Two-Legged Mule Colt Born Near Martin

M. E. Leonard, who resides about four miles southwest of Martin, Tenn., has a two-legged mule colt. Born Tuesday night, May 21. This freak of nature, which has only hind legs, walks upright like a man. When this freak mule colt was born, neighbors advised Mr. Leonard to knock it in the head, since it would never be able to work. But, Mr. Leonard, a hard working farmer, with a good many dependents, had other ideas, even visions of going to the World's Fair, and in this freak he sees liberation from the hard toil behind the plow, and a trip down the easy road with plenty for necessities and luxuries. The colt is already making money for him as spectators throng to his farm to see it. He charges 10c admission.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL TO HAVE BAND

"Music will go further to settle your children's problems than anything. Let them blow off their surplus energy through a horn and they will never blow a bank, or let them draw a bow and they will never draw a gun," says Prof. William Schwalb, Kenton bandmaster, who is organizing the band at South Fulton.

Mr. Schwalb has spent a lifetime with bands, having at one time been with the renowned John Phillip Sousa's Band. He is no stranger in West Tennessee. He has carried seven bands to the Memphis Cotton Carnival.

Mr. Schwalb is a WPA bandmaster with a statewide project. That means he receives his pay from the Federal government and can go anywhere in the state and organize and direct a band providing local authorities request his assistance. He now has a school band at Kenton, one at Troy and one at Dyer. The one at South Fulton is sponsored by the P. T. A.

On Wednesday, June 12 at two o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Schwalb will be at South Fulton school. Everyone who is interested in the project please come and bring the children who want to enroll in the band. Those who have their instruments already, please bring them and take a lesson at that time. Mr. Schwalb will help those of you who are undecided about what instrument your child can be able to play well. The instrument can be bought through him at a nominal cost.

Please remember that this is a free project and everyone who possibly can be on hand at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, June 12 and let's show Mr. Schwalb that South Fulton wants and really intends to have an excellent band. He will meet with the band one whole day each week and give each child individual attention as well as group instructions. So let's give him our wholehearted support.

Jack Spratt Plays For YMBC Dance Here

The Young Men's Business Club of Fulton announces that it's Jack Spratt time in "Rhythm and Rhyme" when Spratt brings his "Rhythm in Rhyme" Orchestra to Fulton direct from the Hotel Netherland Plaza of Cincinnati for a one night engagement, Friday Nite, June 14th. For this occasion the Young Men's Business Club has completed arrangements to use the Woman's Club building.

Jack Spratt with his Rhythm and Rhyme Orchestra is a regular feature over WLW from Cincinnati's beautiful Netherland Plaza, his band produces sparkling danceable, rhythms, and novel arrangements uniquely presented in top style. Jack Spratt and his band were recently heard over a coast-to-coast network in conjunction with Kay Kyser's famous band from the Hotel Gibson's beautiful Florentine Room.

The Jack Spratt interpretations of the tunes of the day in that dreamy easy to dance by manner—made for grand entertainment. This band can clown and give for the "Jitters" and do the smarter bits of tomfoolery. They're soothing and subtle for the sophisticated and Harmonious and Homey for the folks from home. To produce this kind of music Jack has had a thorough schooling in music fundamentals. He studied and finished at three different conservatories of music. He uses four saxophones, two cornets, trombone, drums, electric guitar, piano and a portable electric organ to give the public what they want.

Peppy, dark-haired Evelyn Rene, lovely young vocalist with Spratt's "Rhythm in Rhyme" Orchestra, has been singing with the band ever since the night she first heard Jack at Castle Farms. Dark-eyed and nineteen, she is at her best on such numbers as "I Cried For You" and "Holy Smoke," two of her particular favorites.

He has joined the ranks of newly married bandleaders which includes Hal Kemp, Russ Morgan and Bob Crosby. He was married to the former Marguerite Hill of Cincinnati last spring.

Have you ever listened to someone play the bassoon? If not you'll get your chance Friday night, June 14th, when Jack Spratt and his "Rhythm and Rhyme" orchestra comes to Fulton, Kentucky, direct from Hotel Netherland Plaza, Cincinnati. Maestro Spratt is the only band leader in America playing a hot bassoon, and he uses it in several special numbers.

VITAL TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

This nation must embark upon the greatest defense program in its history. All the countries of the world face unpredictable futures, and of the major nations we seem to be the most poorly prepared to meet possible invasion. Both the political parties have made an expanded national defense part of their objectives, and the public is in overwhelming agreement.

Any national defense program which is to be at all adequate is going to cost money—incalculable sums of money. And, in the present tangled state of our tax and fiscal structure, raising that money will demand intelligent thought and planning. It cannot be raised by heavy increases in taxation without driving us into a new and severe economic depression. It cannot be raised by lifting the debt limit and passing the buck to the taxpayers of the future without bringing closer the specter of national financial demoralization. It must be raised, in part at least, by governmental economy and applying the savings to the national defense. On this point the New York Times said editorially, May 19:

"We must drastically cut down the scandalously over-generous subsidies, and duplications, that we have been scattering in all directions. . . . If in addition, we revise or repeal some of the well-intentioned legislation and bureaucratic rules that stand in the way of industrial expansion and private employment, we can still further reduce unemployment and relief expenditures at the same time as we increase the yield from existing taxes. . . . We must recast our thinking, in fact, our whole economy. . . . As a nation we will leave more for defense as we spend less in other directions." In other words, would you rather have $200,000,000 for someone's pet "political" project or for a "defense" project such as 2,000 bombers or 8,000 pursuit planes? It should be remembered that an orderly fiscal policy is in itself a vital defense factor. Putting our financial house in order is certainly an essential part of any workable national defense program.

A CONTROLLABLE SYSTEM

Time has proven that private enterprise represents the safest system for all to live under. Ten years ago there was fear of the alleged political and economic power of private enterprise. Whether this power existed in fact or not is beside the point. That people feared its existence and demonstrated their ability to cope with the threat, is highly important.

The ballot box dwarfed the mightiness of bullets in a peaceful revolution that swept the land from coast to coast. Politicians of all stripes found the American people in a temper that permitted unbridled abuse of "business men." We have had a mad legislative scramble to curb the power of "big business." Whatever economic or political power business may have wielded has been smothered by a merciless barrage of laws and taxes. The good were punished with the bad. What started out to be a housecleaning became a house-raiding.

The people have demonstrated their power to control private enterprise. They have found that economic abuses by private enterprise can be corrected through Democratic processes. But they have now reached the point where they must decide whether they wish to scrap this controllable system entirely. It cannot stand much more political abuse.

CONTRAST

Agricultural marketing cooperation provides an interesting contrast with government "farm relief" activities.

Government farm aid is tax subsidized. It is political in origin. The policies adopted are often forced on all farmers whether they like it or not. And those policies change like the wind with every shift in political power, and are charged to the taxpayer.

Marketing cooperation has no public subsidies. It goes on year after year, sticking to the same proven, successful policies. The co-ops are owned by their members, and their officials are directly responsible to their members. It breeds, rather than destroys self-reliance, individual effort and profit.

That may help to explain why marketing cooperation goes ahead and grows more successful and important each year—while nine out of ten government "farm relief" plans have failed miserably.

A mule cannot pull while he kicks and he cannot kick while he pulls.

Building terraces which have been poorly laid out is comparable to building a house on a poor foundation.

A successful farmer makes a good living, leaves his land better than he found it, and serves his community well.

Canning of sufficient supplies of a variety of fruits and vegetables is one of the most important links in a sound farm food supply program.

Electricity is a servant that never tires, is ready for instant work, works 24 hours a day, never complains, is satisfied with low wages, and will tackle any task assigned.

All grass that grows is not good grass—some has seven times the feeding value of others. See your county agricultural agent for suggestions on pasture management.

That villain in the garden, the Mexican bean beetle, is here again. A mixture of 3 pounds cryolite to 50 gallons water, using at least 150 gallons of spray material per acre, will get him.

FARM RECORDS SHOW VALUE OF POULTRY BUSINESS

One year's record on farm income in 1935 changed C. M. Mathew's opinion on the value of the poultry flock, according to J. W. Long, Lawrence County Assistant agricultural agent.

In discussing the chicken business with Long, Mr. Mathews, a farm-unit test demonstrator, said, "I had never paid any attention to the chickens but my wife had always kept a few and looked after them. Mrs. Mathews sold almost $100.00 worth of poultry and eggs that year, and I decided then and there that I wanted a partnership in the poultry business."

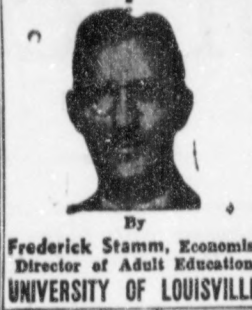

Since that time Mr. Mathews has taken an active part in the poultry business, Long said. In 1937, he built a brooder house out of scrap lumber around the farm and equipped it with a homemade brick brooder. He bought purebred chicks and contracted with a hatchery to furnish hatching eggs. He improved his laying house and has tried to supply his hens with green feed throughout the year. Improvements were made with very little cost and at times when work could not be done in the fields.

Mr. Mathews now carries about 106 hens and feeds them mainly on home grown feed. In 1939, he sold $173.77 worth of poultry products outside the products used at home. "That is as much as you can ordinarily expect from four bales of cotton and it is not nearly as hard on your farm," he said.

Abundance changes the value of things.—Terence.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist Director of Adult Education UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Crop surplus problems are again staring the American farmers in the face. Important foreign markets closed by war and the spread of the barter system has cut deeply into our export trade.

The Department of Agriculture predicts that American farm exports will be reduced almost a third this year. Farm experts are searching at home and abroad for new uses for farm products and for new markets to take the place of those closed by the war. If we cannot find new outlets or new uses for our farm products we may expect large increases in the surpluses of cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, pork and pork products, and many other commodities.

The prospect of normal farm production this year and the shrinkage of our export business is already having a depressing effect on farm prices. Wheat has dropped something like 30c a bushel from its year's high while cotton has lost over $4 a bale. Not a single farm commodity has missed the decline in price.

The new Government armament program may set off a spurt in business activity which will take up the slack in demand for farm products. More men put to work in factories turning out war material will buy more farm products.

If this program does not take up the slack and boost prices then we may expect more rigid governmental farm action. The government feels that farm prices cannot be allowed to drop to the low level of 1932 and 1933.

TIMELY TOPICS

Checking a number of their speeches by a Syracuse University student disclosed that Hitler uses the personal pronoun "I" once for every 53 words; Mussolini once in 83 words; President Roosevelt in 100; former Premier Deladier in 234, and Prime Minister Chamberlain only once in every 249 words.

It is expected that the four heads of the figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, being carved in solid rock on the face of Mount Rushmore, South Dakota, will be finished this summer. Each of the heads is 65 feet from chin to crown. The carving was begun in 1927, with Gutzon Borglum as sculptor in charge.

The story is told of a British officer who wrote from the western front: "If only the Nazis would come over here we would chase the whole outfit to hell." The censor struck out the last word with the notation: "References to future movements of enemy troops are strictly forbidden."

A Chicago Tribune columnist reports the discovery of the most nonchalant man. When informed that his wife had eloped with the chauffeur, he was unperturbed, and only remarked: "Well, I was going to fire him, anyway."

God, God—What do I know of God; what does anyone. He is our life; He is the All, but we need not fear Him. All we can do is speak the truth and do our work. Tomorrow we go—where? I know not, but I am not afraid.—J. M. W. Turner.

Even Stephen

By IRVIN S. COBB

A MAN I know swears on his word of honor that he overheard this one. I think he is telling the truth because to my mind the story has all the aspects of being the genuine Afro-American goods—it couldn't be synthetic.

The scene, so my informant claims, was the Boardwalk at Atlantic City. Two colored roll-chair pushers met in a quiet place. "How is business wid you, Steve?" asked one. "Huh?" "Jest even." "Even, I tells you." "I don't know ez I gits yore drift?" "Lissen, you comes along an' asks me how is business wid me? So I says to you business wid me is even. Ain't that plain enough?" "Yes, an' no. What does you mean by 'even'?" "Even better this week than I'wuz last week!" (American News Features, Inc.)

Hate To Get Up In The Morning?

DO YOUR FRIENDS CALL YOU LAZY?

Some people hate to get up in the morning, feel lazy all day, draggish, generally no account. This lack of energy may not be caused by the weather. Often this condition is caused by poor elimination which is probably due to an unbalanced diet, lack of green foods during the winter, not enough exercise, and after effects of winter colds. If you are constipated and bilious due to these causes and there is no organic trouble we urge that you try Nash's C. & L. Tonic and Laxative today. No doubt many persons right here in your own community have received great relief from temporary constipation, mild forms of biliousness and the most prevalent type of Malaria by the use of Nash's C. & L. Mr. Nash, who has been manufacturing drugs and filling prescriptions for forty years, places his personal guarantee on every bottle sold. He says, "Try Nash's C. & L. one week. If you are not satisfied your druggist is authorized to refund every cent you paid. I don't want your money if my medicine doesn't help you." Be sure to get Nash's C. & L. Price 50c per bottle. FARMERS TO HELP MAKE 1941 PROGRAM

Every Kentucky farmer will have an opportunity early this month to make recommendations through letters and conferences for developing the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program, according to C. M. Hornsby, chairman of the Fulton County Agricultural Conservation Association.

Suggestions made by farmers in letters and direct in community, county and state committeemen are now being compiled for use in program conferences during June and July. Written statements for use in these conferences are being requested from farmers who wish to recommend changes they believe would improve the operation and effectiveness of the farm program.

Within the limits of the Agricultural Adjustment Act the 1941 program will be developed through those recommendations of farmers, Mr. Hornsby said. Recommendations are to be made through local committeemen whose reports will be used by State representatives at the regional and national conferences.

Every effort is being made through these suggestions and conferences to make the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program more adaptable to the individual farm and to bring about more real conservation and soil-building.

Any changes made will necessarily be within the legal requirements for each state and region, but these regulations are flexible enough to allow certain changes which farmers may be interested in making to meet local conditions.

Every man desires to live long; but no man would be old.—Swift.

Let the farmer forevermore be honored in his calling; for they who labor in the earth are the chosen people of God.—Thomas Jefferson.

No man is born without ambitious worldly desires.—Carlyle.

Ambition breaks the ties of blood, and forgets the obligations of grat-titude.—Sir Walter Scott.

America is a fortunate country. She grows by the follies of our European nations.—Napoleon.

I am a great friend to public amusements; for they keep people from vice.—Samuel Johnson.

office somewhere between two country homes. A cigar box tacked to a tree or fence post was good enough; even a hollow tree was often requisitioned. Somehow I liked the hollow-tree postoffice best, for it suggested more romance, as if the marvelous letters we got there were a sort of strange fruit of the tree. It was even permissible to nail a tin can or bucket on a stake or stob, but not often did we resort to any such fancy ways of making a postoffice.

The letters themselves were works of art. Just what they said did not matter; it was the idea of getting some mail of one's very own. When the United States mail came only once or twice a week, it was a thrill that few of us smaller ones could expect. I mean the actual getting of a letter. But in our play postoffices one could get a letter a day and more. Besides, we could save the stamps of the rare letters that the grown-up members of the family received and paste these on our letters with a little white of egg or a bit of flour and water. In the absence of these, we could draw our own stamps and color them with colored crayons. Some of these stamps would now set up a collector for life.

I have tried by numerous ways to remember what the letters contained. Evidently they were regarded as very important on the day of their being received and even later, for we kept, among our possessions, these badly spelled and worse written messages. I would wager that many of them started with "I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know that I am well and hope you are the same." Or they may have had this stereotyped message: "Hello! How are you today? Well, I hope." After we got that far, it was nearly impossible to think of something else to say. We could quote a few verses from our collection of rhymes obtained from candy kisses, but the postoffice was necessarily a love-making affair. It was ordinarily used by children who were considerably below the love-making age. Sometimes, I remember, we drew pictures to represent photographs and sent them with requests to exchange. At one time my sister had some two dozen such pictures that she had collected at school or at the hollow tree post office that stood on the small hill between our house and that of the next neighbor.

There was no trusting to chance in bringing the mail. We wrote our letters, hurried across the field to mail them, inserted them into the box, and then gave a significant yell to the other children to come and get them. They usually answered and set forth at once for the mail box. We retired modestly to our own houses and waited breathlessly until the neighbors yelled for us to come to the much-used post office. Whether we played this for days at a stretch or had seasonal revivals of it I do not remember, but many another old-timer has told me that he, too, got thrills out of the penciled messages and drawings that he found addressed to him in the hollow tree.

Children now would probably get bored with such play. So many of them get mail of their own once or twice a day that it is unnecessary to devise other ways of receiving mail. Besides, telephones are everywhere, and quick means of communication are just a matter of course. If a small boy now took time to write a note such as we sent and received, he might miss hearing the results of the major league games.

S. S. PRESIDENT IN HICKMAN JUNE 12

A moonlight excursion dance on the S. S. President to be presented by Elks Lodge No. 1294 has been scheduled for Wednesday, June 12, when the big, all-steel luxury steamer stops at Hickman on the first lap of its long spring cruise to the Upper Mississippi where it will operate this spring.

Commanded by Capt. Verne Streckfus, the President is bringing an unusual treat in the famous 12-piece dance band headed by Tony Catalano, nationally-known maestro, who developed such outstanding stars of the musical world as Jess Stacy, Bix Biederbecke, Leon Rappalo and many others. Judging by the quick popularity they achieved on the President at New Orleans this spring, Catalano's present band of promising youngsters bids fair to develop more stars of similar brilliance.

According to excursion chairman, A. R. Stone, the popular river craft will weigh anchor for the moonlight trip at 9 o'clock and the public is cordially invited to attend.

CONSTANTLY IN DANGER

BUT HE RARELY THINKS OF IT

Doctors are so constantly running risk of infection and contagion that they rarely give it a thought. They do the necessary operation, treatment, or make the necessary visit, regardless of risk. That is part of their job, and accepted as such.

Every precaution is taken and every aseptic, sterilizing and preventive measure is employed for the safety of each individual patient, but the Doctor must, in many cases, take a chance on personal safety.

Friends and loved ones may fear and avoid contagion, but the Doctor must carry on—and does as a matter of routine duty.

"Fill
'er up,
Joe—

We're Going On a Picnic!"

ONE day last summer it dawned on me just what this electric business really means to people.

"Walkin' home early Sunday mornin' after bein' on the night shift, I saw Joe Baker openin' his gas station, so I stopped to talk a minute. While I'm standin' there, Clyde Davis drives up with his wife and the kids. That bus of theirs was full of lunch baskets and fishin' tackle and so on. 'Fill 'er up, Joe,' says Clyde. 'We're goin' on a picnic!'

"I got to thinkin' what a lot of livin' Clyde and his family were goin' to get out of that tank of gas. Why, every drop meant just that much more pleasure. Then I realized my business was a lot like Joe's!

"Because, I thought, when Clyde and his folks get home tonight they'll turn on the radio and listen to those swell Sunday night programs. Tomorrow morning Clyde's wife will press a lever and make the toast; later on she'll plug into a socket and do a family wash quick and easy. Every day, Clyde's folks get a million dollars' worth of comfort, entertainment and downright good livin' from the electric service my company sells.

"Now if Clyde didn't own a washin' machine, for instance, his electric bill would be lower than it is. But he wants to save his wife all that work of scrubbin', so they use the machine. But they're apt to forget, when the bill comes in, how much time and work they saved and how much fun they got with the electric service they're buyin'.

"I wish I knew a way to remind people what they get out of electric service. They just don't think about it, somehow, because in the first place they can't see it and in the second place it's so much a part of their lives they just take it for granted. But I'd like to show them that when they flip a light switch or turn a knob on the radio, they're buyin' somethin' that gives 'em pleasure and satisfaction, just like a tank of gas or a new hat.

"If they thought about it that way, they'd realize it's the biggest dollars' worth of livin' they buy, and that it costs less all the time."
