Does Fulton Want An Airport?

Does Fulton want an airport? The nation, every city and town, is becoming more and more air-conscious. Rapid strides have been made in aviation in recent years, both commercially and from a military standpoint.

Much interest has been shown in this developing field of transportation by local civic leaders and by those who like to fly a ship. A number of Fulton people have been taking instructions, and several are now able to fly alone.

But Fulton needs a permanent airport. This city is strategically located, and planes flying north and south, east and west often pass over here. There is a definite need for a landing field.

The Young Men's Business Club recently sent a representative to Washington, D. C., in interest of the development of aviation in this section. Officials there were contacted and it was pointed out that Fulton has a chance to obtain an airplane parts factory here if proper

TWO INJURED IN SHOOTING SCRAPE

An argument which resulted in a shooting scrape took place Wednesday at the sawmill south of Willingham bridge on the Hickman highway. Two men, Taylor Walker and Arnold Walker, suffered gunshot and other wounds, and were brought here to the office of Dr. M. W. Hays for treatment.

Jack Hackett is alleged to have fired three shots striking Taylor Walker in the hand, the forearm and leg, and then he is said to have attacked Arnold Walker inflicting wounds on his head as he used the pistol as a club.

Preliminary trial was to be held today (Friday) before Esquire Homer Roberts at the city hall here.

Weakley Electric Program Progresses

The Weakley County Municipal Electric System now has a total of 113 miles of rural lines in Weakley county, with the acquisition of the TVA line from Martin to Bradford, via Sharon and Greenfield.

Securing this line serves a double purpose, it is said. In place of four meters, there will be only one, located at the substation just south of Martin, thus affording a greater volume and a correspondingly lower rate for consumers.

It is expected that the 20 miles of TVA line from Martin to Bradford will be completed about October 1. This line will be a feeder for the 49 odd farm houses adjacent to the territory traversed.

Inventories are being taken for lines from Martin to Terrell, Martin to Chestnut Glade, Latham, Dukedom and Palmersville. Plans are being worked out so that all who are not getting electricity in this section will have it.

The building of the line from Martin to Ralston will start as soon as lines now under construction are finished, probably sometime this week.

PASTORS-LAYMEN MET AT WATER VALLEY

It was voted to table this action for the present.

Paul Bushart announced that the fair grounds have been secured for a Greater Fulton Exposition, featuring a livestock and poultry show, in connection with the annual 4-H Club Fat Hog and Cattle Show and Farm Bureau Picnic. Plans are now being worked out, and premium lists prepared. This event is scheduled for August 20-24. AMERICA AND THE WAR

It is only a few months ago that the people of the United States, with few exceptions, scoffed at the idea that this country would ever be in danger because of another European war, unless we deliberately chose to take part in it. "Keep us out of war" was the almost universal slogan—a good slogan in theory, but one that was voiced with little regard for the realities of a world on the verge of utter madness.

We still desire peace as ardently as ever, but we have been partially awakened to the fact that peace can not be had by merely desiring it, or by being peaceful ourselves. We should have realized that fact long ago, as indeed our more intelligent citizens did realize it. But their warnings were largely unheeded.

Events of the last few years, and especially of the last two, have finally convinced a great majority of our people that there is a monster at large whose aim is to conquer and bring every nation on the globe under subjection to his rule. Adolf Hitler is that monster, who seems determined to wreck what we have built up under the name of civilization since the Dark Ages.

He has been joined in his deadly enterprise by another lesser monster, Benito Mussolini, whose insanity is comparable to that of Hitler himself. America must do its part now in a supreme effort to stop these fiends if our own freedom is to be saved for ourselves and for our future generations.

GROWTH OF HOSPITALS

In 1875, when this nation was already nearly a century old, it had only 149 hospitals, containing 35,000 beds. In the 65 years which have elapsed since that time these facilities have been increased to more than 6,200 registered hospitals with a capital investment estimated at nearly four billion dollars.

These figures are from a review by the Hospital Research Institute of Chicago, which states that at present a hospital is accessible by automobile to the most remote parts of the country. The review adds:

"Annual reports of many typical hospitals show a persistent operating deficit, which endowments and donations by loyal citizens lower, but do not entirely wipe out.

"Health education and a deep appreciation of the splendid work of our hospitals has stirred civic pride in many localities. To maintain a community hospital, public spirited citizens realize that their help is needed throughout the year. They also know, by the number of lives saved and those reclaimed from ill health, that their aid in providing such useful institutions is a sound investment in community welfare.

THE SUEZ CANAL

Italy's entry into the war draws attention again to the Suez Canal, the highly important waterway which connects the Mediterranean with the Red Sea, crossing the Isthmus of Suez, a total distance of 87 miles.

For more than 70 years this canal has been the great artery for waterborne traffic between Europe and Asia, and to northeastern Africa, its use obviating the former necessity of sending ships thousands of miles around the Cape of Good Hope at the southern tip of Africa. At present the canal is closed to all vessels except Allied warships.

The Suez Canal was begun in 1859 and was opened to traffic in 1869. Since that time it has been widened and deepened, so that it now has a minimum depth of about 42 feet and a minimum width at the bottom of nearly 200 feet.

The canal was built by the French, with the cooperation of the khedive of Egypt, but in 1875 the British government bought the khedive's interest, nearly one-half of the total issue of stock, for a little more than 20 million dollars.

Its building was facilitated by several large depressions in the desert of the isthmus, which became lakes when water from the two seas was allowed to flow in. These lakes form about 21 miles of the course of the canal.

In normal times between 5,000 and 6,000 ships pass through the Suez Canal each year, the merchandise averaging around 30 million gross tons.

STICKING TO A JOB

When a man continues in the employment of one company for half a century it speaks well for his efficiency and loyalty, as well as for good treatment on the part of his employer. In few lines of work is this illustrated to a greater extent than in railroading.

This is brought to mind by a recent statement by President J. L. Beven of the Illinois Central, who notes the fact that in the last five years no less than 183 gold passes have been issued to veterans in his company's service who have completed fifty years with the railroad.

Many of these veterans have risen from the lowest ranks to become important executives of the road. Mr. Beven himself began as a freight office messenger in 1900, when only 12 years old, and was promoted through positions of increasing responsibility until he was elevated to the presidency in 1938. He succeeded L. A. Downs, who also rose from the ranks, beginning as a rodmann with an engineering crew.

All this suggests the possibilities for success which lie before a young American who will make up his mind about what he wants to do, who is willing to begin at the bottom—and stick to the job.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Within a short time it is likely that the Library of Congress in Washington will become the greatest in the world, if it is not so already. In the number of printed books it is surpassed by the public library in Leningrad, Russia, but it has many more treasures in the way of maps, charts, music and pictures of every description.

The Library of Congress was established in 1800, but destroyed when the British burned the capitol in 1814. It was started again by the purchase by Congress of ex-President Thomas Jefferson's private library of 6,760 volumes for $23,950.

Additions were made from time to time, but another fire in 1851 destroyed about 35,000 volumes. This loss was again replenished through purchase and donations until the library now has more than 4,447,000 volumes, more than a million maps, charts and views, more than a million pieces of music, and half a million photographs, prints, engravings and lithographs. The growth of the library has been greatly hastened by the operation of the law which requires copies of all copyrighted books and other materials to be deposited there.

Priceless treasures in the way of rare books and manuscripts gathered from all parts of the world are included in the collection, housed in the largest and most magnificent library building in the world, with a floor space of more than 14 acres. In it are kept the originals of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, with thousands of other historical documents.

The Library of Congress is open to the public every day in the year except Fourth of July and Christmas, and is visited by many thousands annually.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

Elimination of small rural school houses which have outlived their day and the development of larger schools that may be made real centers of community life is recommended by practically all progressive educators.

The old one-room schoolhouse served well in the period when sparse settlements and lack of good roads prevented the assembling of more than a few pupils in any one place for instruction. If it did not serve well, it at least was the best means available for its purpose.

Much progress already has been made in the direction of consolidated schools, but the movement has not everywhere kept pace with the need for better planned instruction. Educators believe that all small rural schools might well be eliminated in districts where good roads make transportation of pupils for longer distances practicable.

Where this is not feasible for all pupils, it is suggested that those of the sixth grade and above should be transported to the larger schools, which should be made community centers. In no other way will it be possible to give farm children an education comparable with that enjoyed by those of the towns and cities—and all children should have equal opportunities so far as it is possible to provide them.

The traditional "little red schoolhouse" was a great institution in its day, but it is rapidly giving way to the more efficient consolidated school, by which the cause of education is being steadily advanced.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist, Director of Adult Education, UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

"How much longer before the cost of living starts going up?" seems to be an important question in the minds of many thrifty housewives. They are asking themselves if we are not in for a period of "war inflation" in the near future, which will mean much higher food, housing, and clothing costs.

Two important forces are at present combining to keep prices down. First, the bounteous supply, and second, the depression of most of the commodity markets by adverse war news.

As long as supplies of goods are in excess of the demand, no sharp increase in prices may be looked for. With wheat selling at 77c a bushel, flour around $6.00 a barrel, corn, 60c a bushel, and hogs, about $5.50 a hundredweight, and butter and eggs near their year's low, it is difficult to see any sharp rise in food costs for some time.

Clothing presents a rather mixed picture. The price of cotton goods should not go up much, with cotton selling at ten cents a pound, but woolen prices may be in for a fairly good rise. The government is already in the market for a million yards of woolen cloth for new army uniforms. This action, coupled with the fact that some of the great woolen-producing areas have been affected by the war, should send woolen clothing prices up some.

New private home building is speeding along at a good pace. Many government low cost housing projects are under way which will greatly increase the supply of new houses. It looks like the supply of houses will be much greater than a year ago. How, in the fact of this, can we look for a large increase in rents?

These factors do not point to radically higher prices. If the war continues for some time, and we must feed much of war-torn Europe, then it seems to me we may look for a slow, steady rise in most prices. But as for inflation, No!

TIMELY TOPICS

When presented with a medal for saving a young woman from drowning last summer, Elmer Cotich of Rochester, N. Y., accepted it, but said he thought he had been rewarded sufficiently already. "I got my prize three months ago," he declared, explaining that the girl whose life he saved had become Mrs. Cotich.

Not that it matters especially but a biographer of General Pershing relates that the leader of the A. E. F. is a descendant of Frederick Pfoersch, a native of Alsace, who changed his name to Pershing after coming to America many years ago.

Rust has caused a lot of farmers to make a bust of farming—proper care of farm machinery pays.

A lot of farmers would make a better living if they had less land and farmed it better.

PROFESSIONAL DISTRESS

NERVE STRAIN—MENTAL ANGUISH

Doctors and their social duties sometimes have a hard time making connections, and often are the despair of their family and friends.

It may not be generally thought that the modern Doctor takes the case of the patient as much to heart as the old family physician, but those who live close to Doctors will tell you a different story. The Physician who tries to divert his mind, or fulfill social obligations, with a seriously ill patient in his thoughts, is a very absent-minded theatre companion or bridge partner.

The Doctor expecting a momentary summons, is not free from mental strain or wakeful nights. When he finds the case beyond human or scientific help, only the immediate family grieves more than the Doctor. Of course it is up to the Doctor not to show distress, and to keep nerve strain under leash, but modern physicians take their profession seriously, and want just as sincerely to make and keep you well as the old-fashioned general practitioner.

SHEEP

Have you treated your sheep for worms this summer? You will find it profitable to do so. A solution of copper sulphate and nicotine sulphate when properly prepared and administered is as efficient as the blue stone solution for the elimination of stomach worms in sheep and has the advantage of a fair degree of efficiency in expelling tape worms. This combined treatment is recommended where sheep are suffering from both stomach worms and tape worms. For the combined copper sulphate and nicotine sulphate treatment first dissolve 1/4-lb of powdered crystals of copper sulphate (bluestone) in one pint of boiling water then add enough cold water to make three gallons of the solution, add to this solution 3 ounces of nicotine sulphate, commonly known as Black Leaf 40 and thoroughly mix. This makes approximately a one-percent solution and is enough to dose 100 adult sheep. It is not necessary to treat lambs that you will put on the market with the next week or so. Any lambs that are not ready for market by the middle of July should be treated when they are three months old then monthly until sold. Adult sheep should be drenched with 3 to 4 ounces of the combined solution each month until November 1. Lambs from 2 to 6 months of age should be treated with 1 to 2 ounces of the solution monthly. Lambs six months to one year of age from 2 to 3 ounces of the solution monthly. Best results are obtained when food and water are kept away from the sheep for at least 12 hours before and 4 hours after treatment. A good plan is to put the sheep up at night and give the treatment the next morning and give them no water or food until noon. Call at the County Agent's office for Circular No. 152 which gives full details of worming sheep.

Checking 1940 Crops to Start Soon

The checking of compliances of the 1940 crops under the Agricultural Conservation Program is to start next week. Mr. Ralph Fisher from the State office is in the county today schooling the local supervisors. The local supervisors that are taking the training are: Harold Hutchison, Hugh Garrison, Jr., Floyd Putman, Arlie Batts, Samuel E. Holly, Homer Weatherspoon, Edward B. Wiley, George M. Davis, Eugene Douglas, James G. Browder, Avery McIntyre and J. C. Bondurant.

Good cooperation of the farmers will make checking compliances much quicker and with more satisfaction. Be sure that someone that is familiar with the farm and divisions of the crops go with the supervisor so that the exact information concerning the crops and crop divisions. See that the supervisor goes to all parts of the farm and sees the boundary line of all fields on the farm. This will help to prevent errors.

FULTON HOSPITAL

Dr. R. L. Eushart remains about the same.

Kensel Bruner is improving after an appendix operation.

Mrs. Geo. Grafton underwent an appendix operation Tuesday night.

Miss Dorothy Reed is improving after an appendectomy.

M. Cunningham of Clinton, who was injured in an automobile accident recently, is better.

Ray O. D. Clark, Crutchfield, Route 1, who was given treatment for injuries received in a saw mill accident, was dismissed Wednesday.

Mrs. Florine Russell had an appendix operation Monday and is doing fine.

Mrs. E. C. Sosebee was dismissed Monday.

The law-enforcement agencies in a community should be vitally interested in the prevention of automobile or traffic accidents. Traffic accidents cost money. Every community must conclude eventually that more lives are lost, more persons are injured, and more property is destroyed by automobile accidents—yes, as a matter of fact, more than by criminal activities and fires combined.

The amount of money our cities pay to prevent accidents is but a fraction of the amount they expend to fight crime or to maintain their fire departments.

Citizens should get behind their police departments to help them prevent traffic accidents and insist that the courts enforce the laws on the statute books. Traffic accidents are the most pressing problem of the police today, and our police departments deserve the support of right-driving and right-thinking people.

After inheriting $1,000,000 from an uncle, Samuel Cocks, a painter of Oceanside, L. I., said he would not give up his trade, but would acquire a motor and a chauffeur to drive him to and from work.

A picnic was planned for the club members, their families and visitors to be held at Palestine school Saturday night, June 29.

Mrs. Clarence Caldwell was elected delegate to Homemaker's Camp at Columbus Park July 1-5, with Mrs. A. M. Browder as alternate. Mrs. Gus Browder gave the report of the nominating committee and the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Roy Bard; vice-president, Mrs. C. L. Drysdale; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Morgan Davidson; and Program Conductor, Mrs. Homer Weatherspoon. A very interesting review of the years work on "Food and Vitamins" was led by Mrs. Ethel Browder. Mrs. Robert Thompson led the discussion of "Better Speech."

The social hour consisted of games and contests. Refreshments were served to the following members and one visitor:

Mrs. C. L. Drysdale, Mrs. Lewis Thompson, Mrs. Ed Thompson, Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. Mattie Grissom, Mrs. Meletus Brown, Mrs. Clarence Caldwell, Mrs. Gus Browder, Mrs. Homer Weatherspoon, Mrs. Clyde Burnette, Mrs. Morgan Davidson, Mrs. Ethel Browder, Mrs. A. M. Browder, Mrs. Roy Bard and Miss Ruth Browder.

UNION PRESBYTERIAN MEETINGS

The Ladies' Aid of Union Cumberland Church met in all-day session Wednesday, June 19, at the home of Mrs. Henry Walkers, with seventeen regular members and three visitors present.

The meeting, presided over by the chairman, Mrs. J. C. Lawson, was opened with a devotional taken from Malachi 3:5-7, which was given by Mrs. Daisie Pondurant, followed by a song, "Love and Help Each Other." After the reading of the minutes by Miss Clarice Bondurant, other routine business was transacted. A display of various articles were sold to the highest bidder, Mrs. Della Lawson and Mrs. Herbert Howell.

The meeting was closed with prayer and turned over to Mrs. C. R. Burnett, president of the Missionary Society. The meeting was opened with a song, "I Gave My Life for Thee," followed with a prayer by Mrs. Lucie Burnett. Mrs. J. C. Sugg gave a beautiful and timely devotional. Her theme was "Future Rewards."

Mrs. C. R. Burnett, leader, gave a most instructive and interesting message on "Rewards of Service." She was assisted by Mrs. Elbert Bondurant. Her subject was "The Four Goals of Life." A solo, "Is My Master Satisfied With Me?" was sung by Mrs. Sugg, followed with prayer by Mrs. J. C. Lawson. The business hour was conducted with roll call and reading of minutes by Mrs. Elbert Bondurant. The meeting was closed with wayside prayer.

Others attending were Mesdames Tom Bellow, Clyde Burnett, J. B. Inman, Anna Sizman, Burnie Stallins, Tom Stallins, Henry Walker, Myatt Johnson, and Misses Myrtle Burnett, Jeanette Inman and Marie Bellow.

A story illustrating the dislike of Efrim Zimbalist, noted violinist, for social functions is being told. Asked to play for a fashionable musicale, he placed his fee at $5,000, but when the hostess told him he would not be expected to mingle with the guests he reduced it to $1,000.

Vernon Gomez, veteran pitching ace of the Yankees, is a bit absent minded. The story is told that once when pitching against Cleveland he was warned that Averill was on a batting rampage. At the beginning of the second inning Gomez asked Catcher Dickey to be sure to tell him when Averill came to bat. "You struck him out in the first inning," said Dickey.

In applying for a divorce, Mrs. Paul Costello of New York City stated: "My husband was selected to judge a bathing beauty contest and now he never comes home."

Kentucky Brewers Appoint Chairmen

Louisville — (Special)—Permanent district chairmen have been named for four of the ten district committees of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors committee, State Director Frank E. Daugherty announced today. Organizational work in the remaining six is under way and Director Daugherty plans immediate trips to complete the setups of the State groups and add momentum to the Committee's announced "clean up or close up" program. The program is designed to eliminate a small number of Kentucky retail beer outlets that are operating illegally and attracting unfavorable criticism to the State's $20,000,000 legalized beer industry.

Meetings were held recently in Paducah, Bowling Green, Louisville and Newport and the following chairmen elected: Paducah, First District, W. B. Chittenden; Bowling Green, Third District, C. J. Meredith; Louisville, Fifth District, John J. Martin and Newport, Sixth District, Arthur Menne.

Meetings are to be held shortly in Lexington, Lebanon, Owensboro, Ashland, Whitesburg and Harlan the State Director said.

The support and cooperation of Louisville and Jefferson County officials was assured Director Daugherty at a recent meeting in Louisville. Mayor Joseph D. Scholtz, County Judge Mark Beauchamp, Safety Director Sam McMeekin and Alcoholic Beverage Administrator Virgil P. Lynch expressed pleasure at the introduction of the Committee's self-regulatory program in Kentucky and praised the plan. They promised aid to Director Daugherty in the permanent campaign.

Reports on more than 100 outlets have reached the Director's desk.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY Gordon Wilson, Ph.D.
WESTERN KENTUCKY
TEACHERS COLLEGE
BOWLING GREEN, KY.

CHILDREN'S SUPERSTITIONS

In my files are several sheets of superstitions written out for me by a little ten-year-old girl who belongs to one of the very best families in western Kentucky. When she gave them to me, she laughingly indicated that she did not believe all of them. There is about the whole list something so childlike and so genuine that I regard it as a real find. It would be impossible and even unkind for me to reproduce her naive sentences and still more naive spelling, but they form almost the best part of the document. She told me that many of her friends believed these superstitions, too; many of them are labeled as emanating from certain of her friends. I feel that in reviewing her artless little document I will be showing a fairly typical group of living superstitions. Some of them are very common and well-known everywhere. For instance, there is the one about it being bad luck to see the new moon over the left shoulder or through branches of trees. Others concern the bad or good luck attached to having a cat cross your path, white for good luck, black for bad luck. The little girl told me that she knew a lot more of this type.

The little girl told me that she list is "stamping," that is, spitting on one's right thumb and stamping the palm of the left hand for good luck. You stamp for a one-lighted car or for the tenth straw hat on a given day. Very similar is the one that says that if you kiss your knee three times after seeing a one-lighted car and make a wish, it will come true. Horse shoes are lucky, of course, but this method of assuring good luck is new to me: Hold the horse shoe over your left shoulder with your right hand and spit through it three times.

Here are two good luck-wish signs that are distinctive: Take off the rings of twelve people and turn them; make a wish while turning the twelfth, and it will come true. When you see a star fall, make a wish before the glow fades, and it will come true. I suppose that one has to be loaded with wishes to respond so suddenly to a meteor.

Another one that seems rare to me concerns the good luck attendant upon putting on your clothes without being aware of doing so. I suppose this would apply to stockings; if so, I should have been in continuous luck when I was a boy, for it was almost a daily occurrence. One boy I knew wore his stockings right side out one day and wrong side the next; you could tell how far he had come from Saturday night without even consulting a calendar.

These little superstitions are good indicators of how child and primitive minds work and show that all around us there is still a feeling for luck signs and similar things. Every community has its own versions of these and other signs, and, as Dr. C. H. Jagers has shown in his thesis on SUPERSTITIONS OF JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS, the presence of absence of superstition is not corrected with one's immediate background. Some of the most superstitious people are from the best and most independent homes; some of the least superstitious come from ordinary or even poor homes.

soil-building credit for each 200 linear feet of properly constructed terrace, which is one of the most effective means of controlling erosion.

Farmers in 38 counties built 555,900 feet of these erosion control terraces in cooperation with the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program.

MODERN FARM MACHINERY NEEDS GOOD OIL AND GREASE

The introduction of rubber tires and higher speeds of operation on farm machines has increased the farmer's dependence on good grades of oil and grease, according to E. K. Rambo of the U-T Agricultural Engineering Department. In order to get maximum service and performance from a machine, the manufacturer's instructions on greases and oils should be followed closely, he said.

Although the gears on a mower or binder may operate in an oil bath some wear still takes place. This oil should be drained as recommended by the manufacturer and the gear box flushed with kerosene or distillate to remove the small metal particles which are constantly accumulating.

If the oil drained from a mower, tractor crankcase or automobile crankcase is allowed to stand in a clean, deep container for about 10 days the metal filings, water, grit, etc., will settle to the bottom. By pouring the oil off the top and straining it through two or three thicknesses of cheese cloth most of the remaining light, gritty particles can be removed. This oil may be used to refill the oil bath cleaner on the tractor, or in the "Squirt Can" for lubricating bearings which require light oils, Rambo said.

All containers or funnels used in the handling of motor oils or fuels should be thoroughly cleaned before use. When oil or fuel is poured through the funnel a gritty film is floated off by the liquid. In the fuel tank it may clog the strainers in the fuel line or the jets at the carburetor. If it goes into the crankcase, it will act as a grinding compound on the bearings, bushings, pistons, and cylinder walls.

It is impossible to clean the grit from a funnel with a gritty rag. Use a clean, dry rag or a clean rag saturated in gasoline, kerosene, or fuel oil. Care should be taken in using a grease that is free from grit and not too heavy for proper lubrication. When extra heavy greases are used the fittings and tubes conducting the grease to the bearing surface may become clogged. This is often the case on such machines as disc harrows.

Wholesome milk is a first aid to health.

Hens and cows are rainy-day cash registers.

June is dairy month but the well supplied table has 365 dairy days. Keep pastures clipped or grazed down to 4 inches or shorter. Tall grasses and clovers are woody and unpalatable.

More than six million farmers, operating 82 percent of the cropland of the United States, are participating in the 1940 AAA Farm program.

Over 3,600 Tennessee sheep growers marketed 595,944 pounds of wool through 12 cooperative sales in May for a price which averaged 3 1/2 cents per pound above that being paid on the open market.

An enlightening announcement is the one that Rural Electrification Administration would allot six million dollars to Tennessee, which should make possible the furnishing of electric current to 32,000 additional farm homes.

It's just a short time until two important short courses for Tennessee farm folks take place. They are the State 4-H Club Short Course, August 5-10, and the Farm Women's Short Course, August 26-31. Both will be held on the University of Tennessee Campus, Knoxville.

ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU SEE RED

A Justice of the New York State Supreme Court rules that it is not libelous to call an American a Communist. He points out that, while the Communist party "actually has its roots in foreign lands" and while its members "have potentially obligated themselves even to overthrow our government by force and violence," the party still, "under the existing law, may function as a political party."

The decision in question shows how extremely careful Americans are to preserve the democratic rights which individuals and minority groups in this country enjoy. In the case of the Communists, indeed, we lean over backwards to insure protection for an organization that has no respect for and no understanding of the very principles which make its continued existence here possible.

It may not be libelous at the present time to call a person in the United States a Communist—but it strikes us as being about the most insulting "non-libelous" remark that could possibly be addressed to an American citizen!

TERRACING TO CONTROL WATER EROSION URGED

Farmers cooperating in the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program are being urged through county and community committees to increase the construction of terraces this year as a step in diminishing losses of soil fertility from water erosion, the state office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

Surveys indicate that water erosion is the greatest single cause of loss of fertility from Kentucky soils. Estimates for the Nation show that water erosion removes 20 times as large a quantity of plant foods as crops remove, and the loss in Kentucky is high since most of the cropland is rolling and much of it is poorly protected by cover crops.

Information issued to county committeemen of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration points out that terraces may be used both to control erosion on productive soil and as a first step in restoring gullied and infertile soil to productive condition.

According to agricultural engineers terracing is advisable on slopes having an average drop of 12 feet to each hundred feet of horizontal distance if the soil is subject to sheet erosion or gullying at any time and if it hasn't been damaged too much already. It is pointed out, however, that terracing should not be attempted by any farmer until he has obtained information on terracing requirements from his local Agricultural Conservation Association office or from the county agent. ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The surrender of Paris, which was followed almost at once by the collapse of French military resistance, was more than a disaster for the French Republic, more than a great victory for Hitler's incredible war machine. It was a symbol of the catalytic changes that are taking place at a bewildering speed in the world we live in. For Paris, with London, has long been associated in men's minds with freedom—with all that democracy means. And democracy is what Hitler, as he said and wrote time and again, is out to destroy. Paris is—or used to be—a living example of all that Nazism abhors.

Little by little we are coming to realize that this is not a war in the traditional sense. It is, instead, a revolution with the most far-reaching purposes imaginable. There have always been victors and vanquished in war. But, once the peace treaties were drawn, the world went on much as it did before. The victorious powers did not attempt to force a government, a philosophy of life of their own choosing, on the conquered. Few are able to believe that if Hitler wins he will be satisfied with such rewards as financial reparations, the restoration of the pre-war German colonies and similar material gains. For Hitler, as Mein Kampf vividly indicates, is consumed by two ambitions. One is to make the German race master of all Europe and, perhaps, in the fullness of time, the world. The other is to destroy the capitalist system, liberalism in government and democratic process. We have many an object lesson in the countries he has so far taken. In every instance, freedom of press and speech and all rights of protest, have been abrogated 100 per cent. While the forms of local government are permitted to exist, all important decisions and policies are made in Berlin. Revolt of any kind, against Nazi orders is punished with the utmost severity. And racial minorities, especially the Jews, are ruthlessly oppressed.

Men who have had contact with high German circles have lately been describing what they believe a Hitler victory would mean to Europe, and to the balance of the world. They say that the Fuehrer envisions a Germanic Europe in which only the German, the master race, would be permitted to bear arms. A European customs union, completely German controlled, would be established. The smaller nations would disappear, or would exist as mere geographical entities, without power or real meaning. All currencies would be dominated by Germany, and Germany would establish the terms on which trade between peoples could be carried on. The gold standard, of course, would cease to exist. It would be replaced by some sort of a barter system. The "superior" peoples of Europe—the British, the French, the Scandinavians, etc.—would command a high standard of living, while the "inferior" peoples, such as the Slavs, would be much in the position of slaves, performing the hard labor and receiving in return just enough food and clothing and lodging and medical attention to keep them alive and able to work.

So far as this hemisphere is concerned, there are two theories. One is that, after Hitler had consolidated Europe, he would attack the Americas with military force. The other is that he has no such plans—which is what he said in his recent interview with an American news correspondent. The second theory has many authoritative adherents. Hitler, they say, feels that the Americas would have to come to terms with him whether they wished to or not, in order to dispose of their surplus commodities and manufactures abroad. The Americas, he reasons, must have foreign trade—and that necessity would drive them to join in whatever system of commerce he establishes. Our gold—and at the moment we have some 60 per cent of all the world's monetary gold—would be useful only for filling teeth and manufacturing jewelry.

One note of optimism is occasionally sounded. Even if Hitler wins an overwhelming victory in Europe, some hopefuls say, he will not be able to put his plans into effect. This is based on the fact that all the empires won by conquest in the past have invariably collapsed sooner or later of their own weight. Conquered people are not cooperative—a tremendous part of the conqueror's energies grows rich and soft.

So much for speculation. This seems sure—tomorrow's world, no matter who wins this war, will be a vastly different place than the world of today. There will, say the authorities, be famines, depression, constant social and economic upheavals. The future for all nations is far from bright.
