Renewed Hope
Another Year

Three months ago, the ew year was only months away. Many of us were full of hope for the new year to bring us much needed
good fortune.

As we approach the end of the year, let's reflect on the good things that happened
during the year and the challenges we overcame. Each new year brings new opportunities and possibilities.

It's important to remain optimistic and
hopeful for the future, even when things don't seem promising. With a positive outlook,
we can attract
good fortune and success.

So, as we look forward
into the new year,
let's remember the
good things that happened in the past year and carry that optimism into the future. Let's make this year our best
yet!

Review of the Year 1930
at Home and in Other Lands

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Prophecy, which was "the air" of the times, is the biggest story of the year. Unemployment and economic depression are the two dominating issues. A crisis world wide and a war of the rich may be a frequent part of the picture. The world may see a great deal more of the League of Nations. The world may also see the League dissolve, and the old order in the world may perhaps be changed. The United States, Great Britain, and France saved the Conference from an ignominious close. If the statesmen of the world fail to prepare the way for a peaceful readjustment of the balance of power, their work will be in vain. For the world will not be a peaceful world. The world is a war world.

Machine Achieves Uniform Milking

Magnetic Milkers Seen as Biggest Dairy Development of 1929.

Application of magnetic force, now well known and on the market in Germany, has arrived in this country in the form of a portable magnetic milking machine, which has been found in honor of the dairy industry to be an entirely new concept in mechanical dairy equipment.

From this demonstrate, it has been determined that milking cursorily would not be as efficient as milking under the influence of a magnetic field. This is the result of numerous tests which have been conducted with the aid of a prototype of the machine and which have been made in cooperation with the dairy scientists of various land grant colleges and universities.

It is believed by the manufacturers that the magnetic field will enable dairy farmers to practice a more uniform method of milking, which will result in a more sanitary procedure, which will be less tiring for the dairy maid, and which will provide a better quality milk.

The machine is designed to be used for milking cows, sheep, and goats, and is suitable for use in small as well as large dairy operations. It is portable and does not require any special installation, making it easy to use in any location.

The magnetic field is produced by a powerful electromagnet, which is mounted on the machine. The cows, sheep, or goats are placed in a special milking position, and the electromagnet is activated, creating a magnetic field around the animal. The magnetic field is then used to pull the milk from the animal, and the process is repeated until the desired amount of milk is obtained.

From like interest in the development of dairy science, the manufacturers have joined forces with the dairy scientists of various land grant colleges and universities to conduct further research on the use of magnetic fields in dairy operations. The results of these studies will be published in a forthcoming report, which will provide guidelines for the use of magnetic fields in dairy operations.
