THE LISTENING POST

One of the oddest things about all the modern communications we now have, with it being possible to hear a person speak from almost any point in the Far East, or from England; with the further possibility that actual battles could be described over a radio as readily as can a football game, it still remains as one of the least known facts that this nation has ever fought. From day to day there is no real news from the war front. What little items are given out are so issued as to be largely meaningless, and the American people have not the faintest idea what their armed forces are doing. About all we know from day to another is that certain movements have been made. Now and then we learn that an enemy ship has been destroyed, or that one of our own ships has been damaged or sunk. We learn that General MacArthur has beaten off a heavy Jap attack, but just where we never know. We do not know where the fleet is, or anything of its plans. We do not know whether any serious effort is being started to get added air strength to the beleaguered Far Eastern outposts. All we can do is to wait and hope.

Now and then, in reading an item of news from certain sources, we may think that we have learned something. A day or so ago, for instance, Secretary of the Navy Knox, made a speech. In this address he stated that the Atlantic remained out chief theatre of war. He intimated rather strongly that American forces were not really hopeful of winning in the Far East until Hitler is beaten in Europe. After that, according to Secretary Knox, the Axis will fall apart and Japan can be dealt with.

That is what appears to be the meaning of the surface. But it must be remembered that everything said and printed these days is given out with different ideas. Now and then it is hoped to say or do something to deceive the enemy. Now and then certain things are given out for the purpose of preparing the public mind for certain things. This speech of Secretary Knox's could fall into either class. It might be that Secretary Knox wishes to lull the Japanese into becoming careless; make them believe that the United States had no intention of waging an all-out war against them at the present time. Or, it might be that the secretary knows that all the Far East is doomed and cannot be held. In such case he might be preparing the public mind for setbacks which he knows are coming. That is always done when disasters are clearly seen as almost certain to come.

Personally I have no idea what the secretary meant. I feel certain that he did mean to give the American public something, but what it is I do not know. I can understand from the various statements that come from those Far Eastern posts that the situation is desperate and that no power has yet been used which can stop or greatly retard the Japanese march. Now and then some person makes a prediction that reinforcements will come; that they are already on the way. A day or so ago some person in Singapore said that the British would have air superiority over Malaya within three days. I believe that with superiority in the air the British and American forces could halt that inexorable forward movement of the Japanese. I even believe that General MacArthur might give

United States May Share Food With Conquered Lands

Washington.—Declaring the war was placing new, unexpected and as yet unmeasurable demands upon this country for food, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today cautioned Americans against being excessively concerned about prices and too complacent about supplies. He voiced this warning in an interview explaining why he had asked Congress to vest in him, rather than in a separate price administrator, the power to set ceilings on farm products. The Senate in effect gave him that power in a price control bill passed Saturday, despite a request of President Roosevelt that all price control be vested in a single administrator. Congressional action on the legislation has not been completed, however.

Broader Task Indicated
Emphasizing that he did not wish to alarm consumers, Wickard said they should nevertheless recognize now that events since Pearl Harbor had greatly altered the food situation. Before Japan struck, demands were limited mostly to this country and Great Britain. Supplies and production prospects appeared ample then. "But today no one can tell," the secretary said, "what the demands upon us may be before the war is won. We may be called upon to furnish vast supplies to Allied fighting forces and peoples all over the world. We may want to send huge quantities of food as well as munitions to the conquered peoples at the proper time so that they might help defeat the dictators."

Compared to Arms Job
Agriculture, he said, faces a production job comparable in size to that of the munitions marks. New food production goals to be announced soon will surpass anything ever attempted in this country, he said. The responsibility for the success or failure of this production program, he added, is his and his department's. Consequently, he said he believed all governmental controls affecting farm production should be centered in the agency responsible for production.

Under the President's plan, still incomplete, a new war production board will be established, and Nelson made its chairman. Nelson has been serving as executive director of the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board. Members of SPAB, comprising some of the highest officials of the government, will serve on the new board—under Nelson.

Nelson will have the power of final decision on all questions of procurement and production. As such, he will be the big boss empowered to tell American industry what to do, and to expect its ready compliance. His only superior officer is President Roosevelt himself.

Meets Demand

The new move meets a demand that has been raised almost constantly since the rearmament effort began in 1940, that there be a unified control of production. Tonight for instance, not only Willie, but Chairman Connolly (D-Tex.), of the Senate foreign relations committee urged such a reorganization. As announced by the President tonight, the plan was still only an outline.

Nelson is 53, and a native of Hannibal, Mo. He is noted among his associates for a knack at going directly at problems and obstacles and easing or pushing them out of the way.

Nazis Reported Sending Typhus Fighters To Russian Front

Bern, Switzerland.—Adolf Hitler was reported today to have mobilized an army of epidemic fighters for the Eastern front, where his hard-pressed soldiers faced three more months of battle against bitter cold and disease, as well as the relentless Russians. Berlin dispatches said hundreds of doctors and nurses, specially trained in fighting epidemics, already had gone to the front to aid the army in the battle against "lice"—the greatest carriers of spotted typhus fever. Typhus epidemics have been reported in Poland and the Baltics, exposing the great bulk of the Nazi legions.

End of Winter Worse
Although there was no confirmation that typhus had broken out to any great extent, medical authorities recognized that conditions called for a gigantic effort to prevent a repetition of disasters similar to those which struck down almost every army, including Napoleon's, spending the winter in Russia.

German army doctors say the most dangerous time is toward the end of winter when the fever curve usually reaches a peak. Hitler was reported already massing reinforcements near the eastern front, making enormous preparations for a spring offensive.

700,000 More Men Called
The Ankara radio said three new classes of men have been called up—a total of between 700,000 and 800,000 men. Other troops were reported withdrawn from some occupied countries.

Military experts expressed the opinion, however, that Hitler was unlikely to start an offensive before May because of the weather. This view was held by the military commentator of the Paris newspaper Le Journal.

MARTHA E. GENUNG DIES LAST NIGHT AFTER TAKING POISON

Miss Martha Ellen Genung, about 22 years of age, died last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Chester Genung, on Commercial Avenue, after having taken a fatal poison last night after dinner. Her death occurred at about nine o'clock. So far as is known she made no statement regarding the cause for the rash act.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending the possible arrival of her brother, Bill Genung, who is employed in Washington. He was not known this morning whether he would be able to come to Fulton.

Miss Genung is survived by her mother, Mrs. Chester Genung, three sisters, Nell, Mary and Jean Genung and a brother, Bill Genung. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Williams also survive.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mrs. Genung and family in this tragic hour.

The funeral has been set for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Hornbeak Funeral Home, with Rev. E. A. Aubrey in charge.

U. S. Forces Hit Back With Deadly Effect On Japanese Forces In Fierce Artillery Battle In Luzon

MacArthur's Guns Blast 40 Guns Of Invading Forces

U. S. Artillery Seen As Definitely Better Than Japs

Washington.—Weary, outnumbered and fighting with their backs to the sea, the forces of General Douglas MacArthur have nevertheless administered a jarring setback to the Japanese invader. American artillery "definitely superior" to that of the Japanese did the job.

As reported today by the War Department, 24 hours of continuous fighting had shattered and dispersed columns of enemy tanks, and armored units.

It had scattered enemy infantry concentrations and inflicted heavy losses upon them. It had silenced eleven artillery batteries—probably forty or more guns.

Japanese Withdraw
And it had forced Japanese artillery units to withdraw a considerable distance.

MacArthur's losses were described as "relatively slight." And, enemy air activity was limited to dive bombing intended to increase the effect of Japanese cannonading. There were no enemy air attacks on Corregidor or other fixed fortifications.

Thus the day and night-long battle left MacArthur in a somewhat improved position, still patently the master of Batan peninsula, the rugged tongue of land between Manila Bay and the South China Sea, which he chose for a last desperate stand.

Nevertheless, his was still a delaying battle, amid primarily at keeping busy on the island of Luzon enemy troops, planes and mechanized equipment which otherwise would be thrown into the battle for Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

Holding Fast
In the absence of any reports that the American and Filipino fighters advanced as the Japs withdrew, it was assumed that they were holding fast to carefully selected defense positions which had already proved their military value. Thus, while the defending forces still clung to the area they had chosen to defend, the Japanese retained the initiative, and a renewed assault was expected. Mac-

Martin Suggests Herbert Hoover For Post Of Food Administrator

Washington.—Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., the Republican leader, suggesting tonight that President Roosevelt call in Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats of demonstrated administrative ability to help in the war effort, proposed Former President Hoover for price control administrator.

The Massachusetts Representative, minority leader of the House and also chairman of the Republican National Committee, made the recommendation in the Washington Star radio forum.

Predicts More Conference
"I think it cannot be denied," he said, "that Mr. Hoover at the head of price control, for instance, would give the nation greater confidence than those who now exercise that control."

Leon W. Henderson now is head of the Office of Price Administration. Along with Hoover, Martin mentioned Wendell Willkie, Alf Landon, Thomas E. Dewey, Alfred E. Smith, Joseph B. Ely, John W. Hanes and Lewis W. Douglas as men whose "talent and experience" the President "might do well to avail himself of," and who "have a broad administrative experience and a deep sense of patriotism."

Willkie and Landon were Mr. Roosevelt's opponents in the last two Presidential elections and Dewey was the 1938 Republican candidate for governor of New York.

Opposed Certain Policies
Smith, 1928 Presidential nominee; Ely, former Massachusetts governor; Hanes, former assistant secretary of the treasury, and Douglas, former budget director, all are Democrats who have been critical of some of the administration's domestic policies.

IT'S SOME BUDGET

As to the sheer size of the $9-billion-dollar budget, President Roosevelt expressed the sentiments of most Americans when he said:

"Nothing short of the maximum will suffice. . . We are determined to pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life."

As to the proposal of nine billion dollars in new taxes, added to the 18 billions already levied, the President again shrouded the keynote:

"When so many Americans are contributing all their energies, and even their lives in the nation's great task, I am confident that all Americans will be proud to contribute their utmost in taxes. Until this job is done, until this war is won, we will not talk of burdens."

Such superlatives as "stupendous" and "staggering" and "largest in the world's history" are inadequate to describe this budget of "a nation at war, in a world at war." In any real sense, of course, it is not even a budget. For neither Mr. Roosevelt nor any other man can make more than a wild guess as to how much money we will have spent by July 1, 1943. What we spend will depend on "the changing fortunes of war," on how much we can expand our capacity to produce weapons, on what happens to prices and wages. Of the 12 billions already spent for defense purposes, it has been computed that three billions went into higher prices and wages without adding a single plane, gun or cartridge to what had been estimated would cost nine billions.

anticipate only a moderate rise in costs. But if prices and wages are not held in check we shall spend much more money without placing any more equipment in hands of our fighting forces. And there are sound reasons for doubting that the so-called price-control legislation pending in Congress can effectively curb the inflationary spiral. Indeed, this legislation is designed not to hold down, but to increase prices of farm products, which will mean higher costs of food and clothing, causing workers to demand still higher wages and resulting in rising costs of everything produced.

To give real value to the budget, Congress will have to do more than appropriate the money and lay the taxes the President requests. It will have to establish effective price and wage controls to make sure that the bombers, tanks and ships are produced at sensible costs.

A public debt of 110 billions 18 months hence, and if it goes no higher than that an annual interest bill of two and one-half billions! If we come out of this war a vigorous, productive, self-denying people, we can carry that load. But, unless the hard work and self-denial start now, we may not make the grade. Given stern leadership and example, the American people will turn heartily to their tasks, tighten their belts, dig deeply into their pockets.

The President shaved a few hundred millions off the non-defense part of the budget, Congress, which has more time and opportunity to assay the value of depression-born civil extravagances, should start its economies where the President left off. The people are willing to dig up extra dollars for non-essential frills.

Snappy Sandwiches

If there is any member of your family who has to carry a lunch to work or school, he will be mighty glad if you try some new sandwich fillings frequently. His "daily bread" could become very monotonous unless you do. Here are some words to the wise sandwich-maker: Be sure you use fillings that are moist enough and spread them out to the very edges—also cut with a sharp knife so they are not crushed; and for the carry-along lunch it is best to use very fresh bread because the sandwiches have to stand awhile before they are eaten anyway.

Salmon Sandwich —
Drain, clean and flake with fork—
1 pound red canned salmon.
Mix with—
1/4 cup India relish
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard.
Spread between 1 and 4 slices. Makes 1 1/2 cups filling (enough for 6 sandwiches).

Peanut Butter and India Relish Sandwich.
Mix together—
1/2 cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons India relish
2 tablespoons mayonnaise.
Spread between slices of buttered bread. Shape and serve. Serves 4.

Tuna-Apple Sandwich
Run water through—
1 7-oz. can tuna fish.
Drain and flake, then mix with—
1 cup sliced apple
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons mayonnaise.
Spread on bread. Makes 3 sandwiches.

Cream Cheese and Mince Meat Sandwich

Soften by mixing with spoon—
1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese.
Add, mixing well—
2 tablespoons mince meat.
Spread on bread. Makes 3 sandwiches.

For the Cooky Jar

Cookies are a great convenience when they are kept on hand at all times—this is one truth our grandmothers knew and depended upon. If you have cookies in the jar, you have something to accompany a fruit dessert as well as a sweet to serve with tea or fruit juice if guests drop in of an afternoon.

Be sure to have a great number of cooky recipes in your file so you can please your family and friends with the variety of cookies you serve them. Here is a grand new recipe made with easy rice flakes cereal.

Rice Flakes Drop Cookies

Sift together—
1 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tea. salt
Cream—
1/2 cup butter
Add gradually, beating well—
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
Beat until firm, after addition of each. Add—1 1/2 cups rice flakes
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts
Add sifted ingredients, then stir in, to blend well.
Drop by spoon on greased slightly greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

the enemy plenty to think about if he even had equality in the air. I have an idea that real squadrons of British and American fliers can take the measure of the Japanese. I have a further idea that until the allied forces gain this equality that they are doomed to bitter and crushing defeat in all theatres the Japs invade. The time has long since passed when land armies can win without air support. If neither army has air power, battles will be fought as in the first war; but if one army has air power and the other has none—well, the one with air power will likely win. That is almost as certain as anything can be.

• • •
• It is evident that the Allied forces were caught badly unprepared in the matter of air strength. Their armies have paid a dear price for this unpreparedness and will continue to pay. Whether it is possible to get planes to those forces in the far-off Eastern seas remains to be seen.

AT TERRY-NORMAN

The Parent-Teacher's Association of Terry-Norman school held its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the school building with thirteen members in attendance.

At the opening of the meeting the program was presented, in charge of Mrs. Charles Gregory. Mrs. Gregory first presented Miss Barbara Rose Colley and Miss Barbara Homra in a piano duet, "Minuet in G" by Beethoven. The program leader then gave a very good article, the topic of which was "Conservation of Human and Natural Resources." This topic was presented in keeping with the theme of the year, "Citizenship of Today," and was very interesting to all members.

That concluded the program for the afternoon and Mrs. Doran Colley, the president, took charge of the meeting. She conducted the business session, during which time the treasurer, Mrs. Foad Homra, made her report and minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Robert Burrow in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Clinton Linton.

A round table discussion was held regarding the purchase of chairs and a motion was made and voted that the Association will buy twelve new chairs for the game room at the school building. A committee, composed of Mrs. Robert Burrow, Mrs. Jessie Lee Fleming and Miss Ruby Boyd Alexander, was named to investigate new record players.

Mrs. Wilmon Boyd, librarian, was then presented to the group and she asked the Association to cooperate in the drive to collect books for the soldiers in army camps.

Plans were discussed for the quilt which is made annually by this group and a committee was named to select pattern, etc. This committee is composed of Mrs. Raymond Norman, Mrs. Parrish Carney, Mrs. P. H. Shelton and Mrs. J. D. Golden.

PLANS MADE FOR VICTORY BOOK DRIVE

Plans are being perfected for the Victory Book Campaign in Fulton County and the local director for the county, Mrs. Wilmon Boyd, said this morning that names of the various committees will be announced later. The drive will prob-bably get underway next week.

This drive, being sponsored by the American Library Association, the American Red Cross and the United States Organizations for National Defense, Inc., is being held throughout the nation for the purpose of collecting gifts of books for our soldiers, sailors and marines as a supplement to the library services maintained by the Army and Navy in forts, camps, posts, stations and on ships. If the supply is more than sufficient for these needs, books will then be provided for men, women and children in areas where industrial activities have increased population.

South Fulton Drive

PRESIDENT SEEKS TO PROTECT PRICE
CONTROL MEASURE

Would Head Off House Acceptance Of Some Provisions

Washington, — President Roosevelt, balked thus far by an adamant Senate farm bloc in his efforts to obtain one-man control over price-fixing, undertook personally today to forestall House acceptance of some agricultural provisions of the Senate-approved price regulation bill.

The President arranged to confer tomorrow morning with a five-member bi-partisan House committee which will meet with a similar Senate group later in an attempt to compromise differences in the price measures passed by the two chambers.

Since Administrator The President was said to have reiterated to his legislative lieutenants at the Weekly White House conference this morning his desire that a single administrator be given full authority over all prices, including farm commodities. There was no mention at that time, it was said, of a possible veto of the measure.

The Senate directed that no price-fixing order on agricultural commodities should become effective until approved by the secretary of agriculture.

The President's call for a conference went out to Reps. Steagall (D., Ala.), Williams (D., Mo.), Spence (D., Ky.), Wilcott (R., Mich.), and Gifford (R., Mass.).

AUTO LIABILITY
PREMIUM RATES
TO BE INCREASED

Accidents Increase And Labor Costs Also Rise

New York, —The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters announce today increases in premium rates for automobile liability insurance to be made effective immediately by its members.

The change boosted by 3.5 per cent premiums for bodily injury and property damage insurance for private passenger automobiles in 33 states and the District of Columbia. It increased by 1.8 per cent the charge for coverage of commercial cars in 17 states and the District.

The bureau, with a membership of 36 leading stock companies, said mutual concerns would not necessarily be affected by the revision, although it is regarded as the official rating organization for such insurance.

"The increase in accidents and the rising cost of labor and materials" were cited as reasons for the changes, confined to territories and classifications for which they were required by the companies' experience through 1940.

The states in which changes were made on private cars include Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana and Tennessee.

Tennessee, Illinois and Indiana were included in the states in which commercial car rate changes were made.

WOULD OVERHAUL
EXCESS PROFITS
TAX FOR REVENUE

Congress Grows Impatient Over Lack Of Action

Washington, — Thorough overhauling of the excess profits tax system and the enactment of drastic levies which would skim off the major share of corporation earnings from farm production operations were proposed today by Senator Connally (D., Tex.), a member of the Senate finance committee.

Amid signs but Congress was growing impatient at the reputed failure of the Treasury to explore new fields of taxation, Connally said he was certain there would be strong support for the upward revision of levies which now range from 35 to 60 per cent on profits classed as "excess."

"Some of these companies are making fortunes out of defense contracts," the Texas Senator told reporters. "We can get some of the money from them and we ought to overhaul the excess profits tax thoroughly."

This might involve, Connally said, a change in the method of computing such taxes. Corporations now have the alternative of figuring their excess profits levies on the basis of their invested capital or on the standard of past profits.

The invested capital formula, favored by the Treasury in the past, has been opposed by Chairman George (D., Ga.), of the finance committee, who contended that many corporations with large capital stock issues thus avoided paying a fair share of taxes on admittedly large profits.

CAN SALVAGE
AIDS DEFENSE

Los Angeles, — Scientists and an engineer claim they have discovered a method of reclaiming tin and scrap steel from tin cans and are operating successfully a small salvaging plant here.

Dr. W. C. Gregory, chemist and physicist formerly employed by copper and gunpowder firms, and E. Baden Powell, geologist and engineer, said the plant is showing a profit. Heretofore, the cost of recovering the metals has proved greater than their value.

They said they have been assured sufficient financing to enlarge their plant to a capacity of 500 tons of reclaimed tin annually and hope to expand to twelve branches over the country. The local plant also would salvage about 39,000 tons of scrap steel annually.

Gregory and Powell said their eventual hope is to produce 17,000 tons of tin. That would be one-fifth the current consumption of 88,000 tons.

SPORT TALK

This corner is violating no confidence when it says that the Bulldogs are not coming along as they were expected earlier in the season. In the preliminary games the team showed a steady improvement, but when they played Murray they set an all-time record for missed shots and for bungling in floor work. Since then the team has not functioned for an entire game as well as it should, and in the Bardwell game another performance of the same sort characterizing the Murray game was turned in. Bardwell was beaten without serious trouble, but this was because Bardwell played worse than the Bulldogs and play of the local squad was not such as to give encouragement for future games. Practice this week has not been encouraging either, but Coach Giles is hoping that this week will see the boys begin to function again as a hard-driving team.

The boys seem to be in pretty good physical condition and play well in spurts. One quarter or two quarters may be well played, but some time during a game the teamwork goes to pot, and scoring chances are muffed and the defense falls apart. These lapses will be fatal in some of the games which are coming up, for in future games the Bulldogs are going to face some well-coached outfits.
The game Friday night in Clinton may be one of these affairs. For Coach Phillips always has a well-coached team. He may not have first rate material, but he has a faculty of getting the best out of all the boys who play for him.
Clinton has won most of its games
thus far, but has had to work mighty hard for some of them. Last Friday night Phillips' team won over Milburn in a tight game 23 to 21, a much smaller margin than the Bulldogs rolled up over the Milburn team—but Clinton came back under pressure and held a small lead. The Bulldogs have never been badly behind except once,
and then they failed to come back.
Murray built up a big lead and the Bulldogs were never able to overcome this lead. In all other games the Bulldogs have had a substantial lead for the greater part of

BULLDOGS GET BID TO PLAY IN CHARITY GAME

Local Five To Play Either Brewers
Or New Concord In Mayfield

Coach Herschel Giles' Bulldogs
yesterday received a bid to play in the annual charity tilt in Mayfield on Wednesday night, January 28 and will play either Brewers or New Concord. This charity game is a doubleheader. The other two teams to play have not been announced as yet.

The four outstanding net teams of Western Kentucky are invited
each year to play in this charity game at Mayfield. Last year Clinton and Hardin played and Sedalla and LaCenter. Fulton was invited as the outstanding team of this end of the district. At the present time the Bulldogs have lost only one game, that being to Murray early in the season.

the way, and so they have never had to put out more than they had this season. Last year the team came from behind many times, and it is to be hoped that this year's team will develop this faculty before many days.

Man for man, Coach Giles has a team which should win almost all its games this season, and a team which might have a chance for district honors. This corner knows of only one team which appears to be better in past games, that being Hickman. On a basis of games played the Bulldogs appear to be as good as any team in the conference and better than some. The fact remains, however, that the team has never knitted itself together properly. It is a team of individual ability, but for some reason the individuals are finding it difficult to weld themselves into a fivesome that cannot be turned back. To win steadily the team must do this, for it does not have any shining stars on the order of the great Larry Binford of last year's Clinton outfit. With such a man as this it is easy to win—although Clinton did have four others who were far better than average. The Bulldogs do not have such a man, and so they must function as a five-man team. In several games they have scored pretty well in this manner. For example, in Bardwell, high was only six points, and practically all the boys scored. That sort of play will win a lot of games if defense can be tightened up.

These things are coming in for intensive attention on the part of the coaches this week. Coach Giles wants to get his team at the peak during the next two weeks, for some important games are just ahead.
