The Tri-Weekly Kentucky New Era.

NUMBER 19

VOLUME III.

HOPKINSVILLE, CHRISTIAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1887.

Jeffersonville is to have new water-works.

Two Yale students are preparing to engage in a duel.

The explosion of a lamp in Lexington fatally burned a negro boy.

Owensville has been almost destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

A dynamite bomb was found on the scene of the recent explosion in St. Louis.

A petition is being circulated in Louisville in aid of the condemned anarchists.

Judge Jackson is still ill and Judge Stowe will begin the trial of the Fidelity Bank cases.

A Chicago policeman actually took his own life in that city recently. How very remarkable!

Jasper Morgan, a prominent citizen of Lexington, has disappeared. Foul play is suspected.

Judge Jackson sentenced a dozen prisoners in the circuit court of Louisville on last Saturday.

Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, has announced that he cannot go to Ohio to take part in the canvass.

The Court of Appeals has decided that the school board cannot claim old deposits under the earliest statute.

The Mayor and members of the board of aldermen, of Birmingham, have been indicted for allowing a nuisance.

John Robinson's circus is in for hard luck. A train load of it was wrecked in Indiana and four coaches burned.

Twenty-eight indictments have been preferred against Wharfmaster Kallisher at Memphis for embezzlement.

Mrs. Mattie Johnson, aged sixty-five, supposed to be a sister of the famous outlaw, Murrell, died in Paducah, last week.

Gov. Buckner presented the Louisville Legion with the prizes won at Chicago, at the annual in Louisville Friday night.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has increased its capital stock $5,000,000. This makes the total stock $85,000,000.

Louisville had two heavy failures Friday. Hess, Mayer & Co., dry goods, liabilities, $100,000; Henle & Wolf, hats & caps, liabilities, $100,000.

Mr. Henry B. Wilson, of Clarksville, and formerly of this place, died last week. Mr. Wilson was a prominent business man in Clarksville.

Cranky George Francis Train is in Chicago with the intention of lecturing. He is in sympathy with the Anarchists. It is not likely he will be permitted to lecture.

The convention of woman suffragists met in Evansville last week. Miss Susan B. Anthony delivered an address in reply to an address by Senator Ingalls in the Forum.

Spies, Fielden and Schwab have signed a letter to Gov. Oglesby disavowing "aggressive force" and expressing regret for the loss of life at the Haymarket.

"Tuck" Agee was hanged at Lexington on November 4th for the murder of his brother-in-law in Co. Lexington, Fayette county, September 23, 1886. The killing was wholly unjustifiable.

A young lawyer of Linn county, Mo., tried to horse whip the editor of the county paper, but the tables were turned and the lawyer got the "whipping." Moral:—Don't monkey with the editor.

A negro in Cloverport fired at another at a distance of only ten feet with a shotgun loaded with turkey shot, and missed his man. He was jailed, as he ought to have been for a miserable marksmanship.

A boy in Louisville amuses himself with touching off grains of giant powder on the floor near a can containing twenty-five pounds of the stuff, with the result of his being totally burned by the explosion of the can.

The men on the Huntington road employed by Cumming & Conner struck for back pay Friday. Cumming & Conner are sub-contractors, and are accused of making away with the money to be used in paying the hands.

Two lepers were smuggled into Philadelphia recently, and a good deal of excitement has been created thereby. The Board of Health tracing them to a German physician who refuses to disclose their whereabouts.

Brazil, Ind., comes forward with a sensation. David Kahn, a young man, has been paying attention for some time to the daughter of Hon. Geo. H. McKnight. McKnight ordered Kahn to desist. After failing to do so, and being on the street with her, he was fired upon by McKnight, but without effect. Next morning they met and exchanged five shots. McKnight was unhurt, but Kahn received a flesh wound in the arm.

A young printer from Denver, Col., in Owensboro to wed, has mysteriously disappeared. All efforts to find him have proved unavailing. When a printer so far forgets himself as to "disappear" on the eve of marriage, it bodes ill for the future. No printer with a grain of decency would do such a thing; it is a slur on the fraternity. It is bad enough to "disappear" from Saturday night till Monday morn, but for two weeks at a time is just shameful.

The Last Act.

LOUISVILLE, IND., Nov. 6.—The four victims of the Brownfield tragedy were buried yesterday afternoon, their remains being placed in three hearses and a carriage to a cemetery and there deposited side by side, thus ending within twenty-four hours the bloodiest domestic episode in the history of Louisville.

Kentucky Town Burned.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Nov. 7.—Advice from Shady Grove, Livingston county, Ky., report the total destruction of that town by fire. The full extent of the loss cannot be computed, but will not, perhaps, fall short of $40,000. The amount of insurance on real estate is unknown, but that carried on stocks was $5,000.

Found Dead.

NASHVILLE, NOV. 7.—The badly mutilated body of a man was found in a lumber car by some boys yesterday. His name is supposed to have been Thomas Lee, as a receipt for board given in Birmingham bears that name. The jury returned a verdict of death by crushing from lumber in the attempt to steal a ride in the car.

Severed His Spinal Column.

TULLAHOMA, TENN., Nov. 6.—Friday evening Thomas Newton whipped his daughter, who married Isaac Arnold, against his wishes. Arnold interfered and was knocked down with a poker by his infuriated father-in-law. Arnold procured an ax, and striking Newton three blows severed his spinal column, killing him almost instantly.

Fatal Explosion.

OWENSBORO, KY., Nov. 7.—The boiler of Wade & Miller's saw-mill on the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Southwestern Railway exploded, scalding Miller, the owner, fatally and Frank Royalty, Walter Hamilton, Jefferson Wilkins and B. F. Boyle badly, but not fatally. The mill was demolished. Tom Whitworth, while piling lumber fifty yards away, was struck with a piece of lumber and killed. Heavy sections of the boiler were thrown several hundred yards.

Scalded to Death.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Nov. 7.—A terrible explosion of molten steel occurred at an early hour at the works of the Springfield Iron Company, a few miles north of this city. The entire city was shaken by the force of the explosion, and windows were rattled as though by an earthquake. Four tons of liquid metal were allowed to flow, through some mishap, into a wet receptacle, and a frightful explosion ensued. It is reported that twenty men were burned. The officers in charge are reticent, and desire the matter suppressed, but it is learned that John Green, Joseph Madden and William Strickland were severely scalded.

The Big Break.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—There were no developments in the Hess, Mayer & Co. and Henle & Wolf failures yesterday, and Main street was very little disturbed by them. Mr. N. S. Block has secured the services of a number of appraisers, and will occupy the week taking an inventory of the stock of the two houses. He is also at work on the firms' books, and will reach some estimate of the liabilities in a few days.

At present there is nothing definite to be obtained as to the figures, save the liabilities will not fall short of the estimate of $300,000 given. When some reliable statement of the condition of the firms has been reached, a meeting of the creditors will be called and terms decided upon.

Neither the heads of the houses nor their attorneys will say whether the firms will be able to resume, but it is the general impression on the street that they will be in full operation in a few weeks, their creditors being men and disposed to push them to the wall in their moment of misfortune.

Young or middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send 10 cents in stamps for large illustrated treatise suggesting unfailing cure. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Bitter Bit.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—John Jambor, of this city, was found guilty at Racine, of the charge of having atempted the life of ex-Mayor M. M. Secor on the night of June 16, 1885, by placing a dynamite bomb in the carriage way of Secor's residence. The prisoner was bitterly when the verdict was announced. The case, which has been dragging along for many months, has attracted widespread interest. Jambor had long been in Mr. Secor's employ, but had been discharged, and moved to Milwaukee. His consequent enmity to Mr. Secor was, therefore, supposed to have furnished the motive for the crime, and a trial just finished testimony was produced, showing that he had purchased explosives, thus materially strengthening the chain of circumstantial evidence which had previously been woven about him. By the premature explosion of the bomb, the man who set it was injured, and Jambor was subsequently found at the house of a friend, suffering from injuries supposed to have been caused by the explosion.

Resolution of Respect.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bank of Hopkinsville, held at banking house, in Hopkinsville, Ky., on Thursday, November 3, 1887. The following memorial and resolutions of respect to the memory of Thomas H. Grinter, of Cadiz, Trigg county, Ky., were unanimously adopted, and entered of record as a part of the proceedings of the board of directors at said meeting:

The departure from this life of Thomas H. Grinter, of Cadiz, Ky., on Friday, October 28, 1887, leaves a vacancy in this Board by his death, which we feel is well nigh irreparable. Thomas H. Grinter had been elected, and had served continuously as a member of the Board of Directors of the bank of Hopkinsville, from July, 1886, to the date of his death, and this board feels that by his death, it has sustained a great loss, and that we shall sorely miss in future his wise counsel, splendid financial ability, and administrative tact, in controlling and directing the business affairs of the corporation with which he was so long identified and connected as a director. He made his way in business life from an humble beginning, and by his own unaided exertions, attained to success, and fortune beyond the most sanguine expectations of his early life, and by simple and correct methods of business. He preserved and carried with him through life, the most lasting and enduring friendships, and commanded the respect and high esteem of his fellow men. His integrity was above suspicion, and his "word was his law," upon which all men who knew him could rely without fear of failure, in all the business affairs of his life.

It is therefore deemed appropriate by this board, that this memorial to the character of Thomas H. Grinter, and evincing the high esteem in which he was held by the surviving members of this board, as a financier, business man, citizen, and friend, be entered upon the minutes of the board's proceedings, and spread upon the record, and be published in city papers. And it was thereupon

Resolved: That the board offer to the family of the deceased, an assurance of sympathy and tenderest sympathy in this hour of their great loss and affliction. That a copy of this memorial and resolutions as adopted by this board, duly attested by the officers of this bank be furnished to the family of the deceased. By order of Board of Directors. E. P. CAMPBELL, President.

From Rev. John Mathews, Pastor M. E. Church, South at Montgomery, Ala.

"Barb's Prophylactic Fluid is the only medicine kept in my family. We can use it for almost everything—burns, bruises, cuts, stings, ear-ache, tooth-ache, sore stomach, etc., etc. My children, when hurt or bruised, always call at once for Barb's Fluid. We cannot get along without it. It is so valuable for its prompt relief of pain from all kinds of injuries, and also is a powerful Antiseptic and Disinfectant."

A Marshall in Waiting.

Judge Coleman was expected to be on hand to hold court last Monday, and did come to town, but the morning train had already brought on the ground a representative of the ever impending crisis of the Federal Court in the person of Deputy U. S. Marshal R. V. McDonald. Mr. McDonald registered another name at the Greenville Hotel and proceeded patiently to wait the opening of the court, and the appearance of Judge Coleman. Letch Robinson, a negro who came up from the depot with the Marshal, had his suspicious aroused. In fact the Marshals of the Federal Court had been giving him some trouble on previous occasions, and he didn't have any very kindly feelings towards "them fellows," so he made it pretty generally known that that fellow couldn't fool him. He knew a U. S. official when he saw him the second time. Judge Coleman came to town, and was for some time on Main street, but he was not hunting for the marshal, and through the advice of friends left town without attempting to hold court. Marshal McDonald when interviewed by a representative of this paper, said he had only notices to serve in the civil cases of the Citizens National Bank of Evansville against Muhlenberg, and a similar one of Alfred C. Tanner. After learning the Judge would not be on hand, he remained until evening, and receiving other papers of a like import, served the same on the County Attorney. That night he went to South Carolina, but he saw nothing of the Judge. Lawyers Brown, Love and others, counsel for the tax-payers, had advised Judge Coleman to come in and hold court, but other friends thought to do so would be to lose all the advantage gained—Muhlenberg Echo.

CONSTIPATION

To call the "Father of Disease," because there is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by the absorption of poisons caused in the retention of decayed and edible matter in the stomach and bowels. It is caused by a "stagnant" liver, not enough bile being excreted from the blood to produce Nature's own cathartic, and is generally accompanied with such results as

Loss of Appetite,

Sick Headache,

Bad Breath, etc.

The treatment of Constipation does not consist merely in upholding the bowels. The medicine must not only act as a purgative, but be a tonic as well, and not produce after its use greater constipation. To secure a regular habit of body without changing the diet or disorganizing the system.

"My attention, after suffering with Constipation for two years, was called to a Simmons' Liver Regulator, and having tried almost everything else, I decided to try it. I first took a wineglassful and afterwards reduced the dose to a teaspoonful, as per directions, after each meal. I found that it had done me so much good that I continued it until I took two bottles. I keep it in my house and would not be without it. I had having no use for it, it having cured me."—Geo. W. A Horrible Tragedy.

The most horrible tragedy ever enacted in Louisville was committed between darkness and daylight at 1,922 West Chestnut street. Charles Brownfield, a commercial traveler, killed his wife, Alice, his 10-month-old son, Harold, and his 10-year-old son, William, by cutting their throats with a razor. He then hanged himself with a strap. The four corpses were not discovered till Friday morning after 10 o'clock. Poverty and distress, brought about by gambling, seems to be the cause of the awful deed. The murderer and suicide was the son of Magistrate Brownfield. He said he did not wish his wife and child to live, believing that they would suffer from want and destitution, and that his brother-in-law would not fit to live.

A Wonderful Well.

The story circulated upon our streets in regard to a subterranean lake underlying Hopkinsville does not challenge credence, but on the other hand the indications thus far are sufficiently encouraging as to attract the interest and attention of our progressive business men. The principle point of interest just now is the well on the burnt district on Ellis & Co.'s property. Last week the gentleman, contracted with a man named Tutt to blast the well, but after two days work the contractor gave up the job on account of the overflowing of water. Ellis & Co. have turned the contract over to another gentleman, who will begin this morning to bore an eight-inch hole, through which to run a pipe. A pump with a six inch suction will be put in the well. Their intention of raising water by atmospheric pressure is to test the capacity of the stream, which is, in the estimation of Mr. Ellis, inexhaustible. If they find the supply of water sufficiently large, then the matter of constructing water works for the city will be next move.

A bright little girl, aged about four years, strayed from its mother, Mrs. John T. Johnson, on Main Street Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, with their three children were shopping, and while in Frankel's little girl stepped out of the door and wandered up toward the court house. Policeman Wadlington found the child in the middle of the street crying for its mother. The child was restored to its parents after some little search.

We are advised that parties interested in the coal mines of this county are talking of building a branch road from the O. V. to the mines. This is an enterprise, it is hoped, that will be taken hold of and pushed to success. The Crittenden county coal has no superior this side of Pittsburgh. The O. V. runs within a mile or two of these veins, and a branch road will give our coal the same advantages that the DeKoven coal now has, if the railroad company will treat the matter fairly.—Crittenden Press

It is a fact well-known that Hopkinsville has more palatial residences and neat cottage homes than any other city, according to its size, in Kentucky, and it is also well-known that the people here display fine taste in the interior decoration of their houses. It is all a mistake to suppose that one will find everything pertaining to advancement of art in the older cities of the east. In Hopkinsville to-day we find just as much culture in music, in styles of dress and in fact everything pertaining to an advanced civilization as we can find in Philadelphia or Boston.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

An Enthusiastic and Harmonious Gathering.

There was held in this city on last Saturday, at the court-house an educational meeting for the districts composed of the counties of Union, Hopkins, Henderson, Lyon, Trigg, Webster, Todd and Caldwell. It was a grand success in every respect. The school officers, teachers and friends of popular education manifested deep and abiding interest. The circuit court room was well crowded with men and women of learning. Within the bar sat a distinguished gathering. There were men of prominence in politics, business and society.

The morning session opened with music followed by an invocation, after which Prof. C. H. Dietrich, chairman, delivered the introductory remarks, in appropriate language. The lecturers were next on the programme arranged for the occasion.

"School Houses, Their Construction and Care," by Thomas Hunter, County Supt., Franklin county. Mr. Hunter's paper was carefully prepared and his theory was applicable to the subject discussed.

"Moral and Religious Elements in School Training," by Rev. W. L. Nourse. Mr. Nourse's lecture was a most remarkable and powerful one. He convinced the minds of the audience by a perfectly fair presentation of facts. After the speaker had finished the meeting adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

AT 1:30 the chairman introduced Mr. J. C. Glenn, of Kuttawa, who lectured on "Co-operation of Parents and Teachers." The speakers effort was eloquent and effective.

"School Discipline as an Educational Factor," by Rev. J. T. Barrow. Mr. Barrow's theory as to proper discipline and his interpretation of same as applicable to his own school, was especially fine.

"The Art and Abuse of Text Books," by Miss Nora C. Stark. Her manner in her speech was at first engaging by reason of its frankness and moderation, and afterwards impressive by its earnestness and vigor. She was graceful and easy of utterance and delivered a most creditable lecture.

"The State Teachers' Association and Its Works," by R. N. Roach, Glasgow. His remarks were highly interesting. The meeting then adjourned till 7:30 p. m.

THE WEEKLY NEWERA.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER, 1887.

SIGHING FOR BLOOD.

M. Quaid's Experience with the Impassioned Bloodhounds.

The more I go about the country by rail the more I want to kill railroad employees. It was fully fifteen years ago that I first got the idea that I should some day shed the blood of a railroad man, and that belief has been growing stronger and stronger day since I thought it surely would be the man in the ticket-office, but I have let up on him. I happened to get into conversation one day with the president of a railroad, and he assured me that tickets were out of every hundred railroad ticket-agent.

1. Were born with the dyspepsia.
2. Had corps on every blessed toe and bunions on both feet.
3. Had been disappointed in love, or had married unhappily.
4. Would commit suicide in a few years, anyhow, and nothing could be gained by killing this man.

That was my reason, for letting up on them, although there are times and places when it is awful hard to restrain my hand. There is a chap in the Union depot at Buffalo who is hourly courting death. I was in Buffalo the other day, and naturally wanted to come to Buffalo. I thought the same feeling would have possessed any other stranger in Buffalo. There is not a single valid reason why any one should remain in Buffalo when he can start for Detroit. He was figuring on the distance of the sun from the earth when I stepped to the window. I waited several minutes before interrupting him, and then asked for a ticket to Detroit. He flung down his pencil, yanked a ticket out of the rack, stamped it in a vicious manner and flung it at my chin. It was a ticket for Louisville.

"I wanted to go to Detroit."
"Why didn't you say so, then?"
"I did. What time does the train go?"
"Eight o'clock tomorrow morning."
"But I want to go to night."
"Then why didn't you say so? How did I know when you wanted to go? Train goes out at six o'clock."

"But the time-table says seven o'clock."
"Then why do you ask me?"

I started to apologize, but he shut the window down, and I was left staring through the glass that I would go to Louisville, wait over till morning, or do almost any thing else to secure his forgiveness, but he continued to stare and refused to see me again.

It is the baggage-man, however, whose wrongs I sigh for. It sometimes seems as if they were employed to add to the number of lost souls. When I wanted to go down to Cincinnati the other day, I asked the man at the depot.

"Can you check this trunk for Cincinnati?"

"Humph," he replied, looking at me in search of a way out.

I took the check he offered me, saw him place another on the trunk, and four days afterwards, after much worry and considerable cost, got my trunk from Cleveland, where it had been carried as straight as a string. When I think of taking a trip from Buffalo to Cleveland, I don't wonder that the baggage-man is so anxious to connect with change of cars or jumping to steamboats and back.

I know I'll be in at night and at the head of the procession. I'll bet a hundred dollars to one I would never go on beyond Cleveland.

The less baggage the better. The Union depot in Cleveland has been living for forty-four years, but his days are numbered. It won't be long, I think, before it will be a pile of ruins.

I don't doubt as to why there. I had been down to Elvira. I checked my trunk with him, but he refused to take it. The baggage-man told me that he had to take it to Cleveland, and I was another put on the trunk.

I was assured by the baggage-man, and the trunk was finally taken to Cleveland. After getting on the train, I found that the baggage-man had taken my trunk to Cleveland, and I was another put on the trunk.

A BATCH OF ANECDOTES.

Stories Furnished from Local Headquarters All Over the Globe.

I heard a very amusing little story about the most beautiful child in the world, and the best of it is that it is quite true, writes "Kathleen," in the Louisville Courier. Just before the court left Windsor a new servant was taken on at the castle. He was a Scotchman, who belonged to a family in which her Majesty takes a kindly interest, and had lived nearly all his life with the Queen's household.

A GRIST FOR GRANGERS.

It has been found that sulphate of iron will destroy moss in grass lands, without injury to the grass.

A ranchman's farmer says the best crop he ever raised was obtained by spreading manure on over snow.

Thus the tomatoes to a single stalk, and train them to stakes to insure early ripening and prevent rot.

The farm garden is the index to the state of progress of the farm, and the comfort, health and happiness of the family.

Assessors of the tax are very injurious to carriage makers, therefore, the carriage should be housed in a dry place, somewhat removed.

Parsons contain more nutriment than turnips or carrots, and make suet and lard for dairy stock or fattening hogs, and of all crops, some keep better.

Philosophy matters may be reduced to a material state by the aid of heat, moisture and early winter. Where these are applied, hay, straw or weeds may be rapidly converted into manure.

EXPERIENCES WITH COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS indicate that nitrogenous manures appear to be of little use the second season on grass. Superphosphate and kainit had more lasting effect.

Rum, moist soil is the best adapted to plant trees. If the hens are permitted to scratch in the soil, they will fertilize the soil, and interfere with the progress of the cucumber.

Hogs will almost winter on clover cut when in full bloom, cured and put where they can be had, so the hogs can be fattened with it twice a day. They will eat it as hay.

When the old German Kaiser arrived at Berlin, he was met by a crowd of people, and he was given a little brand of meat put on it.

When a cow on a unclung field begins to dry off she also begins to fatten. Putting her back to the wall, and she will fatten in a few days. A few weeks, or perhaps two or three months, if milk is not especially valuable, may be given to bring the cow into condition.

It is comparing the condition of the American farm laborer with that of the French peasant that seems somewhat surprising. According to a recent report, farm wages in France range from five cents a day to ten cents, and occasionally in harvest to twelve cents.

It is a great pleasure to see a winter wheat early. Old farmers have a rule to wait for frost before sowing, so as to head the wheat. The wheat will not be so good if sown after frost touches the wheat.

The wheat plant likes a cool soil, and the best soil is a sandy soil. The wheat plant does not like a heavy soil, and the best soil is a sandy soil.

HOW A SIOUX DIES.

The Strange Sight Which a Traveler Saw in a Cave.

In 1881 I was hunting some lost horses in the broken country west of the Big Horn river, writes a contributor in the Washington News. I had ridden all the morning over a country that was strange to me. About eleven o'clock I crossed a plateau, and was surprised to come suddenly to the edge of a canyon the extent of which I had not even suspected.

In the canyon was a stream with clumps of cottonwood trees, and a few Indian lodges. The Indians that hunted in that country were peaceable, but the war was just over, and the Sioux were still very sore. If they were, Crows or Arapahos I might get some information about my horses. I rode up a narrow and watched.

There was not even a dog, which looked rather suspicious. After waiting five minutes I knew no more than at first. Suddenly three white men came from the top of the canyon, and walked leisurely across the opening. Then I knew that the camp was deserted, and the strangeness of it startled me. I mounted and rode down the creek, and straight to the top.

I threw back the flap, and I shall remember what I saw until I die. In the center of the plateau spread a buffalo robe and on the robe were guns and scalp and many arrows, and sitting cross-legged in a circle around the robe were three dead men. One of the dead men was a Sioux, and the other two were white men.

One of the dead men was a Sioux, and the other two were white men. One of the dead men was a Sioux, and the other two were white men. One of the dead men was a Sioux, and the other two were white men.
