HOPKINSVILLE, CHRISTIAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JANUARY 21, 1888.

NUMBER 51

VOLUME III.

CONDENSED NEWS.

Owensboro is to have a Mardi Gras procession.

The bank of Tawilka, Ill., was robbed of $8,000 Thursday morning.

City Court Clerk Irion, of Birmingham, Ala., has defaulted to the amount of $20,000.

Two convicts who escaped from the Eddyville prison were captured at Paducah Thursday.

Frank Smith, wife and four children were burned to death in a house at Lima, O., Thursday.

The wife of Wm. Card, living near Murray, Ky., took a dose of rough on rats through mistake Thursday and died.

Thieves secured $2,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry from the residence of Henry A. Blair, Chicago, Thursday night.

The list of the blizzard's victims has footed up 217 and the list of missing is yet large. Fatalities continue to be reported every day.

Mr. Carlisle, under instruction from his physician, has canceled his engagements to speak in Atlanta and Macon the 23d and 24th inst.

Simon Higdon and Frank Martin got into a row over a young lady at the home of Mrs. Wardburger, and the former was shot dead. No arrest.

Advices from China state that 4,000 workmen while building a levee to stem the floods were engulfed by sudden rush of water in the Hoang Ho river and drowned.

Mr. Chase Young, the confidential book-keeper of the Michigan Carbon Works, Detroit, has been arrested on the charge of stealing $75,000 of the company's money.

Wm. W. Cotton, while engaged in watching coal, near the freight depot in Danville Thursday night, was assassinated, some one shooting him with a shot gun. He has had trouble with coal thieves.

Edward Coffey, the murderer of policeman Evans, Pittsburgh, Pa., cut his throat with a pen-knife Thursday. He was sentenced to hang and the board of pardons had refused to commute his sentence.

Mr. Randall's candidate for chairman of the Democratic state central committee of Pennsylvania, has been defeated. The successful candidate was an administration man, and the committee endorsed the administration of President Cleveland.

James Grindler, New York, while in a drunken fit, attacked his wife with a hatchet, and inflicted three severe wounds on her head. Believing he had killed her, he ran out and threw himself in front of an approaching train and was instantly killed.

An inquiry made at the war department shows that the Forty-first Kentucky regiment of volunteers, who met in Covington recently to devise means to secure back pay claimed due, never completed their organization and consequently was not mustered in.

Levi Kohl, a twelve-year-old boy in Pennsylvania was frightened to death Thursday. As he was passing a lonely spot of the woods two boys dressed as demons jumped into the road making most unearthly yells. The poor boy was so badly scared that he fell in a fit and never recovered.

Mr. Eugene Couch, a well known young man of Atlanta, Ga., swallowed an ounce and a half of laudanum Friday. It is asserted that he had been unduly influenced to marry an objectionable woman and sought to commit suicide to hide his mortification. He was a bridge-maker of but thirty-six hours. He will recover.

In Yackin county, N. C., a white man went to a negro cabin where a sociable was going on and attempted to run things. He was driven off but returned with a revolver and opened fire, one bullet inflicting a flesh wound on John Pinkins. John picked up an axe and cut the white man's arm off, and then buried the weapon up to its eye in his breast.

Quite lively times are had out in Sherman county, Kan. Two towns, Eustus and Goodland, are rivals for the county-seat, and Thursday the people of Goodland went over to Eustus in force, threatened to kill any one who objected, took the county records off and carried them to Goodland. The people of Eustus have applied to the governor for aid in recovering the records. No law but the law of force is recognized in the county.

Seven persons were drowned Thursday in Sand Lake, about ten miles east of Ennis, Tex. Two young women, daughters of William Williams, (a farmer), and a young man named Babbitt were skating on the lake, when the ice gave way and they sunk in four and a half feet of water. Miss Babbitt and two little girls, aged eight and fourteen years, also daughters of William Williams, who were on shore watching the sport, were drowned in attempting to rescue their friends. A very small child of Mr. Williams also fell through the ice, but was saved by one of the drowning young ladies catching and throwing it out on the ice. Young Williams, a brother of the young ladies drowned, was a quarter of a mile distant at his house. He saw the trouble and ran to the assistance of the unfortunates, but he was soon overpowered by the struggles of those who were drowning, and he, too, was drowned. Mrs. Williams, his mother, made an effort to save them all, but she was pulled down, and would have met the fate of her children but for the timely aid of her two daughters, aged ten and twelve years. These children threw her a rope and succeeded in pulling her ashore.

Dying on Her Lover's Body.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Jan. 20.—A startling report comes from Hancock, a hill town bordering on New York state about fifteen miles from this place, without railroad or telegraphic connection. Carrie Brockaway, 18 years old, was the handsome daughter of farmer Brockaway. She was rather wilful. Of late she had received marked attention from Washington Sweet, but his attentions were strongly objected to by the girl's father and two brothers, who warned him to cease. The lovers, however, met in sequestered places, the girl showing considerable spirit in the matter. Brockaway and his sons, becoming incensed at the action of the girl, armed themselves with shotguns and revolvers and set out for Sweet's house to kill him. Sweet heard of this, barricaded the doors of his residence, placed a gun handy, and awaited their coming. The Brockaways demanded admittance, but the answer was a shot fired from one of the windows. The bullet took effect in the leg of one of the sons. The father and the other son caught the wounded man in their arms, dragged him behind a woodpile, and then began shooting at the window from which the shot was fired. Sweet returned the fire for a few minutes, when he ceased.

In the meantime Carrie, hearing of the action of her father and brothers, started for Sweet's house, arriving there soon after Sweet ceased firing. The Brockaways approached the house, she calling to her lover not to shoot, and the door was forced. Sweet was found on the floor apparently dead, with a bullet wound in the right shoulder. Carrie screamed, upbraided her father and brothers for causing her lover's death, and seizing a carving knife from the table, which was partially set for dinner, cut her throat, and falling across Sweet's body, bled to death before a doctor could be summoned.

The wounded Brockaway was brought into the house, when it was found that his hip was shattered by the charge from Sweet's gun. He is in a critical condition. Sweet was hit by a bullet from a revolver, which lodged in his neck, and is dangerously hurt.

The population of the hamlet near by is composed wholly of French Canadians, who are in a high state of excitement, dividing their sympathies, and it is thought that more shooting is liable to occur.

W. D. Williams, U. S. Pension Agent, New Vienna, O., was cured of a twenty-years' disease by Man-a-lin.

La-cu-pia doesn't fear to enter into competition with any medicine.

Pe-ru-na saved the life of C. W. Miller, of 406 South 4th st., St. Louis, Mo. He had Chronic Catarrh.

Good nursing, and Man-a-lin to aid nature will assuredly bring most patients to health.

"Trusts."

The organization of the various trades trusts is attributable directly to the high protective tariff. That these trusts are fatal to American industrial development no man can question. The small manufacturer, who has so long been clamoring for the maintenance of a high tariff, now finds himself frozen out of business by these trusts which dictate the amount of goods which shall be made and the price at which they shall be sold, and which go still further, and designate where and when they shall be made. They would not be able to do this—to corner the trade, as it were—if the high protective tariff did not exist. Nearly every day one sees that a new trust in some special line of manufacture is organized, so that the people are confronted with the possibility of such an industrial condition as will see one shoe-making trust making all the shoes, another making all the hats, another all the watches, another all the coats, and so on. When that day shall come, and it will come as surely as the high protective tariff is maintained, there will be an end of competition; the labor of the country will be enslaved wholly, and the consumer will have to pay whatever the trust may choose to ask. The workmen of the country, who have so long been deluded by the specious arguments of the Republican leaders retained in the interest of the monopolists, cannot close their eyes to the meaning of this business of trust organization. They cannot fail to see that it means the closing up of the small shops and the centralization of manufactures. The consequence of this will be a limitation of enterprise and the throwing of thousands of workmen entirely out of employment. Under such a state of things workmen who are employed by these trusts will be compelled to accept for wages whatever the employers may choose to pay, because the pressure of the non-employed for work will be entirely irresistible. Senator Sherman, the chief of the protectionist, totally ignored this legitimate offspring of the protective theory in his recent speech. He dared not discuss it, and we would commend it to the consideration of our esteemed journalistic friends in Nashville, Chattanooga and Birmingham.—Memphis Appeal.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vitality was undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—at Harry B. Garner's City Pharmacy 50 cents and a $1.00 per bottle.

Recently in the suburbs of New Orleans a woman was attacked in her own yard by an enraged sow, and was so seriously injured that death ensued.
