Rotary Banquet Brilliant Success

A Beautiful Compliment In Honor of the Rotary-Anns

One of the most enjoyable events of the New Year in Fulton was the annual Rotary banquet Tuesday evening in the basement at the Methodist church. Covers were laid for seventy-five members, their wives and guests. The delicious dinner was prepared by members of the Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist church, faultlessly served by a bevy of young ladies of the church. The room was artistically and beautifully decorated for the occasion in Rotary colors, blue and yellow, and large vases and baskets of flowers were placed here and there adding a charm of beauty to the scene within while a snow storm was raging outside.

After the invocation was said by the Rev. Jim Freeman of Clinton, former club member and pastor of the Methodist church here, the male quartette, composed of Messrs. Paul Hornbeak, J. C. Sugg, Steve Wiley and Will Whitnel, sang two catchy numbers.

Following the lovely three-course dinner a trio, composed of Mrs. R. S. Williams, Miss Mary Belle Warren and Miss Frances Galbraith, sweetly sang "Nursery Rhymes," by Curran, and "In the Gloaming" for an encore.

President W. R. Butt briefly addressed the assembly and turned the meeting over to Joe D. Davis, who in a few well-chosen words, introduced the principal speaker of the evening, Mr. Dan Major, ex-president of the Rotary club of Ripley, Tenn., also banker, Red Cross worker and churchman in his home city. His talk was along humorous lines which was greatly enjoyed by all present, as well as a brief talk by his charming wife.

The Rev. Freeman also briefly addressed the assembly in his characteristic way and all were happy that he and his wife were present.

Following the speakers Mrs. R. S. Williams charmingly sang "Be Still Black Bird," by Sanderson.

The quartette then closed the program with two enjoyable numbers, ending with all singing "America."

Mrs. Gus G. Bard, one of Fulton's most talented musicians, was accompanist for the evening.

GIGANTIC ROAD PROGRAM FOR 1931

Estimated That More Than
$2,000,000,000 Will Be Spent
On Road Construction

Highway construction on a vast scale to eliminate unemployment was announced Monday as the immediate objective of the American Road Builders' Association, which opened its twenty-eighth annual convention at St. Louis with more than 15,000 delegates.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, predicted state and federal road construction in 1931, would be 30 to 50 percent greater than in any previous year. He estimated a total of $2,000,000,000 would be spent on road construction and maintenance this year.

WILL YOUR CHILD GET A COLLEGE EDUCATION?

In passing the Junior High School several days ago our attention was attracted to a group of bright face children at play. They were all small tots and we stopped for a moment to watch their maneuvers. They were happy, apparently enjoying the best of health with the future holding a store of promises. As we passed along, our thoughts began to revolve and we wondered what the future provided for these children and when finishing High School, if they would finally complete their education in a higher school of learning. After finishing high school, you know, many boys and girls are deprived of completing their education at college for lack of funds, but here in our home town some wise parents have invested in Fulton Building and Loan stock to take care of such emergencies without inconvenience. If you have overlooked this all important matter of giving your child a finished education after leaving high school, don't delay longer in securing a few shares of Fulton Building and Loan stock. You pay only six dollars per month for nine years and draw down $1,000. Of course it is not necessary to wait nine years to borrow money on Fulton Building and Loan stock. This institution is well prepared to take care of its stockholders at all times with loans to build a new home or repair the old one. In fact, you may borrow money on your stock for various purposes. Just call at the office on Main street, the Secretary will take pleasure in explaining in detail.

The following officers were re-elected for another year: W. W. Morris, president; W. A. Terry, vice president; N. G. Cooke, active vice president; Clyde P. Williams, cashier; B. J. Pigue, assistant cashier.

Farmers Bank Elects

At the annual meeting of stockholders of The Farmers Bank Monday all the old officers and directors who had served the past year were re-elected as follows:

Good News From Detroit

More Than One Hundred Thousand Men Recalled To Work

Detroit, Jan. 12.—Detroit is re-awakening today. The city of automobiles has been in a condition of industrial hibernation for more than a year. Factory wheels have turned only intermittently. There have been gaps in assembly lines at the numerous automobile factories.

But the "go ahead" signal has been given, and the ever hopeful population of this essentially youthful community believe that "things will be different now."

Other Factories to Open

The Detroit street railways made preparations to transport thousands more workers to their jobs today than went to work last Monday. Announcement was made that 75,000 employees of the Ford River Rouge plant had been notified to begin work today. Another 32,000 Ford workers were to report at other plants in the Detroit area.

Other automobile factories have issued similar calls to their workers. Dodge, Hudson, Lincoln, Buick, Cadillac and Chrysler are going into production after the annual inventory.

Chevrolet has promised 30,000 workers steady jobs through the winter.

Optimistic reports have come out of the New York Automobile Show, and statements of industrial leaders that the depression is soon to be a thing of the past are accepted at their face value in Detroit.

During 1930 automobile manufacturers were careful to produce less cars than were sold, so the surplus stock has been absorbed. The people of the Detroit area have been pinched by this policy, but the industry has been placed on a firmer foundation.

All announcements by automobile manufacturers have stated that only former employees will be considered for positions, and unemployed men of other cities have been warned not to come to Detroit seeking jobs. The upturn in the automobile industry will mean improved conditions in the steel, glass and all lines in cities from which materials which go into cars are drawn.

FALL MADE CLERK

J. E. Fall, of the Fall & Fall Insurance company, has been appointed deputy circuit court clerk by O. C. Henry, circuit court clerk to act in his place in the city of Fulton.

This is a signal honor as well as a lucrative position for Mr. Fall during court sessions here. He is one of our leading young business men and in every way capable of acting as Mr. Henry's deputy, notwithstanding his large insurance business and other personal affairs. He is also Secretary of the Fulton Building and Loan Association. He is fortunate, however, in having associated with him in his official work efficient and capable assistants.

WE WANT OUR SHARE

Of almost a billion dollars voted by congress for construction work during the year 1931, the greatest part will be spent upon highways. The expenditure is not going to be made in any favored district, but wherever roads are most needed and improvements of the most importance. There is going to be a generous amount of it spent in this state, and no reason so far as we can see why our own county should not share in it. We need the road improvements, in the first place, and in the second place, we need the employment for our own people that such work will afford. But Fulton citizens must remember that to get anything worth while this day in time they have to go after it. There is no better way, in this case, than to get in touch with your public officials, and especially such county officials as can talk directly to the state highway department. Be insistent if necessary; it takes plain talk in some instances to get action. But start now agitating for a share in this year's road expenditures. Don't wait until other sections have had their applications favorably acted upon and then take it out in wishing you had put in your claim.

The principal trouble with love at first sight is that second sight doesn't come until after marriage.

Brieflets

We've this much to say for Fulton men who drink only soft drinks—we never saw a couple of them crying on each other's shoulder.

The boys at the gas stations give service, but never yet has one removed a fellow's hat and mopped his wet bald spot.

As a final solution, Chicago might try putting all her innocent citizens in jail so that the gunmen can't get at them.

Nobody could be as mysterious, or as puffed up, as the Fulton man who has just fixed a friend's radio but doesn't know how he did it.

If apes could talk they probably would bawl out the scientists for trying to link them with men.

One-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives, but it may succeed in finding enough.

Wonder if anyone in Fulton can remember when you had to enter an auto by way of a little step at the back end?

The only known labor-saving device that actually works anywhere is the almighty dollar.

Another advantage the only family nag had over the auto is you didn't have to carry a key to start him.

An another thing, the old-fashioned Fulton girl who was wrapped up in her clothes now has a daughter who isn't.

If the steering wheel is beginning to wear a calloused place on your stomach it's time to begin thinking about reducing.

Another reason why some Fulton boys never recognize opportunity is that it was disguised like work.

Another way to learn to control your temper is to get married to some fine woman and try to stay married to her.

If you don't think Darwin wasn't pretty nearly right, go back and take another look at the old family photograph album.

How many Fulton old-timers can remember when a girl stepped into a doorway with her back to the sidewalk when she wanted to adjust a garter?

Cemeteries all over the country are still being filled with fellows who are sure their car can beat the train to the crossing.

THE NEW FORD

Everything
you want or need
in a motor car

THE more you see of the new Ford, the more you realize that it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car. . . . And at an unusually low price.

Its substantial beauty of line and color is apparent at a glance. Long, continuous service emphasizes the value of its simplicity of design and the high quality that has been built into every part.

The new Ford accelerates quickly and it will do 55 to 65 miles an hour. It is an easy-riding car because of its specially designed springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. It has fully enclosed four-wheel brakes and the added safety of a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. Operation and up-keep costs are low and it has the stamina and reliability that mean thousands of miles of uninterrupted service.

See the nearest dealer and have him give you a demonstration ride in the new Ford. Check up every point that goes to make a good automobile and you will know it is a value far above the price.

ARE TOWNS CHANGING?

One hears a good deal these days about the small towns and the changes taking place within them. Everyone knows they are undergoing a change, but is this change better or worse for the towns? And is the small town going to have to fight to stay on the map?

We believe Fulton residents will agree with us when we say conditions are much better right now in our towns than in our cities. We do not mean by that that you will find more opportunities for becoming wealthier in the small town, but there are now and will continue to be fewer people in want of the necessities of life than are to be found in the larger centers of population, population considered. We believe business conditions will get better instead of worse in the smaller towns, due largely to the rapid strides being made toward securing all of the comforts to be found in the city. When the city dweller knows he can have his radio and his talking pictures, along with every electrical attachment boasted in the most modern home, and yet not have to pay as much for his rent or groceries as in the city, the tendency to move to the suburbs and smaller towns will increase.

Schools and churches, too, now compare favorably with these in the city. In fact, many contend that the standard of morality is much higher and that the educational advantages offered in the grade and high schools of small towns are ahead of these to be found in the city. But one thing we are quite sure about is that—with all due respect to the boys and girls of the city—boys and girls reared and educated in the small towns find business and professional success more quickly once they have started out in life to make their own way.

THE FARMER'S HEALTH

Our rural friends around Fulton may not be getting rich as rapidly as men engaged in other occupations and pursuits, but they enjoy certain compensations in health which serve to keep the balance of life from swinging over too far against them, it appears from researches conducted by a New York life insurance corporation. Experts made the study, basing their work on the records of physical examinations of 100,000 adults, adult, native-born, white males.

Those examined were classified under four broad occupational groups — agricultural, professional, business and skilled trades. The farmers scored much higher than men of the other groups. Notably higher was his relative freedom from diseases of the heart, arterial thickening, and defects of vision. His worst showing was in diseases of the teeth and gums. The agricultural group also gave a lower prevalence for diseases of the nose and respiratory tract, and for constipation, skin diseases and "nervousness." He was found to be stronger, years for years, than those of other groups, and to be in far better general physical condition, except, as stated, for the teeth.

Rural living has, according to this survey, scored another victory. But it remains to be seen if it will hold its gains now that the automobile and good roads have brought the average American farm as near the city as outlying suburbs used to be, in point of time.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club met in regular session Friday afternoon at the club rooms. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Huddleston, Mrs. Warren Graham, first vice-president, gracefully presided over the business session. One new member was voted into the club.

The program for the afternoon was given by the Drama Department, of which Mrs. Clarence Reed is chairman. The play presented annually by this department is one of the chief attractions of the club year and is eagerly anticipated by the membership. On this occasion, a one-act play, "Letters," by Colin Clements, was ably and charmingly presented by the following members of the department:

Helen, Secretary to Mayor—Mrs. Cyranee Reed.
Paula Whitney, wife—Mrs. George Doyle.

Dolly Darling, the other woman—Mrs. Rheudelle Bullock. In addition to the play, a lovely musical program was rendered.

Mrs. R. S. Williams sang "Be Still, Bluebird," accompanied by Mrs. Gus Bard. Mrs. Bard rendered a piano solo, Hungarian Concert Polka. Concluding the program, Mrs. Ralph Penn gave a vocal solo, "The Bird With a Broken Wing," accompanied by Miss Huddleston.

During the social hour a salad course was served.

Route 4 Fulton Ky. (New Hope Community)

Mrs. Sarah Howell, aged mother of Mr. John W. Howell, is in a quite serious condition with a broken limb, resulting from a fall.

Mrs. Edward Benedict and children have returned to her home in Clinton, after spending the summer and fall with her father, Mr. W. B. Finch. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Finch are now occupying the residence with him.

The P. T. A. will present the last program for the school year Friday evening, January 16th.

Mr. G. A. Everett continues quite ill at his home here. Miss Elsie Gwynn has returned home after a stay of several days in the Mayfield hospital for treatment.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

AN OLD GAME

This is the time of year when many Fulton citizens are finding in their mail the package that is unordered, unsolicited and unwanted. For several years local residents have been bothered by the nuisance of receiving boxes of socks, neckties, gloves and other merchandise through the mails which they have not ordered. Along with it comes a bill and a sympathetic plea for an immediate remittance. But it is not necessary to send the money requested, nor is it necessary that you return the merchandise, according to postal regulations. Place the package away for a reasonable length of time, and if the company sends a representative, give it to him. Do not pay for it, and don't return it. It looks like a severe way of breaking up this nuisance, but it is legal, and if you will resort to it you will soon find that you will not be troubled any more by such unethical methods of merchandising.

JUST THE MAN

The man was in the hospital after his first serious attempt to knock a train off the tracks.

"I fear I can be of very little assistance to you," he was comfortably assured by the doctor. "I'm a veterinary surgeon."

"Ah!" exclaimed the victim, "you're just the man for my case. I was a jackass for ever attempting to cross the track ahead of that train."

The Name in Her Mirror

By RUBY DOUGLAS

DORIS GRAHAM had returned to spend the summer at the quiet, cliff-built summer resort where she had been so carefree and happy five years before.

"But isn't it a stupid place to live in for three months?" asked her chum in the office.

"It wouldn't suit you," admitted Doris.

"And that dreadful trip every day!" lamented the other girl.

Doris was not to be discouraged. She wanted to get away from the city, wanted to sleep in the country, wake up in the country, have her Sundays and Saturday afternoons in the open.

And so she had established herself in the plain, old country boarding house that she had lived in when her mother was with her and life looked rosy and merry.

Now, she was tired, a trifle discouraged at the lack of variety in her life. There was a vacancy she could not quite analyze, but she ascribed it to the fact that she could not get accustomed to living without her dear mother.

On her first free Saturday afternoon, she wandered about the old village streets, stopping here and there to linger under a familiar tree, stooping to gather a wayside blossom.

"I'll just go down to the post office to wait for the distribution of the late mail," she said to herself, as she neared the little group of shops of which one was the post office.

It was as she was entering the post office five years ago that she had first seen Archie Olmstead. The thought no, quickened her breath, sent that forlorn hurt straight to her heart.

What had become of him? Why had she never heard from him?

How many times she had asked herself that question only to find herself unanswerable.

She found a letter for her from the girl in the office who, secretly, would have enjoyed being with Doris, but who hesitated to invite herself.

Doris, thrilled at receiving a letter from the hands of the same postmaster who had stood behind the window thumbing the letters five years before, stood beside the scratched and discolored wall to read it.

As some one pushed against her, she moved. She bumped her head, ever so slightly, against the corner of the glass-faced wall cabinet that held unclaimed letters.

For a moment she stared at the envelopes posted inside. Suddenly, she stared. There was her own name—Doris Graham.

Hastily, she sought the postmaster and told him that there was a letter in the case that was addressed to her. Together, they got it and Doris, fearing, somehow, to read it in the midst of so many eyes as were upon her at this mail hour in the village, put it in her bag.

When she was alone she opened the envelope. It was a letter from Archie. In it he told her this was the third one he had written and it he received no answer this time he would decide that she had amused herself for a summer by making him fall in love with her.

If she wrote one letter over that week end to Archie, she wrote a dozen. None suited her. She could not seem to find words in which to tell him all that had been in her thoughts of him, since they had met. She wondered where he was. Could this address be the right one?

On Monday at the office she tried again, this time on her typewriter. It was a stupid letter. She destroyed it.

It was still light when she arrived in the country these June nights and she decided that she would be able to pen a short note to Archie if she used the post office pen and ink on the old shelf desk where they had written each other so many tender notes in other days. With a piece of paper in her bag, she went to the village and wrote to Archie. As she stood looking at the much-used blotter on the shelf, her hand open with its mirrored back, a familiar scrawl was reflected in it.

She held the mirror over the blotted name. Yes—it was his name in his handwriting. Her heart thumped madly. He must be here—in this very town—now. The name had been written that day.

Posting the letter she had written, she hurried back to the boarding house.

When the motherly old landlady came forward, she saw that they had met on the walk leading through the arch of maples. She had remembered their early romance. She was gratified at its renewal.

It took the whole evening to explain the strange tricks fate had played them during the years of their separation. But the faith of each of them was unshaken and Doris found herself later comparing the great happiness of her present summer with the shallow, frivolous gaiety of that holiday five years ago.

"And I knew all the time," Doris heard from her chum at the office, "that there must be some good reason for your craving for that stupid summer resort—some other reason than the country air."

Is It?

Another way to make your wife suffer is to mutter over a letter and then thrust it in your pocket without comment.—Exchange.

Old World Recipes

By HELEN SCHAUFFLER
Domestic Science Expert

TO most of us old China means incredibly lovely bits of pottery, delicate color prints, gorgeous silks and intricately embroidered fabrics, along with fragments of lovely poetry. Many of us do not know that these ancient pieces were also epicures of the highest order.

Helen Schaffler

We are under the impression that the Chinese have subsisted since before Confucius upon chowmein, chop suey and rice, with now and then a bird's nest soup. As a matter of fact, their diet presents a bewildering variety, ranging all the way from peacocks' tongues to the most delicious pork dishes, recipes for three of which are given here.

Pork Chops with Ginger—Pepper loin chops and dredge in flour which has been mixed with one tablespoon of sugar. Sauté with a little fat until brown on both sides. Add to the chops, salt, one cup of water, one-half teaspoon of lemon juice and a small piece of preserved ginger for each chop. Cook uncovered until tender. Do not turn the chops.

Roast Pork with Chestnuts—Wipe four pounds of loin of pork. Pepper well and dredge with a little flour. Shell and peel two cups of chestnuts. Peel and cut into small quarters two cooking apples. (One cup of dried apples may be substituted). Boil these for five minutes in two cups of water with two tablespoons of sugar. When the roast has been in the oven for three-quarters of an hour surround it with chestnuts and apples. Pour the syrup over the whole. Baste frequently until pork is brown and tender.

Pork Chops Baked with Pineapple—Cover the bottom of a shallow baking dish with slices of fresh or canned pineapple. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of sugar. On top of these lay peppered pork chops. Place in a hot oven for ten minutes. When the pork fat has fried out a little, salt well and pour pineapple juice sweetened with one teaspoon of sugar over the chops. Bake from twenty to thirty minutes. Garnish and serve.

THE MINISTRY OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:7-20
GOLDEN TEXT—Bring forth therefore fruits worthy of repentance, and begin not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father; for I say unto you, That God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus and John the Baptist.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus and John the Baptist.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Courageous Reformer.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Message of John the Baptist.

I. The Degeneracy of the Times (vv. 1, 2).

The Jews had sunk to a very low level of civil, moral and religious life. Luke carefully enumerates the civil and religious rulers in order to show the profligacy of the times and therefore the need of a messenger to call the people back to God and virtue. Caesar has been described as "talented, ambitious, cruel, licentious, infamous, inhuman." Civil rule was divided between four of Rome's vassals. Pontius Pilate a little later attained notoriety by unjustly and in a cowardly manner condemning Jesus to death. Herod, the son of Herod the Great, was a murderer, Annas and Caiaphas were corrupt ecclesiastical rulers.

II. The Nature of John's Ministry (vv. 3-6).

Out of the wilderness John flashed forth, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins (v. 3). The baptism was a sign of repentance. His ministry is declared to be a fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy. He is described as one calling upon the nation to prepare for the coming of the Messiah. The only hope for the world is God's salvation through Jesus Christ. The valleys of righteousness need to be filled. The mountains and hills of sin need to be brought low. The crooked ways of commerce need to be straightened, and the rough ways of society and nations need to be smoothed. Let men accept Jesus Christ and all war and contention will end. Men will then love each other.

III. The Content of John's Message (vv. 7-15).

1. A denunciation of sin (vv. 7, 8). He called the people "a generation of vipers." He charged them with being essentially wicked and deceitful. Knowing the subtle hypocrisy of these Jews, he demanded evidence of their sincerity.

2. An announcement of judgment (v. 9). He declared that the ax was laid at the root of the tree and that the tree not bringing forth fruit was to be hewn down and cast into the fire. John made it very plain that for their sins they should be called into judgment. To be brought face to face with judgment has a sobering effect upon men. Paul's preaching of a judgment to come made Felix tremble (Acts 24:25). While John preached sin and judgment, he accompanied it with the assurance of pardon on condition of repentance.

3. Instructions to the inquirers (vv. 10-14). (1) The people (vv. 10, 11). Each man was to turn from his heinous sin and show love and kindness to his fellow men. Clothing and food were to be given to those who had need. The people were to turn from a life of selfishness and greed and do unto others as they would be done by. (2) Publicans (vv. 12, 13). These taxgatherers who were guilty of greed and oppression were not asked to give up their occupation, but to exact only that which was appointed by law. (3) The soldiers (v. 14). These were probably the policemen of that day, at least men on military duty. They were to refrain from false accusation and doing violence to men, and to be content with their wages.

4. Testimony to Jesus (vv. 15-18). The people were musing in their hearts as to whether John was indeed the Messiah. When John perceived this he, with fine humility, declared that his mission was so lowly by comparison with that of Christ that he would be unworthy to perform the menial act of a slave in loosing the latchet of his shoes. John baptized with water, but Christ would baptize with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

IV. John's Imprisonment (vv. 19, 20). Because of his reproof of Herod for his lewdness and other sins, John went to the dungeon and eventually was beheaded. God's faithful prophets are usually despised by the world, and some are even imprisoned, burned, or beheaded.

Faith

It is the wind that carries the ship across the waves; but the wind is powerless unless the hand of the boatman is held firmly upon the rudder, and that rudder is set hard against the wind. This is the attitude of steadfast faith to divine omnipotence. We hold the rudder; God fills the sails. It is not the rudder that carries the ship, but it is the rudder which catches the wind which carries the ship. And so God keeps us in perfect peace while we are stayed in him.—A. B. Simpson.

BROWNIES ARE FAVORITES

There comes inevitably to every little girl's life the moment when her sense of hospitality is aroused and she will want to make something all by herself to serve the little girls who are coming over to play with her in the afternoon. Mother will undoubtedly be appealed to and, if wise, will suggest the ever-favorite "brownies," sometimes referred to as baked fudge.

Brownies have the advantage of being extremely simple to make, nutritious but not over-rich, and are always greeted with murmurs of delight.

If the following simple directions are followed, good results can be expected, even by the little girl who has had no previous experience. Remember that all measurements should be level and accurate. By using self-rising flour, no baking powder nor salt is required, as these ingredients have already been added in just the right proportions by the manufacturer before you buy the flour. Each flour is easy for children to use. There is no measuring and mixing of baking powder or salt and success is easily assured. The flour needs only one sifting.

Little girls have to have tea parties. They like to prepare cookies themselves. This is possible by using self-rising flour which takes all the guess work out of baking. This little hostess is serving to her guests grape punch and brownies made by herself with ready-prepared flour or self-rising flour.

Brownies.

1/2 cup butter 1/2 cup self-rising flour
2 squares of chocolate 1 egg
1/4 cup sugar 1/4 cup milk

First add the butter to the chocolate and melt over hot water. Add the sugar and eggs, unbeaten. Beat until well blended. Then add the remaining ingredients in the order given and when well mixed pour into a greased and floured cake pan to the depth of one-half inch. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until quite firm but not brown. Cut into squares while still warm.

These may be served with a beverage such as lemonade or grape punch, or in the place of cake with ice cream if a more substantial collation is desired.

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals.

The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

DAIRY
FACTS*FEEDING GRAIN
TO DAIRY COWS*Wise Feeder Will Supply Balanced Ration.

(By J. W. LINN, Extension Dairyman, Kansas State Agricultural College.)

Balanced rations are just as important to the dairy cow in summer as in winter. To maintain the balance and keep up the high production record, grain must be fed.

Grain feeding is always more expensive than roughage or pasture feeding. There can be only one reason for its use, and that is to supply nutriment that the heavy producing cow cannot get from the roughage or pasture.

Profit from dairy cows is linked so closely with high production that it is impossible to separate them. In other words the cow producing 400 pounds of fat is making two and a half times as much profit as the one making 200 pounds of fat.

The wise feeder will feed a balanced ration and do so according to production. He will feed such as to have the same ratio between protein and carbohydrate—about one to six.

The grain ration that will usually be found most profitable is two parts of corn to one part of oats or bran. This will be true until the grass begins to dry up or grow short. It is important to again increase the protein part of the grain ration at which time the 4-2-1 ration which consists of four parts corn, two parts bran or ground oats, and one part cottonseed or linseed meal should be used.

The second important thing in profitable grain feeding is to use the grain according to production because the cow producing 50 pounds of milk will need about three times as much grain as the cow producing 20 pounds.

Production Best Guide for Feeding in Summer

It's the high producing cow that needs grain while she is on pasture, according to I. W. Rupel, of the animal husbandry staff at the Wisconsin State College of Agriculture.

Some have the idea that their cows do not require grain because they turn up their noses at it when they first go out on pasture. These men will find, according to Rupel, that as soon as the cattle have been on the new grass about a week, grain will keep them from slumping in production.

The proper way to determine how much grain to give during the summer, Rupel believes, is to feed according to production. A Holstein, producing over 30 pounds of milk per day, should receive grain at the rate of one pound for every four pounds of milk produced above 30 pounds. That is, a cow producing 50 pounds of milk should have five pounds of grain. Jerseys and Guernseys should have a little more grain than Holsteins, and when the pasture is poor, the grain ration should be increased.

Equal amounts of corn and oats make a good mixture for the summer grain ration. A little oil meal may be added to make the feed more palatable. Protein supplements are not usually necessary because sufficient protein is obtained from the average good pasture. When pastures become poor during the dry season, some protein feed is beneficial.

Dairy Facts

Heavy producing cows pay best.

To feed cows well is to feed them profitably.

In calf production, the influence of a good bull is of major importance.

Feeding dairy cows according to the amount of milk they produce is a profitable practice.

Milk can't be manufactured without salt and water. See to it, therefore, that the cow, the ewe, and the sow have plenty of both.

All kinds of young animals thrive best on green pastures. A green patch, enclosed with a temporary fence, often solves the grazing problem.

Creameries which buy whey cream should have no fear of ill effects from mixing it with the regular supply of cream. If the quality of the whey cream is equal to that of the regular supply.

To keep the average butterfat production on a steady increase, a herd owner must cull unprofitable cows.

Destroy all breeding places of flies by hauling away manure daily and preventing accumulation of any filth.

Since milk is one of the most easily contaminated foods, it is important that it be kept away from disagreeable odors and in a cool place. A brick or cement milkhouse furnishes the needed conditions in a most satisfactory manner.
