Money Pounder Is Thrombosed, in Business Interests of Country

Will See Relief

Washington D. C., Aug. 17—In the wake of the Treasury's signal, likewise called in the wake of the Treasury's signal, likewise called by the President and the Secretary of State, there was a general panic throughout the country. The funds did not have them to meet the demands of the public. A string of events followed that was not able to furnish much relief except measures that were taken to reduce the volume of currency.

Stated Fact

The next few months the Treasury had to increase the volume of its currency by two or three dollars a day. This was one of the reasons for which the government can now be expected to release funds. The treasury now holds $6,000,000 worth of gold certificates, and, in addition, there are $6,000,000 worth of dollar bills available for increasing the present volume of currency. When these currency are increased, they will have an effect on the market for notes, and will be more difficult to keep in circulation. The government is in fractional currency, and, therefore, it behooves them to carry on this business with a great amount of interest.

CANADIANS AND AMERICANS

Differences in Manners of Living and Dressing Among Two Peoples.

Within the differences between Canadians and Americans, one of the most marked is in the matter of manners and social customs. Most Canadians, while they take great pride in their independence, are not aloof or haughty, and they are willing to accommodate the Americans who visit their country.

In the North American continent, the differences in manners and social customs between Canadians and Americans are quite marked, and there are many who are anxious to learn as much about these differences as possible. Canadians are said to be more reserved and formal in their social customs, while Americans are said to be more spontaneous and informal. Canadians are also said to be more punctual and orderly in their social customs, while Americans are said to be more relaxed and informal.

The differences in manners and social customs between Canadians and Americans are also said to be influenced by the history and culture of each country. Canadians are said to be more influenced by the British culture, while Americans are said to be more influenced by the French and Spanish cultures.

In conclusion, the differences in manners and social customs between Canadians and Americans are quite marked, and they are said to be influenced by the history and culture of each country. Canadians are more reserved and formal, while Americans are more spontaneous and informal. Canadians are also more punctual and orderly, while Americans are more relaxed and informal.
