THE LISTENING POST

● I have always believed that facial characteristics might indicate the character of a person, although once or twice, when I happened to look at one of my own pictures I sincerely hope not. Yet in looking at pictures which appear in the daily press it is quite common to see faces which one would naturally associate with crime. I had a curious experience along this line the other day.

● I was skimming through a newspaper merely looking at the pictures. I saw a picture of a man and a woman and before I ever read the headline or the story, I had a hunch it was one of these triangle affairs in which the man had killed the woman or another man. Remember, I had not read the story, did not know any of the persons involved, but there was something about the face looking at me from the printed page which seemed to indicate the killer type. I know that this is not always true. Now and then one sees a picture of a desperate criminal who does not suggest this by his picture. More often than not, however, I really believe that the picture does unconsciously mirror the character. Not only in crime, but in many other ways. It is easy many times to recognize the miser type, for that is usually written on the face in many different lines. I know one man who lives in this community whose besetting weakness is being miserly, and it shows in his face before he begins to talk.

● The picture of the woman in this case I am talking about was not good. That is, it was a poor photograph, and therefore reproduced poorly. I got no idea of her from the picture, and as a matter of fact, women rarely reveal their real character in their faces. They are too adept at makeup for that, and I have seen some who were worth less than nothing, yet had the faces of an angel. And I have seen others who concealed an angelic disposition behind a face which might have stopped a clock. No, women cannot be figured by ordinary standards, or any other standards I happen to know of.

● The man whose face peered out at me from the printed page of a metropolitan newspaper had something animal-like in his face. It was the look of a ferret. Perhaps some might say it was a rat-like face. The nose was long, hooked and the lips thin and merciless. It was a cruel face, without doubt, and not very intelligent. Indeed, it was just such a face as one sees in moving pictures when prison pictures are being exhibited. Perhaps this is where we get our criminal types for our mental pictures, but I think not. In the main, I believe that criminality does really show on a human face.

● So I was not surprised when I read the story which went along with this picture. The man had shot another man who was with his wife. The news story said that he shot him in the back, and the man himself was quoted as saying he had warned the man to keep away from his wife. Naturally I know nothing of the case except from the news story, and the man who fired the shot may be found not guilty when his case comes before a court. The unwritten law plea which will probably be claimed frequently does cause a man to be freed after such killings. I have no interest in the case, as far as that goes, but the only point I am trying to make is that character does show in a man's face many times. The fact that he fired only one shot, in rather a crowded place, and killed the man, indicates a deadly proficiency with firearms.

● Yet there are exceptions. I have known men who had the meanest faces possible who were in reality good men in every respect. I knew a man once who bore all the outward appearance of a confirmed criminal, yet I found him to be one of the kindest and most

Japan, U. S. Thought Near Fresh Crisis

Leaders Fear Diplomatic Break Is Impending

Japan is moving toward a new crisis in her relations with the United States which may wreck her present government, place the empire's destinies more completely in military hands and open a new phase of her program of conquest, according to trustworthy advisers reaching The Associated Press in New York.

The Japanese have felt that for the last six weeks there has been an encouraging truce in the long-drawn steadily-worsening friction with America. They date the truce from the delivery late in August of a personal message from Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoike to President Roosevelt. They indicate that hopes they placed in that gesture have been disappointed and that the truce is nearing an end. They blame American unwillingness to match that gesture of conciliation.

Fear Break Impending
Persons in close touch with developments in Japan and able to draw on information not permitted to pass the censor give this picture:

Japanese leaders fear a break with the United States is impending. Konoike has let it be known that he will not accept responsibility if this comes. If his effort to come to some sort of understanding, even a transitory and superficial one, with America fails, if there is not early improvement in trans-Pacific relations, the Konoike cabinet will fall.

SINGING CONVENTION SUNDAY AT BEELERTON

The semi-annual Fulton-Hickman Counties Singing Convention will be held on Sunday, October 12, at the Beelerton school building, beginning at ten o'clock in the morning for a full day of singing. Those in charge are expecting one of the biggest conventions ever held as a number of quartets and singers from several counties are expected to be in attendance. Those attending who have their song books, are asked to bring them.

considerate men I ever knew. He never seemed to realize that he had such a face, for I imagine there was so much good in him that he never thought of evil. But the rule will work many times. Try it now and then. Look idly through daily newspapers at faces of strangers and try to decide why those pictures are printed before reading the heads or the stories. It will surprise you to see how many times you will pick out a killer or a kidnapper or some other criminal type.

England, With American Aid, Is Winning In Battle Of Atlantic

Washington.—Indications multiplied Wednesday that Britain is winning the upper hand in the vital Battle of the Atlantic while Adolf Hitler concentrates on the war in Russia.

Secretary shrouds whatever naval measures have been taken against the German submarines and airplanes atwart the Atlantic supply routes between the United States and the British Isles, but the result is apparent from recent developments.

Lord Woolton, British minister of food, told the House of Lords in London Wednesday that "we have been getting the better of the enemy in the Atlantic—a task in which we are now receiving most valuable American aid."

This was demonstrated, he said, by the fact that the British now hold reserves of bulky commodities such as wheat and sugar which makes the heaviest demands on shipping.

CRAFT SET-UP CALLED COSTLY

Blamed For Expense in Defense Housing

Washington.—Hugh Fulton, counsel for the Senate Defense Investigating Committee, asserted today that an apparent desire on the part of some Federal officials to "preserve the set-up" was responsible for failure to cut defense housing costs "several hundred dollars" a unit.

Pointing to the evidence assembled by the committee in an inquiry into the housing program, Fulton said there were clear indications that unit costs could be reduced materially if pre-fabricated methods were adopted.

John M. Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, told the committee yesterday that the award of a contract on a $970,000 housing project in Wayne County, Michigan, to an employer of C. I. O. labor who was the low bidder was delayed because of possible "repercussions" among A. F. L. craft unions.

P. J. Currier, Detroit manufacturer, whose bid was $400,000 under the next lowest, testified that he figured to make a profit because he fabricated many parts in plant "assembly lines" and cut the amount of time spent by artisans on the site of the house itself.

EXCELLENT PLAN TO USE IF CAR PAYMENT'S DUE

Austin, Texas.—It took a policeman and a dog catcher to make A. J. Cornelius' automobile available to him.

Returning to the parked vehicle, Cornelius found a bulldog in possession.

The dog held the car against all comers for more than an hour.

A dog catcher finally roped the animal. Its owner explained the pet mistook the car for his, which was of similar design.

FULGHAM NEWS

By Miss Docie Jones

We shall use the most of our space this week in honor of the efforts and results of the few hundred school children, patrons and 18 or 20 teachers who gave some extra hours in putting on a school and community program last week. I heard a man say one time, "I spent a hundred dollars in money and a week's work in repairing a barn and my wife made an afternoon visit. Her name was in the paper—mine wasn't." Quite true, frankly, I'd much rather have his item than hers, but he's partly to blame. She'll call you and give you her news but he won't. As a rule, we quiz the neighbors for his.

So we'll start with the "barn news" and omit some of the "afternoon visits."

Community Day

Everybody likes to break the record and since Fulgham is part of that "everybody," we're overjoyed at the amount of change found in our school pocket at the close of our Community Day program last Friday. Even though it rained most of the morning, it was our biggest day, financially, with no concession booths our total receipts were $293, taking in $250.00 at the eating stand and $43.00 at the evening play. Approximately $120.00 was cleared. Had a bigger crowd last year with $87.00 cleared, but usually our net proceeds range from $90 to $100. In addition to the 150 plate lunches, 130 pounds of hamburger meat was consumed by the hungry crowd.

Schools participating in the program were Clinton, Shiloh, Rays, Pleasant Valley, Beelerton and Fulgham. First prize went to Rays with 725 points. Pleasant Valley was second with 625 points and Beelerton was third with 575.

On the stage as the most entertaining number, Rays rated first. Shiloh second and Beelerton third. Judges were Mrs. Roland Goodgine of Western, Mrs. Walter Jewell of Clinton and Woodrow Leath, Clinton and Fulgham numbers were not judged as they did not enter in competition.

In the display of the agricultural exhibits Pleasant Valley was first. W. A. Seay of that section had 55 farm products on their table. Beelerton came second and Rays third. In the needlecraft department, Beelerton had third place, Pleasant Valley second and Rays third. Canned goods—Pleasant Valley was first where Mrs. W. A. Seay had a variety of 58 entries. Shiloh was second and Rays third.

In the antique room, Pleasant Valley and Rays both had a fine collection and tied for blue ribbon honors.

Mrs. Dick Childers, Mrs. Charles Hunt and Mrs. W. E. Trimble were largely responsible for the fine display of the farmers and Mrs. J. D. Conner, Mrs. Fred Elliott, Mrs. Clay Parrott and Noah Stephens added much to Rays' splendid collection.

Miss Jessie Wilson, home agent, and Mrs. Leroy Northington of Clinton judged the home products and Mr. Northington the farm products.

Winners in the spelling contests were as follows: Firth grade, Voris Clark, Rays; sixth grade, Mignon Eastep, Fulgham; seventh grade, Gene Ferguson, Rays; eighth grade, Marie McClure, Fulgham; with Miss Johnny Scholes in charge.

Elder Hill, basketball coach, and Mr. Cooper of Beelerton had charge of the out-door races. In the softball games between Clinton and Fulgham, we lost by two points.

The play, "Me Him and I," made a big hit with the audience and the coach, Mrs. Leslie Walkers, deserved an extra blue ribbon for a job well done. All characters were good and over half of them shared honors. Charles Colbert from the Shiloh section puts more "pep" in a play than any amateur we've had here in years. The stage itself presents a marked improvement in appearance with new sky drapers and walls. Best looking we've ever had.

The cooperation of the teachers from the other schools and the wonderful response from patrons and friends, plus the hard work of our own faculty, made it a great day.

Rambling Among Exhibits

On the Beelerton antique table we glanced over an old yellow aged Clinton Democrat dated October 19, 1899 and edited by the late E. R. Walker. A first page article was written on William J. Bryan and William Goebel's visit to Mayfield with thousands in attendance. One sentence said, "Men and women almost ran over each other to shake hands with them." A striking ad was from W. C. Hucherson and a big one, too. The paper belonged to Mrs. Orbery Cook and it contained the obituary of her mother, Mrs. Tom Hicks, and also of Mrs. Barney Kough.

On the Fulgham table was seen a 200 year old walking cane, well preserved, which was owned by Aunt Codella Via, and a big meat platter 100 years which was used by Cong. Noble Gregory's great-uncle.

In the display room from Rays we noticed a 120 year old gun, a ten dollar Confederate bill and a pair of scissors found during the Civil War, all belonging to the late Uncle Thomas Stephens; a hand axe, 105 years of age and owned by Uncle Sam Butts, deceased father of Mrs. R. S. Pillow; a 150 year old grease lamp now in the possession of Mrs. Scott Bradley and a hundred year old hour glass belonging to P. J. Vaughan.

Mrs. Vol Armbruster, Mrs. Bill Elliott, Mrs. Will Trimble and W. C. Summers had several unique novelties.

An ageless pair of scales on the Pleasant Valley counter caught the eye of many visitors. They are the property of Aunt Nannie Jones, who is 85 years of age and they were used by her husband's grandfather. Mrs. Dick Childers had several interesting articles whose years dated near and above the century mark.

The various committees on canned goods and needlecraft were praised for their attractive arrangement of such, which was an added improvement.

Frank Phoeer's class of agricultural boys from Clinton had a nice exhibition of corn well arranged.

Tom Montgomery's exhibit was the biggest cackle-burr weed I've ever seen and now I'm wondering how many more of them he left in the field and if he intended that as a type of his farming or was it a big "ad" for his rich soil.

An outstanding school project was admired in Mrs. Jack Vaden's room of fifth and sixth graders. Showing several miniature "worlds of the world," in beautiful colors with a thread leading to a hand-made map above for the location of each.

Can't mention all the good-looking products nor give the individual winners of blue ribbons, but the most valuable thing present was that "intangible school spirit" felt and demonstrated by scores of actual workers between the fine people from Beelerton, Shiloh, Pleasant Valley, Rays and Fulgham.

"That" was the "biggest blue ribbon" seen in our rambling through and around the building.

Sunday Schools

Attendance for last Sunday was as follows: Bethel 31, Mt. Moriah 33, Salem 39, Jackson Chapel 51 and Mt. Pleasant 55. The average attendance for the latter through July, August and September was 81.

Rev. Cobb Preaches
Rev. Stephen Cobb of Coldwater preached at Bethel Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. He was accompanied by his wife and son and Mrs. Margaret Riley and all were dinner and supper guests at the Leonard Archer home.

Annual Meeting

Elliott, Joe Grubbs, L. K. Stroud, Len Barclay, Edward Kimbell, Ferdie Tarver, W. B. Watts, Dewey House and W. A. Seay and Docie Jones.

DOMESTIC AIRLINE SERVICE BOOMS

New Marks Are Set In Passengers And Express

Chicago.—Revenue passenger miles flown by domestic airlines during the first eight months of 1941 increased 30.46 per cent over the same 1940 period, the Air Transport Association reported today.

The January-August figure was 869,518,236 miles, compared with 666,517,142 a year ago. August was the peak month in travel with an increase of 6.99 per cent over July, the previous record month. August mileage of 146,041,369 was 31.47 per cent above August, 1940.

Express traffic showed corresponding gains, the gross revenue for July the greatest in history of the service. Revenue increased 50 per cent over July, 1940, and the weight of shipments passed the million-pound mark for the first time. Total weight was 1,074,644 pounds.

REV. AUTREY USES THE CROSS AS TEXT

The revival at the First Baptist church is still going forward in a great way, although the rain last night caused the attendance to fall off some. Rev. C. E. Autrey brought another great sermon, reading for the scripture lesson from the first chapter of 1st Corinthians, beginning with the 17th verse, and also from Gallatians. Paul said in these writings "That I should glory in nothing save the cross of Lord Jesus Christ." Rev. Autrey used as the text for his message "The Cross."

"When I come to the point as to whether I am preaching the gospel, I go back and read what the Bible says about the Cross. The Cross is the center of any gospel sermon. Many of the great world religions have failed and others will fail because they do not supply the needs of humanity. They have failed to meet life, therefore they have died. Will Christian religion fail like these religions? If Christianity remains Cross centered, it will not but the day it removes the Cross it will decay.

When Jesus spilled his blood on the Cross, it was God's greatest effort of love. I believe in the sacrificial symbol of the Cross we can conquer. I have no hope for our churches apart from the power of the Cross of Jesus Christ. The Cross of Christ has never suffered defeat. The cross of Christ will continue to win. Where is the world Paul could have gloried in? It is all gone, but the Cross of Christ remains o'er the wreck of time. I glory in the cross because it reveals God's power over sin. I do not have to go through priest or prelate or anyone—I can go directly to Jesus. The hand of God tore that veil in the temple in twain. He did this in order that there should be nothing between man and God. I glory in the Cross of Jesus because of the joy it brings to the hearts of others. The Cross will do what infidelity cannot do, what money cannot do. It is a glorious Cross. The thing this world is dying for is love. We have got to love this world like Christ did to win them to God."

Senators Ask Ban On Ship Routes Lifted

Act As Congress Meets To Hear Neutrality Plea

Washington.—As Congress convened today to receive a special message from President Roosevelt on Neutrality Act revision, demands arose in the Senate that modification of the law go beyond rescinding of the ban against arming merchantmen.

Although the ship-arming amendment was the only one agreed on after two White House legislative conferences, a number of Senators favored broadening the legislation to end existing prohibitions which keep American-flag vessels from belligerent ports and out of combat zones demarcation.

In the opposing camp, meanwhile, critics of the Administration's foreign policy avowed their determination to fight every attempt to amend the law "as being, in fact, an authorization to carry on war."

Taft Discloses Parley
Senator Taft (R., Ohio) disclosed that the opposition strategy had been mapped last night at a bipartisan meeting attended by some sixty members of Congress.

Roosevelt started writing his special message after a conference with both Democrat and Republican legislative leaders yesterday and it was to be read in both houses some time this afternoon.

The President is known to favor neutrality amendments both to permit the arming of merchant ships and to allow them to travel anywhere on the seas. Some of those attended yesterday's conference said he would make clear his own views but leave to Congress the decision of deciding how far the modification should go.

HOW THIS EMERGENCY CAN BE LICKED

Not so long ago the national administration won the battle to make rural electrification possible. Funds were provided for the building of power lines and the extension of service to many areas that heretofore had only dreamed of electricity.

Now the national administration is pointing out that the rural electrification program can be turned to good advantage in promoting national defense. The department of Agriculture calls attention to this in a message addressed to those who have benefitted through the REA program. This message says, in part:

"Uncle Sam made it possible for you to have electric power. Now Uncle Sam wants you to use that power to help him lick what threatens to be the gravest national emergency within our memory. We need more milk, more eggs. We need more of these foods from our present cows and hens, and we need to get more to the processing plants in first-class condition. Electricity can help you do both: We need more producing hens for an even larger production next year. Electricity can help you get them ready to start laying next spring."

"Here's what you can do about it. You can see that your stock get plenty of water, and a proper feeding. Make your electric pump earn its keep; use electric water-warmers. You can put lights in your poultry houses—ultra-violet lights, perhaps, to help the birds stay healthy. You can see to it that your milk-handling equipment is strictly clean, and that your milk-cooling arrangements reduce the temperature quickly and maintain proper storage conditions. You can gather your eggs twice or three times a day, and cool them before storage."

"Especially, you can start a fall brood of chicks. Your brooding equipment should not lie idle; get your money's worth out of it and perform a patriotic service at the same time."

"At your co-op office we have plans for making brooders and stock-tank heaters. We have information on water warmers, hen-house wiring, ultra-violet lights, feed grinders, and frost-proof plumbing. Your county agent can help you select proper feed mixtures for highest production."

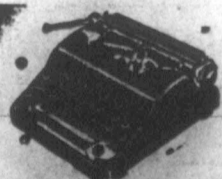

"We can tell you how to use these

F. B. I. TO USE
WIREFAPPING
IN SPY CASES

Biddle Will Continue Policy Used By Jackson

Washington. —Attorney General Francis Biddle said today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was ready to use wiretapping in cases involving espionage, sabotage or kidnapping.

Speaking at his first press conference since taking the oath as Attorney General on September 12, Biddle disclosed in response to questions that a one-time flat prohibition against use of wire taps by the Justice Department had been relaxed by his predecessor, Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court, to cover national defense and kidnapping cases and that he would follow Jackson's policy.

"I think that if you don't tap wires your counter-espionage just goes out the window," Biddle said.

"Wiretapping is a dirty business—all espionage is a dirty business—and as a matter of policy I think this dirty business ought to be strictly confined and its use in individual cases permitted only when authorized by the Attorney General."

Cairo, Egypt. —They tell the story here of a famous British general who, as acting steward, served cold lunch to passengers of a British overseas flying boat recently.

The airways have stripped all "luxuries" including kitchens and lavatories, from the big four-motored craft used in this part of the world to increase carrying capacity. Stewards have been dismissed and passengers choose an "ad-jutant" to take charge of their welfare.

Bulldogs Bow To Murray Tigers 14-6 As Willingham Is Forced Out

The Bulldogs felt the hand of ill luck last night and discovered the need for adequate reserve strength as they bowed to Murray in the Murray stadium 14 to 6, after rolling up five first downs and a touchdown in the early minutes of the first quarter. Early in the second quarter Big Sug Willingham, hard hitting fullback, was forced out of action with an injured arm, and after that the local team could never get going. The Tigers engaged in a punting duel for the remainder of the half, waiting for a break and it finally came when the half was almost over. On a punt exchange the Bulldogs drew a 15 yard penalty for holding and an instant later Buchanan for Murray used the only pass tried in the game and it was good for ten yards to put the Tigers in scoring position. In three tries the Tigers hammered it over from the three and a plunge for the point also went over—so the officials said after long examination. In the third quarter Murray blocked a punt and recovered on the ten. From this point they finally scored, although they barely made a first down on the one. Two tries were required to carry this over, but the plunge for the point was good.

The final quarter was largely a kicking game, with neither team having any scoring chances.

The game was played on a field heavy with mud, and rain fell constantly during the play. Fumbles were frequent on both sides, neither side being able to handle punts, and only one pass was tried. Running were difficult, as ball carriers could not dig in successfully, and after a few minutes it was difficult to distinguish one team from the other. All were covered in mud from head to toe, no numbers could be recognized, and the spectators huddled about in various sections trying unsuccessfully to see the game and remain more or less dry. A large crowd was present from Fulton, but the bands were unable to appear at the half.

The Bulldogs appeared much the better team in the opening quarter. They took the Murray kickoff on their own 30 and then moved straight up the field for five first downs and a marker. McClellan in a beautiful skirt of left end, went over the line for the touchdown, getting fine blocking as he traveled. Following this the Bulldogs again put on a scoring threat as Jack Tosh recovered a Murray fumble on the Tiger 30. The Bulldogs rolled up a first down here, but lost the ball on a fumble. At the beginning of the second quarter Willingham was lost to the team, and Murray began getting the breaks to take the lead.

Butch Nelms, regular end, took Willingham's job of punting, and barring two occasions, kicked well. Both teams had several blocked punts, as the kickers found it difficult to handle the wet ball. However, Murray did some good kicking, the ball going out of bounds many times between the ten and twenty.

AIR DEFENSE OF EAST COAST TO BE TESTED

Big Scale Movements Are Now Under Way In Area

New York. —The defense of New York City, Boston, Philadelphia and Norfolk, and a strip of the Eastern seaboard 1,000 miles long and 125 miles wide, against enemy air attack, will be tested for one week, starting at 6 a. m. Thursday, in maneuvers "on a scale never before attempted."

New York will be visited Saturday at noon by a flight of 100 of the 400 planes participating, including one-place pursuit ships and huge Flying Fortresses. In night exercises, the city will be ringed by the light of fifty anti-aircraft searchlights, each of them flinging a six-mile pencil of light into the sky, light with an intensity of 800 million candlepower.

Civilians to Aid
More than 43,000 civilian volunteers in 1,800 observation posts and six major information centers will participate, along with five Coast Guard regiments, two anti-aircraft regiments and other troops, totaling about 8,000 men.

Three-inch and 37-millimeter anti-aircraft guns will be set up in New York.

Helping to Keep Prices Right

The month in which this advertisement is published (October, 1941) will find the Illinois Central System handling one of the largest volumes of freight traffic for many years, if not in all its history. The same will be true, almost without exception, of practically all the active railway mileage in the United States.

Levels even higher are predicted, moreover, for the corresponding months of 1942 and 1943, provided national rearmament continues its projected pace.

That's DEMAND—and it comes face to face with what is still a rather limited SUPPLY. In most markets that would be a signal for a rise in price, a rise which would be reflected beyond in ever widening circles, as a ripple goes out over a pond.

But not so on the railroads. Their charges seldom rise merely because the traffic will stand it. They rise—and will rise in the future, if they rise at all—only upon a showing that railway expenses have been markedly and unbearably increased.

A factor in the price of every commodity is of course the sum of the transportation costs entering into its assembly and delivery. Therefore an important stabilizing factor in prices today is the knowledge that railway rates as a whole are actually LOWER than they were even at the start of the depression and very substantially BELOW their peak of 1921.

That's ONE REASON average wholesale prices have risen only a little more than 20 per cent in the last two years of emergency—and that means correspondingly greater protection to the customer who buys at retail.

President
