650 MILLION DOLLARS

Last year, in spite of the general business depression, thousands of persons invested more than $850,000,000 of new capital in the electrical utilities. New construction, extensions and improvements absorbed this money. The light and power companies, instead of aggravating the unemployment situation by adopting a policy of retrenchment, did much to improve the situation by continuing their policy of expansion. This steady flow of new capital in spite of general business conditions clearly demonstrates the faith of the American public in the electric utilities and their management.

Without this confidence, the industry would be unable to keep pace with the constantly increasing demands being made upon it for Electrical Service.
