The Choice of Young Cohen

By IRVIN S. COBB

IT SO befell in the months preceeding our entry into the Great War that in a suburb of Chicago a preparedness league was organized. Swept away by patriotic love for his adopted country a youth named Cohen joined it. Now, military drill was a part of the duties of a member, and young Cohen did not take with any great amount of enthusiasm to this feature.

One evening the commander of his squad sought to liven him. "Buck up Herman!" he said. "You learn how to be a soldier and some of these days you may go back to the old country—to Poland—and be a field marshal."

"I think," said Herman, "I'd rather stay here and be Marshall Field."

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

I accompanied a local Boy Scout Troop on a trip to Mammoth Cave, Lincoln's shrine, Jeff Davis memorial, Old Kentucky Home, and old Fort Harrodsburg this past week end. There were about 35 of us, including Scoutmaster Henry Edwards, James Meacham, Bertie Pigue and a large group of Scouts. We left Fulton Saturday night about eleven o'clock and arrived back here Monday morning around two o'clock.

Driving all night Saturday night we stopped only to get gas and something to eat, and arrived at Fort Harrodsburg well up into the day Sunday. If you remember your history, this old fort was the strongest refuge of the early pioneer. The friendly stockaded enclosure of Harrods Fort furnished protection from the Indians, courage and advice to that stream of settlers pouring into the country through Cumberland Gap and down the Wilderness Road and by flat boat down the Ohio river. Harrodsburg, by reason of its early settlement and the great movements originating here, which determined the future of the state, is the most historic town, not only in the State, but in the West. It is the Jamestown of the West.

At the old fort we saw the first school house in Kentucky, established in 1775, by Mrs. Jane Coomes, wife of William Coomes. Built of logs, with only a dirt floor, it contains a big open fireplace, crude benches made of logs split in half, an old wooden water bucket with a drinking gourd.

The old fort has been restored in accordance with original form and size. The fort covered a ground area of 264 feet each way. The heavy stockade was 12 feet high. This defense differed from previous ones erected in the east in that it was designed to accommodate both the home life of men, women and children and the military life. There was carried on in the fort all the activities of social life, tanning, spinning, weaving, blacksmithing, woodworking, hominy making, and other industries. Marriages, births and deaths occurred. When there was an Indian alarm, the livestock was brought within the stockade. A large spring was wisely included in the enclosure to insure a water supply without risk of life in going outside. In this fort the great military genius of the west, George Rogers Clark, lived and planned his brilliant military moves. His campaigns added a vast empire to the union.

A beautiful colonial brick building stands at the left of the entrance gateway, combining the charm of a dignified dwelling with the educational features of a museum. The front hallway, with its portraits, represents the early Federal Union of States, to the right is the Lincoln room, with many interesting paintings, statuary, mementos, papers and relics of Lincoln. To the left is the Confederate Room, wherein are paintings and prints of the leaders of the south and many relics of the different battle fields. The South Hall with its unusual stairway and beautiful woodwork is a treat in architectural design.

The George Rogers Clark room with a rare painting of Clark and many prints and papers, pertaining to him and his conquests, is very instructive. On the second floor is the Gun Room, with many instruments, found to be rare. A room showing some beautiful clothes of the other days, Indian relics, rare bottles, historical books, etc., and many articles of unusual interest.

Upon entering the colonial gateway to the park is seen the Lincoln Marriage Temple, that shelters the cabin in which Lincoln's parents, Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, were married.

You can read about the history of your state and your country, but when you see these historic spots as we did, you gain such intimate touch with the past, that memory will retain each vivid incident as though you saw it with your own eyes. Fort Harrods, "the cradle of Kentucky" was built in 1775 and 1776 by James Harrod and party, assisted by Daniel Boone, who had penetrated the country several years prior to this time. Boone spent the winter of 1769-70 in a cave on the waters of Shawnee, in Mercer county. A tree marked with his name stood near the cave until a few years ago when it died. Bark bearing his initials was removed and is now on display at Fort Harrods.

Next we stopped at Bardstown, near which is located the "Old Kentucky Home" where Stephen Foster wrote that immortal song. It is situated in a state park, and is a stately old mansion built in 1795 by Judge John Rowan. The bricks came from England, were landed at Newport News, Va., then brought to Kentucky on sledges in the winter over Indian trails, drawn by oxen, driven by slaves. This old mansion is in the midst of 235 acres and lawn. It is a reproduction of of beautiful woodland, meadow Independence Hall, Philadelphia, in which the Declaration of Independence was formulated and signed.

We then back tracked to Hodgenville near which is located the Lincoln Memorial. In the park area a beautiful statue has been erected of Lincoln, and inside a handsome edifice is housed the Lincoln Cabin, where this great president was born, February 12, 1809. In Abraham's infancy his father built this cabin, and it was the future President's home until their removal to Indiana when he was seven years old.

Late in the afternoon Sunday we arrived at Mammoth Cave. After talking with the management, it was decided to take Route No. 1 through the cave, which requires three hours to make. In the cave region we noticed large sinkholes entirely surrounded by elevated ground rising sometimes hundreds of feet. These "Valleys" have been formed by the falling in of a series of adjacent caverns. They are true sinkholes, for all the water which falls upon its surface disappears to feed subterranean streams. One may travel miles in this part of Kentucky without crossing a running stream. The sinkholes guide the water downward into the rocks where it gathers into rivulets and rills, and in a blackness deeper than that of night, they seek for and find one another and form subterranean rivers of which Echo River in Mammoth Cave is the most notable example. The cave action began after Green River had cut its channel down into the limestone stratum. As Green River cut its bed deeper and deeper into the limestone underlay, the cave waters kept pace with the process until what had once been mere subterranean rills grew into that remarkable underground stream which is responsible for the immensity of Mammoth Cave's development. Echo River now flows through the lowest level of the Cave and empties into Green River, which fed by subterranean streams, is really of a clear, green hue, fringed by elms, sycamores and beeches that rise walls of foliage from its translucent floor.

It is impossible to adequately describe Mammoth Cave, and while life's new sensations are really few and precious, this cave does provide the unexpected and the almost indescribable. In the cave are stalactites and stalagmites that take form of fluted columns, festoons, and draperies, of ceiling decorations that defy description.

There are great auditoriums or temples with one ceiling more than two acres in extent. There are domes, hundreds of feet high. There are deep abysses like "The Bottomless Pit" and huge piles of rocks that seemingly have been swirled about by underground waters until they have worn great caverns. Interesting points on the route which we took included the Gaints Coffin, the Corkscrew, Fat Man's Misery, Natural Bridge, River Styx, Echo River, Dead Sea, Ruins of Karnak, Mammoth Dome, etc.

Mammoth Cave was discovered in 1809 by a hunter while chasing a bear, which fled to the cave. It was first sold for forty dollars, but since then has changed hands several times, and as interest grew in the beauties of the cave, it was finally taken over by the state and federal agencies.

As we entered the cave we found the temperature rather cool—54 degrees. A rush of cold air met us as we entered the locked gateway. It was noticeable that when we came out that one could detect an earthy smell to the outside atmosphere.

It was a great experience to make the trip through the cave. There is a longer route requiring more than seven hours, but for me, three hours was plenty long. I was glad to be above ground again. Dante's Inferno could not have much on Mammoth Cave for sheer mystery and unbelievable sights. It has been difficult to record this excursion, but I hope that it will have some appeal for those who have not been fortunate enough to visit these scenic spots.

Money Talks

The census study is revealing many changes in our population structure which may create numerous economic and social problems. Although the analyses of census figures are not complete, they reveal that during the 1930-40 decade the rural population grew faster than the city population for the first time in the history of the country.

The study also points out that the rate of gain in our population has slowed up. Census statisticians estimate that the total population of the United States is now 132,000,000. This represents an increase of only 7.5 percent as compared with 1930, whereas the increase during the 1920-1930 decade was 16 percent.

The age structure of our people is also changing. Immigration restrictions, declining birth rate, and the increasing length of life—all these combine to make the percentage of young people decline rapidly.

If these population trends are maintained during this decade, commerce and industry will be faced with the necessity of reconciling itself to a stabilized market.

8,000 TENANT FAMILIES HAVE WRITTEN LEASES

About 8,000 farm tenant families in Tennessee now have written leases for from one to five years, according to reports of Farm Security Administration office at Nashville.

Not one of these families had ever written leases before FSA, which makes loans to low income farm families for the purchase of livestock, workstock, tools, seed, fertilizer, etc. Such loans have been made to 8,000 borrowers who are tenants and can get written leases on the land.

ing the life of the loan, which may be up to five years with interest at five percent. The farming and conservation practices are in accordance with the recommendations of sion Service.

HOW A New WORLD CAME OUT OF A VACUUM

WHEN Thomas A. Edison pumped all the air out of his laboratory bell jar and shot a feeble electric current through a charred cotton string, he witnessed the beginning of a new world . . .
a world that came out of a vacuum.

The electric light which came out of that vacuum built the great electric industry of the United States, an industry which today puts behind the American workman more cheap electric power than is available in any other nation. Because of this abundance of power American workmen produce more goods, and earn more money, and work shorter hours than any other men in the world.

We've a new world. We Americans have developed it ourselves: with initiative, with courage, with intelligence and ingenuity, and with hard work.

Thomas Edison slaved because he knew the world would welcome something better. We, his followers, feel that it is our responsibility to protect and expand the usefulness of that great man's contributions. For example, because of our unceasing progress, this company is able to give better service now than was possible ten years ago—at about half the rate! The average customer can now use about twice as much electricity as he did then for the same amount of money!

Today we're the best lighted nation on earth. And we enjoy more of the many other electrical conveniences—radios, washers, irons, refrigerators—than any other nation. We've a freedom—a freedom from drudgery, from inconvenience —that can't even be approached anywhere else!

The next time you turn on an electric light or tune in a dance band, think how much you get for so little. And remember that it is the goal of this company and its employees to bring you greater value this year than last; and bring more of the good things of life to more people at less cost.

Mid-South Fair To Be Biggest Ever

Entertainment at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis, Sept. 23-28th, will reach a new high this year as more and more entertainers and special features are being signed up to appear.

Among local favorites in the Mid-South who will make several appearances daily are the Jewel Cowboys known to thousands through their Radio broadcasts. Several other musical organizations will also be special features.

Heaglan's Hippodrome Sensations, will be an entirely new feature at the Mid-South Fair this year. This Hippodrome Sensation has never before shown in this section and their two daily shows in front of the grandstand will contain two dozen acts of great daring and skill. Advance information about this feature indicates that these horses are some of the most beautiful and priceless animals in the country.

The Rodeo, an annual feature of the Mid-South Fair, will be an entirely new group this year and several car-loads of wild horses have been ordered from Montana, where they are rounded up only a few days in advance of shipping, and their appearance in front of the grandstand in Memphis twice each day during the Fair will be their very first contact with a saddle and human rider.

Auto races will be the special attraction at the Memphis Fair on Saturday, Sept. 28. Already eleven well-known and famous racers have signed up to appear and several are bringing new high-powered vehicles to take the dangerous curves.

Beckman and Gerety's Famous Shows will construct the double-horseshoe Midway this year and are bringing 118 tent and side-show attractions and devices, including the daring Hell's Drivers who perform on motorcycles in a small pit filled with raging lions.

In the Woman's Building nationally known radio entertainers will appear. In addition a free musical comedy will be presented each night in the Woman's Building, as well as numerous attractions.

Dozens and dozens of other entertainment features are on schedule for each of the exhibit buildings and, as usual, the permanent features of the Fair Grounds will be operated for the visitors to the Fair. These include the thrilling Pippin Ride, and the new and exciting Pretzel Ride which has been such a sensation for visitors this year, and about 12 other devices.

Advance tickets for the Mid-South Fair are on sale in 129 Mid-South towns and cities. These 25c tickets may be bought up until Sept. 21st at Atkins Insurance Agency or by writing the Mid-South Fair, Memphis, Tennessee.

GET CORN OUT OF WAY OF COVER CROPS

The biggest cover crop problem in Tennessee today is getting nearly two million acres more corn cut and shocked and the land seeded to winter cover states H. E. Hendricks, agronomist for the U-T Agricultural Extension Service. This amount represents twice the average acreage now being seeded to cover crops, he says.

Any increased acreage in cover crop seedings this fall will largely be determined upon how much more corn is cut and shocked, it is pointed out, since corn fields that are cut and shocked are usually seeded to winter cover, whereas standing stalk land is nearly always left without a green cover during the winter.

Not only does rutting and shocking corn pave the way for early fall seedings, but the feed value of the fodder is equal to about one fourth that of the grain, and the stalks and waste can be made very valuable in absorbing and saving more manure. Standing corn stalks left on the land have very little fertility value, but after absorbing manure, are equal to any other type bedding.

The small amount of cover crops seeded after corn is harvested from standing stalks is usually so late and the fall growth so small that it provides little or no pasture until spring and is of doubtful value in erosion control. The acreage seeded to cover crops in standing corn before harvest is negligible.

During September, when most of the corn is ready to shock, is a time when other farm work is not so pressing. The corn can then be gathered in November when there is again a slack period. Some farmers who do not shock corn and sow winter cover question whether the grain production would be decreased. However, Experiment Stations and practical farmers have found that the grain yield is not decreased when cut at the proper stage. The Indiana Experiment Station has found when all the husks or shucks have turned brown, and three-fourths of the leaves or blades have turned brown, there is no decrease in grain yield when the corn is harvested.

This fact added to the increased feed from the fodder, the pasture obtainable from a green cover crop and the value of a cover crop in erosion control can leave no doubt that shocking corn and seeding in early cover crops is a good farm practice.

Economical Shortcuts to Savory Entrees

Each of the cans of salmon on the homemaker's pantry shelf represents an economical shortcut to a delectable seafood dinner. For this familiar food staple is ocean-fresh salmon, sealed in sterilized cans within a few hours of the time it was caught in the clear, cold waters of the North Pacific, and cooked under pressure to just the right degree of tender flakiness. Thus the generous slice of colorful canned salmon is ready to serve, hot or cold, with savory sauces or salad dressings.

This classic service of the versatile seafood may be accompanied by virtually any vegetable garnish. Salmon with asparagus is an especially delicious combination and one that is as colorful as it is savory! For this service, the salmon is heated by placing the unopened can in boiling water for ten minutes. It is then transferred to the center of a hot platter, surrounded by four servings of cooked asparagus and served with tartar sauce and lemon garnish.

Canned salmon is also delicious separated into large sized flakes, brushed with French dressing and browned quickly under a broiler. Such "fillets" may also be dipped in mayonnaise, rolled in cracker crumbs and toasted in a hot oven.

And when the first cool days of autumn bring French fried foods into their own again, a salmon fritter will be rightly timed for dinner service. Delicious mouthfuls of this rich flavored seafood dipped in a plain batter mixture and fried to a crisp golden brown make a main dish fritter that is a real winner for both flavor and food value.

Easy to prepare entrees such as these should occupy an important place in the seafood sections of busy homemaker's cookbooks and recipe files. For in addition to saving her much time and energy, they are genuine economy dishes, furnishing a maximum of flavor and food value at a minimum price. Canned salmon supplies each of these quick entrees with substantial stores of protein, calcium, phosphorus, iodine and vitamins A, D and G.

Recipes for these and other savory main dishes follow:

SALMON FRITTERS
(Serves 4)
1 pound canned salmon
2 cup flour
2 tablespoons butter (melted)

minutes. Serve with lemon slices and tartar sauce.

SALMON BACON PATS

(Serves 6 or 8)
2 pounds canned salmon
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup juice from cans of salmon
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon onion (finely minced)
2 tablespoons parsley (chopped)
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash pepper, dash sage 6 slices bacon

Combine bread crumbs, salmon juice, egg, and flaked salmon. Blend in onion, parsley and seasonings. Form into patties. Wrap slice of bacon around each, fasten with toothpick. Bake in oven (450 degrees) for fifteen minutes until bacon is crisp. Remove from oven and serve on platter with persillade potatoes.

SALMON STUFFED TOMATOES

(Serves 6)
6 even-sized tomatoes
1 pound canned salmon
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon onion (minced)
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon parsley (chopped)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 pound American cheese

Flake the salmon. Remove one inch slices from tops of tomatoes and scoop out pulp. Reserve juice and pulp for use in filling. Combine flaked salmon, bread crumbs and tomato juice. Brown the onion in butter and add onion and melted butter to mixture. Season with parsley, salt and pepper. Fill salmon mixture into tomato cups and top each stuffed tomato with slice of American cheese. Place in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for twenty minutes until tomatoes are baked and cheese is melted and browned. Serve hot.

1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 egg yolk
1/4 cup mayonnaise dressing
1 tablespoon green pepper (chopped)
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 egg (slightly beaten)

Blend flaked salmon, seasonings, egg yolk, mayonnaise, green pepper and one-half cup of the cracker crumbs. Form into cakes. Dip first in beaten egg, then in cracker crumbs. Fry in hot fat until golden brown. (If deep fat is used fry at approximately 375 degrees.)

SAUCES FOR CANNED SALMON

Egg Sauce
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup milk
Liquor from can of salmon
Salt and pepper
2 hard cooked eggs
Chopped parsley for garnish
Melt butter, add flour, stir until smooth. Add milk and salmon liquor. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until thick. Season with salt and pepper. Add chopped eggs and serve over heated canned salmon. Sprinkle chopped parsley over egg sauce if desired.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons lemon dash pepper
3 egg yolks (beaten)
Place a third portion of the butter in a double boiler. Add lemon juice and beaten eggs. Place over hot water. Add second and third portions of butter gradually as butter melts into mixture. Stir briskly until mixture begins to thicken. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve at once.

- Never. This invitation must be accepted or declined without a moment's hesitation. A pause of even two or three seconds is bad form.
- He should do so in a hotel elevator, but it is not necessary in an office building or shop.
- Yes. Under no circumstances should silver be placed on the table cover.

- Refuse to talk, refuse to smile, appear bored, fall asleep, leave the room abruptly, sit and read.

Mrs. Riley Regains 35 lbs. of Lost Weight

Would Like To Tell Other Sufferers of the Splendid Relief That Retonga Brought Her, She States

One of the happiest women in Kentucky over the relief from sluggish elimination and loss of appetite brought her by Retonga is Mrs. J. W. Riley, of Route 1, Kirksey, Ky.

"Two years I spent more than half of my time in bed," declares Mrs. Riley. "I hardly even wanted to eat and I suffered so bad with sour indigestion I lost forty pounds. I looked like skin and bones, as the saying is. Constipation kept me taking strong purgatives, I had throbbing sick headaches, and pains in my legs and shoulders were so bad I had to have help to get my clothes on and off."

"Retonga was a blessing to me. My appetite and digestion picked up, the constipation was relieved and I have regained thirty-five pounds. I even worked my garden this summer. I wish I could personally tell everyone suffering like I did about the splendid relief Retonga brought me."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic intended to increase the flow of gastric juices in the stomach and help nature remove toxic wastes from the bowels. Get genuine Retonga today at DeMyer Drug Store.

"Behind the Scenes In American Business"

BUSINESS—Pick-ups in employment, due to defense work getting under way, continue to produce larger and larger "reflections" in increased sales. After four weeks in which national department store sales averaged six per cent over corresponding weeks of 1939, the gain moved up to 10 per cent two weeks ago—and last week went on up to 15. Indications are the month of August, as a whole, will show the widest margin of gain over 1939, of any month this year. If it hits 10 per cent, the Federal Reserve Board's adjusted index of such sales would be 97 per cent of the 1923-25 average—and that would be the highest for any month since the spring of 1931! Total revenue freight loadings for the nation's railroads hit a new high mark for the year last week—a fraction better than 10 per cent above the same week of last year.

WAGES TOPPING PRICES—According to official estimates by the Department of Commerce, the income of the American people during the first seven months of the year was two billion dollars higher than for the same period in 1939. In fact, it was the highest for any comparable period in the whole decade of the '30's. At the same time the cost of living, taking it on a national average, has not risen at a comparable rate. That means that, other things being equal, the average housewife today can spend a larger proportion of her income on non-essential consumer goods. She can have some costume-jewelry doo-dads for her winter coat—or get a couple of extra permanent waves—or an extra bottle of milk daily—or thick cream on top of the apple pie on Sunday.

MORE STARCH—Manganese, rubber and tin are the "Big Three" of Uncle Sam's strategic materials—so called because they're vital to national defense, but surrounded with difficult procurement problems. The

How Fulton Looks From The Air

The above aerial picture gives a bird's-eye view of the city of Fulton, and for those who have not had the pleasure of seeing Fulton from the air, it should give an idea of what the city really looks like from an elevated position. Furthermore, for the benefit of those who have not enjoyed an airplane trip over the city, it is difficult to realize that the day is not far distant when aviation will come into its own and it will be just as commonplace to take an airplane ride as it is an automobile ride today. The use of airplanes in war as conducted by Hitler's swarm of bombers and fighters has made the world air-conscious. It is horrible to think of the damage that could be done by a group of Hitler's planes if they should attack America at some time in the future. For that reason Congress is making preparations to defend our country. A mighty armada is one of the principal arms of defense. Great strides will be made in aviation in the next decade.

The Federal government is certain to establish air fields throughout the nation, and if Fulton can get a good airport now, it will be in line for a larger one under government subsidy later on. Fulton is now known as "the hub of the roads and highways," and is geographically located for a good airport. Let's keep after this project until one is obtained for Fulton.

Chicks Are Safely and Cheaply "Mothered" by Electric Brooder

Allow at least seven square inches of hover space for each chick.

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

PRACTICALLY every farm, regardless of size, has some poultry. Whether he raises little or much, or hatches his own chicks or buys them from a commercial hatchery, the general farmer as well as the poultryman must keep the baby chicks in some kind of a hover for an average of six to eight weeks.

Of course, the hen is the natural hover. But profitable farming demands more efficient brooding methods and, hence, numerous substitute hovers have been developed including those heated by coal, oil, wood, gas, steam and hot water. Because it has more advantages and yields results more nearly identical with Nature, the electric brooder is generally preferred wherever high-line power is available.

There are several reasons why the electric brooder is preferable to other types: Little time is required to install and adjust; fire hazard is practically eliminated; temperature is automatically and accurately controlled; less labor and attention is required; mortality is usually lower; overall cost is usually less; fuel need not be stored or paid for in advance; and it may be used under a wide variety of conditions.

Another important advantage of a well-built electric hover is that it does not heat the entire brooder house as do those using other fuels. This fact promotes vigorous exercise among the chicks, causing them to develop faster, feather earlier and better, and to grow strong and sturdy. It also helps prevent cannibalism, toe picking and other brooder vices.

When selecting an electric brooder, the following points should be considered: Size and type; wattage, type and control of heating element; and insulation, construction and ventilation. Depending upon these factors, electric brooders vary in price from about $6.00 to $20.00, with the average hover type selling around $10.00. In the final analysis, it usually is cheaper to buy a more expensive unit as, because of its superior construction and insulation, it will give better results, last longer and have lower operating costs.

The amount of electricity required by an electric brooder depends upon several factors: Outside temperature; construction of brooder house; brooder temperature; type, construction and insulation of brooder; number of chicks; and management. However, the power used in a six-week brooding period during March, April and May varies from 0.5 to 1.5 kw.-hr. per chick. At the three-cent rate, this gives a brooding cost of from 1.5 to 4.5 cents per chick, with the average approaching the lower figure.

Full information on electric brooding can be obtained by writing your state college or university, or from the manufacturers.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, September 8, 1940.

The Golden Text is: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God; and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ." (Romans 8:16, 17)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word. Thy hands have made me and fashioned me; give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments." (Psalms 119: 65, 73)

Frequently I have been asked the question "Should schools teach safety?"

The answer is, "Decidedly." With young high school students applying for licenses to drive 100 horsepower machines, made of the best steel, precision-tested, and developing speeds up to 100 miles an hour, it behooves our school authorities to pay some attention to this im-

U. S. faced near disaster in 1918 because of lack of manganese—the ore that puts the "starch" in steel—and until recently nearly all of our manganese has had to be imported from such far-off sources as Russia, India, Africa and Brazil. The Cuban-American Manganese corporation is expanding the capacity of its plant near Santiago from 100,000 tons to 130,000 tons annually, effective next January 1. Langbourne M. Williams Jr., president of Freeport Sulphur company of which the manganese corporation is a subsidiary, said that when development of the low-grade Cuban ores was started 10 years ago, it was with the knowledge that a large, nearby source of manganese was thus being established as a bulwark of our national defense set-up. They had to contend with a major earthquake, a revolution and three floods before operations became technically and economically successful. In 1937, so he said it was "gratifying, after such a struggle, that the company is able with its own funds to increase its plant capacity, at the request of the Defense Advisory commission, to augment the nation's defense resources."

WALLOP—Most of us are familiar with the Gallup Poll, but now we have the "Wallop" Index. Wallop is not the name of a man, however, as is Gallup, but the word used last week by Publisher Willard Chevalier of Business Week magazine to describe the punch which a nation's citizens collectively pack. And America's Wallop Index, based on its capacity to produce the goods essential to carry on a modern war, is nearly two and half times that of Germany, even with all the Nazis' conquered territories. Col. Chevalier said, "Stacked up against the totalitarian powers, the United States still has the edge despite the recent industrial and agricultural acquisitions of Hitler and his axis partners," is his reassuring message.

LAW VS. EFFICIENCY—In at least half the states constitutional provisions actually "require" county government to be so haphazard that efficiency is impossible, according to the National Consumers Tax Commission. The constitutions provide that not only the county board but also the administrative officers be elected. The Commission says in its current research report. Thus authority cannot be centralized and such "foundation stones" of efficiency as sound budgetary procedures, centralized purchasing, and the merit system

SIR ROGER DE COVERLEY, S. COAT

In the second number of THE SPECTATOR, issued on March 2, 1711, appears the character sketch of Sir Roger de Coverley, who must be regarded as one of the immortals of English literature. In this sketch we are told that the excellent old gentleman was "crossed in love by a perverse beautiful widow." Because of this disaster, says the author, "he continues to wear a coat and doublet of the same cut that were in fashion at the time of his repulse, which, in his merry humours, he tells us, has been in and out twelve times since he first wore it." In some ways that sentence first started me in my interest in folklore, for I had observed, too, that things come and go, usually in cycles. A generation or two is usually necessary to restore a lost style, but some of them are almost as recurrent as the style of Sir Roger's famous coat.

Why not start a list of such things with pigtails. We old-timers can hardly think of the one-roomed country school without recalling hosts of pleasant-faced little girls with their hair done up in plaits, the standard way being to have two on the top of the head and then unite them into two more farther toward the back. There came a time, as you all remember, when pigtails went out. If you found a little girl with her hair in plaits, you felt sorry for her for being the child of an old-fashioned mother, too set in her ways to dress her child becomingly. When I was teaching my first school, in 1907, bobbed hair for little girls was slowly making its way into my school district. A mother of two of my little-girl pupils was severely criticised because her two girls, rather large for their ages, seven and nine, still wore a Dutch bob. Most little girls stuck to the traditional plaits and felt or pretended scorn for this outlandish new style. I can image the children wished for bobbed hair. But pigtails, after a long season of being out of style, are in again, so common now that they elicit no comment. Children from palaces and huts alike come to school with pigtails, and those that cannot sport long ones do their best with shorter ones until their hair grows long again.

How many a student in my classes has laughed at Mrs. Robert Browning's curls! Some students could hardly believe that such an unbecoming way of dressing hair had ever been stylish. Come to my classes any day now and see for yourself whether curls spoil the effect of youthful, girlish beauty.

Not all the styles that have gone in circles concern the women alone. A generation ago whiskers seemed outlandish and unsanitary. All the jokes of the comedians were directed at them. Nearly everybody except Grandpa shed his hirsute adornment and kept a good razor handy. But gradually beards are coming back. Most of those that have appeared as yet are pretty skimpy as compared with the ones we used to see, but just give style time, and there will be whiskers that will rival those of Federal and Confederate officers. When some college hero or some popular politician blossoms out in full beard, look out for a return of the style. Meantime Sir Roger can save his coat for future use.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

For the sake of national defense, Washington finally is considering one of the knottiest problems—where the money is coming from to build the thousands of airplanes and guns and tanks and ships which are needed to make the nation invulnerable to attack.

In the first place, the government must borrow the money to buy most of the equipment because for years it has lived above its head. In other words, even without national defense it has been spending more than it took in. And on national defense it hasn't even been keeping up with the Joneses.

So in addition to the just-enacted national defense taxes, new taxes are being talked of. They may not materialize before November, but they will come soon.

Already, the administration has proposed to spend $14 billion for national defense. Experts in the government service easily foresee, without any stretching of the imagination, a $25 billion budget in the future.

Even in the year which ended June 30, with a total budget of $9½ billions, the deficit was $3½ billions. With the budget running up to $25 billions, the deficit will climb to astronomical heights. And taxes must go along for the sake of defense.

The Washington powers-that-be finally are awakening too to the necessity of letting those who spend money to build plants for national defense find some way of getting their money back.

This is generally called "amortization" of investment, but a more accurate and intelligible description is "recovery of costs." For example, if you have a few dollars to invest in a company that is going to make trucks for the army, you will realize first that when peace comes and the army no longer needs trucks, you will get no return on your few dollars. Therefore, you would hesitate about putting your money into national defense.

Since literally billions are needed for national defense plants, this is a real problem. Right now, Washington is thinking about allowing five years for the recovery of the costs of building new plants and machinery which would be useless during peace. The remaining difficulties are, first, that nobody now can tell what the defense situation will be in five years, and, second, there is bound to be dispute over what costs may be recovered. The Treasury as of today sees no difference between money spent to build plants which make hoes and airplanes.

The average person might think that because of the universal condemnation the Labor Board has received, and the tremendous sentiment in both House and Senate for trimming Board powers, that Board officials would be pulling in their horns a little.

Instead, however, the Board still goes out of its way to show its continuing bias. In a recent case, an employer appealed from a decision made by a regional director. The Board's press release on the decision said:

"Although there is no provision in the Board's rules and regulations for an appeal from the decision of a regional director in a consent election case, the Board could not find that the company was not within its rights to seize upon a technicality."

In other words, what the employer did was perfectly within his rights, but the Board described it as "seizing upon a technicality." At the same time, with the approval of the Board and the Supreme Court, labor unions are allowed to seize plants in sit-down strikes and destroy and damage thousands of dollars worth of intricate machinery.

The Board and the Court say the obstreperous unionists may be bad boys, but they don't have to pay for the damage they did.

The only way to stop things like that apparently is to amend the law so that labor union members like all other citizens may be subjected to penalty for damaging other people's property.

The meeting was opened by singing "Lavender's Blue." The minutes were read and roll called. The reports from all the committees were given. After finishing up the old year work the new officers were installed as follows:

CAYCE SCHOOL NEWS

Cayce School enjoyed its largest and most enthusiastic opening on the morning of August 28, Rev. J. E. Hopper, pastor of Cayce Methodist church, conducted the devotional service. Mr. Arthur Barber blind musician, rendered a very appropriate musical number. The main address was given by Rev. John Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, Hickman.

The first day was devoted to registration of students. The enrollment is as follows: 1st grade, 18; 2nd grade, 17; 3rd grade, 18; 4th grade, 24; 5th grade, 19; 6th grade, 26; 7th grade, 11; 8th grade, 32; 9th grade, 22; 10th grade, 30; 11th grade, 24; 12th grade, 24. This represents an increase, mostly in the elementary school, over last year's enrollment.

An epidemic of resignations struck our faculty during the last few days. We hope it has somewhat subsided. Coach Oliver accepted work with the National Boy Scout organization and will be located at Ronoke, Va. Mrs. Oliver, teacher of the first and second grades, resigned her position so that she might accompany her husband. Mr. Cecil Cruce, teacher of mathematics in high school, has gone into mercantile business in Fulton. Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne Wallis of Bradford, Tenn., succeed Mr. and Mrs. Oliver. Mr. Shannon Murphy is successor to Mr. Cruce.

There were other changes in the faculty effective at the beginning of this year. Miss Annie Laurie Turner, teacher of the 5th and 6th grades in the Cayce school last year, has accepted work in the English department of the high school. Miss Frances Hudgens of Union City is teaching home economics. This position was held last year by Miss Elizabeth Williamson. Miss Wilma Shuff, transferred from the Jordan School, is now teaching the 5th and 6th grades.

We wish to extend a hearty welcome to all new students who have enrolled in our school this term.

The third grade pupils have been busy making booklets of Mother Goose Rhymes this week.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do. Why not be smart — do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys — cut down your calorie intake — eat wisely and satisfyingly — there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. It not only satisfies — money back.

The fifth grade welcomes Lada Fulla who has been absent the last few days due to illness.

The seventh grade had a perfect record in attendance last week.

The eighth grade enjoyed a music appreciation lesson Thursday morning by using some of the new typing records. The pupils are learning to reorganize some of the patriotic music of our country.

The ninth grade home economics class is planning to organize an Home Economics Club. At present the pupils are planning their fall clothes.

Junior Liliker enrolled in school Monday morning after an absence due to illness.

The sophomore class wishes a speedy recovery for Harold Pewitt who has not been able to enroll this term.

The seniors are anxiously awaiting the arrival of their class rings which were ordered last week.

The classes which have elected officers are as follows: Senior class: President, Raymond Harrison; vice-president, Harding Walker; secretary-treasurer, Dorothy Jones; program conductors, Joyce Bondurant, Hazel Campbell, and Lynette Oliver; news reporter, Joyce Bellow.

Seventh grade: President, Hilda Sue Stallins; vice-president, Paul Smith; secretary-treasurer, Anna Margaret Wilds; Sergeant-at-arms, Charles Greene.

URGES FARMERS TO AVOID LATE LAMBS

Many Kentucky sheepmen have started the breeding program early this year so as to avoid late lambs, according to Richard C. Miller of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Experiences of thousands of Kentucky farmers during the past several years demonstrated that lambs that can be marketed before July are the most profitable. The early lambs make faster gains and are easier to finish, normally bring a higher price per pound than do late lambs and can be marketed before hot weather and stomach worms affect their development.

The early lamb program also enables the farmer to handle more sheep than is the case when lambs must be carried over during the summer and finished in the fall. The saving back of late ewe lambs for breeding ewes, the buying of ewes too late to get them in proper condition for early breeding
