THE LISTENING POST

● A long time ago when I believed I was going to become a writer I had a belief that if I had a place where I could be secluded I could write better and do it easier. At the beginning—and this was many, many years ago, when I was about seventeen or eighteen, I did all my alleged writing at home. In the summer I had a very good place. I put my typewriter on a more or less secluded porch which was well screened from public gaze and where noises did not come a great deal. In winter months this home was not so good, for I had to work in the living room, where all the family congregated about the fire. Understand, I am not writing of the modern era since I have had my own home and my own family.

● In those years I never had a very good place to do my writing in, and in order to mask certain failures I used to tell myself that all I needed was a good study, as I phrased it. In later years, after coming to this town and having an office, I fell into the habit of writing a great deal at the office. Not many people would ever learn the trick of writing in a newspaper office, but believe it or not, I have written several short stories which were sold to reputable magazines during an ordinary working day at the office. I have started them, worked on them from day to day, subject to all sort of interruptions from business visitors and telephone calls, and truth compels me now to say that I can really write better and easier in the office, subject to all these interruptions than at any other place or time. Every day I write quite a number of words, on one subject or another, and there are few times when I write as much as one page without some interruption. Once I thought I could never do this, but I have finally realized that I can do this work better in this way than in a first class secluded place.

● For now I have the best place at home for this work that could be arranged. I have a good typewriter—much better than the ones at the office—a good desk and a good light. All these are located in a room which is upstairs, completely cut off from the world and subject to no interruptions whatever. It is comfortable, warm in the coldest weather and cool enough in summer. I can barely hear sounds from below, and no traffic noises whatever penetrate my room. But I cannot write in it as well or as easily as I do at the office.

● I almost always write the Monday column in this room. I never have time on Saturday to get it done, and so I let it go until Sunday. I always think I will do it Sunday morning, but for some reason or another it is always postponed until Sunday night. I kid myself along by saying that I will wait until I am through with everything else, and then will go to my study and knock out a really first-rate column. So I come back from church, drink a glass of orange juice, smoke a cigarette, and then drive myself to this upper room. By driving I mean driving literally, for I can hardly make myself start the job. I can think of one hundred and nine excuses for waiting until the next morning, but I know if I do that I will never have time the next morning, for Monday morning is always a busy one in the office.

● Finally I get myself up the stairs. I turn on the light over the typewriter and it seems to leer at me in a highly disagreeable manner. Perhaps I had some vague sort of idea for a column, perhaps not. At any rate, my ideas will not get together. I sit and look at the walls. I see school emblems, baseball pictures, a portrait of a Confederate Major, a scene from "Othello," a pile of tennis rackets. I once used, little possessions dear

SAY 30 PER CENT WAR PRODUCTION INCREASE PLANNED

Will Boost Expenditures To Five Billion Per Month

Washington, — Administration leaders disclosed today that a 30 per cent increase in war production had been charted for the next four months in a progressive speed-up that is expected to boost military expenditures to nearly $5,000,000,000 monthly by the end of the year.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), floor manager for a $32,762,900 military money bill pending before the Senate, said the appropriations committee had been informed that a total of $13,684,000,000 would be spent for war purposes in the five-month period from January 31 to June 30. This would compare, he said, with $16,000,000,000 spent from July 1, 1940, up to February 1, 1942.

The Treasury reported that national defense expenditures for January were approximately $2,100,000,000 and this amount would have to be raised to an average of $2,757,000,000 for February and the next four months, or an increase of 30 per cent, in order to attain the new goal.

Committee members said they expected much more rapid acceleration of expenditure in the latter part of the year, in keeping with President Roosevelt's $56,000,000,000 war budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

(Price Administrator Leon Henderson, speaking in New York last night said that 1942 war production would cost the nation more than $50,000,000,000 and soar to at least $75,000,000,000 in 1943. Because of the vast outlay necessary, Henderson predicted the "level of living" in the United States would sink quickly below the lowest point of the last depression.)

SAM HARPER DIES IN CLINTON SATURDAY

Sam Harper, prominent stock buyer and leading citizen of Clinton died suddenly early Saturday afternoon from a heart attack. His death came unexpectedly as he was working at his stock yards.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist church in Clinton.

Mr. Harper had many, many friends throughout this section and his son, Sam Jr., is well known among Fulton people.

Bandoeng, Java — Striking swiftly through plantations and estates of a broad coastal plain, Japan's invading forces have driven forty miles to capture the city of Soebang, which lies about the same distance north and slightly east of this headquarters of the Dutch imperial army, the defenders acknowledged today.

Soebang fell to the troops which landed at Indramaju, the middle of three main points at which the invaders poured out troops during the week-end from fifty transports and twenty warships under heavy Allied aerial, naval and land fire.

9 Jap Warships Hit

The landing was made at a cost to the Japs of seventeen transports sunk or damaged and nine warships sunk or damaged. The Allies announced their own losses as two Dutch cruisers sunk, an Allied cruiser damaged and two Dutch destroyers sunk. A communique said American and Netherlands submarines now are attacking the enemy but have not reported the results.

In taking Soebang the Japs presumably cut the main northern coastal railway linking Batavia and other principal cities of the east.

The Japanese also made penetrations, apparently of less distance, from the other two landing points.

Americans Not Mentioned

The defenders' main striking force launched their main striking force in a counter-offensive late last night after pounding the Japanese defensively all day Sunday.

Communications spoke only of the United Royal Netherlands East Indies Army in referring to the stubborn resistance being put up against the invaders, and it was assumed here that the strong United States, Australian and British forces concentrated on Java in recent weeks were being held in reserve.

Paced by furiously pedaling cyclist and light armored cars, the Japanese drove three spearheads strongly into this volcano-studded island, prize of the Indies and key-stone of United Nations strategy in the southwest Pacific, from three landing places on the north and west coasts.

Schools Are Urged To Confine Activities To Help Win Conflict

Frankfort, Ky. — Declaring that "education as usual is not possible or desirable in this moment of darkness," the state education department urged school heads today to concentrate their activities on courses that will help win the war.

In a letter to all public school superintendents and to the heads of the state institutions of higher learning, John W. Brooker, state superintendent of public instruction, declared that it was a "time for quick action" in putting the "appropriate and important war duties of the school" ahead of all else.

He asked that every one of the more than 18,000 public school teachers and the 20,000 high school seniors be enlisted in the effort. Brooker declared that, based on the advice of the state educational policies commission, the following program was considered as the state's "educational priorities."

Training workers for war industries.

Aiding in production of war goods and services.

Economy in use of materials and salvage of all possible waste.

Raising of funds to finance the war.

Increasing manpower by correcting educational defects.

Promoting health and efficiency.

Protecting school children and property against possible hazards.

Protecting the ideals of democracy "against all hazards."

Teaching the "issues, aims and progress of the war."

Sustaining morale.

Maintaining loyalty.

Russo-Jap Neutrality Seems Headed For Important Turn

The possibility of some important turn in the strange neutrality arrangement between Russia and Japan arose last night.

First of all, the Japanese began to talk of breaking through the Indian Ocean to "destroy the whole Anglo-Soviet plan of material cooperation" that is, presumably, to cut off Russia's supply lines between Britain, the United States and the Persian Gulf.

The comment quoted was by the Japan Times and Advertiser, which is controlled by the Tokyo foreign office, and aside from the curious bellicosity of its tone toward a nation with which Japan was on a neutral footing it was interesting because of the fact that it came on a day that brought a disclosure of the first Japanese attack upon the territory of India.

And from Kuibyshev, the alternate Russian capital, delayed dispatches reporting that the long-pending negotiations for renewal of fishing treaties with the Japanese had not successfully concluded.

Kuibyshev dispatches also contained curious references to the fact that Japanese newspapermen were remaining there without saying anything as to why that should be unusual.

Whether all these developments involved more feelers remained to be seen. At all events, Russian-Japanese relations were clearly looming more importantly in the world picture.

The men were listed by Dr. Reichard as Marvin E. Neches of Missouri, Walter L. Sanders of Oklahoma and William H. Crosby of Arizona.

LATEST PUZZLE: WHAT IS A NICKEL IF IT HASN'T ANY?

Washington — What the nation needs now is not so much a good 5-cent cigar as a good name for what has been commonly called the nickel.

The second war powers bill passed by the House provides for elimination of nickel from future 5-cent pieces so that metal can be used for necessary war tools. Instead they will be coined of mixed copper, silver and any other alloy the director of the mint decides upon.

Suggested names heard around the capitol included "sico," "coi," and the familiar old "jit."

CRIPPS SAYS INTEREST OF YOUTH AIDS RUSSIA

London — Sir Stafford Cripps told the Anglo-Soviet Youth Friendship Alliance today that Russia has a "seven-day-a-week religion based on idealism and not a one-day-a-week one."

The world has to reckon with Soviet youth "whose direct and vital interest in their country" is behind Soviet enthusiasm and successes, said the new lord privy seal, former ambassador to Moscow.

"They feel they are on the right road to a better future."

SWAPPING WORK AND MACHINERY TO HELP IN FARM SITUATION

Swapping work using more machinery and changing practices so as to reduce work will help farmers produce more food this season, despite labor shortage, says a report of the Agricultural Experiment Station labeled "Farm Labor Under War Conditions."

Ways for farmers to cooperate and "team up" are discussed. Farmers are urged to use tractors, row cultivators, combines and other implements. Changes in practices suggested include planting corn the desired thickness, instead of thinning; the elimination of hoeing by better preparation of the soil before planting, and reducing the work of cultivating by using one or two-row cultivators, instead of the double-shovel.

Other suggestions include the use of such groups as WPA laborers, highway employees, townsmen, women and children. "Most of the real help a farmer will get to relieve labor problems will come through the help he provides for himself," is one of the conclusions.

Confidence that farmers will meet all demands for more food is expressed. "The mammoth task of increasing production to meet war needs has been heaped upon the shoulders of farmers. Because of the realization of the importance of the job to be done the ingenuity of the American farmers will devise schemes and means to accomplish the job expected of them," says the report.

YEAR'S INCOME FOR FARMERS TOTALED ALMOST 12 BILLION

Largest Amount Registered Since 1929

Washington — Increasing its preliminary estimates for tobacco, corn, poultry and a few other minor crops, the agriculture department reported today that farmers' cash income in 1941 totaled $11,771,000,000, or the largest since 1920.

Comprising receipts from sales, loans on commodities and government benefit payments, the income was 29 per cent higher than in 1940 and 9 per cent greater than the average for the 1924-29 period. A preliminary estimate of the 1941 income, made in December, was $11,600,000,000. The 1940 income was $9,996,981,000.

The department said the increase over 1940 reflected improved farm prices and larger marketings. The income from crops was $4,704,323,000 compared to $3,509,525,000 in 1940. The income from livestock and livestock products increased from $4,821,957,000 to $6,391,107,000.

Government benefit payments were smaller than in 1940. They totaled $585,672,000 compared with $765,700,000 in the previous year and with a top of $807,065,000 in 1939.

The final report gave income from tobacco at $324,872,000 compared with $275,000,000 in the preliminary estimate. The 1940 income from tobacco was $241,404,000.

Farm income in Kentucky in 1941 was $207,051,000 compared with $160,376,000 in 1940.

NAZIS' BIG GUNS SHAKE SECTION OF KENT COAST

An English Southeast Coast Town, March 1.—German big guns across the Strait of Dover began blasting at the English coast late today, the explosions shaking a large section of the Kentish coast.

The Germans opened fire with a salvo of four shells and then resumed the bombardment with considerably ferocity after a brief interval.

During the second bombardment, coastal listeners said, the roar of lighter gunfire, apparently from the Calais area, was clearly audible on this side.

A heavy mist hindered observation.

Governor Signs Bill Concerning Old Age Pensions In Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky. — An act which State Welfare Commissioner W. A. Frost said would go far to prevent political workers from giving old people "the jitters" was signed into law by Gov. Keen Johnson today.

It makes confidential the names and addresses and other data regarding recipients of old age assistance or applicants for it and gives the same protection to similar data as to dependent children or needy blind.

Frost said the purpose was to prevent attempts at coercing the needy during political campaigns. The penalty on conviction of violating the new law is a fine of $50 to $500 or a maximum of six months imprisonment or both.

Other bills signed by the chief executive included those providing that owners of land in drainage districts may withdraw all or part of it from drainage agreement, enabling county judges with approval of their Fiscal Courts to appoint trial commissioners to carry out judicial duties, providing $50 to $500 fines on conviction of unlawfully using water, gas or electricity by diverting its flow around measuring devices and enabling counties and other taxing districts to invest in United States Defense Bonds.

The Governor allowed two other measures to become law without signing them. One authorizes cities and counties to form joint purchasing units as an economy measure, and the other provides that deadly weapons of a person convicted of a felony may be confiscated by the trial court and the proceeds of their sale go to the county school fund.

LITVINOV CALLS FOR THE IN- VASION OF ENROPE

Never a person to beat about the bush in polite euphemisms or diplomatic evasions, Maxim Litvinov goes straight to the point in appealing to the United States and Great Britain for a two-front war in Europe to aid the embattled Red Army in the coming spring offensive. According to the Russian Ambassador, Hitler can be beaten this summer but only if his forces are divided and only if Russia is adequately supplied with war materials.

"Next spring on the eastern theater of military operations, which must certainly be considered the most important," declares the outspoken envoy, "the struggle with Hitler will reach its peak, and we should like to have the utmost aid by then. We should like all the forces of the Allies to be put into action by then, and that, by then, there should be no idle armies, immobile navies, immobile air fleets.
This applies also to military materials, which should be sent to the places where they are most needed."
The reference to immobile air fleets and immobile armies is, no doubt, to the Royal Air Force and the British Army in the British Isles, but while he was speaking Vincent Halifax was explaining why the 3,500,000 men in arms in England were not engaged in actual conflict. Two million of those soldiers are home guards doing full time work in munitions factories.
The rest are guarding the islands against possible invasion. But the Litvinov appeal cannot be brushed aside by an admission of difficulties.

Russia has borne the full brunt of Hitler's war machine. Its territory, its men have been slaughtered by the millions. Hitler's miscalculation and the Red Army's gallant stand have prevented a sweeping Nazi victory through the Near East, through Africa and perhaps to the gates of India and the approaches to the Panama Canal.
The present strength of the United Nations, inadequate as that may be, is due in large part to Russia's gallant resistance and the bogging down of the Nazi war machine.

An invasion of the Continent whether by way of Norway, whether through France or whether through Italy or the Balkans is a big order. Such an undertaking would require not only a thoroughly equipped fighting force but a navy to convoy it and supply it and an air fleet to protect it. With the present demand for ships and more ships and planes and more planes it would tax the Allies to the utmost. But modern wars are won only by swift and daring offensive actions. Defensive warfare is relegated to the past. The greatest danger lies in waiting for the enemy to attack. And delay may result in the collapse of Russian resistance or the end of Russian participation in the struggle should the Germans be driven from Soviet soil.

At Litvinov reminds us, this may be an opportunity for an early victory. But the democracies move slowly and cautiously while the totalitarian nations take desperate chances.—Courier-Journal.

DIES COMMITTEE SAYS JAPAN PLANNED ATTACK FOR YEARS

Cites Details Of Well-Laid Plans By Group

Washington.—The Dies committee charged tonight that the Japanese carried on intensive espionage and propaganda activities in this country for years before Pearl Harbor.

The committee on un-American activities placed great stress on a book by a Japanese officer who advocated a direct attack on the west coast, a temporary halt and consolidation of forces in the Rocky mountains and finally an advance toward the eastern seaboard.

Tanaka Memorial

The report emphasized, too, the so-called Tanaka Memorial of 1927 which said that "we must first crush the United States" before China could be subdued. This document is an alleged plan for world conquest submitted by Premier Tanaka to Emperor Hirohito.

The committee said it began its investigation of Japanese activities

"more than a year ago" and early in 1941 "came into possession of a so-called strategic map which gave clear proof of the intentions of the Japanese to make an assault on Pearl Harbor."

It was proposed the committee continued, to hold hearings last fall and exposed Japanese espionage.

Matthew P. McGuire, as acting attorney general, said on Sept. 8 that the matter had been discussed with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull "both of whom feel quite strongly that hearings such as you contemplate would be inadvisable."

Rail oddities

CARS EQUIPPED WITH SALES FOR MOTIVE POWER WERE EXPERIMENTED WITH BY SOME OF THE EARLY AMERICAN RAILROADS.

It is with some surprise to learn that the East and West coast companies placed plans in effect which have materially changed the lines already stationed in these areas. The railroads could stand in the movement of trains and making them an emergency necessity in addition to the ground troops moved with which.

SPORT TALK

Tomorrow night Coach Herschel Giles will throw his Fulton High Bulldogs into the First District tournament for the second and last time. A year ago the big mountain coach led his boys into his first tournament, and the luck of the draw that year was so good that the team was almost guaranteed to go as far as the semi-finals. The team did that without trouble and came within a flicker of being the runnerup. That tournament was played on the Clinton floor, and the Clinton team was a foregone conclusion that year to win and almost a certainty to win the Regional. The Reds did just that without being extended, and the Bulldogs fell in the semi-finals to an inspired Bardwell team, which in turn fell the next night before Clinton.

This will be the final tournament for Coach Giles. In a few weeks he will enter the Navy to do his bit in training thousands of Uncle Sam's lads who go down to the sea in ships. Some weeks ago he was accepted as one of 189 applicants for the place, only twenty being named. Thus this tournament marks the end of his active coaching at Fulton High, although he will remain here until the latter part of April. Naturally he'd like for his boys to win this final tournament and earn the right to play in the Regional at Murray later on.

Like the tournament a year ago the Bulldogs again face the Milburn team in the opening game. A year ago the Bulldogs had lost an upset game to the Milburn team only a week or so before the tournament, and they were determined to avenge that unexpected loss. They started with such a bang that Milburn never got into the ball game, and followed that up with an overwhelming victory over Arlington. That proved to be two easy games, but this year early prospects are not so good. To begin with Milburn is said to be all ready to blast the Bulldogs out of the picture in the game tomorrow night. If the Bulldogs throttle Milburn there is nothing but trouble with a capital T awaiting them for the second game for the luck of the draw makes them face either Hickman or Clinton in the second game. It can be seen that two of the favorite teams will be out of the matches in the quarter finals. The opening night's games start with Fulham and Cunningham, followed by the feature game of the tournament between Hickman and Clinton. In the last game of the night's program the Bulldogs take on Milburn. If Milburn is defeated, the Bulldogs then have a rest night and on Thursday night face either Hickman or Clinton.

Some fans are inclined to sell Hickman short after the crushing defeat the Bulldogs gave them Friday night. Don't go too far out on that limb, and don't let a large bankroll on the fact that they are well known fact and are well known servers that they are expected to do better than they did last year. The Bulldogs may do just that, but a score to settle with them for the Reds handed them a pasting a week or so ago, and they want to get revenge. That desire, as well as the strong desire to remain in the tournament. Of course, the biggest reason they want to stay in is the hope that they will get another crack at the Bulldogs. The three defeats suffered at the hands of the Fulton team proved a bitter pill, and the Bulldogs believe that they could change the situation if given another chance. And they might, for the traditional that many a team like place in tournament matches.

However Coach Giles and his Bulldogs are not thinking much about Clinton and Hickman today. They practiced with only one team in mind. That is Milburn. They know that they must clear that hurdle to stay in the tournament and so they are not looking past Milburn at all. Their best efforts were centered today on getting ready for Milburn, for they know that overconfidence cost them a game in Milburn last February. So far as is known today the team is in good physical condition and Coach Giles will be able to start his regular five in the opening game of the tournament tomorrow night.
