ROBERT WADLOW DIED MONDAY

Robert Wadlow of Alton, Ill., believed to be the world's tallest man, died at 1:40 a. m. Monday in a hospital in Manistee, Mich., from complications following a foot infection.

Wadlow, who was making a professional appearance at the National Forest Festival, suffered his foot injury July 4. A brace worn on his ankle chafed, and infection set in.

His condition grew steadily worse and physicians gave him a blood transfusion and performed a minor operation on his foot Sunday night.

Wadlow, 22 years old, was 8 feet 9 1/2 inches tall, and weighed 491 pounds while making his last public appearance. His father, mother, two sisters and two brothers were all of normal stature.

He made a public appearance in Fulton on July 4, 1939, attending the Old Car Derby and July 4th Celebration, sponsored by the Young Men's Business Club.

Law Income Farmers Can Secure Farms

The Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Purchase Program will be continued through the 1940-41 fiscal year, to June 30, 1941, in the fifty-one Kentucky counties in which it was in operation last year, it was announced today by Earl Mayhew, state director of Farm Security Administration.

In addition, Mr. Mayhew announced the program would be designated by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, on a basis of the prevalence of tenancy.

The number of loans to be made in each county during the coming 12 months has not been determined, said Mr. Mayhew, adding that the number in each county would be limited by the funds available and the widespread demand throughout the United States for relief of tenancy.

The new loans, as were the old, will be available to qualified tenant farmers and farm laborers who wish to purchase farms of their own, but who cannot secure the necessary credit from private sources, or from any government agency other than Farm Security Administration.

The new Kentucky counties which have been designated for inclusion in the Tenant Purchase Program are: Fayette, Bourbon, Woodford, Montgomery, Oldham, Jefferson, Scott, Boyle, Mercer, Spencer, Fulton, Kenton, Boone, Simpson, Christian, Garrard, Campbell, Marion, Carroll, Hickman, Robertson, Trimble, Larue, Anderson, and Bullitt.

A total of 266 farms have been purchased in Kentucky under this program in the three years in which the Bankhead-Jones Act has been in effect.

Tenant Purchase loans are made to specially qualified tenant farmers or farm workers, who must be residents of the county and show a high standard of farming ability. Preference is given family men under middle age who have had extensive farming experience and who possess sufficient livestock and equipment wholly or nearly free of debt, with which to operate a family-sized farm. The term of the loan is 40 years, with interest at three per cent.

Committees of farmers in the counties must pass on the qualifications of applicants, and may be consulted by prospective borrowers in the selection of farms. Each borrower is expected to recommend the farm he prefers to buy. The farm must be purchased within the county.

"In approving farms for purchase," said Mr. Mayhew, "the committees and the FSA county supervisor must take care to see that the price is strictly in line with the true value and earning capacity of the land. This means that the farm, operating under a farm and home plan supervised by FSA, will produce enough income to pay all costs and give the farm family a reasonable standard of living."

Good signs on our highways are necessary for safe automobile travel.

Uniformity of signs should be the rule. If we do not have uniform signs, many drivers become confused when they cross state lines at night because the types of signs change. Driving habits do not and cannot change at state lines. Yet in apparent disregard of these obvious truths, state after state and city after city cling to their own particular systems of signs and road markings.

The National Conference of Street and Highway Safety, together with the Uniform Traffic Control Committee appointed by the American Association of State Highway Officials, has made great strides toward the adoption of uniform road signs.

Communities which are interested in promoting the use of signs that will conform with those of other states and other communities should consult the work of these two bodies for guidance and advice.

Next week I shall attempt to give some of the high spots in the development of uniform signs.

EXPOSITION TO DRAW EXHIBITORS

Plans are shaping up nicely for the Livestock and Poultry Exposition scheduled to be held at the Fulton Fair Grounds, August 22 to 24, and there is every indication that the show will be the finest exhibition of its kind every staged in this section.

On Thursday, August 22, the annual 4-H Club fat hog and cattle show will be held, in connection with the annual Farm Bureau Picnic. More than 1,500 farmers are expected to attend the picnic. Directors of the Farm Bureau and County Agent Foy have been working on this event for some time.

Attractive premiums will be offered in the 4-H Club show, in the Dairy show and Poultry show, and farmers in this section are urged to get their entries ready for the various events. More than $300 will be given in cash awards, according to the present plans.

As usual this year the 4-H Club show and Farm Bureau Picnic will be arranged by the Farm Bureau and the county and home agents. The dairy and poultry shows are being arranged under the auspices of the Young Men's Business Club, assisted by the Chamber of Commerce.

Aside from the livestock and poultry exhibits plans call for many interesting numbers of entertainment on the program during the three day event. Preliminary plans include an airplane show during which model airplanes will be demonstrated in flight, a mule race, bicycle race, old car race, cowboy show by the Swift Jewel Cowboys and their ponies, a square dance and also swing music, and many other novelty numbers.

Farmers having poultry which they wish to enter in the poultry show, and those having dairy cattle, in either grade or pure bred group, are urged to report to Paul Bushart, at the Fulton County News.

Tax Breaks Mint —Of Pennies

PHILADELPHIA—The national defense tax has taxed the United States mint here to the limit—it's out of pennies.

Supt. Edwin H. Dressel said on Tuesday that "we've shipped out millions of 'em, and if the demand keeps up, we'll have to throw all our resources on pennies 24 hours a day."

The new tax, effective July 1, added to the purchase price of about 40 items and most of the increases were from one to a few cents.

Banks throughout the Nation anticipated the need and stocked up. On June 24, the mint here had 384,130,000 pennies on hand. Tuesday Mr. Dressel said about the only one-cent coins still around were in the pockets of employees.

"They've (the banks—not the employees) taken everything we had in stock," he declared, "and the orders are piling up all the time."

The mint has a penny capacity of 1,400,000 for an eight-hour shift, which means that soon it will be turning out more than 4,200,000 coppers a day when the three shifts are started.

The 4th Medical Troop (Mechanized) is one of the Regular Army units which has been expanded recently. It is attached to the 7th Cavalry Brigade (Mechanized) and is the only medical unit organized and trained to serve the fast moving mechanized cavalry and is now receiving enlistments at Fort Knox for assignment to the troop. The Troop has not yet reached its complete organization but is training additional men of the Medical Department in the duties of this new organization. The specialists required include ambulance and truck drivers, motorcyclists, radio operators, and clerks, in addition to Medical, surgical, dental and sanitary technicians.

AN AARON BURR TRICK

In New York is the 71-story building of the Bank of Manhattan Company, an institution whose history goes back almost to the foundation of the government. It is recalled by a recent writer that the institution resulted from the shrewd trick of a lawyer, who was none other than the notorious Aaron Burr.

At the time the bank was projected the group behind it were "in bad" politically and hence unable to obtain a bank charter. They organized a water company instead, but in drawing the charter Burr added a clause permitting the company to engage in "other necessary business." The other business was construed to include banking and it has been carried on ever since.

The structure in Wall street adjoins the lot formerly occupied by Federal Hall, the first national capitol, where Washington took the oath as President. That tract is now the site of the sub-treasury.

If Aaron Burr and his associates could look upon the scene today they would marvel at the development which has resulted from their clever scheme for obtaining a bank charter.

Burr was the second vice-president of the United States, but was driven from public life in disgrace after he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel forced upon him by Burr.

SPENDING AND SAVING

The problem of spending and saving is as old as civilization, and as scarcely any phase of human conduct do we find greater differences among different persons. It is unfortunate that so few are able to strike a happy medium between stinginess and wastefulness.

The type of spendthrift who wastes inherited money is well known, as is also the lazy, shiftless type who lives from hand to mouth in good times or bad. The industrious worker who literally throws away his earnings is more rare.

An illustration of the latter class is seen in the late author and playwright, Edgar Wallace, who was one of the most prolific and successful writers of all time. In the 23 years before his death he wrote some 150 full length novels and literally thousands of short stories, besides 20 plays. So many of his works had big sales that his income must have been exceedingly large.

He was thought to be a wealthy man, but at his death his estate was found insufficient to pay his debts and his wife was left without means of support. It seems incredible that a man of Wallace's intelligence and tireless energy should have been so short-sighted with respect to his financial affairs.

NEWS ITEMS OF 1776

Items from old newspapers are of interest to many, and here are a few from The Massachusetts Sun, published in Worcester on July 17, 1776, the front page of which was devoted to the Declaration of Independence, then less than two weeks old. A news letter from New York said:

"On Wednesday last the Declaration of Independence was read at the head of each brigade of the Continental Army at or near New York, and everywhere received with loud huzzas and utmost demonstrations of joy. The same evening the equestrian statue of George III was by the sons of freedom laid prostrate in the dirt. The lead where-with this monument was made is to be run into bullets, to assimilate with the brains of our infatuated adversaries, who, to gain a peppercorn, have lost an Empire."

A resolution by the House of Representatives at Watertown requested that people of the colony donate their leaden window weights for the making of bullets.

Among the notices was one stating that there were "a considerable number of prisoners in the town, who are willing to go out to service if proper persons should appear to hire them."

Delinquent subscribers were a problem in those early days, as they have been ever since, it appears from a card from the publisher, who thanked those readers who had paid up, adding: "He begs that such as have not paid him would be so considerate as to think of the great disadvantage it must be to him to have so many small sums in different hands, therefore would now request that they would pay their respective balances, which will greatly oblige their humble servant, Isaiah Thomas."

A good many publishers may still find Mr. Thomas' courteous suggestion quite applicable to present conditions.

NEW STAINLESS STEEL

A recent improvement in the production of stainless steel, the new material which has become so useful in many industries, is found to be of particular value in highway transportation, because it combines the two great essential qualities of strength and light weight. Highway haulers, having found that through the use of this material they can save three-quarters of a ton or more in vehicle weight have been specifying its use for new equipment. For the general public these advances in the design and materials of highway transportation units spell improved service in the delivery of all kinds of products.

Motor transportation has done much for the improvement of our standards of living; yet according to leading authorities in the industry only the threshold has been reached, for in the future lie immeasurable improvements both in highways and in equipment.

According to Roy A. Fruehauf, an executive of the organization which has introduced the new stainless steel commercial trailer to American highways, the trend toward these modern materials will be accelerated rapidly during the next few years, due to the growing need for adequate facilities to meet the expanding requirements of commerce and our preparedness program. Even to the casual traveler on the highways the developments in commercial vehicles are a fascinating indication of our national progress.

THE SPORT OF GLIDING

One of the most thrilling, though not necessarily dangerous, of modern sports is that of gliding, which has become increasingly popular in recent years.

The glider, as is well known, is a light flying machine without motors, whose operator keeps it in the air for varying periods, sometimes several hours, by taking advantage of the natural air currents. The start of the glider from the ground has been thus described:

Ten or 12 men run against the wind with a long rubber cable attached to the glider, while others hold the glider until the cable is stretched, and then let go. The operation is similar to that of getting a kite into the air. The glider is cut loose by the pilot when the desired altitude is reached.

Glider are usually launched from the top of a hill, so that the beginner may take a gradual descent into the valley below. With proper instructions, gliding can be learned with little risk, as the first flights are made at heights of only 10 or 12 feet. At one glider school more than 800 flights were made in a year without injury to a single student.

Besides the attractiveness of gliding as a mere sport, it is a most desirable preliminary to learning the operation of motored airplanes. Some air transport companies require their pilots to have glider licenses in addition to those for the operation of airplanes.

Money Talks

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

American industry starts the second half of this year with factories operating at the highest rate in the past three years. And indications point that by fall our industries will be running at the highest peak in a decade.

This increased industrial activity is, of course, based upon the new defense program. As it now stands, the government contemplates expenditures of $4,500,000,000 on armaments during the fiscal year which began Monday, July 1.

The munitions industry, now in its infancy, will benefit most from this enlarged program. Many observers believe that by the fall of 1941 the American armament industry will be making war equipment at the rate of ten billion dollars per year. Other businesses directly benefiting along with the munition factories will be the producers of aircraft, chemicals, trucks, tanks, machinery and machine tools.

Some indications that industry is already speeding up are the increased movement of iron ore and coal which have been the heaviest in three years. Estimates are that ten million tons of ore were brought down the lakes in June, and four thousand cars of coal are moving daily from the mines of West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and Southern Ohio to Lake Erie ports for shipment up the lakes.

The industrial situation is still dominated by the European scene. Should Great Britain and Germany reach an early agreement and stop fighting, much of the industrial activity in this country would stop. But we may expect no letdown in our defense program until we know whether a lasting peace can be established in Europe.

Continued spending will hold the spotlight for at least a year.

Just a Mere Hint

By IRVIN S. COBB

THIS one has been doing yeoman service for a great many years. But as I have remarked more than once, before now, the age of a story is nothing against it. If it has endured through the generations it must have had merit.

As I heard it first, the scene was a frontier town in the early days. The town had one street and every other building along the street was a saloon with either a dance hall or a gambling room or both, in connection.

It was on a Sunday afternoon, and in the rear room of one of these saloons a poker game was in progress. Around the table sat four cowboys all in their working regalia. The fifth player was a one-eyed professional shark who was working for the house. The further the game progressed the more evident became the fact that everybody present was manipulating the cards.

Finally a middle-aged Westerner with a long grey tobacco-stained mustache rose from his chair to his full stature of six feet, spat a wad of tobacco into a nearby spittoon, reached into his pocket, pulled out this plug, took a fresh chew, put the plug leisurely back into his pocket and drew out a big six-gun and laid it on the table in front of him. Then he cleared his throat and spoke as follows:

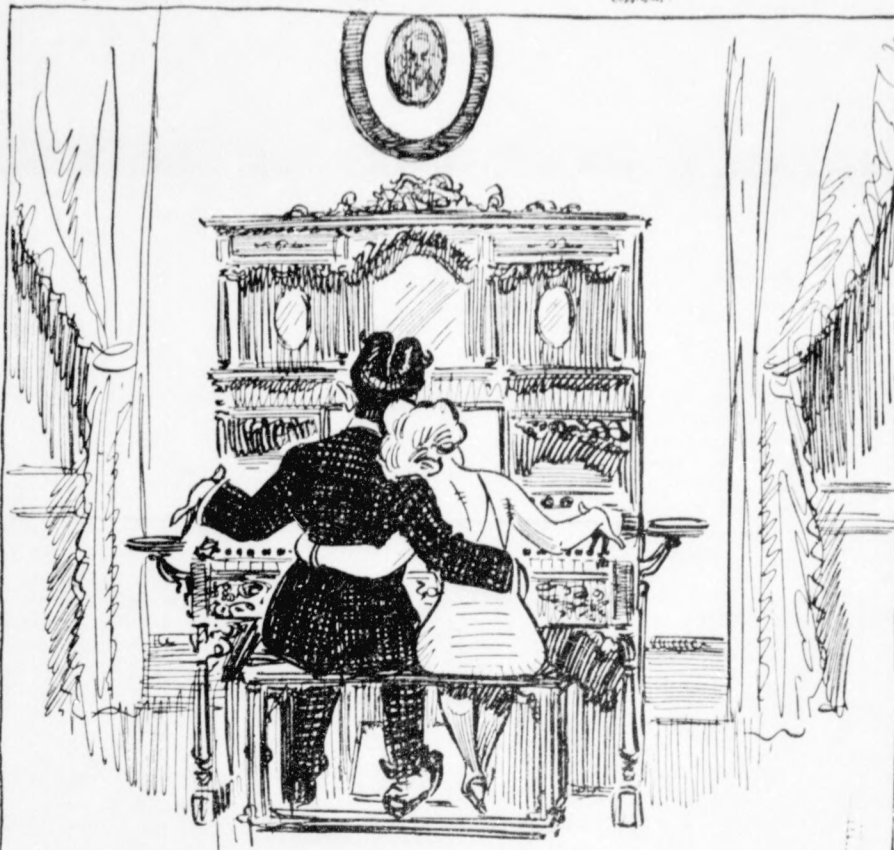

"Well, boys, it's evident no doubt to all of you that there's cheatin' goin' on in this here game."

"Now, boys, I ain't sayin' as to who's doin' this here cheatin' or I ain't mentionin' any names. I ain't even got any suspicions. All I've got to say is this: If the one that's monkeyin' with the deck don't stop it, I'm goin' to shoot the dam scoundrel's other eye out."

Cartel Plan Calls For Monopoly Of American Exports

An All-American Trade Cartel, giving the United States a monopoly over all commerce between the Western Hemisphere and other continents, has been proposed by the Administration for action by Congress. This plan calls for the setting up of an All-American Trade Corporation to buy up all export commodities at pre-arranged prices. It is proposed that a quota system be invoked to control the exports of agricultural products and raw materials—a sort of Hemisphere Triple-A. The Wall Street Journal of June 19 comments, however, "It is thought here that Latin American countries might fear United States control of the agency."

Probable Economic Effects of All-American Cartel

1. Extends the control of the United States over South America and possibly over Canada, thus barring German trade penetration.

2. Increases United States control over an important part of Europe's food supply, thus enhancing our bargaining power against Germany.

3. Expands United States exports of industrial and manufactured products to South America; as usual with the establishment of a cartel, it will encourage the raising of manufactured prices in United States in order to reduce prices on exports to South America.

4. Extends Triple-A control to South America and perhaps eventually to Canada. U. S. farmers will probably be required to reduce the production of cereals, fruits and meats, in order to win the endorsement of South American nations for the plan and enable them to pay for industrial purchases made in the United States.

It is generally agreed that heavy losses would at first be incurred by the corporation since it must buy up all supplies offered for export. Part of this loss would be offset by its monopoly of non-competitive items, such as coffee, sugar and cocoa, the prices of which would be increased.

Another part of the cost would, however, be borne by U. S. farmers who would almost certainly be required to curtail the production of grains, fruits and live stock, so that South American producers would support the cartel.

One difficulty arises out of the fact that all of the Americas have entered into treaties, tariff arrangements, and barter deals with non-American countries. It is proposed, however, that these be terminated as rapidly as possible.

To speed up the adoption of this plan, the Administration is considering proposals to "iron out" Latin American debts—it is estimated that these debt defaults to the United States amount to approximately $1 billion. The Administration is also considering the revival of its $500 million loan program for South America.

Principal Exports of Farm Products by South and Central American Countries, 1938

	To U. S.	Total
Coffee	$133.5	$233.5
Sugar	82.3	115.7
Meats	5.8	126.0
Wool	7.1	92.2
Cotton	1.6	76.5
Hides & Skins	14.9	62.5
Wheat	0.0	61.4
Linseed	15.3	59.6
Corn	0.0	59.3
Nuts, Waxes & Oils	19.6	37.7
Cereals, other	1.2	30.9
Bananas	22.2	28.1
Cacao	16.5	21.7
Fibers	5.6	9.0

Exports of the twenty most important products from South and Central American countries amounted to $1.8 billion in 1938. Of this amount $600 millions were sent to the U. S. and $200 millions represented inter-American trade. Hence the cartel would face the problem of buying up and marketing approximately $1 billion worth of goods.

Government Reports A Bumper Yield

Lower crop acreages and higher yields are the startling achievements of farmers revealed in the 1939 Government Crop Report. From the fewest number of acres harvested under normal weather conditions since the World War, farmers reaped yields

A step toward bigger yields. that were only 1 per cent under the record year of 1938, when more acres were harvested.

Many major factors behind this accomplishment are revealed in personal interviews with 32,000 farmers in 35 States. Better all around farming practices stand out.

Every farmer interviewed in The National Fertilizer Association survey made an estimate based on yields obtained with and without fertilizer.

Kentucky farmers stated they got an increase of 38 per cent on corn; 38 per cent on tobacco; 67 per cent on wheat; and 50 per cent on potatoes.

MASTER MINDS

Last year the "hit of the show" at the New York World Fair was the great railroad exhibit, called "Railroads on Parade." The dramatic critics of leading newspapers no less than the general public, came, saw, and were conquered. This year the exhibit has been further improved and broadened, and again tens of thousands of people will be treated to a vivid, dramatic portrayal of what rail transportation means to our national life.

Even as the rails were the great civilizers of the past, they are the great maintainers of the civilization of the present. They are among our most vital instruments of service in normal, peaceful times. And in these chaotic days of crisis and emergency, their importance becomes all the greater. No one knows what demands the nation may make upon the railroads in days to come, but experts who have studied the situation are certain that those demands will be met—efficiently, economically, and without needless delay.

There is more to a railroad than a collection of locomotives and tracks and stations and cars and yards. These are the tools which, if they are to be effective, must be guided by master minds. And here the American railroads lead all others. There can be no question of the vision, patriotism and creative ability of the men who guide this great industry. The recent statements of Assistant Secretary of War Johnson, in which he praised with qualification the work of the railroads in cooperating with the War Department in defense plans, is a remarkable tribute to railroad efficiency today.

Yes, the railroads are ready—ready for any conceivable need that may come.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

The acridly polite debate recently carried on between the United States and German governments concerning the Monroe Doctrine reveals that this traditional American policy is subject to widely varying interpretations. It is also evident that Hitler is giving the Doctrine an interpretation which was never imagined by President Monroe.

The Monroe Doctrine did not come into existence as a long considered, carefully thought out statement of U. S. Policy. Rather, it was swiftly conceived to meet a condition which, in 1823, menaced the sovereignty of this nation. At that time the three great European states of Russia, Prussia and Austria had formed a "holy alliance" to crush a revolution in Spain, and were casting covetous glances on Spain's many possessions in the Western Hemisphere. In addition, Russia, which then owned Alaska, was attempting to dominate the Northwestern coast of this continent in the interest of her merchant ships. So President Monroe issued an official warning in which he said that the Americas "are henceforth not to be considered as subjects of future colonization by any European powers." In other words, the status quo was to be maintained so far as Europe was concerned. Afterwards, the policy which had been declared to meet the emergency of the moment, became a convenient instrument for protecting American interests in subsequent crises. We invoked it to drive the French from Mexico after the Civil War, to give the U. S. absolute instead of divided control over the Panama Canal, and to force England to come to terms when a border fight arose between Venezuela and British Guiana.

Today it is obvious that the Doctrine is to be used to provide legal grounds for preventing the Axis powers from seizing New World possessions belonging to the Democracies. Germany has met this challenge by asserting that the Doctrine must work two ways if others are expected to observe it—that, in brief, the U. S. must stop interfering with European affairs if Europe is to keep out of the Americas. And here is where the vast difference of interpretations appears. For the Doctrine, as we have always understood and applied it, deals only with physical transfers of territory, not with political activity. We have never used it to deny a European power the right to carry on political or diplomatic work in our sphere of influence. Hitler seems to want to interpret the Doctrine to include "moral Russian" no less than military force.

In addition, high German officials have intimated that they deem it proper to apply a Monroe Doctrine of their own to Central Europe.

They argue they have as much right to do this as we have to apply the original Doctrine throughout the Americas. And again, there is a great difference in interpretation. For we have not used the Doctrine as an excuse for imperial expansion and geographical aggression. We have not believed that it gave us the right to enslave and oppress other people. To the contrary, we argue, we have used it only to protect weaker nations from the possible oppression of potential conquerors.

The President said on July 7th that Europe and Asia should apply the principles of the Monroe Doctrine as a means of reaching agreement on the disposition of possessions of the conquered powers—that all should get together and settle the attendant problems, rather than allow them to be decided by the victor. That looks now like an academic opinion, which will find no favor whatsoever among the swaggering Axis powers.

Germany has said in response to State Department warnings, that inasmuch as she has shown no desire to seize British and French possessions in this hemisphere we have nothing to kick about yet. But Washington authorities feel certain that Germany will make moves in our direction in time, and then the real test of the Monroe Doctrine will come. It cannot be effective unless the 20 Latin American Republics back it up with us. We are working feverishly south of the Rio Grande now in an attempt to bolster our influence there, and enlist both the continents in the crusade to save democracy in this hemisphere.

Business barometers are well up, largely in anticipation of the orders the armament program should soon give industry. So far, appropriations, completed or pending, for military purposes have passed the $10,000,000,000 mark, and will no doubt go much higher. The navy is to be increased by 70 per cent, to give us a two-ocean fleet infinitely superior to anything the world has ever seen before. The army is to be mechanized to the limit. For years to come, we are to be on a war economy basis.

It is highly doubtful if the security markets will long follow the rising production index. Reasonable profits will be severely limited. There is general sentiment in opposition to making war millionaires this time. The tax burden the program will necessarily impose will be almost incredible. The new taxes passed this year are but a modest start. We haven't seen anything yet, for we are starting a defense program under the handicap of a $45,000,000,000 peacetime Federal debt, which far exceeds our World War debt.

A SPIRIT OF UNITY

The ability of the people of these United States to unite in a concentrated effort to obtain a single goal has always been our salvation. A few months ago nothing of this kind was evident. We have always argued and quibbled over domestic matters in times of peace. We will continue so to argue when we have time. However, we have come to realize in recent weeks that time is a priceless luxury. We realize the enormity of our job and that we must have time to accomplish it. Time to accomplish a task greater, I believe, than any we have ever heretofore attempted. To stop a world revolution which seems to gain impetus as time goes on—a revolution that was born at Versailles and with the beginning of the industrial revolution.

To accomplish what we have set out to do we must prove not to others, but to ourselves that ours is a better form of government and way of life. That it is better mentally and morally as well as physically. France's fall was not due to physical inability, but to mental and moral decadence.

Realizing our problem—to rearm physically, mentally and morally we have set about its solution. It is a job that we must pull together on. In that we have started.

In Philadelphia the Republicans nominated a Democrat as their candidate for president. The president, a strong partisan where politics are concerned has named two Republicans to his cabinet. Closer home—at Union City the other night at a Public Welfare dinner, dominated by Democrats, a Republican delivered the principal address.

HOME-GROWN FOODS AND FEED LESSEN WAR EFFECTS

With a large portion of the world at war and faced with the inevitable readjustments that follow, it is important that farm people in Tennessee make themselves as secure as possible by producing as much of their food and feed at home as practical and by being conservative in buying and making costly improvements on credit, states Frank Joyce, assistant economist with the U-T Agricultural Extension Service.

Growing conditions in the wheat belt of this country have been favorable during the last few weeks, Joyce states. The 1940 winter and spring wheat crops, plus a carry-over on July 1, of 288 million bushels of potatoes available for marketing is indicated to be slightly larger than that available a year earlier.

Supplies of fruits for the remainder of the year are expected to be generally smaller than for last year. Domestic demand for fruits should continue stronger than a year earlier. The peach crop is expected to be 15 percent smaller than last year. The apple orchards of this country came through with very little damage from freezes and late frosts. The export demand for fruit is expected to be far below normal this year.

With more cows on farms this year than last, a high record of milk production is expected this summer, Joyce points out. Due to good domestic demand and the favorable storage situation, prices of dairy products are expected to be higher the last half of 1940 than for the same period last year. Due to a smaller hatch this year than last, the volume of poultry and eggs that will be on the market this fall and winter is expected to be smaller than for last year, with resulting favorable reaction on prices. The volume of eggs in storage is about the same as last year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 21, 1940.

The Golden Text is: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." (John 17:3)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I call heaven and earth and all that therein is to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live: that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days." (Deut. 30:19,20.)

IT'S GREAT TO BE AN AMERICAN

It's a grand and glorious feeling to know that you are an American . . . that you are free to think and express your own opinions. That this country is not under the thumb of men like Hitler. All red-blooded Americans are justly proud of their country, and the freedom and liberty that we enjoy.

We were impressed with the fine American spirit that exists in this community as we went around among local business firms and citizens. It was great to realize that they are brother Americans, and are 100 percent for their country and their community.

Under the screen of fifth column activities, and the polite term of subservient elements the full meaning of just what "fifth columnists" really are. Such actions and such individuals partially evades the average loyal American citizen.

The terms are new and do not sound as dangerous or ominous as they should.

Now a fifth columnist is either . . . a traitor . . . or a spy.

If he is an out and out alien in the employ of a foreign government, whose purpose is to learn all that he can of our affairs that will be of value to his country and of harm to our own . . . then he is a spy . . . and in time of war would be shot.

We are still at peace, and so we hope to remain in spite of the fact that more than half the world is blood mad.

But we would be foolish to ignore the danger and the possibility of being involved. To that end we are building our defenses. Such defenses look for and are pointed toward potential enemies in front.

The job of every American citizen is to look not only to the front . . . but to the rear as well. A look at Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France shows the danger of tolerating with closed eyes enemies who wear civilian garb.

The knife in the back as well as a bullet in the heart can kill a nation.

Those who plot, preach and plan the overthrow or crippling of our country are not subversive elements, of fifth columnists . . . such terms are too mild. They are enemies of the vilest types . . . call them what they would be called by any military tribunal . . . which is spy or traitor.

We in the back country, or the less populated areas, are not in as close touch with fifth column activities as those who reside in metropolitan districts. But nevertheless if there is anything underhanded being done against our country in any part of the nation, we are certain to feel it. Americans are organized everywhere to put down undesirable activities.

Thank God for the privilege of having been born and reared in a country of peace-loving and free-thinking people who are not restrained from individual enterprise and progress.

McELVEA SLUGS .413 TO LEAD IN KITTY

Riding the crest of a sensational batting streak, E. F. (Mike) Powers, Bowling Green manager and first sacker looms as a real menace to the Kitty League hitting leadership.

Official figures of games through July 2 show that the former Louisville slugger is in second place with a fine mark of .398, a gain of 32 points during the week.

Frank McElvea, Owensboro first baseman, picked up seven points and retained his lead with a remarkable .413 average. James Cookson, Union City's crack center fielder, lost 12 points and skidded to third place with .382, seven points better than Hugh Wise, Owensboro skipper-manager who was tied with him for second place when the averages were last released.

Others Hit Well
Other hitters with exceptionally high marks include Ed Lanfersieck, Mayfield, .367; James "Popeye" Walker, Hopkinsville, .361; Eddie Urban, Owensboro, .358; James Poole, Fulton, .357; Dick Jones, Jackson, .353; Frank Filchock, Fulton, .352; and Dick Kimble, Mayfield, .350.

Powers continued his terrific slugging to lead in three individual batting departments; two baggers, 32, total bases, 146; and runs batted in, 78. Vincent Mullens, Fulton, has scored the most runs, 62, and has drawn the most walks, 65. Ten triples give Mike Sakovich, Union City, the lead; while Urban heads the home run hitters with 15, getting three during the week. Tony Kvedar, Hopkinsville, who divides the time from the mound and outfield, has 13.

Fulton Tops Teams
Fulton has a single point lead over Owensboro for team swat honors, 299 to 298. Bowling Green and Paducah are fielding at a .950 clip. Bowling Green's great southpaw, Elmer Haas, holds the No. 1 spot among the pitchers. He has won 12 and lost only three for the highest winning percentage and most games on the winning side of the ledger. Averill Spohn, Union City, has a record of 7-2. Jess Webb, Jackson's veteran ace has 10-5. Webb is battling it out with a team mate, Ellis Kinder, for strike-out honors. Kinder has 125 whittings in 122 innings, while Webb has 129 in 129 frames.

FARMERS INVITED TO STUDY TESTS OF THE EXPERIMENT STATION

Three days of "open house" for farmers to inspect the experimental work of the Agricultural Experiment Station are announced by Director Thomas P. Cooper. On August 7, farmers and all other interested persons will be invited to the main Experiment Station at Lexington. August 9 the annual field day will be held at the Western Kentucky Experiment Station at Princeton, and on August 16 there will be a meeting at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand.

At all meetings, visitors will see experimental work with soils, crops, fruit, livestock, other farm products. These will include tests with limestone, phosphate, fertilizers, manure, rotations and other methods of building and maintaining fertility. Also will be seen tests of varieties of clovers, alfalfa, soybeans, grasses and small grains. The breeding of hybrid corn and improved tobacco and other crops will be explained.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has a wide reputation for its improvement work in almost every phase of agricultural production and marketing. Largely as a result of its long and extensive investigations, farmers of Kentucky have used almost a million tons of limestone each year for several years, and are leaders in the use of phosphate. Kentucky also long has been a leader in livestock improvement.

Motor trucks in Kentucky pay 40 percent of the motor vehicle registration fees collected by the state, it is said, and one-third of the state's gasoline tax revenue which totaled $13,834,000 in 1939.

Wilhelm Kunze, acting national leader of the German-American Bund, and two other bund leaders, were arrested on July 4th in New Jersey, where they were charged with inciting "hatred" at a mass meeting. The American people are becoming more determined in their efforts to stop "foreign" organizations from unpatriotic activities in this country.

"RETONGA GOT ME OUT OF BED," SHE STATES

Mrs. McDaniel Gains 20 Pounds and Feels Strong And Well Again. Gives Facts To Public.

One remarkable statement after another praising Retonga, continues to pour in as more well-known men and women put this celebrated roots, herbs, and barks preparation to tests on long standing cases. Mrs. Georgia McDaniel, respected resident of 4324 Louisville Ave., Louisville, is among the latest to express her heartfelt gratitude to this famous medicine.

"For eighteen years I have never been entirely well," declares Mrs. McDaniel. "I suffered from sour indigestion and gas bloating that would almost stop my breath. I had frightful headaches that put me right to bed. Frequent bilious dizziness made me feel so weak and sick that the children had to do the housework for me. I would lie awake until I was so nervous I wanted to scream. Finally I got in such bad condition I was down in bed for three solid months.

"Retonga got me out of bed in a short time and now I can hardly realize there was ever anything wrong with me. The acid indigestion and frightful headaches have entirely disappeared. I am never bilious and dizzy and I have regained strength and twenty pounds in weight. I would not take a thousand dollars for what Retonga has done for me."

Attorney General OK's "Beer Shut-Off" Plan

QUESTION: "Is it legally permissible, under the laws of Kentucky, for beer distributors to unite by agreement of understanding with each other to withhold the sale of beer from persons selling at retail who are violating the liquor laws, or any other laws of the state?"

ANSWER: "There is no restriction in either the constitution or the Kentucky Statutes prohibiting the making of the kind of agreement referred to in the above question."—(signed) Jesse K. Lewis, Asst. Attorney General.

APPROVAL: "I have read and approve the above opinion, and will add that, in my opinion, the proposed form of agreement is valid and enforceable."—(signed) Hubert Meredith, Attorney General.

This is official approval of the policy of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee to shut off the supply of beer to those few retail outlets in the state that violate the law, outrage public decency, and bring discredit to an industry which pours into the treasury of this state more than $1,000,000 in taxes each year.

A majority of the legitimate beer wholesalers and distributors are working in full cooperation with the Committee. They pledge their support of the shut-off plan wherever conditions justify such action.

That the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee means business is evidenced by the following

On June 26, at the request of the Committee, a Rowan County roadhouse, scene of a fatal shooting, was closed up and its beer permit cancelled.

Since organization on May 26, the Committee has investigated more than 125 retail beer outlets, and has warned 17 of these to eliminate unwholesome conditions in violation of public decency and morals and the beer control laws of Kentucky.

The Committee invites every clear-thinking, civic-minded Kentuckian to add additional authority to its efforts by patronizing only those retail outlets in which the conditions surrounding the sale of beer are as wholesome as the beverage itself.

THE FRONT PORCH

Recently I made another trip into the mountains and rejoiced to see in their untouched purity some of the institutions that other parts of the state are rapidly losing. Nothing clings to my memory of the trip more than the front porches of the simpler homes. A house without a porch was rare indeed. Since space is at a great premium in small houses with good-sized families occupying them, nearly all of the front porches had their own uses as storerooms. Many a household article was plainly visible as I drove along, things hanging up on nails or pegs or sitting against the wall. Even things up under the joists sometimes were in sight. I know the type of thing put on the joists so well that a small handle protruding told me at once that here was a butcher knife or a tobacco knife. That large lump back in the shadows was probably a whetstone. In the midst of the things often sat men or women, doing their work. Some of them were bottoming chairs, others were weaving baskets, and others were churning or shelling beans for dinner. All of this tied up in my mind with other times and reminded me of what I had personally experienced or had read of.

In many places I saw people sitting out in the yard, another passing institution in many parts of the state. Those people were cutting apples to dry or were peeling other fruit to be canned indoors. I observed that nearly every yard had one or more visitors, who were probably offering bits of neighborhood gossip to while away the time for those who were working. Again small houses sometime lacked room for all the things that need to be done. Out under the maple tree or in the shade of the house is as good a place as any and a time-honored one to carry on the work of the farm home.

More room is not the only reason behind sitting on the porch and in the yard. Here is greater freedom: floors are not so easily soiled, one can chew his tobacco more readily, and the people who pass along the big road can be seen and greeted. Just recently I saw a woman washing right out against the road, when there was a spacious back yard. The constant parade of cars must have kept the back-breaking work from getting monotonous. There is something appealing about these front-porch or side-yard groups. A passer-by can stop without feeling that he is paying a visit, it is easy to drift in or out of the conversation and then be on one's way. If it is fruit that is being worked one can get plenty to eat while regaling the workers with news. If there are plenty of knives, you can offer your services and peel apples or peaches or pears as a sort of friendly lift while you tarry. It is not necessary to have a chair offered you if the people you stop to see are on the porch; you can and will sit on the porch floor and dangle your feet. If I were an artist, I would like to photograph or paint some of these front-porch groups that I have seen recently; they would illustrate home industry, neighborliness, and forethought all in one.

The visiting committee made the following report: 10 bouquets sent, 66 visits, 11 cards, 9 trays, in two months, 95 books read—whole year.

The club will meet August 2 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buren Jones with Mrs. Raymond Norman co-hostess.

ODD CAUSES OF DEATH

While death is not usually an amusing subject, the passing of certain citizens has been attributed to somewhat amusing circumstances, according to a report of the health department of a Southern state.

As certified by local authorities of various counties, these were among the causes of death, according to the official record:

Nervousness from gunshot.
Auto accident, complicated with hookworm.
Fractured skull; contributory, mule.
Auto wreck started it; pneumonia ended it.
Stab wound of chest, inflicted by lady friend.

Hit over head with slop jar.
Leakage of head.
Frightened to death by deputy sheriff.
Rubbed to death by chiropractor.

A new self-powered model of the mechanical cotton picker will be put into mass production early next year, the Rust Brothers announced at the World Fair in New York. By means of this new model, two men working a good field can harvest a bale of cotton in an hour, or "approximately as much as a crew of 100 average pickers."

BOWERS COMMUNITY CLUB

The Bowers Community Club held its regular monthly meeting recently at the South Fulton Gym. Five visitors and about forty members were present.

The morning was spent socially, at noon a delicious lunch was prepared and served to those present. After lunch the meeting was called to order by the president. America was sung by the group. Mr. S. G. Garner of Martin offered prayer.

Mr. Garner presented the two boys that are on the Dairying program. Billie Owens and Henry Finch, were the ones to take part on this program. This demonstration that the boys gave will be very helpful.

In the absence of Miss Tice the club members exchanged Pillow Slip patterns. Five of the members gave a panel discussion of the fall gardens and their good qualities.

"Look at that, Captain. One locomotive hauling seventy carloads of tanks fifty miles an hour."

"That's the mass transportation we must rely on the railroads to furnish for national defense. They alone can provide the mass movements of men and material vital to successful operations."

"Another duty of the railroads is to maintain communications and keep traffic moving behind the lines in coordination with mechanized land and air transport."

"Yes, a tremendous responsibility will rest on the railroads in the development of national defense. They are the one indispensable agency of transportation."

It is plain that the railroads have an important part to play in speeding national defense. Railroad management is competent, and railroad employees know how to run railroads. Whatever is asked of the railroads will be done with credit to themselves and to the nation.

CONGRESS APPROPRIATING $12 BILLIONS FOR ARMAMENTS

Washington, D. C.—In its survey of recent legislation, Farm Research finds that armaments bills totaling $12 billions have already been passed or approved by Congressional committees since the President made his original request in January for $1,832,000,000 for national defense.

The next request on May 17 in which the President issued his call for 50,000 airplanes asked for an appropriation of $1,182,000,000. He also asked for $272,000,000 to be added to this year's budget. This brought the total to $3,286,000,000, but before Congress got through these appropriations had been raised to $3,559,000,000.

To mechanize the Army, the President called for another $750,000,000 on May 29, but the very next day he increased this to $1,000,000,000. Congress raised the amount to $1,706,000,000. Then the Senate passed a measure amounting to $50,000,000 for war relief and the House approved.

Thus the total already approved by both Houses of Congress amounts to $5,315,000,000. Another seven billions have already been approved by appropriate committees and have been marked for rush passage.

Chairman Vinson of the House Committee on Naval Affairs introduced a bill calling for 84 new warships at a cost of $1,000,000,000. The President raised this to $4,000,000,000 and the Committee approved. On June 20 the Army put in its request for $3,000,000,000.

Despite the staggering size of these appropriations, no provision has been made for 50,000 planes or for the compulsory training of the 2,000,000 young people which the President has asked for. Though it was commonly assumed that these 50,000 planes would be paid for out of the $1,182,000,000 defense bill, it actually appropriated only a small part of this sum for airplanes, leaving the item for later action.

1000 CITIES ASK FOR STAMP PLAN; 100 BEING SUPPLIED

At present 100 cities are covered by the Food Stamp Plan, while another 1,000 communities have asked to be included, according to the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.

With farm prices continuing to sag as exports are further curtailed, farmers have been particularly insistent that the Stamp Plan be extended. The amendment to the Relief Bill adding $100,000,000 to the funds of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation was passed by the Senate but later cut in half by the House.

Though complaining about the inadequacy of this amount, Senate conferees yielded, and both sides have now approved the reduced sum.

Congress had already agreed to appropriate $187,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1940. This amount, which is slightly less than the $205,000,000 voted last year had been proposed before the recent breaks occurred in the commodity markets. The additional $50,000,000 just acted upon by Congress will allow little expansion of the stamp program and is inadequate to meet the surplus problem.

By late summer it is estimated that 4,000,000 persons will be under the Stamp Plan, thereby getting an extra 2½ cents worth of surplus food to add to their meals which now average only 5 cents each. Even if the plan were limited to relief families, the FSCC estimates that there are more than 20,000,000 persons eligible for inclusion; and if the plan were extended to all ill-fed, low income families, at least 45,000,000 persons could be included.
