CONFLICT BETWEEN MAYOR AND THE TRACTION COMPANY

MAYOR DENIS THAT CHILDREN SHALL BE CARRIED AT HALF FARE, AND THE TRACTION COMPANY PERSISTED IN DEMANDING FULL FARE CHILDREN HAVE TICKETS.

Mayor Vehslle and Manager Birt of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, who are in charge of the funds, had a very serious discussion on half fare last night in the mayor's office, in connection with the claims of children riding the cars who are over 4 years of age but under 12 years old. The mayor determined that children over 4 years old but under 12 years of age should be carried at half fare, and the company insisted that they pay full fare. The company is threatening to take legal steps if the mayor does not reverse his decision.

The resolution of the board of education of the city authorizes the company to charge children over 4 years of age half fare, the mayor is the legal representative of the board of education, and it is therefore within his power to determine what the fare should be, and if he so decides, he cannot be made to reverse his decision.

A case came to the attention of Mayor Vehslle of Brooklyn, which he referred to his solicitor, Mr. Merkeer, who assisted the mayor in making his arguments. The mayor said that the children must tender their fare, and if they do not, he will have them arrested and held for trial.

Mayor Vehslle insists that children shall be carried at half fare. The half fare is required in order to meet the requirements of the Woodworth Street extension.

TRAMPS OF DEATH VALLEY

SEARCH FOR FOOD, DESTINY AND SHELTER

Very Ugly, Ranchero—Rencoso

From Los Angeles, to Las Vegas.

What would you think if an occasional loafer from your back door were to come straggling over a few miles of sandy wastes from sleeping in haymows, and then wander off into the deserts of miles a year, whose food is mostly a few prickly cacti, paid for by any number of cold chills, and all the rest, and who, when caught, has his body dug out from under the sand and thrown or carried to a settlement and buried, or perhaps hanged, is not a very uncommon sight.

Yet there is exactly such a class of people that are roaming over the tramps of cities as is in the desert. They are the more unfortunate, because they are the more pitiable.

Some of them have been thieves, outlaws, and so forth, and have been driven from their haunts of evil by the hands of the law. Others are the abandoned children of Christian homes, who, for no very apparent reason, have drifted away from the paths of life.

The actual number of them is not generally known, but it is said that there are not fewer than a million in the United States. Some of them have been prosperous, but they have become involved in financial difficulties, and are now wandering about the country, seeking a livelihood.

One of the prominent features of the tramp life is the total or partial disregard of law. They are often found in daring acts of theft and violence.

The tramp is a wanderer, who, for the most part, is not a stowaway on the train, but a foot traveler. He is not afraid of hard work, and is willing to do any kind of labor that may be offered to him.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—State Examiner C. C. Jones has completed his examination of the Standish's bank and will forward a report on it to the superintendent. The official was certified that there were no abnormal conditions to indicate that the institution was in any way
in danger. The report of the exami-nator has not been released.

The final police and the state's attorney's office composed their investigations. Inspector Sweeney
then demanded that the Standish's bankers accord his application for about the deplorable state of the banking house of commerce. The examination consists of a thorough search of the office of the same character as that of the previous banks. The inspector stated that the examination was completed and that the report will be as follows:

We have been trying to get rid of all the stories which have been so widely circulated in the press, and have tried to give to the public a correct impression on the subject of the great body of the Demo- crats, that it beat them, and that it was a clear and decided victory for the evening papers to give to the paper, some resolutions taken by the New York committee, and thus given to the public. I know the special interest of any two classes of these men are, nor do I know whether they are all men of the Demo- crats, that it beat them, and should thus be given to the public. The chief came in and asked me, 'Do you know whether it is the case that the fellow who has been made a candidate for the New York committee, and thus given to the public, some resolutions taken by the New York committee, and thus given to the public.'""
