New Citizens Hear Col. Joe T. Lovett

Dr. G. T. Hicks
Is Originator
of Program

With Col. Joe T. Lovett as principal speaker, Murray State students who have attained voting age since August 1, 1944, or will be 21 by August 1, 1945, pledged allegiance to their country in the college's seventh annual Citizenship Day program held in chapel Wednesday morning, February 21.

Dr. G. T. Hicks, who first suggested a Citizenship Day for Murray, conducted the ceremony which recognized these students as responsible citizens of the United States.

Col. Joe T. Lovett, retired Army officer and present director of the Mid-South Chain Stores Council, spoke on "The Every Day Job of Citizenship." He defined citizenship as "the responsibility and obligation that you owe to organized society. It is a privilege, yes, but not a privilege that is conferred on you when you are 21 unless you do something to assure the purity of that citizenship."

This former Kentucky newspaper publisher declared that since government directly affects one throughout his entire life, he should become acquainted with the "machinery of the democracy we have here in America."

Col. Lovett said that the records and actions of office holders should be carefully judged to determine whether these persons are competent to fill the positions for which they are elected. This is a citizen's duty, according to Col. Lovett, as "constant vigilance is the price of democracy."

The Boy and Girl Scout troops of Murray, who participated in the program, gave their respectiveaths and salutes.

Dr. William G. Nash, dean of Murray State College, presided over the program in the absence of Pres. James H. Richmond. After making several announcements, he read a letter from President Richmond thanking the college students for the books and flowers sent him during his illness.

The college band, directed by Prof. Frank Prindl, played a professional march, Fillmore's "Americans We," and the "Star Spangled Banner." Miss Helen Floyd sang Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory." Led by Prof. Price Doyle, the audience sang "America."

The invocation was given by the Rev. Charles Herndon, ministerial student at Murray State, and the benediction, by Harold Watson, minister of the Murray Church of Christ and graduate student at the college.

The subject for the discussion this year in the Speech and Music Festival to be held March 23 and 24 at Murray will be "Kentucky State Park," asserted Prof. Carmon Graham, director of Murray Training School, in a recent interview.

He stated that the First District is placing special emphasis on this discussion in an effort to promote interest in the proposed state park on Kentucky Lake at Eggers Ferry.

Concert Band, Conducted by Prindl, To Give Program Sunday, Feb. 25

The concert band, conducted by Prof. F. Prindl, will give the following program February 25, 1945, at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Murray State College:

- I. Come Sweet Death ..... Bach
- II. Symphonic Episode ..... Fourdrain

This suite was written for piano-forte, inspired by an exhibition of paintings and drawings by Mousorgsky's friend, Hartman. The titles of the pictures give a sufficient key to the character of the music. Many of them are essentially fantastic... some even grotesque. But in all of them may be noted a boldness of outline and of harmony, a kinship to Russian folk music, a richness of imagination. The number which the band will play is the last number of the suite.

Senior high participation in the speech division includes debate, oratorical declamation, interpretive reading, extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, and discussion. Interpretive reading, and prose and poetry reading are listed for junior high participation.

The music division of the festival will include vocal solos, vocal ensembles, instrumental solos, and instrumental small ensembles.

Countries in the first district have been asked to contribute $10 to every school entering the contest.

Bands and orchestras will play by invitation only.

"On Being An American"

Last Wednesday we celebrated Citizenship Day, and those who were 21 were especially honored; but whether we are 10, 21, or 51, each one of us should recognize what a great honor it is to be a citizen of the United States. What if, by some trick of fate, we had been born in Greece or Poland or China or Germany?

Would we have gone to the Western game and yelled until we were hoarse if we were in Poland? Would we have breathlessly watched the scenes of "Dark Victory" enacted? Would we dash madly for the Hut to join the crowd? No, we wouldn't be having time for fun. We would be seeing our homes destroyed, our friends and family killed, while we stood helplessly by, fearful for our own life.

Would we have those little midnight chats, all gathering around the bed of one of our friends, if we were in China? No, we would lie awake waiting — waiting for the sound, faint at first, then coming nearer and nearer — the sound of the great birds of the sky that will bring death and suffering with them.

Would we have gone home last week-end after what seemed an eternity, and had a wonderful time with our mother and dad and kid sister, if we were in Greece? No, we would never see our family again because they would have been killed months ago.

If we were in Germany, would we complain loudly that we have more to do than can humanly be done, and what do the teachers think we are anyway? — that it does seem that classes could start at nine instead of eight, why, it's like going to school in the middle of the night — and can we help it if we are a little late when, after all, we sat up all night studying — and why can't we have something to eat once in a while? No, if we opened our mouths to complain, we would never open them again.

If we were in Japan, would we have gone to church on a calm Sunday morning with our friends and listened to the beautiful strains of an organ and watched the sun stream through a stained glass window and worshipped God? No, we would know no God. We would worship only "the land of the rising sun."

Yes, being a citizen of the United States means quite a lot, doesn't it? Our boys are fighting and dying to preserve the right to do things that mark us as Americans — getting so excited at a ball game that we burst the bleachers; enjoying the companionship of our friends and family; worshipping God in any church and in any way we wish; and even, at times, griping a little. Let's thank God with our whole hearts that we are a citizen of the greatest country of the world, the U.S.A. —Farmer.

Get Gaited

Habitually many of us say, "There's nothing to do around here." Every season there's a fad everywhere and obviously that constant complaint is Murray's fad for 44-45.

The whole world is making the same complaint. If you're doubtful, try jaunting around this summer and you'll suddenly realize that our campus is as attractive as other places on the globe.

Certainly we have all the essentials to create vivacity . . . Eddie Melton's merry band, an undecorated gymnasium that looks like the Stork Club with a bit of crepe paper and a touch of Ann Brown's artistic designing, a swimming pool with a bottom bluer than a danube (if a danube were of the blue variety), a bowling alley not too spacious, but it's the power behind the ball that counts. We have all of this plus men and women as added attractions — quite versatile attractions apparently.

Surely some of us get epistles from friends, who are in other schools, giving the events of their day. It all sounds glamorous and we have that old yearning to be where they are. However, if most of us composed an account of our day and sent it on its way to some glib person it would sound just as amusing as their world does to us.

Remember, no matter where we are, if we wait for someone else to outline an exciting, eventful program for us it's all in vain. Others are too busy taking advantage of their own opportunities. —Alsbrook.

Let's Stay On The Walks

Recently quite a few people, who visited the school, were greatly impressed by the scenic aspects of the campus. The symmetrical buildings, whose architecture is primarily of Grecian origin, and the landscape, with the evenly planted trees and shrubs, constitute a pleasing layout that is easily connected by the various buildings.

But when it rains (as it is likely to do in Murray at any opportune or inopportune moment) at any length of time, there appear puddles and holes of such depth that it is extremely hard for one not to become drenched. This in itself is annoying; but the sidewalks were laid with the idea in mind of symmetry as well as of convenience.

Nevertheless, the ground is walked on to such an extent that decided sinkings are evident even when there is a lack of rainfall. This problem to a certain extent, can only be solved by the students who take short cuts. If we were to walk only on the sidewalks, there would be no beaten paths or puddles to spoil the campus, and during the rainy (?) season, we might be able to dispense with the knee length boots. —French.

Help the weak if you are strong, own a fault if you are wrong.

MURRAY STUDENTS ON HOME FRONTS

Wherever they go, Murray's students inevitably develop to be leaders and servants of the public in their profession, whether as homemakers, teachers, club members, musicians or what not.

Hickman County boasts of Mr. McDaniel, county superintendent, Mr. Waterfield, editor, Miss Ray, home agent, Fulton County has among others, Miss Margaret Howard, home agent, Miss Howard was recently given the position after Mrs. Thompson, who had held the place for nine years, resigned.

Homemakers Clubs, 4-H Clubs and everyone rejoice in having an efficient leader as Miss Howard. She typifies the College elegantly. More and more leaders in her clubs are former college students. These leaders, in turn get the valuable lessons from the agent, consequently them to continual development. —Mrs. H. G. Butler, Fulton, Ky.

Ideal Girls? Here They Are

By Maxine Crouch

There has been a bit of propaganda going around that after the war there will be seven girls to one boy. If this is true we girls will have to put our best foot forward—hoping it will get there first. So here's what a few of the boys at Murray State like in a girl.

Joe McNeely, a music major, put his horn down and began, "Well, first of utmost importance she must be good looking. Second, she shouldn't be too attentive to anyone else while I'm with her. Third, we should have a few things in common." He left, having used all the good phrases he knew.

Jimmy Bagby, the dancer of Murray State, started several times and just couldn't find the words to describe his ideal girl; so with a wave of the hand he went back to his dancing. You might guess he would want her to be a good dancer.

Jimmy Crason, just wouldn't tell how he felt and gave as his excuse for not describing his dream girl, "I don't know." Could it be possible no one has impressed him?

Norval Satterfield, the guy who helps keep the College News in ads, laid down his work as if he were really going to spill the works, but would only say, "Not very tall, brunette, a girl who doesn't smoke or curse."

"Sippi" Cain wasn't so sure he knew, and tried to get off on his ketchup, but Scott Smith was determined to get him to talk; so together we managed to get a statement from the captain of our Breds. "Brunette," and so with that one statement he left us to guess the rest.

Scott Smith says he hasn't had much training on the line of girls, but he likes his girls to be blonds, and even went so far as to name some girl. He did say, "Had to be on the ball."

Harold Owens, the blond from Mississippi, had to have time to think so he would be sure to get it right. After a few reminders of a 2 o'clock class he broke down and confessed his ideal girl was like this—"Between a blond and brownette, five feet and six inches tall, greyish-green eyes, and her feet not as big as mine. Then too she can't have a burr hair cut like mine."

Jimmy Thornberry doesn't give any one any hopes for he said, "I've never found any one who is my ideal."

Craig Ford wanted to call names—or was it Scott who kept saying he likes—but wait, no names in this—anyway, she should be a brunette with long hair.

Wimberly Royster wouldn't even discuss the matter; so you are strictly on your own when you try to please him.

Johnny Reagan, the boy who came to Murray with a talent for basketball and a trunk full of sweaters, was very definite, but the average girl will never be able to reach the goal he has set for her. Smiling and turning that red head he said, "She should have brown hair, blue eyes, be five feet and 11 inches tall, weigh 160 pounds." As if he hadn't already put almost every girl out of the running he had to add "She should be flat footed." Your guess is as good as ours.

Tall Bob Harris, who is the pride of Tennessee, seems to be Reagan's main trouble for he said, "The same here." Could they have the same girl in mind?

Teachers Give Views on Slacks

By Jacqueline Robertson

When asked what he thought of girls wearing slacks and jeans to class Prof. Wm. Caudill replied "that it doesn't make them any more attractive" and to really express himself it would not be proper to go in the College News.

Miss Hollowell stated that she doesn't "particularly like them and had much rather see girls dressed with more care."

Miss Frye added her opinion that she had "much rather see them dressed in dresses."

Miss Tarry of the Training School stated, "There are places for all things and school is not the place for slacks and jeans."

Dr. Hicks stated "it reflected one's personality and when they wore them 'they acted much more sloppy than when wearing dresses.'"

We Missed You

Did you notice the absence of a yellow head bobbing constantly up and down during the past two ball games? Did you keep expecting to hear, "Come on, Raid!" (meaning Red), "Let's go, Sippi," "Get together, Gang," punctuated by a series of intensified Eagle Screams? Did you notice that the cheer-leaders were distressingly like a boat without an oar?

It simply goes without saying that if you were at the game you missed Eddie. Eddie . . . the Esger One . . . Eddie, enthusiastic even when the game seemed beyond hope . . . Eddie, so energetic that a Western visitor was heard to remark, "I can't help but worry about the boy's heart!" . . . Eddie, pounding on the floor of Wimberly's head when his lungs momentarily failed him . . . Eddie, running from end to end of the court following the progress of the ball. . . Cotton-Top, we missed you. . . —Martha Belle Hood.

MISS OBERHEU TELLS OF TRIP FROM INDIA

By Norma Jean Weller

Crossing the ocean on a blacked-out ship under wartime conditions is not new to Miss Charlotte Oberheu, freshman from Paducah, Miss Oberheu, daughter of a Lutheran missionary to India, came to this country in July, 1943.

Born in Trivandrum, in the state of Travancore, India, she attended the Kodalkanal school for the children of missionaries. When asked how she liked Murray compared with her Indian school, she replied, "I like it. There are so many other things to do besides classwork."

While making the crossing, which required six weeks, a ship was sunk in the spot her ship had passed two and a half hours previously. Because of the many children on Miss Oberheu's boat, they were unable to answer the S.O.S.

"You don't think much about being scared," she replied in answer to that inevitable question.

One day out of New York, a destroyer came out to escort them into the harbor. The destroyer began dropping depth charges, and the alarm was given on her ship. Miss Oberheu grabbed her baby sister, who had the measles, and ran for the lifeboats.

Miss Oberheu chose Murray because, as she put it, "It's close to Paducah and has a good home economics department." She would like to work in a test kitchen, and is a home economics major. Her family now resides in Paducah, where Rev. Oberheu joined them in August of 1943.

Two Lieutenants Are Graduates of Army Air Field

Lt. William R. Swyers and Lt. Phil Youngblood were members of a class of combat pilots graduated February 1 from the Abee Army Air Field in an impressive ceremony similar to that being enacted at other advanced pilot training schools throughout the vast AAF Training Command.

At Abee Field these young pilots received the finishing touches in their aerial education. Here they mastered intricate ground school subjects, observed needed military training, and spent many hours in the famed AT-6 Texan trainer learning the fundamentals of instrument, formation, night, and combat flying.

Among the graduates was Second Lieutenant William Randall Swyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elwood Swyers, Route 1, New Texas, Pa. His wife is the former Miss Betty Holderman, 226 East Crawford, Elkhart, Ind. He received his degree from Murray State College, Kentucky, in 1942, and took post-graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Another graduate was Second Lieutenant Phil Youngblood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Youngblood, Hardin, Ky. Prior to entering the service, Lt. Youngblood attended Murray State College.

About Men, That's All . . .

By Evelyn Dawson

In the absence of the real McCoy, seven co-eds discussed recently on the merits of men.

"Men—if one were here our problems would be solved. We wouldn't have to have a discussion for this annoying reporter—actions speak louder than words," quoted Dottie Fanelli "but if words are necessary I want an intelligent, attentive man—attentive only when with me. He must appreciate classical music, be athletic, but above all love me more than his mother."

Rosemary Legay flashed in a statement at this moment, "Rich man, poor man, beggar man and so on, but he must have reached maturity, with six feet on his feet—not too good-looking; that brings about too much competition. A good line of chatter is essential."

"I'm a total blank," stated Gin Coker, "the subject is enough for me."

Violet Blackwell added spasmodically, "Big, dumb, awkward, lovable—that's the man for me. In case of emergency, anything will do."

"A guy named Bob—well-mannered, black hair, good-looking and thoughtful (to the extent of frequently sending Dentyne gum)," contributed Veda Hallam.

Alsbrook was silent long enough and then submitted her thought, "The weaker ones of sex are intrinsic to us. However, when being choicy (and are we today?), I like men who respect girls and are bold enough . . . good dancers and conversationalists are preferred."

In her meek manner, Gene Warren said, "I love a good technique but why talk about something that's impossible. Men lacking ability to dance are off the list."

PLEDGES GIVE VIEWS ON STUNTS

In recent interviews with some of the pledges as to how they liked to carry suitcases, wear halters and berets, and walk up the steps backwards, most of them agreed that it would be worth all the trouble.

Evelyn Dawson, Louisville, a pledge to Tri Sigma, expressed her opinion about the pledging as "I think it is a lot of fun. All the activities are very nice, and I like them all."

"Initiation isn't so bad as long as you can have faith to believe that you can soon become an active member," stated Ola May Cathey, Murray, a pledge to the Sigma Alpha Iota music fraternity.

Billy Crossway, Springfield, Tenn., a pledge to the Gamma Delta Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha national music fraternity of America, said, "It is a lot of work, although we are having to do several things that will be of value to us in our music education. If we break our necks going down steps backward, of course our music education will be of little value to us. Several of us have about decided to change our profession to shining shoes."

Another pledge to the Phi Mu Alpha, Russell Oldham, Owensboro, stated, "It is a fine organization to get into if you can stand the pledging, although sometimes it gets kinda tiresome carrying a suitcase and wearing a halter around your neck."

SLACKS

By Nelson Williams

Slacks have at last hit Murray State and with them have come overall pants.

The girls say they are just the things on cool mornings even if they don't look so feminine; but some of the boys voiced their opinions in a different manner.

Ed Norris, that southern gentleman from Guthrie, Ky., expressed his opinion of overalls by saying, "I think it's awful that girls wear overalls and pull overs (sweaters) to classes. It ruins their charm."

Frimie French became spokesman for the girls when she said, "So what, we girls don't wear overalls for looks; we wear them for comfort."

Rather than get in trouble with the girls, Wimberly Royster stayed neutral and would only say, "Who am I to say what girls should wear?"

Smart boy.

Although reluctant to admit it, most girls think that overalls are not as nice as a cute little frock.

Gingles Plans For Commerce Growth

"When the war is over we expect to enlarge our commerce department by adding two additional teachers, various kinds of office machines, and by offering new courses," stated Prof. Fred Gingles, head of the commerce department, in an interview.

The commerce department now has 38 typewriters, one mimeograph machine, and other office machines. Mr. Gingles stated, "In the future we expect to add to our equipment a comptometer, and various other kinds of adding machines. There will probably be courses offered in office machinery, filling and general business from the standpoint of consumer training.

The commerce head believes there will be an increased need in the future for the training of office workers and teachers of commercial subjects. Government work will probably decline but in this section new businesses will be established which will furnish a bright outlook for commercial students.

Thoroughbreds Nose Out Morehead 39-38

Victory Is 12th For Murray in 1944-45

TILT IS FINAL HOME CLASH

By Nelson Williams

In one of the most closely contested games of the season, the Thoroughbred five overcame the Morehead Eagles here Wednesday, February 21, with a final score of 39-38.

The victory was Murray's 12th against nine losses for the season and it was the second over the Eagles in three clashes this winter. It was Murray's final home tilt of the year.

Cain made a foul shot to score first after three minutes. Cooper also made a free throw and Prater came in for a crib, but Thornberry evened up the score 3-3 as Morehead called time out.

Carpenter made a nice long shot but Cain came in with a long one that evened up the score 5-5. Cooper made another free throw, but Thornberry soon remedied this situation.

It seemed to be a duel between Thornberry and Cooper. Both men were playing exceptionally good games. Every time Cooper made a basket, you could rely on Thornberry to sink one.

With two minutes to go in the first half, Logeman made a crib and a side shot in succession, which raised the score to 19-18. Garnett House, Morehead center, made a short shot that raised the score to 19-18 in Murray's favor and the buzzer ended the first half.

In the first half the score was tied three times and the lead had changed hands 11 times. Both sides sensed that it was going to be a tight game. Reagan had shot the ball once.

At the beginning of the second half Thornberry hit his stride again and made a side shot, a crib and a free throw within the first three minutes, bringing the score up to 24-18. Park Prater made a free throw but the Breds couldn't be stopped. Bob "Lightning" Harris came in for a side shot and a free throw and Smith brought up another two markers, making the score 29-19 with only seven minutes of the second half gone. It was the widest margin of the evening.

Homer Bickers, guard, made a long one and House got a free throw but Harris came in with a crib bringing the score up to 31-22. Carpenter and Cooper got a basket apiece and Murray's lead was cut down to five points.

Harris marked up another free-throw but Morehead, sparked by Freshman House, was now on the march. The score rolled up for Morehead and with only eight minutes to go, the twins were tied 32-32. It was any man's game now.

House got a crib and "Red" Reagan marked up a free throw. Bickers made a long one giving Morehead a 3-point lead. Reagan hit another free throw but he didn't stop there. The ball went down to the Murray end and Reagan hit a beauty from 'way out on the

Former Student Aids Association Of Future Teachers

A Future Teachers Association has been organized by a dozen Ashland City girls to help relieve this country's shortage of teachers.

It was the surprising fact that 11 out of the 16 one-room schools were taught by people without special preparation, that led Ashland City school officials to organize this club.

These girls meet two hours a week to discuss the problems of elementary teaching with Mrs. Eleanor Sills Brandon, former Murray student, and at present elementary supervisor of Cheatham county schools.

Mrs. Brandon has had a number of years of practical experience; so she was among those elected to teach the girls. She was president of the Household Arts Club in 1935-36.

She attended Murray State last summer when she took a course in malaria control.

Progress Made On Yearbook

All snapshots of campus scenes will be finished by February 24.

floor tying the score at 36-36.

With four minutes to go Thornberry made a long one but Cooper quickly tied up the score at 38-38.

Reagan then gave Murray its 1-point victory margin on one of his beautiful free throws giving the Breds their 39-38 lead. Murray tried to freeze the ball but with less than a minute to go Cooper broke through and shot, but missed. The ball was quickly recovered and the game ended with Murray ahead. The Thoroughbreds had come through again.

Murray and Morehead have five things in common: 1. both schools have coaches named Miller; 2. the initials of both schools are MSTC; 3. the school colors of both schools are blue and gold; 4. both schools were founded at the same time; 5. both have good teams!

MURRAY DEFEATS EVANSVILLE 54-42 FOR 11TH VICTORY

Breds Lead 23-13 At Halftime In Game Feb. 14

The Murray State Thoroughbreds swept through a fast-moving contest at Evansville, Ind., Wednesday night, February 14, to beat the Evansville College Aces 54-42.

This was the eleventh win for Murray against 7 losses.

Murray took the lead the first few minutes of the game and kept it throughout the game. Johnny Reagan and Kenny Cain led off with a field goal each. Then the Aces tied the score 4-4, after which Jimmy Thornberry sank a free throw putting the Breds in the lead, which they kept.

The Millermen were hitting the basket from all angles and Murray led at the intermission by the score 23-13.

After the intermission the Aces led by Harold Brown, forward, began to gain on the Thoroughbreds and with seven minutes to go in the last frame, Murray led 42-39. But the Murray States began to roll again with Thornberry, Cain and Reagan bringing Murray's lead to 12 points making the final score 54-42.

Jimmy Thornberry, Bred forward, paced the Racehorses' scoring getting 20 points, while Kenny Cain, guard, ran close second with 17 points. Harold Brown, Evansville forward, led the Aces with 18 points.

Journalist Gets Interview With Cage Manager

By Mary Jane Moore

"Wimberly Royster is an outstanding student, manager of the basketball team, and an all-around good fellow. Why don't I interview him?" I mutter to myself as I search madly for someone to interview for my journalism class.

For the few people on Murray State campus who can't place Mr. Royster, there is no danger of mistaking him for anyone else. He is about so tall, weighs around so much, with brown curly hair, and is definitely a campus personality among our male students. Remember?

In my panic, I accost him. After his slow, friendly "Hello," the conversational attitude which chapter 17 of our text says is definitely the first step, was easily established.

"What do you want to interview me for?" draws Wimberly modestly.

With the first step well in hand, I proceed to the subtle firing of questions which progressed none too favorably.

Question No. 1 is answered, "I'm from Robards, near Henderson. Question No. two and three, "I'm a junior and I like Murray State fine."

Frantically, I tear my hair! How can I get Wimberly to open up and start talking about himself?

"Realizing the possibilities of a good write-up about Wimberly, I jiggled my brain for an unusual, clear question as just a question.

At wit's end, I resort to a rather frequent question around the campus: "What do you think of our basketball team?" to which he immediately replied: "They're a swell bunch of sportsmen and the best freshman team I've ever seen."

Other bits of information that I gained from my modest interview are: He is a member of Kappa Pi, he

COLTS WIN 38-18 OVER HAZEL LIONS

Stewart's Quintet Outscores Visitors After 8-8 Tie At End of First Half

The Training School Colts dominated the Hazel Lions 38-18 Friday night, February 16, in the Carr Health Building.

The first half showed both teams were badly off in scoring. Each team scored eight points. Many good shots were missed by both the Colts and the Lions.

The second half found the Training School hitting everything they shot at. Hazel scored but two points in the third quarter. They had trouble penetrating the Colts' tight defense for shots. The third quarter ended 21-10, Training School.

Stewart's Colts pulled steadily away from Hazel in the fourth stanza. They outscored the Lions 17-8 in the last quarter.

After the third quarter Hazel was never quite able to make any comeback.

The Colts played a steady and cautious game from start to finish. They may cause some one plenty of trouble in the district tourney; they have been somewhat underrated this season.

Riggins was high point man of the game with 17 counters, while Grogan, guard for the Lions, made 6.

The Colts' second team also won by 23-22.

MURRAY LOSES TO INDIANA STATE ON HOOSIER FLOOR

Breds Bow 49-42 For Eighth Loss In 19 Contests

The Murray Thoroughbreds lost their eighth game in 19 starts when Indiana State of Terre Haute won 49-42 on the Indiana floor February 15. This was a revenge defeat as the Breds defeated the Hoosiers 54-40 on the Murray floor January 27. The second night of the Indiana road trip was too much for the Millermen as they seemed unable to find the basket in the last half. Indiana led at halftime 25-23.

Swinford, forward for the tall Indiana team, was high point man for the victors with 16 points. Armstrong, Hoosier center, made 14 points. Captain Kenny Cain led the Breds with 9 markers as Johnny Reagan, Malcolm Logeman, and Scott Smith made 7 each.

This was the second appearance on the Terre Haute floor for the Breds this season. Glen Curtis, Indiana coach, was host to the Midwest Tournament, held at Terre Haute December 22-23, when the Thoroughbreds won the championship.

Diddle, Hornback, Cook Twins, Miller, McClain, Kellow, Smith Laud Breds

By Shirley E. Stanton

The bleachers were empty, the teams were in the dressing rooms, and officials and Bowling Green fans stood in small groups discussing the hard-fought game in which Murray went down by a score of 37-33 to its old rival, Western, Saturday night, February 10.

"I always expect a hard ball game and always have a hard game with Coach Miller and his boys," remarked Ed Diddle, Western coach, as he came out of the dressing room.

Ted Hornback, assistant coach of Western, expressed his opinion of the Thoroughbreds in the following words, "I think Murray has a very fine team. It is a good, clean, and hard playing group."

"Murray has a grand team and a wonderful Pep Club," expressed the dynamic cheerleaders of Western, Misses Anna Jo and Betty Jo Cook. The twins also added that they thought the girls of Murray were very nice and that they appreciated the courtesies extended to them.

Because he was referee, Mr. Sidwell was reluctant to express his opinion of the Thoroughbreds but made the following comment: "I think they have a grand team; mighty good boys, Reagan and Thornberry."

"Murray has the best team in the world," was the emphatic statement of Robert Miller, Murray,

S. E. Missouri Wins 38-34 Over Breds In Return Tilt

NO KIAC THIS YEAR

The final answer to the question, "Is the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament going to be held this year?" has been reported it will not be held this year.

One reason for not holding it this year is the fact the war makes transportation difficult, but the main reason is the fact that not enough schools want to have it.

The last KIAC tournament was held in 1943 at Richmond, Ky., home of Eastern College. Western won it that year.

Murray has won the tournament only one time, (1941), when Mr. Cutchin coached the Breds.

Training School Leads Throughout Game Played Tuesday Night, Feb. 20

The Training School Colts topped Almo Tuesday night, February 20, in the Almo gym 45-29.

Cagers Trail 17-10 at Halftime In Carr Gym

Holding the Murray Thoroughbreds to three field goals and four free-throws in the first half, Southeast Missouri's Indians from Cape Girardeau avenged a previous defeat by trouncing the Kentucky Racehorses 38-34 in Carr Gym Saturday night, February 17.

The victory was the 13th against three losses for the Cape Redskins and it gave them a victory over every team that has defeated them this season. For Murray it was the ninth loss as compared with 11 wins. The Breds won 43-37 at Cape Girardeau on January 23.

The first half of the game here Saturday night was a remarkable exhibition of both teams missing the basket. All told the Kentuckians and Missourians shot 41 times and connected in only 10 instances. Thornberry, Harris, and Logeman got a field goal apiece and the Breds trailed 17-10 at the half.

Herbert Upton and Martin Radmer, Cape forwards, put the Missourians ahead 4-0 at the start. Bob Harris batted one in, Logeman hit a free-throw, and Thornberry connected with a medium shot to give Murray its only lead—5-4—of the first half.

Jimmie Thornberry, Rineyville frosh who was suffering with an infected eye, put Murray back in the game with a crib and three free-throws. Johnny Reagan and Kenny Cain batted in a couple as the teams went into their second tie score of the tilt—19-19.

For seven minutes Southeast Missouri failed to score a field goal.

Radmer and Brinkhopf and Hoot, however, put the Indians ahead 25-20, but Harris with one and Reagan with two long ones, aided by Thornberry's free-throw offset Upton's basket to tie the count again—27-27.

Harris looped in a quick side shot to give the Millermen their last lead, 29-28. Leon Brinkhopf, Cape guard, brought the margin back to the Missourians and the Racehorses ate dust the rest of the trail.

With two minutes to go, "Abe" Stuber's Show-Me boys demonstrated the art of freezing and coasted through to a 38-34 victory.

Thornberry was high Kentuckian with 10, followed by Reagan's 8, and Harris' 7. For the visitors, the top cager was Radmer with 15. Upton made 9 and Brinkhopf tallied 8.

Western Cagers Defeat Murray 37-33

Victory Is Second Over Breeds in 1945

Western State's Hilltoppers battled through a tight contest, February 10, to overcome the Murray Thoroughbreds 37-33 in the Carr Health Building.

The score was tied eight times: 2-2, 4-4, 6-6, 9-9, 17-17, 18-18, 20-20, 25-25.

The win was Western's second over the Miller Frosh this season. In their 30 regular season cage games, Western now has 16 victories to 12 by Murray.

With 20 seconds gone in the game, Bob Harris, lanky center, put Murray in the lead with a crisp shot. Then Paul Kelly, Western guard, made a field goal to tie the score 2-2.

After six and one-half minutes in the initial half, the score was tied 9-9. Then Western took the lead and kept it until only two minutes remained in the half when Jimmy Thornberry and Johnny Reagan, bred forwards, each made a free throw putting Murray ahead 18-17. Then Jim Huter, Western guard, and Reagan made a free throw and Murray was still ahead 19-18, but with just a few seconds remaining in the half, Lowell Kennedy, forward, made a long one to give Western a one point lead at the half, the score being 20-19.

Murray came back in the second half with Mac Logeman, guard, making a field goal and a free throw to put Murray ahead 22-20.

Lawrence Jones, Tupper center, fouled out with seven minutes gone in the last half of the game, while on the next play Jimmy Bazzell, Western forward, went out of the ball game on fouls. Murray was leading 26-24.

With six and one-half minutes remaining in the ball game, Jim Huter made a long shot and was fouled on the play by Kenny Cain, bred captain. He was given one shot and made it to put Western ahead 30-29.

The Hilltoppers began to press harder and widened the lead to 37-29. Then Harris and Reagan each made a shot from out in the floor to make the final score 37-33.

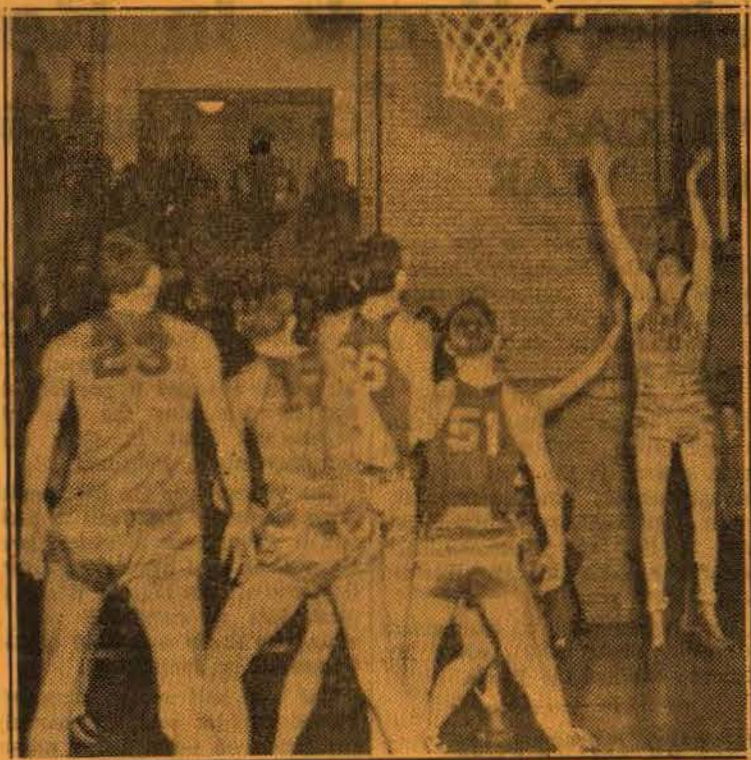

Johnny "Red" Reagan, freshman Murray forward, led the scoring with 17 points, outscoring any two Western players, while Jim Huter and Paul Kelly shared honors for the Toppers with eight points each.

Johnny "Red" Reagan, Bred Forward, Scores Basket Against Hilltoppers

Student Org News

By Tim O'Brien

A collection under the direction of the Murray State Student Organization was taken in chapel on Wednesday, February 14, for the purpose of sending Dr. Richmond a token of felicitation from the students and the faculty of the college. A total sum of $14.96 was collected. Marion Sharborough, Nelle Bizle, and Jack Hicks were appointed on the committee to purchase the gifts. They bought flowers and two books and these were sent to the president.

I received a letter from Dr. Richmond thanking the people concerned for the gifts and this was read in chapel on Wednesday, February 21, by Dean Nash.

It was decided to try and hold a dance for all students and the members of the Navy Unit on Saturday, March 10, at the Carr Health Building. Jack Hicks was named to find out if an orchestra could be procured.

The Student Organization would like to take this opportunity to thank the cheerleaders for their fine work this year. The captains Martha Belle Hood and Mary Kathryn Alsbrook, have led their group well and the freshmen, Emma Jean Babbs and Ed Norris, have shown great promise.

Erwin Visits

Returning from participation in three major Pacific battles, Marine Pfc. Joe Thomas Erwin, Hazel, was a visitor on the Murray campus this week while at home on a 15-day furlough. Erwin was a freshman at Murray in 1942 and 1943.

DORMISTORY

By VIOLET BLACKWELL

A girl whose cheeks are covered with paint. Has an advantage with me over one whose ain't.

So says Ogden Nash — could he have realized through what torture pledges would pass? The unpowdered truth is so horrible.

Distinguished guests on the campus recently were "Jilly Bean" Weldon, Frances Nelson, Jeanne Beth Gasser, and Betty Phillips. The atmosphere reeked with "local-journalists-make-good" stories. (Upperclassmen no doubt cheered at the sight of Gasser's inimitable flowers). Please forgive me for the delay in reporting these guests. The grapevine broke and scotch tape is hard to get these days.

Betty Sue Houston, Fulton, visited Suite 301 to bring life to the dying spirits there. Dying? Well, in a sense. The bird was already dead. You don't get it? Welllllll, dummy, Lady Jean Brummal drew the drapery of her couch around her in preparation to retire. When all of a sudden she found it. Yes, yes, the dead bird. In the bed. Silly, of course somebody put it there. That's an old Southern custom.

Question of the week: Why does "love" mean "nothing" in tennis? Address all answers to Box 326. Really, I'm serious.

The Breakfast Club (which showed particular enthusiasm the week of January 29) has been replaced by the Compliment Club of Suite 111. The latter has been going on for some time but was discovered recently by the public when M. B. Hood retold some of the goings on in that wing of Ordway. Seems the occupants scurry around all day thinking up compliments and then gather in the evenings to inflate the ego. Sounds like a good idea—morale has got to go UP, there's no other alternative.

With the last lingering vibration of the hot water pipes fading into morning I leave you with this thought—

Be virtuous, be simplicity, be kindness, but above all be optimistic.

A sinus infection forced Miss Betty Ann Wake, freshman, Kuttawa, to stay home Monday, February 13, through Friday, February 16.

CAMPUS PLEDGES

Pledges! Pledges! Pledges! Murray's campus has been colorfully littered with pigtailed, teddy bears, huge cardboard signs, eyeglasses, and the like for weeks now.

But honestly girls, it's quite confusing. We ask ourselves, "Is that Tri Sigma in the formal and up-sweep hairdo the same one we saw yesterday in slacks and without make-up?"

And how do you ever tell an SAI from a KDI or a Sigma Sigma Sigma from a Household Arts pledge or vice-versa. You see what we mean—confusing!

We didn't realize how bad the food shortage in the dining hall had gotten to be 'til the other day we saw Tri Sigma pledges actually peddling cookies to the hungry students as they went about from class to class. But don't think the SAI's let anybody out-do them. Why only Wednesday they appeared on the

MURRAY TO PLAY TENNESSEE QUINT

Breds Will Clash With Vols at Knoxville

For the first time in history, the Murray State College basketball team will play the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday, February 16. The Volunteers have one of the strongest quintets in the nation and are strong favorites to handle the invading Kentuckians, who are closing the season.

The Tennesseans have 13 wins against three losses—two of which have been averted. The Vols handed the University of Kentucky its first defeat when it was ranked as the number one team in the nation.

The Southerners are co-favorites with Kentucky to win the SEC crown. Tennessee whipped Marshall 48-40, but Murray has a 34-33 victory over the West Virginians and a 54-53 loss to the same team. The Murray Thoroughbreds have 12 wins against nine defeats, and even another loss would leave the Breds a better-than-average record. The youthful Millermen proved their ability early in the season by winning the Mid-West Championship at Terre Haute, Ind.

New Members Honored at Tea

The new members of the Household Arts Club were honored with a tea by the active members Tuesday afternoon, February 20, in the home managing house.

The initiation ceremony was conducted by the acting "Spirit of Home Economics," Mary Frances McElrath, junior, Murray. In a candlelight ceremony 12 new members were initiated into the club.

Alumni Attend Western Game

Among several alumni of Murray State College who attended the basketball clash between Murray and Western on Saturday night, February 10, were: James Phillips, Hugh May, Jim Miller, Charles Wickliffe, Ronald Brinkley, Mr. and Mrs. Adron Doran, Mrs. Carroll Jones, Mrs. Robert Batts, Mrs. Bill Erwin, Mrs. Melton Marshall, Miss Marian Means, Herbert Hurley, Mrs. James Lassiter, Elsie Windsor Kivet, Pat McCuiston, Ray Mcfield, Dan Banks, Edd Kellow, Mr. and Mrs. Acree Austin, Judge and Mrs. W. H. Crowder, Ruth Armstrong, Bill Wetherington, Anna Merle Quirey, Juanita Cook, and others.

Logeman Connects

Let us not forget the faithful Phil Mu's either. In case you have any old cigarette butts, we hear some of the pledges are making a collection. As autograph hounds they don't do so badly either. All things considered though we rather like pledges 'cause college life would be awfully dull without them. —Austin.

MEXICO IS TOPIC OF SPANISH CLUB

Reports Are Presented By El Nopal's Group in Meeting February 21

"Mexico" was the theme of El Nopal's regular meeting Wednesday, February 21, in the library building.

The program included following reports: "The Arts in Mexico" by Mary Virginia Austin, sophomore, Lexington, Tenn.; "El Colegio del Amor" (a Mexican radio program popular with the people) by Dorothy Ann Brumbaugh, junior, Owensboro. Jane Gibbs, senior, Union City, gave a talk on her personal experiences in Mexico during the summer of 1943.

A short business meeting was held with Gladys Combs, junior, Owensboro, president of the club, presiding. Plans for the amendments to the constitution of the club were discussed. The next regular meeting will be held Wednesday, March 7, at 4 o'clock.

Waterfield Named Party Director

Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton newspaper publisher and member of the Kentucky General Assembly, was chosen director of organization for the Democratic party in Kentucky at a meeting in Louisville February 6.

It was decided, at this meeting, to move the headquarters from Frankfort to Louisville. Waterfield, a former staff member of the College News, is a graduate of Murray State College.

Murray Grad Gives Two Weeks' Service As Nurses' Aide at Hospital

Miss Manon Crawford, Lynn Grove, graduate of Murray State, and Mrs. Garva Gatin, Murray, Red Cross Volunteer Nurses' Aides, are giving two weeks' service at the Nicholas General Hospital in Louisville. They began their services February 1.

The following are quotes from a recent communication to Mrs. W. J. Caplinger, Calloway county chairman of Nurses Aides: "We wish you could see the spirit these boys have. When we see how badly we are needed and how much we are appreciated, we are so glad we came. The ward doctor is very fine, having also been at the battlefield. The food is grand. The only thing to complain about is that we cannot stay longer. If people in Murray and Calloway county could see the Red Cross at work here, they would double their efforts and dollars to the cause."

The army pays transportation, laundry, room and board for the aides who volunteer.

REA and TVA Specialists Address Repair Clinic

Dan Teare And Miss Parker Are Speakers

The Electrical Repair Clinic is still holding its regular meetings, according to information received from Prof. A. Carman, head of the department of agriculture.

Dan Teare, chief of regional office of REA, from St. Louis, Mo., was the speaker Wednesday night, February 14. Mr. Teare talked on the subject, "The Use of Electricity on the Home and On the Farm".

He pointed out that electricity should be used to earn income instead of being a luxury. He showed that electricity can increase the income from poultry, livestock, and field crops by hay driers, pig brooders and lights in the laying house. He illustrated with working models how to rig up a motor on corn shellers, crushers, and others which will save much labor.

Miss Leah Parker, associate economist with the TVA from Chattanooga, Tenn., was the speaker Monday night, February 19. She showed how post-war electrical equipment would simplify home life. She stated that electricity would be used to heat the house, and freeze and preserve foods after the war.

The last meeting was held Thursday night, February 22.

AAUW Completes Work on Booklet

The fellowship committee of the American Association of University Women, Murray branch, which is in charge of the presentation of "Peter Pan" March 31 in the college auditorium has completed work on a small booklet giving a summary of the story. This idea was suggested by Dr. Racine Spicer.

Miss Ella Wehling, dean of women, is chairman of the immediate committee which supervised this work for the purpose of making the children of this section of Kentucky, Calloway County in particular, more familiar with the story of "Peter Pan."

Miss Evelyn Johnston, critic teacher, fifth grade, in the Training School, wrote the text of the booklet.

Mrs. John Rowlett, critic teacher in art in the Training School, drew the illustrations. Some of these were colored by students in the Training School and Murray City School.

Pfc. Weatherford Injured In Action

Pfc. Chester Weatherford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Weatherford, Clinton, Route One, has been reported injured in action, January 9, in Belgium, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Minerva Eichlin Weatherford, of Frenchtown, N. J.

Before going overseas in September, 1944, with an infantry unit, Pfc. Weatherford took his training at Camp Bowie, Texas, and attended A.S.T.P., Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. He took his overseas training at Camp Claiborne, La.

Pfc. Weatherford is a graduate of Central high school in Clinton in the class of '41 where he was a star basketball player. He attended Murray College in 1941-42.

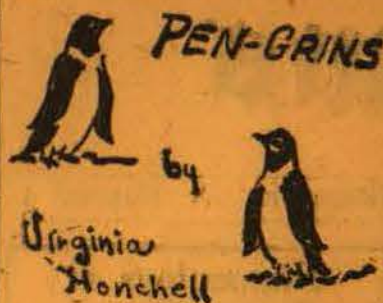

Before being inducted into the U. S. Army, he was employed at the Pratt-Whitney Aircraft plant, Hartford, Conn.

He has one brother in the service, Billy Weatherford, S1-c, U.S. Navy, stationed in the South Pacific.

Orchestra and Recital Listed

The college symphony orchestra will present a concert with Prof. Price Doyle conducting in the recital hall Thursday evening, March 1, at 8:15 o'clock.

Curtis Hughes, baritone, and Mildred Perry, cornetist, will present their senior recital in the hall Tuesday evening, February 7, at 8:15.

On a white sand dune, we sat overlooking quiet Lake Michigan. The smokestack of a freighter was silhouetted on the far distant horizon. Like a silent bird, one lone sailboat moved magically over the water. In the west the sun was making its diurnal exit.

At the foot of our sand dune stood a man, great in stature. The setting sun was reflected on his uplifted face. A quiet assuring voice reached all 600 of us as he spoke music from his soul. As the sun lowered, it painted a glorious trail across the rippling waters. Each wave seemed on fire and Kodaya spoke:

There's a trail at Miniwanka. A glory-strikes trail That glories across the waters To the sun. And the blue and silver waters, The opal-lit waters, Stand on either side in smiles, To see it run. While the sky in silent wonder

In luster-lumined wonder Waits to welcome it, triumphant When it comes.

And I sail that trail each evening In a vessel built of dreams. That golden trail that runs to Meet the sun. And my sails of fancies woven Now white, now rose, now golden,

Filled with winds of aspiration Bear me on. And the trail of light I follow Leads me always to the place Where the twilight and the dawning Are as One.

Respectful quietness, the wind stirring in a giant pine, Kodaya's voice, a setting sun. This was just one of the impressive moments in two weeks of camping at the American Youth Foundation's Camp Miniwanka.

This man, Kodaya, or Dr. O. W. ends Thursday, March 8, from India. He has been working for the American Youth Foundation in young people's summer camps for many years now. In the winters he tours the United States speaking for youth at colleges. He is scheduled as the speaker for Murray State's Religious Emphasis Week which begins next Sunday, March 4 and ends Thursday, March 8.

After opening our camp breakfast with a huge cold sparkling glass of golden applejuice, Kodaya would lead us in hilarious singing: "Open your window And show your head, Over in the meadow The sun shines red. Up then with singing, Up then with singing, Over in the meadow the sun shines red."

Luck was the camper who had Kodaya as an instructor in creative living. His practical sensible approach to the problems of everyday living was so vital, that a class period seemed only too short.

Miss Alice Keys knew Kodaya and has said: "He is a poet and a philosopher. He knows history well and speaks authoritatively concerning India. He is a musician with a keen appreciation of music and a fine ability in leading,

Miss Goodgion Is Winner of Table Tennis

Ernestine Goodgion, freshman from Clinton, was the winner of the table tennis tournament held by the Woman's Athletic Association. Dorothy Sue Poole, also a freshman from Clinton, was the runner-up in the deciding game which was played at the regular meeting of W. A. A. Thursday night, February 22, at the Carr Health Building.

"It was a grand tournament and I enjoyed the game very much," stated Miss Goodgion. "I always enjoy table tennis. It's my favorite sport."

Other games had been played previously. Other participants in the tournament were: Martha Louise Hancock, Joette Smith, Helen Hogan, Beth Broach, Anette Webb, Milta Baker, Mary Helen Munnal, Mary Jane Moore, Mary Ann Johnson, Mary Louise Geveden, Ben Nell Arnold, Naomi Ruth McKnight, Betty Louise Holland, Telese Whiteside, and Paula Garrett. A consolation tournament will be played at the next meeting.

Sarah Ruth Rhodes knew Dr. Warrington at Camp Miniwanka last summer and has this to say about him: "Kodaya is majestic in stature, majestic in thought, yet down to earth."

Dean Wehling saw Kodaya last August in Michigan and said, "Kodaya impressed me by his poise and the depth of his feeling. Underneath his calmness one recognized an individual of deep feeling and of rare sensitivity, possessing genuine poetic insight. I can still hear the resonance of his voice during morning devotions, and I can also see his keen delight when the conference group sang well together. He is one of those rare individuals who make you feel that meeting them will be a source of 'joy forever'."

Kodaya means "He fits in". He does! Without display, he speaks words which somehow are just the very strength we need. Persons with problems, large or small, find worthy advice given them from conferences with this thinker.

Lt. William R. Swyers, Murray State graduate of 1942, has just graduated from pilots training in Victoria, Tex., and is at home in Pittsburgh, Pa., on a 15-day leave. Mrs. Swyers, the former Betty Holderman, also a Murray State student, and their baby are also with Lt. Swyers in Pittsburgh.

Lt. R. F. Finnegan Is Speaker For Kipa Pi

"Journalistic advertising will be a promising field after the war," said Lt. R. F. Finnegan, USMC, who was guest speaker at the second meeting of the newly organized journalism club, Kipa Pi, Thursday, February 15.

Lieut. Finnegan has been actively engaged in advertising for the past 10 years. He was employed by the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency of Chicago, doing advertising for many nationally known products. Lieut. Finnegan graduated from Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., and engaged in newspaper work and some free lance writing before going into advertising.

The young lieutenant went on to say, "There will be so many new products in the post-war world that there will literally be a stampede of manufacturers to the advertisers office."

"The advertiser is a counselor," he continued, "to the manufacturer. He shows the producer the best way to introduce his product to the buyer in a way that his competitor hasn't. In advertising a product you first make a survey of public opinion and find out what is the best way to advertise the product. Then you introduce the product to the nation over the radio, in newspapers, and in magazines." For the last year he has been in the Marine Corps. He is now in the pre-aviation branch. The only remark he had to make on the Marine Corps was to give the Marine motto, and we quote, "Wait, isn't there a harder way to do it?"

Miss Campbell Leads Discussion For Study Group

On Sunday, February 11, Dean Ella Wehling gave the history and beliefs of the Evangelical church and Anna Marie Friday led the devotional. On February 18, Professor F. D. ## Famous Actresses Have Appeared In "Peter Pan"

Flora Maye Stanton, who will play the role of Peter when the Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre of New York presents Barrie's play "Peter Pan" at Murray State College on March 31, follows in the footsteps of some of the most distinguished actresses of this generation.

When Barrie wrote the story of "Peter Pan", later made into a play, he had in mind an actual little boy, Peter Llewellyn Davies. But when "Peter Pan" was presented on the stage, first in England and then in America, it was a woman who portrayed Peter. The first "Peter" was Nina Boucicault, daughter of the Dion Boucicault whose melodramas "The Colleen Bawn" and "The Shaughraun" were very popular some years ago. It is interesting to note that Nina Boucicault made her first appearance on the stage in Kentucky.

When "Peter Pan" first arrived on American shores, he was played by Maude Adams, then a mere girl who had made a great stage success in another Barrie play, "The Little Minister." Miss Adams

"... fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation."

Sixth Grade Paints Room

Some time ago the children of the sixth grade began to plan how they could spend some of the money made from their sale of fruit to improve their school home. They soon decided that more than anything else they wanted to paint their suite of rooms. The living room had just been done in white, which looked very clean and lovely with the blue and yellow drapes.

After conferring with Mr. Broach and Mr. Graham, the children had their permission to begin planning. The next step was to choose colors. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Rowlett of the art department and Miss Parker of the home economics department were consulted. It was decided that a white ceiling and light turquoise walls would be suitable, easy on the eyes, and attractive. Too, these colors would blend well with other furnishings in the rooms.

Estimates were made, paint ordered, and work begun. The college painters did the work for the children. The large room has been

Happenings at Swann Dorm

By Mary Nutter

With Valentine Day just having slipped by, the girls at Swann Dormitory are throwing away old candy boxes and wilted flowers. Some are mighty glad that the candy is all gone because they still want to keep their girlish figure.

Mrs. Brown, house mother at Swann Dorm, was called to Mayfield early Monday morning, February 12, because of the death of her nephew, John Lee Winslow. Mrs. Brown remained in Mayfield until after his funeral services.

A house meeting was held in the lobby of Swann dorm, February 13, at 9 o'clock. Miss Frances Brown, president, was in charge of the meeting.

A surprise came to Miss Waynell Hale Saturday afternoon, February 17, when he walked her cousin, S-l-c James D. Nance, formerly of Murray, who she thought was still in the South Pacific. His visit with his cousin was very short.

Week-end guests seem to be quite the thing these past two weeks. It seems only natural though when the big Murray-Western game was being played. Among the guests were the following girls:

Miss Sue Griffey of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Lillian Griffey of Clinton, were here visiting their sister, Miss Mary Virginia Griffey.

Miss Barbara Jean Simmons had as her guests Miss Carolyn McClure, a former student of Murray, Paris, Tenn., and Miss Carleen Gillespie also of Paris, Tenn.

Sunday afternoon, February 18, Miss Elizabeth McMullen, Paris, Tenn., spent the day with Miss Joy Bennett.

Our main guest for one whole week was 5-year-old Johnny Smith, of Greenville, who has been visiting his sister, Miss Betty Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnston and son, Sunday afternoon, February 18, paid a short visit to their daughter, Miss Helen Johnston.

Other week-end guests were Miss Duckie Gillespie, Miss Frances Mills, and Miss Jeannie Alexander, all from Clinton; visiting Miss Mary Carolyn Utterback. Their stay was from Friday, February 9, to the following Sunday.

Miss Frances Slayden has had as her guest, her sister, Miss Ina Sue

Slayden, Milburn

The infirmary was put to good use again this week. Miss Gola Ramey and Miss Frimie French were the patients and both underwent a serious task of having to take little pink pills and awful tasting medicine.

"What won't they think of next," exclaimed the girls last Monday night, February 19, as in strolled 20 high school boys wanting to dance. The girls that didn't have a thing to do, and the girls that had a million things to do, all went down to the lobby to dance. It seems that everyone had a nice time.
