THE LISTENING POST

● The one man who really knows something about the subject has spoken and his words should bring a lot of cheer to this Nation as the tides of war continue to flow around the globe. Quentin Reynolds is the man, and during the past two years he has seen war in person on all the continents save Asia. Probably he will be in Australia before many weeks, for he has ever sought the forefront of battle. He was in London when the great blitzes came. He saw Coventry. He saw the Great Fire of London. He saw Moscow abandoned by the Russian government and he dodged Axis shells and tanks in the Libyan desert. Yes, he ought to know.

● A few weeks ago he came home, and even his voyage home was an epic of danger and discomfort. For days his ship was trailed by submarines and it was a near-miracle that he ever landed safely in Canada. Then he came back to the United States and for some time has been wounded up and down the Nation peering into the war preparations now being made in the United States. Speaking to a friend he dropped into the vernacular of the sport writer. That used to be his job and he knows sports and championships and the vigorous language of sports.

● "This war is the championship, kid," he said to his friend. "It is the full mile and a quarter, the full fifteen rounds to a knockout. And Uncle Sam is the only champion who can travel the distance, no matter what the weight. Uncle Sam can and will, and is going to. Sure, there is a lot of bungling. There is too much red tape. There are too many mistakes being made. But remember that we started this job only after December seventh, while Japan and Germany have been working at it for many years. It is nothing less than a major miracle that so much has been done, and we are only beginning to roll now. From now on Uncle Sam is going to show more championship form than any Nation ever showed in all history."

● "Do we win?" timidly inquired the friend, getting to the real core of the matter, and Reynolds smiled the big smile that his 225 pounds and rude, ungainly face can put out when he tries.

● "You can sleep on that, kid," he said. "Champions don't lose and Uncle Sam is a champion. Yes, kid, you can sleep on it."

● Somehow such words as these do me more good than all the chin-ups I get from the professional morale builders. I have been reading Reynolds' stuff ever since the war started. He rushed to London when the war really got to rolling and was there during the worst of the air attacks. He saw Britain rally herself after Dunkirk and begin the slow job of fighting back. He saw and talked with the airmen who saved England in those touch and go days; he talked with Churchill and Beaverbrook when it seemed that the cause of freedom was lost. He saw Russia beaten back by the Nazi hordes and then he saw Stalin's men call on something superhuman and beat the invader back. He saw and talked with the men in England's desert armies and took the worst that the Nazi tanks could dish out. He knows that the Germans can be beaten. He knows they have been beaten on several fronts and above all, he sees after a long absence from this Nation that we are really beginning to produce. He knows, too, how much has been shipped abroad and what service it has given in the battle against Hitler.

● His line about champions is a real piece of Americanism. "Champions don't lose," he said, and there is a lot to that. The way may be hard and long, but as the bombers continue to roll off the line, as ships continue to hit the

Japanese Begin Land Invasion On Two Fronts As Fifth Column Members Guide Japanese Troops

New Australian Thrust Seems Directed Against Port of Moresby, 300 Miles South Of Australian Mainland—Air Fields Are Menaced By Jap Drive

Invading Force Appears To Be In Large Numbers—Air Fights Continue As Allied Fighters Strike At Enemy

A Japanese overland invasion on New Guinea island guided by pro-Nazi German missionaries was reported in Australia last night, and in the Burma theater far to the northwest the British right and left were falling back preliminary to the decisive struggle for the approaches to the Burma oil fields and Mandalay.

The enemy's movement in New Guinea, as disclosed in unofficial dispatches from New Guinea, was a long, oblique and difficult thrust from the northeastern coast toward Port Moresby, a major southern port which, lying 300 miles from the Australian mainland, would be a requisite to continental invasion.

500 Mile Route
From the region of Lae, where this incursion began, to Port Moresby is some 500 miles by the only feasible route—that is, westward through the Markham valley and then southward—and there was nothing to indicate that the city itself was in immediate peril.

What did seem seriously possible, however, was that the Japanese and their Nazi guides might be able to reach the valley's excellent air fields before being halted. As yet they had not been engaged; the belief in Australia was that they would be brought up short when contact was made.

The missionaries were said to have come from pro-Nazi centers in Fischhafen and Alexishaven—both towns incidentally are in the area of the enemy's initial landings on New Guinea—and to have equipped themselves with a radio transmitter, a small factory for producing arms and swastika armbands. They maintained good armbands.

Smash Transmitter
In recent raids on the missions, the local authorities smashed one radio transmitter. They found hundreds of swastika flags and photographs of Adolf Hitler and learned that some of the native children of New Guinea had been taught the Nazi salute.

So far as could be learned, the invading force was in considerable numbers.

In the air, the day was one of a violent struggle between the American-Australian and Japanese aerial fleets, enemy-held bases on the outlying islands falling under heavy Allied attack and Port Moresby and Darwin, the latter on the Northern Australian mainland, being raided but apparently with no strong effect.

Advertisers In England Ask Public To Reduce All Buying

London.—War has put the purposes of much British advertising into reverse. The newspapers every day print dozens of advertisements asking the public to use the advertiser's products sparingly and buy as little as possible because of shortages. "Sorry—no more until after the war," is the way one manufacturer consistently advises his wares.

Scarce Goods Listed
One newspaper of forty-eight columns printed twenty-two of advertisements for "articles which the public is asked not to buy." Laborite John Joseph Tinker told the House of Commons today in urging further reduction of paper for such purposes.

Clement R. Attlee, dominions secretary, speaking for the government, promised to "look into the matter."

Attlee said a further recent cut in newspaper allotments had brought consumption to about one-fifth that of peacetime and that restrictions on the amount of space devoted to advertisements went into effect two days ago.

VIRGINIA MAGRUDER BEGINS HOME NURSING COURSE YESTERDAY

Red Cross Course To Be Held Each Thursday

Virginia Magruder, Fulton county health nurse, held her first course in Red Cross Home Nursing Thursday afternoon at Terry-Norman school. Twenty students are included in the classes, which will be conducted each Thursday afternoon from two to four for a period of 12 weeks.

Mrs. Hazel Scruggs, executive secretary, called the meeting to order and a short business session was held. Mrs. Ernest Fall, Jr., was elected secretary-treasurer of the class, and it was voted that a fee of 50c be charged each student to help defray expenses. The text books, "Home Hygiene and the Care of the Sick" will be furnished by the local chapter. Mrs. J. E. Fall will serve as sponsor of the class.

The twenty students taking the course are: Mrs. Sarah Meacham, Mrs. Joe Hall, Mrs. Bob Binford, Mrs. Maxwell McDade, Mrs. Ernest Fall, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Hogan, Mrs. Jessie Lee Fleming, Mrs. Robert Burrow, Mrs. C. C. McCollum, Mrs. Clifton Linton, Mrs. Edgar Bell, Mrs. Doran Colley, Mrs. Jack Edwards, Mrs. C. McCrite, Mrs. Lawson Roper, Mrs. Jess Jordan, Mrs. Frank Brady, Mrs. Rupert Stille, Mrs. Sonnie Madding and Doris Parham.

PUT CITY TAGS ON YOUR CAR

by and Darwin, the latter on the Northern Australian mainland, being raided but apparently with no strong effect.

Hoping to keep their products in the public eye until after the war, even though they have little or none now for sale, advertisers devote space to institutional or inspirational messages and suggestions for making things last longer. Durability Advertiser Some claim their products "go three times as far" as competing brands.

Today's advertisements for such items as Vermouth, tooth-brushes, biscuits, bread and soap, include these slogans: "You may often find it difficult to obtain." "There may be occasional local shortages." "No new accounts can be opened for the home market."

"I am rather rare. Only ask for your share." "Waste not, want not." "Four ways to make your toilet soap last longer." The newspapers themselves are asking readers to share their copies with friends, because of recent 10 per cent reductions in circulation.

Date Tabs For Automobile Tags Ore Ordered To Conserve Metal

Washington.—Future automobile license plates will be "small date tabs" not more than four square inches attached to present license plates to bring them up to date, under a War Production Board order issued today.

The board prohibited the States from issuing more than 10 per cent by weight of the usual number of plates and these only for new licenses and to replace plates lost or destroyed.

Noting that it would be advisable to be sparing of metal, W. P.

B. gave notice that there was "no guarantee that the States or other local governments will get sheet steel sufficient to meet the 10 per cent requirement."

The order was announced by Maury Maverick, chief of the W. P. B. Government Requirements Bureau. He said the restrictions did not apply to metals already cut or stamped on March 18. Maverick said he had been assured of co-operation by local and State governments in the license restriction plan.

KROGER EMPHASIZES ENRICHED BREAD IN YOUR DIET

In keeping with nationwide trend toward more emphasis on the importance of basic foods essential to good health, the Kroger company has inaugurated an educational program on the value of enriched bread in the diet.

One of the first food companies to introduce bread fortified with essential vitamins and minerals, Kroger has expanded this operation until all of its stores are now supplied with enriched bread, executives of the firm announced.

Newspaper advertising, store posters and displays will be used to tell the story of bread's importance as a health building food. It was pointed out that there is no possibility of a shortage of wheat for bread because approximately two years' normal supply is in storage without taking into consideration the 1942 crop.

MAN MAKES ARMY POKERS

Birmingham, Ala.—Because national defense officials did not consider wire cloth essential John Wood is getting ready to make 316,000 pokers for the Army.

Wood started his wire products company back in 1937 and was prospering. Then the war came along and he realized that when his present stock of wire had been exhausted—there'd be no more.

The Birmingham man appealed to officials of the division of contract distribution. No, they had no demand for wire cloth, but asked him if he could make pokers.

The ranks and ratings of Navy officers and men killed in action will be withheld, as will the designation of units.

The statement also said "the War Production Board will publish at frequent intervals a production communique which will enable the public to judge whether the production program is progressing satisfactorily or not."

NAVY TO BOOST U-BOAT PATROL ON EAST COAST

Knox Says Air Force Aiding Surface Fleet

New York.—Secretary of the Navy Knox today said a "considerable increase in the submarine patrol fleet along the Eastern Coast will be made within the next sixty days."

Knox made his announcement at a press conference held in the public relations office of the Third Naval District after inspecting naval installations in New York Harbor and the burned-out Liner Normandie. His visit in New York was unscheduled.

"Just as rapidly as possible our surface patrol is being augmented by the air forces," Knox said. He said authority had been given to requisition ships. He said another safety measure was the darkening of cities along the shore to prevent ships from being silhouetted against their glaring light.

Sea Lanes Effective
Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, explained that this did not mean a complete blackout, but rather the shading of street lights, the lowering of blinds in hotels and other measures which would decrease the glare.

Knox said he was urging all shipping captains along the Eastern Coast to co-operate with the Navy in obeying safety rules "in following certain shipping lanes."

Demonstrating effectiveness of the shipping lanes, Knox asserted that of more than 1,000 ships that had cleared New York for the South, only five had been sunk in the lane outlined by Admiral Andrews.

NAMES OMITTED
Through an error several names were omitted from the list of the guests seated at the head table at the recent Eastern Star banquet.

Names omitted were: Mrs. Verna DeMyer, Worthy Matron; Tommie Bynum, Worthy Patron and Mrs. Bynum; R. H. Wade, Eminent Commander, and Mrs. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Smith and Mrs. D. Fred Worth.

The Leader is sorry for this omission.

War Production Chiefs Approve Present 40-Hour Week System

Washington.—Top ranking production officials of the War and Navy Departments and the Maritime Commission assured Senators today there was no immediate need for any wartime labor legislation.

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), chairman of a Senate Appropriations-Sub-committee conducting a general inquiry into wartime labor and production, told reporters this was the general summary of testimony by Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War; Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission; Ralph A. Baird, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Lieut. Gen. William S. Kunds.

Oppose Double Pay

However, Thomas said the officials and Senators agreed the present practice of paying double rates for work on Sundays and holidays should be eliminated with all pay for overtime above forty hours weekly limited to a rate of Washington.—President Roosevelt set April 27 today for the registration of men aged 45 to 64 inclusive.

It will be the fourth registration during the current war emergency and the second since the war actually engulfed the United States.

The Chief Executive issued a proclamation, under terms of the Selective Service Act, which provides that:

"The registration of male citizens of the United States and other male persons who were born on or before February 16, 1897, shall take place in the United States and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and in Puerto Rico on Monday, April 27, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m."

Usual Exceptions
The usual exceptions were made for persons already in the armed forces and for registration in exceptional cases prior to or after the prescribed date.

The men registering April 27 will not be liable to compulsory military duty nor will another group—men of 18 and 19—still to be registered.

Estimates of the total registration for the 45-64 age group—old under the selective service law—range around 15,000,000.

While none of these comparative oldsters will be taken into the fighting forces, there is the possibility that some or many of them will be assigned eventually to essential war work. Brig. General Lewis B. Hershey has said that one purpose of the draft law was an "accurate and systematic appraisal" of the supply of man power.

Much More Control
Testifying before a House committee last month, Hershey asserted that "we must have much more control over placements of men than we now have to meet the war manpower problem." It was noted, however, that there is no existing law to compel a work-or-fight policy.

The first registration since the United States entered the war covered the 20 to 44 group on February 16, and the lottery for that group held last Tuesday. Estimates before the Feb. 16 registration were that about 9,000,000 were in that age bracket.

Now is the time to subscribe for the Leader.

Thomas said the sub-committee also agreed unanimously that "we have no present wartime labor policy" and that the "War Labor Board should make an immediate announcement of such a war policy."

President Roosevelt's blunt opposition to any immediate changes in the forty-hour week law found important support in the Senate, but the House still seemed bent on taking matters into its own hands.

House May Take Action

The House manifested every intention of pushing ahead with consideration of legislation which would suspend all maximum-hour laws in war industries, and some staunch Administration backers privately were dubious about the chances of defeating such a measure if it also contained drastic provisions for reapportionment of all corporate war profits over a per cent.

LET US BE FAIR WITH MAC-ARTHUR

Like a great tidal wave the enthusiasm over the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of the Allied forces in the Western Pacific sweeps over the United States and all the United Nations. The morale of the democracies takes a tremendous upsurge just at the moment when it might have been at its lowest point. Hope is reborn and confidence grows in the wishful thinking that the hero of Bataan Peninsula will forthwith turn defeat into victory, will immediately launch a smashing offensive which will send the Japs in headlong retreat back to Tokio. But let us not allow our hero worship to blind ourselves to the difficulties before us, let us not raise our expectations to the point where they are sure to fall, let us view the situation in the Far East realistically and above all let us be fair with MacArthur.

The campaign in the Philippines brilliantly as it was carried out was one thing; the defense of Australia quite another. With consummate skill General MacArthur withdrew his vastly outnumbered forces into the mountains and jungles of the narrow Bataan Peninsula and held the Japanese at bay; in Australia he must guard a country as large as the United States, the greater part of which is thinly populated and with vast expanses of desert. In Bataan his lines extended only twenty miles; in the land down under they constitute the coast of a continent. Australia has been described as "an immense plateau fringed by a low-lying, well-watered coast and with a barren interior," and to ward off invasion at any number of isolated points MacArthur must strike at the air fields and concentrations of the enemy on a menacing arc of overhanging islands.

And what has he with which to do all this? Australia has a hard-hitting army of at least half a million men. It has an air force that makes up in spirit what it lacks in numbers. It has practically no navy. The Battle of Java having virtually wrecked the combined Allied Asiatic fleet. And we have sent troops and aviation in "considerable numbers." All of which is very indefinite, but it indicates that only a beginning has been made for anything like an all-out offensive against the Japanese. If Australia is to do more than defend itself, the responsibility rests on us, not General MacArthur. If an expected miracle is to be performed, it must be per-

BUYS CAMPBELL FARM

T. J. Burke, former Fultonian who returned here several months ago after a long residence elsewhere, has just purchased the R. U. Campbell farm of about 40 acres, thus giving him ownership of all the former Mencham place a few miles from the city. Several months ago he bought the part of the farm owned by Dr. and Mrs. Hillman, and purchase of the Campbell acreage gives him the entire farm. Purchase price was about $22,000 it is understood. Mr. Campbell has lived in Tampa, Fla., for several years.

STIMSON WOULD RAISE PAY OF PHILIPPINE TROOPS IN SERVICE

Washington. —On recommendation of General Douglas MacArthur, Secretary Stimson suggested to Congress today that legislation be enacted raising the pay of officers and enlisted men in the Philippine scouts and the Philippine commonwealth army to the level of the United States Army.

The change would cost more than $60,000,000 a year.

The pay for officers of the Philippine scouts now is the same as for the U. S. Army officers but the salary for enlisted men in the scouts, established by the secretary of war, is below the paid U. S. Army enlisted men. The Philippine legislature set the pay for personnel of the commonwealth army at less than the amounts paid officers and men in the Philippine scouts.

The former Philippine army now is in service of the U. S. armed forces, Stimson said.

SPORT TALK

It appears that the rubber shortage may play quite a part in golf this season. Many local players have reported ordering a supply of balls and either getting about one-half of what they order, or getting none at all. I have heard of one man who ordered and got none at all; another who ordered two dozen and managed to get one dozen. Broad reports say that there should be enough balls on hand for this season, but add that next summer—that is the summer of 1943—will bring a decided shortage of balls. There has been some discussion of beginning the manufacture of the old gutta percha ball, which was used many years ago, and which did not give any distance to speak of. It may be that if the war continues golf will go back to its early days, with consequent fading of the long-hitting stars of the present and produce some champions who, while not hitting a long ball, do have accurate control of short shots. In recent years, with improved and liver balls, golf has become a game of tremendous hitting and if balls are not available it is going to make some drastic changes.

Reports from Paducah indicate that interest is going to be as keen as usual in golf there. The Country Club, which has been more or less in the doldrums there for the past two years, reports increased membership for the year with much interest being manifested. Considerable work is being done on the crack course there and Country Club members are hoping to see the course come back into its own this year. Location of the defense plant there should do a lot for golf in Paducah, and it is likely that the many course, Paxton Park, will get more than its share of these. However, there will be many pretty highly paid men in Paducah for this work and many of these will probably sign up with the Country Club. It is likely, too, that Mayfield may feel some of this, for it is probable that some of the workers may be quartered in that city. Mayfield has never cared greatly for the day-by-day players for the course there is somewhat small and as a rule the club has a pretty good membership. Over there they have never greatly encouraged the Sunday and holiday players, for too many of these interfere with play of the regular members. Here on the local course such conditions do not prevail, for the course is large enough to take care of a much larger number of players without crowding. Last year the local club had its best year in receipts from visiting players, and, except for the tire restrictions, this year would probably exceed last year. Whether this will reduce the number of out-of-town members remains to be seen. In past years Fulton has had many regular members from Clinton, Martin and Union City, with some regular players also from Dresden, and tire shortages may cut into this to a certain degree. It is likely, too, that some of those who have been playing here in past years will be playing with a gun and bayonet on other courses this year.

—O—
Jim Weaver, who started his baseball career here, has asked the Louisville club of the American Association to reinstate him for duty this year. Weaver did not play last year and the Colonels, confronted with possible player shortages due to Army drafts, may take the veteran pitcher back into the fold.

GOVERNMENT WILL MAKE CASUALTY LISTS PUBLIC

Washington. —The Office of Facts and Figures issued a comprehensive statement of the government's policy on war news tonight, including an announcement that casualty lists will be made public.

The statement also promised that "the War Production Board will publish at frequent intervals a production communique which will enable the public to judge whether the production program is progressing satisfactorily or not."

In regard to military information the statement was principally an outline and explanation of the policy already followed but it announced that "the joint chiefs of staff will shortly begin the publication of bulletins from time to time which will furnish an authoritative general review of the military situation in various theaters of war."

The casualty lists will be made public with the stipulation that newspapers not publish and radio stations not broadcast the names of any victims outside their own localities. The statement said that the lists would "be made available with all possible speed."

House Body Beats Plea For Ceiling On High Salaries

Washington, — Representative Southoff (Prog., Wis.), proposed today that a $75,000 top be placed on all salaries and that the government tax newspaper and radio advertising.

After quoting Representative Boehne (D., Ind.), as saying that second class mail matter had received an average annual subsidy of $90,000,000, Southoff told the

"An inspection of any of the metropolitan dailies will show you that one-third to one-half of the contents of such paper is devoted to commercial advertising, which pays a large revenue."

Charges Special Privileges

"Because these newspapers enjoy a $90,000,000 a year subsidy from the government, which, of course, the average citizen must pay; and because commercial advertising is a matter of profit, pure and simple, and not educational, therefore, I feel that we could recover our $90,000,000 a year now granted to the newspapers as subsidy by placing a tax on these commercial advertisements."

"I recommend this solely on the basis that this printed matter is getting a special privilege from the government."

Radio Aid Tax Urged

"Another source of advertising which obtains a special privilege from the government is that of radio advertisement. Here, too, the government should step in and exact a fee for this form of advertising. As to the amount of the fee, I leave that to the good judgment of your committee."

No man, he said, should receive more salary than the President of the United States and recommended that "all salaries, commissions, bonuses, etc., in excess of $75,000 be devoted to the war effort."

STATE INCOME
RETURNS DROP

Big Increases Expected But Filings Lag

Anticipating a 40 per cent increase in filing of State income tax returns, James F. Donoghoe, State Revenue Department, Louisville supervisor, was puzzled today by a 25 per cent lag behind filings for the date last year.

"I can't account for the slump, especially in view of the fact that four out of every ten returns filed are made out by persons not previously filing," the supervisor said.

"It may be that people haven't recovered from paying their increased Federal income taxes and haven't had the money handy for State taxes, or it may be that they are too busy they are putting everything off to the last minute."

Staff Is Cut

Approximately a third of the State's 70,000 odd 1940 income tax returns were from the Louisville area. This year the State is counting on receiving more than $2,000,000 from this area, only 5,000 of which have been sent in.

"Our normal staff of twelve has been cut in half by the draft and unless it is augmented from Frankfort the late filers will find the line increasingly long as the April 15 deadline nears," Mr. Donoghoe added.

Personal exemptions and credits for dependents, unchanged this year, are: $1,000 for single persons or married persons not living together; $2,500 for man and wife, and $400 for each dependent under 18.

Some Pay Double

Kentucky law does not permit deductions for excise or usage taxes; amusement, cigaret, gasoline, liquor, utility, unemployment, or social security taxes but does allow exemptions on property, automobile license, professional, franchise, poll and Federal income taxes.

U. S. IMPORTS FROM LATIN AMERICAN MORE
THAN EXPORTS IN 1941

Washington, — Reversing the trend of recent years, the United States bought $106,072,000 more goods from Latin America in 1941 than it sold the 20 neighboring republics.

The purchases were swollen by acquisitions of copper, lead, tin and scores of other essential war materials.

Principal countries which sold more to this country than they bought were Argentina, Cuba, Chile, Brazil, Uruguay and Bolivia, in that order. Argentina accounted for half of the net balance of trade, selling $57,371,000 more than it bought.

RANGERS SIFT SCOUT "WAR"

Man, 20 Boys Ambushed By Two "Brown Men"

Boulder City, Nev., —The Reclamation Service sent rangers into a box canyon three miles below Boulder Dam today to investigate Pvt. William F. Colley's story that he and twenty Boy Scouts were trapped in the arroyo two nights and a day by gunfire from two little brown men.

Colley, a scoutmaster, told Chief Ranger Charles F. Peterson he believed he killed one of the men and that the boys would be found in the Colorado River. He said he speculated that the men were Italians or Mexicans.

Fire Returned

Colley's story, as related by Peterson, was:

The party, on an exploring trip, was fired on Saturday afternoon by two little brown men who commanded the mouth of a box canyon from a cave. Colley fired twenty-four shots. Whenever the boys attempted to leave the canyon, they were fired at.

Colley sent sixteen boys crawling out of the canyon yesterday morning as an airplane, sent to search for them, flew overhead.

Rangers On Job

The boys' families, worried at their prolonged absence, had asked for the search.

Rangers notified by the sixteen escapes brought out Colley and the other four Scouts.

Peterson said Colley's story was corroborated by the boys.
