GOATS SERVE MAN IN ENDLESS WAYS

Appliances and Indoor Golf Courses Use Fabric Made from Angora Fleece.

Professionals in the designing and producing of household and industrial appliances are turning with unusual speed to the unusual construction of fabric made from the fibers of the Angora goat. The goat is native to central Asia and Turkey; but its fleece, which is called mohair, is now raised in many places. The Angora goat has been found to best suit all the requirements of modern construction in the production of upholstery materials

Instead of filling upholstery materials with a tool or some other type of material, the manufacturers are using a smooth, soft, highly durable fabric made from mohair. The sheep is a type of Angora. The fleece is removed from the sheep and made into the fabric. The fabric has a natural and unusual long single fiber which makes it ideal for use in the manufacture of the upholstery material. The fiber is so soft and silky that it lends itself to the manufacture of upholstery material and also to the manufacture of household and industrial appliances.

For a Healthy School

W HAT shall the real condition of the American Public Health Association be under the present circumstances? If the present health conditions are to be changed, how can one save the life of one in five? The sanitary conditions of the largest cities are known to be degenerate, and the small towns and villages are no exception to the rule. There is no one to care for these conditions, and no one to help them. If we wish to save the life of one in five, we must first care for the health of all the people, and this can be done only by a proper organization of the health forces of the nation.

Our Health Improved

The above question can be answered in the affirmative. The health forces of the nation are not sufficient to carry on the work of public health, and the work of public health is not sufficient to carry on the work of the nation. There is no one to care for the health of the nation, and no one to help them.
McFadden News

It is very much regretted that the magnanimous Mr. Fred McFadden, who owned the home of Mr. Pink McFadden, died suddenly and unexpectedly last week. The necessary arrangements have been completed and the funeral was held at the home of Mr. W. L. Hampton. The service was conducted by Mr. H. R. Jordan and Mr. A. H. Brinkley. The home was filled with many flowers and plants, and the entire neighborhood was greatly impaired by the loss of this kind and gentle man. The McFadden family will always be remembered for their generosity and kindness to the community.

Mrs. Ruth Hampton of Read was present at the service, as was Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton. Mrs. Ruth was reported to be in the best of health and spirits.
