BRIEFLY

How much Fulton oldtimers remember the days of the Civil War. A lot of them do, and some of them tell their stories to their children and grandchildren. But there is no record of these stories in writing. Some of them were told to me by old men who have passed away, and some of them were told to me by old women who are still living.

The following is a list of the stories that were told to me by old people who are now deceased:

1. The story of the battle of Perryville, told by Mr. John Smith, who was a private in the 1st Kentucky Infantry.
2. The story of the battle of the Wilderness, told by Mr. John Doe, who was a Private in the 2nd Kentucky Infantry.
3. The story of the battle of Spotsylvania, told by Miss Jane Doe, who was a nurse in the Union Army.
4. The story of the battle of Gettysburg, told by Mr. John Doe, who was a Private in the 3rd Kentucky Infantry.

These stories are valuable because they give us a picture of what life was like during the Civil War. They also give us a picture of what the people were like, and what they thought about their country.

New Importance Given to City Shade Trees

A writer in the Better Homes magazine says: "a tree or two may make a difference in the life of each householder in either the larger or smaller city."

The winds, and the sun, and the rain, and the lightning forests we have are there only for us to use them.

The committee is of the opinion that our city is not dotted as it should be with trees. The time has come to plant trees in the streets, to plant trees in the yards, to plant trees in the places where people live, to plant trees in the places where people work, and to plant trees where people play.

The committee is also of the opinion that our city is not dotted as it should be with streets.

POULTRY SUGGESTS THREE GRAIN MIXTURES

Pays well to give Pullets Most Careful Attention.

In raising Pullets for Broilers, there are several points which require attention. The health of the flock has the greatest influence on the return and the income from a well grown pullet will very soon show the difference.

The pullet is the basis of a successful poultry enterprise. To produce the very best crop of heavy meat, eggs and butter, it is necessary to have a flock of healthy, vigorous pullets. One of the most important essentials is to have a well balanced ration. The ration should be designed to provide all of the essential nutrients required for growing pullets.

Leading Cause of Death

Little is known about the cause of death among pullets. It is generally believed that the chief causes are disease and internal parasites. The chief cause of death is disease. The most common disease is pneumonia, which is caused by the use of water or air pollutant. The period of time during which the disease is present is an important factor in determining the cause of death.

The pullet must be given enough water to drink. It is also necessary to have plenty of air. The air must be clean and free from dust. The pullet must be given enough water to drink.

Poultry Facts

The facts about the pullet are that it is a very valuable bird. It is a very good provider. The pullet is a very valuable provider. It is a very good provider. It is a very good provider. It is a very good provider.

Although roosting can be practiced in the pullet, it is generally believed that it should not be practiced. The roosting of the pullet is not important. The pullet should be kept in the roosting box. The roosting of the pullet is not important. The pullet should be kept in the roosting box.
