DEMOCRATS TO HOLD CHICAGO CONVENTION

The National Democratic convention will open in Chicago Monday, July 15, when only a majority vote of the 1094 Democratic delegates—548 will be required to nominate a presidential candidate. President Roosevelt is still silent on whether he will stand for third term, but it is believed that he will due to the grave international situation.

Of the 1094 delegates to the convention, Kentucky has 22.

The century-old two-thirds rule was dropped at the 1936 convention in Philadelphia. The vote on this history-making change was unanimous, but there was a fight behind the scenes. The Solid South long had cherished the two-thirds rule for it gave the Democratic stronghold a veto on any prospective candidate. Opposition did not reach the convention floor, however, and the convention adopted the report of its Rules Committee.

Rule Worried Party

For more than 50 years the old rule had worried the party. In 1932 the Roosevelt forces had enough strength to repeal it, but Mr. Roosevelt disapproved forcing it on the convention at that time. He indicated he would favor changing to the majority rule at the next convention. With no rivals for the nomination in 1936, the Roosevelt forces obtained approval of the change.

ALL-STAR 16-JACKSON 4

A third inning rally in which every man on the All-Star team scored, featured the game in Jackson Tuesday night as the Stars defeated the first-place Jackson Generals 16 to 4. Highlight of the 11-run rally was Eddie Urban's homer with the bases loaded.

Score by innings: R H E
All-Stars ..... 0011 410 000—16 12 1
Jackson ..... 010 210 000— 4 9 2
Batteries: All-Stars—Haas, Balser, Spohn and Stewart; Jackson—Callahan, Graves, Gates, Webb and O'Neil.

JACKSON 3—FULTON 1

In the first game of the second half played Wednesday night in Jackson, the Fulton Tigers were defeated 3 to 1. Cuzzo's triple in the first inning, after two men had reached base on walks, accounted for two of the Generals' scores. Fulton's lone score came in the ninth by virtue of two Jackson errors.

Score by innings: R H E
Fulton ..... 000 000 001— 1 2 0
Jackson ..... 201 000 00x— 3 6 3
Batteries: Fulton—Gentry and Fawelek; Jackson—Gaiser and O'Neil.

LODGESTON CLUB MEETING

Lodgeston school house was the scene of the Homemakers Club meeting Monday, July 8, with eleven members attending. Mrs. Reginald Williamson, president, presided over the meeting. She gave an interesting report of her trip to camp. Mrs. T. E. Williamson also attended camp and gave a brief report.

A fish fry was planned for club members, their families and friends to be held Saturday evening, July 27. Following the business meeting plans for a banquet to be held at Lodgeston school house was discussed. A menu was worked out and club members were requested to donate necessary food. The banquet was held Tuesday night, July 9, at seven o'clock and was served to the Young Men's Business Club of Fulton.

The social hour, directed by Mrs. J. R. Powell, consisted of singing club songs.

Those present were: Mesdames H. C. Brown, Henry Walker, Myatt Johnson, J. C. Lawson, J. R. Powell, Charlie Hill, H. P. Roberts, T. E. Williamson, Reginald Williamson, Cecil Burnett, Herbert Howell.

Nothing under the sun is accident.—Lessing.

Your Co-Operation Needed

A Livestock and Poultry Exposition is planned at the Fulton Fair Grounds August 22-24 in connection with the Annual 4-H Fat Hog and Cattle Show and Farm Bureau Picnic.

Local firms and individuals will be asked to cooperate in this worthy program, as money will have to be raised to provide for premiums and the program. Your cooperation is needed. This first livestock and poultry show deserves your support, and it has the backing of the Farm Bureau, Chamber of Commerce and Young Men's Business Club.

A committee will call upon you in interest of this exposition. They will have a letter from the Chamber of Commerce and Young Men's Business Club authorizing the program. All contributions will be used for this worthy purpose. It is being sponsored in interest of the continued development of the Fulton territory along the line of better livestock and poultry.

It is interesting to note that better than $2,500,000 worth of livestock was sold through local stock yards in 1939; more than one-half million dollars worth of poultry and produce was purchased by local dealers; more than three-quarters million dollars paid out of cream to dairy farmers.

So fall in step with this community effort to hold an annual livestock and poultry exposition here. Your help is needed. Give it to the Young Men's Club, or the committee which will call upon you. Only by united effort can this program be put over.

Fulton is proud of its fine rural territory and the livestock, dairy and poultry farms of the vicinity.

COUNTY AGENTS TO HOLD JOINT MEETING IN INTEREST PERISHABLE FARM PRODUCTS

S. V. Foy, county agent of Fulton county, Franklin Yates of Obion county, and Mr. Northington, county agent of Hickman county, will hold a joint meeting at the Fulton High School, Thursday, July 18, in interest of the development of frozen food locker service for the preservation of perishable farm products. This meeting will be conducted under the auspices of the Agricultural Extension Department of Obion, Fulton and Hickman counties. Farmers in this vicinity residing in these three counties are urged to be present.

Rapid expansion of local locker plants which provide refrigerated storage for perishable farm products such as meat, poultry, fruits, and vegetables, is one of the most outstanding recent developments in the field of food distribution and storage. Seldom has any new development created so much interest in its use, influence and future possibilities as has the refrigerated locker—commonly called the cold-storage locker. It may further be described as a safety deposit box kept in a room with a temperature near zero, where families may store frozen food supplies that have been grown at home or purchased in wholesale quantities.

Heaven never helps the men who will not act.—Sophocles.

Advice is like snow; the softer it falls, the longer it dwells upon, and the deeper it sinks into, the mind.—Coleridge.

COUNTY AGENT

Seventy-five Fulton County farmers attended the annual beef cattle tour and picnic on Friday, July 5. A bunch of feeder steers were visited at Lewis Thompson's which the farmers were very much interested in seeing. The next stop was at Ed Thompson's where a herd of breeding cows were toured, we then toured J. T. Lawson's herd where we observed his herd of breeding cattle as well as a bunch of feeder cattle. Our next stop was John Taylor's, there we found a herd of feeders and helpers carrying a high degree of fat. We then had a fish dinner at the cotton gin at Bondurant, Ky. The dinner was prepared by the Western Homemakers club. After dinner an interesting discussion was heard by the group. Those on program were Wayland Rhoads, Professor E. S. Good and E. J. Kilpatrick.

A similar tour will be planned next summer.

Sixty Fulton county 4-H club members went on the educational tour Wednesday. This tour included a visit to the Merit Clothing factory, Pet Milk Plant of Mayfield, and Coca-Cola bottling plant in Paducah; then a picnic lunch was spread at Noble Park and the rest of the day spent in swimming and games.

Supervisors started Monday morning in checking compliance on the 1940 crops. Farmers are requested to give the supervisors the exact information required when they call. All sharecroppers that are connected with a farm must be listed.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

It is time for this country to get into high on an armament program and in the training of an army. The selective training and service bill provides for the mobilization of the nation's strength. It provides that all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 65 shall be drafted into prescribed service. Men between the ages of 21 and 45 shall be liable for training and service in the land and naval forces of the United States. Men between the ages of 45 and 65 shall compose the defense units at home. The bill provides that so long as the country is not at war, each man selected for training and service shall serve for a training period of eight consecutive months. Those who have dependents, or are physically, mentally or morally deficient, will be exempt, under a decree from the president.

With the world war-torn, and the widespread strife caused by propaganda and fifth column activities, it is highly imperative that the United States prepare itself for the struggle that is certain to come. Enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine in this hemisphere is becoming a major problem. Possessions of defeated adversaries of Germany in the West Indies, and the unsettled state of the British Empire, affecting Canada on this continent, are insoluble problems. At the end of the present war we may find on one side the Germans, armed and powerful beyond any other people in the history of mankind, presiding over a lean and impoverished Europe, and on the other side the Americas ill-prepared for conflict, but abounding in living room, in wealth, in food, in all those things which Europe lacks and covets. Could any danger sign be clearer than such a prospect?

Oceans and distances mean nothing in this age of swift transportation and aeroplanes. First came the fall of Czechoslovakia, then Poland; followed by Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium, France, Russia has taken Finland, Bessarabia and other neutral countries. Japan has invaded and gained control in China. Italy is reaching out for greater power in the Mediterranean. Before the war is finished, even Britain may be conquered and her shipyards and fleet, come under German control. Our coastal defenses, and the Canal Zone must be better protected. We need a strong air force; 50,000 planes with 40,000 for the army is the present plan. That means a personnel of 800,000 to 900,000 men, including ground personnel and all the elaborate service back of the actual fight crews. An efficient army cannot consist entirely of an air force. It must have tanks, artillery, special service, infantry and supply. It is estimated that an active force, and trained reserves for the army would require 3,000,000 men, to say nothing of the requirements of a great naval force and a two-ocean navy.

But whatever the requirements may be, now is the time to man our own defenses, for safeguarding our democracy against the gangster-like methods of the warlords of Europe. France and England have suffered, as have other countries, because their political leaders were inclined to disagree among themselves as they fought for political spoils, while Hitler moved onward in his war plans. We do not want that to happen in America. Tell your Congressmen and Senators to support the preparedness program and the compulsory military training. We must be prepared to protect our country if and when the occasion demands it.

"I MOVE WE CLOSE the PATENT OFFICE

...there's
to invent!"

IN 1840 a certain United States Senator introduced in Congress a bill to close the government Patent Office. There was no reason to keep it open, he said, because "we have reached the absolute limit of our inventive capacity; there is nothing more to invent."

Nothing more to invent? In 1840 the telephone had not been invented, nor the automobile, nor radios, nor electric light bulbs, nor electric refrigerators, nor vacuum cleaners, nor washing machines, nor any one of hundreds of items we now use every day.

This strange bit of history has its moral for us. Now and then we hear someone say, "This country has stopped going ahead." The truth is, America will stop going ahead only when Americans stop going ahead.

Millions of Americans are making progress in every field of human endeavor every day. The people of the electric industry and of your own electric company are an example. Through their efforts to improve service and operation, they have helped make it possible for this company to give far better service than we could twelve or fifteen years ago—at about half the cost! The average customer can now use about twice as much electricity as he did then for no more money. Many of our customers are using about four times as much for only twice the cost.

We think this achievement is typical of the work that has made America great. It is also your best guarantee that progress will continue to be made as long as Americans can keep going ahead.

KIDNEY STAGNATION IS WORSE THAN CONSTIPATION!

Because We Treat Constipation at
The Onset, While We Neglect
Our Kidneys Indefinitely

No other organ in your body is of more importance than your kidneys. For in your kidneys there are nine million tubes which must work day and night to filter the fluids and keep the system free from wastes, acids, poisons which, if permitted to remain, may cause serious kidney and bladder troubles.

It is no wonder then that Nature often calls for help to clean out the kidneys. So if you are troubled with Getting-Up-Nights, Leg Pains, Backache, Nervous Headache, Dizziness or Loss of Energy, due to functional kidney disorders, try KIDANS, the famous kidney remedy, which aids Nature to flush out the kidneys, to filter all wastes, to prevent kidney stagnation.

THIS LAND OF OURS

(By Charles A. Williams)
A Militant America

With the rapid advance of modern inventions and the consequent and inherent laziness and selfishness that has followed a civilization which rows on ahead of the development of the citizen moral, we find America facing reform.

It is a reform different from any we have ever had or have ever needed. This reform, if we are able to effect it, must reach from the lowest member of our society to the highest officials of our government.

Our varied classes which go to make up a cosmopolitan republic must each in its different sphere undergo a reawakening.

The farmer and the laborer must realize that business and capital is an integral and necessary part of our society. Business and capital must realize that the farmer and laborer are essential to their existence. Both must see fit to co-operate in this gigantic undertaking to make a militant democracy out of a peace-loving and free people.

Our politicians must realize that sacrifices of their porkbarrels and if necessary political ambitions must be made in order to make our government efficient, just, and vital enough to combat in principle, if not in fact, the militant dictatorships of the world.

We, all of us, must realize that this is a change that is not only necessary, very probably, to our very lives but to retain that freedom which to most of us is as dear as life itself. Indeed freedom must become a watchword and must be valued more highly than any price that could be paid for our votes or demand for our freedom.

More dangerous than all else is the little bits of liberty that we release for what they tell us is emergency or for better government. It is these little seemingly inconsequential things that the demagogues tell us are insignificant that eventually and cancerously eat away our liberty. It is these that are hard to see and it is these that we must see and recognize and stamp out in order to preserve this nation "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The nomination of Wendell Wilkie as the Republican presidential candidate signified a triumph of aggressive public sentiment over machine politics. And, on top of that, it was a political miracle.

Mr. Wilkie has never held public office. Six or seven years ago he was virtually unknown, save in a limited industrial circle. Up to a year or so ago the public at large knew little or nothing about him. A few months before the convention, some of the leading columnists began writing about him, observing that he would make a model candidate but that, unfortunately, his complete lack of influential political backing made his nomination virtually impossible. Major newspapers editorially expressed similar views. Mr. Wilkie was, in other words, the darkest of dark horses, in a field filled with political luminaries long in the public eye. Apparently Mr. Wilkie himself first took suggestions that he might be the candidate, as flattering but rather idle conversation.

When the Wilkie campaign got underway, it was run entirely by amateurs. His name was not entered in any State primaries—though he did receive a very large and purely voluntary write-in vote in some states. No delegate to the convention was really pledged to him. The comparative handful of votes he received on the first ballot came from unpledged delegates who, with the whole field to pick from, considered him the best man. And long before that ballot was polled, it became evident that supposed Dewey and Taft strongholds were cracking fast in favor of Wilkie. Some of the party leaders, finding their influence waning, organized an almost hysterical "stop-Wilkie" movement. It apparently added to his support, and on the third ballot, when Dewey lost heavily, it was clear that Wilkie was to be the man.

The obvious question is, What manner of man is this, who so dramatically licked the GOP bosses to a standstill? And the obvious answer is that he is a very remarkable man indeed. No one doubts his intellectual capacity for the number one U. S. job. A Jeffersonian in political philosophy (he first voted Republican in 1936, when he became convinced the New Deal had abandoned Democratic principles and was moving toward collectivism) he has done a magnificent job of publicizing the issue of the individual versus the state—he is implacably opposed to government going into business competition with its citizens, and to dictatorial government domination of the social and economic life of the nation. But in these days, intellectual capacity is not enough—other talents are needed, and Mr. Wilkie has them too. As William Allen White has written, he is extremely photogenic—he is a big man, jovial in manner, with a shaggy, leonine head. He is quick as they come on his mental feet, and has a highly developed sense of humor. As a speaker and radio platform personality, he is one of the best—many think even better in this regard than President Roosevelt. He has a strong sense of drama, and a great aptitude for the telling phrase. In brief, seasoned political observers feel that he was the only GOP aspirant with the important physical as well as mental attributes needed to battle the strongest Democratic candidate on even terms.

The Republican platform says little and means less. That it is not important—Mr. Wilkie will make the platform himself, and no one in these days pays much attention to the political planks. While he believes in private enterprise, he believes also in strict regulation, and the iron-handed elimination of business abuses. On foreign policy he favors aid to the allies, but is pledged against declaring war. He is especially strong in defense of civil liberties for minorities no less than majorities, and has pointed out that if we are to assure the perpetuation of freedom, we must always protect the liberty of those whose views we abhor no less than those whose views we endorse. He detests fascism, and all that it stands for.

The nomination of Senator McNary of Oregon for second place on the ticket was what the sporting fraternity call a natural. No senator has so strong a following in the West, and in the all-important agricultural states. He is perhaps the ablest parliamentarian in Congress, and is universally popular. His record as minority leader during the GOP's leanest days has been excellent. He is a definite asset to the ticket.

Many experts are saying that the nomination of Mr. Wilkie makes the renomination, by draft if necessary, of President Roosevelt almost certain. Reason is that the Democrats must now put their best foot forward—and the President is their best foot by far. Mr. Wilkie is far too strong a candidate, far too good a speaker, to oppose with a colorless or routine candidate. If these forecasts prove true, and colorful Mr. Roosevelt does run against colorful Mr. Wilkie, it should be one of the most dramatic campaigns in our history.

NEW TAX BILL HITS LOW INCOME GROUPS

Delete Excess Profits Tax;
Boost Consumer Levies

The new tax bill, according to Representative Carlson of Kansas, will take a large part of the aid which Congress has given to agriculture. A study of this bill indicates that it lays heavy hands upon the already hard-pressed farmer.

This bill which would propose to raise $1 billion annually within the next five years, leans heavily upon taxing such consumption goods as automobile tires, tubes, toilet preparations, automobiles, auto parts, radios, refrigerators, firearms, matches, electrical energy, lubricating oils, conveyances, and playing cards, amusements, insurance policies, spirits, beer and tobacco.

In addition, a 50% increase in the gasoline tax raises this tax from 1 cent per gallon to 1½ cents per gallon. This means that the farmers during the coming year will pay $25 million in federal gasoline taxes for off-the-highway uses. The farmers will of course pay the same increased tax as all other consumers upon highway use of gasoline for trucks and autos.

Furthermore, Congress has by "broadening the tax base" reached down and taxed incomes of only $800 a year, or $15.40 per week on single persons and $2,000 per year on married persons. Moreover the main increases in tax rates were applied to those families formerly in the lowest tax brackets. The rate of the increase at the two ends of the tax scale is a direct reversal of the "ability-to-pay" criterion.

Proposed Income Tax Increases*

Income	Increase
$3,000	250.00%
4,000	45.45
5,000	25.00
7,000	23.26

2,000,000	.49
5,000,000	.19

*Married persons with no dependents.

Corporate taxes likewise will be increased under the new bill, but much less steeply. Treasury experts estimate that whereas profits, stamp and excise taxes will yield a total of $383 million or substantially more than one-third of the total, only $205 million will be derived from corporate income taxes. These Treasury experts also estimate that of the $25 million or so expected from "broadening the income tax base," $8 million will be spent in the administration of approximately eight million new returns.

The LaFollette amendment providing an excess profits tax on industry was completely knocked out in conference. Senator LaFollette charged Congress was willing to dip into the pockets of the poor but was unwilling to touch the high profits certain to be realized from the defense program. He denounced the measure as "the most inequitable tax bill enacted by Congress in the last decade."

The Connally amendment, providing that higher taxes be levied in time of war or corporate profits and incomes, was also deleted in conference.

Noel Sargent of the National Association of Manufacturers and other big industry groups testified that the new tax bill would tax capital out of existence while Lee Pressman of the CIO declared his organization was out of sympathy with the provisions of a bill which would derive half the defense revenue from low-income groups. Other Washington opinion was to the effect that more adequate defense revenue could be derived from the taxation of exempt Government securities, from control of runaway prices on defense supplies purchased by the Government, and from a heavy tax on war profiteers as well as from the issuance of notes against the approximately $6 billion gold and silver on which no money has been minted.

FRUIT COMES THROUGH IN WESTERN KENTUCKY

The Purchase region of Western Kentucky is one of the favored fruit producing areas this year. A strawberry crop was sold for nearly a half-million dollars, and prospects are good for a crop of 150,000 to 200,000 bushels of peaches that may add another half-million dollars to the income of the region. The strawberries sold well, and the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington expects a good price for the peaches. The prospects are for a fairly good apple crop over most of Kentucky, the Experiment Station announces.

BLACKBERRIES NOT ATTACKED BY LOCUST

Nothing whatever is wrong with blackberries in locust years, says a statement from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Reports from various parts of Kentucky indicate that some housewives are not serving blackberries and are not preserving them, because this is 17-year locust year. One report is that locust lay eggs in blackberries.

Locust in no way affect berries, declare experts at the college, and this fruit is as good and wholesome during locust years as in any other years. Locust do not lay eggs in blackberries or any other kind of fruit.

A COMMON GOAL

The head of an agricultural organization recently pointed to the virtues of farm marketing cooperation. This, he said, is necessary to successful, profitable farming. And he then said that marketing must be two-fold. It is not enough for farmers to cooperate among themselves—they must also cooperate to the full with our other great economic groups, industry and labor.

The principal farm marketing co-ops have long worked on this theory. And that has been largely responsible for their undoubted success. No one group can stand alone and apart in this country—only when all groups work together toward the attainment of a common goal, can progress for all be assured.

"COMP'NY"

Is it possible that children of today can get such thrills out of company as we did in the country a generation ago? Life was a bit humdrum for the six days that men were supposed to labor or until the late afternoon of the sixth day. Saturday afternoon was supposed to be a sort of half-holiday, which some hard-hearted parents refused to honor. If we went to the store, partly on business and chiefly to gossip, we came home fairly early, for there were sure to be some buggies or wagons driving up to our house from the big road about an hour before sunset. We would take the horses and put them up, doubling up on our own if necessary. If there were boys in the crowd of company, and there usually were, they went with us to drive up the cows and to feed the stock. They compared our ways of doing things with their own, sometimes to our discomfort, but helped in their way, glad to be away from home chores.

Then came supper. Of course, there was a second table, for decorous people like us had no modern foolish notions about children. Just how our mothers could trot out a supper for so many people on such short order remains still one of the mysteries. After the others, usually relatives, had eaten a big hole in things and had dawdled away a lot of time asking each about people we had never heard of, the boys were turned loose among the remnants in abeyance during the onslaught. We did not talk about relatives or anything else; we ate. Somehow, again, there was always enough for us, first or second or third cousins and all.

After supper, while our elders smoked or chewed tobacco and spun yarns, we sat around and listened until Mother would suggest that we boys go into some other room and entertain ourselves. A bit of spirited playing soon gave way to listlessness or near fights. Then we came back to the living room and heard great talk about predestination or the political campaign or the Civil War or "haints." Because of the need of every sort of sleeping place, we were allowed to sit up as long as the yarns went on.

But the longest-winded relative by and by ran down. There were half-hearted attempts to get the crowd started toward bed. The oldest or most select of the company were shown to the front room; the other members, particularly the boys, had to sleep on the floor, giving their beds to women and girls. Pallets were made on the floors, and one by one occupied. What matter if pallets were hard? Filled with the extra food prepared for company and tired from our late hours, we slept on and on, three abed or more, until it was necessary to rouse us out to start breakfast.

Breakfast itself was big enough, but likely to be plain in comparison with the really big event of the visit of company, the Sunday dinner. During the morning we tried to entertain our visitors without violating the usual family regulations about not playing most things on Sunday. I am afraid we often got by with some of the games anyway, for Father was busy entertaining the company and could not be expected to watch every move we made. Long before the big dinner we had become ravenous and wondered whether the clock had stopped. Another indignity was offered when we had to wait until the second table was ready. But what we did to the dinner repaid us for our long wait.

Dinner over, we sat around, telling and retelling some of the yarns that we prized. Not long afterward the guests began getting ready to drive back across the county to their homes and stock; we reluctantly bade them adieu and turned to our own dull chores.

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

We are living in a world of fear and suspicion, brought on by the greedy desires of a few men. Increased defense measures cost money, and we must pay for our protection.

National defense is an economic problem of high proportions. If the Senate passes the House tax bill, two million American citizens who have not paid Federal income taxes heretofore will pay an income tax next year.

The new House bill lowers the personal income tax exemptions from $2500 to $2000 for married persons and from $1000 to $800 for single persons. This means that a single person making $15.40 and a married man with no children making $38.46 a week will pay a Federal income tax.

Not only will the lower income families feel this new tax burden, but people with incomes from $6000 to $100,000 will pay anywhere from 1% to 13% more than they are paying this year.

For five years, the bill would levy a 10% "super-tax" on both individual and corporate incomes.

The following figures will give you an idea of the magnitude of the increase. A married person with no dependents, earning $2500 now pays no Federal income tax, but under the new law he would pay $11.00. If he earned $4000 last year he would have paid $44.00, but under the new law he will pay $70.40. If he earns as much as $10,000, the new law will jump his tax from $415 to $528. Now let's see what it will do to the man who makes a million dollars a year. Under the old law the Federal government takes $679,044, but under the new law it will take $717,583.60 of his million.

Other taxes to be increased will be the gasoline tax, the tax on automobiles and on automobile tires and tubes, radios, electricity, matches, wine, beer and liquor, and many other commodities.

Very few of us will fail to feel the effect of the new taxes.

ARE WE ANY WISER?

There is plenty of criticism of the European democracies for what some consider their astonishing failure to recognize in time the fast-growing military power of the dictator nations, and to prepare for it.

Informed commentators are now asking if we are any wiser. We have the same chance to prepare that England and France had a few years ago. Will we do it, with maximum efficiency and minimum waste—or will we permit red tape and politics to make our defense program ineffective?

What Telephone Dollars
Do For Dixie...

First in your mind, perhaps, the telephone industry's principal contribution to the South is quick, dependable communication.

But Southern Bell is also important as a citizen, as an employer of people, as a payer of taxes, as a purchaser of materials. In 1939 alone, operating expenses amounted to approximately fifty-five million dollars, not including additional millions used for new construction.

To build, operate and maintain this system requires more than twenty-one thousand skilled workers whose annual payroll is approximately thirty million dollars.

These telephone men and women contribute to the business and social welfare of their communities, and of the South. They and their families compose a group of perhaps eighty thousand people who are dependent on this business for their livelihood.

As a tax-payer, the Southern Bell does much toward the support of the local, state and national governments. Total taxes last year exceeded nine and three-quarters million dollars, nearly twenty-seven thousand dollars a day.

The Southern Bell Company is a Southern industry in the fullest sense and its activities form a substantial contribution to the growth and prosperity of the South.
