Dresden Bank Robbers Captured

PEOPLES BANK AT DRESDEN ROBBED TUESDAY MORNING

Two Men Hold Up Bookkeeper Conyers Rawls and Hike With Cash.

Another bank robbery. This time it was at Dresden, Tenn., when two bandits entered the Peoples Bank in that little city early Tuesday morning and left with several thousand dollars, overlooking a package containing $5,000 in their quick exit.

Bookkeeper Conyers Rawls was opening the bank for business when the robbers entered through a rear door and covered him with guns. One man kept him covered while the other ransacked the vault and scooped up the cash in sight. They forced Mr. Rawls into the vault and closed the door, leaving for their car parked near the bank. They left Dresden in the direction of Sharon.

The vault door was not locked on Mr. Rawls and he was quickly out and gave the alarm. Officers were notified and were soon in hot pursuit after the robbers.

It is said the men wore handkerchiefs over the lower parts of their faces during the hold-up. They were driving a wine-colored Hudson coupe and acted like old-timers at the "stick-em-up" game.

The two robbers were captured in the "bottoms" south of Greenfield, Tenn., at 6:30 Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriffs E. I. Bullock and Jess Davis of Weakley county, assisted by three citizens, Jim White, Will Roberts and Carl Danner, who joined in the chase. The loot, approximately $5,000, was recovered and the bandits lodged in the county jail at Dresden.

They gave their names as Dick Allin, 27, and John Wallis, 25, both of St. Louis.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The editor of The Advertiser is indeed pleased to note the interest our happy family of readers are taking in the paper and the promptness in which renewal subscriptions are being sent in.

We also appreciate the very splendid co-operation by our correspondents in furnishing the community news. Many of our readers live in distant parts of the country, and every now and then write us that The Advertiser is "just like a letter from home."

Last week we received two letters from Detroit and one from Los Angeles, telling us how they enjoyed reading the "old home" news and how glad they were to get The Advertiser each week.

It is no wonder to us that more of our people here don't send the paper to their friends and relatives. They would if they knew what joy it afforded them. "Just like a letter from home." And you all know what that means when you are far off among strangers, wondering why the folks back home don't write as often as they should.

Make some one happy by sending them The Advertiser for a year. Now is the opportunity time.

SMITH CUTS PRICES

Albert Smith, proprietor of Smith's Cafe, Fulton's popular eating place, has cut prices again. Now he is serving a nice plate lunch for 25c and regular dinner for 40c.

Clinton Youth Killed In Auto Wreck.

Thomas Jackson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Jackson, of Clinton, died in the Curlin-Nell hospital here Tuesday afternoon from injuries sustained in an automobile collision at the intersection of Highway 51 and the Crutchfield road.

William Jackson, uncle of Thomas, who was driving the car in which he was riding, and occupants of the other automobile were not seriously injured. Thomas Jackson sustained a crushed skull.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, James and Jean Jackson.

OUR BIGGEST BUSINESS

Ask the average Fulton man what he considers the nation's biggest business and he probably would say the auto industry. But he would be wrong. It is the postal service of the U. S. It reaches every business concern, every institution, every home and every civilized country on earth. There are 370,000 employees, three times as many as in the standing army of the country, of whom 71,000 are clerks, 53,000 are city letter carriers, 42,000 are rural letter carriers and 49,000 are postmasters. The smallest postoffice is Rosberry, Ark., with receipts of $9 a year, and the largest New York, with receipts of $73,000,000, which is more than double the entire postal business of the Dominion of Canada. It is true that Uncle Sam doesn't make a dollar on this, the biggest of all businesses. But everybody gets value received, and far more, for every penny invested in it, so a business that can do that is a success, even if it does go "in the red" every year.

JUNKING OLD CARS

One good record, at least, was made in 1930. It saw 2,925,000 old, worn-out, rickety, rattling automobiles go to the junk pile. That was about 300,000 more than in 1929, and a record for all time. The high number was reached through a combination drive made by manufacturers and dealers to scrap dilapidated cars taken as trade-ins. In spite of the hard times that made people cling to their old cars they added about 350,000 to the previous number of worn-outs. It has been figured that 17,800,000 automobiles had been scrapped in the U. S. prior to 1930. Taking these "coffe grinders" off the road adds to traveling safety and makes more room. But much is left to be done along this line, according to the American Automobile Association. A year ago it estimated that 8,000,000 cars, worth less than $25 each, were on the highways. Under the plan for junking agreed to by the principal makers the dealer got a small allowance from the manufacturer for each car he had scrapped after a trade-in. The idea of the car makers, of course, was to broaden the replacement market.

Here We Are

Kasnow Continues To Celebrate

L. Kasnow says, "When you have something good for the people, tell 'em about it." So he did in a four page advertisement announcing his 12th Anniversary Celebration. It is a money-saving celebration and his store is crowded with happy shoppers supplying everyday needs.

You know L. Kasnow started in the mercantile business in Fulton twelve years ago in a small way, and by fair and courteous dealings with the public, has grown with each successive year. No store ever grew faster in Fulton—none deserved to. Mr. Kasnow says, "Our policy insured rapid development—the verdict of the people is complimentary. The principles of the business are sound—they made the store—they sustain the store. Buyers are pretty shrewd judges of values. Our store philosophy is manifest in price arguments daily. Just now spring and summer blooms riotously all through the establishment—a comparison of the styles and prices will be mutually helpful. A hearty welcome awaits you. Join the crowd in our 12th year Anniversary Celebration and we will all be happy."

BELOVED WOMAN PASSES AWAY

Friends of Mr. Thomas H. Chapman sincerely sympathize with him in the loss of his mother, who passed away at her home in Uniontown, Ky., Monday at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman left here Sunday for Uniontown and arrived only a short time before Mrs. Chapman's death.

WILL ATTEND NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Miss Alda Henning, Home Demonstration Agent from Fulton county, and Miss Mabel McKinney, Home Demonstration Agent from McCracken county, will spend the week of June 22-27 in Detroit attending the meeting of the National American Home Economics Association.

The man who never makes mistakes is usually to be found taking his order from some other fellow who makes a lot of them.

CANNING MEETINGS

Communities from which requests have been made for use of the county pressure cookers will begin having their organization meetings in this end of the county this week. Boaz Chapel held one Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock; McFadden will hold theirs Friday evening. Seven such meetings have been held in the bottom in the last week. The canners are for everyone in the community, so it is important that people interested in their use attend the meetings, as they will be scheduled in the coming months. For non-acid vegetables, such as corn, peas, string beans, asparagus, they are especially good. One being absolutely sure of proper sterilization in less time since a temperature of 240 degrees is maintained for vegetables.

Later in the season culls and young friers may be canned for winter, which will make a decided change in the poultry feed bill. Beef and pork can be canned, it being possible to care for a whole beef in a day in cookers of this size. This can be worked out co-operatively by a small group of farmers and their wives in any community.

Lesson for June 21

THE SIN OF CAUSING OTHERS TO STUMBLE
(Temperance Lesson)

GOLDEN TEXT—It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak. LESSON TEXT—Romans 14:13-21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping Others (Health Emphasis).
JUNIOR TOPIC—My Responsibility for Others (Health Emphasis).
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abstaining for the Sake of Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Liquor Traffic a Stumbling Block.

This lesson sets forth fraternal duties in matters of conscience. The background for these obligations is found in the fact that there were some in the church at Rome who were very conscientious with reference to eating flesh. Others were without these scruples. They ate what was set before them without question. Then there were some who had particular regard for fast days and holy days, as the Sabbath, etc. There were still others who had made no distinction, regarding every day alike. It is readily seen in this light how differences and disputes would arise. The sure preventive of strife under such circumstances is Christian love and forbearance. The biblical unit embracing this discussion covers chapters 14:1 to 15:13. It will be seen that it is taken from the practical portion of the Epistle. These practical exhortations are based upon the great truths of saving grace set forth in the doctrinal portion of Romans.

I. Neither Party Is to Sit in Judgment Upon the Other (Rom. 14:1-13).
This instruction applies to things in different in themselves. It would be a mistake to apply these principles to such actions as are inherently wrong. Concerning things which are morally indifferent, passing judgment on an other is wrong because:

1. Each man is responsible to God alone (v. 4). Each man belongs to God.
2. Each man must decide for himself what is right for him to do (vv. 5, 6). Touching matters indifferent to themselves, an action which is right for one may be sinful for another.
3. Each man lives not to himself, but unto the Lord (v. 7, 9). The one joined to Jesus Christ is to be governed by the Spirit of Christ.
4. Each man must give an account of himself to God (v. 10, 12).

II. A Stumbling Block Should Not Be Placed in the Way of Another (Rom. 14:14-23).
A properly enlightened Christian may have perfect liberty to act in a given way as far as he himself is concerned, but the exercise of his liberty may become an occasion of stumbling to another. The urgent reasons for abridgment of liberties are:

1. We may destroy the weak brother for whom Christ died (v. 15). If it was worth while for Christ to die for a man surely it is worth while that the Christian should deny himself some privilege for his brother's sake.
2. We should not allow our good to be evil spoken of (v. 16, 18). Liberty in Christ is a precious thing which only love knows how to use. That one is in the Kingdom of God and, therefore, ruled by the Holy Spirit is proved by daily living the love life which is characterized as follows:

- a. Righteousness, honesty and integrity in all things.
- b. Living in peace with each other.
- c. Joy in the Holy Ghost. The Holy Ghost is represented as the "oil of gladness" (Heb. 1:9).

3. We should follow after things that make for peace and edify one another (v. 19). To ignore the conscientious scruples of a weak brother is to destroy the work of God—to pull down the gracious work which God is doing in him.

4. We should exercise our faith in God and abstain from things which offend the weak brother (vv. 21-23).
III. We Should Please Our Neighbor and Not Ourselves (Rom. 15:1-13).
The infirmities of the weak are real burdens which are to be borne by the strong.

1. Because of Christ's example (v. 13). He is our supreme pattern. His supreme thought and purpose was to help and save others.

2. Because of the Scripture testimony (vv. 4-13). The Old Testament Scriptures abound with examples of self-denying sacrifices for the good of others, having their culmination of meaning in the action of Christ.

Trouble Easy to Find
Those who look for troubles will not be long finding trouble to look at. But lift your eyes higher—to him from whom our help cometh. Then you will be able to meet your troubles with an unperturbed spirit.—F. B. Meyer.

Better Breakfasts

If you want to start the day feeling as chirpy as the little birds in the branches outside your window, include plenty of fruit in your breakfast, and lots of milk and cream. In the following suggested menu you can have top milk or cream on your cold cereal, there is a sauce made of milk on the sausages and you can have cream in your hot beverage. Most people prefer this variety of ways to just drinking milk or cream. Here's the menu.

Good Coffee
If you are a lover of coffee and want that for your hot beverage, be sure to select one of the brands that is vacuum packed. These retain all their flavor and aroma, and assure you coffee with a kick. Nothing is flatter than coffee that has been exposed to oxygen, allowing much of the flavor and aroma to escape.

News For Brides

It has long since been proved that canned foods retain their vitamins, since these are destroyed only by heating in the presence of oxygen, and canned foods are all cooked in hermetically sealed cans. But it has remained for Dr. Walter H. Eddy of Teachers College at Columbia University to specify a list of them on which present-day brides can rely to contain adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and G for health needs in her honeymoon "canned menu."

Here are the foods upon which Dr. Eddy stated in a recent address before the American Chemical Society that brides can rely: Canned milk, every day.
Choice of ten meats: Roast beef, corned beef, tongue, potted meat, chicken, lamb stew, corned beef hash, sausage, veal loaf and chicken a la king.

Choice of seventeen vegetables: Spinach, peas, string beans, tomatoes, tomato juice, wax beans, baked beans, beets, corn, lima beans, sweet potatoes, hominy, carrots, okra, turnip greens, Brussels sprouts and mixed vegetables.
Choice of six fruits: Prunes, peaches, apricots, cherries, pine apples, apple sauce.
Canned brown bread and spaghetti.
Dessert: Canned plum pudding.

Based on Scientific Tests
The tests upon which these specific recommendations were made were based on rats. The rat experiments lasted for a year which, Dr. Eddy said, was equivalent to about twenty-five years of human life. All the animals averaged better in weight than those fed on a stock diet, he said.

Guiding Your Children

Bad habits lead children astray. Good habits guide them safely into the path of character, uprightness and independence.

You can start them right by teaching them to save money. Set them an example by saving yourself. Make them admire thrift.

Once started, the saving habit helps to form other good habits. It provides experience for them in handling their own funds.

This start in the right direction is but a simple step. Bring children to the bank when you start them to school.

Route 5 News

Dr. Ingraham and Miss Kuntz, of the Weakley county health unit, came Friday to the home of Mrs. Ocie Yates, where eleven pre-school age children were examined. Quite a number took advantage of the opportunity to get the typhoid inoculation and small pox vaccination.

Welfare Workers' Club Carnival will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Ridgway, Thursday night, June 25. We hope to make the evening both enjoyable and instructive, and would be especially glad to have the ladies of the clubs and their families with us. Everybody invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Pickle and daughter Hattie, of Big Spring, Texas, are visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mollie Jones spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Dean Terrill.

Miss Leonard Johns spent Saturday night with Dorris Finch.

Misses Thelma Golden and Inez Halliday came home from Bethel College, McKinzie, last week. Mr. Maynard Reed also came in from Knoxville, where he finished his third year at the University.

Mrs. Edwin Connor is very sick. She had a congestive chill last Wednesday and is yet in a serious condition, though better.

Mrs. Paul Butts was carried to the hospital at Paducah last Tuesday, for an examination; sent back Wednesday for an operation.

She is still in a critical condition, but seemed better Friday, when her sister, Mrs. Edd Lamb, left her bedside.

Bro. Burket preached Sunday morning at Mt. Moriah. Bro. Wood, of Fulton, in the afternoon. A sumptuous dinner was spread at the noon hour. Everybody enjoyed the two splendid sermons, also the social hour at noon, not to mention the dinner.

A protracted meeting will begin there the second Sunday in July. Bro. Burket will do the preaching.

A protracted meeting will begin at Oak Grove the first Sunday in July, with Brother Hardimon in charge. New song books have been bought and a good singer employed to lead the singing.

Mr. Finch and the writer, with about a dozen others, had the pleasure of looking over Messrs. John and Edwin Coffman's experimental plot of a new perennial lespedeza, Sunday afternoon, also some other experimental projects they have under way. Will have more to say in regard to this subject in the near future.

Mrs. Bertha Etheridge was recently married to a Mr. Welch, at Monroe, La., where they will make their future home.

Wayne Lamb is at home, after five years spent in Asbury College. He is now a full-fledged preacher and will likely spend the summer in protracted meeting work, taking work regularly in the fall.

The drouth seems to be broken, as we had a fine rain last Friday about 10 o'clock and another in the afternoon and at night; again Saturday about noon. There is plenty of water in the ponds; many circle ditches broken, some corn in the bottom lands overflowed, and we are very thankful.

Proved He Was No Pickpocket

By ROSE BENTLEY

ELEANOR saw the broken chain of her bag dangling from the pocket of a smartly tailored green topcoat. Buttoned inside the topcoat was a tall man, who seemed in a hurry. She did not cry out—that was not the Bradley way. She simply left the crowded car and followed the man in the green coat. Eleanor's quick, pattering feet stopped short as the man suddenly paused under a lamppost and whirled about. His right hand thrust into his pocket as if in search of a weapon, and then remained there. His other hand awkwardly went up to remove his hat at sight of the girl lingering timidly near by.

"What have I got to do with it?" "You should be ashamed of yourself!" she cried in sudden indignation. "You know it is in your coat pocket this very moment."

Then his right hand came out of his pocket and with it came Eleanor's pretty beaded bag with the cut and broken chain dangling. His face was a study in angry astonishment. She saw that his gray eyes flashed like steel as he faced her.

"I don't know who you are, madam," he said slowly, "but from what you say you seem to be the owner of this bag. Have you formed any idea of how it came to be in my pocket?"

Eleanor laughed sarcastically. "The car was crowded," she murmured resentfully, "and it was easy for anyone—who wanted to—a pickpocket, I mean—to cut the handle of the bag and put it into the side pocket of his overcoat. And when the owner discovered the loss of the bag, the car was stopping and she saw a man in a green overcoat alighting, and she saw the handle of her bag hanging from his pocket—that is all."

"That is only the beginning," he laughed shortly, "for I did not know the bag was in my pocket until I heard footsteps behind me and turned to see who it was—putting my hand into my pocket as I did so—and voila! The bag!" He put it in her outstretched hand with a little bow. "I hope you will believe me."

"Thank you," murmured Eleanor, longing to flee and very much afraid to in the presence of this cool young criminal.

He stood aside so that she could pass on. They were near the corner, and just around the corner was the pretty row of bungalows where her brother lived. If she could only reach there in safety.

"I am afraid you did not believe my story, after all."

"It was a very—a very nice story, indeed," she assured him, as she hurried away. She did not go far. Before she reached the corner there was the sound of running feet.

The man in the green overcoat was still standing under the lamppost, and coming swiftly upon him from the rear was another man, also in an overcoat that looked green. There was something in his outstretched hand that he pointed at the first man, as he cried hoarsely:

"Give up that bag, see?"

"What bag?" asked the first youth. "The dinky handbag—it's mine—it wasn't meant for you—no foolin'!" The hand that held the weapon descended upon the head of the victim.

Eleanor remembered that there was a police whistle in the pretty bag in her hand, and she blew it shrilly.

The man bending over the prostrate form uttered an oath and dashed across the street and straight into the arms of a policeman, who carried him away to jail. Eleanor told her story in a shaky tone, but she did not mention the matter of the beaded bag, and the prisoner was haled into court on a charge of assault.

The police whistle had summoned all the residents of Green terrace, and among the foremost was Eleanor's brother. He went into the crowd gathered about the unknown man. He helped bring him to consciousness, and when he was once more on his feet, the man in the green overcoat suddenly gripped John Bradley's arm.

"Hello, John Bradley! I was on my way to see you!"

"The dickens you were—is it Roger Lewis? Here, Nellie, this is Captain Lewis. You remember how he saved my life in France? Nellie is my sister—Doctor John hustled his belated and damaged guest toward home, and Eleanor hovered demurely near by. Her thoughts were chaotic. That heroic friend of John's—and she had insulted him—called him a pickpocket!

In the living room Eleanor told her story, and Captain Lewis grinned foolishly as he described his feelings upon finding the strange bag in his pocket. Later in the evening he murmured to Eleanor, "What do you think of my story, Miss Bradley?"

"I still think it was a very good story—a true story, after all."

"Some day—but never mind—that is another story," he muttered, and it was another story indeed—the sweetest story ever told—and she believed that, too!

Community Building

Smaller City Has No Need for "Skyscrapers"

Large cities have carried concentration too far and must begin to think in terms of decentralization, Cass Gilbert, New York architect, recently told the members of the Society of Arts and Sciences when they presented him with the society's gold medal for inaugurating the age of skyscrapers with the Woolworth building. He also intimated that skyscrapers will not last indefinitely.

Discussing the problems of modern cities in relation to skyscrapers, Mr. Gilbert said:

"I doubt if skyscrapers are desirable for small cities, for they reduce property values by drawing tenants from surrounding buildings, just as they do in large cities, only with more serious economic consequences. As to whether the skyscraper, per se, is cause or effect, I have leave that discussion in the competent hands of those who discuss whether the hen or egg came first."

"Transportation is the pulse of urban life. As transportation provides access business will develop. When business develops, then land is valuable. When land is valuable, buildings will arise."

"The architects for 30 years have been advocating the development of city plans adequate for the future which they clearly foresaw. Trained to plan even more than to construct, they clearly foresaw the need, but only recently has the public begun to awaken to that need."

Combine Planned for Promotion of Building

Organization of building congresses, linking architects, builders, bankers and workers, is to be a major aim of the committee on industrial relations of the American Institute of Architects during 1931, according to the annual report of the committee, of which William Orr Lindow, New York architect, is chairman.

Establishment of credit associations for the guidance of the building industry in distinguishing between financially responsible and irresponsible firms is also projected. Holding that "labor's part in building has never been properly recognized," the committee will continue its efforts to secure recognition of superior craftsmanship.

The committee also seeks united action to relieve unemployment and to inform the public of the advantage of building now, while costs are from 15 to 20 per cent below normal.

Modern City Planning

Today we would not be satisfied with a city planned wholly by an engineer; it might be an efficient city, but it would not be beautiful. Beauty is a more important factor in our lives than efficiency, and that applies to radios and automobiles as well as cities and regions.

People buy radios and automobiles for their beauty as well as for their efficiency; people move out of cities, planned for efficiency, into the country because of the beauty of the surroundings. They would rather spend two hours on the train and live in the country than 15 minutes each day and live in the city.

Areas around large cities must provide pleasant places in which to live; and if our citizenry is to develop in a normal way we must see to it that the areas best suited for homes are maintained exclusively for that purpose. The plans should provide for reservations, parks, parkways, zoning and rail transportation.—Exchange.

Garden Worth While

It cannot be denied that plants are what we most desire in a garden, plants arrayed in such a manner that they enhance the design. So it is that we may look to "modernism" in the garden: design in new forms, but with the same old plants. What will these new forms be?

A garden magazine recently published sketches for a garden in the "modern" style, designed for a house in the modern style. An article accompanied the illustration and in this it was explained that there are three principles which make the modern garden essentially different from any ever designed before. These three principles are simplicity, unity and low cost of upkeep.

Effective Campaigning

The time has come to stress roadside beautification as much as safety, as the Pennsylvania Federation of Garden clubs and the Council for the Preservation of Natural Beauty have been doing for a long time. The women of this state deserve every encouragement in their campaign for the elimination of roadside signs and the further beautification of the landscape by planting flowers and trees along our main highways. Organizations of motorists, civic clubs and other groups are also participating in this good work, and their efforts must eventually prevail.—Philadelphia Record.

Preserving Roadside Beauty

Nevada is the only state in the Union having laws regulating the erection of signboards. No permit is issued for signs that will measurably mar the roadside beauty, or obstruct views.

FOR A FULL FOURTH

A FULL Fourth of July means a day full of patriotic fervor and fun, and also a stomach full of the good food which this glorious country, which celebrates on that day its Declaration of Independence, produces in such abundant quantities. We'll leave the firecrackers, fireworks and fiery speeches to you. Make as much noise, and make the Eagle scream as loud as the spirit moves you. But we have some suggestions about the food which is to fill your stomach which should prove of interest to many housewives.

The weather is apt to be hot, so the food must not be heavy. But the day is apt to be hectic, so it must be filling. In the following suggested menu and recipes we have attempted to solve that dual problem in a way that will make this day dietetically as well as historically memorable. Incidentally, these are tested recipes which will "declare freedom" from anxiety concerning the culinary perfection of your Fourth-of-July foods.

Chicken and Vegetable Sandwiches
Cheese and Fig Sandwiches
Deviled Eggs Potato Chips
Watermelon Pickles
Melba Mold
Cocoanut Kisses
Small Iced Cakes
Fruit Nectar
Coffee

Recipes for Menu

Chicken and Vegetable Sandwiches: Cut up one 6-ounce can chicken, add one 8-ounce can peas, one-fourth cup chopped celery and one-fourth cup chopped onion. Spread on buttered bread, cover with lettuce leaf and top with second slice of buttered bread. Makes twelve whole slice sandwiches which may be cut as desired.

Cheese and Fig Sandwiches: Slice nut bread thin, butter and spread with mashed cream cheese. Cover with canned figs which have been drained and sliced.

Top with nut bread and cut as desired.

Melba Mold: Bring one-third cup sugar and one-third cup milk to boiling. Pour slowly over two slightly beaten egg yolks and cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Add one cup of beaten cream and two tablespoons of sherry flavoring. Drain one No. 2 can of halved peaches and pack one on top of the other in center of a tall cookie can or a small coffee can, not too large around. Fill around the peaches with the cream mixture, cover and pack in ice and salt for four hours. Unmold onto a platter and slice. Serves eight.

Fruit Nectar: Boil one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup water two minutes, then cool. Add juice from two lemons, two oranges, seven-eighths cup peach syrup (all from the can used for the Mold) and one cup of any other fruit juice. Chill. Just before serving add two pint bottles ginger ale and serve over ice. Serves six tall or twelve cup-sized glasses.

Rapid Recipes

YOU don't want to spend much time in the kitchen in summer. Like as not, you have a time consuming job, in which case anything you cook must probably be not only short but simple. One way to simplify your cooking is to buy just enough. You can do this in the new 8-ounce cans which have proved so popular that a wide range of fruits and vegetables is now put up in them. And here are some short recipes, based on the contents of those cans, which makes it simple to use them.

Quick Fruit Recipes

Raspberry Cream: Soak two tablespoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water five minutes. Bring the contents of an 8-ounce can of raspberries, three tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons lemon juice to boiling, pour over gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Cool. When about to jelly, fold in one-half cup heavy cream, beaten. You can buy beating cream now, too, in cans.

Loganberry Fizz: Boil three-fourths cup sugar in two and one-half cups water three minutes, cool and add one-half cup lemon juice and the contents of an 8-ounce can of loganberries. Ice well, and, just before serving, add a pint bottle of ginger ale.

A Vegetable Recipe

Carrots and Celery au Gratin: Heat the contents of an 8-ounce can of diced carrots. Melt one-half cup grated cheese in one cup white sauce, add the carrots and one-half cup cooked diced celery and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs, and brown in a hot oven.

A $2 Dinner For 6

POOR Richard's Almanac says that a dollar saved is a dollar earned. It's easy to spend three dollars and more on a dinner for six, but it's also easy to get one for only two dollars if you serve the following menu and recipes.

Consomme with Cheese
Crackers 25c
Lamb Chops with Pineapple
Sauté 15c
Baked Potatoes 75c
Tomato and Cucumber Salad 25c
Bread and Butter 11c
Delicious Peach Pudding 42c
Dessert 5c
Lamb Chops with Pineapple
Sauté: Pan-fry six shoulder lamb chops, season and remove to a hot platter. Place six slices of Hawaiian pineapple, which have been drained, in the hot skillet, and sauté in the drippings until a golden brown on both sides. Arrange in a circle around the chops.

Delicious Peach Pudding: Drain one No. 2½ can sliced peaches and spread half of them in the bottom of a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle one-half cup of brown sugar over them and then spread on the remaining peaches. Cream together one-half cup butter, three-fourths cup flour and one cup of brown sugar and spread over the top. Bake forty-five minutes in a moderate—375°—oven. Serve warm with whipped cream sweetened with four tablespoons confectioner's sugar.

WHETHER YOUR BUILDING REQUIREMENTS

are large or small, regardless of your plans and ideas in this line, our experience is freely at your service.

If you tell us what you want to accomplish often times we can suggest plans for saving you money and serving your purpose better.

Whether you buy of us or not, we want everyone in this community who has a need in our line to come to us freely for building advice.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

A number of breeders have asked me what we mean by "ACCREDITED" flocks, so I am printing a section of the Illinois "STATE STANDARD ACCREDITED" rules, which I think will be as near the Kentucky rules as we can get.

The term "State Standard Accredited" cannot be used by any hatchery in this state unless the birds from which the eggs have been procured have been culled and leg-banded by duly authorized Department of Agriculture inspectors.

When the term "Standard" is used in the name of, or statement indicating condition of hatchery, such as "state standard accredited hatchery" or "state accredited chicks," the word "standard" shall be considered as indicating that each bird in all flocks from which the hatchery using such terms obtained its eggs has been inspected and leg banded by state inspector; and that after such inspection, each bird therein conforms in reasonable degree to the standard for the breed and variety as set forth in the AMERICAN STANDARD OF PERFECTION. This shall be construed as meaning that no birds decidedly off in type or color or otherwise disqualified shall be allowed to remain in the flock. Each bird must conform in reasonable degree to the standard for high egg production as set forth by the Division of Poultry and Husbandry of the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

The State Department of Agriculture has nothing to do with any other term than "accredited." This is not to be taken to mean that hatcheries not accredited do not produce chicks of quality, but the Department of Agriculture cannot guarantee any hatchery or flock that is not accredited.

You can readily see why the baby chicks from Illinois and other states that have the accredited system, bring a better price on the market than those from Kentucky. That is one reason why we are trying to get the state to adopt this plan all over the state. You can get a better price for your hatching eggs and also a better price for your grown stock if you can advertise your flock as accredited and blood tested. The cost is nominal, considering the great difference in the receipts from stock sold. Understand I am not getting one penny out of this for myself, but am still striving to make Fulton county the BEST poultry county in the state.

Don't forget the Mayfield show the first part of September. Get your birds in good shape and let's go up there and win the best ribbons. We can do it; we have got the stock, and all it will take is some nerve.

There will be a few late chickens hatched on the farms yet, but our great job now is to raise those already hatched. We must push them to get them above the average farm flock. Don't be stingy with your feed; keep it before them all the time, and provide nice, cool, shady runs for the growing chicks, with plenty of good, clean, cool water, and you will almost see them grow each day.

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals. The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

SAFETY FIRST

"What's the big idea of talking to yourself?" asked his old friend.
"I wasn't talking to myself, but to my wife," replied the meek little man.
"Why your wife isn't anywhere in sight!"
"I know it, but it's always safer to tell her what I was when she isn't within hearing distance."

Not Altogether

Lawyer—Was the man you found under the street car a total stranger?
Witness—No, sir, only a partial stranger.

Lawyer—What do you mean?
Witness—Well, you see, one arm and one leg were gone.

Careful Lad

Mike—I didn't wanta hit that gink, because the poor guy had glasses on!
Mamie—You is always so kind an' thoughtful, Mike. Afraid of blindin' him, was you?
Mike—Naw! I was afraid I'd cut me fist.

Make-Up

"All the world's a stage," said Mr. Stormington Barnes.
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum.
"About the only important distinction to be noted is that some of us have to make up our minds instead of our faces."—Washington Star.

IDEALS

Wife (reading financial page)—I fear we are losing our ideals in the mad rush for wealth.
Hubby—Oh, I don't know. Have you noticed the mad rush for the ball park when there is a game on?

Enhanced Value

The storage egg now makes a hit. The purchaser so meek. Must pay a fancy price for it. Because it's an antique.

Destroying Equilibrium

"That former enemy of yours is paying you a great many compliments."
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "and I wish he'd quit it. One of the easiest ways to throw a man down is to swell his head until he gets top-heavy."—Washington Star.

Morning Stimulant

"What has that clerk done all the morning?"
"Since the post came in he has caught flies."
"Nothing else?"
"Yes, a wasp."—Fillegende Blaetter.

The Way of It

"Mercy, dearie, what a pretty new sweater you have on. It seems to be of some highly colored yarn."
"Yep—and you ought to have heard the highly colored yarn I had to tell my husband to get it."

So They Are!

Henry—My wife used to play the piano and sing a great deal, before the children came.
William (thoughtfully)—Children are such a comfort.

NEEDFUL SLEEP

"What! You here again for money for a night's lodgin'? Why, I just gave you money for that purpose last night."
"I know it, mum, but a feller's gotter sleep more'n wunst."

The Futile Bluff

Many a man has gone through life on nothing but a barefaced bluff. Except in dealing with his wife—We'll say no more—we've said enough.

Optimist

First Native—What's this world coming to, anyhow?
Second Feller—It's coming to Mudville if we get the roads paved this summer.

Be In the Swim

HAVE MONEY!

"Come on in, the water's fine," is what any man who has money will say to you if you ask him how it feels to be "swimming" in money.

HE KNEW

He had proposed. She tossed her head laughingly. "You?" came her scornful reply. "You want to marry me?" "Yes," murmured the lover. "But, my dear boy," she went on, "you've only known me three days." "O, much longer than that really," he said. "I've been two years in the bank where your father has his account."

A Bid for Notice

"They tell me you have discovered an underworld down to Goldenrod, Ky.," "Yep," answered Farmer Cornsossel. "You ought to see the people that stop to look us over." "What are you doing? Reforming?" "No. Advertising!" — Washington Star.

YEARS TOO LATE

Old Stager—I hear you have the part representing young tiddlyboy open in your new play. I hope I'm not too late for the place? Manager—Sorry, but you look about forty years too late.

The Perfect Pest

A guy I hate. Is Hank O'Keefe. He's always saying, "Okay, Chief."

His Inspiration

"To what do you owe your success?" asked the reporter of the multimillionaire.

"To my wife's determination that she was going to have better clothes, better and more cars and a finer house than any of the neighbors," he sighed.

A Husky Favorite

"How is your boy doing at college?" "Well," replied Farmer Cornsossel, "I don't s'pose he's much for Greek or Latin, but they do tell me he's mighty highly considered by the boys when they have a little job o' hazing on hand." — Washington Star.

It Really Doesn't Pay To Try To Do Without It

The telephone is such a familiar part of daily life that its convenience and value are often overlooked until it is out of service. This is the experience of those who discontinue their service for one reason or another. They soon find that the small cost of the service has been repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.

Telephone users constantly tell us that the cheapest service they can buy today, compared with its value, is telephone service. There have doubtless been times in your own experience when your telephone service has proved priceless—when the ability to call instantly a doctor, a policeman or the fire department, could not be measured in terms of money.

But it is not alone the emergencies that give the telephone its true value. There are the commonplaces of every day conversations—the twenty-four hour a day convenience in the home, the shop, the office, whenever you wish two-way communication with anyone almost anywhere.

On reflection you will doubtless agree that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

In Case of Emergency

When you want a thing in a hurry you rush to a local store and get it. But do you realize that the existence of our stores depends upon continued business.

If every person in this community were to use the stores only for emergencies there would soon be no more places to satisfy those urgent needs.

You should do your part towards keeping local business alive and in a constant state of betterment by doing all your trading at home. It will be profitable to you as well as to the entire community.
