Illinois Central Making Major Expansion Moves

The multi-million dollar program for the modernization of Illinois Central Railroad passenger service was increased by another $1,500,000 with the announcement today of the purchase of two new twin-unit dining cars and an order placed for four new passenger locomotives. These orders raise to more than $12,000,000 the expenditures by the Illinois Central for modern passenger equipment and diesel motive power since the end of World War II.

The twin-unit dining cars, costing $600,000, are of streamlined, light-weight construction and are of the most modern design throughout. The dining unit has an over-all length of 85 feet and has a seating capacity of 52 persons. The combined kitchen-crew car unit is also 85 feet in length, and in addition to kitchen and pantry space, it has sleeping space capable of accommodating a crew of as many as 16 persons. The new dining cars will be assigned to the all-Pullman Panama Limited, which operates between New Orleans and Chicago.

Plans for the construction of 1,000 new freight cars and the purchase of forty new switching locomotives at the combined cost of more than $9,000,000 were announced today by Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central Railroad.

The 1,000 new freight cars will be 50-ton, 16-door, drop bottom gondolas and will be built in the Illinois Central shops at Centralia, Ill. These cars will be the first gondola-type cars to be built at the Centralia shops. The Illinois Central announced plans last August for the construction of 1,000 all-steel 50-ton boxcars, also to be built at the Centralia shops. Since the end of World War II the Illinois Central has purchased or built more than 15,000 new freight cars. Upon completion of the present program the Illinois Central will have replaced the equivalent of more than 35 percent of its 1945 freight cars ownership. These cars are being used to handle more than half-a-million carloads of Illinois Central traffic annually. This program of modernization and replacement, which normally would require about seven and one-half years for completion, has been condensed into a five-year period.

The engine caught fire immediately after the car overturned. Miss Rudd managed to get out of the car first, then the driver, Don Mann followed her. Leon Mann, owner of the car was able to stand up in the car and hold the door open with his head, while he guided his smaller brothers and sisters out of the car to Miss Rudd and Don. Before Mrs. Mann was pulled out, the whole floor board was in flames. Cause of the conflagration is unknown.

Mrs. Mann received a slightly injured head and neck and bruises and the other occupants of the car also escaped with minor injuries.

The car, a 1941 DeSoto was completely destroyed by fire.

LET YOUR HEART MOVE YOUR HAND

The March of Dimes is now under way. Public response to the annual fund-raising drive of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in previous years has enabled this humanitarian organization to do a magnificent job in meeting the increasingly widespread polio challenge.

The need for an enormously successful March of Dimes this year must be fully understood. Not only was 1950 the second worst polio year on record, but its timing, immediately following the worst year, in 1949, has created urgent financial problems. A recapitulation of some facts concerning the cost of infantile paralysis brings this home vividly.

By last fall, epidemic aid funds of the National Foundation were gone, despite a most successful March of Dimes the previous January. Every available dollar had been pressed into service to provide for aid of the stricken. Not only for 1950's cases, but also for patients from 1949 and other years who still required care and treatment.

The patient-care bill alone for the three-year period 1948-50 took more than $58,000,000 in March of Dimes funds—exclusive of the millions that went to underwrite research, and education for professional personnel.

Right now, in hospitals, homes and clinics throughout the country, there are thousands of boys and girls—and adults too—who look to the 1951 March of Dimes for continued assistance.

They will get the helping hand they need—only IF WE DO OUR PART.

Edgar Allan Poe once said: "Childhood knows the human heart." Let that heart now know the need for happy children for our young people—all of them within reach of our generosity. Let your heart move your hand—Join the March of Dimes!

Clipping your dairy cows in the fall and winter is just as good a practice as clipping pasture in the spring and summer. Though these require different machines it takes no more skill for one than the other after you get the hang of it. In the end, both practices will make you money.

When cool weather starts, a cow's hair grows very rapidly and continues to do so all winter. Cows with long hair are next to impossible to clean when foreign matter is frozen in the hair. A regular clipping program will help eliminate this obstacle. In cold weather clipping does not harm the cow, but in many cases will make her more comfortable because there will be no long frozen hair on her flanks and hind quarters.

Clipping will actually save you time, when you are cleaning the cow for milking and save you money when you continue to sell clean wholesome milk.

James L. Pryor, Agricultural Agent for the Illinois Central Railroad shows a dairyman the important steps in clipping. Pryor said: "If many cows are to be clipped, a procedure should be followed so no lost motion will occur. Speed may be acquired through experience, and a clean job is of prime importance first."

Tobacco Quotas Set Up By Marketing Group

W. H. Harrison, Chairman, Fulton County PMA Committee, stated today that marketing quotas for the 1951 crop year on fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco were proclaimed by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture on November 29. These quotas are substantially the same as quotas in effect for these tobaccos in 1950.

Mr. Harrison states that any farmer intending to produce tobacco in 1951 must have an acreage allotment or tobacco will be subject to marketing penalties.

Application forms for a tobacco acreage allotment as a new grower are available at the County PMA Office in Hickman, Ky. The deadline for filing this application is January 31, 1951.

The first eligibility requirement is: The applicant must have had two years of experience in the production of tobacco within the past five years, unless the applicant is a veteran, then only one year's experience is required in the five years immediately prior to entry in the Armed Services or since his discharge. All Hail the Christmas Card... Annual Visit From You

By Mary-Nelle Wright

Year after year Christmas cards flood the mail going to your house, my house or somebody's house. And all through the week before Christmas we hurriedly tear open the ones we have received and we take a few minutes of our precious time to exclaim, "Oh, here's one from John or Ann or someone", then we toss that one aside and hurriedly tear into another.

But after the old year has rung in the new most of our homes take on a feeling of elation when we realize that another Christmas, and other year, has gone and we vow to start the new year right by taking things a little easier and by making the little things count—as well as the big ones.

A day or so ago the drizzling rain and cold outside seemed to add to the contented feeling one has in being in a house all by yourself and knowing the whole afternoon is yours just to browse through some books you've been planning to read and after you've looked at a book or two suddenly you think of the Christmas Cards. So—in this nostalgic mood I gathered all the cards together and settled down in a big easy chair to really accept all the Christmas greetings from our friends.

As I selected one at random with pictures of characters who might have stepped out of Dickens' novel I was reminded of another card I received several years ago postmarked London, England. After much discussion as to which friend of ours was in London we opened the envelope and found the name of Elvis Stahr, Jr. A year or two later one came at Christmas time from Paris, France with a Joyous Noel from Blie Carr.

But this year our cards were limited to north, south, east and west in the United States. From the West Coast came greetings from some of our oldest and dearest friends, Len and Ruth Wade Askew, Bill and Gerry Mahan and little Karen (their daughter) smiled at us from their card as they sat in front of their fireplace in their lovely home in Rolling Hills, California.

From the east came a jolly greeting from our little cousin, Danny Joe Binger of Hampton, Virginia. It was a clever little card with that reindeer of ALL reindeer—Rudolph, the red-nosed one, with an animated shoeshine boy doing a swell job NOT on Rudolph's shoes—his nose, of course!

Down Texas way live a couple of former Fultonians who never forget us. Neither are they ever forgotten in Fulton—those likeable people, Leon and Ruth Hill Bonduant of Houston. Ruth and Leon aren't quite content to send greetings by way of cards but make an annual event

The multi-million dollar program for the modernization of Illinois Central Railroad passenger service was increased by another $1,500,000 with the announcement today of the purchase of two new twin-unit dining cars and an order placed for four new passenger locomotives. These orders raise to more than $12,000,000 the expenditures by the Illinois Central for modern passenger equipment and diesel motive power since the end of World War II.

The twin-unit dining cars, costing $600,000, are of streamlined, light-weight construction and are of the most modern design throughout. The dining unit has an over-all length of 85 feet and has a seating capacity of 52 persons. The combined kitchen-crow car unit is also 85 feet in length, and in addition to kitchen and pantry space, it has sleeping space capable of accommodating a crew of as many as 16 persons. The new dining cars will be assigned to the all-Pullman Panama Limited, which operates between New Orleans and Chicago.

Plans for the construction of 1,000 new freight cars and the purchase of forty new combined locomotives at the combined cost of more than $9,000,000 were announced today by Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central Railroad.

The 1,000 new freight cars will be 50-ton, 16-door, drop bottom gondolas and will be built in the Illinois Central shops at Centerville, Ill. These cars will be the first gondola-type cars to be built at the Centerville shops. The Illinois Central announced plans last August for the construction of 1,000 all-steel 50-ton boxcars, also to be built at the Centerville shops.

Since the end of World War II the Illinois Central has purchased or built more than 15,000 new freight cars. Upon completion of the present program the Illinois Central will have replaced the equivalent of more than 35 percent of its 1945 freight cars.

These cars are being used to handle more than half-a-million carloads of Illinois Central traffic annually. This program of modernization and replacement, which normally would require about seven and one-half years for completion, has been condensed into a five-year period.

The engine caught fire immediately after the car overturned. Miss Rudd managed to get out of the car first, then the driver, Don Mann followed her. Leon Mann, owner of the car was able to stand up in the car and hold the door open with his head, while he guided his smaller brothers and sisters out of the car to Miss Rudd and Don. Before Mrs. Mann was pulled out, the whole floor board was in flames. Cause of the conflagration is unknown.

Mrs. Mann received a slightly injured head, and neck and bruises and the other occupants of the car also escaped with minor injuries.

The car, a 1941 DeSoto was completely destroyed by fire.

LET YOUR HEART MOVE YOUR HAND

The March of Dimes is now under way.

Public response to the annual fund-raising drive of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in previous years has enabled this humanitarian organization to do a magnificent job in meeting the increasingly widespread polio challenge.

The need for an enormously successful March of Dimes this year must be fully understood. Not only was 1950 the second worst polio year on record, but its timing, immediately following the worst year, in 1949, has created urgent financial problems. A recapitulation of some facts concerning the cost of infantile paralysis brings this home vividly.

By last fall, epidemic aid funds of the National Foundation were gone, despite a most successful March of Dimes the previous January. Every available dollar had been pressed into service to provide for aid of the stricken. Not only for 1950's cases, but also for patients from 1949 and other years who still required care and treatment.

The patient-care bill alone for the three-year period 1948-50 took more than $58,000,000 in March of Dimes funds—exclusive of the millions that went to underwrite research, and education for professional personnel.

Right now, in hospitals, homes and clinics throughout the country, there are thousands of boys and girls—and adults too—who look to the 1951 March of Dimes for continued assistance.

They will get the helping hand they need—only IF WE DO OUR PART.

Edgar Allan Poe once said: "Childhood knows the human heart." Let that heart now know the need for happy children for our young people—all of them within reach of our generosity. Let your heart move your hand—Join the March of Dimes!

CLIP DAIRY COWS IN FALL

Clipping your dairy cows in the fall and winter is just as good a practice as clipping pasture in the spring and summer. Though these require different machines it takes no more skill for one than the other after you get the hang of it. In the end, both practices will make you money.

When cool weather starts, a cow's hair grows very rapidly and continues to do so all winter. Cows with long hair are next to impossible to clean when foreign matter is frozen in the hair. A regular clipping program will help eliminate this obstacle. In cold weather clipping does not harm the cow, but in many cases will make her more comfortable because there will be no long frozen hair on her flanks and hind quarters.

Clipping will actually save you time, when you are cleaning the cow for milking and save you money when you continue to sell clean wholesome milk.

James L. Pryor, Agricultural Agent for the Illinois Central Railroad shows a dairyman the important steps in clipping. Pryor said, "If many cows are to be clipped, a procedure should be followed so no lost motion will occur. Speed may be acquired through experience, but a clean job is of prime importance first."

Korean Crisis

The grave military crisis in Korea and the threat of a third world war confront the people of this country with one of the most perilous situations in our history. Now, perhaps more than at any time in the past, the need is for steady nerves, for calmness of judgment and firmness of action and, above all unity in our determination to preserve our national integrity and our way of life against any attack.

As this is written our soldiers, marines and airmen in Korea and the fighting men of other members of the United Nations are falling back before the overwhelming weight of the Chinese communist attack. This onslaught was launched treacherously and with reckless disregard of the consequences to China and the world at a moment when the United States forces had virtually completed their assigned task of restoring peace in Korea and re-uniting that unhappy country.

The military outcome in Korea is not yet clear, but our gallant men already have suffered severe reversals and heartbreaking losses. A wave of anger, tinged with apprehension for the future, has swept the country. But our actions now must not spring from motives of anger or fear.

Certainly we must refuse to listen now to the shrill voices of discontent and disunity which always arise in a time of national crisis. Those individuals who are seeking to sow distrust of our government and to divide us from our natural allies should feel the full weight of public condemnation. This is true whether the guilty individuals are in Congress or whether they use the medium of the press and radio to spread their divisive and false propaganda.

The truth is that our country is more united now in the face of the world-wide threat of communist military aggression than it has ever been in any period of national crisis in the past.

President Truman placed the dangers which now confront us in their proper perspective in an address to the Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth this week. The President said:

" . . . all of us are aware of the grave risk of general conflict which has been deliberately caused by the Chinese communists leaders.

"Their action greatly changes the immediate situation with which we are confronted. It does NOT change our fundamental purpose to work for the cause of a just and peaceful world.

"No matter how the immediate situation may develop, we must remember that the fighting in Korea is but one part of the tremendous struggle of our time—the struggle between freedom and communist slavery.

"This struggle engages all our national life, all our institutions, all our resources. For the effort of the evil forces of communism to reach out and dominate the world confronts our nation and our civilization with the greatest challenge in our history."

Hoover's Warning

Read as a warning that Europe must awaken and take the major responsibility for its own defense, Herbert Hoover's speech can perform a most valuable service. Read as an argument for the United States to abandon Europe, it can have a most destructive effect.

Forthrightly and sincerely the former President presents an estimate of the world situation and a program for dealing with it which deserve prayerful attention. He is against "inviting another Korea" in Europe. He would require Europeans to show that they have the strength and unity to organize their own defense and build a "sure dam against the Red flood" before "landing another man or another dollar on their shores."

When Mr. Hoover says that the United States must be the center of resistance to communism everyone must agree. When he declares that sea and air power must be America's chief weapons he is on sound military ground. Military opinion indeed holds that the Rhine line is not today military defensible. But can policy be based solely on military calculations? By such reasoning Britain was not defensible in 1940.

Even on the basis of strict military calculations American leaders have lately determined that there would be more risk in not helping to build up defenses in Europe than there is in doing so. They reason that not to do so is to abandon the continent with all its resources of men and materials to the Russians.

They would follow historic British practice. Although its chief reliance was on sea power, Britain invested men, money, and materials to stiffen the land forces of its allies. Mr. Hoover takes a different view:

We Americans alone, with sea and air power, can so control the Atlantic and Pacific oceans that there can be no possible invasion of the Western Hemisphere by Communist armies.

Here is a basic policy choice. The decision to send Gen. Eisenhower—and more American forces—to Europe represents the considered choice of American military leaders on this point. Political pressures could yet reverse the decision. But there are political—and moral—considerations on the other side. If there was an argument for supporting the Chinese Nationalists—who had little democracy or resources—against the Communists there is plainly more reason to support free peoples in Europe who have both democracy and resources.

Mr. Hoover is quite right in saying that America cannot "create their spiritual forces" for Europeans. It is accurate to say that Europe is still badly shocked and confused, that it does not yet manifest enough unity or determination to defend itself. There is a risk in sending more American men or materials there. But the risk of not sending aid within reason seems to us greater. Men who have known freedom will in the showdown defend it, and sometimes a bit of help can be crucial.

Mr. Hoover is quite right in saying that America cannot buy allies. He recognizes that ideas are more powerful than interests. Those who can be bought are not worth it. But support for those who are free and are natural allies is both morally and militarily right. To abandon them seems to us both morally and militarily wrong.

It is well to have this whole question brought sharply to attention—both in Europe and America. Europe must awaken. America must, while bending every effort to increase its power, resurvey its commitments. The risk of investing more in Europe must be weighed against the risk of not investing more. In this assessment we must urge two basic considerations: (1) The United States is not an island morally or militarily. (2) Spiritual and moral forces can and should be brought to bear to alter fundamentally the stark picture of endless arms races and inevitable conflict.

Need For Cowboy-Parents Group

Comedian Jack Carson thinks he has a way to improve the influence of movie, radio, or television cowboys on the youngsters in their audience—and he isn't just being funny. He proposes a "Cowboy-Parents Association" to campaign for better grammar in the "horse operas."

"They went thet-a-way" may sound colorful coming over your loudspeaker," says Jack, who has a small son and daughter, "but it's a crushing blow to persons who want their kids to talk like Ronald Colman."

If celluloid cattle wranglers are to adopt the Colman accent, the result doubtless will be interesting to cowmen as well as to the k—(ahem!) children.

Nevertheless, we are all for the general outlines of Mr. Carson's proposition. We are also in favor of larger families for radio, television, and motion picture performers, scenarists, and producers in order that they also may take firsthand interest in the effects of their productions.

Praise like gold and diamonds owes its value only to its scarcity.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

by McFeatters

"Now's your chance to take a look at that lining I was telling you about!"

Dick Oberlin:

Oberlin's Observations

What's to come in '51—or the Observer sticks his neck out.

First, a long-range prediction. The University of Kentucky, possibly in 1951, more probably in 1952, will discover that its new field house is a white elephant. It is even possible that the cost will prove unbearable, and the state will have to take over the bonds, and, at a loss, lease it back to the school.

The field house is beautiful, but it is not practical.

Watch for some startling changes, too, in U. of K.'s athletic program.

The 1950-51 basketball season will be Kentucky's greatest, and that is in reference to the state as a whole.

Before the season is over, we will see at least one week when three Kentucky teams—U. of K. the University of Louisville and Eastern. Morehead or Murray, will be listed all at the same time among the ten best cage-teams in the nation.

U. of K. and U. of L. will be invited to major basketball tournaments.

We will have another state school, probably the winner of the Ohio Valley Conference championship invited to the NAIB tourney.

1951 will be the best in the history of the University of Louisville in the gridiron. The strongest Cardinal football team in history will play the toughest schedule and win, decisively, a majority of the games.

Sports to politics—There will be a bitterly fought primary for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Joe Bates probably will withdraw, using the very sound reason he gave when he made his qualified announcement—that he cannot be in Kentucky campaigning and in Washington doing his job as a Congressman at the same time.

The world will be in such shape through most of 1951 that every Congressman, if he is doing his duty, should be in Washington.

Anti-Clements forces, which are swollen in number even now, will rally around Ben Kilgore. It will be the most influential support that Kilgore could get.

Tid-Bits of Kentucky Folklore

"TABLES GROANING"

It used to be the custom for writers who were describing diners to tell about the tables groaning under the weight of their good things to eat: wags were to add that the eaters soon added their groans, too. Now, I never heard a table groan, but I have seen some so filled with food that I wondered at the distending ability of the human form to hold so much food. When I think about the amount of stuff I have seen on a single table, I get slightly hungry and then wholly disgusted at the gluttony of our former selves and our ancestors.

Many of us remember when it was thought to be cheap not to have three or four kinds of meat at a meal, with an equal number of desserts. And meat was not, as in so many homes of today, just a thing found only at one meal, the dinner, whenever served. It was meat for breakfast, dinner, supper, with possibly a little more of it at dinner. I can remember platters so piled with fried ham that they looked like brushpiles and would probably have not held another slice without some sort of rearrangement. And yet there was likely to be merely

There will be two or more candidates for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor for each man seeking the top post. This one will be a wide-open battle, too.

There will be arch conservatives of the Republican party who will balk at accepting John Sherman Cooper as their standard-bearer. Cooper will run for governor—wants to run—but only if he can be assured there will be no bitter primary fight.

This is not from fear of a fight, but a genuine and humble feeling that he does not again want to stand for office as the representative of the Republicans unless they overwhelmingly demand it. If this reactionary element has its way and threatens to put a man in the field against Cooper, they can beat him off.

In this case, former Highway Commissioner Steve Watkins is an almost certain starter. He has such a high regard for Cooper that he will not run against him, but he will go after the nomination against anyone else.

How will the Kentucky elections go in November? There is general agreement that the Republicans have one of their few good chances in '51. With John Cooper, they will win, even against popular Ben Kilgore. With Steve Watkins, it is a toss-up, with, perhaps, a slight edge to the Democratic nominee, be he Kilgore, Bates or Wetherby.

Along toward the end of '51, look for Senator Robert Taft of Cincinnati to start the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. And watch Tom Dewey cast around for someone to run against Taft.

There will be more GOP presidential hopefuls than there will be Democratic aspirants in Kentucky.

The nation as a whole will live in a state of semi-emergency all through this new year, or most of it.

Wage and price control are coming. So is vast manpower mobilization.

Communist China will be admitted to the United Nations. World War III in '51? The Observer's neck isn't long enough for that one.

ting' with his foot, all bandaged up, lying on a soft pillow. Unless he were also a victim of diabetes, most of us would have contempt for him and wonder why he did not leave off some of his rich foods and take a bit of exercise.

A well-documented recent book, OUR LUSTY FATHERS, by Fairfax Downey, lists foods served at a single meal back in Franklin's time, enough for several days or weeks by present-day standards. For hard-working men who plowed or sawed or chopped wood these heavy foods would not have meant too much, but it is a marvel that many people survived such stuffings. I still wonder whether the great advance in health that I mentioned some weeks back may not owe more to more sensible eating than to almost any other thing, except, probably, refrigeration or screens.

PALESTINE HOMEMAKERS
ENJOY ANNUAL FAMILY
NIGHT DINNER FRIDAY

The Palestine Homemakers entertained their families and their guests Friday night, December 29 with their annual Family Night dinner.

The clubroom was beautifully decorated in the holiday theme. A gingerbread house surrounded with greenery was the centerpiece for the central table with lighted candles at either end.

Two long tables with place settings for a number of guests had as their decorations lighted candles, greenery and Christmas balls. Ornamental Christmas trees were placed in the center of extra folding tables that were used.

A delicious chicken dinner was served buffet style to seventy-five members and guests. During the meal flash blue pictures were taken of the group.

After dinner everyone joined in and had loads of fun playing games such as: "Smile," "Name the Product of Wellknown Slogans," "Rating Your Mate," "Orange Relay," "Stringing Buttons," "Putting Beans from Cup to Cup with a Straw" and "Taking a Small Square of Tissue Paper Several Feet on a Spoon."

Most fun was the Orange Relay where one orange was taken from chin to chin down the row. You couldn't use your hands to help.

Prizes for games were: chewing gum, lollipops and new pennies.

The party ended with the group singing, "Goodnight Ladies."

CAYCE HOMEMAKERS
ENJOY ALL-DAY MEET
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15

The Cayce Homemakers carried food, clothing and toys to their Christmas meeting on December 15 for less fortunate families as Christmas gifts.

Fourteen members answered roll call with the name of a Christmas carol and the country of its origin. The thought for the month, "What Makes Christmas" was read by Mrs. Chester Wade and for the devotional Mrs. W. C. Sowell read the Christmas story from Luke. Mrs. Parnell Garrigan gave a very interesting citizenship report.

Mrs. Billie McGehee was elected to attend Farm and Home Week in Lexington in January.

The major project lesson on "Winter Bouquets" was given by Miss Alice Sowell and Mrs. Billie McGehee assisted by Mrs. Mays, who had several very attractive arrangements which consisted of bitter sweet, milk week pods, cat tails, grasses, mullen stalks, cotton bolls, many woods, pine cones, privet hedge berries, lily pods, sumac, straw flowers, odd shaped twigs and many others.

Many of these are beautiful design and color, to some, however, we might add color by using shellac then paint using broken in tiny bits and dissolved in alcohol for 24 hours makes a shiny paint to use for bright spots of color and any good dye can be used.

After a delicious Christmas dinner Mrs. Chester Wade led the group in singing Christmas carols. Then she told some legends of our Christmas customs.

The January meeting will be in the J. B. McGehee home on the 26th.

Mississippi Plantation Life: The Writings Of Mattie Dear

O give thanks unto the Lord for He is good. I went no place to service on the last day of 1950. I remained at home but I had plenty company. Religious company and we talked about the Lord and His goodness. He brought me from a mighty long ways.

My health is fine and that's wonderful to say. So many are confined to bed. Some in jail and some on the county farm and the Lord bless me not to be in either one of the places and I am yet on the pleading terms of mercy.

Now about Christmas. I sure enjoyed a happy Christmas. On Christmas Day I went to church and heard one of the wonderful sermons. The preacher's subject was: "God's Blessing." It sure was good to me.

Now a few words about the Christmas presents that I received. Mr. M. Kline of Clarksdale gave me a nice present. Sol Kline of Alligator gave me a wonderful gift. Mr. James Robinson of Clarksdale gave me a sweet present. Mr. Jim Anderson gave me $5.00. Mr. Haggard that operates the drug store he gave me a jar of mighty fine powder. When you open the jar you can smell it all over the house. Its just some good powder thats all. Mr. Eldon Roark the man that writes the Strolling in the Press Scimitar paper sent me a delicious present and the man that sells the Press Scimitar paper gives me one month paper free and Rev. W. M. Miller give a free ride to Clarksdale and Mrs. Johanna Westpheling and family sure did send me a gracious Christmas present. I think that is so fine of the Westpheling family.

We are having some cold weather here now and I kneads a husband to keep my back warm but let me tell you one thing.

They are hard to find.

Eugene Cates has returned to the University of Tennessee after spending the holidays with his parents.

DEATHS

W. L. BEST

W. L. Best passed away at his home near Beclerton in Hickman County Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock. He had been in declining health for some time but seriously ill for only a few days.

Mr. Best was born in Illinois, October 22, 1864 the son of the late William and Sarah Jane Harcom Best. He came to Kentucky as a child and has spent the most of his life in the community in which he died. Most of his adult life has been spent in educational work. He taught in the public schools of Hickman County for about 30 years and was superintendent of Hickman County Schools for 8 years.

He was married to Miss Inez Presley January 28, 1913, and to this union two daughters were born.

He united with the Wesley Methodist Church as a young man and has been a consistent member for 65 years. At his death he was the oldest member in all phases of church work, serving as Sunday School Superintendent and teacher for many years.

Funeral services were held

Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Wesley Methodist Church. The pastor, Rev. J. F. McMinn, Rev. Ed Nall, and Rev. Joe Gardner participated in the services. Burial in Wesley Cemetery under direction of Paul Hornbeak Funeral Home.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Inez Presley, two daughters; Mrs. Sarah Kimbell of Frankfort, Ky., and Mrs. Frances Gardner of this community, one granddaughter, Miss Carolyn Kimbell of Frankfort, and one sister, Miss Minnie Best.

It is doubtful if any person has wielded a greater influence for good in his community than has Mr. Best.

MRS. DENNIE BROWN

Mrs. Dennie Brown passed away Sunday morning at 7 o'clock after a long illness. She had been in the Henderson nursing home for the past several months.

Mrs. Brown was born in Graves County Kentucky, April 8, 1887, the daughter of William and Elizabeth Bryant Brown.

She was married to Stewart A. Brown in 1890 and to this union seven children were born, one boy dying in infancy. Another son, Hayden Brown died in 1933. Her husband preceded her in death in 1937.

She was united with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Mt. Zion where she was a faithful member for many years. At the time of her death she held her membership in the First Methodist Church of Fulton. She has been a loyal and self-sacrificing mother and wife through the years.

Funeral services were held from the Hornbeak Funeral Home, Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock with Rev. C. E. Hawkins in charge. Burial in Mt. Zion Cemetery under the direction of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

She is survived by three sons: Arnie Brown of Fulton, Dewey Brown of Chicago, and Porter Brown of Denver Colorado; two daughters, Mrs. Ava Armbruster of Fulton, and Mrs. Edna Cherry of Jacksonville, Ill., and 19 grandchildren.

Hogs Build Higher Profits at Lower Cost On Well Fertilized Legume-Grass Pasture

High-Protein Pasture Produces Healthier, Heavier Pigs.

HOGS will build higher profits for you if you give them plenty of fresh, clean legume pasture, reports M. L. Mosher, Illinois College of Agriculture farm management specialist. This practice cuts down grain consumption and also reduces death losses from disease.

Mosher bases his statement on an analysis of income records of 200 Illinois hog farmers over a 10-year period.

The 60 most profitable farms in the group used about one-fourth more pasture and one-fourth more grain than the 60 farms with the smallest profits.

Farms with the most pasture needed 45 less pounds of grain to produce 100 pounds of pork. That was a saving of more than 10 per cent in grain. The amount of supplement was the same on farms with plenty or little pasture.

Mosher reports that on farms with the most pasture, death losses after weaning were 18 per cent smaller, too.

Alfalfa was the most common hog pasture. Other high-protein pastures were red alsike clover, Ladino clover and rye for early spring and late fall.

Getting and maintaining high yielding stands of pasture depends on giving the legumes plenty of nutrients. Agronomists recommend adding phosphate and potash fertilizer to new legume-grass seedings. Top-dressing older established stands with phosphate and potash in the fall will help keep the growth thick and vigorous. Fall-applied fertilizer helps the legumes weather the winter in better condition. Moreover, the plant food is right there ready to be used by the roots when spring growth starts.

Vincent of East St. Louis; a half sister, Miss Mattie Vincent and a step-daughter, Mrs. Della Ross of Union City.

T. M. EXUM

Funeral services for Thomas Mathew Exum, 73, who died Sunday night at the Fulton Hospital following a long illness, were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Whitnell Funeral Home with the Rev. C. E. Hawkins, pastor of the First Methodist Church in charge and burial in Fairview cemetery under the direction of the Whitnell Funeral Home.

Mr. Exum was born in Sharon, Tenn., July 1, 1877, the son of A. G. and Elizabeth Perry Exum. He had spent most of his life in Fulton and was married to Miss O'Zora Linton in May 1900. She preceded him in death 15 years ago.

Almost forty years ago he purchased a bicycle repair shop from R. H. (Bob) Merrell and spent most of his life, actively engaged in this business. After World War II his sons, Milton and Thomas, expanded the business and moved to the present location of the Exum Radio and Repair Shop on Walnut Street.

Mr. Exum retired from active work but was still associated with his sons in the new business.

He had many friends among the young people of the town because in his bicycle business he was associated with boys and girls. He met life with a smile and never let his physical disability get him down.

Survivors are: two sons, Milton and Thomas Exum of Fulton, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Plott of Centralia, Ill., and a sister, Mrs. W. L. Joyner with whom he made his home, four grandchildren, Milton Owen, Tommy and Letha Exum and Glenn Exum.

Active pallbearers were: H. H. Bugg, Carey Friels, William Scott, Robert Burrow, Louis Bizzle and Ernest McCollum.
