THE LISTENING POST

● I learn that Vice-President Henry Wallace has recently broken into literature with an article in one of America's most high-brow magazines in which he sets up some plans for the world which he visions after the present war. I have not read the article as yet, but have been informed that in this literary effusion the Vice President has a yearning to take the entire world into American arms after the war is ended and put the same plans into effect as have been used here. He wants to end low standards of living all over the world. He wants to control farm productions with the "every-normal granary" plan now being used in this nation, and to do all this the United States will play the part of banker. It is a noble thought, perhaps, but there are several pressing matters which must be cared for before we can proceed towards those things.

● We have the little matter of a war with Japan on one side of the world and a slight difference of opinion with one Adolf Hitler on the other side of the earth, and both of these minor disturbances must be settled in some manner before we can proceed to remedy all the social and farm evils of the world. To tell the truth, to be quite frank about it, these two wars are going to require all that we have for an indefinite time. In addition to this, we are also engaged in buying up all the South American nations at the high dollar; we are sending food and arms to the British Isles, and supposedly we are doing the same thing for China and Russia. I do not really believe that we should distract our efforts along these lines by making any plans right now for giving away any more money. It seems to me that with present demands on us we are going to be lucky to get through with present commitments without resorting to the use of wampum again.

● I think also that we in the United States are going to be plenty busy binding up our wounds after this present war and not have a great deal of time left to go hither and yon on all the continents to see if all peoples have the proper standards of living. We are now paying a high price for having educated the Japanese to the desire for bigger and better things. For almost a century we encouraged the Nipponese to become industrial giants and now we are being pushed all over the Pacific Ocean by those people whom we educated. They want to be exactly like us now, and are taking everything in sight in order to become as big and wealthy as the United States.

● There will also be quite a domestic problem regarding business to solve after this war is over. Only the vitally necessary, and the tremendously big businesses of the nation seem likely to survive this war. Hundreds, thousands of business enterprises which have been operating for many years, which have supported their owners and their employees for long periods of time, seem doomed to extinction. Automobile manufacturers spent many years in building up dealers all over the nation, and this chain of dealers only a few months ago seemed as solid as the eternal hills. In the twinkling of an eye many of them have been wiped out. Thousands of tire dealers have felt the same impact. Small businesses in all sections of the nation have been, or will be, wiped out under the priority regulations which prevent them from getting vital materials. Thousands of men have been deprived of employment, although some relief can be expected for these men when the automobile industry really gets organized for war production.

● No matter how much we want to take care of the entire world, it seems to me that we will have plenty of problems to en-

Major Trapnell Awarded Medal For Bravery In The Philippines

Washington. --The award of the Distinguished Service Cross to Major Thomas J. H. Trapnell for extraordinary heroism in action in the Philippines was announced Wednesday by the War Department.

The department said General MacArthur reported that Trapnell, a native of New York and a former football star at West Point, won the decoration while his cavalry unit was engaged in rear guard operations at Rosario in La Union province on December 22.

The department announced the award in a communique, which said in part:

"From his field headquarters in the Philippines General Douglas MacArthur today announced the award of the Distinguished Service Cross to Major Thomas J. T. (Trap) Trapnell, cavalry, for extraordinary heroism in action. Major Trapnell, who is a former football hero of Washington. --In a statement edged with grim irony, a Navy spokesman disclosed tonight that an unspecified number of enemy submarines had been liquidated off the Atlantic coast but that details on these "excursionists" were being kept secret to deal a blow to Nazi morale.

"Some of the recent visitors to our territorial waters will never enjoy the return portion of their voyage," the statement said. "Furthermore, the percentage of one-way traffic is increasing while that of two-way traffic is satisfactorily on the decline."

Then the statement appealed to the people to keep silent even if they "have seen a submarine captured or destroyed." The Navy said, would give out no information "about the fate of the enemy submarine excursionists who don't get home, until that information is no longer of aid and comfort to the enemy."

The spokesman added that "every American can regard silence and secrecy as his own personal anti-submarine weapon," and promised that full information would be given out when the "whole story can be told without giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Among naval observers the statement left little doubt that the submarine inroads on shipping in the last seven days had been effected by several undersea craft. These attacks have resulted in the announced sinking of five ships--the Norness, Allan Jackson, Coimbra, City of Atlanta, and Ciltvaig--and the damaging of a sixth, the Malay. A total of 75 men from these vessels have been reported dead or missing.

The spokesman declared that "the press and the radio have made a great, practice contribution by voluntarily disciplining themselves in the matter of reporting such incidents as may have come to their attention unofficially."

The Navy spokesman said tonight that "whispers and gossip" as well as official disclosures "can give information of value or comfort to the enemy," and added:

"If you know something, keep it to yourself. If you hear something, stop its circulation with you--don't pass it on."

Considering Elements, Sailor Rule Japanese Did Bad Job

San Diego, Calif. --The attack on boys were watching a good movie Pearl Harbor, considering the Japanese advantage of surprise and at the disappearing Jap planes and air power, was described as a ludi-ciously "bad job" today by Elmer Renken, gunner's mate from Alton, Ill. Renken said even before the general alarm sounded, one youth had manned a machine gun and two minutes later had knocked down an enemy plane.

Renken suffered 15 wounds and was one of the two members of a 12-man crew to survive from the casement of a broadside gun damaged by a direct hit from a 1,000-pound bomb.

Renken, a veteran of 15 years sounded yet, every gun was manned service in the Navy, and others need immediately," he said. "We who participated in the Dec. 7 attack didn't have time to get our feet under us."

"Considering the advantage of surprise and the fact that the Japanese had the element of surprise, they did a pretty good job of it," he said.

It was primarily a job for anti-aircraft and machine guns, because of bombers came over and seven high explosives were dropped in perfect alignment. The string hit about 40 feet away from the ship and raised huge fountains of water which sprayed the deck.

"You would have thought the Jap planes were downed."

OHIOAN IS INJURED BY SWITCH ENGINE

Miss Florence Crawford of Malta, Ohio was painfully injured last night about 9 o'clock when she was struck by a freight car which was being switched on the tracks north side of the Usona Hotel. Miss Crawford received painful cuts and bruises, but her injuries are not thought to be serious. She was brought to the Usona clinic for treatment.

Miss Crawford, who was stopping at the Usona Hotel, was out for a walk last night when the accident occurred.

The switch engine was in charge of Engineer U. R. Small.

MAN EATS LUNCH, THEREBY PROVING HE ISN'T DEAD

Paducah, Ky. --An elderly man who fell dead in downtown Paducah today was identified as Joe Roettels, Sr., 85, by the following: Dee Denning, funeral director and an old friend; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roettels, Jr., and their son, Dorris Roettels, a brother-in-law; Frank Block, whom the elder Roettels had visited during the day, and a number of other old friends.

Joe Roettels, Jr., made tentative funeral arrangements, then went to the home of his sister, Mrs. Gus Walters, who assured him there had been a mistake. She led him to the dining-room where Joe Roettels, Sr., calmly was eating lunch.

The dead man, whose left arm apparently was broken years ago, as was that of the elder Roettels, later was identified as Lee Hart, 74, by his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Courteney, with whom he lived.

DEMAND INCREASES FOR SOCIAL WORKERS

New Orleans. --A great increase in the demand for social workers as a result of the war is seen by Dr. Elizabeth Wisner, dean of the Tulane University school of social work.

Already numerous social workers from Tulane have gone into defense or wartime jobs," she said. "It was during the last war that social work received its impetus as a profession."

Dr. Wisner, former medical social worker with the American Red Cross, said morale problems among men in the Army should virtually disappear now.

WELLES SPEAKS

Summer Welles, U. S. undersecretary of state, who labored long to bring Argentina and Chile into the agreement, addressed the meeting in Spanish, declaring:

"The ideal of my life always has been American unity. If it had been possible, my government would have liked something more definite and stronger."

"In our concept, the nations which carried war to the United States also carried it to the other Americas."

Carmel Williams was cited this morning in Fulton Police court on a charge of public drunkenness. He was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence by Judge Lon Adams.

WAR AT A GLANCE

THE FAR EAST--Japs invade Australia's island defense line in two, perhaps three places; Australia appeals urgently for aid. Twenty-one of sixty Jap planes attacking Rangoon shot down by U. S. and British fliers, who suffer two losses; Japs advance to within twenty-six miles of Moulmein. Japs penetrating behind British left above Singapore, but rest of line is firm. Dutch bombers score twelve direct hits on eight Japanese ships, one probably a battleship. Luzon's defenders throw back twenty-four hour series of attacks made with suicidal losses; Japs announce seventeen offenses for which they will shoot Philippine civilians.

THE OTHER FRONTS--Sixty-five-mile Russian advance recapture Kholm, west of Smolensk; entire German forces on central and Leningrad fronts threatened. Axis forces in Africa retake Agadabia in ninety-mile push, but have not yet met main British force. U. S. Navy announces some of the submarines raiding along Atlantic coast never will get home.

DIPLOMATIC FRONT--Argentina scores victory as Pan-American nations unanimously approve proposal to recommend that all sever relations with Axis.

Pan-American Pact Is Ratified By Unanimous Vote In Rio Meeting--Argentina Wins Diplomatic Battle

United States Would Have Preferred Stronger Language In Agreement

DONALD HALL HEARS WAR NEWS WHILE ON HISTORIC GROUND

Donald Hall, formerly well known newspaper worker here, is at home on furlough and has some interesting experiences of his life in the Navy. Donald is still engaged in the printing business, being stationed on a light cruiser which has quite an impressive printing office. Eight men are employed in the shop which does quite a lot of printing for all ships of the division. While he is under orders not to divulge the name of his ship, nor its voyages, he did relate one interesting experience which took place on the day the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

At that time his ship was in port at Boston and Donald was the guest of a Boston business man on that fateful Sunday. After seeing the sights in Boston the man drove to Lexington to visit some other historical shrines and one of these places was the Lexington Commons, where the statue of the Minute Man of 1776 now stands. This is the precise spot where the Revolution was started, and as they stood there looking at the impressive statue, the Boston man turned on the radio of his car. In a few moments they heard the news that Japan was attacking Pearl Harbor. "It seemed odd," Donald said, "that I should be standing in the very spot where our first war started and hear the first news of this present war."

Rio De Janeiro. --A compromise resolution recommending but not requiring rupture of relations with Japan, Germany and Italy was approved unanimously late today by the full 21-nation political committee of the Pan-American conference.

The change, representing a major concession to Argentina and Chile, dashed United States hopes that all the Americas would sever Axis ties forthwith.

Summer Welles, U. S. undersecretary of state, frankly acknowledged that the United States would have preferred a more definite and stronger action, but voted for the greatly-modified resolution.

Prolonged Objections

The softened language resulted from the prolonged objections of Argentina, followed by Chile, to the original resolution for an outright severance of diplomatic ties with the Axis powers and to an earlier compromise providing for congressional approval of a break.

Argentina and Chile both on Wednesday had agreed to the first compromise, but later Argentine reservations caused new and lengthy negotiations resulting in the final simple "recommendation."

As finally approved at the thirty-laden open session of the political committee shortly after dusk tonight, the resolution read:

"The American republics, following the procedure established by their own laws and within the position and circumstances of each country in the present international conflict, recommend rupture of their diplomatic relations with Japan, Germany and Italy, inasmuch as the first of these states attacked and the other two declared war on an American country."

Only the formality of approval by the full conference is required to complete the action.

Welles Speaks

Summer Welles, U. S. undersecretary of state, who labored long to bring Argentina and Chile into the agreement, addressed the meeting in Spanish, declaring:

"The ideal of my life always has been American unity. If it had been possible, my government would have liked something more definite and stronger."

"In our concept, the nations which carried war to the United States also carried it to the other Americas."

War Profits Curb Demanded As Senate Votes More Funds

Washington. --Demands for a curb on profits of shipbuilders and munitions makers were heard in the Senate today as that chamber passed and sent to the White House a bill authorizing $775,000,000 worth of shipbuilding and repair facilities.

There was no opposition to the bill, but before it passed minority Leader McNary (R., Ore.), expressed hope that steps would be taken to prevent profits of such size as those disclosed by recent House and Senate investigating committees.

Favors Rigid Limits

Chairman Walsh (D., Mass.), of the naval committee said he favored rigid limitations, asserting that it was a "source of humiliation to Congress" to have exposure of high profits in war supplies "at the very time that millions of men are being marched to the battlefield."

To allow "without check or restraint the accumulation of these unconscionable profits," he said, would not help the morale of the American people who were being required to make individual sacrifices.

Step Toward Profit Rein

The naval chairman added that while "soldiers getting $21 and $31 a month are pouring out their lifeblood, wealth is being piled up and more millionaires are being made." Congress, he said, should let these men know that such a condition will not be permitted to continue.

Senator Austin (R., Vt.), the minority leader, observed that the Senate-judiciary committee had taken a step toward reducing war profits by voting to give the War Production Board authority to inspect books of defense contractors.

One war contractor, he said, received a 20 per cent profit by over-estimating costs so that it appeared he got only 6 per cent.

JAPAN'S TREACHERY UNITES AMERICANS

The treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor united a divided United States and turned national complacency into national determination to win the war however hard the task may be. The same sinking assault has brought together the nations of the Western Hemisphere into close co-operation for mutual defense and economic development of a new era in the New World. A common danger has overcome the barriers of suspicion and distrust and produced a hemisphere solidarity that transcends the dream of Simon Bolivar and crowns the efforts of Cordell Hull for international collaboration in war and peace with amazing success.

Japan's stab-in-the-back awakened the nations of all Latin-American to their own peril. Similar treachery could be practiced south of the Rio Grande. Fifth columnists could accomplish even greater havoc on this side of the Pacific than Nippon's ships and planes on the island of Oahu. Governments could be overthrown through the direction of Axis diplomats and consular agents and puppet regimes set up. Hitler's world revolution could span the Atlantic and sweep across the Western Hemisphere without a hostile invasion from sky or sea. The plan was familiar but it took the assault on Pearl Harbor to dispel the myth of neutrality in a world which gangster nations seek to rule.

The Declaration of Rio calling for the dismissal of all Axis diplomatic and consular agents from all American countries stops any inside Nazi job at its source. It closes the door to Nazi penetration. Weak governments have no longer to fear a sudden putsch. Greater stability is given to those countries already politically unstable.

But the severance of diplomatic relations with the Axis powers is only one phase of Pan-American collaboration. In matters of defense the nations will co-operate. In matters of trade, of financial stabilization, of economic development there will be co-operation. Something like a League of Nations of the Western Hemisphere if not a Federation of American nations is evolving from the deliberations of the 21 Foreign Ministers at the Brazilian capital.

While the world is in the grip of war and destruction, the Western Hemisphere, while looking to its defenses, is laying the foundation for greater prosperity and greater general welfare in the peace to come through international co-operation.—Courier-Journal.

MYERS SAYS LOBBYISTS WON'T BE ALLOWED ON SENATE FLOOR

Frankfort, Ky., —"No lobbyist is going to be allowed on the floor of this House, whether he is registered or not," Lieut. Gov. Rodes K. Myers told the Senate today.

Explaining after adjournment that "two or three of them got on the floor yesterday, one by invitation of a Senator and one by just wandering in," the Senate president called attention to a Senate rule barring all lobbyists from receiving the privileges of the floor while the upper chamber is in session.

"It's a rule, and it's a good rule," he told the Senators, "and no Senator has a right to ask that privileges of the floor be granted to any lobbyist."

"Does that apply to state officials?" asked Republican Senator W. H. Jones, Jr., of Barren county.

Myers explained that the Governor, his family and his secretary and state department heads were entitled to floor privileges, adding:

"But none of them is entitled to be on the floor if they are lobbying."

U. S. STRETCHES WORK HOURS

Short Week Is Dropped By Many Bureaus

Washington, —The forty-hour week in Government departments, bureaus and agencies has been kept aside to meet the gigantic task of winning the war.

Longer working hours in general mean no extra pay for the thousands of Federal employees, a survey disclosed today. A few offices have planned compensating time off, but the war effort comes first.

The average work week is forty-four hours, although several departments, notably war and Navy, are on a round-the-clock basis. Staggered shifts permit continuous operation without stretching the individual employee's hours beyond forty-eight except in a few instances.

Navy Department employees have been on a forty-eight-hour week since December 13, six days after the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor. Previously they had worked forty hours, although navy yards had been on a forty-eight-hour schedule for some time.

Half Holiday Lost

Operation is on a seven-day basis, but no employee is required to work that schedule. Clerical workers, other than those in the field directly connected with technical or mechanical jobs, receive no additional pay for over-time. Technical men in the field receive time and a half for over-time, as do clerical employees whose work is connected directly with that of field technicians or mechanical employees.

The War Department moved from a forty-four-hour week to forty-eight hours last Saturday. On January 17 workers lost their half day off. The forty-hour work week was abandoned at the start of the national emergency.

No overtime is paid, although War Department office and field workers get accumulated time off on an "if and when" basis. Office and enlisted personnel, of course, work as ordered with no definite limit on hours.

SPORT TALK

Fulton High's Bulldogs are practicing straight through this week, Friday's practice session being brisk and thorough. Coach Giles does not want his squad to have too much time to think of the Mayfield victory, in which the boys set a season's scoring record. For he knows that a stern test is coming Monday night in the annual charity game on the Mayfield floor. While the odds seem to favor Calvert City over the Bulldogs the local coach believes that if he can keep his boys as razor-sharp as they were against Mayfield they can give Calvert City plenty of opposition. The team this year has latent possibilities of winning a lot of tournament games, but it must be kept "up" if those tough games are to be won. There will be no breaking of training this week-end if the coach's orders are carried out, for a game on Monday night is always a tough affair. Every effort is to be made to have the boys "up" for the tough game against Calvert City.

Little comparison can be drawn between the two teams, for they have not played the same teams. Last night the Calvert City five played Heath, but this column was written before the game was played. A bit of comparison can be gained there, for Heath lost to Tilghman in a tight game, thus indicating that Heath is hardly as strong as the Bulldogs. However, Tilghman has certainly improved after the Fulton game, although only last week the Tornado was more or less pressed to beat Mayfield 28 to 21. Calvert City has a long record of fine teams has always been a contender in regional matches. This year the team is favored to win the regional, and so it can be seen that the Bulldogs do face a stern test.

The Fulton and Calvert City teams hold the feature spot in the Mayfield tournament. Three games are to be played. Lone Oak, perhaps the best team in McCracken County, will play Melber, crack Graves County quint, in the first game starting at seven o'clock. At 8:15 New Concord and Brewers will face each other and an hour later the feature attraction between the Bulldogs and Calvert City will get under way. It is hoped that a large number of Fulton fans will be able to make the trip, for the Bulldogs will need some vocal support in their battle against the tall, rugged Calvert City machine. Invitations have been sent out to Governor Keen Johnson and Robert Salyers, National Youth Administration official, to attend the game and present the trophies to various players, but it is not known that these officials will be able to attend.

Fulton is not yet out of the Purchase-Pennyrile tournament to be held in Murray February 2. Newspaper reports indicate the team is being considered, but it is likely that the play Monday night might have a lot to do with this matter. The Bulldogs are also eligible to get an invitation for the West Kentucky Conference tournament which comes later, as the team has won two and lost one in West Kentucky Conference play and has a better record than some other teams which usually play in this tournament. Later games will probably decide this matter also.

The Bulldogs are quite anxious to get another crack at the unbeaten Murray Tigers this season. The Bulldogs played next to the worse game of the entire season against Murray and were beaten by a three-point margin. To make it worse, Murray scored only 17 points in the game, and the Bulldogs do not believe that any team should beat them with that small number of points. The worst game played so far was in Clinton, but this was partly accounted for by a rigid and tight defense that the Red Devils threw up. Against Murray it was missed shots that brought defeat, along with a lack of team play. In Clinton the team did run into a very tight defense and this hampered them no little.

TRUCK LIMIT IS NOW UP TO HOUSE

Frankfort, Ky., — Heading bills ready for passage in the General Assembly today is the Administration-sponsored proposal to increase the truck gross weight limit from 18,000 to 30,000 pounds. Leaders expected the House to act on the measure during the day.

The bill provides that trucks with a gross weight of 30,000 pounds may use "emergency defense highway" to be designated by the State Highway Commissioner.

The House also is expected to consider again the $700,000 deficiency appropriations bill already approved by the Senate. Passage of the measure was deferred by the House yesterday.

9 Bills Up In Senate
Nine proposals were ready for passage in the Senate, including one to establish an air patrol as part of the Active State Militia, another to provide supplemental financial aid to schools in poor counties and a third to authorize the Governor to appoint special police to serve during emergencies.

page our best minds in the years which come after the war. Those problems are going to be grave and serious ones. Some will not be solved for many years, and I suggest that if any of our national leaders want to work on post-war problems they center more or less on those which vitally affect this nation. As we are, we are not big enough to take care of all the problems of the universe.

PURCHASE PROBE CAUSES DEBATE IN STATE HOUSE

Milam Opposes Funds For Finance Department Aid

Frankfort, Ky. —The three-month-long investigation of the state purchasing division late in 1941 led directly to warm debate in the Kentucky House of Representatives today over the $700,000 deficiency appropriations bill.

The measure, supplying funds for the remainder of the present fiscal year, which ends next June 30, was passed, 70 to 9, after brisk discussion on a futile attempt by Rep. G. Sam Milam, Logan county Democrat, to strike out an allotment of $7,500 for an attorney, two technicians and clerical help for the state finance department.

The bill already had been passed by the Senate. Milam argued that the state should curtail expenditures because of heavy federal taxation on Kentuckians and declared "the people are tired of paying fees to satisfy some political or personal aspiration."

"We all know that Dan (Dan Talbott, finance commissioner) needed an attorney to defend him," Milam declared, but he added that the requested appropriation was for services already given and which Talbott should "pay out of his own pocket."

The representative said the "defense" he referred to was in the investigation of the purchasing division, a part of Talbott's department.

"And, by the way," Milam asked the House, "where is the report of that investigating committee? The investigation has been completed and that report should be before us."

The report of the three-man committee, which heard charges of purchasing irregularities against the division, has not been made public and members said recently they still were working on it.

San Francisco. —The Tokyo radio broadcast this report today on what it described as the progress of the Japanese campaign on the Batan peninsula of Luzon Island:

NELSON CREATES FIELD DIVISION FOR WAR PROGRAM

Move Is Made To Cut Red Taps And Speed Production

Washington. —Washington awoke today to the realization that Donald M. Nelson is giving the war production job back to the whole country.

Nelson's announcement that he intended to establish a field service as a seventh and new major division of the War Production Board which he heads was regarded here as a step toward decentralizing the war effort.

Officials said such a move, sending WPB men into the industrial centers of the country where the battle of the assembly lines is being fought, would shortcut a great part of the delays caused by paper work and letter-writing and by the necessity of calling manufacturers to Washington to discuss production and conversion problems.

Responsibility Nelson said he had not yet decided "how much responsibility will be here and how much out in the field." However, the high place accorded the proposed field service in his organization scheme was taken as clear indication that he intended to delegate to it a good share of the decision-making power heretofore reserved for Washington alone.

The field division will compare in importance, Nelson said, with the

FOUNDATIONS LAID FOR GREATEST WAR PROGRAM IN HISTORY

U. S. And England Will Soon Far Outstrip Axis

Washington. —In a "report to the nation" on America's armament effort in the last 18 months, the Office of Facts and Figures said today that "good strong foundations" had been laid for the greatest war program in history and that the United States and Britain would soon outstrip the Axis in plane output.

"More important," said the overall review prepared at President Roosevelt's request, "we shall have the plant capacity to increase our production to the point where we can seize control of the air in all areas of the world struggle."

Stressing that only a "beginning" six major divisions of WPB set up by him yesterday, when he abolished the Office of Production Management—production, purchases, materials, labor, civilian supply and industrial organization.

The field offices will handle not only the job of bringing small plants all over the country into the military arsenal, but will advise contractors on priorities, allocations of material "or anything else that pertains to getting the job done," Nelson told newsmen yesterday.

had been made and that many mistakes would have to be corrected, the report listed great strides in output of ships, tanks, guns and ammunition, placed the Army's ultimate goal in enlisted strength at 7,000,000 men, and described lend-lease aid as having grown from a trickle to a stream that would soon be a river.

The report said the Navy had 346 combat ships under construction when Japan struck at Pearl Harbor to add to the 345 already built, that preparations were under way to meet any Axis push eastward by construction of bases in the Western Pacific area, and that the Army ferrying command, with $50,000,000 of lend-lease funds for servicing and delivery costs, had already delivered more than 1,000 planes purchased by the British for use in all theaters.
