THANKSGIVING.

In view of the manifold blessings which we have received, for all of which we should render exceeding thanks to Him who gave, let us then, who have been more abundantly blessed, do something to lead up to those less fortunate.

We feel an earnest desire to move to better the condition of the poor, sick, and indigent, to which end we are making this appeal.

We appeal to all who can spare money to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare time to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare strength to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare kindness to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare love to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare anything to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare themselves to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare their best to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare their best and most to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare their best and most and all to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.

We appeal to all who can spare, to come to the aid of the poor and needy, that they may be comforted in body and soul.
