CITIZENS TELL WAYS TO IMPROVE COMMUNITY

A questionnaire recently passed around the city by the Better Boys Business Club has brought some interesting suggestions from local residents. The suggestions are summarized below:

- Creation of a recreational center
- Improvement of local parks
- Establishment of a community garden
- Implementation of a neighborhood watch program
- Installation of more street lights
- Creation of a community theater
- Establishment of a community center for seniors
- Improvement of local schools
- Implementation of a community food bank
- Creation of a community library

Other suggestions include the creation of a community center, the improvement of local schools, and the implementation of a community food bank. Participants were encouraged to submit their suggestions in writing for consideration.

Inflation is not destroying the chain stores, according to Neal O’Neal, President of the National Association of Chain Stores. O’Neal said that in the past, the chain stores have been able to attract customers by offering lower prices. However, in the current economy, customers are looking for more than just lower prices. Retailers are emphasizing the value of their products and services, and customers are responding by supporting the chain stores.

The current economic downturn has not affected the chain stores, according to Neal O’Neal, President of the National Association of Chain Stores. O’Neal said that the chain stores have been able to maintain their sales and profits despite the recent economic problems. Customers are looking for value in their purchases, and the chain stores are meeting that demand by offering competitive prices and a wide selection of products.

A few weeks ago I made a trip through Mississippi and Louisiana. When I left Pascagoula, Miss., and was crossing the state of Louisiana, I was met by a very kind and courteous gentleman who offered me a drink of water. I accepted with pleasure and enjoyed it very much.

He told me that he was a farmer who had lived in that part of the country for many years and knew the people well. He said that the climate was very mild and the weather was pleasant.

He also said that the people were friendly and easy to get along with. He said that they were hardworking and honest, and that they had a strong sense of family and community. He said that the land was very fertile and that the people had a lot of hope for the future.

I was very impressed with his words and I continued on my journey with a renewed appreciation for the beauty of the American South.
