NUMBER ELEVEN.

SOUTH FULTON TO GET NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

South Fulton is to get a new school building now that the Obion County Quarterly Court has voted to sell bonds to build a new school here and one in Dixie. The new edifice, on which work is to be started in a few weeks, will cost approximately $35,000, according to Supt. W. H. Cravens, who has sought a new building since he came here as head of the South Fulton schools.

The building will be a one-story brick veneer, with a large auditorium and nine class rooms. It will be erected on the school ground between the present high school building and the grade school building. Construction of the new building is necessary in order to take care of increasing enrollment, which has already overcrowded the present facilities.

Another improvement at the South Fulton school for the ensuing term, will be the addition of a Smith-Hughes agricultural teacher and a full-time coach, Supt. Cravens announced this week.

Spring football practice is now underway at the Southside school, with 35 out for the drills, including all last year's squad except Frazier, Edwards and Wells.

A total of 596 pupils are enrolled at the South Fulton school, with 185 in high school.

OBION COUNTY VOTES TO SELL $140,000 BONDS

The Obion County Quarterly Court in session Monday at Union City voted to issue $140,000 in bonds, $75,000 of which would be used to refinance the county's floating debt, and the remaining $65,000 to be used for improvement of several county schools.

The issuance of bonds will not have any effect on the county's five cent debt tax rate for the next few years, County Court Clerk J. P. Semones Jr. said, but will be taken care of by that appropriation for some time.

The interest rate on the bonds is two and three-quarters percent, and they will mature over a period of thirteen years: from 1942 to 1955. The $75,000 worth of bonds for the floating debt will be used to refinance old debts of the county which have been drawing much higher rates of interest. The $65,000 school improvement money will be used for two new school buildings, at South Fulton and Dixie, and major and minor additions and repairs in a number of other county schools, Supt. Milton Hamilton stated.

Sheriff O. M. Phipps of Huntington, W. Va., reported to headquarters recently that a thief had looted his car of handcuffs, two flashlights and a box of pistol cartridges.

In her will Mrs. Alice Cox of Mayswater, Eng., directed that her umbrella, a gift from her long-dead sweetheart, be placed in the coffin with her when she died.

MEETING OF MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION HELD WEDNES.

The Fulton Ministerial Association met at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Methodist church study, with Rev. Woodrow Fuller, president, conducting the meeting. Members present were Rev. W. H. Saxon, Rev. E. R. Ladd, Rev. Mr. Wulf, Rev. Fuller, and Dr. Don P. Hawkins. One visitor was present, the Rev. Mr. Weaver, minister of the Bardwell Christian Church.

Reports were given of the pre-Easter services in the Fulton Theatre and the Good Friday services in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Members voted to hold similar services next spring.

Rev. Fuller gave a most interesting program on "The Contribution of the Baptist Church to American Democracy." Next month the Rev. Mr. Ladd will speak on the same topic, using the Cumberland Presbyterian church as the subject. At later meetings Rev. Saxon and Rev. Wulf will present programs concerning their own churches.

The Association approved the suggestion that a Sunday School Softball League be organized for this season, and next Monday evening representatives of the various churches will meet at the Christian church to attempt the organization. The regular baseball field will be used for practicing and games, if attempts are successful. Games will be scheduled at times when the field is not being used by the Kitty League baseball team.

Good interest has been featuring the meetings and interesting programs are being planned by the president. The association has a number of honorary members who are always welcome at the meetings.

Following the meeting the ministers lunched together at the Rainbow Room.

Mrs. Johnson Hill of McKenzie, Tenn., spent last week in Fulton with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Chambers.

CLINTON MAN ROBS WICKLIFFE POST OFFICE

Rudolf Byasse, 29, of near Clinton, was arrested Tuesday, at the Cairo-Wickliffe bridge, half an hour after he is alleged to have robbed the Wickliffe post office. He was identified by Billy Herrington, Wickliffe postal clerk, as the man who walked up to the general delivery window about 10:30 Tuesday morning, drew a gun and ordered Herrington to give him the money in the stamp drawer.

Byasse was accompanied by two unidentified youths at the time of his arrest, but it was believed that they were only hitch-hikers. Had-en Owens, Wickliffe postmaster, said that the robber took approximately $20.

Illinois officers were advised of the robbery, and given a description of the car in which Byasse fled. The accused man is the son of D. H. Byasse, a farmer who resides two and a half miles west of Clinton in Hickman county, and had been living at his parent's home since returning recently from Chicago. He is not the same Rudolf Byasse who is deputy sheriff of Hickman county.

APRIL 15 DEADLINE ON 1940 AAA PROGRAM

Farmers Must Qualify for Payments By Filing Farm Plan in County Office

Tennessee farmers who desire to participate in the 1940 AAA Farm Program must file Farm Plans which apply the program to their farms on or before April 15, according to F. W. Colby, State AAA executive officer.

In working out each Farm Plan, farm operations should be outlined to bring the greatest benefits to the farm through participation in the farm program. Farmers can secure first-hand information about soil-building practices needed and how they may be eligible for the maximum assistance under the farm program from AAA committeemen and county agents.

The Farm Plan, a copy of which can be secured from committee men or agents, also contains valuable information regarding classification of crops, maximum payments, soil-building practice credits, and similar data.

Any farm operator who does not have the opportunity within the next few days to work out a Farm Plan should notify his local committeemen or the County AAA Office that he wishes to do so, since under the 1940 Farm Program, the Farm Plan must be filed in the county office on or before April 15, in order to qualify for payment under the 1940 program, Mr. Colby said.

CIRCUIT COURT BEGINS APRIL 8 IN HICKMAN

The April term of the Fulton County Circuit Court begins in Hickman on Monday, April 8, with Judge L. L. Hindman, presiding. Court will be continued in Fulton the week of April 15.

Only two suits have been filed on the Fulton docket since the January term of court, with 14 cases on the Hickman docket.

BASEBALL DIRECTORS PLAN FOR SEASON

Baseball Fund Drive To Start Next Tuesday; Spring Training Opens April 15

Directors of the Fulton Baseball Association and several local fans met at the city hall Wednesday night to lay plans for the 1940 season, with President K. P. Dalton presiding. The Fulton club will again be linked with Detroit this year, and Jim Poole has been chosen to manage the Tigers. Poole, who is a first baseman, is a good hitter, and will be a player-manager. He has many years experience in baseball, having played with Philadelphia and Brooklyn, and managed clubs in the Southern league, and on the Pacific Coast.

It was decided at the meeting Wednesday night that a drive for baseball funds will be started next Tuesday. Directors started the ball rolling by subscribing to the fund. The board of directors is composed of K. P. Dalton, president; H. H. Bugg, vice president; W. W. Evans, secretary-treasurer; R. E. Sanford, Abe Jolley, Bert Newhouse, Kellie Lowe, F. A. Homra, Bailey Huddleston and Dr. M. W. Haws.

It was pointed out that the club is $1000 better off at the opening of the season this year than the year before. At present about $1700 is owed, while $2700 was the indebtedness when the season opened last year. It is felt that prospects are brighter for a winning club this season, and if Fulton can finish in the first division, attendance will hold up and indebtedness against the club can be wiped out. However, funds will be needed to start the season and to take care of the spring training period, which is scheduled to open April 15, and a drive will have to be conducted to raise money with which to operate. Fans and civic-minded citizens will be asked to contribute toward this program, and it is pointed out that the full support of the community is needed if Fulton is to remain in the Kitty League.

Box seats will be sold for $3.50 single and $6.00 double this year. Directors will not use passes locally and no passes will be issued except to the press. Children booster tickets for children from 6 to 14 years of age will be sold for $1.50 a season.

The following were named by the board to handle the park: L. S. Phillips, main gate ticket seller; Pat Smith, ticket taker; Mary Louise Warren, sale of grand stand and box seats; Chas. Holloway, taker of grand stand and box seats; Archie Luther, ground keeper.

President Dalton announces that bids will be let for concession rights and a club bus service on April 12 at 7:30 p. m. at the office of Atkins Insurance Agency on Lake-st. Those desiring these contracts are requested to submit their bids.

The roll of the Senior class is as follows: Joe Bard, Eugene Finch, Paul Garrigan, Herbert Griffith, Billie Henry, Jack Maupin, James Cason Menese, Harold Pursell, James Smith, Eugene Waggener, Dorothy Brockman, Mary Belle Campbell, Lucy Garrigan, Ruth Ann Green, Ruby Manning, Helen Simpson, Jessie Smith, Mary Lou Stinnett, Elsie Tucker, Elizabeth Wilkins and Gladys Wright.

The annual Lions Club minstrel show will be presented at the Science Hall on Friday night, April 22. Mrs. Martin Nall directed the show last year and is in charge of rehearsals again this year. The cast includes several talented Fultonians who are not members of the Lions Club.

Although each minstrel presented by this group has been highly successful, directors say this one will be even better.

MRS. T. M. FRANKLIN LEADER AT ROTARY CLUB

Mrs. T. M. Franklin was in charge of the program at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday and presented an interesting program. She distributed a set of 24 pictures, each a member of the club, and those present tried to identify them. Leon Browder and J. O. Lewis tied with nine each. Ford Lansden was awarded the pot of gold prize in a quiz contest.

Directors for the year were elected as follows: Theodore Kramer, Jr., Ford Lansden, J. O. Lewis, Herbert Goulder, Don P. Hawkins, Leon Browder and Woodrow Fuller. The club accepted an invitation to have lunch at the Christian church next Tuesday.

Emerson Post of Chattanooga was a guest.

THE FIRST PHONOGRAPH

In a letter written a few years before his death, Thomas A. Edison said: "I had conceived the idea of recording and reproducing human speech and other sounds on July 18, 1877."

Mr. Edison went on to say that he worked on his first model of the phonograph during the following two months and that "this first model was entirely successful." He also declared that this model comprised all the basic principles of modern phonographs and talking machines.

Many will remember the early phonograph records made on wax cylinders. These were greatly inferior to the later disc records, besides being very fragile and short-lived. Still the principles used in recording and reproducing the sounds were the same as those employed up to the present.

The world owes much of its enlightenment and instruction to the idea born in Edison's fertile brain more than 62 years ago. It is gratifying that he was permitted to enjoy a long life in which to develop and witness the universal employment of this and other epoch-making inventions which he gave to mankind.

"Slingshot Charley" Another "David"

The Biblical David used a sling to slay the Giant Goliath and put to rout the armies of the Philistines. "Slingshot Charley" Taylor, a modern David, has never slain a giant but has accomplished some amazing feats with his streamlined model of the ancient weapon. "Slingshot Charley" is a guide at Reelfoot Lake in Tennessee, when not exhibiting his prowess before audiences in various parts of the country.

Nearly everyone regards the slingshot as a boy's plaything but Charley actually used it to save his own life and the lives of others. His feats sound like tall tales but they are all true.

"The slingshot," Charley declares, "is a simple weapon to make and mighty inexpensive to operate. All I need to make one is an old shoe tongue, some stout twine, a couple of strong rubber bands, usually cut from an inner tube, and a forked stick. As a youngster I used rocks and pebbles for ammunition, and killed plenty of birds and squirrels. But now I use iron slugs and ball bearings, and shoot more accurately and get more distance."

It is no feat for Charley to break small tea cups from a distance of twenty paces, or to smash eggs which are tossed into the air, or to burst a small balloon at a distance of fifty paces. "Sometimes," Charley said, "when a duck is out of range of shotgun fire I kill it with a slug. I have shot them on the wing, too."

"I guess the biggest animal I ever shot was a raccoon. A couple of friends and I were walking in the woods near Reelfoot Lake one day when the coon, which weighed twenty pounds, made for a tree. I fitted an iron slug into my slingshot and let fly. The first shot skimmed just over his head, but the second brought him down with a broken skull."

"One night while I was hunting frogs at Reelfoot, I flushed a big, rusty, square headed, cotton-mouthed water moccasin, one of the most deadly of snakes. He struck at me and missed, then reared up again like a cobra, ready to strike again. I didn't have my gun and I didn't dare to move a foot or he would have struck. I hung my frog lantern on a bush and managed to load my slingshot without disturbing the snake. His head, with spotlight shining right on it, made a nice target and I cut it right off with a slug. Another time I heard a little rabbit squawling and saw a big rattlesnake had him in his

Before we can hope to end war we must educate coming generations to a finer and more creative courage. We must raise Pasteur high above the generals, great humanitarians above the saboteurs and secret agents.

"The horror of war" which even "practical" men may come to understand is its rising cost. Capt. Lowell Limpus in "Twentieth Century Warfare" points out that at the time of Caesar it cost about 75 cents to kill a man; in Napoleon's time, $3,000. It cost $5,000 to effect a death in America's Civil War. Today each German death will probably cost the Allies $50,000.

"After the war the whole glamour of dictatorship which has ensnared the world of today will vanish like other maladies," says Emil Ludwig.

"Gone With the Wind," consisting of all editions in this country, now totals 2,853,308 copies sold. "Grapes of Wrath" is in its 430th thousand.

Japanese taxpayers are growing restive under the burdens imposed by waging war on China. The Japanese army in China is eating up $3,000,000 daily in food and munitions and operating expenses and is producing little return. Despite its numerous weaknesses it is just too big to be crushed... and the war bill mounts in Japan.

mouth. While I was fitting a slug in my sling I heard a whir at my feet and there was the snake's mate, set to strike. I shot him first, cutting his head off, and then got the other snake. The bunny hopped off unharmed.

"Folks sometimes seem surprised at the things I can do with a slingshot. A friend once took me to see an old cowboy who was famed for his shooting with a pistol or rifle. My friend didn't tell the cowboy who I was and asked him to do some shooting for us. That cowboy was a fine shot. With a 30-30 rifle, a .45 Colt thumb-puller revolver and a .22 rifle he gave a neat demonstration, hitting small blocks of wood and picking tin cans out of the air. Then I gave a little demonstration of marksmanship, too, and you should have seen that cowboy's eyes pop. He said he'd been in show business a long time but he'd never seen such shooting."

"I took a vacation from the woods a couple of years ago and worked as a guard at the Tennessee State Prison. I carried a shotgun and a pistol, but I always kept my slingshot handy, too. One night I was on duty on the wall and a big electrical storm came up. The lightning came zipping along the barbed wire on the wall and I thought it would be safer if I could climb down the wall until the storm was over, but I had to be up there to ring my bell every half-hour. Then I had an idea. I climbed down the wall, and hugged it close to keep from getting wet. Then when the guard at the next post hit three licks on his bell it was my turn. I rang that bell three times, with pebbles, and I didn't have to go back up the wall to do it. Later I told one of the prison officials about it and he thought it was a good joke."

"One day I was visiting a friend who was sheriff in a Southern Illinois town and he took me with him to arrest a negro youth who was charged with a criminal attack on a white woman. On our way back with the negro a mob started forming to lynch the prisoner. A big, loud-mouthed fellow, the ring leader, was urging the others on. 'The sheriff said, 'Charley, I believe if we could shut that fellow up I could get the prisoner to jail all right. But I don't like to start any gunplay.' 'Sheriff,' I said, 'you deputize me to do it and I'll shut that fellow up, and I won't use a gun either.' 'The sheriff said OK and I fitted

We've seen a lot of elections, and a few times we have seen what we would call stuffed ballot boxes. Some candidates are better at getting votes than others. But Orin Winstead, our up-and-coming Farmall salesman of Paul Nailling's, takes the cake for vote-getting. At the recent election of officers at the Young Men's Business Club, when the final count was made, he had about 137 votes with only 42 persons present to cast a vote. But Orin did some ballot stuffing himself, although he didn't manage to turn the trick to Edwin Gunter. Orin got a job whether he wanted it or not, for a bunch of club members teamed up on him.

The Young Men's Club elected Hendon Wright to succeed Billy Blackstone as president. Several good projects were carried out during the administration of Billy, and a good program is outlined for the incoming president. Hendon is a popular choice, and is a great believer in unity of purpose with all the membership assisting in the work. There are many things that can be done to improve Fulton and vicinity, and by continual effort many favorable results can be obtained.

I read somewhere the other day that South Carolina remains the only one of the 48 states where divorces are not granted. Fifty-one years ago a non-divorce law was passed by the State Legislature. Under its provisions no divorce can be granted. Attempts have been made to repeal the law, but they all have failed.

an iron slug into my slingshot and busted out teeth that he lost interest in the lynching and the sheriff hustled his prisoner off to jail without any more trouble."

Charley listed a keen eye and steady nerves as two of the main requisites for skill with the slingshot. "The chief mistake made in shooting a slingshot," Charley said, "is to hold the fork still and pull the rubbers back from it. The proper way is to hold the leather steady and draw the fork forward and away from it."

Mr. Smith is an ideal father. His son wants a bicycle. The financial condition of the Smith family is none too good, but Mr. Smith economizes - smokes nickel cigars, walks to work - and, when son's birthday arrives, presents him with a shiny new bike and sends him out to enjoy the newly acquired vehicle. Mr. Smith sits back with pleasure and a bit of pride. He has made his son happy; he has done his duty as a father.

But has he? What about instructing his child in the proper way to operate a bike? What about teaching which apply to bicycles as well as automobiles? What about warning him not to be a show off rider?

The way this boy rides his bicycle is very likely the manner in which he will operate his car when a grown man. It is the parent's duty to caution their children to think and act safely. Safety habits instilled in the mind of a child will be lasting.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S been a bit of knife-throwing going on in Hollywood, and it's been none too good for the nerves of the spectators who are scheduled to act as targets. Paulette Goddard is trying her hand at it, in preparation for her role in Cecil B. DeMille's "North West Mounted Police." She is scheduled to play "Louvette," whom Mr. DeMille described as "a combination of Circe, Desdemona, Carmen and a black panther." She always gets her man, and knife-throwing is part of her movie.

So she's been practicing around the studio. "It's hard work," she complained the other day. "I'm afraid I'll knock off a finger or chop off a toe before I'm through."

"Probably my toe," gloomily prophesied Bob Hope, who's working with her in "The Ghost Breakers."

And over at Warner Brothers' Steve Clemente is also hurling knives, in a corner of the set for "Torrid Zone." An expert, he easily flips a knife into a wall 15 paces away.

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, stopping to watch him, noticed that there were two chalk marks on the wall, less than six inches apart, and that the knife went whistling neatly between them.

"What do those marks mean?" asked O'Brien.

"Those," answered Clemente, "represent your head and Mr. Cagney's. They'll be that close together when I throw a knife between them for the picture."

Bette Davis owns her own home at last. She's been in Hollywood for nine years, and lived in a different home each year—she's never owned a house, a ranch or even a vacant lot. But before beginning "All This and Heaven Too" she bought what the salesman called "An American farm house"; she says it reminds her of her childhood home in New England. It's just five minutes from the studio. It's also just a little too near the Los Angeles river, which overflowed its banks a few years ago, washing away several homes in the vicinity.

Martha Scott and William Holden, two of the stars in Sol Lesser's "Our Town," consumed 32 strawberry ice cream sodas during the making of the love scenes for the picture, and at the moment wouldn't care if they never saw another one. But Frank Craven, who finished 10 cans of tobacco in his pipe during his scenes, just went out and bought more for his personal use.

There's an entire Hollywood novel in a press announcement that was sent out a while ago, before Linda Darnell started east. "Miss Darnell will be accompanied to New York by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Darnell," it stated, "but her father, who is a clerk in the Dallas post office, will remain on the job back in Texas." Apparently even the fame of his very beautiful daughter doesn't dazzle Mr. Darnell.

Priscilla and Rosemary Lane received a substantial offer to become platinum blondes—and turned it down! A representative of more than 5,000 hairdressers made it; he said that a scheme is being promoted to revive the platinum blonde craze introduced by the late Jean Harlow, and that several other stars are being approached with the same offer. It includes a royalty in addition to the flat advance sum.

Recently the students of Blue Ridge college, New Windsor, Md., selected Albert Dekker as the "Perfect Profile of 1949." Dekker won a narrow victory over Nelson Eddy; the girls selected him because his was the profile that impressed them most when they inspected the photographs of the contestants, which included every male star in Hollywood. What they didn't know was the man they chose as appears in his current picture, "Dr. Cyclops," with his head shaved and his nose obscured by a pair of glasses.

"WHITE FOLKS"

A few days ago I was on a bus going through a country in southern Kentucky where much of the old plantation life still exists. Just before we got to a small village on the way, an elderly Negro man, looking very much like a picture out of Joel Chandler Harris's stories, said to the driver: "Please let me off here, White Folks." No one on the bus paid any attention to this odd way of addressing a man, but, if there had been strangers from across the Ohio River, especially strangers who had heard their ancestors tell tales of the Old South this one expression would have brought back a whole era.

The Negroes who had been slaves nearly always called elderly white men "Master" in some of its numerous forms. In my part of the world it was "Mas" or "Marse." Whether the man addressed was the actual owner, a relative, or merely important in the community, this designation was used. Not to have spoken thus would have been insubordination or ill breeding. The Negro expected it as much as the white man.

The generation who grew up in freedom after the war still had their terms of respect for the white men, but there was no absolute system. This varied according to the neighborhood and the Negro himself. "Boss," in no sneering or irreverent sense; "Cap'n," especially to one's employer; and sometimes "the Old Man," again in no wicked sense, served as designations for the owner of the farm on which the colored man worked. The generic term, if I may use a big word, was "White Folks." That embraced sufficient respect and kowtow to satisfy both the Negro and the white man.

The term was used in another way that no outsider can ever understand properly; the Negro referred to the employer and his family, particularly if they were the same as the original master or descended from him, as "my white folks." No graduate from a fashionable college ever referred to his alma mater—"dear old Whozis"—with any more feeling than the Negro used when talking about his "White folks." He felt responsible for some of the renown attending upon the family; he felt an equal amount of reflected glory from these same honored and honorable "white folks." An elderly, rather decrepit Negro man, the assistant to a plasterer, was working at my house a few years ago. I asked him where he came from to my town. Without answering directly, he said his "white folks" lived in an adjoining county and then proceeded to give a large chapter of the family history of these same notables. I cannot recall that he ever said one word about himself. Thomas Nelson Page and other writers on this type of Negro have in no way exaggerated the fine loyalty to the masters and his family that most of the ex-slaves showed till their dying days.

In spite of the Department of Agriculture's reduced acreage program, farm prices are still too low when compared with industrial prices.

The New York Trust Company, making a study of the farm problems, states that "much has been attempted to help the farmer but little has been done." Efforts were made to boost farm prices by reducing acreage and, said the Trust Company, here's what happened. In 1939, as compared with 1933, the average yield per acre of wheat increased from 11.2 bushels to 14.1 bushels or 26%; of corn, from 22.6 bushels to 29.5 bushels or 31%; of tobacco, from 788.7 pounds to 911.2 pounds or 16%; and of cotton, from 212.7 pounds to 235.9 pounds or 11%.

Thus we see that although we reduced the acreage of our important money crops, we are able to grow more on less ground because of increased farm mechanization increased use of fertilizer and better growing methods.

The disruption of normal channels of production and commerce in Europe may temporarily stimulate the demand for American wheat, corn and hogs, but on the other hand it has already decreased the demand for tobacco and fruits.

It is estimated that at present 95% of this country's farm products are consumed at home. It seems to me that the best way to increase the farmer's purchasing power is to lower the price of the goods he buys. I believe we should focus more of our efforts on increasing industrial efficiency, lowering costs of production and thus the price of industrial goods.

The greatest stimulant to price recovery of farm products would be a substantial industrial recovery in the U. S. which would lessen unemployment and increase purchasing power. The outlook for agriculture, it appears, is closely tied up with the outlook for industry.

Because a man is great is no reason why a man should be proclaimed perfect.

A BOWLING CHAMPION

IN his sporting magazine, Frank G. Menke, who digs up odd and interesting items concerning the sporting world, tells how Jimmy Smith, one-time bowling champion, was taken back by a woman while on an exhibition tour some years ago.

One night in Pueblo, Colo., while Jimmy was warming up preparatory to doing his stuff, the master of ceremonies told him there was a lady present who would like to bowl against him just for the novelty of the thing. The champion agreed, but told his female opponent that he would have to bowl his best, even if it did make her seem hopelessly outclassed.

She replied that that would be all right, as she had only taken up the game a couple of years before to do some reducing, and would not mind being defeated.

Jimmy did his best, knocking over 686 pins in three games, and was amazed when his competitor, Mrs. Floretta McCutcheon, toppled 704 pins to win a decisive victory.

That was in 1927, since which time, Mr. Menke says, Mrs. McCutcheon has bowled nine perfect games of 300 pins, 10 games with scores of 299, and 64 games with scores of 279 or better.

Bowling, or ten pins, has been played in England since the 12th century, and was introduced into America about 100 years ago, the first match game of record being played in New York in 1840. In late years the game has greatly increased in popularity, being suitable for both men and women, as Mrs. McCutcheon's skill so well demonstrates.

CHINESE MEDICINE

In a magazine article James W. Bennett, former American vice-consul in China, tells of some wonderful "medicines" concocted and dispensed by native Chinese.

He tell of a prosperous pharmacy in Hangchow which keeps a herd of deer, whose carcasses are converted into all-healing pills as needed. Powdered and molded into pellets, various parts of the deer are prescribed for various diseases.

Fever is treated by pills made from the hoof; those made from the antlers are said to give strength to the weak; those compounded from parts of the entire animal, including the hide, are guaranteed to cure any ailment under the sun.

Deer are not the only contributors to Chinese curative agencies. A gout remedy is prepared from bear paws; a preventive of leprosy is derived from the baked brains of a human infant; desiccated lizards, snakes and centipedes, mixed with honey, were highly recommended for internal disorders; the powdered heart of a tiger was said to give great courage to those who partook of it.

Most efficacious of all in this respect, however, were pills made from the heart of a daring bandit, advertised thus:

"The famous bandit Ah Tsang is no more. Should you not like to eat of the heart of the brigand Ah Tsang, and henceforth fear no man? Come with surprising promptness, for only three of these pills are in existence."

Unfortunately is the man who never comes under the ennobling and refining influence of a good war-m. The teacher gets the most out of the lessons.

Who will perform these miracles to come?

OUR WORK HAS JUST BEGUN

YOU think electric service is a wonderful thing—and it is. It lights our homes. It makes our streets safe at night. Turns wheels in factories. Lifts the burden of housework. Helps make the good things of life cost less.

There doesn't seem much left for electricity to do, does there? Yet we employees of your electric company believe that everything electricity now stands for—every service and comfort it now gives you—is but a beginning of what's to come.

Why, today we don't even know what electricity is. We simply know and enjoy some of the things it is capable of doing every moment of the day and night. But we also know that there are still many undiscovered tasks for electricity.

Who will perform these miracles-to-come? The men who serve you now—the same great army of skilled technicians, capable managers and loyal employees whose tireless efforts in your behalf have already vastly improved the service your electric company gives you, already drastically reduced its cost.

No, it isn't an accident that electricity has reached its greatest present development in the United States. The reason is that these thousands of men and women in the electrical industry have the American spirit of initiative—the good old-fashioned kind.

Their work, and theirs alone, makes your electric service the best in the world. It's an amazing service. It gets better and better, costs less and less.

Your electric company doesn't often think about the work it has done because it is too busy planning the work that lies ahead.

MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

In the last 10 to 15 years, the engineering improvements and operating economies of your electric company have made it possible to cut the average price of household electricity just about in half. Many customers now using more household appliances, lots of light, a radio, and refrigerator pay very little more to operate all of these than they used to pay for light alone.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

It is Spring and a warm sun shines on rich Kentucky land.

The family car is dusted off and shined up and picnics are in season. There are thousands of cars on every road and many people are learning to drive for the first time.

So we ask you to read this and think about it. "When you drive be careful, remember that you not only have to watch yourself but the other person and that the lives of every member in your car are your responsibility. So please be careful."

This gloomy warning was not brought about by my sick spell last week, but by a report of Major Hanson of the Highway Patrol whose "highway safety campaign" is saving many lives and by a sleepless night after seeing three serious automobile accidents the other day.

The hard Winter just passed has caused the tax payers of Kentucky more than a million dollars in damage to the state highways according to a report issued by highway engineer, Tom Cutler. The interesting thing brought about by this report was that the better type of road was not damaged by freezes, only the cheap ones. This slaps us in the face with the fact that Kentucky has wasted millions of dollars on poorly constructed cheap roads that are continually having to be repaired and replaced, why not build good roads that will last and they will pay for themselves in repair bills, saved, in a few years.

The coming Senate race may be quiet one that will arouse no interest or it may be a bitter one that will disturb the whole state.

At the present time the situation is hanging fire and leaning a little on the side that Donaldson may run against Chandler.

Here is the line-up: Donaldson would like to be Senator. He would not have let the question hang fire so long if he didn't lean that way, as Chandler has nothing to offer him in the way of a political trade.

Donaldson would have both the Federal faction and part of the state machine for him and a lot of state jobs to deal with. He is a good campaigner and an astute politician. Chandler while Governor built up the state machine and a majority of the state employees are his and Mr. Talbot's appointees.

Chandler is an outstanding campaigner and Dan Talbot has the political astuteness to manage a good campaign.

There is still a small chance that Chandler might be on the ticket for Vice President which would relieve the situation and then too the President may not want a bitter Senate race in Kentucky, during a Presidential campaign.

Big Jim Farley was in Louisville last week and although publicly his visit was not political and only for the Postmasters Convention, he was pretty busy at his hotel meeting a lot of important state politicians who informally "dropped in."

It may be the sunshine that makes us feel so cocky, but the new Assistant Attorney General just appointed, was who we said he would be in this column, three months ago.

"Wedding" To Eclipse Sun and Moon Sunday

A "wedding" eclipse of the sun and moon will be visible here from about 2:50 to 5:12 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 7th.

The phenomenon, called an annular, or ring, eclipse, will show a circle of the sun's radiance around the screening disc of the moon. The eclipse will be nearly 75 percent here, Mrs. John Blagden, Memphis astronomer, disclosed. The maximum here will be at about 4 o'clock, she estimated, producing a deep twilight in which the planet Mercury will be visible.

The moon will be speeding eastward across the face of the sun at 2740 miles an hour. The eclipse will begin, strangely, on April 8, the day "before" it reaches Memphis, because the spectacle will cross the international date line in its eastward course.

Such an eclipse has not been seen since 1865, and another will occur until 1994. Until this time, the annular eclipse has not been of great interest to scientists because the glare of the light from the rim precluded observation of the solar atmosphere, the corona and prominences.

But this year, with the aid of new instruments such as photo electric cells and cameras for infra-red photography, the Hayden Planetarium Expedition, from New York, will set up headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla., close to the central path of the big eclipse, and study the phenomenon with motion pictures, television and still photography.

Dr. Otto Struve, director of the Yerkes and McDonald Observatories, will make the infra red studies. Dr. A. M. Skellet of the Bell Telephone Laboratories has devised an apparatus to make the television studies from Mount Locke, Texas, the McDonald Observatory. Dr. William H. Barton of Hayden Planetarium will direct the work in Florida.

Hate To Get Up In The Morning?

DO YOUR FRIENDS CALL YOU LAZY?

Some people hate to get up in the morning, feel lazy all day, draggish, achy, generally no account. This lack of energy may not be caused by the weather. Often this condition is caused by poor elimination which is probably due to an unbalanced diet, lack of green foods during the winter, not enough exercise, and after effects of winter colds. If you are constipated and bilious due to these causes and there is no organic trouble we urge that you try Nash's C. & L. Tonic and Laxative today.

Plans To Educate Handicapped Children

Section 4434-33, Kentucky Statutes, provides for district boards of education to carry on programs of special education. The Constitution and court rulings of the Commonwealth of Kentucky provide that educational opportunities be furnished all school children. The Attorney General, under date of February 15, 1938, gave the State Department of Education an opinion which reads in part as follows:

"It is mandatory on the board of education to give to the handicapped child the same opportunity as that presented to the other children."

"We would advise, therefore, that local school revenues and state per capita should be used by boards of education to furnish the same educational opportunities to the handicapped child as to his more fortunate brother."

Since local boards of education are now engaged in preparing plans for the school year 1940-41, the state board respectfully requests each to make some provision in the plans for the seriously handicapped children of school age in each district. The following suggestions are made for such a program:

1. Transportation should be provided to enable these children to attend the regular schools or a special class or school if their disabilities will permit, or that
2. Extra pay per hour be provided the regular teachers to furnish additional services by way of home visitations, or that
3. Special supervisors, special teachers, special substitute teachers, or special part-time supervisors or teachers be employed to furnish these opportunities to the homebound, mentally fit child, or that
4. Special supervisors plan, provide and supervise special training programs for the homebound, mentally fit child through the regular teachers who should receive extra pay per hour for additional services by the way of home visitations, or special teachers compensated on the basis of the actual hours worked.

Many boards of education are now providing such opportunities for the mentally fit, homebound or handicapped child. Totally blind or deaf children may be referred to the State institutions for the blind and the deaf.

The Department of Education is ready to cooperate with each board of education in furnishing educational opportunities to all children whether normal or handicapped, as provided by the legal provisions of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in the event such provisions have not been made.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH NEWS

Next Sunday evening, Dr. Don P. Hawkins, Christian Church minister, will give the baccalaureate sermon for the Cayce schools at Cayce. Clarence Pickering, vice president of the official board of the Christian church, in the absence of the minister, will preside at an interesting program to be given next Sunday evening at the Christian church in Fulton, at 7:30, and a cordial invitation is extended to one and all to attend. Preceding this program the Christian Endeavor society will meet at 6:30. An election of new officers for the coming six months will be held at that time.

A general "house cleaning" has taken place at the church during the last few weeks, and a number of improvements made. Pictures of the interior of the church which was very beautifully decorated Easter Sunday, were taken that morning by Mr. Gardner, local photographer, and have now been finished ready for distribution.

The old church bell, not in use for many years, has been hung, and is again "ringing out the hours" of service at the church.

Man is neither master of his life nor his fate. He can but offer to his fellowmen his efforts to diminish human suffering; he can but offer to God his indomitable faith. Hugo.

O. C. HENRY Sheriff of Fulton County, Ky. THE SCRAPBOOK

A graduate of the University of Hard Knocks usually knows how to pattern his own life for the best advantage.

A man on earth is good or bad as the mood moves him. In color, his acts are seldom pure white, neither are they wholly black; but generally of a steel-gray. Caprice, temper, accident, all act upon him. The North Wind, of hate; the Si-moon of Jealousy; the Cyclone of Passion, beat and buffet him. Pilots strong and pilots cowardly stand at the helm by turn. But sometimes the South Wind softly blows, the sun comes out by day and the stars by night. Friendship holds the rubber firm, and love makes all secure.

Never look at the clock; get the job done.—Edison.

The path of progress in certain problems seems barred as by a flaming sword. More than a thousand years before Christ, an Arab Chief asked, "If a man die shall he live again?" Every man who ever lived since has asked the same question. But we know no more today about the subject than did Job.

There are 105 boy babies born to every 100 girls. The law holds in every land where vital statistics have been kept.

There is still a third question that every parent, since Adam and Eve, has sought to solve: "How can I educate this child so that he will attain eminence?" Yet in spite of books, lectures and sermons on the subject nobody knows. "There is a destiny that shapes our ends, Rough-hew them how we will."

Moses was sent adrift. The tide carried him into power. Demosthenes was weighted with every disadvantage. Shakespeare got into difficulty with a woman eight years his senior.

INFANT MORTALITY

In the long list of accomplishments to the credit of modern medical science perhaps none has a greater significance than the success attained in the reduction of childhood deaths.

Queen Anne of England, born in 1664, bore 17 children, only one of whom lived more than a year, and he died at the age of 11. Now large families of children often mature without a death.

Through medical education and the treatment of early defects the child's chance of reaching maturity has been greatly increased especially during the last half century. The lengthened average span of human life which now prevails is largely due to reduction of mortality among infants.

In addition to regularly employed physicians and nurses by public health units, thousands of volunteer workers are cooperating in the noble task of saving babies' lives. For their effective efforts in this and other directions looking to the preservation of human life the medical profession and those cooperating are entitled to the highest praise.

Encourage cheerfulness, promote kind thoughts.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The business annals are pursuing a cautious course. Their forecasts are liberally qualified with "ifs," "ands," "buts" and "on the other hands." For the trend of business activity generally is quite different than was prophesied a few months back.

The spring slump was expected. What was not expected was its severity—worst in our recent history. On top of that, the expected signs of betterment have not appeared in particular force. War buying is an important bullish factor in only a limited number of industries. The result is, according to Paul Mallon, that the guesses of even the government experts "run on the pessimistic side."

The Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production, which came close to the 130 mark during last winter's sharp upward movement, fell to around 104 in March. And the forecast is that it will drop to 100 and perhaps below by the time May ends. Then, the forecasts continue, a new upturn should set in, but few are willing now to gamble that it will be as strong, as steep or as long-lived as was forecast two or three months ago.

Some business briefs of interest follow:

STEEL: There was a contrasasonal decline in production lately. And that leads to the belief that a contrasasonal rise in production may be expected soon, due to the fact that production has been lagging behind consumption. Daily February output was about 104,000 tons, whereas daily consumption in the same period was 129,000 tons.

LUMBER: Demand has been fairly good, and operations have been at about the expected level. Orders for hardwood flooring have been especially good.

CONSTRUCTION: Has shown moderate increases. Summer almost always brings substantial new building, and is expected as usual this year. Big activity is still in the residential field, due to FHA guarantees of heavy loans to the builder. However, betterment in non-residential building is also anticipated.

ELECTRIC POWER: Output is high, and the industry, according to reliable reports, plans on considerable expansion and new construction this year. This industry's big problem is still political, as it has been for years.

WOOL: Prices are expected to decline somewhat, inasmuch as imports have been excessively great. The high level of recent consumption has been exceeded by supply.

COAL: The extremely cold winter and early spring weather caused consumption to be high. A sharp decline is to be expected now. It will probably be sharper than seasonal, due to the generally lower level of industrial activity.

EMPLOYMENT: It is hoped that the new census will at least provide data from which it will be possible to discover more or less exactly the number of unemployed. Estimates range from 2,000,000 to 10,000,000, with the higher figure more prevalent.

The resignation of Premier Daladier of France was not a surprise to informed quarters. It has long

Kentucky Corn Growers Planting More Hybrid Seed

KENTUCKY corn growers are devoting an increasing percentage of this year's crop acreage to the heavy yielding hybrid strains.

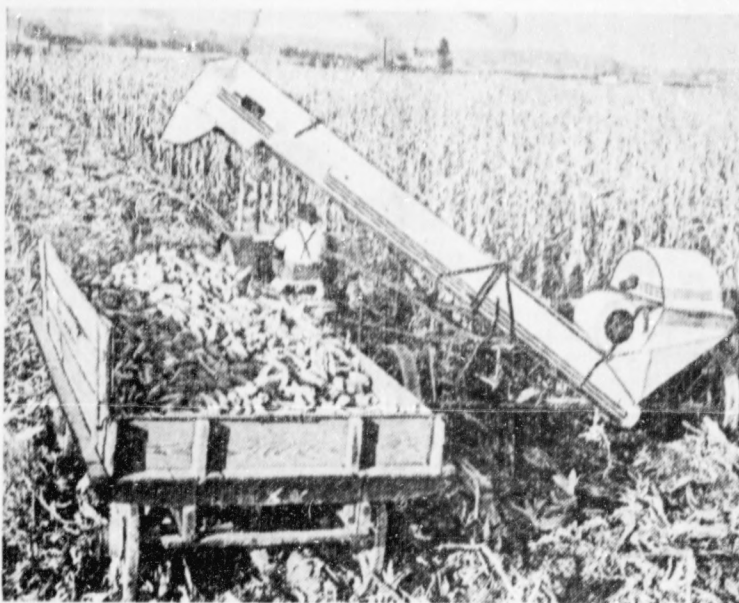

The steady gain in the number of bushels of corn per acre which Kentucky farms produce is directly traceable to the use of hybrid seed, crop experts assert.

Kentucky's 1939 corn production showed an increase of 7,800,000 bushels over the 1929-38 yield, while the acreage actually planted to corn was 92,000 acres less, according to a statement made public by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on statistics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Total production of corn in Kentucky in 1939 was 70,400,000 bushels compared with 62,600,000 bushels for the previous 10-year average," says the statement.

"With the popularization of hybrid, the corn belt is entering a new era in which, with the aid of science, more abundant crops can be produced on a smaller acreage."

"Corn growers realize that in hybrid they have a variety capable of yielding larger and higher quality crops. They know, also, that hybrid corn draws heavily on the supply of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in the soil. It takes more plant food to produce the stiffer stalks, better root systems and fully developed ears which are common to hybrid corn. Successful growers realize that the best way to produce a good corn crop is to make certain that the demands of high producing hybrid strains are taken care of through adequate fertilization of the soil.

"The axiom that 'fertilized corn is better corn' is truer today than ever before. To make certain that the supply of nitrogen, phosphoric

COUNTY AGENT

Kentucky farmers cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation program already have signed requests for enough triple superphosphate to treat more than 800,000 acres, it is revealed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration office at Lexington.

Request to date total nearly 60,000 tons, or more than four times the amount of phosphate requested at the same time last year. In the first half of March, orders were received at the rate of nearly 1,000 tons a day.

Farmers in Barren county have ordered 1,408 tons and Hardin county farmers 1,213 tons. Other counties in which farmers have asked for 1,000 tons or more are Casey, Grayson, Metcalfe, Morgan and Pulaski. Farmers in all the 120 Kentucky counties have requested superphosphate in amounts ranging from two to 56 tons to a county. The phosphate, supplied in lieu of cash payments in the agricultural conservation program, will be applied to permanent pastures or in

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"UNREALITY" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, April 7, 1940.

The Golden Text is: "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains; truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel." (Jeremiah 3:23)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world's foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness." (I Cor. 3: 18, 19)
