary for all doctors to minister to the families of preachers without charge. Whether this practice is continued anywhere I do not know; I guess that it has been discontinued. I know now that it must have been a heavy burden on the doctors, for in this town of which I speak there were five or six preachers who lived on one street and all had large families. There was hardly a time when a doctor was not needed at some of the homes, and I say flatly that they always answered these calls as cheerfully and promptly as if the call came from one of the wealthy homes. In my home it was the theory that we should not ask one doctor to bear all the burden and so we had several doctors for different cases. I remember, and it is a loving memory, the gruff, white-headed Doctor Dibrill. He was the man who usually cared for me, and now and then I was a little afraid of him. I remember Dr. Hall, tall, impatient, given to quick outbursts of temper if crossed, but skilled and tender just the same. I remember Dr. Young, easy going, agreeable, ready to talk to all the family at all times. I remember Dr. Dan Scates, who came later, a cousin of the family, and a man who would not accept any suggestions whatever about any sort of treatment. And I remember Dr. Gourley, then a rather young man as compared to the others. He did not remain in that town a great while, but I remember vividly one case in which he served with great distinction.

● A member of the family was ill with some disease which baffled all the doctors. It was something which ordinary treatment and standard medicines failed to relieve, and I remember quite vividly hearing father and mother talk of the matter one night when they believed me sleeping. I heard the troubled note in father's voice when he said he feared they were going to lose the boy. I saw them, as I lay snuggled under covers on the bed, kneel before the fireplace, bow their heads, and in some dim manner my childish mind grasped the fact that they were pleading with a Higher Power that their second born be spared. It was something new to me, and I struggled with the thought for a long time that night after the others were sleeping.

● Next morning, a raw morning in late winter, Dr. Dibrill brought Dr. Gourley to aid in diagnosing the case. I remember the fear which swept over me when I heard the younger doctor say it was an "operative case." It was in the days when a hospital was a fear-some, far-off thing, and operations were spoken of as something bordering on the supernatural. Dr. Dibrill asked his fellow doctor if he could handle the operation, and I remembered how calm and confident Dr. Gourley's voice was when he said he could and would.

● I saw that operation--the only one which I have ever witnessed. I stood there in the little home, with few conveniences and no luxuries, and watched Dr. Gourley go to the seat of infection with steady hands and keen eyes. I saw the mother, torn and distracted, aid in the operation, driving herself by the great mother love which knew no limits. I saw the scalpel probe deeper and finally I heard Dr. Gourley say calm-

Recapitulation Of First Vote Reveals Count Is Correct

Washington. -- In an atmosphere of hushed tension alternating with clamorous uproar, the House passed the Army service extension bill tonight by a single vote 203 to 202. By that narrow margin, it saved the administration from a devastating defeat and apparently assured the ultimate enactment of the legislation, perhaps by the end of this week.

Twenty-one Republicans joined 182 Democrats in voting for the bill. The opposition votes were cast by 65 Democrats and 133 Republicans and four minor party members.

The measure had already received Senate approval in different language but with principal provisions exactly the same.

The President is empowered to keep draftees, militiamen, reservists and Army enlisted men in the service for a maximum period of 18 months beyond the term for which they were inducted.

All will receive a raise of ten dollars a month after they have completed one year in the Army. (The previous restriction limiting the number of draftees simultaneously in the Army to 900,000 is removed.)

Just before the close final vote, administration leaders had beaten a motion to send the legislation back to military committee, 215 to 190. They had been in command of the situation throughout a long day of voting on amendments. They thought it was all over.

However, as the final roll call proceeded, they came to alert. Republican leaders anxiously kept tabs on the voting, but all that anyone except the tally clerk knew for certain was that the ballot was breathtakingly close.

Two-Ocean Navy May Be Ready Two Years Ahead Of Time, In 44

Washington. -- The warship building speed-up, cutting construction time on new men-of-war an average of 12 to 15 per cent for each vessel, will give the United States its two-ocean fleet two years earlier than originally scheduled, Navy sources said Monday.

Barring labor trouble or actual war, the fleet will be "substantially ready" by 1944 to fulfill its intended mission of defending the United States from simultaneous attacks in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, a Navy spokesman said. The originally scheduled date was 1946-7.

Some of the seventeen battle-ships authorized, and perhaps certain other large units will be completed, but by 1944 it was estimated that the most powerful fleet the world has ever known will be in readiness for any possible hostile combination.

Double and sometimes triple-shift work in Navy yards and private shipbuilding plants, authorization of overtime pay, and new worker-training programs have begun to show results in accel-

MRS. SHUPE IS FOUND DEAD IN BED THIS MORNING

Well Known Fulton Woman Dies Following Long Illness

Mrs. Elizabeth Spangler Shupe, 85, widow of the late D. A. Shupe, was found dead in bed this morning about 3 o'clock at her residence, 106 West street. Mrs. Shupe had been in poor health for several years, but her death comes as a shock to the many relatives and friends.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at present, but will be announced in tomorrow's issue. Hornbeak Funeral Home will have charge of the funeral.

Mrs. Shupe was born September 28, 1855 in Fairfield County, Ohio. Fifty-four years ago she moved to Tennessee, coming to Fulton in 1920 to make her home. She was a good, Christian woman and a faithful member of the Methodist church for the past 50 years. At the time of her death she held her membership at the First Methodist church here. She was actively engaged in church work until poor health prevented. Her passing brings sorrow to the hearts of many in this community, where she was loved and respected by all who knew her.

Her husband, D. A. Shupe, preceded her in death on August 7, 1924. Six children survive: Mrs. C. C. Anderson of Union City, Tenn.; H. E. Shupe of Hopkinsville; Mrs. G. E. Griffin of Fulton; Mrs. S. F. Etridge of Martin, Tenn.; Mrs. James Kimbell of Clinton; and A. D. Shupe of Fulton. She leaves four brothers, Pete, Charles, Henry and Barney Spangler, all of Amanda, Ohio. Eleven grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren also survive.

MRS. McLAUGHLIN DIES YESTERDAY

Mrs. Rose McLaughlin passed away yesterday, August 12, at her home in Ashland City, Tennessee, according to messages received by her nieces, Mrs. S. E. Campbell and Mrs. Eston Daws of Fulton. Funeral and burial are being held in Ashland City.

SHELL-LOADING PLANT TO BEGIN OPERATION

Milan, Tenn. -- The first of five shell-loading lines at the $26,000, 000 Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant here was scheduled to begin operating today, two months ahead of schedule and seven months after work was started on the plant.

Fifty of the plant's 300 buildings, sixty-six of its 100 miles of roads and sixty-three of its seventy-five miles of railroad have been completed. Construction of 700 concrete "igloos" in which shells will be stored has already begun.

When the plant goes into full production late this year 9,000 persons will be employed.

Mexico Will Rebuild Railways To Aid In Defense Of Canal

Mexico City. -- Mexico will rebuild an old railroad across the Tehuantepec Isthmus and provide ample reserve fuel stocks near both ends of the Panama Canal against possible United States entrance in the war.

The railroad, which would carry freight between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans if the canal should be restricted by war measures or damaged by bombs, can be overhauled in four months, it was announced. The Government will spend about $2,400,000 on the 190-mile line, which now carries limited traffic.

President Manuel Avila Camacho ordered immediate transport across the isthmus to Salina Cruz on the Pacific of part of 335,000 barrels of reserve fuel oil now in Puerto Mexico on the Atlantic. This will permit shipping which formerly refused in California to obtain fuel in Mexico.

JULY CHARGES AGAINST STATE TOTAL 3 MILLION

Report Shows State in Excellent Financial Condition

Frankfort, Ky. -- Total charges in July, first month of the new fiscal year, against first-quarter allotments to the State's general fund amounted to $3,151,610, Accounts and Control Director W. Arch Bennett reported Tuesday.

This left and unencumbered balance for the first quarter of $2,744,245, he said. Allotments for the full three-month period total $5,895,856.

The charges consist of $2,043,625 in unpaid encumbrances and $1,107,994 in actual expenditures. Bennett explained it was not unusual for charges to cut deeply into the allotment in the first month of a quarter because of the many encumbrances, or earmarked funds, on contracts and other future purchases.

For the first four months of the State road fund's fiscal year, Bennett said, allotments amounted to $22,187,277 and charges, $19,053,011.

HERE'S ONE BIRD THAT DOESN'T MIND GAS RATIONING

London. -- The grouse has nothing much to grouse about in old England these days.

In peace-time, the mottled plumage game bird is the object of big shooting parties.

This season the grouse's life expectancy is better because there's a shortage of gasoline for cars to transport sportsmen to the moors, and food rationing has prevented many hosts from staging big shoots.

The traditional August 12 opening of the season on grouse was advanced to August 1 this year when the birds were reported damaging crops.

SILENCE CONTINUES FOR THIRD DAY ON ROOSEVELT SHIP

Rumors Still Persist of Meeting With Churchill

Washington. -- The silence from the yacht Potomac, on which President Roosevelt is making a vacation cruise, extended well beyond its third day this afternoon.

Navy press officers said the usual press message sent by radio from the Potomac had not been received at the expected hour, about 3 p. m. (E. D. T.). Nothing has been heard from the Presidential party since Saturday morning, and in the intervening period, rumors, still completely unconfirmed, continued to circulate of a meeting between Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain.

Naval spokesmen said that no assurance had been given when the cruise off New England started 9 days ago that press messages would be dispatched daily.

APPEALS COURT AGREES TO TEST HARLAN VOTE

Frankfort, Ky. -- The State Court of Appeals agreed Monday to hear oral arguments Tuesday on validity of two primary ballot boxes in Harlan County's Republican Sheriff race.

Judges Gus Thomas and Will H. Fulton said they would hear the case and Judge W. V. Perry was expected to join them.

The case was brought here by an attorney for Mrs. Herbert Caswood, who the Harlan County Election Commission decided had lost the nomination to Ed Smith.

Des Moines, Iowa. -- Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to the United States, declared here Monday night that the democracies will lose their political and economic freedom if democracy loses the war, even if they never are invaded.

The Australian, who has represented his government in Washington the last eighteen months, was a speaker at the twenty-third annual convention of the Iowa American Legion.

In his prepared address, Casey asserted:

"This is no more Britain's war than it is Greece's war or Norway's war or Brazil's war--or our war. This is no limited war about

George Holds U. S.-Japanese Break Possible

Jap Press Warns British And American People To Prepare For Worst

Washington. -- A major crisis developed Monday night in Franco-American relations, and predictions were heard on a Capitol Hill that the United States would break off diplomatic links with Vichy and perhaps take over such strategic possessions as the island of Martinique.

Secretary of State Hull clearly hinted that his worst fears had been confirmed by the elevation of Vice Admiral Jean Darlan to supreme command of France's armed forces and other indications of French collaboration with Hitler.

The subsequent broadcast of Chief of State Henri Petain, despite reassuring words directed to the U. S. served mainly to strengthen the impression here that far reaching decisions had been taken to fit France into Adolf Hitler's "New Order" in Europe.

Senator George (D., Ga.), who until recently was chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters that the partnership between Germany and France might mean that the United States would find it necessary to occupy such French territories as Martinique in order to forestall any move by Germany.

GEORGE BELIEVES TAX EXEMPTION TO BE REDUCED

Nye Recommends 15 Per Cent Exemption For War Program

Washington. -- Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate finance committee, voiced the opinion today that the committee would vote to reduce personal income tax exemptions to $750 for single persons and $1,500 for married couples, as recommended by the Treasury.

Present exemptions allow $800 for single persons and $2,000 for those who are married.

George also said that he expected "some readjustment of personal income tax rates" to be made by the committee before it finishes its work on the new $3,236,700,000 tax program already approved by the House. He did not particularize, however.

As the committee convened to hear a new group of witnesses testify on specific sections of the measure, Senator Nye (R.-N. D.) suggested that the present 10 per cent defense tax be matched by a 15 per cent lease-lend supertax to help meet the costs of British aid.

Nye proposed that an additional line be inserted in the federal individual income tax return upon which the taxpayer would compute 15 per cent of his regular tax and add that amount to the total bill.

"That would drive home to the people," he said, "the knowledge, and to many that would be the first knowledge that they had, that the lease-lend aid program is costing them money."

Australian Says That Freedom Can Be Lost Without Invasion

Des Moines, Iowa. -- Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to the United States, declared here Monday night that the democracies will lose their political and economic freedom if democracy loses the war, even if they never are invaded.

HISTORY IS REPEATING

Day by day, as Germany and the Vichy regime of France discuss the French colonial empire, history is more or less repeating itself. For this is not the first time that relations have been strained between Germany and France over outposts in Africa. Older people will recall that in 1911 the first World War was barely averted. It came a few years later, in 1914, but in 1911 the spark almost ignited in a place called Agadir, a sandy harbor on the Atlantic which appeared to be wanted by no one at the time. It was simply the old German game of protecting some minority people which has been used with such deadly effect in the present war. Protection has always meant seizure in the German book, and it seemed then that the Kaiser was ready to go to war over this unwanted harbor on the hot coast of Africa. It did have a certain strategic value, and even then Germany was interested in the trade routes of the South Atlantic. There seemed no chance of acquiring Gibraltar at the time, and the Kaiser wanted a spot where he might dominate the movement of ships in that region. For weeks there was a threat of war, and only the unqualified support of the British for France prevented war. Britain moved to the side of France then and has remained there until the present unhappy year. In 1940 Hitler finally cut France and Britain apart.

For some obscure reason France occupied Fez, the chief city of Morocco in July, 1911. Shortly thereafter the Kaiser grew quite determined in his talk concerning the rights of one Gebrueder Mannesmann to certain holdings on the Atlantic seaboard; these holdings being placed in danger, the Kaiser said, by French aggression. This place was Agadir, a sandy harbor on the Atlantic which appeared to be wanted by no one at the time. It was simply the old German game of protecting some minority people which has been used with such deadly effect in the present war. Protection has always meant seizure in the German book, and it seemed then that the Kaiser was ready to go to war over this unwanted harbor on the hot coast of Africa. It did have a certain strategic value, and even then Germany was interested in the trade routes of the South Atlantic. There seemed no chance of acquiring Gibraltar at the time, and the Kaiser wanted a spot where he might dominate the movement of ships in that region. For weeks there was a threat of war, and only the unqualified support of the British for France prevented war. Britain moved to the side of France then and has remained there until the present unhappy year. In 1940 Hitler finally cut France and Britain apart.

This year another African harbor leaps into the headlines. Instead of Agadir it is now Dakar. The Germans want Dakar, a much more valuable harbor than Agadir would have been long years ago, and signs are not lacking that she will move to obtain possession of this vital port which dominates the South Atlantic. Perhaps a new force which was not counted on in 1911 will intervene this time.

In 1911 a crisis in Europe meant little to the United States. In 1898 we had finally emerged as a world power, but we were content to flex our muscles at home and let European matters alone. The old time theory of no entangling alliances still held in this nation. In 1941 we have a different picture, for since 1911 we have taken a vital part in two European wars. In 1914 there were few people who believed the European war would ever touch us, but these were wrong. It did touch us deeply and vitally and now we know that war anywhere in the world will always concern us. Dakar, which might have been only a name of a far-off place thirty years ago, is now a vital word in American policies, and United States actions may play a decisive part in the fate of Dakar. For we know that we can tolerate no bases so near the South American continent

NAZI INTRIGUE IN THE NEAR EAST

Almost overlooked in the gigantic game of power politics that Germany is playing are Nazi machinations in Iran, key to India, the Suez Canal and the Caucasus oil fields. While the strings are being pulled from Berlin to get Japan into the war, to force France to hand over Dakar and the French fleet, to win Spain and Portugal as active Axis partners, the Hitler Reich is intriguing in ancient Persia to gain control of the strategic country and if a report from Cairo is to be credited a Nazi putsch to overthrow the Government has just been frustrated.

Since the collapse of the Nazi-inspired revolution in Iraq and defeat of the Nazi-dominated French forces in Syria and Lebanon, Nazi plotting in the Near East has centered on Iran. German tourists and technicians have flocked into the country. They moved to the new field from Iraq, Syria and Lebanon and more came in through Turkey. Recently Foreign Minister Anthony Eden told the House of Commons that he had served notice on the Teheran Government that it must take "necessary measures now" to stop the infiltration of German agents and forestall an uprising such as the Rashid Ali coup in Iraq. A British force stands guard on the Iraq-Iran border and an Indian army is reported to be ready to march through Afghanistan.

Iran, like Iraq, is important for its oil. It also is the back door to the Caucasus oil fields, and the cross roads to India and the Suez Canal. Germany could gain no more valuable prize than this buffer zone between the British and the Russian empires. But Britain and Russia are fully aware of Nazi plotting and are on her guard.

Duff-Cooper was willing to admit that, after those annoying bombings, London did need a bit of "tidying up," a characteristic understatement, for which we are grateful. And, by the way, quite in order to address him as Mr. Cooper, quite.—Courier-Journal.

PORTABLE VAT HELPS SMALL FLOCK OWNERS

Because a portable vat was available, many Scott county farmers dipped their sheep this year for the first time. The portable equipment was especially appreciated by owners of small flocks.

The loss of wool is many flocks stimulated interest in dipping, according to County Agent H. S. Long, (who believes dipping may) increase the production of wool at least a half-pound per ewe. This half-pound would more than pay the cost of dipping. It is estimated that at least 10,000 sheep will be dipped in the county this spring.

DR. BUSHART'S CAR IS STOLEN

Dr. R. L. Bushart's 1938 Ford was stolen yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock from its parking place in front of the Fulton hospital. Two negroes were seen driving it, headed toward Cairo, but no trace of the car has been found yet.

The car was a black tudor sedan with Fulton county license S-6392 and City Tag 410.

100,000 JAP TROOPS TO GO TO INDO-CHINA

Manila.—The Japanese High Command is planning to place 100,000 troops in French Indo-China, the majority of them in West Cambodia adjoining the border of Thailand, it was learned authoritatively Tuesday night.

Foreign observers agree that the Japanese will enter Thailand when they are organized and prepared to meet British troops now stationed in Burma and British Malaya along the West and North-western Thai border.

The number of troops the Japanese are reported planning to move in Indo-China is far greater than has previously been mentioned. It was announced officially by the French Indo-China Government July 30 that under last month's agreement with Tokyo the Japanese would move only 40,000 troops into Southern Indo-China to occupy military bases granted Japan on her demand.

LISTENING POST

ly, "I think the boy will be all right now."

That was almost forty-five years ago. That operation in that humble home, done without thought of payment, without even the rudiments of hospital supplies, gave that lad almost forty years of useful life, enabled him to care for the father and mother in later years and many times I have wondered whether it was fate, whether it was the silent prayer offered up in the dim hours of night before a fireplace where the fires burned low by a country minister, or whether it was the skill of trained hands which brought about the recovery. Perhaps a little of all, but out of it comes a feeling of thanksgiving that Dr. Gourley was with us then.

Years later the good doctor was with us when death finally came to the father and mother, and I will never forget his kindly, broken voice as he grasped my hand and told me of his love for those who had gone. They were near his age and he was old then and nearing the end of his active career. Out of all these memories comes a deep admiration for this kindly man of science and all that he meant to me and mine. At the risk of being too personal I felt that I must set down my feelings for him today as he goes to his long rest.

and his father, Nick, 67, conducted a nine-day squatters' strike in their home on the site of a new small arms plant.

The Government, armed with a Federal Court order, was ready to start forcible eviction, but Paul packed up personal belongings and took his wife, three small children ranging from four months to two years, and his father, and left an hour before the deadline. Saying they didn't know where they were going, the Indykewicz declared they had refused to move because they couldn't find a "decent" place to live and that they had not received enough from the Government for their home.

Tigers Even Series Last Night By Whipping Hounds 6 To 3

Perk Madsen pitched the Tigers to victory last night in Union City, the Fulton club crashing three runs in the ninth inning to break a tie and win 6 to 3. The victory evened the series, with the final to be played tonight, and leaves Fulton only about a game out of a first division berth. Hopkinsville opens a three game series in Fulton tomorrow night.

The game last night was marked by frequent arguments and Umpire Jones finally excused Julian Burgess, Tiger pitcher, who was playing third base in place of Manager Mullen.

Both clubs hit fairly well, Fulton getting eleven blows off Herr, while the Hounds got nine off Madsen. Fulton had eleven left on bases, with Union City seeing ten die on the paths. Herr contributed to his own defeat with six passes and the Hounds made four errors behind him. Fulton had a couple of errors. Vico, with three hits, including two doubles, was the hitting star for the Tigers and Derrick continued his streak of hitting with two blows. The local shortstop is certain to show a much higher hitting mark this week than ever before.

Jimmy Walker had a double play unassisted last night.

LEGLESS ACE OF RAF IS MISSING

London, — Wing Commander

Douglas R. Badger, legless ace of the RAF, was reported missing today.

The 30-year-old squadron leader was credited with shooting down 15 planes.

He lost both legs in a flying accident while serving with the RAF in 1931. After proving that he could fly with artificial limbs, he managed to re-enter the service after the start of the war and participated in many daring raids.

In one night during the height of the Luftwaffe's blitz against Britain last September his squadron was credited with bringing down 15 Nazi planes.

Subsequently he was awarded the distinguished flying order for the exploit in which not a single bullet was said to have found its mark in any of his Hurricanes.

Although Badger headed an all-Canadian squadron, he was a native of London.

Now is the time to renew your subscription to the Leader.
