German Food Ration

The German government has announced a new food rationing plan, which will affect all citizens over the age of 50. The new plan, known as the "Twelve That Of Subject People," is a response to the growing shortage of basic foodstuffs across the country. The rationing is expected to last for at least one week, with the possibility of extension depending on the availability of food supplies. The new rules will be enforced strictly, with violators facing severe penalties.

INCOME TAX MAN TO BE HERE SOON

In a move to streamline the tax collection process, the German government has announced that income tax collectors will be visiting homes and businesses in the coming weeks. This initiative is aimed at ensuring that all citizens pay their fair share of the burden, with penalties for those who fail to comply. The collectors will be equipped with the latest technology to process payments quickly and efficiently.

The bureau argued that the tax was essential for funding critical programs, including education and infrastructure. The proposal has sparked debate, with many calling for further discussions on the issue.

WAR CALLS ATTENTION TO SMALL CROWD PRESENT AT HEARING

NOW What Kind of Funny Business Is This?

Y'VE BEEN HEARING about one of the ways of living going up by leaps and bounds. The prices of food, clothing, home needs and consumer goods have been rising steadily—everything is costing more. The situation inspired our artist to draw this cartoon which probably says it all.

For the twelve months ending in June, 1941, our $6,979,000 resident incomes each received an average of 16.4 hours more of electricity than they did in the previous twelve months. The result, increased power bills. If you are looking around your home for signs of power overuse, you may want to take a look at your meter. The average hourly rate for electricity is 9.16 cents.

In case of higher taxes and increased costs, we have been working closely with management and giving you every opportunity to preserve your money and power. We want to help you conserve energy.
