“Corny King” Wins With Hybrid

CHARLES—Hibbord corn came second in this year’s contest at the annual contest at the University of Kentucky. The corn was grown by J. Paul Hustard, of Fulton, who had the first place in the history of the contest. The contest is held at the University of Kentucky, and is sponsored by the Department of Agriculture.

CORNLEY is a town in the county of Kentucky, and is the seat of the county's government. It is located on the Kentucky Central Railroad, and is served by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The town is a center for agriculture, and is noted for its fertile soil and good climate. It is also a center for trade, and is served by a number of industries, including a flour mill, a cotton gin, and a cheese factory.

Money Talks

Frederick Stover, Attorney
Stover & Stover
University of Louisville

Will your bank get the share of the five dollars of bonus money this year? Are you making arrangements for your retirement? Are you planning to make your estate in order? Are you making plans for the future of your children? If you are not making plans for your future, you are not planning for success. You will not succeed unless you plan. You will not succeed unless you plan for the future.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT

RECIPE FOR GROWING CHAMPIONSHIP CORN

Farmers are adopting a more scientific approach to grow the best corn. A soil expert points out that while corn needs a lot of phosphorus, a lack of nitrogen in the soil is often overlooked. To improve soil for corn, the expert recommends a soil test. Farmers and county agents are cooperating to determine their fertilizer needs. The fertilizer is a remedy for the FERTILITY OF SOIL

KENTUCKY FARMERS TOLD HOW TO BOOST FERTILITY OF SOIL.

CHICAGO—Farmers of Kentucky and Indiana are being urged to get soil tests to determine their fertilizer needs. Farmers and county agents are cooperating in this project. The idea is to avoid the use of too much or too little fertilizer. Farmers are urged to cooperate in this program as it will save them money and help them get better crops. The best way to get soil tests is to contact the local county agent.

FEATHERS FOR ROST DEFICIENCY OF CROPS

COCHRAN--Grown-up corn does not always mean good crops. Farmers are being urged to get soil tests to determine their fertilizer needs. Farmers and county agents are cooperating in this program. The idea is to avoid the use of too much or too little fertilizer. Farmers are urged to cooperate in this program as it will save them money and help them get better crops.
