THE LISTENING POST

One of the most interesting things about words in the English language is that certain words appear to so aptly describe certain people. When we know a certain man or woman there will come a word or more than one word which seem especially fitted to accurately describe that man or woman. I mused upon two words yesterday when the news came to me that P. T. Jones had passed from the earthly scene. Those two words, it seems to me, accurately summed up P. T. Jones in all his human relations, and I never knew a man who could be so accurately described. I have always thought these two words the most beautiful and the most meaningful in all the words of our language.

First is the word "kindly," and the second is "tolerant." What a wealth of meaning lies in those two words! I do not believe a man can be kindly without being tolerant, nor do I think a man would ever be tolerant without also being kindly. And as I remember Mr. Jones, and the many casual relationships I had with him, those two words come to mind above all else.

I have known this kindly man for many years. I first knew him when he came to Fulton more than twenty years ago, but I began to know more of his character and his mannerisms only a few years ago. Late in life Mr. Jones became interested in golf, and here I really began to know him. I never played with him a great deal, but many times, in the late afternoon, after he had played his game, I sat in the shade and talked with him. More than a few times I did play with him, and in these meetings I think I really grew to know him rather intimately. In all sincerity I say that he impressed me with his kindness and tolerance more than any man I have ever known.

I used to wonder why he became interested in golf so late in life. He was, I believe, 65 years of age before he ever played a game or even had a club in his hands. After he had been introduced to the game he became deeply interested and became a really good player, everything considered. Naturally he was not of championship ability, for he played the game only for pleasure and never made any particular study of it. But was unusually good, considering these angles, and I never knew a man who took any more interest in the sport. He played winter and summer, day in and day out, and while he preferred company he was always willing to play alone if no friends happened to be on hand.

I finally decided that his love of the game probably existed because of his love for the land. He was a man of the soil, and while he had spent two decades in business his first love was still the land. He retained his interest in his farm connections all through these years, and I believe that the game of golf, along with its pleasure, also gave him the close contact with the earth which he always loved.

In the long, lazy days of summer I have talked with him many times of many things and of many people. Mr. Jones had a native sense of humor and he saw through pretense and sham unerringly. But he saw through these things in human nature with a kindly and tolerant spirit and while he might laugh a little at times, he invariably finished by saying kindly of those persons. I never saw him grow excited over a round of golf, although he did like to win, and I never knew or heard of him taking an unfair advantage in any match. And I never heard him say any unkind thing about any man at any time. Rather he leaped pretty far the other way, and many times he went out of his way to say something kindly of some person. His outlook on life was tolerant and kindly at all

Axis Subs Now Driven To Rasher Tactics

Washington. --The Navy's effectiveness in maintaining ocean supply lines despite enemy counteraction was credited today with driving the Axis powers to rasher tactics in their submarine campaign to divert U. S. fleet units to home waters.

Naval experts said the enemy seemed to be growing more reckless in attempts to create a panicky fear of coastal raiding activities here and in Latin America. They cited as an example the shelling of Mona Island, off Puerto Rico, where there was no conceivable military reason for the enemy to waste a shell or risk a ship.

Both the Germans and Japanese must be fully aware, it was said, that the steadily increasing battlefronts in Europe, Africa and Asia will have to be broken up this spring and summer if the Axis nations are to escape defeat.

Hope to Raise Demand One means of accomplishing this would be to force such a popular demand for unlimited coastal protection in the Americas that the Navy would be compelled to give up some of its offensive patrol and convoy duties for purely defensive activities in this hemisphere.

BOYS RANCH GIVEN STOCK

Magenta, Texas. --Boys Ranch has become a cow ranch now.

The once underprivileged youngsters living at Old Tascosa, forty miles northwest of Amarillo, had a "Boys Ranch" for two years before it became a real cow ranch.

It came about, said Supt. Alton O. Weeks, as a result of a recent radio broadcast from Amarillo by a group of Boys Ranch residents. Five Panhandle cattlemen happened to hear the broadcast, and one asked: "How can those boys have a ranch without cattle?" He added that he would give the ranch a cow.

The other four cattlemen nodded agreement, and each sent a registered Hereford to the ranch. This story was printed by a newspaper and other donations followed, the ranch has thirty-three fine beef cattle.

Boys Ranch was established two and a half years ago by patrons of the Maverick Boys' Club of Amarillo. It was designed to give opportunities to underprivileged youngsters. Old Tascosa once was a rody frontier cowtown where Billy the Kid visited and gunfire frequently resounded from the dusty streets.

Bills Affecting Cities Are Adopted By State Legislature

Frankfort, Ky. --The Kentucky General Assembly devoted more attention this year than in many a decade to demands from cities, passing approximately 30 bills affecting all of them from the smallest to largest.

Ten of the measures affected only Louisville and were backed by Mayor Wilson Wyatt and his administrative forces. The others were spread over the other municipalities from the second class cities ranking next to Louisville down to the sixth class ones, smallest in population.

Among measures passed affecting cities of the second class were those authorizing them to install

Java's principal military and civilian centers were about gone last night under the enemy's enormous and still rising pressure, but in that last crumbling Allied rampart of the South Pacific the stubborn Dutch apparently were already maneuvering to create another Batjan upon their broken island.

There was no blinking the fact that the hour of another punishing Allied defeat was at hand, for the fall of the capital city of Batavia, of the military headquarters of Bandoeng and of the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja appeared both imminent and inevitable.

Japs Near Batavia

Invading troops were within 10 miles of Batavia, 25 miles of Bandoeng and had cut Soerabaja's railway communication westward in a drive that was cutting the island apart.

It appeared that the Batjan of Dutch hopes and plans was to be on the plateau of Bandoeng, and hence as is the harsh stretch held by the Americans and Filipinos on Luzon but yet one where prolonged resistance might be conducted.

Speaking to the people's council of the Dutch Indies while the Allied line was being beaten back in all major sectors, by an enemy whose initial superiority apparently had been heightened by new landings on Western Java, Lieutenant Governor-General Hubertus Van Mook raised the possibility of a strong Allied counter-stroke soon against the Japanese.

Asked To Hold

Above all, he asked the defenders to hold on somehow, anyhow.

It was reliably though unofficially reported at Bandoeng that the defense forces had not yet reached the points they intend to make their stand. Much of the fighting was said to be a delaying action with invader and defender now wallowing in the mud of torrential rains, brought by the seasonal monsoon.

Meanwhile, the enemy had opened aerial attacks upon Tjilatjap, the single port on Java's south shore that could be used to disembark Allied reinforcements.

By Miss Docie Jones

Hickman. County's first musical and speech festival held here Thursday, February 26, was quite a success and will most likely continue as an annual affair. Our County Superintendent, Faculty of members, students and spectators were all highly pleased with the program in general. Ten honors were given in general. Capturing 69 points to Fulgham, 66 Columbus was third with 59 points.

The night program with three short plays, all good, was a fitting climax for the occasion. Clinton won first place in the play and Fulgham won first in both debates. Fulgham took the majority of the speech numbers and Clinton the majority in music.

Judges were P. H. Dowe, head of the music department, Murray College and Mr. Ralph Crouch of the English Department. All entrants are eligible for the District Festival at Murray.

HOUSE COMMITTEE REPORTED FAVORABLE

Some Believe Income Levy Increases Too Steep

Washington. --The staggering income tax increases proposed by the Treasury for both individuals and corporations got on unexpectedly favorable reception today from House Ways and Means committee-men, although some thought the boosts might prove too steep.

Those who thought the increases were apt to be too severe expressed the opinion that "a more painless" method--such as a general sales tax--might be decided on to help raise the $7,000,000,000 in new general revenue which President Roosevelt has asked.

It was evident that the committee intended to go ahead with plans to write its own tax bill independently, even though its members for the most part appeared in general accord with the board features of the recommendations submitted yesterday by Secretary Morgenthau.

Morgenthau asked that Congress raise $3,200,000,000 more in individual income taxes--with a doubling of payments in the middle brackets--and another $3,000,000,000 from increased excess profits taxes and a new tax on corporations.

Increased and new excise taxes, revised estate and gift levies and closing of tax loopholes would raise the remainder, with allowance for the revenue that would be lost because of conflicting taxes.

Name Leaders Of Committee For Task Of Redistricting State

Frankfort, Ky. --Heads of all important committees tackling the long-proposed but neglected job of re-apportioning Kentucky's legislative districts in a special session of the general assembly starting tomorrow were made known today by presiding officers of the House and Senate.

In the House of Representatives, Speaker Stanley Dickson named L. Allen Rhoads, young Democratic member from Henderson county, to serve as chairman of the redistricting committee while in the Senate, Lieut. Gov. Rodes K. Myers selected Senator E. C. Dawson, Senate president pro tem and Nelson county Democrat.

The other members of the committees are to be named tomorrow. The House committee will have nine members and the Senate group fifteen, presiding officers

Washington. --Owners of 22-500,000 automobiles now operating in this country received a blunt and gloomy warning today that they cannot hope to get any new or retreaded tires in the next three years or longer barring unforeseen war victories or miracles.

Leon Henderson, director of civilian supply and price administrator, announced the startling details of the critical wartime rubber shortage at a public hearing of the special Senate committee investigating national defense.

After grimly testifying that there would not be a "single pound of new crude rubber" available either for new tires or retreads on some 30,000,000 automobiles or ordinary citizens, Henderson said "that means starkly and simply that the majority of these cars are likely to be laid up when their present tires are worn out and the ingenuity of their owners has been exhausted."

Modifies Statement

Later the chunky defense official modified this bit by saying officials still hoped to keep some 7-500,000 of these cars operating for defense workers, on tires made largely from reclaimed rubber during the next three years. However, this still would leave 22,500,000 cars ordinary citizens without tire replacements.

Henderson said it would be a "near miracle" if synthetic rubber production could reach the hoped-for goals of 300,000 tons next year and 600,000 tons by 1944. He specifically cautioned against expecting any substantial rubber production from Brazil, or guayule plants in this country and hemisphere.

Gasoline Rationing

In fact, the fast-talking defense official said it might even be necessary to ration gasoline in order to conserve rubber in existing tires, or force present owners of tires to turn them over to others in preferred classes.

Secretary of Interior Ickes indicated that a decision would be made soon on the question of setting up a nation-wide system of gasoline rationing. Ickes, who is petroleum coordinator, said a committee of the petroleum industry war council would report, probably this week-end, on the action it deemed necessary in view of the sinkings of tankers and the diversion of such ships to war purposes.

Citizens Will Meet Tonight For Discussion Of County Tax Raise

Recently many property owners of the city of Fulton have been served notices of increased assessments on their property by the county equalization board and many feel that the increases have been far too great. Considering the fact that the school tax has been increased from $1.25 to $1.45 per hundred to care for the new school building, it is felt that assessment increases are uncalled for at this time, and some organized effort is being made to have these increases scaled down. Next Monday is the day set for hearings on these increases, and in preparation for this many property owners are working to form an organization to register an effective protest.

A meeting of tax payers has been set for tonight, beginning at seven o'clock, at the City Hall, and all property owners are urged to be present. A full discussion is planned of this problem, and plans will be made for making emphatic protests before the proper authorities. It is hoped that the meeting can be finished in time to allow all to attend the basketball games later.

Another measure adopted authorized fifth- and sixth class cities to adopt the commission form of government. The sinking fund, parking meter and embezzler acts already have been signed into laws by Gov. Keen Johnson and the others await his signature.

THE JAPANESE CONFLICT EN-TERS SECOND PHASE

The hull in the fighting in Burma, the landing of additional troops on the islands of Mindanao and the sinking of four Jap ships by General MacArthur's tiny air force all indicate that Japan is concentrating its fullest efforts for the earliest possible subjugation of Java. Reinforcements for the drive against Rangoon and India are postponed until the pearl of the Indies has been conquered. The massing of troops at Zamboanga provides strategically located reserves that can quickly be transported to Borneo and thence to the Japanese battlefield. General MacArthur's "handful of planes" were able to operate so successfully against enemy shipping because the Japanese air armada, which has been badly battered on all fronts, has been regrouped for the one major objective, the important Dutch island.

If this is a correct analysis of the situation, the war in the Far East has entered its second phase. At the outset of the conflict the Japs struck in all directions, at the Philippines, at Hongkong, at the oil fields of Borneo, at possible naval air bases in Celebes, and as far as the Bismarck Archipelago and the Solomon Islands. The object was to dominate the sea and air lanes of the southwest Pacific before the United Nations could get moving. This having been accomplished and Singapore having been captured the enemy can now concentrate its forces against its intended victims one by one.

Certainly it is determined to smash the resistance of Java. Already it has landed more troops on the Javanese coast than the combined forces of the Dutch, British, Americans and Australians, with perhaps a two to one advantage. And more are on the way or in embarkation ports while the backbone of the Dutch Navy was broken by the loss of two cruisers and two destroyers in Saturday's battle. The Allied air force which played such an important part in repelling invasion is also greatly outnumbered. The Japanese are using their superiority in manpower, in air power and in equipment of all kinds to crush the defenders before they can establish themselves in the hills and mountain passes, and they are content to hold their lines elsewhere.

This procedure carries with it a warning to both the United Nations in Burma and General MacArthur's forces in the Batan Peninsula. With Java conquered, the full weight of Japan's striking power may be concentrated against one objective and it may be inferred from past struggles that General MacArthur will be by-passed. And it also carries an indirect appeal. Java in its last ditch stand should be given the fullest assistance so that a Japanese victory may be as costly in men and material as possible.—Courier-Journal.

If you lack money our service opens the way for you. We make prompt appraisals and action on loans is taken speedily. There is little red tape involved and if you will bring your problems to us we think we can solve them.

THE JAPANESE CONFLICT EN- TERS SECOND PHASE

The lull in the fighting in Burma, the landing of additional troops on the islands of Mindanao and the sinking of four Japanese ships by General MacArthur's tiny air force all indicate that Japan is concentrating its fullest efforts for the earliest possible subjugation of Java. Reinforcements for the drive against Rangoon and India are postponed until the pearl of the Indies has been conquered. The massing of troops at Zamboanga provides strategically located reserves that can quickly be transported to Borneo and thence to the Japanese battlefield. General MacArthur's "handful of planes" were able to operate so successfully against enemy shipping because the Japanese air armada, which has been badly battered on all fronts, has been regrouped for the one major objective, the important, Dutch island.

If this is a correct analysis of the situation, the war in the Far East has entered its second phase. At the outset of the conflict the Japs struck in all directions, at the Philippines, at Hongkong, at the oil fields of Borneo, at possible naval and air bases in Celebes, in Ambonia, in New Guinea and as far as the Bismarck Archipelago and the Solomon Islands. The object was to dominate the sea and air lanes of the southwest Pacific before the United Nations could get moving. This having been accomplished and Singapore having been captured the enemy can now concentrate its forces against its intended victims one by one.

Certainly it is determined to smash the resistance of Java. Already it has landed more troops on the Javanese coast than the combined forces of the Dutch, British, Americans and Australians, with perhaps a two to one advantage. And more are on the way or en embarkation ports while the backbone of the Dutch Navy was broken by the loss of two cruisers and two destroyers in Saturday's battle. The Allied air force which played such an important part in repelling invasion is also greatly outnumbered. The Japanese are using their superiority in manpower, in air power and in equipment of all kinds to crush the defenders before they can establish themselves in the hills and mountain passes, and they are content to hold their lines elsewhere.

This procedure carries with it a warning to both the United Nations in Burma and General MacArthur's forces in the Batan Peninsula. With Java conquered, the full weight of Japan's striking power may be concentrated against one objective and it may be inferred from past struggles that General MacArthur will be by-passed. And it also carries an indirect appeal. Java in its last ditch stand should be given the fullest assistance so that a Japanese victory may be as costly in men and material as possible.—Courier-Journal.

M-4 TANK

Secret Plant Is 4

Washington, — A plant has come into production of M-4 medium tank. It withheld the name of the plant.

The M-4, which will be the familiar M-3, is cast instead of riveted construction for greater strength and has a lower silhouette, and its major weapons, a 75 mm. gun, mounted in the revolving turret instead of the hull.

Others to Follow Production Director William L. Harrison said the M-4 was "forerunner of thousands of similar design that will be built this year" as part of the 45,000-tank goal set for 1942 by President Roosevelt.

Other plants now making M-3's shortly will convert to M-4's, Harrison said, some of them mak-

A GOOD TIME TO REBUILD OR REMODEL

Building material in many lines is difficult to secure right now. Next spring it will probably be more difficult and higher in price. Paint will be hard to secure next year and the price may be higher. If your home needs repairing and repainting this spring it is a good time to do the work.

If you lack money our service opens the way for you. We make prompt appraisals and action on loans is taken speedily. There is little red tape involved and if you will bring your problems to us we think we can solve them.

Remember that painting and repairing this year will prolong the life of your home.

es; he never seemed to believe at the world was growing worse and that young folks were headed for perdition. No, he was simply a kindly, tolerant man who could see some of the minor faults of people at times, but who never uttered a word or criticism for these faults.

• A year or so ago I saw the twilight began to fall for him. I played with him one day and he told me quite calmly that his heart was failing. There was no complaining, nor fear. He simply told me that his heart was failing as casually as if he had been saying he had a cold. "Guess I won't be playing here much longer," he said quite easily, and his searching eyes seemed to be looking at something very far away which I could not see. "But I'll keep on as long as I can. This is as good a place as any for the final call, if it should come here."

• I saw him from day to day through that year and into the next, but it was plain then that his days were growing shorter. He never referred to the matter any more in talking to me, and I never mentioned it to him.

• It is a source of sorrow to many that he is gone, but I know that the world is a better place by his life here. That is the best thing which can be said of any man—that he makes the world a better place by the life he lives here.

Eclipse of the Rising Sun!

Challenged in two hemispheres, America faces a tremendous test. But the bombers that will blot out the Rising Sun and smash the Swastika are pouring off our production lines.

The biggest industrial job in all history is being done because America has the electric POWER for the job!

The electric industry was ready when the crisis came. The business men who manage the nation's electric companies had built up power reserves in advance. They were ready, too, to meet new demands with new construction. They added enough power in 1941 to light one-fourth of all the nation's houses.

We're glad that the electric industry has been able to help make Uncle Sam so powerful. We'll stick to the job until the blood-red sun has set and a new day follows darkness!

More than one million kilowatt-hours every day are supplied through our own electrical generating and transmission system for making chemicals and other materials to build the planes to whip the Japs and Nazis!
