Browder Mill Big Asset To Fulton

Wheat Coming in From All Directions, Selling at Highest Market Prices.

The busiest place in Fulton today is the Browder Milling plant, owned and operated by Messrs Joe and Enoch Browder. This firm is paying the highest market prices for grain and thousands of bushels of this year's wheat crop is now in their storage. Browder Brothers have created a market for grain known throughout this entire section of country and wheat is coming in fast.

The quality is good and the yield is the best known for years.

The Browder Milling Company is one of Fulton's leading institutions. They not only pay the farmer the highest prices for his grain, but sell their products at the very lowest prices. They manufacture flour of highest standard quality and mixed feeds for all purposes, said to be the best money can buy.

The keynote of their wonderful success in the milling business, however, is not altogether on account of the high grade products they manufacture or the high prices they pay for grain, but the fair and honest dealings with their fellowman.

They believe in treating the other fellow just as they would like to be treated themselves—that's the story in a nutshell.

This old established milling plant is one of Fulton's biggest assets. The thousands and thousands of dollars paid out here for grain circulates thru the business channels of our city, stimulating every line of endeavor.

With a bumper crop and the Browder Milling Company paying highest market prices for grain, no wonder business is picking up.

HOMEMAKERS NOTES

By Miss Alda Henning, Home Agent.

Canners Working

Both the county canners are being used in the bottom for the next two weeks, or until fireplaces are built in other communities in the county.

Five communities have fireplaces in the bottom—Tyler, Bondurant, Blue Pond, Sassafras Ridge and Phillips. The first canning was done at Blue Pond July 4, under the direction of Miss Henning, Home Demonstration Agent. Sassafras Ridge canned Wednesday, July 8, with Mrs. C. K. Davis of Hickman supervising.

The capacity of the canners is from 300 to 500 quarts of food daily. By using a pressure cooker the time of cooking is shortened from one-third to one-half the time used with the water bath, and since it is cooked at from 240 to 270 degrees there is no danger of spoilage from lack of heat. Some corn is ready to be canned now in parts of the county.

Miss Henning will stay with the canners this week, after which some local woman will be able to supervise the cooking, with occasional help from a Foods Leader of Homemakers Club or the Home Agent.

Homemakers Club Picnics

Picnics and election of officers is the order of the day at regular meetings of Homemakers Clubs during July and August.

Boaz Chapel plans their picnic at Bennett School at five o'clock Tuesday evening. Jordan at eleven o'clock Wednesday at W. B. Sowell's and McFadden an all-day picnic at Bayou de Chien on Friday of this week.

Special games are planned for everyone by Program Conductors in the various clubs.

Womans Camp Closed

Homemakers Camp closed Friday noon, July 10 with a picnic dinner at Lynn Grove, Ky., where the district camp was held this year.

Mrs. Mignon Quaw Lott had charge of recreation, being assisted with folk games by Miss Zelma Monroe, Assistant State Leader of Home Agents, and Mrs. Louise Craig, Home Agent of Hickman county. Mrs. Mildred Day of Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich., gave three demonstrations on "Be Your Own Best Exhibit," "Healthful Sweets" and "Entertaining Made Easy," all of which the women greatly enjoyed. Miss Myrtle Weldon, State Leader of Home Agents, had charge of handicraft.

The Fulton county delegation was Mrs. Gus Browder, Palestine; Miss Mary Thetford, Sassafras Ridge; Mrs. I. R. Jeffries, Crutchfield; Lona Smith, Boaz Chapel; Mrs. Birdie Hewitt, Cayce, and Miss Alda Henning, Home Agent.

Junior Camp

Final plans and arrangements for District 4H Club Camp, to be held at Fulton Fair Grounds July 16 to 20, are being made by Miss Henning, Home Agent, and H. C. Brown, County Agent.

McCracken, Hickman, Calloway, Graves, Marshall and Fulton counties will participate and about 100 boys and girls are expected with the county and home agents and local junior leaders. G. J. McKinney, Field Agent in Club Work, from the University of Kentucky, will have charge of the camp.

Several of the Fulton business firms are co-operating to make this camp a success, outstanding of which so far are Kentucky Utilities, who are installing an electric refrigerator and stove for use in the camp.

Hickman County Man Shot

Lonnie Davis, 22, residing near Columbus, Ky., was brought to the Fulton hospital Tuesday for treatment of pistol wounds in his right arm.

It is reported that Davis was passing the home of Hemer Sams, 20, also of near Columbus, and Sams called him in the house. As he entered, it is alleged Sams reached for his gun and began firing. Two shots entered Davis' right arm, completely shattering the bone.

It is said that Davis and Sams had an altercation two years ago and Sams had warned Davis not to dance with his wife.

Sams was lodged in the county jail at Clinton, Ky., charged with shooting with intent to kill.

NAME COUNTY BANKS

Hickman, Ky., July 13.—The Fulton county fiscal court, at its July meeting, presided over by County Judge W. J. McMurray, officially designated the Citizens Bank of Hickman and the City National Bank of Fulton, as county depositories, at the request of County Treasurer C. B. Travis. The court also received bids for coal for use of the county during the coming year, and awarded the contract to the City Coal Company of Fulton on its bid of $5.34.

An Obnoxious Weed

Franklin's July Clearance Sale

Franklin's July Clearance Sale started Wednesday morning, July 15, with tremendous crowds in attendance. It was a great value-giving event—a sale overflowing with greater, better and most desirable money-saving opportunities. The low prices and high grade merchandise is a revelation to thrifty shoppers.

The wonderful popularity obtained by Franklin's great clearance sales was never so forcefully demonstrated as in this SALE NOW IN PROGRESS.

One of the strong features of this sale is the choiceness of the merchandise, correct styles and shapes.

Every garment offered is desirable, and in many instances at a mere trifle of the actual cost. But it is clean-up time and room must be provided for new fall stocks soon to arrive. You can get a fair idea of the money-saving opportunities by reading Franklin's double-page advertisement in this paper.

DEADLY DAYS

Fulton motorists will do well to keep constantly in mind for the next few months to come that the deadliest days of the whole year are here. Every day, somewhere in the country, lives are being snuffed out at railroad grade crossings. And 25 per cent of all auto accidents, it has been determined, in which trains and autos figured, were caused by the motorist driving into the train instead of the train striking the auto. Yet there seems to be no reason on earth why anyone should hit a train. It suggests but one thing—carelessness. The driver who is not on the alert for crossing signs ahead, who approaches a crossing without watching closely to see if the way is clear, or who operates a car on which the brakes are faulty, has no business out on the road at any time, and especially not at this season of the year. They pay a high price for their negligence, and create a lot of sadness where there is no occasion for doing so. Put the brakes in perfect order, and by constant inspection see that they are kept that way. No matter what else may slip your mind—don't forget that these are deadly days.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR BUMPER CROPS

The editor enjoyed a trip to the country this week and found everybody rejoicing over crop conditions, the best we ever looked at in this section of the country.

The farmers suffered from the drought last year, but prosperity is staring them in the face now with bumper crops.

Good rains last week were beneficial in this section and corn made rapid growth; most of it is waist high and some of the earliest is tasseling; all in good cultivation, the major portion having been laid by. The acreage is unusually large and looking fine.

Cotton is also looking fine. Cultivation has been about completed, and the fields are clean of vegetation; considerable portion is blooming and prospects in the bottoms are good for an average of one and a quarter bales to the acre.

The wheat crop is unusually fine, with the best yield in years. Practically all is harvested and the thresher is busy. Some report as high as 60 bushels to the acre, but the average will not exceed more than thirty-five.

Tobacco continues good, especially where soil is fertile, and where moisture is sufficient.

The rains improved the pastures wonderfully. Much hay has already been cut and housed.

The fruit crop is the largest on record, practically all peach and apple trees loaded, with limbs almost touching the ground. The fancy fruit growers have taken much of fruit off the trees. Prices are the lowest in years, but yield the largest.

The blackberry and dewberry crops were large and brought good prices.

MORTGAGE LIFTERS

The hog has always been known as the greatest mortgage lifter. Today, as quite a few around Fulton can testify, hog prices have reached a point where the products of the cow and the hen are more profitable. A survey by farm experts in a neighboring state shows farmers who made the most money last year received 90 per cent of all of their livestock receipts from cows and chickens. Farmers who made the least money got only 65 per cent of their receipts from these sources. The hog and sheep raisers come out on top every now and then, but the dairying and poultry farmer comes out ahead more frequently. Diversified production with plenty of livestock seems to hold the brightest prospect for the farmer. The hog, the cow and the hen, more than grain and fruit, appear to hold the key to prosperity in the rural sections of this country.

Brieflets

The Fulton man who finds it necessary to swallow his pride should always make sure that his digestion is O. K.

One advantage in being a tree doctor is you are never called out in the middle of the night to attend a baby elm with the colic.

They tell you that "time cures all things," but any Fulton motorist can tell you that it won't work on a leaky radiator.

Now they are saying the new dollar bills fade. What puzzles us is how anyone keeps one long enough to find out.

The season is again here when many family skeletons are congregating along the bathing beaches of the country.

This year the only fisherman around Fulton who gets us to believe his story is the one who brings us some of the fish.

Success isn't hard to understand. Any man who can make more than his family can spend is a success.

You can always buy blushes at a drug store, but smiles just have to come natural.

Some Fulton women have the idea that economy consists in paying 50c at a bargain sale for an adollar article they don't need.

There doesn't seem to be anything in the newspapers to show that the wages of sin have changed with the times.

Having money is a mighty fine thing, but the richest man in the world is the one who has a loyal and devoted wife.

Why is it that Fulton women still take more interest in what a girl will wear as a bride than in what she'll get to wear after she is married?

Women may be going in more for business, but no one ever expects one of them to take the part of a silent partner.

Every Fulton woman knows down deep in her heart which family would snub first if she ever became rich.

The only difference between the girl of yesterday and the girl of today is the difference between fainting and "passing out."

It's always better to lose a minute than a leg at a railroad crossing.

POULTRY

(By J. T. Watkins)

Well, I guess it has been definitely settled there will be a fair, but how big I don't know; haven't any dope on it yet. Will try and find out something during this next week. Haven't found out anything about the Mayfield show and fair except it will be held the first week in September.

There are a lot of mighty good chickens being raised this year in this vicinity, and it does seem like a shame not to have a show in which to show them, but maybe things will change for the best before fair time rolls around.

That there will not be any special cash premiums given looks like a surety, for the poultry breeders let the poultry association quietly die, and no one has tried to revive it. It looks to me like you poultry breeders should be ashamed of yourselves and get together and re-organize, and back up the show, if they have one. There is lots of work to be done before fair time, and the workers are easily counted on one hand, and you won't need all the fingers at that.

However, there will be other shows in this vicinity, and if you have nerve enough and have confidence in your stock, you can go into these shows and win your share of the ribbons.

I have received a list of the breeders from four of the eight counties comprising the Purchase, and as soon as I receive lists from the other four I will get out a circular letter inviting each to come to the Mayfield show and while there organize a large poultry association composed of members from each of the counties. We will ask help from the State and expect to stage one large winter show in the district each year. This show should draw exhibitors from all the counties and outside districts as well. We should coop at least 1500 to 2000 birds at each show. If my plans develop as I want them to, we will hold a large free show during December, 1932 in Fulton that will be the equal of any show held in this locality.

You boys and girls make up your minds to go into the 4H poultry club when the County Agent comes around to your schools. We should have at least 200 members join from the counties bordering on Fulton county; should have that many from Ohio and Fulton alone, with 50 or 75 from Hickman and Weakley. Some of your dads will tell you there is no money in poultry and eggs now, and sight you to the low price you are getting for them. I will have to acknowledge the prices are low, but how about the prices on wheat, cattle and hogs, and five cents for tobacco and cotton? Just compare the poultry prices with other farm products and see if poultry isn't holding its own.

Gold of Conquistadores

SOMETIMES nature laughs at those who seek metals in the ground to make them rich, and ignore the bounty of the earth which, with a little care, is constantly renewing itself, to produce wealth for patient cultivators of the soil, and foods for millions.

So it was with those sons of Spain who came to the new world for gold, and who, when they failed to find it, went home in disgust neglecting the unrivaled opportunities for riches through colonization. The Conquistadores wanted to get rich quick, and, when they didn't, many of them pulled up baby pineapple slips because they had grown to love the luscious tropical fruit which they could not get in their own country, and went home to try and grow that fruit under glass, as it does not grow easily in a temperate climate.

Had they remained there and seized this priceless opportunity, today's thriving pineapple industry might have been theirs. For a ripe pineapple is a luscious fruit, and today's Hawaiian pineapple industry puts that ripe pineapple into a can, so that it will reach its millions of devotees with all of its natural fruit sugar, its vitamins, its flavor and its unusual appetite producing taste.

The Taste's The Thing Have you ever noticed that "more" taste about pineapple? That, as you eat it, you feel somehow as though you could keep on eating it? Pineapple is a powerful aid to digestion and helps one to take care of rich protein foods. That's because pineapple contains bromelain. This fact makes this golden fruit an excellent accompaniment to meats. It's the bromelain in the pineapple served with meats, besides aiding in the digestion of them, which adds a tang and a taste to them that everyone likes. And now one may have all the pineapple one wants. Increased production in the Hawaiian Islands has not only made available a great deal more pineapple than in previous years, but the price of this tropical fruit has been lowered so that the housewife may use it as lavishly as she pleases, with meats, to make cakes, griddle cakes, waffles, decorative gelatin salads and desserts, frozen and otherwise, or she may serve the golden wheel of pineapple swimming in a delicious syrup, nicely chilled, for an extra "ritzy" dessert in every sense but price.

Here are some interesting ways of serving pineapple with meat, and some frozen desserts.

Pineapple With Meat

Pineapple Meat Cakes: Add one slightly beaten egg to one pound of chopped round steak, and mix well. Add one and one-fourth teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup crushed pineapple and one-half cup crumbs. Form into round, flat cakes and pan broil in a hot skillet. Makes eighteen medium cakes.

Southern Fried Chicken with Pineapple Wheels: Drain syrup from a No. 2½ can sliced Hawaiian pineapple. Add a two-inch stick of cinnamon. Boil three minutes, then add pineapple slices and set aside until cool. Drain and chill. Fry enough chicken for eight in the usual Southern fashion and pile in the center of a large silver platter. Around the chicken arrange a border of eight lettuce leaves, using deep cup-shaped leaves. Place a pineapple wheel in each and make a rosette of mayonnaise in the center of each. Serves eight, and provides both the meat course and the salad.

Pineapple Desserts

Pineapple and Banana Ice Cream: Scald together three cups evaporated milk, six cups thin cream, two and two-thirds cups sugar, and cool. Add one No. 2 can crushed Hawaiian pineapple and one cup mashed banana pulp, and freeze. Serves twenty-four.

Pineapple Cherry Bavarian: Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold water. Heat to boiling, then add one 8-ounce bottle green mint cherries, one and one-half cups crushed pineapple, one-third cup sugar, one tablespoon lemon juice and pour over gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Color a light green and cool. When starting to set, add cherries cut in pieces and one cup whipped cream and pour into individual molds to harden. Unmold and garnish with whipped cream and bits of angelica. Serves eight.

Happy Ending of Bermuda Cruise

By LEETE STONE

"EXCUSE me," Danforth Evans said to a lovely girl leaning against the rail of the steamer Elspeth bound for Bermuda, the first hour out. "Excuse me; but you dropped this paper out of the book under your arm." He held it out between two fingers and his smile was very winning.

"Ever so thankful. What a gorgeous sea!"

So started one of the million ship-board romances. It went like this:

"Yes, isn't it? May I stop and chat awhile?"

"Please do!"

"I suppose this is just a trifling escape from too pressing suitors for you?" Danforth Evans said in his best manner. "This little voyage, I mean," he added.

"Say!" the girl turned squarely to face Danforth. "Well, get along famously on this voyage if you don't try to pull any highbrow, 'wealthy set' stuff on me. If I let you, you'd go on to relate that you're one of the special darlings of Southampton; that you're engaged but you hate it; that you've got the next best fortune to Ella Wendel's if your father dies conveniently soon . . . oh, I know the old stuff, big boy. This is my third sea voyage."

This outburst left Danforth Evans a bit abashed; but he rallied nobly. "Quite right! You called my little bluff, lovely lady. I was about to suggest that I had a great deal of money in my own right, and that we, you and I ought to continue this cruise down through the Canal Zone and up to San Francisco where we might get married and start a tour of the world for a honeymoon. But you called me plenty. I'm a clerk at the men's furnishings in Jarnegan's; and I've saved for this vacation for a year. There's the lowdown—and while I'm at it, let's not know each other's names. Let's you call me Dan; and I'll call you Nan—eh?"

"O. K., Dan; now we're on a straight footing. But tell me, you aren't engaged, are you? I was kidding about that—and I hope you aren't because you've got a . . . look about you. Me, I'll be frank. I work in a department store, too—sales girl in ladies' lingerie. Now let's start square!"

"Right, Nan! You guessed me the first time! I was going to tell you the whole sad story of how I was engaged by fond parents to my next door neighbor's daughter while we were both in kilt—on account of mutual money, you know. . . . Well, we'll cut out all that, Nan. There's going to be a moon tonight. I looked it up on the office calendar. Meet me here, and let's talk some more, will you?"

"O. K., big boy—I'll meet you anywhere so long as you're square. Understand?"

"Right!"

They met that night as naturally as water is drawn from two streams into one. At the prow of the ship where they were bathed in moonlight, and the gilded phosphorescence tinged the leaping waves with silver.

"Remember! This is a shipboard romance, Dan. Nothing serious!" Nan reproved as he put his arm gently over her shoulders.

"Trust me! I know all about them," Dan flippantly responded.

When the short sail was over, however, there was something more than flippancy and insincerity in the gaze of these two.

"It may have been a shipboard romance," Dan murmured earnestly, "but I'll find you again on land; and when I do I'll keep you—just remember that."

Danforth Evans arrived at his ancestral mansion in Long Island a few weeks later after a good sunning and tanning on the beaches, quite fit for his father's brokerage office and the nerve-racking din of downtown New York. He found the house la festive army. His mother, a silver-haired dowager of society, greeted him with:

"Well, Danforth! I'm glad you wired me. Otherwise I'd have been sure you'd forgotten that tonight is my party for you and Blanche—she's just back from the Sacred Heart convent."

"Oh, gee, mother! This isn't the Middle Ages! Why must I go through with that childish contract between dad and her dad. Don't make me go through with this childish engagement. Why, I haven't seen her since we ate lollypops together."

"Very well, my son. All I desire is that you meet her tonight. You might just happen to like her."

All of which explains why Danforth Evans was filled with a great disgust for family pacts and ancestral bunk in general, as his mother escorted him through the palatial drawing room to meet the girl he had been affianced to years ago.

"There she is, son! Talking to Blake Leigh. Isn't she sweet?"

"My God!" Danforth Evans muttered reverently. "It can't be true—mother! You're kidding me! That isn't Blanche Heyward?"

Blanche had seen the grand approach and she turned to mother and son.

"Oh yes it is, Danny—but for the purpose of a Bermuda cruise I use Lorraine Grace or just plain Nan, instead. I recognized you the moment I saw you—that unmistakable nose—and I hated you for not knowing me. In spite of the fact that we haven't seen each other since lollypop days."

"Er . . . Give me a little time," Danforth Evans stammered with a beatific smile on his face.

A HELP TO HAM

HAM has always been a popular meat in this country. So much of it is consumed, in fact, that dietitians have made a special study of what to serve with it in order to make it more digestible. For ham is a good food, rich in proteins, and you like to eat a lot of it, because of its vigorous flavor, they want to be sure that your digestive apparatus can take care of it.

Of recent years, the porker, if he enjoys being eaten, has found himself indebted to Hawaii. A combination not only delectable but dietetically correct has been found in ham with Hawaiian pineapple. This fruit is blessed with a digestive enzyme called bromelain which acts powerfully on protein foods, and makes them easier to digest. That is the reason why pineapple is served so often nowadays with protein rich foods such as ham, pork, lamb chops, beef steak and other meats. Here are two recipes for its use with ham and pork.

Ham Hawaiian Style: Put slices of cold, boiled ham over bottom of shallow baking pan, one slice for each person to be served. On each slice put a slice of canned Hawaiian pineapple. In the hole of each slice force two ripe olives and then hide them by putting one tablespoon brown sugar over each hole. Place under broiler and brown well.

Pork Chops with Grilled Pineapple: Fry one and one-half pounds pork chops as usual, and remove to a hot platter. Meanwhile drain one 15-ounce can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple, place the slices on the broiler rack and brown under flame until golden on both sides. Place on a platter with the chops. This recipe will serve six people, and so plentiful is canned Hawaiian pineapple this year that the price is lower than usual, and a housewife should be able to serve it anywhere in this country at a cost of not more than seventy cents. Add that's not the only economy. Every experienced housewife will be sure to save the syrup drained from the can to use in her cold summer drinks.

Community Building

Concerted Action for Highway Beautification

The American Automobile association, which has waged for years a systematic campaign for the preservation of highway beauty as a benefit to its millions of motorist members, has directed wide attention to the unification of effort back of the local movement for "cleaning up" the entrances to Washington as a preliminary to the 1932 bi-centennial celebration.

Itself an active supporter of the campaign, the District of Columbia division of the A. A. A. devoted a leading editorial in an issue of the American Motorist to what is being done in Washington for the beautification of the highways.

"Concerted action on the part of civic associations, architects, highway engineers, newspapers and others is finally accomplishing what was impossible for the individual to do, the beautification of highways into Washington as a preliminary to the Bicentennial," the American Motorist says. "Daily newspaper columns are filled with news of citizens' meetings where the subject of highway beautification is discussed. Group after group is aligning itself with the forces working to make the approaches as beautiful as the city itself. Photographs are being published everywhere showing unsightly billboards and the pleasing pastoral scenes which they conceal. The campaign has scarcely started, but already several of the largest advertisers have agreed to use other means of placing their products before the public.

"The unification of effort with which the campaign for highway beautification is being conducted is worthy of its cause,"—Washington Star.

Warfare Upon Ugliness

Matter of Civic Duty

Making and keeping a city clean and attractive is a full-sized job that does not diminish with the years, but is likely to grow with the city itself. That is an understanding of the matter that seems to have been gained by the Municipal Art League of Chicago in its 30 years of existence. The league, as its name implies, is interested primarily in promotion of art and beauty in city life. But it has found that a warfare upon ugliness and dirt is a directly related task. And it is too big a task for one organization alone. So the aid of all civic and other groups is being sought, the main objective being an onslaught upon the smoke nuisance, roof signs, billboards and the like.

This is heartening endeavor, which, according to all reasonable calculations, should bring results. In theory, there is no more reason for a dirty, cluttered-up and generally unattractive appearance in a community than exists for the individual home. In one respect, as in the other, it is a case of sloppy housekeeping, the difference being that with the community it is everybody's business and responsibility. Hence the necessity of large-scale community action.—Kansas City Star.

Playgrounds Essential

Most American cities, like Tokyo, "just growed," and in so growing, one addition or subdivision was tacked to another, sometimes beautiful, often not so beautiful, and more often still the playground was omitted. Even school yards, generally speaking, are too small. Some of them have lost ground to the school building itself, as the community grew and school facilities were enlarged.

The price such communities pay for haphazard development is that very probably they are without sufficient parks or without conveniently placed playgrounds, and will be for many years to come, if indeed they ever have any.

"Build Now" Is Urged

Six reasons why chambers of commerce should urge their members to "Build now" are contained in a bulletin mailed to secretaries of 200 Illinois organizations by the Illinois chamber of commerce in an effort to speed public and private construction projects.

Those reasons are: Lowest material prices in years, cheap money, abundance of efficient labor, speedy delivery on all materials, available engineering and the nearness of business recovery making the time ripe for construction.

For Safe Sidewalks

A sidewalk is such a familiar object that the average person is quite apt to forget about it entirely until he stubs his toe on an upheaved slab or wrenches his ankle in a hole. Its very commonplaceness indicates the wide dependence which is put upon the average sidewalk, and the importance which must be placed on keeping it in condition. A good sidewalk is a guarantee of trouble proof performance, long life and low cost.

Villages May Profit

The larger cities have reached the point where the streets will not hold the traffic and double-decking by the construction of overland ways and subways is the makeshift resorted to. Growing small cities should study the problem now so that when population begins to crowd more street room will have been provided.

On the Funny Side

EXCELLENT PUBLICITY

"How do you like your new publicity agent?" asked the film star's friend.

"Oh, he's wonderful," she cried, beaming with enthusiasm. "We've been robbed twice, our house has been burned, our car has been wrecked, and I have had my life threatened by an anonymous enemy since we employed him."

Another Reason

"Why are telephone rates so high?" "Because of the extravagance of the American people," answered the man who can explain everything. "The company has to charge extra because whenever there is a great popular demonstration people insist on tearing up telephone books to make confetti."

Problems in Ushering

Head Usher (to aide in crowded picture theater)—Tell that large woman she'll have to take her hat off that other seat and hold it in her lap. Usher (back after a few minutes)—What'll I do now? She says she ain't got no lap.

No Way Out

The old man's wife had been ill for some time, and he was asked how she was getting on. "Oh, ma'am," he replied sorrowfully, "the doctor won't give us no hope either way."

QUITE AMBITIOUS

First Hobo—Say, Pard, wouldn't it be great if youse could git all de eat an' drink youse wanted by jist pressin' in a 'lectric button?

Second Hobo—It shore would of I had somebody ter press de button for me.

Art and Nature

The comic picture cheers our eyes. With quaint contentions, day by day, And yet how we would sympathize If anybody grew that way!

How Can He Know?

Boss—How is it you are never at work on time in the morning and often leave too early in the evening? Clerk—Well, sir, you told me not to watch the clock, so I don't pay any attention to it.

When!

Yin Sing—What time next tain go Denver?

Ticket Agent—Two-two.

Yin Sing—You no understand; I know tain go too-too. I no ask how he go; I ask when!

Not Then

"An engaged girl should tell her prospective husband about her faults," "A good plan. And she runs no risks."

"Eh?"

"He'll never believe her."

Path of Least Resistance

"When I was twenty I made up my mind to get rich."

"But you never became rich."

"No, I decided it was a lot easier to change my mind."

PUZZLING PITCHER

"Oh, isn't the man that throws the ball on your side just splendid?"

"Think so?"

"Yes, he sends it so they hit it every time."

Irony

He climbed the tallest mountains (The public cheered each feat). Then lost his life while climbing Into a rumble seat!

That Goes for Girls, Too

"Odd, isn't it?"

"What?"

"That often a man doesn't show how dumb he is till he starts talking."

Ever Meet A Pumpkin?

YOU may still occasionally meet a whole pumpkin in really rural districts, according to Dr. William A. Taylor, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry, but they are rapidly disappearing from the fresh vegetable markets, only to make their reappearance on grocers' shelves in cans.

There are several good reasons for this. The size of a whole pumpkin makes its use impractical for any one who has not a large family or is not going to enter a pie eating contest. Few housewives plan nowadays to make six pies at once. And then canned pumpkin is delicious and saves a whole lot of labor and time in the kitchen. Everyone knows how to make an ordinary pie with canned pumpkin, but here is an elaborate one which fairly

Makes Your Mouth Water

Pumpkin Pie with Honey Pecan Garnish: Add one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon ginger and one-half teaspoon cinnamon to two-thirds cup sugar. Add to one and one-eighth cups canned pumpkin. Add two slightly beaten eggs and one cup milk. Pour into pie tin lined with pastry and bake, having oven hot at first (450° for 15 minutes), then lower (325° for 30 minutes), or until set. Serve with unsweetened whipped cream dropped by spoonfuls over the top. Pour honey in little drops over the cream, and sprinkle the whole with pecan meats.

Peas Save Expense

PEAS are one of the most popular of vegetables, and they are low available everywhere all year around in cans. They are not only popular, but inexpensive. Here is a dish of meat and peas, for instance, which will serve four people and which can be had most anywhere at a cost of less than fifty cents.

Frankfurters with Parsley Peas: Heat the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas for about three minutes, drain, add one tablespoon butter, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Grill or fry eight frankfurters (one pound), and place on top of the peas like the spokes of a wheel. Sprinkle with two tablespoons parsley, and reheat in the oven a few minutes. And here is a dish of peas alone which will serve four people at a cost of not more than twelve cents.

English Peas: Add one and one-half tablespoons vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons crushed fresh mint to the contents of an 11-ounce can of peas, and simmer gently for ten minutes.

Pea Salads

Don't forget, too, that canned peas are excellent in salads and all ready to combine with the other ingredients. Try this:

Potato and Pea Salad: Marinate the peas from a No. 2 can and two cups diced boiled potatoes in French dressing thoroughly. Add one-half cup diced pickled beets and one tablespoon chopped onion, and moisten with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce nests. Serves eight.

Lesson for July 19

SOCIAL SERVICE IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-6; 9:36-39; II Cor. 9:1-7.

GOLDEN TEXT—I have showed you all things, how that no laborer ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Sharing With Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Sharing With Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christians Sharing With Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Generosity of the Early Christians.

Social service as such was not a department of church activity. However, the early church was most ready to discharge its social obligations. Members of the body of Christ are sympathetically related.

I. Characteristics of the Early Church (Acts 4:31-35).

1. It was a praying church (v. 31). These early Christians for every need betook themselves to God in prayer.

2. It was a Spirit-filled church (v. 31). When they prayed, the place wherein they were gathered together was shaken and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit.

3. It was a church with a bold testimony (v. 31). The ministers of the early church did not offer any apology for the Bible, but expended their energy in fearlessly preaching it.

4. It was a united church (v. 32). They were all of one heart and soul.

5. It was a generous church (v. 32). They held nothing back from those who had need.

6. Its ministers had a powerful testimony (v. 33).

7. Its members had an unblemished character (v. 33).

II. Appointment of Deacons (Acts 6:1-4).

1. The occasion (v. 1). The church was threatened with disruption over suspected partiality in the distribution of alms. The Grecians felt discriminated against in that their widows were neglected in the "daily ministrations."

2. The issue met (vv. 2-6). A congregational meeting was called, the case placed before the church, and the church instructed to select seven men of good report, filled with the Holy Spirit and wisdom to administer the temporalities of the church, leaving the apostles freedom for prayer and the ministry of God's Word.

3. The ministry of the deacons (v. 7). They looked after the poor, but while distributing alms, they were witnessing for Christ. Social service is a by-product of Christianity and not Christianity itself.

III. The Raising of Dorcas (Acts 9:36-39).

1. Her ministry (v. 36 Cf. v. 39). Her life was full of good works, such as making coats and garments for the poor. Her noble ministry has set in motion countless numbers of needles, and has given incentive to many noble women to follow her example. The good deeds were not merely those which she intended to do, but "which she did."

2. Her death (v. 37). In the midst of a life full of good works she was overtaken by death.

3. Peter sent for (v. 38). In their distress the disciples sent two men urgently to request Peter to come to them. Having heard of the healing of Aeneas at Lydda, which was near, they no doubt believed that he could restore Dorcas to life.

4. Dorcas raised (vv. 39-41). In answer to Peter's prayer Dorcas was "presented alive to the saints and widows."

5. The effect (v. 42). So astounding was this miracle that "many believed in the Lord."

IV. Ministering to the Saints (II Cor. 9:1-7).

The saints in need were Christians at Jerusalem. Many were impoverished because of embracing Christianity. Sending money to the saints at Jerusalem was an expression of affection on the part of these Gentile Christians for the Jews. As an incentive to giving Paul shows:

1. That the volume of reaping is based upon the volume of sowing (v. 6).

2. There should be a heart purpose (v. 7). This calls for intelligence as to the object in giving.

3. Giving should not be of necessity (v. 7). No particular value accrues to the giver who only responds under pressure.

4. God loves a cheerful giver (v. 7). Right understanding of responsibility toward God with reference to temporal possessions will make giving a glorious privilege.

All Who Come

Christ saveth unto the uttermost all who come unto God by him; and it is best to leave Christ to determine where the uttermost lies. What is impossible with men is easy to omnipotent grace.—W. L. Watkinson.

As the Angels Give

ONE WAY OUT

Statistics show that most people are honest and pay their bills eventually. In good times long-drawn-out payment is not harmful to business. Enough cash flows in to permit the average merchant to take care of his own accounts and wait for the "slow pay." In subnormal times, however, the situation is different. Merchants are not bankers. They buy for cash and take the ordinary trade discounts when they can. They try to do business honestly, efficiently and with full value. But they cannot do so if buyers abuse their credit privilege. The prompt payment of bills is one way out of a depression. It will save retail merchants millions of dollars in operating expense and make possible further cheapening of prices in line with price declines in the wholesale markets. It should be practiced by all who accept credit as a moral as well as a business matter. Pay your bills promptly, or pay as you can on them as often as you possibly can and you will be surprised to see how quickly the clouds of depression will disappear from the business skies.

Better Breakfasts

If you want to start the day feeling as chirpy as the little birds in the branches outside your window, include plenty of fruit in your breakfast and lots of milk and cream. In the following suggested menu you can have top milk or cream on your cold cereal, there is a sauce made of milk on the saucers and you can have cream in your hot beverage. Most people prefer this variety of ways to hot drinking milk or cream. Here's the menu.

1/2 cup Cantaloupe

Cold Cereal

Saucer Shrimp in Cream Sauce

Strawberry Jam

Hot Beverage

Toast

1/2 cup cantaloupe is delicious on a hot summer morning, and strawberry jam adds one more fruit. For the main dish make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, salt, pepper and one-fourth teaspoon kit chen bouquet. Slice the contents of a 5-ounce can of Vienna sausages thin, and add to the sauce. Reheat and serve on toast. This will serve six people.

Good Coffee

If you are a lover of coffee and want that for your hot beverage, be sure to select one of the brands that is vacuum packed. These retain all their flavor and aroma, and assure you coffee with a kick. Nothing is flatter than coffee that has been exposed to oxygen. Vacuum packing is the best way to preserve the flavor and aroma to escape.

News For Brides

It has long since been proved that canned foods retain their vitamins, since these are destroyed only by heating in the presence of oxygen, and canned foods are all cooked in hermetically sealed cans. But it has remained for Dr. Walter H. Eddy, of Teachers College at Columbia University to specify a list of them on which present-day brides can rely to contain adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and U for health needs in her honeymoon, canned foods.

Here are the foods upon which Dr. Eddy stated in a recent address before the American Chemical Society that brides can rely: Canned milk, every day.

Choice of ten meats. Roast beef, corned beef, tongue, pot roast, chicken, lamb stew, corned beef hash, sausage, veal loaf and chicken a la king.

Choice of seventeen vegetables: Spinach, peas, string beans, tomatoes, tomato juice, wax beans, baked beans, beets, corn, lima beans, sweet potatoes, hominy, carrots, okra, turnip greens, Brussels sprouts and mixed vegetables.

Choice of six fruits: Prunes, peaches, apricots, cherries, pineapples, apple sauce.

Canned brown bread and spaghetti.

Dessert: Canned plum pudding.

Based on Scientific Tests

The tests upon which these specific recommendations were made were based on rats. The rat experiments lasted for a year, which, Dr. Eddy said, was equivalent to about twenty-five years of human life. All the animals averaged better in weight than those fed on a stock diet, he said.
