Fulton's New Dress Factory

The Art Style Dress Company, manufacturers of Youthful Dresses, are now in their new home, occupying the three-story building erected for the American Cigar factory, on Fourth street.

The company was organized several weeks ago by prominent local citizens and incorporated under the state laws of Kentucky, with the following officers: Ira W. Little, president; S. C. Smith, vice-president; A. M. Nugent, treasurer; W. B. Puckett, secretary and sales manager; J. O. Wiggins, general manager.

Notwithstanding the new industry has been in operation only a few weeks, their products are commanding the attention of the largest dealers throughout the country. They make a specialty of manufacturing youthful dresses of high-grade materials from their own stock rooms in keeping with the latest Parisian styles, or if the customer desires, will take piece goods from his shelves and make it up for him.

Buyers for the company are now in New York purchasing more equipment and preparing for a good fall business. Several traveling salesmen are out on the road and orders are coming in daily.

Many of the pretty frocks in pastel shades being worn in Fulton today were made here at home and the styles are up-to-the-minute—material and workmanship the very best.

The personnel of this institution are men well known for their business qualifications, capable of making the Art Dress Company a glorious success.

Fifteen or twenty are employed in the plant now and this number will probably be doubled at an early date.

LEGIONNAIRES TO MEET CONVENTION AT LEXINGTON, JULY 26-29

Lexington, Ky., July 9.—A big parade, reminiscent of the Boston and Louisville National gatherings, the Legion; fire works, a polo game furnishing the unseen in any athletic contest; a golf tournament and dances featuring Freddy Burgin and his Radio Orchestra, will combine to make the Thirteenth Annual State Convention of the American Legion at Lexington, July 26-29, the greatest and most spectacular convention ever held by the Kentucky Legionnaires and Auxiliary members.

Pre-convention activities will begin July 26 with the "Grand Wreck" of the Forty and Eight, Legion playground organization. The "French Box Car Boys" will stage a drum corps parade, banquet and initiation the afternoon and night previous to the opening of the convention proper.

Thousands of convention delegates who are expected to arrive in Lexington Sunday, July 26, will find plenty of amusement in the polo game between the Legion team and a team representing the Lexington Polo Club at the Whitney Polo Field, near Lexington, which will be open to Legionnaires by the mere showing of their registration cards. Some of the most famous polo players of the country, including Maj. Louie A. Beard, formerly captain of the United States Army International Championship Team, will take part.

The convention will be opened formally at 9 o'clock Monday morning, July 27, at the Ben Ali theatre here, after which the big parade, including a score or more of drum corps and bands from all parts of the state.

HOMRA BROS.' STORE BADLY DAMAGED BY A FIRE

A disastrous fire in the business section of the city at noon, July 4th, heavily damaged Homra Brothers' stock of merchandise and the double store building they occupied on Lake street, next to the City National Bank building.

It is said that the fire originated in the upper story about the roof and had gained much headway before discovered.

However, the fire company was quickly on the job after the alarm was given, and by hard work saved adjoining property and a good part of the Homra stock.

Homra Brothers carried insurance with the Fall & Fall and Ed. C. Paschall agencies. Adjusters were here this week estimating the loss.

Clinton Youth Dies From Auto Accident.

Holmes Vaughn, 22, of Clinton died at the Riverside hospital in Paducah Monday afternoon from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident in Clinton, Saturday night.

Vaughn was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vaughn of Clinton. He was in a car with Tobe Chester and Wheatley Norman, both of whom sustained injuries in the wreck. Their car collided with an automobile occupied by Ray Haggard and Miss Marie Hopkins. Their injuries were only slight, but both cars were demolished. The wreck occurred at an intersection on Washington street when Chester tried to pass a parked auto. The force of the collision hurled Vaughn through the door of the car and he struck the paved street. A deep gash was cut in his head, and an examination showed that the skull was fractured.

Tobe Chester who was at the wheel, suffered severe cuts on the arm. Norman's injuries are minor. Vaughn recently returned to his mother's home at Clinton after attending school in Chicago. He was a skilled musician.

The new spillway bridge near Tiptonville is now completed and open for traffic.

It is a concrete structure 230 feet long with a 24 foot roadway and two sidewalks, and has four rows of banisters. There are 21 pieces of machinery, each operating one grate, the purpose of which is to hold the lake to the water level required.

On the south end of the bridge is a fish ladder four feet wide to allow the fish to get from the drainage ditch of the Obion River into the waters of Reelfoot Lake.

Large crowds are visiting the lake daily to see the beautiful bridge which will be dedicated July 15 by the Reelfoot Post 174 of the American Legion and will be named for the first soldier of Lake and Obion counties who lost their lives in the World War.

Brieflets

There are a lot of old-fashioned girls left around Fulton. We mean the kind who go to bed the same day they get up.

Things would be a lot better if so many wives with 1895 model husbands would stop trying to trade 'em in on a 1931 model.

As a rule, a college education will not hamper you in getting a job, provided you keep still about it.

The reason there are fewer accidents around Fulton during the fishing season than during the hunting season, is that a fisherman can't drag his fishing pole through a wire fence by the muzzle.

The height of hard luck these days is running out of gas on the way to the poor house.

There is one auto for every 4.6 persons in the U. S. (The 6 must represent the rumble-seat riders.)

If most Fulton wives knew what other women think of their husbands they'd quit worrying about 'em.

Two months after he had run over a girl a motorist married her. If this sort of thing were made compulsory there would be fewer reckless drivers.

A man can smile if he loses money on a horse race, but it never fails to make him grouchy when he loses an argument with his wife.

The trouble with a lot of fellows around Fulton is they pick the wrong courses to take in the School of Experience.

Under the new tariff about the only thing that you can take from this country into Canada is thirst.

About the only thing left in this country that isn't made obsolete by a change in models is a dollar bill.

Our idea of the greatest optimists in Fulton are those fellows who can look on the bright side of everything—even to an old suit of clothes.

Democratic Nominee For Governor Plans Relief For Tax Burdened State

Laffoon Flays Republican Misrule in Speech of Acceptance

Promises Rigid Economy in Business Administration

MADISONVILLE, Ky., — Judge Ruby Laffoon, in a speech formally accepting the democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky, sounded a note of high liberalism in government reform that inspired the thousands who attended the nomination ceremonies here with full confidence in the party platform and implanted a firm belief that the entire state ticket will be elected in November by one of the greatest majorities ever recorded by any party in Kentucky politics.

After saying that realization of the responsibilities that fall to the standard bearer had somewhat sobered his elation over being unanimously nominated by the state convention, and after paying high tribute to the character and qualifications of each of his opponents before the convention, Judge Laffoon treated specifically many of the changes in administration policy he proposes to seek.

Economy Program

Pledging rigid economy in all departments of state government the nominee declared his first step would be a complete audit to show the financial status of the commonwealth at the time he becomes governor. He described a system of accounting, he proposes to inaugurate, that will tabulate the state's business complete each twenty-four hours. "By this means we can know at the close of business each day how much the state owes, to whom, for what, when the obligation was incurred and when it will mature."

"We promise a thorough investigation of every state department for the purpose of discovering and correcting abuses and eliminating waste and extravagance wherever it may be found to exist," said the nominee.

Dealing at length with the system of taxation, Judge Laffoon stressed the need for reform in the matter of assessment, saying: "Our overburdened taxpayers are entitled to relief, and I find the bulk of complaints have to do with the blanket assessment clause in the state law. Our platform promises legislation that will prevent unfair taxation through the dodge of blanket assessment."

Banking Situation

"Under the benevolent guidance of 'Miracle Man' Hoover, our country has been weakened and our people distressed by a series of appalling bank failures. Countless depositors have lost their life savings through collapse of certain faulty phases of our banking structure. Our platform emphasizes the need for more stringent laws and more rigid enforcement, and we stand pledged to the appointment of competent officials who will be named after a competitive examination to determine their fitness."

"I realize that banking is a hard, arduous business, involving risk upon stockholders who, even as depositors, require protection in the legitimate conduct of their business. One of the first acts to be requested of the general assembly will be legislation looking toward further protection of depositors and bankers alike," said the nominee.

Farm-to-Market Roads

Praising the present highway commission for its efficiency and fair distribution of road construction, Judge Laffoon pledged his administration to early completion of trunk lines through the state. After these have been built, vast sums of money will become available for building lateral, or farm-to-market roads, he said. "Our farmers must be provided with means for transporting at a minimum cost, their products to markets at all seasons," he declared.

JUDGE RUBY LAFFOON

State and county schools were paid considerable attention by Judge Laffoon, who said: "The success of our educational program depends largely upon well trained and qualified teachers. Teaching in the lower grades is equally as important as teaching in the higher grades, or in high school, and all teachers should be paid commensurate with their service rendered. Our country teachers should be paid on the same scale as our city teachers."

Assails Tariff Law

Assailing the republican party as being responsible because of an unjust tariff law which has brought about retaliatory measures by foreign countries that practically bar American products from world markets, Judge Laffoon declared: "The republicans have made a doormat of the farmer. Wheat at forty cents; corn at sixty-five cents; livestock selling for less than feeding costs; cotton at nine cents and tobacco selling below the cost of production are typical fruits of the 'great benefits' promised in 1928 under the Hoover farm program."

"I ask you, my farmer friends," said the nominee, "to look at the other side of the picture and to tell me what you are paying for farm machinery, and, in fact, for every implement of husbandry that you have to buy."

Starving Amid Plenty

"Starvation on every hand in a land of plenty. Every granary bursting with wheat and every feeding house filled with meat while hunger stalks in thousands of homes, is a strange commentary on the effectiveness of paternal administration as handed out by our republican friends."

Ten millions unemployed, five thousand bank failures, twenty-five thousand commercial failures a year, thousands of abandoned farms, wild speculation in stocks, declining export totals, decreased production and a rapidly mounting crime wave are the net results of republican misrule since the good year 1920.

"Now, they tell us that no political party can be held responsible for economic conditions. Four years ago they were telling us that if we wanted indefinite continuation of the general prosperity then being enjoyed, the only way to get it would be to vote for the republican ticket. My friends, if they take the credit for prosperity, they likewise must accept responsibility for their so-called depression."

"Whenever the American people have become depressed beyond endurance, whenever they have felt the crushing force of privilege, whenever they have seen government threatened by centralization, whenever they have been sickened by corruption in high places, whenever they have looked for progress and reform—they have called the democratic party into power."

"They did it in 1890. They did it again in 1894, and again in 1912. They are starting to do the same thing now, and will complete the task in 1932," concluded Judge Laffoon.

Better Breakfasts

If you want to start the day feeling as cheery as the little birds in the branches outside your window, include plenty of fruit in your breakfast, and lots of milk and cream. In the following suggested menu you can have top milk or cream on your cold cereal, there is a sauce made of milk on the sausages and you can have cream in your hot beverage. Most people prefer this variety of ways to just drinking milk or cream. Here's the menu:

Toed Cantaloupe
Cold Cereal
Sausage Slices in Cream Sauce
Strawberry Jam
Hot Beverage

Toed cantaloupe is delicious on a hot summer morning, and strawberry jam adds one more trait. For the main dish make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, salt, pepper and one-fourth teaspoon kit chen bouquet. Slice the contents of a 3-ounce can of Vienna sausages thin, and add to the sauce. Reheat and serve on toast. This will serve six people.

Good Coffee

If you are a lover of coffee and want that for your hot beverage, be sure to select one of the brands that is vacuum packed. These retain all their flavor and aroma, and assure you coffee with a kick. Nothing is flatter than coffee that has been exposed to oxygen, allowing much of the flavor and aroma to escape.

News For Brides

IT has long since been proved that canned foods retain their vitamins, since these are destroyed only by heating in the presence of oxygen, and canned foods are all cooked in hermetically sealed cans. But it has re-cently been proved by Dr. Walter H. Eddy of Teachers College at Columbia University to specify a list of them on which present-day brides can rely to contain adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and G for health needs in her honeymoon "canned menu."

Here are the foods upon which Dr. Eddy stated in a recent address before the American Chemical Society that brides can rely: Canned milk, every day.

Choice of ten meats: Roast beef, corned beef, tongue, potted meat, chicken, lamb stew, corned beef hash, sausage, veal loaf and chicken a la king.

Choice of seventeen vegetables: Spinach, peas, string beans, tomatoes, tomato juice, wax beans, baked beans, beets, corn, lima beans, sweet potatoes, hominy, carrots, okra, turnip greens, Brussels sprouts and mixed vegetables.

Choice of six fruits: Prunes, peaches, apricots, cherries, pine apples, apple sauce.

Canned brown bread and spaghetti.

Dessert: Canned plum pudding.

Based on Scientific Tests

The tests upon which these specific recommendations were made were based on rats. The rat experiments lasted for a year, which, Dr. Eddy said, was equivalent to about twenty-five years of human life. All the animals averaged better in weight than those fed on a stock diet, he said.

SLEEP CREEPS UP AS HE WAITS FOR INSOMNIA PILLS

Drug Store Caller Revealed by Snores When Owner Opens for Business.

Chicago.—Shortly after he had unlocked his pharmacy at 801 Irving Park boulevard the other morning, John Sutcliff began to hear an unusual buzzing noise.

He at once checked up on the alarm clocks and tested all of the mechanical toys and the gum machine near the magazine stand. Still he could not locate the sound.

That morning after rush began to come into the store to remove his attention from the sound, and it was only after a persistent young woman insisted that he desert the sandwich counter to fill a prescription that Sutcliff discovered the source of the noise, sleeping soundly behind the prescription counter.

He Locates the Noise.
There snoring splendidly, stretched out on the floor, with a kit of tools beneath his head, slept a soot-covered young man.

Reminding himself that in these days the customer is always right, the druggist apologized for waking the man.

"I'm awfully sorry, old chap," he said. "But I'm the proprietor. Is there anything I can do for you?"

The young man opened one eye, then the other, brushed himself off and then stood erect.

"I'm," he began, not too rapidly.

"Oh, yes. You see, Mr.—er—ah—"

"Sutcliff," interposed the druggist.

"Sutcliff pharmacy. Notary public. We serve hot lunches."

He Explains All.
"Oh, yes, Mr. Sutcliff. Well, you see, I was troubled with insomnia late last night and I thought I'd come down here and get some pills for it or something."

"But I closed up early here last night. There wasn't anyone here," the druggist pointed out.

"Yes, I know that," answered the young man. "I mean—that is—when I got here I found that out."

"But how did you get it?" persisted the pharmacist, being careful not to lose his patience and remembering that the customer is always right.

"Well, your coat chute was sort of open, so I came in that way. And I fell asleep here behind the counter. Good-by."

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Sutcliff, grabbing him by the arm. "Let me show you some of our special insomnia pills."

He was still holding him by the arm when the police came. The young man said he was Guy Wells of 4342 Sheridan road.

Burglar Flees Before Canned Goods Barrage

Seattle, Wash.—When a burglar pulled out a gun and threatened to shoot R. M. Dunn, seventy-four-year-old grocer, a fourteen-year-old clerk hurled a can of tomatoes, hit the bandit on the temple and felled him. Then the youth, William Priestman, laid down a regular barrage of canned fruit and vegetables.

The aged grocer, who watched the bombardment, said the boy hit the bandit with every throw. He ran out the door after him, continuing to throw canned goods. The man made his escape with $80.

Taxicab Bandit Places Earnings at $12 a Day

Seattle, Wash.—An average of nearly $12 a day from jobs was the record of Jake Lee, taxicab bandit, during two months of operation here, he told police. Lee was captured while attempting to rob a filling station.

He confessed to thirty-three hold-ups and said he could probably think of more. He said his jobs averaged nearly $12 each.

Bullet in Ankle, Hurts After 51 Years, Removed

Frankville, Iowa.—While hunting 51 years ago, W. D. Livingston, accidentally shot himself in the ankle. The bullet has just been removed, because for the first time in more than half a century the small piece of lead Special success.

Dies While Dancing With His Own Wife

Seattle, Wash.—An evening of merriment was changed to one of sorrow for Mrs. Elmer Church when she felt her husband begin to slump as they were dancing in a ballroom.

As she looked at him he slipped through her arms and fell dead. A heart attack caused his death.

PATROL WAGON TOO SMALL FOR NEGRO

Must Use Truck if He Is to Be Moved Again.

Kansas City, Kan.—Police here have a big problem on their hands. They were wondering what to do with Joseph C. Bright, forty-year-old negro, who was taken to police headquarters by a taxicab operator who accused Bright of giving him bad checks.

A bad check charge usually is no especial problem, but Bright's presence at police headquarters was something different. The negro weighs something more than 350 pounds.

It almost was necessary to tear down a cell and build it up around him, but after much shoving and pushing he finally was wedged through the door into one.

When the obese negro was booked and his Bertillon measurements taken police encountered their first difficulty. There was no scale at headquarters big enough to record Bright's accurate weight. The one on which prisoners usually are weighed does not record more than 200 pounds. Bright broke it. Police had to take his word for it that he weighs 350 pounds.

After getting him in a cell, the police were wondering how to get him out again, for he left but little room within the barred cage for patrolmen to get inside to push him out.

If a state warrant is issued for the negro and the police are required to turn him over to the state, he will be transported to the county jail in a truck. The door of the patrol wagon is not big enough to admit him.

Bright was taken to headquarters after he hired the taxicab to transport him from his home to a theater in Kansas City, Kan. The driver claimed he held a collection of Bright's worthless checks, so instead of taking him to the theater drove the passenger up in front of police headquarters and thrust upon the police their big problem.

Guard's Warning Shout Frustrates Prison Break

Michigan City, Ind.—For half an hour twelve of the most desperate convicts in the state prison here held control of a cellhouse and only a slight misarrangement of their carefully laid plans prevented a successful delivery.

Not until prison guards had been augmented by city police and firemen were the prisoners cowed and driven back to their cells.

The plot was engineered by Joseph Burns, a "lifer," in for murder. Burns had fashioned a key for the lock on his cell from a spoon. Each of the other eleven men, all robbers or murderers, was assigned a definite duty in the break. When Burns opened his door the other doors were unlocked automatically.

As the twelve men rushed out two of them seized the guard, Guy Burklow, and gagged him. Burklow, however, was able to shout a warning, and this was the mishap which frustrated the prisoners' plans.

Other guards ran in and held the men at bay while further help was on its way. Hopelessly outnumbered, the men finally slunk back to their cells without a shot being fired.

Dog Loses Legs, but Is Taught to Walk Again

Oskaloosa, Pa.—The maxim that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks" is disproved by Sport, collie dog.

Two and a half years ago Sport was run over by a binder and both hind legs cut off. Only the pleadings of the dog's youthful owner, Luverne Hatch, prevented Ralph Hatcher, farmer, from shooting Sport.

Sport was given the best care possible and recovered. A long time passed before he was able to walk. Slowly he learned, however, and today he hobbles around with only stumps as substitutes for hind legs.

Butted in Stomach, He Dies of Broken Skull

Seattle.—Butted in the stomach during a rough and tumble fight, Perle J. Larkin, forty-five, a stage scene painter, died of a fractured skull here recently.

He had struck J. E. Russell, who retaliated with a flying tackle. Larkin fell, unconscious, but soon revived and was left alone in his room. Two hours later he was found dead.

Ties Flatiron to Neck and Drowns in Bathtub

Los Angeles, Calif.—Tying a two-pound flatiron about her neck, Mrs. Hannah J. Read, fifty, drowned herself in a bathtub recently. She submerged her head by raising her feet to a window sill. Her husband told police Mrs. Read had been an invalid for six months.

Ever Meet A Pumpkin?

YOU may still occasionally meet a whole pumpkin in really rural districts, according to Dr. William A. Taylor, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry, but they are rapidly disappearing from the fresh vegetable markets, only to make their reappearance on grocers' shelves in cans.

There are several good reasons for this. The size of a whole pumpkin makes its use impractical for any one who has not a large family or is not going to enter a pie eating contest. Few housewives plan nowadays to make six pies at once. And then canned pumpkin is delicious and saves a whole lot of labor and time in the kitchen. Everyone knows how to make an ordinary pie with canned pumpkin, but here is an elaborate one which fairly

Admits Crimes After Being Trapped With Money on Night Raid.

Peterboro, Ont.—For ten years a trusted constable of the Peterboro police force, hero of numerous cases, including one in which he shot and killed the slayer of a fellow officer, Leonard Matthews faces a term of from nine to twenty-one months in the Ontario reformatory.

Matthews has confessed that for years he led a Jekyll and Hyde existence, and that he is the "cat burglar" who looted more than a dozen Peterboro stores and offices, while he was supposedly patrolling the city's downtown streets at night, as an agent of law and order.

Standing in the felon's dock, to which he had led scores of criminals in the past, Matthews, a married man with three children, pleaded guilty to fourteen charges of burglary, his only defense being that he could not support his family on the salary which he received as a constable.

Caught With Goods.

Suspicion first fell upon Matthews when it was noted that all the burglaries occurred in periods when he was on night duty. When he was on day duty the city was free from nocturnal crime of such a nature.

Reluctant at first to admit even a suspicion against so trusted an officer, Police Chief Samuel Newhall finally undertook to shadow Matthews on his nightly patrols. For five nights all went well, and Newhall was practically convinced that his suspicions were groundless, but he decided to continue his vigil at least one night longer, and that one night proved fatal to Matthews.

In the early morning hours, he was found emerging from a real estate of rice with $120 in his pocket. W. H. Bradburn, the realtor, swore that the money had been stolen from his premises.

Admits Many Thefts.

Arraigned before County Judge L. V. O'Connor, the constable admitted thefts totaling more than $1,200, and extending over a period of years.

Three years ago, Matthews distinguished himself by killing David Montgomery after the latter, crazed with liquor, had slain Provincial Constable Norman Maker. Montgomery took refuge in a vacant store, and Matthews braved instant death when he entered the building in pursuit of the slayer. Montgomery had his rifle leveled to fire, but the officer shot first.

Several months ago Matthews also won the commendation of the board of police commissioners by capturing a burglar in a hand-to-hand tussle, after he surprised him in the act of breaking into a downtown store.

Form "Human Bridge" to Save Lives of 3 at Fire

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Policemen Joseph Fitzpatrick and Frank Cantor saved a family in a three-story burning structure by forming a "human bridge" from one building to another, over which three persons walked to safety.

Leon Schwartz, his wife and stepson lived in the third story of a building at 515 Sutter avenue. Fire broke out downstairs and worked up rapidly. With his legs wrapped around a fire escape on the building next door Cantor grasped Fitzpatrick's ankles and swung him so that he grasped a window ledge of the burning building. Then Schwartz family walked to safety.

Motor Car Spark Brings Death to Twenty Cows

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Sparks from the backfire of a passing automobile truck are believed to have caused a fire on the farm of Norman Calkins which destroyed twenty cows, tons of hay and a large quantity of farming implements.

57 Lost in Woods

Washington.—Fifty-seven men, women and children were lost in the national forests of Oregon and Washington last summer. It took rangers a 27 days, and cost the Department $700 to find them.

Father Keeps Insane Daughter in Stable

Rennes, France.—Believing their twenty-two-year-old daughter was insane, a farmer here placed her in a stable, where she was kept a prisoner for months. The police finally released her.

LOVE SPURNED, HE DIES WITH GIRL

Japanese Invades Home of Ex- Pupil and Deals Death.

Seattle.—Oriental love that failed to fit into its American setting flared into double tragedy here recently with the slaying of a sixteen-year-old Franklin high school girl and suicide of her lover, a University of Oregon student. Both were Japanese.

Paul Katsuda preferred death to life without Shigeno Shigemura. So he shot her and turned the gun on himself.

The murder and suicide took place at the Shigemura home, which the desperate man entered by smashing the glass in the front door.

The girl's mother, aroused, leaped from bed and called to her daughter. Mrs. Shigemura ran out the back door but the girl lingered.

A moment later a shot rang out and the girl fell, her neck pierced. A second shot lodged in the door jamb. Then Katsuda shot himself and fell lifeless across the body of the girl he loved.

Katsuda had been sought by police for several days since he kidnapped Miss Shigemura and held her prisoner in a room for a day while he threatened and pleaded with her to marry him and return to Japan. She formerly was a pupil of his when he taught in a Japanese school here.

Katsuda was in the United States on a student's passport, which required his early return to his native land. His sweetheart, American born, refused to relinquish her highly prized citizenship to return to the land of her forefathers.

Katsuda could not stand the thought of separation. So they started on a longer journey together.

Parrot Causes Man's Arrest for Murder

New York.—Three words—"Don't papa, don't!" shrieked by a green parrot in the middle of the night and heard by neighbors in adjoining apartments, furnished the unusual evidence through which police are seeking to trace the murder of Mrs. Francis Yitkos, forty-four years old, who was found dead in her home, to her husband, Frank, a longshoreman.

Out of the stillness of the night that one terrifying imprecation, incessant and harsh, from the throat of a tropical bird which theretofore had confined its speech to the usual banalities of parrot chatter, came to wake neighbors and fill them with alarm. When morning came, and the apartment was entered, the body of the woman with wounds about the head and arms was found sprawled across a bed.

On its perch, bright eyed and enigmistic, sat the parrot. It shifted from foot to foot while police searched the apartment, and muttered only deep gutturals.

But a bloody hatchet, capable of inflicting sharp wounds, was found in a corner of the apartment by the searchers. And the word of the neighbors was concise.

And the evidence of the parrot—a notoriously talkative bird—was considered by the detectives, who have experience with all kinds of strange clues, to be something more than a mere coincidence.

Soles Drop From Negro's Shoes as He Flees Cops

Chicago.—The reliable Chicago police insist this actually happened, so it must be so.

Willie Jones, negro, ran so fast from pistol-firing policemen that he burned off the soles of his shoes.

When officers attempted to arrest Willie on suspicion he whizzed down the street in a flurry of bullets, skidded around corners, slid over curbs, and finally landed in the arms of a policeman coming the other way. Somewhere along the line of flight the soles of Willie's shoes, subjected to terrific strain, parted company with the uppers, leaving Willie barefooted.

Five Felons Dig Year in Tunnel to Escape

Santa Fe, N. M.—A secret 70-foot tunnel under the prison walls was used by five convicts in escaping from the state penitentiary here. Construction of the tunnel consumed nearly a year, prison officials believe.

Bloodhounds that followed the convicts' trail for a short distance from the prison soon lost the scent.

Thief's Life Saved When Bullet Lodges in Watch

Lynn, Mass.—A stolen watch has spared the life of Melvin A. French, of this city, who placed it in a pocket over his heart after robbing a jewelry store.

The proprietor of the store appeared and fired several shots. When French was captured several blocks away one of the bullets was found lodged in the watch, but he was uninjured.

Walker Damron Killed By Lightning.

During a rain and electrical storm last week, Walker Damron, 40, living five miles south of here, between Fulton and Martin, was killed while threshing wheat.

He is survived by three brothers, Sam, Tom and Tamp Damron, and two sisters, Mrs. Tom Hastings, of McConnell, and Mrs. W. A. Yandell, of Fulton.

At the same time Milton Counts, 23, was struck by lightning while plowing at his home on the Speight farm, 3 1/2 miles southwest of Fulton. The bolt struck a tree under which Counts had driven his team of mules for protection during the storm. One of the mules was fatally injured by the bolt. Counts injuries will not prove fatal.

Homer Wilson Injured

Homer Wilson, 25, of Fulton, civil engineer for the State Highway Department sustained a broken left knee and right ankle besides other painful bruises and lacerations of the head and body last week near Marion, Ky., when a truck backed over him as he was standing beside his car on the highway.

The Railway Plant of a Great Empire

A Message from
L. A. Downs,
President,
Illinois Central System.

Dependable for 80 Years

In providing railway service for a great inland empire the Illinois Central System uses properties which represent a total investment of around 745 million dollars.

These properties include 1,800 locomotives, 65,000 freight cars, 1,950 passenger cars, 2,430 units of miscellaneous equipment, 12,000 miles of tracks, 160,000 acres of land and thousands of stations, warehouses, shops, enginehouses, storehouses and other buildings.

Improvements are constantly being made in these properties to the end that the service for which they are used may at all times be prompt, efficient and fully adequate to the needs of this great empire.

Service which meets these exacting requirements enables a railroad to win and retain the good will of the public.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

FIGHT MADMAN WHILE AIRPLANE RACES TO PORT

Passengers Have Thrilling Battle With Maniac 2,000 Feet in Air.

Detroit.—Two passengers in a cabin monoplane speeding at a hundred miles an hour over Indiana and Michigan on its way from Chicago to Detroit staged a protracted battle with a madman in an effort to keep him from leaping 2,000 feet to his death or imperiling their own lives by damaging the plane.

The man is James T. Mangan, advertising manager of the Mills Novelty company, Chicago. After an examination in the psychopathic ward of a Detroit hospital, physicians declared that he had suffered mental aberrations. Police were called to the Detroit airport to remove him from the plane when it landed after the battle in the air.

Battle Shakes the Plane.

Pilot Louis Steward of Plano, Ill., who took off from the Municipal airport in Chicago on the regular run of the Tri-State Airways to Detroit, said he first noticed the commotion in the cabin of his plane while he was flying over South Bend.

"I felt the plane shake and veer from its course," said Steward. "Then

Wrestling With a Third.

I looked back and saw two of the passengers wrestling with a third. The third man kept motioning to stop at South Bend and shouted that he wanted to have his lunch.

"He would shout at the top of his voice and jump around and about a dozen times he tried to climb into the control room with me," Steward said. "He would say, 'I want to help you run this plane.' Each time I would push him back with one hand, keeping the other on the controls. Then he would run back into the plane again, once in a while opening the door to throw money out."

Passengers Block Exit.

Then the passengers blocked the exit so that the man could not get to the door and jump out. While the windows were too small for him to leap from them, the other passengers guarded him closely throughout the remainder of the flight.

At the Detroit airport he refused to get out, insisting that he wanted to fly on to a number of other cities. Police found papers in his clothing which gave the name of James T. Mangan, 9436 South Bishop street, Chicago.

Curiosity of Small Dog Saves Life of Master

St. Helens, Ore.—The curiosity of a small dog saved the life of its young master, although the animal paid with its life.

Pearl Kohk, twelve-year-old farmer boy, was on his way to school with his dog when the sight of a barbed wire fence shooting sparks drew their attention. Both advanced to investigate.

The dog thrust an inquisitive nose close to the strands, over which a high tension wire had fallen, and dropped dead.

Frightened when he saw his pet fall over, the boy retreated to the road where firemen found him crying over the tragedy. They said instant death would have resulted had the boy attempted to remove his dog.

Horse Freezes to Death, Incinerator Revives It

High Point, N. C.—Will Craven's "dead" horse is alive again, revived by flames of an incinerator to which its bony carcass had been condemned. Supposedly frozen to death, the animal was dragged, with the aid of a block and tackle, to the local incinerator for cremation. When the flames scorched its hide, the horse revived and ran from its pyre, causing consternation among sanitary officials.

Recaptured, fed, warmed and watered, it became the same old dray horse of the day before.

Dog Saves Man's Life as Farm Home Burns

Benton Harbor, Mich.—Louis Janoskie, Bangor contractor and Van Buren county farmer, owes his life to his police dog, which scratched on his bedroom door while flames enveloped the house. The rest of the family was away.

Wife Almost Drowns Man When He Faints

Seattle, Wash.—Gilbert King fainted in his water. His wife doused him with water. The water failed to revive him, and Dr. J. T. Calow was forced to use artificial respiration to bring him to consciousness. King was on the verge of drowning.

WIFE ENSLAVED BY SISTER, MAN SAYS

Wealthy Contractor Files Suit for $25,000.

Washington.—The matrimonial happiness of George W. Moore, wealthy retired contractor, was wrecked by his sister-in-law, he charged in a suit filed in District Supreme court recently, seeking $25,000 alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Mrs. Hazel Jason Littleton of Chevy Chase Gardens, Md., sister of Moore's wife, is named as defendant.

The plaintiff describes himself as a man "past middle life" and of considerable income.

On May 19, 1930, he relates, he married Bonilene Jason Davidson.

Among his belongings, says Moore's petition, are:

"A commodious residence at 436 York avenue, N. W., which has been his family home since youth, together with a resort cottage at Colonial Beach, Va., where it was his habit formerly as well as after marriage to spend his leisure time."

Mrs. Littleton, he charged, urged her sister to seek a resort home more favorably located.

For this purpose, the husband continues, he made available the sum of $12,000.

This was the result, according to his petition:

"The defendant, contriving to injure the plaintiff and disrupt amicable relations between the plaintiff's wife and himself and exercising a kind of suzerainty over her, persuaded her to select a residence out of all proportion to requirements of the plaintiff, his family or their friends."

Mrs. Littleton, he charges, continued to "mold his wife to her will."

On October 11, 1930, he said, while he was absent from home, his wife's sister persuaded her to leave him and go to her home in Chevy Chase.

Daughter Says Mother Stole Her Boy Friend

Newark, N. J.—Mrs. Pauline Johnson, wealthy, socially prominent and naturally beautiful, yeened for youthful love; so she took her daughter Evelyn's boy friend to join her in sunbaths in the Catskills.

"I have a very warm nature," she explained to Advisory Master in Chancery Francis Childs while defending Charles J. Johnson's suit for divorce. "Charles doesn't love me."

Young Bob Fridkin, orchestra leader, who, Johnson charged, shared the sunbaths and breakfasts, was not in court.

Bus boys employed by a Catskill mountain hotel, however, testified that on fifteen occasions they had served Mrs. Johnson and Fridkin in the former's room, before they had dressed. Other employees told of startling sunbaths which the two took on the Catskill hillsides.

Johnson testified that he had given his wife everything she wanted, a home in Lakewood, N. J., for the winter, and summer in the Catskills, eight fur coats, a $5,500 automobile, $300 a month pin money—and still she wasn't satisfied.

"How can I love her?" he asked. "When she stays out until one or two o'clock in the morning, refusing to tell where she has been."

Perhaps the most pathetic figure in the case was Evelyn, whose boy friend her mother is said to have sunbathed with.

"It's all a mistake," she said in court. "Bob is my friend. He came to the hotel to see me. At least, I thought so."

Miniature Golf Course Romance Ends in Court

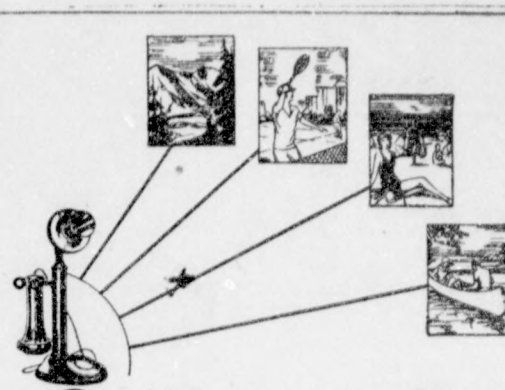

Los Angeles.—A kissing honeymoon was described in intimate detail by Mrs. Jessie M. Leiby, choir singer, testifying at the hearing of the contested divorce suits of herself and George W. Leiby, wealthy retired candy manufacturer. Frequently giving way to tears, Mrs. Leiby said she and the white-haired bridegroom spent their honeymoon at Agua Caliente, La Jolla and Riverside. She is forty and Leiby is sixty-two.

Both Leibys charge cruelty in the brief married life from November 14, 1929, to April 22, 1930, when they parted. They met on a miniature golf course.

Child Dies in Flames as Mother Insures Her Life

Clarksburg, W. Va.—Suffocation by smoke and flames brought death to nine-month-old Mary Lou Danks as her mother, Mrs. Frank Danks, stood upon the front porch of her home, near here, taking out insurance on the lives of her three little girls.

The child was in the living room of the home less than 50 feet away from her mother. Her sister, Anna Lee, two, in her play, had pushed Mary Lou's baby carriage into an open grate.

Go Where you Please On your Vacation...

Mother likes the mountains—sonny wants to go to camp and so does little sister—dad must work most of the summer—but they may go where they please and still keep together by telephone. Mother and the children may arrange to call dad regularly at a certain time, at office or home. It makes vacations more enjoyable and dispels anxiety to hear the voices of loved ones, telling of the day's happenings.

Calling at a prearranged time enables you to use the cheaper station-to-station service with no risk of missing the person wanted. If you call by number at night there is a still further reduction in cost. In using station-to-station service, ask for the distant telephone by number or location instead of asking for a particular person. When the distant telephone answers you may ask for whomever you want.

Wherever each member of the family goes this summer, the local telephone office will gladly give the cost of calling back home. Just ask for "Long Distance."

Community Building

Architecture's Part in Modern City Building

Architecture, especially modern contemporary architecture, is essentially a problem in good logic. It is not dependent upon the mastery of some mysterious or half forgotten classical orders or the consistent use of a certain type of ornament or tricky pattern. Instead, it is largely a matter of beautiful proportion and old-fashioned honesty. These are principles which any child may understand, not vagaries which are closed to all but the student of archeology or the history of art.

The essential beauty of proportion is something which has to do with a beautiful division of three-dimensional space, of mass or volume. This harmonious division of space is something that either a very simple person or a very learned person must instinctively feel.

The element of honesty is even simpler. It demands that a building must first and foremost be suited to its use; that its outside serve only as a suitable covering or screen for its workable and usable inside, and hence, that the building look and seem like the sort of thing that it is intended to be. It demands, too, that the materials of which it is made be used frankly and honestly, and not made to masquerade as something that they are not and could never be.

Thus we have the building of steel, protected from the elements by a screen of glass, concrete, stone or brick, which is beautiful in itself because it is well proportioned and honest and serves the end for which it was designed.—Detroit News.

Proper Tree Planting

Really Simple Matter

Trees are the most valuable plants in the landscape scheme and the easiest to grow. After they are planted they require little or no attention from year to year aside from an occasional feeding.

In planting trees, the hole should be dug considerably larger than the spread of the roots and deep enough to allow a goodly amount of loose soil to be left in the bottom before the tree is planted. As the soil is removed, the topsoil should be placed in a pile separate from the subsoil. Any fertilizer that is to be used can be mixed thoroughly with the soil or covered in the hole in such a way that it will not come in direct contact with the roots of the plants.

If the subsoil is very hard and heavy it should be broken up. Frequently it is thought that if the hard earth taken out is not used and good soil substituted, the tree will have a better chance, but this is not always the case. Water will easily penetrate all loose soil, and failing to escape, will settle around the tree, often causing it to die. Thus it is best to provide drainage by breaking up the subsoil, and if drainage is provided, any amount of good soil can be used to fill the hole if it seems desirable.

Business and Buildings

Business is a profession. The underlying factor that one man, in seeking to trade with another, shall have ready access to him, to his plant and to his goods. Naturally he seeks the place where he finds the least inconvenience in reaching the other man.

If property in the center of great cities is worth variously from $25,000 to $75,000 a front foot, then obviously interest and profit must be made on that property if that value is to be maintained. But if that property is depreciated in value because the use to which it is dedicated has ceased to be a useful acquisition, and those who would use it cannot get to it readily, then the owners and the community as a whole are faced with economic loss that is not easily measured.

Home Ownership Counts

Leaders in the home building movement point out that credit is the cornerstone of the business structure of any community and that there is no more thoroughly impregnable warrant for credit than home ownership.

Hence savings and loan leaders say the home owner at this time is any community's most prized asset. This is particularly true in Ohio, where substantially all of the tremendous resources of savings and loan companies are invested in homes.

Savings and loan leaders in examining business maps of Ohio, which gave current business conditions in various communities, found that those towns with most home ownership had the best business conditions.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Schoolhouse Improvement

The little old red schoolhouse has almost completely disappeared from the American landscape, and the one-room district school is rapidly following it into oblivion, according to a survey made for Country Home.

The district school, it develops, is slipping away at the rate of 4,000 every year. These buildings of the "Mary's Little Lamb" type are being replaced in rural communities by commodious consolidated schools serving several districts.

But there are still 152,000 of the old type, an average of 3,000 for each

FOODS IN SMALL CANS

A RECENT survey revealed the fact that an amazing number of different products are now processed and put up in those convenient 8-ounce cans which contain just enough to content two people, or the contents of which can even be consumed by one hungry person alone.

These small individual cans have proved a boon to the cities where storage space is at a premium. When one realizes that 57 per cent of our population now lives in cities, as compared with 40 per cent in 1900, one understands the reason for their popularity.

The season of summer bachelors is fast approaching. For the sake of these bachelor maids and couples without children, nearly a hundred different packs of fruits and vegetables are now put up in these small cans.

Here's the List

The fruits include apple sauce, apricots (plain and peeled), blackberries (including a fancy grade), cherries (Royal Anne, black ring, red pitted and black), cranberry sauce, figs (including a California variety), fruit cocktail, fruits for salad, fruit salad, grapefruit, grapes (seedless), loganberries (including a fancy pack), olives (ripe), peaches (diced, halves and sliced), pears (Bartlett and dried), pineapple (crushed, tid bits and juice), plums (green sage), prunes (fancy purple, fresh Oregon and stewed), raspberries (red and black, including a fancy red pack), rhubarb and strawberries (including a fancy pack).

The vegetables are artichoke hearts, asparagus (cut tips, dainty salad points, large tips, mammoth tips, medium tips, natural green cuts and small tips), beans (cut refutes, cut stringless, cut wax, green lima, lima, medium green lima, New England style, oven baked and red kidney), beets (diced and sliced), Brussels sprouts, carrots (diced), carrots and peas, corn (Country Gentleman, fancy Crosby, golden bantam, golden bantam crushed, golden cream, kernalettes, popping, white and whole grains), kraut, mushrooms, pear (garden run of garden, sweet garden and sweet wrinkled), sauerkraut, spinach, succotash (golden bantam corn, white corn and with green limas), tomatoes (plain and sauce), turnips (diced), vegetables (mixed and for salad) and vegetable surprise.

Other products are brown bread, mackerel, molasses (Barbados), spaghetti (plain and prepared) and shrimp. There are probably several more which were missed in the survey, but many good recipes have been evolved from the above.

Some Fruit Recipes

Here are some fruit recipes, for instance, which are easy to prepare and will serve from two to four.

Raspberry Cream: Soak two teaspoons gelatin in two table-spoons cold water five minutes. Bring the contents of an 8-ounce can of raspberries, three table-spoons sugar and two table-spoons lemon juice to boiling, pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. When about to jelly, fold in one-half cup heavy cream. A can of the new beating cream which has just been put on the market can be used if you have no refrigerating facilities.

Blackberry Cobbler: Heat the contents of one 8-ounce can of blackberries to boiling, add one tablespoon of flour mixed with one teaspoon of sugar, and cook till slightly thick. Add one teaspoon of lemon juice and one teaspoon of butter, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Cut rich baking powder biscuit dough in tiny rounds and lay over the top. Bake in a hot oven, 450°, for fifteen minutes.

Simplifying Picnics

PICNICS that are picnics — to prepare as well as to enjoy — are in sight this summer with the advent of prepared canned sandwich spreads which will not only prove a contribution to picnic provender, but will give their planners more hours in which to enjoy them, since the labor of preparation is reduced to a minimum.

Variety of Spreads

There should be a variety of sandwiches at all picnics in order to appeal to the tastes of everyone, and these sandwich spreads were planned with that provision in mind. They include a ham, a tongue, a liver and a mixed meat spread which cover a wide range of tastes. The liver spread, for instance, suggests pâté de foie gras in its succulence, and every one of them is delicious and delicately prepared.

The making of sandwiches with these spreads is simplicity itself. Just slice your bread, open the cans, and smear them on, thick for the youngsters, and with a little more restraint for the older members of the party. They can be varied, if you like, with a little mayonnaise and chopped sweet pickle, but you will find that they are most acceptable just as they come from the can.

The cans in which these new spreads are put up contain three and a half ounces each, so that with a little practice you can forecast just how many you will need. And think of the time saved which you can put in enjoying yourself now that picnics have been simplified.

Baked Beans For Brazen

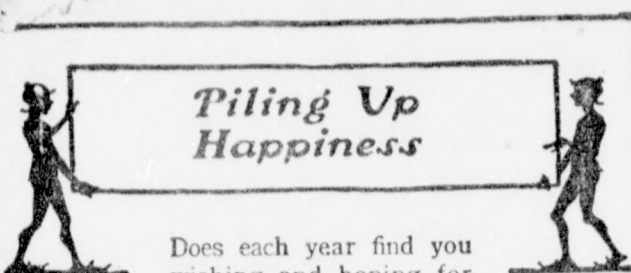

THIS summer while Junior is away in the country, you expect him to grow at least an inch, and come back brown and brawny with clear eyes and rosy cheeks. It takes a he-baby to eat enough food to grow that coveted inch, and it takes he-few to make a boy brawny. They do it with beans in the United States Army, so here are a couple of bean recipes in which sufficient energy is stored away for some good long hikes, several swins, and a lot of running.

Baked Beans Parmesan: Sauté one small diced onion and one diced canned pimiento in two table-spoons butter till golden brown. Add the contents of a No. 2 can of bean hole beans, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and three table-spoons grated Parme-

Try 'Em With Sausages

Baked Beans with Sausages: Chop one small onion fine, dice one small green pepper, add to the contents of a No. 2 can of tomatoes with one teaspoon sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently ten minutes, add the contents of a one pound twelve-ounce can of New England oven baked beans and pour into a buttered flat, shallow baking dish. Arrange twelve pork sausages over the top and place in a hot oven. When sausages brown on top, turn over, reduce heat and cook slowly forty-five minutes to an hour. Serves six.

Peas Save Expense

PEAS are one of the most popular of vegetables, and they are now available everywhere all year around in cans. They are not only popular, but inexpensive. Here is a dish of meat and peas, for instance, which will serve four people and which can be had most anywhere at a cost of less than fifty cents.

Frankfurters with Parsley Peas: Heat the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas for about three minutes, drain, add one tablespoon butter, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Grill or fry eight frankfurters (one pound), and place on top of the peas like the spokes of a wheel. Sprinkle with two tablespoons parsley, and bake in the oven a few minutes. Here is a dish of peas alone this week—serve four people at Special game.

a cost of not more than twelve cents.

English Peas: Add one and one-half tablespoons vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons crushed fresh mint to the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas, and simmer gently for ten minutes.

Pea Salads

Don't forget, too, that canned peas are excellent in salads and all ready to combine with the other ingredients. Try this:

Potato and Pea Salad: Marinate the peas from a No. 2 can and two cups diced boiled potatoes in French dressing thoroughly. Add one-half cup diced pickled beets and one tablespoon chopped onion, and moisten with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce nests. Serves eight.

THE PREACHING OF THE APOSTLES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:11-4:13.
GOLDEN TEXT—And now, Lord, hold their threatenings, and grant unto thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak thy word.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Preaches a Sermon.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Preaching in Jerusalem.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Apostolic Preaching.

I. Peter Preaching Before the Multitude (Acts 3:11-26).

1. The audience secured (v. 11). In appreciation of his healing the cured cripple took hold of Peter and John, calling attention to these men as his healers.

2. Disclaimed miracle-working power (v. 12). Though the miraculous healing of the cripple focused attention upon Peter and John, Peter immediately turned attention from himself to Christ.

3. Proclaimed Jesus as the Messiah (v. 13-18). Pointing to the healed man, Peter declared that it was through faith in Jesus that this man was given "perfect soundness." He declared that the very one whom they had "delivered up," "denied in the presence of Pilate," "and killed," God had raised from the dead.

4. A call to repentance (vv. 19-21). Despite their aggravated crime in murdering the "Just and Holy One," Peter called upon them to repent, assuring them that their sins would be blotted out and that they would enjoy refreshing seasons.

5. Appeal to the Scriptures (vv. 22-26). The warnings and promises are based upon the words of Moses and the prophets.

II. Peter Preaching to the Sanhedrin (Acts 4:1-21).

1. Peter and John arrested (vv. 1-4). The healing of the lame man caused such a stir that the people flocked to see the man. Advantage was taken of this occasion to preach Jesus Christ to them. As a result of this preaching, five thousand believed. Such a following caused great alarm. The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their ministerial functions. The Sadducees were angered to be told that the One whom they crucified had arisen from the dead and would appear again.

2. Peter and John on trial (vv. 5-12). This trial was before the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the nation.

a. The inquiry (vv. 5-7). They asked, "By what power and what name have ye done this?" This inquiry admitted the reality of the miracle.

b. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12). Filled with the Holy Spirit, he replied to their question, showing them that he and John were not being tried as "doers but for doing good to the needy man." He boldly declared that it was by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom they had crucified, and God had raised from the dead, that this man stood before them whole. He further declared that there was no salvation save in the name of Jesus Christ.

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-22).

a. They marveled (v. 13). They saw that the behavior and words of Peter were as unusual as the miracle. They were made to feel that instead of sitting as judges they themselves were on trial.

b. They took knowledge that the apostles had been with Jesus (v. 13). c. Commanded not to speak in Christ's name (v. 18). Not being able to deny the miracle or gainsay the accusation which Peter brought against them, they attempted to intimidate him.

d. The reply of Peter and John (vv. 19, 20). They openly defied the Sanhedrin and expressed determination to disobey their command. Thus they repudiated the authority of the rulers of Israel and set the Church in a place of independence from the Jewish state.

e. Their release (v. 21). Having further threatened them, they let them go.

III. The Church at Prayer (Acts 4:23-31).

As soon as Peter and John were set free they hastened to their fellow disciples and rehearsed their experience. They turned to the Holy Scriptures for comfort and strength. They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak his Word and that their testimony might be confirmed by signs. Their prayers were answered by the shaking of the place where they were assembled, and they were filled with the Holy Spirit.

Mercy

We had mercy shown us at the beginning of our Christian course. We have had mercy shown us today, and shall need mercy, if Jesus tarry, in our dying hour. Well, the way to enjoy it is to be merciful, to deal in grace with others.—W. Lincoln.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

Well, did you miss me last week I was on another run and couldn't get here in time to get my "stuff" in for the printer. However, I don't guess you missed me much.

I am working on a new poultry association. It will be composed of breeders from every county in the Purchase, and should have a membership of about 200. If we get this association organized we will hold a large winter show in one of the cities located in the Purchase each year. This will not only be a big boost for poultry, but will also be a boost for the city wherein the show will be held. Graves county is giving a big show in September and I will plug for that show as much as I can, so as to make it a dandy. I have written to six or eight breeders in each county to come there with their stock and fill up the show; at the same time I will call a meeting during the show and if possible organize the largest poultry association ever organized in Kentucky. Should the organization go over, I will use my influence to stage the first winter show in Paducah sometime during December of this year. Paducah being the largest city in the Purchase, it is no more than right she should have the first show.

During December, 1932, the show will be held in FULTON. We can secure some suitable building up town, where everybody can come in at any time, stay as long as they want to and come as many times as they choose—the show will be FREE. The show should attract exhibitors from every county in the Purchase and a large number of them will come to the show, so it will bring several people into the city, some of whom possibly have never been here before; so it will be a big advertisement for any town where the show is held.

Commercial Avenue
Fulton, Ky.Gold of Conquistadores

SOMETIMES nature laughs at those who seek metals in the ground to make them rich, and ignore the bounty of the earth which, with a little care, is constantly renewing itself, to produce wealth for patient cultivators of the soil, and foods for millions.

So it was with those sons of gold and who, when they failed to find it, went home in disgust neglecting the untried opportunities for riches through colonization. The Conquistadores wanted to get rich quick, and, when they didn't, many of them pulled up baby pineapples because they had grown to have the luscious tropical fruit which they could not get in their own country, and went home to try and grow that fruit under glass, as it does not grow easily in a temperate climate.

Had they remained there and seized this priceless opportunity, today's thriving pineapple industry might have been theirs. For a ripe pineapple is a luscious fruit, and today's Hawaiian pineapple industry puts that ripe pineapple into a can, so that it will reach its millions of devotees with all of its natural fruit sugar, its vitamins, its flavor and its unusual appetite producing taste.

The Taste's The Thing

Have you ever noticed that "more" taste about pineapple? That, as you eat it, you feel somehow as though you could keep on eating it? Pineapple is a powerful aid to digestion and helps one to take care of rich protein foods. That's because pineapple contains bromelain. This fact makes this golden fruit an excellent accompaniment to meats. It's the bromelain in the pineapple served with meats which aids in the digestion of them, besides adding a tang and a taste to them that everyone likes.

And now one may have all the pineapple one wants. Increased production in the Hawaiian Islands has not only made available a great deal more pineapple than in previous years, but the price of this tropical fruit has been lowered so that the housewife may use it as lavishly as she pleases, with meats, to make cakes, griddle cakes, waffles, decorative gelatin salads and desserts, frozen and otherwise, or she may serve the golden wheel of pineapple swimming in a delicious syrup, nicely chilled, for an extra "ritzy" dessert in every sense but price.

Here are some interesting ways of serving pineapple with meat, and some frozen desserts.

Pineapple With Meat

Pineapple Meat Cakes: Add one slightly beaten egg to one pound of chopped round steak, and mix well. Add one and one-fourth teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup crushed pineapple and one-half cup crumbs. Form into round, flat cakes and pan broil in a hot skillet. Makes eighteen medium cakes.

Southern Fried Chicken with Pineapple: Drain syrup from a No. 2½ can sliced Hawaiian pineapple. Add a two-inch stick of cinnamon. Boil three minutes, then add pineapple slices and set aside until cool. Drain and chill. Fry enough chicken for eight in the usual southern fashion and pile in the center of a large silver platter. Around the chicken arrange a border of eight lettuce leaves, using deep cup-shaped leaves. Place a pineapple wheel in each and make a rosette of macaroni in the center of each. Serves eight and provides both the meat course and the salad.

Pineapple Desserts

Pineapple and Banana Ice Cream: Scald together three cups evaporated milk, six cups thin cream, two and two-thirds cups sugar, and egg. Add one No. 2 can crushed Hawaiian pineapple and one cup mashed banana pulp, and freeze. Serves twenty-four.

Pineapple Cherry Bavarian: Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold water. Heat to boiling the juice from one 8-ounce bottle green mint cherries, one and one-half cups crushed pineapple, one-third cup sugar, one tablespoon lemon juice and pour over gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Color a light green and cool. When starting to set, add cherries cut in pieces and one cup whipped cream and pour into individual molds to harden. Unmold and garnish with whipped cream and bits of angelica. Serves eight.

In Case of Emergency

When you want a thing in a hurry you rush to a local store and get it. But do you realize that the existence of our stores depends upon continued business.

If every person in this community were to use the stores only for emergencies there would soon be no more places to satisfy those urgent needs.

You should do your part towards keeping local business alive and in a constant state of betterment by doing all your trading at home. It will be profitable to you as well as to the entire community.
