Carroll Says He Will Not Be Intimidated By Threat

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll says he won't be intimidated by a nighttime caller who demanded that the governor back down on his proposal to end bail bonding for profit in Kentucky.

Someone threatened in a telephone call to one of Carroll's brothers that "derogatory information" on the governor would be given to a newspaper if a bill to end commercial bail bonding were introduced, Carroll said at a news conference Wednesday.

The call, he said, was made at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday by someone who identified himself as an employee of a bail bondsman, Carroll said.

The governor called newsmen into his office to announce that legislation had been introduced to eliminate the commercial bail bonding business in Kentucky and to invite anyone with any derogatory information about him to make it public.

Partly Cloudy

Mostly clear this morning becoming partly cloudy this afternoon, high in the mid and upper 40s. Increasing cloudiness tonight with a good chance of rain showers changing to snow flurries late tonight and ending Friday. Low tonight in the upper 20s. High Friday in the low and mid 40s. Saturday partly cloudy and a little cooler.

Rev. Robert Brockhoff, left, chairman of the NEEDLINE Directors, presents a check for $435 received from NEEDLINE Carolers to Dr. David Roos, treasurer of the group. NEEDLINE is a non-profit information and referral service available to local people under the direction of Mrs. Joe Pat Ward. Thirteen groups were organized for caroling for the organization including Baptist Student Union, Calvary Temple Choir, First Christian Church Youth Group, First Presbyterian Church Youth Group, Goshen Methodist Church, Immanuel Lutheran Church, Kentucky Association of Nursing Students at MSU, Memorial Baptist Youth Group, Canterbury Neighborhood Group, Holiday Drive Neighborhood Group, Oak Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ Youth Group, and St. Leo's Catholic Church Choir.

MSU To Be Well Represented At Kentucky Music Concert In D. C.

Murray State University will be well represented when music of Kentucky is honored by the Bicentennial Parade of American Music on Monday, Jan. 19, at 5:30 p. m. at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Washington, D. C.

The Bicentennial Parade is a series of free concerts jointly sponsored by the National Music Council and Exxon. It celebrates music written by composers from each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia—and is performed at the Kennedy Center Concert Hall by solo artists and musical groups from each state.

Appearing on the program will be the Murray State University Brass Ensemble composed of faculty members David Elliot, french horn;

Robert Scribner, trumpet; and Raymond Conklin, trombone. Also taking part in the program will be Dr. Glenn C. Wilcox and Marie Taylor, both of the MSU faculty. Dr. Wilcox will direct "The Kentuckians," a group of 32 college-age professional voices selected from throughout the state and Mrs. Taylor will accompany the group on the piano.

"The Kentuckians" will open the program with "Hail to Kentucky" written by Anthony Philip Heinrich in 1820.

Following several more selections by "The Kentuckians," a classical piece, "Sonata for Violin and Piano," will be performed by Harold Leo Blair of the Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra on violin and Dr. Karl Payne on piano. The have said that they are prepared to spend whatever is necessary to see that this legislation does not pass," Carroll said. "I can tell you they've got their hands full. I intend to use all the resources available to the office of governor..." to see the bill enacted.

Carroll said the bill was filed with his backing by House Majority Leader Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, because current bail bonding practices

Heart Fund Leaders Here Are Appointed

Two appointments to leadership positions in the 1976 Calloway County Heart Fund drive have been announced by the state campaign chairman, poet-novelist Jesse Stuart of Greenup. They are: Mrs. Virginia White, Murray, as County Rural Area Heart Fund Chairman and Miss Marilee Shalk, Murray, Murray Heart Sunday Chairman.

The month-long Heart Fund appeal will be launched Tuesday, February 3, with Coffee Day. The house-to-house solicitation will be conducted on Heart Sunday, February 29. Sponsoring the Heart Sunday drive in Murray is the Panhellenic Council of Murray State University.

Jesse Stuart, himself a heart attack victim, urged full support of the 1976 appeal, noting that 492,000 Kentuckians suffer from heart disease and that 57 per cent of all known causes of death in the Commonwealth are due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

He also announced that Mrs. Charles Clark, Murray, will continue to serve as the year-round Memorial Gifts Chairman for Heart in Calloway County.

A new high total of $26,000 was contributed last year to the Heart Fund in Kentucky, Stuart said.

KAPPAS DONATE TO CENTER — The Kappa Department of the Murray Woman's Club has contributed $500 to the Murray Comprehensive Care Center from proceeds of the group's annual Haunted House project held at Halloween. Accepting the contribution on behalf of the adult class at the center are, left to right, John Phillips and Patty Thompson. Making the presentation are Haunted House co-chairmen, Geneva Giles, Rue McCutcheon and Betty Hassel. "Putting on the Haunted House takes a great deal of work by many people but everyone has a lot of fun, workers and patrons alike," the co-chairmen said. "We sincerely appreciate the many citizens who helped so much in 1975 and are looking forward to a bigger and better Haunted House, with more fun for everyone, in 1976."

Halls Of State Capitol Quiet As Legislators Take Long Weekend

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — The halls of the state capitol were quiet today — an unusual thing when the Kentucky legislature is in session.

But members of both houses voted themselves a five-day weekend and left after brief sessions Wednesday.

Before packing for the long holiday, which begins with a commemoration of Martin Luther King's birthday today, the House approved its first bills of the 1976 session and adopted permanent rules. The Senate approved one bill, but deferred action on its rules until it convenes again Tuesday.

Monday is a holiday in honor of Robert E. Lee and Friday was thrown in to complete the package.

The new House rules include such changes as opening the traditionally closed Rules Committee to the press and other members of the House.

That committee sees bills that have been considered by standing committees and directs them back to committee or to the floor of the House for a vote.

The new rules also require that a fiscal note be attached to each bill that could have a financial effect on state or local government.

House Majority Leader Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, noted "there has been some concern that the fiscal note will put molasses in our way."

"It is not the intent of the leadership to use that rule or any rule to delay the intent of legislation," he said.

The rules would also require that a bill be posted in committee three days before it is considered, and that legislators fill out posting forms to request that a bill be considered.

House Speaker Bill Kenton, D-Lexington, said that and the other rules changes are "to ensure that bills are given full and due consideration in committee."

"You may not see the amount of legislation during this session, but we're going to discuss bills and understand them."

The proposed Senate rules, which are likely to come up for a vote Tuesday, are similar to the House rules in that they provide for open rules committee meeting.

But there is a significant difference: the House Rules Committee may keep a bill for only five days before sending it to the floor or back to committee. But the Senate Rules Committee could keep legislation for up to 10 days under the proposed rules.

That provision drew sharp criticism from several senators who said it could result in deliberate delay on certain bills.

Jury Selection Continuing In Trial At Paris

PARIS, Tenn. — Jury selection in the murder trial of Terry Mitchell Compton and Donald Ray Scott was not completed Wednesday, despite the appearance of 104 potential jurors. Another 55 have been called for questioning today.

Eleven jurors have been chosen so far with three — one juror and two alternates — left to be selected.

Many of those dismissed told the court they were either unable to convict a man if it meant sending him to the electric chair, or knew the murdered man, Travis Lax.

Compton and Scott, both of Calloway County, were arrested on first-degree murder charges in Kentucky last Aug. 5, hours after Lax, a prominent resident of the county, was killed as he and his wife surprised two intruders as they entered their home near Buchanan. Mrs. Lax was wounded in the attack.

Clerks' Corner Beginning Today

A new column, "Clerks' Corner," is beginning today on the Opinion Page (Page 4) of The Murray Ledger & Times. The column is written by Calloway County Circuit Court Clerk, Frances Shea; County Court Clerk, Marvin Harris; and Murray City Clerk, Jo Crass.

The purpose of the column is to keep readers abreast of important information regarding the operation of the three local government offices.

TO PERFORM IN WASHINGTON—The Murray State University Brass Ensemble composed of, left to right, Robert Scribner, David Elliott and Raymond Conklin, will take part in a salute to music of Kentucky Monday, Jan. 19, in Washington, D. C. Also appearing on the program from MSU will be Dr. Glenn Wilcox and Mrs. Marie Taylor.

WKASA MEETING AT MURRAY — A meeting of the West Kentucky Association of School Administrators was held Monday night at Murray State University. Among those who attended the meeting were: (left to right) Dr. Hugh Noffsinger, secretary-treasurer of WKASA; Dr. Dan Harrison, director of the Center on Economic Education at Murray State; Sue Warmath of Mayfield, president-elect of KASA; Dr. Jack Morgan, executive director of the Kentucky Council on Economic Education from the University of Louisville; Mrs. Bonnie Campbell from Bowen Elementary School in Louisville; and Mrs. Sherleen Sisney from Ballard High School in Louisville. About 75 school administrators from 15 West Kentucky counties attended group meetings, led by Dr. Morgan, Mrs. Campbell, and Mrs. Sisney, a dinner meeting and later attended the Murray State-Austin Peay basketball game as guests of Murray State.

'Never'—Calvin Klein

NEW YORK—"Pants can't be killed off. Women love them," declared 33-year-old fashion designer, Calvin Klein. "Designers say that the market is pants-saturated and women are bored. Well, I can tell you from personal experience, it isn't true."

Klein, recently installed in the Coty Award Hall of Fame, couldn't be happier about the continuing pantsuit trend. His Spring-Summer '76 collection revolves around pants with new twists:

- There are pantsuits with elasticized ankles. "Oh, they're borrowed from paratroopers," says Klein.

- There are flowing pants cut off at the mid-leg and worn with T-shirts or plain old sweatshirts. "They're takeoffs on gaucho pants worn by ranch dwellers," say Klein about his culottes.

- There are knee-baring cuffed Bermuda shorts to wear with vests and trenchcoats. "I'm even thinking of making Bermuda shorts in crepes and silks with peasant blouses that have long, billowy sleeves," says Klein. "I see no reason why Bermuda can't evolve into an important summer after-S fashion."

What's fanning the eternal flame for pants?

"Designers used to talk about fashion trends lasting for a season or, for the most, a year or two. That's a thing of the past. Today's fashion cycles run 10 years. It takes a long time for women to get adjusted to a revolutionary look. And, once they've become accustomed to it, they're unwilling to ditch it for another revolutionary look."

Another point is that women are creatures of habit who are accustomed to comfortable clothes that don't pinch, cinch, bind or inhibit. Pantsuits fill that bill. The "comfort" factor of pants is a big selling point.

Miss Martha Hendon And Danny Roberts Married At Church

Mrs. Danny Houston Roberts

The sanctuary of the Cherry Corner Baptist Church was the scene of the December wedding of Miss Martha Hendon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hendon, to Danny Houston Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Roberts, all of Murray.

Rev. Lawson Williamson performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Lucy Forrest and Mrs. Gerry Requarth presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Requarth sang "The Way He Loves," "O Perfect Love," and "Blest Be the Tie," accompanied by Miss Forrest who played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

The altar was decorated with two spiral brass candelabra and one arched candelabrum entwined with holly flanked by two baskets of white mums, pink daisy pompoms, and greenery. The pews were marked with pink carnations, white bows, and greenery.

Bride's Dress
The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown by Alfred Angelo of poly organza and Venice lace trim. The gown was designed with a circular half moon yoke with three bands of Venice lace around the yoke with a self fabric ruffle. The bishop sleeves were cuffed in matching Venice trim. The fitted A-line silhouette had a gently draped skirt and chapel length train. To complete the ensemble, the bride wore a cathedral length mantilla train trimmed with a matching border of Venice lace.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white daisies, and stephanotis with greenery and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was an initial ring, gift from Mrs. Luther Nance, friend of the bride.

Miss Danette Roberts, daughter of the groom, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Mike (Shiela) Hutchens and Mrs. Howard (Debbie) Moss.

The attendants were attired in pink velvet dresses with half moon shaped bodices of Venice lace with ruffles to enhance the bodices. The dresses had bishop sleeves of the same lace. They carried white fur muffs and wore white fur clips in their hair.

Hal Barrow served the groom as bestman. Bobby Atkins served as groomsman. The men wore black tuxedos with black velvet lapels and vests.

Reception

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth with pink trim and centered with an arrangement of pink roses. Crystal appointments were used.

Presiding at the table and assisting at the reception were Mrs. Luther Nance, Mrs. Gerry Requarth, Mrs. J. D. Grogan, Mrs. Robert Alsop, Jr., Miss Melissa Sledd, and Miss Kathy Rowlett.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Sandy Boaz. Miss Melissa Sledd presided at the guest register, and Miss Jennifer Grogan, cousin of the bride, distributed rice bags to the guests.

After the reception the bridal couple left for an unannounced wedding trip with the bride wearing black tweed pants with a black velvet blazer and red accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are now residing on Lake Shore Drive, Pine Bluff Shores.

Rehearsal Dinner
The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roberts, entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner at the Colonial House Smorgasbord. Covers were laid for twenty persons.

Fever—Friend or Foe?

Do the muscle aches and pains that accompany fever send you to the medicine chest for relief?

Before you take that aspirin, stop to consider that fever is often part of the body's defense against disease. Rising temperature alerts the thermostat in the brain to send emergency signals to the vital organs, increasing heart-beat, breathing and blood flow.

In addition to triggering the body's defense mechanisms, fever may destroy certain germs which cannot live above normal body temperature.

While uncomfortable, fever may reassure you that your body is healthy enough to resist the invading germs. Artificially induced fever is sometimes used in treating certain chronic illnesses.

Normal temperature varies from 97 in early morning to 98.6 in mid-afternoon. Exercise, digestion and emotional tension create a temperature rise in healthy people.

Fever must, of course, be kept within safe limits. Rest and plenty of fluids—water, fruit juices and vegetable broth—will help nature to combat the underlying cause of fever.

Simple home treatments can be used to lower body temperature. A hot bath with cold applications on head and neck or alternate hot and cold shower followed by rest in bed well covered may be sufficient. Persons with circulatory problems due to hardening of the arteries or diabetes should not use water much hotter than body temperature.

A physician should be called if the temperature reaches 105 in a child, 104 in an adult and 102 in an elderly person and does not respond to treatment or if it is accompanied by other symptoms.

The doctor may prescribe a sponge bath with cool or tepid water if the patient is warm and the skin pink. This is preferable to using alcohol, which may be absorbed through the skin.

Wife Sick of Bad Hospital Jokes

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. W. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had a lot of back surgery, which required several long stays in the hospital. While there, a couple were friendly with sent him get-well cards regularly, which we both appreciated, but all their cards had the same theme: "The male patient was fooling around with his nurses."

After my husband came home, this couple visited him, and their conversation was full of teasing about the nurses giving him massages, backrubs and baths. I was even asked point blank if I wasn't afraid my husband would run off with a pretty young nurse.

Whenever we are with this couple now, they get back on the pretty young nurse subject until I am sick of hearing it. Perhaps because I am neither young nor pretty and have such a meager quotient of self-esteem, I'm depressed for days about these remarks, especially when they are made in the presence of others, which is often the case.

My husband never stands up for me, which may indicate that he enjoys the talk.

What can I do to put an end to this? I've tried to avoid being with this couple, but I can't do that forever.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Bring your feelings out in the open and tell them exactly what you've told me. After that they wouldn't dare "kid" you in that vein again.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has me upset. My husband and I must attend classes one evening a week, and we have one child who is deaf.

A young woman who lives in our apartment building has two small children, and she is willing to babysit for us, but she refuses to take any money.

Her husband is unemployed, and I know they could use the money, but I gave her a check once, and she tore it up. Things would be okay if I could sit with her kids in return, but they can't afford to go any place.

I threatened to find another sitter, but she looked so hurt. Should I accept it as a blessing in disguise?

Any suggestions will be appreciated.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BE: Put a ribbon on a basket and fill it with fresh fruit, canned foods and other goodies, and present it to your generous, hard-to-repay neighbor.

DEAR ABBY: In a column, some time ago, you said that some airlines offered a course designed to help persons overcome their fear of flying.

I have a daughter-in-law who is terrified of flying, so I immediately telephoned American Airlines, TWA and United, and none of these airlines could help me.

Where do I go from here?

NEEDS HELP IN L.A.

DEAR NEEDS: My researchers advise me that such programs did at one time exist, but they seem to have disappeared into thin air. However, if someone out there knows of a course available in the Los Angeles area, please let me know.

In the meantime, phobias are best treated by psychologists and psychiatrists.

FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 16, 1976

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Give consideration to ideas and methods that "clicked" before, and could again. Add a bit of glamour to presentations. Be optimistic.
TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉

Favorable Venus influences give you many advantages, but you must promote your own interests to keep the ball rolling, of course. Romance in high favor.
GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21) ♊
Mixed influences. All activities will have to be well-organized before you can proceed efficiently. Emphasize composure, good judgment, delicacy of approach.

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

As the New Year usually brings all sorts of resolutions, I wonder if there are not several resolutions that we as gardeners should make. I for one, am going to try to play my gardening a little better. As I look out the window these cold mornings, I can see several things that need to be done. Some good dirt needs to be brought in to fill a low spot in the year, an old scraggly shrub needs to be cut back severely, a wide bank place needs something, probably some color, to balance the yard. I will see other changes that are needed. I am keeping a small note book and as I accomplish each chore, later I will gleefully mark that one off as completed. It does make it easier to plan ahead as much of the lost motion is done away with.

Did you know that narcissus are coming up! They are actually sticking their noses up in this below freezing weather. I like to look at the little green knobs sticking up, as it gives me fresh hope that summer is coming in its own way. It is a reminder that winter, spring and summer will follow their usual course and that everything is under control.

It is strange, but at the first signs of spring growth, I get the urge to get outdoors and dig. Just dig, most anywhere and get the feel of clean dirt on my hands. The way the days are flying by, it won't be as long as we think before weeds will be springing up. Remember that uprooting the first weeds will save many hundreds later. But that is a few months hence. Right now our job is to look, to check and plant. I am looking forward to receiving the new catalogues. They are always fascinating and bring new ideas.

I hope each of you will plant one new plant in your yard this spring. Since I moved two years ago, I had to start fresh with an almost empty yard. I have planted some new ones and there are a few old-fashioned shrubs that I have always had, that will go in this spring. One is hard to find, that I am still looking for, is the Datura. It is a plant that opens its big white trumpets about sun down each day and fills the air with a subtle sweet aroma that can be detected all over the yard. I remember them growing outside the windows on my Grandfather's farm home. The seed are big burrs that are filled with dozens of seeds. I like the old and the new together. So plan to have both and enjoy them to the fullest.

Independence Church Women Meet, Church

The Independence United Methodist Church Women held their December meeting at the church with Mrs. Jean Burken leading in singing songs with Mrs. Kathy Cunningham at the piano.

Mrs. Maurita Burken led the devotion who read from the second chapter of Luke. Mrs. Martha Jones led in prayer.

Gifts for the senior citizens of the community were given to the members to distribute. Names were drawn for new sunshine friends for the coming year.

Sunshine friends were revealed with a gift exchange. Twenty members and one visitor were present. Refreshments were served in the fellowship hall.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 12, at seven p. m. at the church.

'Never'—Calvin Klein

NEW YORK—"Pants can't be killed off. Women love them," declared 33-year-old fashion designer, Calvin Klein. "Designers say that the market is pants-saturated and women are bored. Well, I can tell you from personal experience, it isn't true."

Klein, recently installed in the Coty Award Hall of Fame, couldn't be happier about the continuing pantsuit trend. His Spring-Summer '76 collection revolves around pants with new twists:

- There are pantsuits with elasticized ankles. "Oh, they're borrowed from paratroopers," says Klein.

- There are flowing pants cut off at the mid-leg and worn with T-shirts or plain old sweatshirts. "They're takeoffs on gaucho pants worn by ranch dwellers," says Klein about his culottes.

- There are knee-baring cuffed Bermuda shorts to wear with vests and trenchcoats. "I'm even thinking of making Bermuda shorts in crepes and silks with peasant blouses that have long, billowy sleeves," says Klein. "I see no reason why Bermuda can't evolve into an important summer after-5 fashion."

What's fanning the eternal flame for pants?

"Designers used to talk about fashion trends lasting for a season or, for the most, a year or two. That's a thing of the past. Today's fashion cycles run 10 years. It takes a long time for women to get adjusted to a revolutionary look. And, once they've become accustomed to it, they're unwilling to ditch it for another revolutionary look."

Another point is that women are creatures of habit who are accustomed to comfortable clothes that don't pinch, cinch, bind or inhibit. Pantsuits fill that bill. The "comfort" factor of pants is a big selling point.

Miss Martha Hendon And Danny Roberts Married At Church

Mrs. Danny Houston Roberts

The sanctuary of the Cherry Corner Baptist Church was the scene of the December wedding of Miss Martha Hendon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hendon, to Danny Houston Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Roberts, all of Murray.

Rev. Lawson Williamson performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Lucy Forrest and Mrs. Gerry Requarth presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Requarth sang "The Way He Loves," "O Perfect Love," and "Blest Be the Tie," accompanied by Miss Forrest who played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

The altar was decorated with two spiral brass candelabra and one arched candelabrum entwined with holly flanked by two baskets of white mums, pink daisy pompons, and greenery. The pews were marked with pink carnations, white bows, and greenery.

Bride's Dress
The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown by Alfred Angelo of poly organza and Venise lace trim. The gown was designed with a circular half moon yoke with three bands of Venise lace around the yoke with a self fabric ruffle. The bishop sleeves were cuffed in matching Venise trim. The fitted A-line silhouette had a gently draped skirt and chapel length train. To complete the ensemble, the bride wore a cathedral length mantilla train trimmed with a matching border of Venise lace.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white daisies, and stephanotis with greenery and baby's breath. Her only jewelry was an initial ring, gift from Mrs. Luther Nance, friend of the bride.

Miss Danette Roberts, daughter of the groom, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Mike (Shiela) Hutchens and Mrs. Howard (Debbie) Moss.

The attendants were attired in pink velvet dresses with half moon shaped bodices of Venise lace with ruffles to enhance the bodices. The dresses had bishop sleeves of the same lace. They carried white fur muffs and wore white fur clips in their hair.

Hal Barrow served the groom as bestman. Bobby Atkins served as groomsman. The men wore black tuxedos with black velvet lapels and vests.

Reception
Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth with pink trim and centered with an arrangement of pink roses. Crystal appointments were used.

Presiding at the table and assisting at the reception were Mrs. Luther Nance, Mrs. Gerry Requarth, Mrs. J. D. Grogan, Mrs. Robert Alsop, Jr., Miss Melissa Sledd, and Miss Kathy Rowlett.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Sandy Boaz. Miss Melissa Sledd presided at the guest register, and Miss Jennifer Grogan, cousin of the bride, distributed rice bags to the guests.

After the reception the bridal couple left for an unannounced wedding trip with the bride wearing black tweed pants with a black velvet blazer and red accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are now residing on Lake Shore Drive, Pine Bluff Shores.

Rehearsal Dinner
The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roberts, entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner at the Colonial House Smorgasbord. Covers were laid for twenty persons.

Fever—Friend or Foe?

Do the muscle aches and pains that accompany fever send you to the medicine chest for relief?

Before you take that aspirin, stop to consider that fever is often part of the body's defense against disease. Rising temperature alerts the thermostat in the brain to send emergency signals to the vital organs, increasing heart-beat, breathing and blood flow.

In addition to triggering the body's defense mechanisms, fever may destroy certain germs which cannot live above normal body temperature.

While uncomfortable, fever may reassure you that your body is healthy enough to resist the invading germs. Artificially induced fever is sometimes used in treating certain chronic illnesses.

Normal temperature varies from 97 in early morning to 98.6 in mid-afternoon. Exercise, digestion and emotional tension create a temperature rise in healthy people.

Fever must, of course, be kept within safe limits. Rest and plenty of fluids—water, fruit juices and vegetable broth—will help nature to combat the underlying cause of fever.

Simple home treatments can be used to lower body temperature. A hot bath with cold applications on head and neck or alternate hot and cold shower followed by rest in bed well covered may be sufficient. Persons with circulatory problems due to hardening of the arteries or diabetes, should not use water much hotter than body temperature.

A physician should be called if the temperature reaches 105 in a child, 104 in an adult and 102 in an elderly person and does not respond to treatment or if it is accompanied by other symptoms.

The doctor may prescribe a sponge bath with cool or tepid water if the patient is warm and the skin pink. This is preferable to using alcohol, which may be absorbed through the skin.

Wife Sick of Bad Hospital Jokes

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had a lot of back surgery, which required several long stays in the hospital. While there, a couple we were friendly with sent him get-well cards regularly, which we both appreciated, but all their cards had the same theme: "The male patient was fooling around with his nurses."

After my husband came home, this couple visited him, and their conversation was full of teasing about the nurses giving him massages, backrubs and baths. I was even asked point blank if I wasn't afraid my husband would run off with a pretty young nurse.

Whenever we are with this couple now, they get back on the pretty young nurse subject until I am sick of hearing it. Perhaps because I am neither young nor pretty and have such a meager quotient of self-esteem, I'm depressed for days about these remarks, especially when they are made in the presence of others, which is often the case.

My husband never stands up for me, which may indicate that he enjoys the talk.

What can I do to put an end to this? I've tried to avoid being with this couple, but I can't do that forever.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Bring your feelings out in the open and tell them exactly what you've told me. After that they wouldn't dare "kid" you in that vein again.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has me upset. My husband and I must attend classes one evening a week, and we have one child who is deaf.

A young woman who lives in our apartment building has two small children, and she is willing to babysit for us, but she refuses to take any money.

Her husband is unemployed, and I know they could use the money, but I gave her a check once, and she tore it up.

Things would be okay if I could sit with her kids in return, but they can't afford to go any place.

I threatened to find another sitter, but she looked so hurt. Should I accept it as a blessing in disguise?

Any suggestions will be appreciated.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BE: Put a ribbon on a basket and fill it with fresh fruit, canned foods and other goodies, and present it to your generous, hard-to-repay neighbor.

DEAR ABBY: In a column, some time ago, you said that some airlines offered a course designed to help persons overcome their fear of flying.

I have a daughter-in-law who is terrified of flying, so I immediately telephoned American Airlines, TWA and United, and none of these airlines could help me.

Where do I go from here?

NEEDS HELP IN L.A.

DEAR NEEDS: My researchers advise me that such programs did at one time exist, but they seem to have disappeared into thin air. However, if someone out there knows of a course available in the Los Angeles area, please let me know.

In the meantime, phobias are best treated by psychologists and psychiatrists.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26¢) envelope.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 16, 1976

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Give consideration to ideas and methods that "clicked" before, and could again. Add a bit of glamour to presentations. Be optimistic.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Favorable Venus influences give you many advantages, but you must promote your own interests to keep the ball rolling, of course. Romance in high favor.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Mixed influences. All activities will have to be well-organized before you can proceed efficiently. Emphasize composure, good judgment, delicacy of approach.

By MRS. W. F. WILLIAMS

As the New Year usually brings all sorts of resolutions, I wonder if there are not several resolutions that we as gardeners should make. I for one, am going to try to play my gardening a little better. As I look out the window these cold mornings, I can see several things that need to be done. Some good dirt needs to be brought in to fill a low spot in the year, an old scraggly shrub needs to be cut back severely, a wide bank place needs something, probably some color, to balance the yard. I will see other changes that are needed. I am keeping a small note book and as I accomplish each chore, later I will gleefully mark that one off as completed. It does make it easier to plan ahead as much of the lost motion is done away with.

Did you know that narcissus are coming up! They are actually sticking their noses up in this below freezing weather. I like to look at the little green knobs sticking up, as it gives me fresh hope that summer is coming in its own way. It is a reminder that winter, spring and summer will follow their usual course and that everything is under control.

It is strange, but at the first signs of spring growth, I get the urge to get outdoors and dig. Just dig, most anywhere and get the feel of clean dirt on my hands. The way the days are flying by, it won't be as long as we think before weeds will be springing up. Remember that uprooting the first weeds will save many hundreds later. But that is a few months hence. Right now our job is to look, to check and plant. I am looking forward to receiving the new catalogues. They are always fascinating and bring new ideas.

I hope each of you will plant one new plant in your yard this spring. Since I moved two years ago, I had to start fresh with an almost empty yard. I have planted some new ones and there are a few old-fashioned shrubs that I have always had, that will go in this spring. One is hard to find, that I am still looking for, is the Datura. It is a plant that opens its big white trumpets about sun down each day and fills the air with a subtle sweet aroma that can be detected all over the yard. I remember them growing outside the windows on my Grandfather's farm home. The seed are big burrs that are filled with dozens of seeds. I like the old and the new together. So plan to have both and enjoy them to the fullest.

Independence Church Women Meet, Church

The Independence United Methodist Church Women held their December meeting at the church with Mrs. Jean Burken leading in singing songs with Mrs. Kathy Cunningham at the piano. Mrs. Maurita Burken led the devotion who read from the second chapter of Luke. Mrs. Martha Jones led in prayer.

Gifts for the senior citizens of the community were given to the members to distribute. Names were drawn for new sunshine friends for the coming year.

Sunshine friends were revealed with a gift exchange. Twenty members and one visitor were present. Refreshments were served in the fellowship hall.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 12, at seven p. m. at the church.

Alumnae Chapter To Meet Saturday

The Gamma Xi Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity will meet in the chapter room, Murray State campus, on Saturday, January 17, at ten a. m.

Melva Holt, president, requests all area alumnae to attend the meeting. Any alumnae of Alpha Gamma Delta is invited.

Ann Driver of Mayfield will be in charge of the program. Final plans for the chapter's international reunion day on April 10 will be discussed.

A Letter To An Unknown Dog Owner

(Used with permission of the Bowling Green Humane Society.)

This letter is addressed to an unknown person, the owner of an abandoned dog. It is to tell you what happened to your puppy after you 'dropped him off.'

For the first few hours he played around, hoping that you would return. Then hunger drove him on along the road, searching for food and shelter. Soon he became so hungry he ate anything he could find, and his was a rotten, wormy, disease-laden diet. Frequently he was nearly hit by passing cars, and exposure to freezing nights almost killed him.

But your little dog was tough. Today we found him by the mailbox. The only trouble was he couldn't see us because his eyes were pasted shut with infection. Every bone showed through his dirty little hide and his stomach was distended with starvation. His pads were cracked and bleeding and he was too weak to stand. But when he felt our hands he wagged his tail - the way he always did for you, the owner he trusted.

He is dead now. The love we had to offer was too late.

Garrott's Galley

60 Miles Through The Mud To Calloway County In 1899

By M. C. Garrott

In 1899, Mr. Quint Guier, who lives on Magnolia with daughter Martha, was a mere lad of 16. The son of a Trigg County farmer, he had nine brothers and sisters.

Today, having just observed his 93rd birthday and back home after a Christmas visit with his two sisters and a brother-in-law in Cape Coral, Fla., he chuckled as he recalled that he had traveled almost 1,000 miles to get there in less time than it took his father to move his family 60 miles from Trigg to Calloway County in 1899.

It was just about this time of year, too, that his father, mother, five brothers and three sisters and he loaded all their worldly possessions into four, two-horse wagons and headed across country for a new home at Backsburg, near the Calloway-Graves County line.

"My mother's people were here in Calloway County," he said, "and she wanted to get back over here among them. So, my father sold our 117-acre farm in Trigg County and bought one of 83 acres at Backsburg. The land over here was better, too."

By 11 a. m. that morning, the Guier's wagons were loaded, and they headed west over the muddy roads. "There weren't any gravel roads in those days, much less concrete," he said. "At times, the horses and mules were pulling through mud halfway up to the hubs."

They made it across the Cumberland River at Canton and had crossed the Tennessee on the ferry where Egner's Ferry Bridge is now when darkness fell that first day out.

"We spent that first night in the ferryman's home," he went on. "He had a two-story house, and the kitchen part was downstairs. So, we unloaded our bedding and all 12 of us bedded down there in that kitchen."

Their objective the next day was to reach the home of his mother's sister some two miles west of Kirksey. By sundown, though, they were about four miles short of this when they passed the place of a farmer by the name of John Ross. From across the fence, he learned where they were going, and, noticing their nearly-spent teams, insisted that they spend the night at his house.

"He had a wife and two children, and yet he insisted that all 12 of us come on in, have supper and spend the night," Mr. Guier recalled. "That was our introduction to Calloway County hospitality, and I'll never forget it. Our teams were pretty well 'jaded,' too, having pulled through mud all that day."

By noon of the third day out of Trigg County, they were at the home of his mother's sister, where they rested and had dinner. Then they covered the final six miles to their new farm and home, reaching it about 4 p. m.

"The first thing we did was put up the cook stove," he said, "so my mother could get supper. While she was doing that, the rest of us gathered wood, unloaded the wagons, put up the beds and had the house ready for living by bedtime. We had come about 60 miles in those two and a half days. Martha and I went almost 1,000 miles to Florida in less time than that!"

Mr. Guier, who attends classes at Murray State and writes short stories in his spare time, lived on this farm until he married a Marshall County girl, Lola Lee Brazzell in 1920. His father lived to be 91 and spent the rest of his life on that farm. He died in 1949.

"In 1903, we had a miracle at our house," he reminisced. "Every member of the family had typhoid fever and no one died. That is a miracle! The water in our well had become contaminated, and caused it."

As a young man, Mr. Guier "hired out" and plowed corn 15 hours a day for 40 cents a day, cut trees and cleared land, and "split more rails than Abraham Lincoln ever saw," but he never owned a horse and buggy as did many of his young friends. "I didn't want to waste my money on that," he said, "and I never borrowed a dime to go to school."

After attending school four months a year for four years, he walked five miles to Kirksey in 1904 to enroll in the Calloway Normal College, a little school founded by Rainey T. Wells. It was the only school of its kind in West Kentucky at the time other than Marvin College, a Methodist school at Clinton.

"That was the first year I had a chance to go to school to someone who had been to college," he recalled. It was the first time I had ever seen Mr. Wells and I was fascinated by his dignity, his personality and the way he could speak. I'll never forget one thing he said, and these are his exact words:

"You don't know enough to teach school. You don't know the multiplication table, or an adjective from an adverb. You need to go to school. Formulate in your mind what you would like to be when you are 50 years old and work hard to make it come true, and it will. If you only have one leg to walk on, make it take you to school somewhere."

"I have never been a swearing man," Mr. Guier went on, "but I said to myself that day, 'Come hell or high water, I'm going to college!'"

And, at an alert and spry 93, he's still going!

CLERKS' CORNER

A column of information supplied by Frances Shea, Calloway County Circuit Court Clerk; Jo Crass, Murray City Clerk; and Marvin Harris, Calloway County Court Clerk.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to keep the public abreast of important information regarding the operation of the Calloway County Circuit Clerk's office, the Calloway County Court Clerk's office, and the Murray City Clerk's office, The Murray Ledger & Times is inaugurating this column today. It is hoped that this service will be helpful to all readers and will assist each of the clerks in a more efficient and orderly operation of their offices. For quick reference in the future it is suggested that the articles be clipped and filed.)

CIRCUIT COURT CLERK
New days and hours have been established by the Department of Motor Transportation for administering tests for drivers' licenses. Effective Jan. 21, 1976, and continuing until further notice, written tests will be given on Wednesdays only, from 8:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. Effective Jan. 22, 1976, and continuing until further notice, road tests will be given on Thursdays only at the hours of 8 a. m. and 1 p. m. Kentucky State Trooper Tom Cohoon will be administering both the written and road tests.

Persons applying for their learners' permit must meet the following requirements: (1) must be 16 years of age; (2) must bring their birth certificate to the clerk's office; (3) must be accompanied by either parent.

Drivers who hold out-of-state licenses and desire Kentucky license must take an eye test and written test only, and will not be required to take the road test. If these test are passed successfully, a Kentucky license will be issued at that time and no waiting period will be necessary. All operator's licenses cost $4; learner's permits cost $1; combination motorcycle and automobile license cost $8; and duplicate operator's licenses are $2.

For further information concerning the County Court Clerk's office, call 753-

Further information on matters handled through the Circuit Court Clerk's office may be obtained by calling 753-2714. The clerk's office is now open through the noon hour.

MURRAY CITY CLERK
Property owners in the City of Murray are reminded that 1975 taxes on real estate and personal property are now considered delinquent. Interest is being charged on all unpaid tax bills.

Persons planning on trading for, or buying, a new car can obtain a duplicate City Motor License (city sticker) for $1 by presenting the 1975 Motor License receipt and the old sticker (or portion thereof) in the City Clerk's office. This license would remain in effect until the new licenses go on sale on May 1, 1976. If the receipt is not available, a new license (city sticker) will be issued at a prorated cost as follows: January $4.17; February $3.35; March $2.50; April $1.65.

All inquiries concerning the new regulations for refuse collection should be directed to Mr. Lee Bolen, superintendent of the Murray Street Sanitation Dept. Supt. Bolen can be reached at one of the following numbers: 753-3790, 753-5127 or 489-2584.

Further information concerning the Murray City Clerk's office may be obtained by calling 753-1221.

COUNTY COURT CLERK
In order to purchase 1976 decals for automobiles or farm and pickup truck, motorcycle and trailer license plates, motorists must bring their 1975 registration papers to the County Court Clerk's office. The 1975 papers are to be filed in the clerk's office. All decals must be purchased prior to March 1, 1976.

For further information concerning the County Court Clerk's office, call 753-

Understanding Mental Health

What To Do When A Disturbed Person Is Out Of Control

a health column from the

Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

If a disturbed person becomes violent, gets completely out of control, or tries to commit suicide, there are several things you can do:

- Call a physician, preferably the person's family doctor. A doctor can tell you where and how to get help or may be able to provide it himself, even if he is not a mental health specialist. Also, he is able to treat injuries resulting from violence, a suicide attempt, or a drug or alcohol overdose.

- If you cannot summon a doctor, get the person to a hospital emergency room. You may have to call an ambulance to get him there. Look in the Yellow Pages under "Ambulances," or call the police, fire department, or rescue squad if any of these provide ambulance service in your community. Or call the telephone operator for help.

- If the troubled person has been receiving treatment for mental or emotional illness or problem behavior, call the professional who has been treating him.
- Call the mental health hotline, drug hotline, suicide prevention center, "free clinic," or Alcoholics Anonymous chapter, if your area has such services.
- Call the nearest community mental health center.

If it is not listed in the telephone book, look under "Hospitals," "Clinics," or "Physicians" in the Yellow Pages.

In crisis emergencies, call the police. Often the police are the best equipped, most available resource, especially when a crime has been committed or when there is a strong possibility that the person may do physical injury to himself or others.

Let's Stay Well

Assessing Risk Of Breast Cancer

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

BLASINGAME

While early cancers of the breast may be diagnosed by special X-rays of the breasts (mammography), these X-rays can also serve to predict which women are likely to develop breast cancers.

Two studies were made on 7,214 women who were 30 or older at Hutzel Hospital in Detroit, by John Wolfe, M.D., clinical professor of radiology at Wayne State University School of Medicine. He made his report at a meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society, and a summary of his findings was reported in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Wolfe divided the breasts into four categories, depending on the appearance of the X-ray films. The first group, showing no ducts and a large amount of fat in the breasts, was regarded as having the least risk of developing cancer. The next lowest risk group also contains mainly fat but shows prominent duct shadows only in the front portion of the breasts. The highest risk group shows shadows of cysts and fibrous strands in addition to prominent duct patterns.

More than 5,000 of the women were studied for five years, and the remainder were observed for three years. Those women predicted to have the least risk of breast cancer showed 1.45 cases per 1,000, while the highest risk category went up to 44.8 per 1,000 women, with the other categories occurring at rates in between.

While other risk factors are significant (family history, high rate of cancer in smaller breasts, age, etc.), Dr. Wolfe believes that his classification will pick out those women who need careful surveillance (mammograms, self-examination, and regular examinations by their physicians).

Also, Dr. Wolfe believes that his interpretation is easily learned and can be widely applied in breast-screening programs.

Q Mr. J.S. wonders how he can be sure that the hospital to which he has gone in the past as a patient participates in Medicare.

A: Your physician may know. Better still, inquire of an official at the hospital, or you can contact your local Social Security office.

Q Mr. O.S. wants to know why more surgery is not used to lessen or cure the antisocial behavior of criminals.

A: Diagnosis of the cause and surgery are not sufficiently advanced, and may never be, to serve as a cure for criminality. The factors that lead a person to commit repeated crimes are very complex matters, not lending themselves, in the vast majority of cases, to any one solution.

Chris Evert Named As Female Athlete Of Year

By KAROL STONGER
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert, who last year fit the mold of the "boring rich" by setting money-winning records with her two-fisted backhand and baseline stance, started off 1976 with a victory, a resolution to make her tennis game more exciting and yet another trophy — as The Associated Press 1975 Female Athlete of the Year.

Miss Evert, who won the AP honor in 1974, repeated after winning a record $362,227 in prize money and capturing 14 tournaments, including the U.S. Open, the French and Italian opens and the U.S. Clay Court championship.

The 21-year-old tennis star ran away with the AP title announced today, collecting 246 votes in a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Sandra Palmer, the leading money-winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, was runner-up with 64 votes. Anne Marie Moser-Proell, who won a record fifth consecutive World Cup in international skiing before retiring, was third with 15 votes.

Billie Jean King, a two-time AP Athlete who was Miss Evert's nemesis until she retired from singles competition following her victory at Wimbledon, was fourth with six votes, and Olympic gymnast Olga Korbut, the 1972 winner, was fifth with five votes.

Others receiving votes were volleyball player Mary Jo Peppel and softball pitcher Joan Joyce, three each, and golfer Carol Mann and swimmer Kornelia Ender, one apiece.

During her record-setting year, Miss Evert was quoted as saying that her baseline game got so monotonous that "sometimes I even bore myself." So this year, she resolved to relieve the routine. After winning her season debut in the L'Espresso World Series of Women's Tennis last Sunday in Austin, Tex., she admitted that her new style was more fun.

"I'm taking more chances," she said. "I'm rushing the net more — it's more exciting."

Miss Evert joins Boston outfielder Fred Lynn as the AP's outstanding athletes for 1975. Lynn, who became the first American League Rookie of the Year to win the Most Valuable Player Award, was named the AP Male Athlete of the Year on Tuesday. Both will be honored in Tampa, Fla., on Feb. 27 at the Tampa Sports Club's annual awards banquet.

Tampa was selected as the site because that is where the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Memorial Trophy is on permanent display.

Assessing The Tigers And Lakers

Fun night will be one week from Friday. That's when Murray High and Calloway County meet in the Sports Arena for their annual battle.

Both teams will be playing very important games Friday and then on Tuesday, Calloway will be at Marshall County while Murray High hosts Farmington. After Friday's games and Tuesday's Laker game, we should get some idea of what to look for next Friday.

A month ago, I would have probably picked Murray High by 25 points over Calloway County. But since that time, the Tigers have gone down and the Lakers have been playing much more steady ball.

I've seen more Murray High games than any Laker fans and I've seen more Calloway County games than any Tiger fans so my opinion on the two clubs should be totally unbiased.

At the present time, there isn't a great deal of difference in the two clubs. Murray High would probably be a six or seven point pick if the teams played tomorrow instead of next Friday.

Mayfield defeated the Lakers 61-59 just before Christmas in a game played at Mayfield. The Tigers have yet to meet the Cardinals this season so we can't make a comparison on that one until tomorrow.

As for Marshall County, Calloway lost by 19 at home while Murray High fell by 13 at Marshall County. Both the Lakers and Tigers had rather poor games in the losses to the Marshals.

Cage Picks

The cage predictions Tuesday went 6-3 and now stand at 66-33 on the season for a .667 mark.

Misses were all upset picks as I had Carlisle County favored over Hickman County, Lowes over Symsonia and Wingo over Fulton County. All were close games.

Games to be played Friday would cause a headache for anyone trying to predict games. So, here's another effort: Fulton County at CALLOWAY by three—The Lakers need this one very, very badly. Fulton County won 89-81 at Wingo Tuesday. Calloway fell 84-79 to Wingo a week ago but blew a 14 or 15 point lead in doing so. At times, Fulton County looks like the best club in western Kentucky. At times they don't. And so on a hunch, I'll say they don't Friday and the Lakers will win a close one.

Mayfield at MURRAY by eight—Murray could well win by 25 points or could lose by 15. That's the way things have been going. Since the Tigers are do for a change and since there have been a couple of lineup changes, I'll pick Murray High.

Reidland at MARSHALL COUNTY by five—This could be one of the best games of the season. Both teams are fairly big, both like to run and we could see a high-scoring shootout. And of course in a shootout, don't Marshals always prevail?

ST. MARY at Tilghman by three—What may have been the most disappointing team early in the season now may be the best. St. Mary has put it all together and according to a friend of mine whose seen the Vikings play several times lately, they might be beginning to peak. The homecourt advantage doesn't mean a lot when these two inter-city teams square off.

Other games: Heath at LONE OAK by nine, Fulton City at HICKMAN COUNTY by 26, Carlisle County at BALLARD MEMORIAL by five, Wingo at SYMSONIA by 11, Farmington at SEDALIA by 21 and Cuba at FANCY FARM by 16.

Saturday: CAIRO at Lowes by 28 and TILGHMAN at Reidland by four.

Wake Forest Ripped Apart By Tar Heels

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

What a difference two weeks make. And two courts as well.

The last time North Carolina's basketball team met Wake Forest, the Tar Heels were unceremoniously beaten in the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, N.C.

But the seventh-ranked Tar Heels got their revenge Wednesday night on their own court, cutting Wake Forest's giant-killers down to size with a 99-74 rout in emotion-charged Chapel Hill.

"The difference in this game is that it was here at Carolina," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, whose Tar Heels lost a 95-83 decision to the Deacons the last time they met.

"It was a great win. We are extremely pleased with our rebounding and defense in this particular game. By Wake missing on offense in the first half, it gave us the chance to rebound. We did an excellent job going for the basketball and got more rebounds because Wake Forest was not shooting well."

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy, whose team had shot out of nowhere into the No. 5 position in the polls by beating Atlantic Coast Conference colleagues North Carolina, North Carolina State and Maryland, reflected on the obvious.

"We weren't quite as prepared to play as we had hoped," he said. "This is the only time this season that our players could not get going on their own. The biggest consolation is that it's over and one bad game is behind us."

Maryland, the nation's second-ranked team, whipped No. 13 North Carolina State 82-68 in another key ACC game. Elsewhere, third-ranked Marquette tripped DePaul 79-72; 10th-ranked Rutgers clobbered Columbia 94-65; 14th-ranked Cincinnati stopped Temple 79-56 and 15th-ranked Notre Dame crushed Ball State 119-78.

Phil Ford's 30 points led North Carolina's avalanche, the worst Wake Forest defeat by a Tar Heel team since 1966. A wild crowd of 8,800 saw the Tar Heels dominate the MIAMI (AP) — "Here we go again," Roger Staubach sighed — and a controversy that has dogged him every day of his pro football life was rekindled.

Virtually every time Staubach has thrown the football for the Dallas Cowboys, he has done it at the direction of Coach Tom Landry. Unlike most coaches, who tend to allow their quarterback to call their own signals, Landry shuttles his plays in, one at a time, with alternating running backs acting as messengers.

That system of long-distance calls hasn't sat too well with Staubach. Like anyone inside pro football or out of it, he has his pride. It's been dented a bit by Landry's sideline system.

Occasionally, he's permitted to allow his feelings to surface. They did once again on Wednesday as the Cowboys continued their preparations for Super Bowl on Sunday against the National Football League's defending champions, the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I would rather call my own plays," Staubach said, when the old wound was reopened. "I talked to Landry about it in the offseason. But he feels it (the sideline system) is a trend in football."

Was he convinced that Landry's way of doing things is more successful, or has he simply accepted it as a way of life? "I've accepted it," he said pointedly.

All of the Cowboys' quarterbacks have accepted it, starting with little Eddie LeBaron and Don Meredith when the franchise was born in 1960 with Landry at the helm. There were times, in fact, when Landry alternated quarterbacks on every play.

Staubach's introduction to the message system came in 1969, when he came out of the Navy. For several years, he and Craig Morton, now with the New York Giants, duelled for the starting job. Staubach won it for good in 1973. He also won a shot at calling his own signals that year-but not for long.

For the first nine games that season, Staubach barked out his own commands. In the 10th one, on Thanksgiving Day, Dallas lost to Miami. "The day after we lost, Landry called me and said, 'Forget about the play-calling. I just want you to worry about studying and executing.'" Staubach's days as his own man behind the Dallas center ended with that loss — and it's been that way since then. Landry insists it's for the better.

"Calling plays has been controversial at times," he said at Wednesday's news conference. "But I don't think it's that any more. We're not saying Roger's not capable of calling the plays. But now, a lot of the teams in the league call the plays for their quarterbacks. And it's a tremendous advantage to the coach.

"When a quarterback calls a play," Landry said, "we don't know what he's calling. So we can't say if it was a good play for that situation or a bad one, and therefore whether it worked well or not — whether it was the play itself or the execution."

"It might take a quarterback three or four plays to detect what's wrong," Landry said of a team's failure to move the ball. "I'm not going to waste three or four plays. We can adjust quicker."

Staubach would rather do it all on his own, not just somebody else's work. "I would rather control the game ... I'd like to handle my own thing," he says. "It's something that's missing."

It's an interesting note that while Staubach calls someone else's plays, Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw calls his own — yet it is Bradshaw who has had his capabilities, his intelligence, called into question. He's been called everything from a dumb hillbilly to an educated ignoramus.

Naturally, he's bristled at those opinions. He seemingly silenced his critics a year ago when his masterful play-calling throughout the season and in Super Bowl IX against Minnesota helped lead the Steelers to the first championship in the club's history.

But when he appeared in Miami Tuesday, the Steelers' first public appearance in the massive buildup for Super Bowl X, one television sportscaster started off a question with the phrase: "Terry, about all those comments on just how smart ..."

Bradshaw winced, threw up his hands, muttered, "Oh for heaven's sake," and walked away to field more pertinent questions.

Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll isn't worried about Bradshaw's play-calling or the defense he directs. He seems to be more concerned with the Dallas defense it will face, the so-called "Flex defense" employed by Landry's troops.

"Dallas" offers more problems offensively and defensively than any other team we could face," Noll said. "They do things differently from other NFL teams."

The Flex, as Landry explains it, is designed to prevent a defensive player from automatically reacting to what the offensive players do, to hold his ground. "Most defenses react to pressure," he said.

"Offenses try to open holes at the point of attack by moving men away. They hit a man and let him react to that hit, and run to that hole. We try not to react. We try to gap the line or control it so that there's no hole to run into."

How does Noll figure to counter the Flex? He's not saying. "I really don't know a lot about it," he insists. "You should talk to Tom about it. We'll probably know a lot more after the game."

More Restrictions On NCAA Events To Come

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Possible further restrictions on financial aid lay ahead today for members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

But if the tone set Wednesday by delegates to the NCAA's 70th convention was to prevail, the issue — like others based on economy — may have been headed for a back seat.

"I thought as the result of the issues that we enacted at the special session in August there was a growing concern," the NCAA's executive director, Walter Byers, reflected after cost-saving measures were ignored during Wednesday's special convention.

"It's a matter of having to believe in the institutions' judgment," Byers said of his own position. "What they thought was reflected on the convention floor."

During the special session, marked by only one serious floor fight, some 700 convention delegates enacted a smattering of a dozen proposals to trim burgeoning budgets.

Travel uniforms were eliminated as of Aug. 1, but special housing for teams before games at home was not. Delegates also opted in favor of prohibiting the scouting of foes in Division I football but refused to impose further limits on preseason practices.

As proposed, restrictions on games played by teams in sports other than football and basketball also failed. And yet the delegates, when asked to authorize an extra football game, turned the proposal down.

"A lot of people who were impoverished last summer got wealthy in a heck of a hurry," observed one conference commissioner, alluding to an apparent change in member moods.

While financial aid was at the head of today's regular convention agenda, a more heated issue still promised to be a proposed realignment of Division I football powers.

"I think that it's vitally important, not just to the Southeastern Conference but to a great many other people," said SEC Commissioner Boyd McWhorter.

"I just think that without it our football program will suffer," McWhorter added in reference to a Division IA proposal for 81 major college members.

Opposed was Long Beach State President Stephen A. Horn, who Wednesday led an unsuccessful floor fight for further distribution of football television revenues.

Cavaliers And Bullets Start Playoffs Just A Little Soon

By The Associated Press
The Washington Bullets and Cleveland Cavaliers are starting the National Basketball Association playoffs early ... unofficially, of course.

"It's just like a playoff when these two teams get together," said Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch after losing a tough 92-88 decision to the Bullets Wednesday night.

"That's three games in a row that have gone down to the wire."

The victory avenged a 106-102 loss to the Cavs Sunday night. The Bullets lost that one despite having possession and a two-point lead with 11 seconds left in the game.

"Sure, I thought about last Sunday," said Dave Bing, scorer for the Bullets with 20 points. "It was only a couple of days ago and you don't forget something like that."

"But tonight was our turn. We didn't quit."

In the other NBA games, the Kansas City Kings whipped the Boston Celtics 106-101; the New York Knicks tripped the Houston Rockets 107-103 in overtime; the Philadelphia 76ers outscored the New Orleans Jazz 100-95 and the Seattle Super-Sonics nipped the Atlanta Hawks 112-110. In the American Basketball Association, the Indiana Pacers whipped the Virginia Squires 115-99 and the Kentucky Colonels trimmed the San Antonio Spurs 121-115.

Kings 106, Celtics 101
Scott Wedman, who finished with 25 points, hit a turnaround jump shot from 12 feet with 29 seconds remaining to give Kansas City its victory over Boston.

Knicks 107, Rockets 103
Bill Bradley popped in a field goal with 35 seconds left in overtime to lead New York over Houston. Spencer Haywood scored 26 points and pulled down 12 rebounds for the Knicks.

76ers 100, Jazz 95
Doug Collins scored 24 points and George McGinnis and Steve Mix scored 20 apiece as Philadelphia beat New Orleans. Harvey Catchings' dunk shot in the fourth quarter gave Philadelphia a lead it never lost. The defeat was the first in 1976 for the Jazz, who had a five-game winning streak.

Super-Sonics 112, Hawks 110
Fred Brown hit a jump shot with 46 seconds left and Seattle withstood two last-minute flurries of unsuccessful Atlanta shots to beat the Hawks. The Hawks rallied from 13 points down with five minutes left to take the lead 110-108, but baskets by Slick Watts and Brown, who had 33 points, put the Sonics back on top.

Pacers 115, Squires 99
Guard Billy Keller hit 22 points, including five three-pointers, to lead Indiana over Virginia. Lenny Elmore added 19 and Travis Grant 14 in the balanced Pacer attack.

Colonels 121, Spurs 115
Kentucky blitzed cold-shooting San Antonio 24-4 in the first eight minutes of the third quarter and went on to beat the Spurs with comparative ease. The Colonels' rally was paced by the rebounding of Maurice Lucas, who keyed a number of fast breaks which resulted in most of the Colonels' points.

Black Hawks Rally To Get Tie Against Seals

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The puck lay waiting at center ice, Chicago goalie Tony Esposito stood waiting in his crease and 8,076 pairs of eyes focused on a 20-year-old rookie center at the Oakland Alameda County Coliseum, waiting for what was about to happen.

Teammates clustered around Dennis Maruk, offering the helmeted youngster all the helpful hints they could about what to do with the penalty shot he just had been awarded by referee Dave Newell. Chicago defenseman Dale Tallon had pulled him down from behind during a clear breakaway.

"Everybody tried to give me some advice," the mustachioed Maruk said later. "(Former Black Hawk) Jim Pappin told me to deke him (Esposito), and somebody else told me to do something else."

"I probably would have been better off just doing my own thing."

Maruk, and the Seals, would have been better off if he had scored on the penalty shot — the club's second in two games, since right wing Wayne King missed against the Bruins' Gilles Gilbert in Boston on Saturday afternoon.

"That probably was the play that turned it around for them," said California Coach Jack Evans after the Black Hawks rallied for a 2-2 tie Wednesday night.

In the other National Hockey League games Wednesday night, Toronto trimmed Minnesota 6-5, Detroit bombed Kansas City 8-3 and Vancouver topped the New York Rangers 5-1. In the World Hockey Association's only game, Winnipeg humbled Houston 4-1.

GENEVA — World Champions Irina Rodnina and Alexander Saitsev won their fourth straight European title.

Racer Women Defeated 62-53 By UTM Pacers

The Murray State Lady Racers got a little home-cooking Wednesday night and as a result, fell 62-53 to the University of Tennessee at Martin.

In an earlier meeting this season at Murray, the Racers won by the same nine-point margin.

The game was nip and tuck in the first half with both teams in the lead at various

Next Coach?

DALLAS (AP) — Darryl Rogers of San Jose State is expected to be named the next Southern Methodist head football coach this weekend, if he can agree on contract terms.

SMU officials were in contact with Rogers in St. Louis, Mo., at the NCAA convention and Rogers was offered the job.

Dr. James Zumbeke, SMU president, said he had no comment on whether Rogers was the choice to replace the resigned Dave Smith but added: "We are getting very close to making an offer. We still have a few ends to tie off, and we want to be sure the individual's wife has a chance to visit Dallas."

times. But just before the end of the half, Martin pulled out and led 31-30 at intermission.

The game was close until the final minutes when Murray was hit with numerous fouls and Martin managed to cash in on the free throw chances for the win.

Again, the Racers played without the services of star forward Debbie Hayes who is recovering from a knee injury. Hopefully, she will be rejoining the team soon.

Jana Jones had one of her best games as a Racer as she hit on seven field goals and added four charity tosses for 18 points to lead the Murray offensive attack against UTM.

Vickie Dillingham also hit in twin figures as she had 10 points.

With the loss, the Racers fall to 6-3 on the season.

There will be two outstanding games on tap for this weekend. At 5:15 p. m. Saturday, the Murray women will host a very good University of Louisville team in the Sports Arena. That will be the preliminary game to the clash between Murray State and Eastern Kentucky.

Then on Monday, the Lady Racers get their most formidable test of the season as they host a rugged Western Kentucky team at 5:15 p. m.

That will serve as a preliminary game to the Murray State-Morehead battle.

New York City Getting $140 Million More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is extending another $140 million in loans to New York City today although a new study says the city is behind in its budget-cutting efforts and may have trouble repaying federal loans without seeking new revenues.

A report prepared by the Arthur Andersen & Co. accounting firm also found that New York may not be able to return to the public bond market in 1978, a key goal of the federal aid program, unless the city immediately improves its accounting procedures.

"Budgeted expenditures were to be reduced by $110 million in fiscal 1976, but only about $12 million of projected savings has been achieved to date," Andersen said in its report dated Dec. 29.

In New York, a spokesman for Mayor Abraham Beame said the city already is improving its accounting methods and said Andersen's audit is based on month-old figures. The aide said recent cuts bring the savings to $35 million, and that another $15 million in cost-cutting plans are before the legislature in Albany, where approval is needed.

In a related development, the Citizens Budget Commission estimated Wednesday that the city's real estate tax could climb to $8.70 for each $100 of assessed valuation, a rise of about 50 cents, if the city uses its full taxing power in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The commission is a civic watchdog organization. Andersen said the city has not prepared contingency plans despite indications it may not be able to repay the seasonal loans which the federal government may extend through 1978.

Andersen said the figures used by the city to show revenues will be in balance with its expenses by 1978 seem to understate expenses and overstate income.

Despite the news, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the government will continue to lend money to the city. A $140-million loan being extended today brings the Treasury's total financial commitment to $510 million under the emergency loan program adopted last month.

"There is a reasonable prospect of repayment" within the terms of the emergency New York City loan law, said Simon.

"create some of the greatest problems in our criminal justice system."

The bill would allow a person arrested on a bailable amount to post his bond with the court rather than paying that same sum to a bail bondsman.

"Then at the time that the individual makes his appearance in court and either is convicted and pays his fine or is found not guilty all of his deposit is returned to him with the exception of 10 per cent that would be retained for administrative costs," Carroll said.

The effect of the legislation, Carroll said, would be that defendants would be able to save money now paid to bail bondsmen "and that cost can be applied toward his fine."

The bill, he said, was designed to "vastly improve" the system of justice in Kentucky and will "keep defendants from being indebted over extended periods of time to bail bondsmen."

The bill, Carroll said, would stop "substantial trafficking in the pawning and use of personal items such as television sets and automobiles and other personal property often utilized in order to gain freedom on bond."

"It will greatly discourage individuals who are indebted to bondsmen from committing offenses to pay off their debts to the bail bondsmen," the governor added.

Substantial opposition is expected, but Carroll said he expects the bill to pass nonetheless.

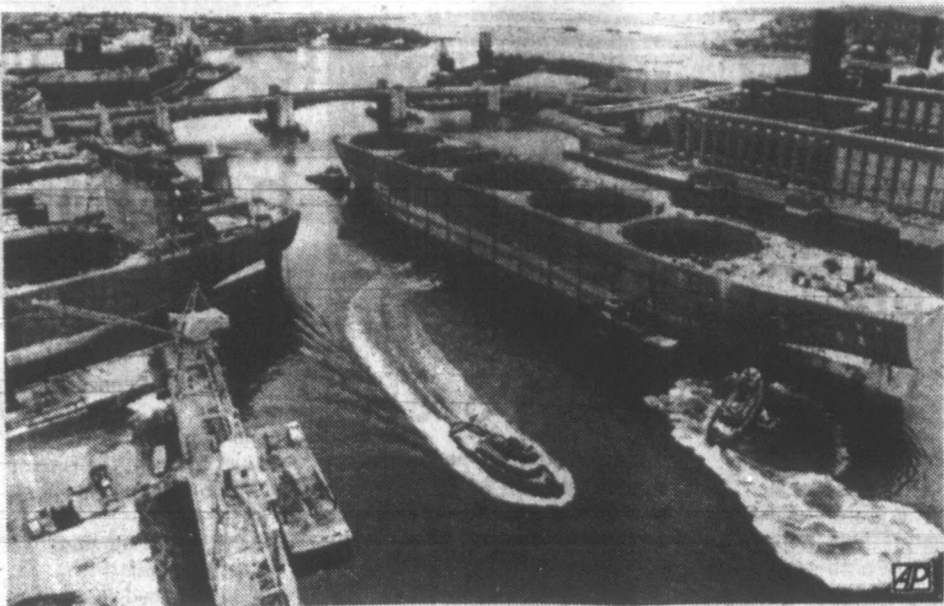

In the future, if the bill passes, it will be "against the public policy of Kentucky to allow" commercial bail bondsmen to operate.

Carroll said the bill also encourages courts "to accept personal recognizance in lieu of deposits of cash or property when it is found that in all reasonable probability the defendant will appear at the times prescribed for his court appearances."

Carroll said when the bill becomes law "we will have taken a giant step toward a more fair system of criminal justice."

He said he is anxious to learn what the alleged derogatory information is and asked the person who made the threat "to go on and give it to the Courier-Journal."

"So you should be receiving it soon," he told reporters.

Prison Commission Close To Presenting Report To Carroll

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The chairman of the governor's blue ribbon panel investigating allegations of wrongdoing at the state penitentiary says the panel "is very close" to giving its report to the governor.

Frank Gilliam said the commission will meet next week at La Grange and at Frankfort, and will decide then whether it has compiled sufficient information to complete its report.

The most recent development in the months' long investigation was the release to the panel Wednesday of the results of a polygraph test taken by a former penitentiary official.

Corrections Commissioner Charles Holmes said the polygraph (lie detector) test showed that former Associate Supt. William Reynolds was telling the truth when he denied allegations by prisoners that he was engaged in a plot to murder another inmate.

The allegations were made about Reynolds by two former inmates of the Eddyville Penitentiary. They told the blue ribbon panel during a trip to Eddyville last month that Reynolds and penitentiary Supt. Henry Cowan had approached them and asked them to kill 43-year-old inmate Donald Ault.

Former inmate Willie Morgan, who has since been transferred from the penitentiary, told the panel that Reynolds said he would deposit $3,000 in Morgan's prison account if he would "get rid of" Ault. Morgan said he understood that as a suggestion to murder Ault. He said Reynolds told him the money would come from himself and Cowan.

A polygraph test administered to Morgan showed he was telling the truth when he made those statements. Holmes said he is indifferent on whether polygraph tests should be administered, but noted that a great deal of publicity has been given to prisoners who have made allegations about the operation of the prison and passed polygraph tests.

He commented that the "tilt of the thing was against the prison system because it's one of society's institutions, and all institutions are under attack." But he added that he has full confidence that the investigating panel "will eventually get to the truth of the thing."

"We've got to find a way—and I'm sure Mr. Gilliam will be looking for the right way—to bring an end to this, bring it into focus and reduce the scope of it."

Gov. Carroll 'Comfortable' After Surgery

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll was reported resting comfortably today after minor surgery to remove what doctors describe as a rectal fistula or boil.

The governor spent 50 minutes in the operating room and another 30 minutes in the recovery room at Kings Daughters Memorial Hospital.

Dr. O.M. Patrick, said he expects Carroll to spend two days in the hospital and be confined to the Executive Mansion until the first part of next week.

The governor will cancel his appointments and appearances until next week, his office said.

Bluegrass CB Club Membership Drive Planned Monday

A membership drive for the Bluegrass State CB Club will be held Monday, January 19, at seven p.m. at the Calloway County Court House.

All licensed CBers are welcome to attend, according to officers of the club which has recently been organized in Murray and Calloway County. Darrell Root is president of the CB Club with Bob Peebles as vice-president, Pam Alexander, Holly Bucy, Calvin Todd, and Sammy Tidwell.

Officers said the purpose of the club is to help promote good use of the CB radio, and to help the needy at anytime the club is called upon to do so. The CB Club will sponsor events the whole family can attend and enjoy. Only those who have obtained an FCC license may be a member of the club, officers said. All licensed CBers are urged to attend the meeting on Monday, and for information call Ricky Alexander, 753-4079.

Roger D. Rule Earns Promotion

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — Roger D. Rule, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rule of Rt. 1, Kirksey, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Rule, an inventory management specialist, is serving at Kincheloe AFB, Mich.

He is a 1974 graduate of Calloway County High School. His wife, Toni, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kuenz of 14645 Stahelin, Detroit.

Hubbard Calls For New Approach To Consumer Banking Regulation

DENVER, Colo. — In a speech here before the national Forum for Progress in Consumer Banking, U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard (D-Ky.), a member of the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee, today outlined his proposals for a sweeping overhaul of consumer banking regulation.

Citing the lack of emphasis upon the common interests of financial institutions and banking consumers, Hubbard stressed the need for legislative and judicial restraint so that "new technology employed in free market competition can give the consumer a 'better deal' by minimizing his inconvenience."

Hubbard, who served as chairman of the 75 freshman Democrats in the Congress last year, noted that the Banking and Currency Committee's Financial Institutions in the Nation's Economy (FINE) Study focuses upon bank regulatory restructuring. "These are not necessarily the relevant questions to future depositor safety, equitable treatment, realistic pricing, and consumer convenience," he said.

"We as legislators probably have a better chance of achieving these goals by overhauling the substantive rules that apply to financial institutions than we have by tinkering with the organization of the regulatory agencies that administer these rules. I have been in Washington long enough to understand the new agencies designed to 'reform' existing agencies usually result simply in more agencies with more bureaucrats imposing a greater burden upon the public and the private firms they regulate," Hubbard said.

Hubbard added that the consumer financial service industry "should innovate actively and responsibly while the legislatures and courts stay their hands."

"As the merit to consumers of new financial services is demonstrated," he remarked, "you cannot help but convince their representatives of the virtue of allowing private industry to compete for their business."

Jehovah's Witnesses Members To Attend Hopkinsville Meet

The Murray congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend the semi-annual Circuit Assembly, January 17, and 18, in Hopkinsville, for increased Bible training, according to presiding minister Ralph Stockwell.

The delegates will be among the 1300 from 21 Western Kentucky and Southern Indiana congregations who will assemble when the program begins at 9:55 a.m. Saturday, January 17, in the Convention Center at the Western Kentucky State Fairgrounds.

Commenting on the importance of attending, Roger B. Dixon, Circuit Supervisor, said that as Christians our lives are complicated by the various problems of this modern world with which we must deal. Some of these problems that will be discussed at the convention include how to reason and communicate with "our children, the continuing problem of unemployment, and the depression of lingering illness. Many practical suggestions in the form of realistic family scenes will be depicted from the stage.

The programs have been planned for the purpose of helping people of all ages appreciate how to deal with their serious problems of life and continue to please God, Bro. Stockwell said.

The principal speaker, W.J. Benner, District Supervisor from Brooklyn, N.Y. will deliver the special public Bible discourse Sunday, January 18, at 2:00 p.m., entitled, "How the Kingdom of God Affects You."

The regular meetings at the local Kingdom Hall on North 16th Street Extended will be cancelled this week-end, said Stockwell. All assembly sessions are free and open to the public.

New Meat Grading System To Be Put Into Effect Feb. 23

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning next month, shoppers buying "prime" and "choice" meat will be getting some meat that is less juicy and tender than Americans have been getting in those grades.

The Agriculture Department announced plans to put the new system into effect Feb. 23 after Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun last Friday denied a further bid to halt the new definitions. Initially planned for adoption last April 14, the grade changes have been delayed by months of court challenges from consumer groups and others.

The three top grades of beef commonly seen in retail stores are prime, choice and good, in their order of tenderness and juiciness. A prime steak has more marbling — flecks of fat — than choice or good.

Under the new rules, standards for prime and choice will be widened and those for good narrowed so more beef can qualify as top grade.

Although the use of federal beef grading by meat packers and retail stores is voluntary, it is common in the industry and labels designating prime, choice and good are familiar to shoppers.

Historically, the tenderest and most expensive cuts of beef are prime and come from cattle which have been pampered and fed grain during much of their lives, particularly in the final few months before slaughter.

But grain prices have risen so much in recent years that cattle feeding has been on the decline and many farmers and feed-lot operators, until recently, say they have lost money on their operations. By enlarging the prime and choice categories, producers will be able to feed less grain to animals and still have them qualify for the more expensive grades.

Among the opponents of the new grading plan is the Consumer Federation of America, which contends shoppers will be charged higher prices for meat that is lower in quality. A Consumer Federation spokesman said, "Consumers will wind up paying choice prices for good beef."

But the Agriculture Department says its new rules will not create any detectable change in the taste of beef at any particular grade.

Some meat packers also oppose the changes, contending the new guidelines will cause production slowdowns, lead to mandatory grading and result in added transportation costs. The packers contend the added costs will have to be passed on to consumers.

Agriculture Department officials say the new system "should lead to a reduction in the amount of excess fat on beef cattle by providing a more direct means to encourage the production of meat-type cattle."

The department says the changes "will result in slightly leaner beef qualifying for U.S. prime and choice" by reducing the amount of marbling now required in those. Reducing the amount of marbling will also reduce the need for grain feeding, which should reduce grain use, the department says.

Campbell Soldier Arrested On Charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Ft. Campbell soldier was arrested Wednesday in connection with the Dec. 9 robbery of a branch bank in Hopkinsville.

Stanley Czarniecki, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, identified the soldier as Harold E. Huff, 20, of Kingsport, Tenn., who was captured at the A.M.E. Homes in Hopkinsville.

Lillie May Preacher, also of Hopkinsville, was arrested on Dec. 16 in connection with the robbery.

Czarniecki said both were charged in the robbery of the Pennville Mall Branch of the First City Bank & Trust Co.

Wallace Invited To Speak Before Bar Association

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A Democratic presidential candidate, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, is being invited to speak at the Kentucky Bar Association's annual meeting May 14 in Louisville.

Confirmation of the invitation came from Charles Landrum, a lawyer here and program chairman for the KBA convention.

Wallace's Kentucky campaign chairman, N.W. Burnette of Fulton, said the letter of invitation hasn't reached Wallace yet.

Consumer Council Urges More Commercialism In Blood System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's inflation monitoring council is urging more commercialism in the collection and distribution of human blood, thus challenging the current federal policy of seeking an all-volunteer blood system.

The council offers an opinion that our public policies toward blood would be improved substantially if it were recognized that blood is a product that is not very different from other consumer goods," the Council on Wage and Price Stability said Wednesday.

The council argued that competition would encourage a better quality of blood available for transfusions and at a more reasonable price.

The proposals were contained in comments filed with the Food and Drug Administration in response to proposed FDA regulations which would require labels distinguishing between blood donated by volunteers and blood provided for cash.

The FDA regulations would also require labels warning that blood from paid individuals is associated with a higher risk of hepatitis than blood from volunteers.

The FDA proposals were reviewed by the council as aiding the policy enunciated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1974 that endorsed "efforts to bring into being an all-voluntary blood donation system and to eliminate commercialism in the acquisition of whole blood and blood components for transfusion purposes."

The Council on Wage and Price Stability is headed by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and composed of the President's top economic and consumer aides, along with the secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor. The council and its staff are responsible for keeping track of inflationary pressures in the economy and for assessing the inflationary impact of proposed government actions.

The council and government health officials agree that an estimated 10 per cent to 15 per cent of the U.S. blood supply comes from paid individuals, who receive from $5 to $20 per pint.

They also agree there are no reliable tests to detect hepatitis in blood, so collection agencies must rely on assurances from donors that they have never had the disease.

There is also agreement that blood transfusions are linked to nearly 100,000 cases of hepatitis a year, including about 850 deaths. Blood collected for cash is generally related to an infection rate three times to 10 times that for donated blood.

The council said it agrees that patients and doctors are entitled to know through labeling of the risks involved. But it urged the FDA to change the proposed regulations to permit commercial collectors to provide information on the infection rate from their own particular supplies rather than for all commercial blood.

The council proposed fostering competition between suppliers of blood, while requiring test procedures to maintain quality. Donors could be solicited "in any lawful manner" and paid to make it worth their while to give blood at times when the need is most urgent.

Morehead Hires City Attorney For Salary Of $14,000

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — With almost no comment, the Morehead City Council has ended the five-year term of Paul Blair and hired Buddy Salyer as city attorney at a salary of $14,000 a year.

Councilman Keith Kappas, who made the motion that Salyer be hired, said only that "I just feel it's time for a change."

Salyer's salary is about $2,000 less than Blair was paid. A spokesman for the council said it felt the previous salary was too high.

Stronger Controls On Sale Of Hearing Aids To Be Asked

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky General Assembly will be asked to place stronger controls on the sale of hearing aids in the state as a result of action by the state Consumers' Advisory Council Wednesday.

There were no dissenting votes but saying "I don't see a demonstrated need," for the recommendation, Edward F. Hessel, Jr., executive vice president of the Louisville Better Business Bureau abstained from the voting.

A report which was approved by the council along with the proposal for legislation said action is necessary by the General Assembly to provide "basic and essential protections against gross abuses in the present hearing aid delivery systems."

There are serious problems in the sale of hearing aids, ranging from misrepresentation to excessively high costs for hearing devices, the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division, which prepared the report, said.

The consumer council is recommending legislation which would provide that:

—A person receive "medical clearance" before being sold a hearing aid.

—A person receive a written recommendation concerning the make and model of hearing aid from a physician or audiologist.

—There be restrictions of door-to-door sales of hearing aids.

—Purchases of hearing aids could be cancelled within 30 days for any reason.

—The Consumer Protection Division investigate all complaints against hearing aid dealers.

—The licensing board be restructured so industry representatives would be in the minority rather than the majority as it now is.

Sara Jane Moore Could Be Sentenced To 'Life'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Jane Moore, the onetime FBI informant with radical connections, could become the second woman within a month to be sentenced to life in prison for trying to kill President Ford.

U.S. District Court Judge

Samuel Conti could impose today any sentence up to life imprisonment on the 45-year-old divorced mother under a special federal law covering attempted presidential assassination.

She was arrested Sept. 22, moments after she fired a pistol at Ford as he stepped from a downtown hotel here. The shot was deflected and the President escaped injury.

Miss Moore first pleaded innocent. But in a surprise move, she switched her plea to guilty on Dec. 16, declaring she had "wilfully and knowingly" tried to kill Ford.

Reading from a written statement, she cited alleged U.S. involvement in assassination plots against foreign leaders and said, "When any government uses assassination ... to put down dissent ... it must expect that tool to be turned back against them."

Conti accepted the plea change but expressed concern about her refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped plan the attempt.

Although prosecutors said they had no evidence of conspiracy, Conti said he was "not completely satisfied" with Miss Moore's statements and urged her to give probation officers information on the possible involvement of others. He said such a disclosure "could assist in possible mitigation of sentence."

Miss Moore is the second person convicted under the special federal law passed by Congress in the aftermath of President John F. Kennedy's assassination in 1963. The first person, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a member of the Charles Manson cult, was sentenced to life imprisonment on Dec. 17. A jury convicted her of trying to kill Ford when she pointed a gun at him Sept. 5 in Sacramento, Calif.

FEC To Investigate Appointment Of Morton For Political Tie-Ins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission will investigate the appointment of Rogers C.B. Morton as a White House adviser paid by the taxpayers but assigned by President Ford to at least some political duties.

Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris filed a complaint letter with the commission on Wednesday night, calling for a "full investigation and full disclosure concerning the mixed White House and political duties of ... Morton."

An FEC spokesman said the complaint by Harris would not be brought up during today's commission meeting, although commissioners might be advised of it during a closed executive session.

But the spokesman said the receipt of a notarized complaint "letter" would automatically launch a staff investigation.

Harris' letter asking for the investigation followed comments by commission chairman Thomas Curtis, who said Wednesday that he is concerned about the propriety of the appointment. Officials say they are concerned that money spent for Morton's political activity would not be counted against Ford's campaign spending limit.

A commission spokesman said Curtis was not saying the Ford campaign is in violation of campaign law but "they're in dangerous waters. They're treading on thin ice."

Ford on Tuesday named Morton, who has served as his commerce secretary, to be a White House counselor on economic and domestic policy with "incidental duties of liaison with the President Ford Committee and the Republican National Committee." Morton would receive a White House salary of $44,600.

It had long been expected that Ford would name Morton to a high campaign post in which his salary would be paid by the Ford election committee. But when the announcement was made, White House spokesman Ron Nessen downplayed Morton's political role.

Sargent Shriver, also a Democratic candidate, voiced concern about the Morton appointment Wednesday, but stopped short of filing an official complaint. A Shriver spokesman said the appointment was an "affront to the American taxpayer" and "shows the same flagrant insensitivity to the public interest that has become all too characteristic of the Ford administration."

Elsewhere, there were these political developments Wednesday:

—Republican candidate Ronald Reagan campaigned in Jacksonville, Fla., where he again brushed off criticism of his plan to decentralize government.

The former California governor blamed federal bureaucrats for criticism of his plan to transfer many social and welfare programs from the federal to state and local governments.

—Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, a Democratic presidential candidate, filed papers with the FEC showing campaign expenditures in 1975 of $335,363. Sanford checked into the Duke University Medical Center for rest. He had been hospitalized in Massachusetts after complaining of chest pains Sunday.

—Democratic candidate Sen. Birch Bayh said in a speech to the Washington Press Club that proposals by Ford and Reagan to cut federal spending have been misleading. Bayh said such plans smack of political gimmickry and fiscal irresponsibility.

Bayh said that instead of cutting the federal budget, more money should be pumped into the economy in an effort to end the recession.

—The citizen lobby Common Cause asked all presidential candidates to list their budget priorities for 1977. Common Cause chairman John Gardner said, "Nothing can switch the candidates from rhetoric to reality more quickly than down-to-earth talk about the budget."

—Democratic party officials ordered Wisconsin Democrats to come up with a plan for selecting convention delegates that is not dependent on the state's traditional open primary election. Under the existing system, voters do not have to identify themselves with either party and can vote in either the Republican or Democratic primary.

—Officials of Alabama Gov. George Wallace's presidential campaign presented nine cartons of records to the election commission. The records, containing the names of 130,000 contributors, are to be used to verify a claim for some $2 million in federal matching funds.

—Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, a Democratic candidate, announced he will conduct fund-raising parties in 20 states on Sunday, using a telephone hookup.

—Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., announced he would not seek re-election. Patman, 82, who came to Congress in 1929, has served longer than any other person now in Congress. —Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, announced he will not seek re-election. Fong, 68, was the first Oriental-American to serve in the Senate and has represented Hawaii since the islands won statehood in 1959.

New York City Getting $140 Million More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is extending another $140 million in loans to New York City today although a new study says the city is behind in its budget-cutting efforts and may have trouble repaying federal loans without seeking new revenues.

A report prepared by the Arthur Andersen & Co. accounting firm also found that New York may not be able to return to the public bond market in 1978, a key goal of the federal aid program, unless the city immediately improves its accounting procedures.

"Budgeted expenditures were to be reduced by $110 million in fiscal 1976, but only about $12 million of projected savings has been achieved to date," Andersen said in its report dated Dec. 29.

In New York, a spokesman for Mayor Abraham Beame said the city already is improving its accounting methods and said Andersen's audit is based on month-old figures. The aide said recent cuts bring the savings to $35 million, and that another $15 million in cost-cutting plans are before the legislature in Albany, where approval is needed.

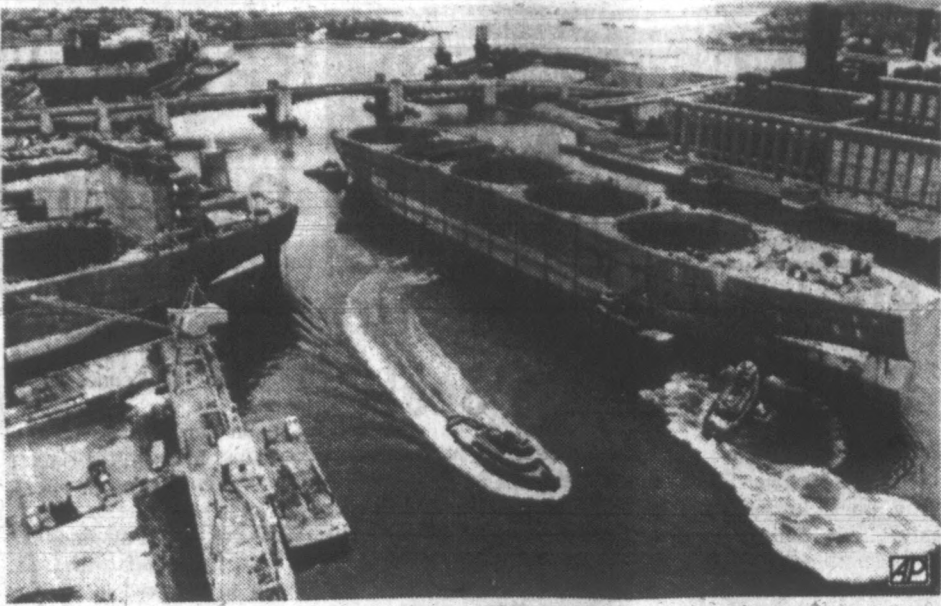

In a related development, the Citizens Budget Commission estimated Wednesday that the city's real estate tax could climb to $8.70 for each $100 of assessed valuation, a rise of about 50 cents, if the city uses its full taxing power in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The commission is a civic watchdog organization. Andersen said the city has not prepared contingency plans despite indications it may not be able to repay the seasonal loans which the federal government may extend through 1978.

Andersen said the figures used by the city to show revenues will be in balance with its expenses by 1978 seem to understate expenses and overstate income.

Despite the news, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the government will continue to lend money to the city. A $140-million loan being extended today brings the Treasury's total financial commitment to $510 million under the emergency loan program adopted last month.

"There is a reasonable prospect of repayment," within the terms of the emergency New York City loan law, said Simon.

Prison Commission Close To Presenting Report To Carroll

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The chairman of the governor's blue ribbon panel investigating allegations of wrongdoing at the state penitentiary says the panel "is very close" to giving its report to the governor.

Frank Gilliam said the commission will meet next week at La Grange and at Frankfort, and will decide then whether it has compiled sufficient information to complete its report.

The most recent development in the months' long investigation was the release to the panel Wednesday of the results of a polygraph test taken by a former penitentiary official.

Corrections Commissioner Charles Holmes said the polygraph (lie detector) test showed that former Associate Supt. William Reynolds was telling the truth when he denied allegations by prisoners that he was engaged in a plot to murder another inmate.

The allegations were made about Reynolds by two former inmates of the Eddyville Penitentiary. They told the blue ribbon panel during a trip to Eddyville last month that Reynolds and penitentiary Supt. Henry Cowan had approached them and asked them to kill 43-year-old inmate Donald Ault.

Former inmate Willie Morgan, who has since been transferred from the penitentiary, told the panel that Reynolds said he would deposit $3,000 in Morgan's prison account if he would "get rid of" Ault. Morgan said he understood that as a suggestion to murder Ault. He said Reynolds told him the money would come from himself and Cowan.

A polygraph test administered to Morgan showed he was telling the truth when he made those statements. Holmes said he is indifferent on whether polygraph tests should be administered, but noted that a great deal of publicity has been given to prisoners who have made allegations about the operation of the prison and passed polygraph tests.

He commented that the "tilt of the thing was against the prison system because it's one of society's institutions, and all institutions are under attack." But he added that he has full confidence that the investigating panel "will eventually get to the truth of the thing."

"We've got to find a way—and I'm sure Mr. Gilliam will be looking for the right way—to bring an end to this, bring it into focus and reduce the scope of it."

Gov. Carroll 'Comfortable' After Surgery

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll was reported resting comfortably today after minor surgery to remove what doctors describe as a rectal fistula or boil.

The governor spent 50 minutes in the operating room and another 30 minutes in the recovery room at Kings Daughters Memorial Hospital.

Dr. O.M. Patrick, said he expects Carroll to spend two days in the hospital and be confined to the Executive Mansion until the first part of next week.

The governor will cancel his appointments and appearances until next week, his office said.

Bluegrass CB Club Membership Drive Planned Monday

A membership drive for the Bluegrass State CB Club will be held Monday, January 19, at seven p. m. at the Calloway County Court House.

All licensed CBers are welcome to attend, according to officers of the club which has recently been organized in Murray and Calloway County.

Darrell Root is president of the CB Club with Bob Peebles as vice-president, Pam Alexander, Holly Bucy, Calvin Todd, and Sammy Tidwell.

Officers said the purpose of the club is to help promote good use of the CB radio, and to help the needy at anytime the club is called upon to do so.

The CB Club will sponsor events the whole family can attend and enjoy. Only those who have obtained an FCC license may be a member of the club, officers said. All licensed CBers are urged to attend the meeting on Monday, and for information call Ricky Alexander, 753-4079.

Roger D. Rule Earns Promotion

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — Roger D. Rule, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rule of Rt. 1, Kirksey, has been promoted to airman first class in the U. S. Air Force.

Airman Rule, an inventory management specialist, is serving at Kincheloe AFB, Mich. He is a 1974 graduate of Calloway County High School. His wife, Tani, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kuenz of 14645 Stahelin, Detroit.

Hubbard Calls For New Approach To Consumer Banking Regulation

DENVER, Colo. — In a speech here before the national forum for progress in consumer banking, U. S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard (D-Ky.), a member of the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee, today outlined his proposals for a sweeping overhaul of consumer banking regulation.

Citing the lack of emphasis upon the common interests of financial institutions and banking consumers, Hubbard stressed the need for legislative and judicial restraint so that "new technology employed in free market competition can give the consumer a 'better deal' by minimizing his inconvenience."

Hubbard, who served as chairman of the 75 freshman Democrats in the Congress last year, noted that the Banking and Currency Committee's Financial Institutions in the Nation's Economy (FINE) Study focuses upon bank regulatory restructuring. "These are not necessarily the relevant questions to future depositor safety, equitable treatment, realistic pricing, and consumer convenience," he said.

"We as legislators probably have a better chance of achieving these goals by overhauling the substantive rules that apply to financial institutions than we have by tinkering with the organization of the regulatory agencies that administer these rules. I have been in Washington long enough to understand the new agencies designed to 'reform' existing agencies usually result simply in more agencies with more bureaucrats imposing a greater burden upon the public and the private firms they regulate," Hubbard said.

Hubbard added that the consumer financial service industry "should innovate actively and responsibly while the legislatures and courts stay their hands."

"As the merit to consumers of new financial services is demonstrated," he remarked, "you cannot help but convince their representatives of the virtue of allowing private industry to compete for their business."

Jehovah's Witnesses Members To Attend Hopkinsville Meet

The Murray congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend the semi-annual Circuit Assembly, January 17, and 18, in Hopkinsville, for increased Bible training, according to presiding minister Ralph Stockwell.

The delegates will be among the 1300 from 21 Western Kentucky and Southern Indiana congregations who will assemble when the program begins at 9:55 a.m. Saturday, January 17, in the Convention Center at the Western Kentucky State Fairgrounds.

Commenting on the importance of attending, Roger B. Dixon, Circuit Supervisor, said that as Christians our lives are complicated by the various problems of this modern world with which we must deal. Some of these problems that will be discussed at the convention include how to reason and communicate with our children, the continuing problem of unemployment, and the depression of lingering illness. Many practical suggestions in the form of realistic family scenes will be depicted from the stage.

The programs have been planned for the purpose of helping people of all ages appreciate how to deal with their serious problems of life and continue to please God, Bro. Stockwell said.

The principal speaker, W. J. Benner, District Supervisor from Brooklyn, N. Y. will deliver the special public Bible discourse Sunday January 18, at 2:00 p.m., entitled, "How the Kingdom of God Affects You."

The regular meetings at the local Kingdom Hall on North 16th Street Extended will be cancelled this week-end, said Stockwell. All assembly sessions are free and open to the public.

"create some of the greatest problems in our criminal justice system."

The bill would allow a person arrested on a bailable person arrested on a bailable the amount of his bond with the court rather than paying that same sum to a bail bondsman.

"Then at the time that the individual makes his appearance in court and either is convicted and pays his fine or is found not guilty all of his deposit is returned to him with the exception of 10 per cent that would be retained for administrative costs," Carroll said.

The effect of the legislation, Carroll said, would be that defendants would be able to save money now paid to bail bondsmen "and that cost can be applied toward his fine..."

The bill, he said, was designed to "vastly improve" the system of justice in Kentucky and will "keep defendants from being indebted over extended periods of time to bail bondsmen."

The bill, Carroll said, would stop "substantial trafficking in the pawning and use of personal items such as television sets and automobiles and other personal property often utilized in order to gain freedom on bond."

"It will greatly discourage individuals who are indebted to bondsmen from committing offenses to pay off their debts to the bail bondsmen," the governor added.

Substantial opposition is expected, but Carroll said he expects the bill to pass nonetheless.

In the future, if the bill passes, it will be "against the public policy of Kentucky to allow" commercial bail bondsmen to operate.

Carroll said the bill also encourages courts "to accept personal recognizance in lieu of deposits of cash or property when it is found that in all reasonable probability the defendant will appear at the times prescribed for his court appearances."

Carroll said when the bill becomes law "we will have taken a giant step toward a more fair system of criminal justice."

He said he is anxious to learn what the alleged derogatory information is and asked the person who made the threat "to go on and give it to the Courier-Journal."

"So you should be receiving it soon," he told reporters.

New Meat Grading System To Be Put Into Effect Feb. 23

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning next month, shoppers buying "prime" and "choice" meat will be getting some meat that is less juicy and tender than Americans have been getting in those grades.

The Agriculture Department announced plans to put the new system into effect Feb. 23 after Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun last Friday denied a further bid to halt the new definitions. Initially planned for adoption last April 14, the grade changes have been delayed by months of court challenges from consumer groups and others.

The three top grades of beef commonly seen in retail stores are prime, choice and good, in their order of tenderness and juiciness. A prime steak has more marbling — flecks of fat — than choice or good.

Under the new rules, standards for prime and choice will be widened and those for good narrowed so more beef can qualify as top grade.

Although the use of federal beef grading by meat packers and retail stores is voluntary, it is common in the industry and labels designating prime, choice and good are familiar to shoppers.

Historically, the tenderest and most expensive cuts of beef are prime and come from cattle which have been pampered and fed grain during much of their lives, particularly in the final few months before slaughter.

But grain prices have risen so much in recent years that cattle feeding has been on the decline and many farmers and feed-lot operators, until recently, say they have lost money on their operations. By enlarging the prime and choice categories, producers will be able to feed less grain to animals and still have them qualify for the more expensive grades.

Among the opponents of the new grading plan is the Consumer Federation of America, which contends shoppers will be charged higher prices for meat that is lower in quality.

A Consumer Federation spokesman said, "Consumers will wind up paying choice prices for good beef."

But the Agriculture Department says its new rules will not create any detectable change in the taste of beef at any particular grade.

Some meat packers also oppose the changes, contending the new guidelines will cause production slowdowns, lead to mandatory grading and result in added transportation costs. The packers contend the added costs will have to be passed on to consumers.

Agriculture Department officials say the new system "should lead to a reduction in the amount of excess fat on beef cattle by providing a more direct means to encourage the production of meat-type cattle."

The department says the changes "will result in slightly leaner beef qualifying for U.S. prime and choice" by reducing the amount of marbling now required in those. Reducing the amount of marbling will also reduce the need for grain feeding, which should reduce grain use, the department says.

Campbell Soldier Arrested On Charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Ft. Campbell soldier was arrested Wednesday in connection with the Dec. 9 robbery of a branch bank in Hopkinsville.

Stanley Czarniecki, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, identified the soldier as Harold E. Huff, 20, of Kingsport, Tenn., who was captured at the A.M.E. Homes in Hopkinsville.

Lillie May Preacher, also of Hopkinsville, was arrested on Dec. 16 in connection with the robbery.

Czarniecki said both were charged in the robbery of the Pennyville Mall Branch of the First City Bank & Trust Co.

Wallace Invited To Speak Before Bar Association

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A Democratic presidential candidate, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, is being invited to speak at the Kentucky Bar Association's annual meeting May 14 in Louisville.

Confirmation of the invitation came from Charles Landrum, a lawyer here and program chairman for the KBA convention.

Wallace's Kentucky campaign chairman, N.W. Burnette of Fulton, said the letter of invitation hasn't reached Wallace yet.

Consumer Council Urges More Commercialism In Blood System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's inflation monitoring council is urging more commercialism in the collection and distribution of human blood, thus challenging the current federal policy of seeking an all-volunteer blood system.

The council offers an opinion that our public policies toward blood would be improved substantially if it were recognized that blood is a product that is not very different from other consumer goods," the Council on Wage and Price Stability said Wednesday.

The council argued that competition would encourage a better quality of blood available for transfusions and at a more reasonable price.

The proposals were contained in comments filed with the Food and Drug Administration in response to proposed FDA regulations which would require labels distinguishing between blood donated by volunteers and blood provided for cash.

The FDA regulations would also require labels warning that blood from paid individuals is associated with a higher risk of hepatitis than blood from volunteers.

The FDA proposals were viewed by the council as aiding the policy enunciated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1974 that endorsed "efforts to bring into being an all-voluntary blood donation system and to eliminate commercialism in the acquisition of whole blood and blood components for transfusion purposes."

The Council on Wage and Price Stability is headed by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and composed of the President's top economic and consumer aides, along with the secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor. The council and its staff are responsible for keeping track of inflationary pressures in the economy and for assessing the inflationary impact of proposed government actions.

The council and government health officials agree that an estimated 10 percent to 15 percent of the U.S. blood supply comes from paid individuals, who receive from $5 to $20 per pint.

They also agree there are no reliable tests to detect hepatitis in blood, so collection agencies must rely on assurances from donors that they have never had the disease.

There is also agreement that blood transfusions are linked to nearly 100,000 cases of hepatitis a year, including about 850 deaths. Blood collected for cash is generally related to an infection rate three times to 10 times that for donated blood.

The council said it agrees that patients and doctors are entitled to know through labeling of the risks involved. But it urged the FDA to change the proposed regulations to permit commercial collectors to provide information on the infection rate from their own particular supplies rather than for all commercial blood.

The council proposed fostering competition between suppliers of blood, while requiring test procedures to maintain quality. Donors could be solicited "in any lawful manner" and paid to make it worth their while to give blood at times when the need is most urgent.

Morehead Hires City Attorney For Salary Of $14,000

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — With almost no comment, the Morehead City Council has ended the five-year term of Paul Blair and hired Buddy Salyer as city attorney at a salary of $14,000 a year.

Councilman Keith Kappas, who made the motion that Salyer be hired, said only that "I just feel it's time for a change."

Salyer's salary is about $2,000 less than Blair was paid. A spokesman for the council said it felt the previous salary was too high.

Stronger Controls On Sale Of Hearing Aids To Be Asked

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky General Assembly will be asked to place stronger controls on the sale of hearing aids in the state as a result of action by the state Consumers' Advisory Council Wednesday.

There were no dissenting votes but saying "I don't see a demonstrated need," for the recommendation, Edward F. Hessel, Jr., executive vice president of the Louisville Better Business Bureau abstained from the voting.

A report which was approved by the council along with the proposal for legislation said action is necessary by the General Assembly to provide "basic and essential protections against gross abuses in the present hearing aid delivery systems."

There are serious problems in the sale of hearing aids, ranging from misrepresentation to excessively high costs for hearing devices, the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division, which prepared the report, said.

The consumer council is recommending legislation which would provide that:

—A person receive "medical clearance" before being sold a hearing aid.

—A person receive a written recommendation concerning the make and model of hearing aid from a physician or audiologist.

—There be restrictions of door-to-door sales of hearing aids.

—Purchases of hearing aids could be cancelled within 30 days for any reason.

—The Consumer Protection Division investigate all complaints against hearing aid dealers.

—The licensing board be restructured so industry representatives would be in the minority rather than the majority as it now is.

FEC To Investigate Appointment Of Morton For Political Tie-Ins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission will investigate the appointment of Rogers C.B. Morton as a White House adviser paid by the taxpayers but assigned by President Ford to at least some political duties.

Democratic presidential candidate Fred Harris filed a complaint letter with the commission on Wednesday night, calling for a "full investigation and full disclosure concerning the mixed White House and political duties of... Morton."

An FEC spokesman said the complaint by Harris would not be brought up during today's commission meeting, although commissioners might be advised of it during a closed executive session.

But the spokesman said the receipt of a notarized complaint letter would automatically launch a staff investigation.

Harris' letter asking for the investigation followed comments by commission chairman Thomas Curtis, who said Wednesday that he is concerned about the propriety of the appointment. Officials say they are concerned that money spent for Morton's political activity would not be counted against Ford's campaign spending limit.

A commission spokesman said Curtis was not saying the Ford campaign is in violation of campaign law but "they're in dangerous waters. They're treading on thin ice."

Ford on Tuesday named Morton, who has served as his commerce secretary, to be a White House counselor on economic and domestic policy with "incidental duties of liaison with the President Ford Committee and the Republican National Committee." Morton would receive a White House salary of $44,000.

It had long been expected that Ford would name Morton to a high campaign post in which his salary would be paid by the Ford election committee. But when the announcement was made, White House spokesman Ron Nessen downplayed Morton's political role.

Sargent Shriver, also a Democratic candidate, voiced concern about the Morton appointment Wednesday, but stopped short of filing an official complaint. A Shriver spokesman said the appointment was an "affront to the American taxpayer" and "shows the same flagrant insensitivity to the public interest that has become all too characteristic of the Ford administration."

Elsewhere, there were these political developments Wednesday:

—Republican candidate Ronald Reagan campaigned in Jacksonville, Fla., where he again brushed off criticism of his plan to decentralize government.

The former California governor blamed federal bureaucrats for criticism of his plan to transfer many social and welfare programs from the federal to state and local governments.

—Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, a Democratic presidential candidate, filed papers with the FEC showing campaign expenditures in 1975 of $335,363. Sanford checked into the Duke University Medical Center for rest. He had been hospitalized in Massachusetts after complaining of chest pains Sunday.

—Democratic candidate Sen. Birch Bayh said in a speech to the Washington Press Club that proposals by Ford and Reagan to cut federal spending have been misleading. Bayh said such plans smack of political gimmickry and fiscal irresponsibility.

Bayh said that instead of cutting the federal budget, more money should be pumped into the economy in an effort to end the recession.

—The citizen lobby Common Cause asked all presidential candidates to list their budget priorities for 1977. Common Cause chairman John Gardner said, "Nothing can switch the candidates from rhetoric to reality more quickly than down-to-earth talk about the budget."

—Democratic party officials ordered Wisconsin Democrats to come up with a plan for selecting convention delegates that is not dependent on the state's traditional open primary election. Under the existing system, voters do not have to identify themselves with either party and can vote in either the Republican or Democratic primary.

—Officials of Alabama Gov. George Wallace's presidential campaign presented nine cartons of records to the election commission. The records, containing the names of 130,000 contributors, are to be used to verify a claim for some $2 million in federal matching funds.

—Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, a Democratic candidate, announced he will conduct fund-raising parties in 20 states on Sunday, using a telephone hookup.

—Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., announced he would not seek re-election. Patman, 82, who came to Congress in 1929, has served longer than any other person now in Congress. —Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, announced he will not seek re-election. Fong, 68, was the first Oriental-American to serve in the Senate and has represented Hawaii since the islands won statehood in 1959.

Sara Jane Moore Could Be Sentenced To 'Life'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Jane Moore, the onetime FBI informant with radical connections, could become the second woman within a month to be sentenced to life in prison for trying to kill President Ford.

U.S. District Court Judge

Samuel Conti could impose today any sentence up to life imprisonment on the 45-year-old divorced mother under a special federal law covering attempted presidential assassination.

She was arrested Sept. 22, moments after she fired a pistol at Ford as he stepped from a downtown hotel here. The shot was deflected and the President escaped injury.

Miss Moore first pleaded innocent. But in a surprise move, she switched her plea to guilty on Dec. 16, declaring she had "willfully and knowingly" tried to kill Ford.

Reading from a written statement, she cited alleged U.S. involvement in assassination plots against foreign leaders and said, "When any government uses assassination ... to put down dissent ... it must expect that tool to be turned back against it."

Conti accepted the plea change but expressed concern about her refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped plan the attempt.

Although prosecutors said they had no evidence of conspiracy, Conti said he was "not completely satisfied" with Miss Moore's statements and urged her to give probation officers information on the possible involvement of others. He said such a disclosure "could assist in possible mitigation of sentence."

Miss Moore is the second person convicted under the special federal law passed by Congress in the aftermath of President John F. Kennedy's assassination in 1963. The first person, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a member of the Charles Manson cult, was sentenced to life imprisonment on Dec. 17. A jury convicted her of trying to kill Ford when she pointed a gun at him Sept. 5 in Sacramento, Calif.

Elsewhere, there were these political developments Wednesday:

—Republican candidate Ronald Reagan campaigned in Jacksonville, Fla., where he again brushed off criticism of his plan to decentralize government.

The former California governor blamed federal bureaucrats for criticism of his plan to transfer many social and welfare programs from the federal to state and

No More Contracts For Letcher County

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — Letcher County Judge Estill Blair says he will refuse to commit the county to any further contracts until its budget is back in line.

"We've spent more money than we should have in the past, but we've corrected that and everything will be all right shortly," Blair said in commenting on a state audit of the county's books.

Blair said Letcher County is about four months ahead in its spending for the current fiscal year.

Mary Louise Foust, before leaving office as state auditor, recommended that Letcher County be cut off from federal revenue sharing funds until the county's bookkeeping is put in order.

Among violations cited by the audit were the spending of $181,578 in revenue sharing funds without competitive bids as required by federal law and failure to keep accurate expense account records and an up-to-date county budget by county officials.

Printed Form Folly

In any real estate transaction you'll normally find printed forms - used in the area of sales contracts, deeds, mortgages, and leases. Ever wonder why any layman can't use printed forms himself and save the fees of an attorney, Realtor, or lending institution? A typical legal stationery store will have dozens of varieties of leases, deeds, and mortgage forms, but which is the right one for your situation? These printed forms are only a starting point. It's what goes into the blanks, what is crossed out, and what is added that gives you the value, security, and protection that you are paying the experts for. Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal hassles have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used. About the only safe one an amateur can depend on is a marriage license.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PURDUM & THURMAN REAL ESTATE, 407 Maple St., Murray. Phone: 753-4451. We're here to help!

Funerals

Tom Browder Dies Wednesday With Funeral Friday

Charles Thomas (Tom) Browder of Panorama Shores, Murray Route Five, died Wednesday at 6:20 p.m. at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital where he had been a patient since December 11.

The deceased was 71 years of age and moved to Panorama Shores after his retirement from his business, Browder Chevrolet Company, Union City, Tenn., in 1971. He had been owner of the business since 1954 when he purchased the Andrews Chevrolet Company and changed it to the Browder Chevrolet Company. Prior to going to Union City, he operated garage and service station in Fulton.

Mr. Browder was educated in the Fulton County Schools, was a veteran of World War II, and was a member of the Palestine United Methodist Church in Fulton County. Born July 27, 1904, in Fulton County, he was the son of the late Boyd Browder and Annie Beadles Browder.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Snow Sumner Browder, Panorama Shores, Murray; one son, Charles A. Browder, Fulton; one brother, Harold Browder, Dyer, Tenn.; two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at two p.m. at the chapel of the White-Ransom Funeral Home, Union City, Tenn., with Rev. William Evans of Union City, Tenn., officiating. Burial will be in the East View Cemetery at Union City.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Harmony Buffs To Practice

The last Thursday night in each month from January through April plus May 20 has been set aside for song practice by the Society for the Preservation of Southern Harmony according to President Ray Mofield.

Dr. Mofield said the group would meet each time in the Marshall County Library at Benton if this is available. The sessions will probably run from about 7:00 to 8:30 p.m., he added.

The dates planned are January 29, February 26, March 25, April 29 and May 20. Big Singing day this year falls on May 23.

The annual membership meeting to elect a new president and other officers will be held in June. Mofield said there will probably be other song practice sessions in private homes.

Boating Skills Course Opens Here Tuesday

The Murray-Kenlake Flotilla of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary has announced that it will again offer the 12-week Boating Skills and Seamanship course in cooperation with the Physical Education Department of Murray State University.

The first class of the spring session takes place next Tuesday evening, January 20, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 102 of the Carr Health Building on the M. S. U. campus.

The course will include such topics as safety practices while fueling, federally required safety equipment aboard boats, some aspects of sailing, "rules of the road" for boaters, knots and their uses, boat handling, anchoring, simple engine repairs, weather, and so forth.

The course is open to the public for a small fee of $5.00 which covers the cost of the textbook, workbook, and materials. Members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary who are authorized by the Coast Guard as qualified instructors, as well as several guest lecturers, will be the teaching staff.

Registration for the course will take place at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, January 20, with the first class beginning at 7:00. The class will meet weekly for 12 weeks and each class will last approximately two hours.

Inquiries may be made to Neale B. Mason, Public Education Officer of the Murray-Kenlake Flotilla, 753-2234.

Temple Hill Church Plans Gospel Singing

A gospel singing will be held at the Temple Hill United Methodist Church on Sunday, January 18, at two p.m.

Featured will be the Happy Life Quartet and The Kings Sons. All singers and listeners are invited to attend, a church spokesman said.

which he says torture many animals needlessly.

Easterly told the Kentucky Senate Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources Wednesday that use of such traps is "wrong, shouldn't be done and it's inhumane."

Easterly has filed a bill to outlaw use of the traps but the committee delayed action until opponents of the measure, including officials of the Department of Fish and Wildlife, have a chance to argue their viewpoint.

Arnold Mitchell, commissioner of that department, has contended that the bill would, in effect, end the profession of trapping and selling animal pelts.

Mitchell contends the use of the steel traps is the only practical method of catching the animals, because shooting them ruins the pelts.

But Easterly told the committee the trapping industry in Kentucky isn't significant anyway — that trappers earn an average of only $300 a year by selling animal furs.

Mitchell has said in the past that many Kentuckians still made their living by trapping, but Easterly countered that $300 isn't much of a living.

But one member of the committee seemed to agree with Mitchell.

"To some of those boys down in the hollers," he said, "$300 is a lot of money."

"The argument will be made that we have to keep the animal population in check," Easterly said. "To trap any kind of animal we can and to say we are keeping down the population is just a little unrealistic."

It is "outrageous," Easterly said, that the traps are still being used. He said he had received "a lot of mail from constituents" agreeing with him.

The traps are used mainly to catch mink, fox, muskrat and beaver, Easterly said many times the animal dies several days after they are trapped.

A bill similar to Easterly's died in committee during the last legislative session.

The committee also discussed but postponed action on another Easterly bill — this one to repeal a state law which he said fixes the price of cigarettes.

Easterly said that bill was "pushed through by lobbyists" in the 1956 General Assembly.

"This would not in any way affect the tobacco industry in Kentucky," Easterly said of his bill. "In fact it would probably help it. Lower prices would result in increased tobacco sales."

Present law prohibits the sale of cigarettes below levels defined by the 1956 law.

"I think it's a bad law that never should have been enacted," Easterly said.

Several opponents of the bill said they wanted to come back next week to present their side of the argument.

Mrs. Stovall Is Honored By SCLC

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Southern Christian Leadership Conference announced Wednesday the winner of its first annual Martin Luther King, Jr. "Woman of the Year Award" is Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall.

The award will be presented at the Galt House hotel here tonight during ceremonies to commemorate the birthday of the slain civil rights leader.

Mrs. Stovall was chosen to receive the award, SCLC officials said, because of her efforts for women's rights and particularly for her support of the Equal Rights Amendment.
