THE LISTENING POST

● I do not know whether the yarn is true or false, but it does have the quality of being interesting at any rate. This yarn appeared some days ago in a Washington column and it has a slightly fantastic sound.

● Readers of newspapers will recall that some time ago, when the story of Pearl Harbor was released following the investigation which had been made, reference was made to a small Japanese submarine which was sunk about one hour before the bombing raid came. This submarine was sunk just outside the harbor almost an hour before the bombers came, and according to the investigating board nothing was done about the matter, although the sinking was reported to higher officers presumed to be on duty.

● Now, according to the story published in the Washington column, it develops that this submarine had been all over Pearl Harbor some time before. The story says that the boat came off the harbor several hours before dawn on that fateful Sunday and when the submarine net was opened to allow a vessel to enter the harbor the Japanese submarine also entered the harbor. Submerged there quite near the massed strength of the Pacific fleet, the tiny boat made a complete tour of the harbor and took careful notes of the disposition of all the ships. Japanese officers marked the anchorage of various battleships, noted that a dozen destroyers were "huddled together" at another anchorage, spotted the various supply ships and, in fact, the entire disposition of the American fleet. Then, with full knowledge of all the ships and positions in the harbor, the submarine went outside and proceeded to radio all this knowledge to the Japanese forces which were approaching Pearl Harbor on their rendezvous with destiny.

● All this is proved, so the story says, by the log which was kept in the submarine. It is said the vessel has now been raised and this log discovered and translated. The story adds that about all that is lacking is the final entry which should have been entered at 6:50 a. m. That final entry should read "Sunk by American gunfire."

● All this adds up to a most interesting story, whether it is true or not. The author of the yarn says that the story can now be told, speaking, evidently, with some sort of authority. It gives a fellow a creepy feeling when he reads of this enemy submarine crawling about Pearl Harbor, and gazing through the periscope at the mighty fleet which the Japanese planned to utterly destroy. It also brings a fervent wish that some vigilant eye might have discovered this enemy ship and made ready for the blow that was then approaching over the far horizon. Had such a blow been expected, had the airfield been ready to launch fighter planes and bombers as a reception committee, it is likely that Japan would now be a beaten nation. Right there on the dark morning the war might have been shortened by years. For, if the Pearl Harbor defenses had not been surprised, had the fleet managed to get to sea, had fighter planes roared out to meet the enemy and had bombers gone after the carriers which brought the bombers there, Japan would have suffered a crippling blow from which she might not have recovered. The Rising Sun will be beaten down all right, but because of that fatal lapse on the morning of December seventh, the task has been made much more difficult and the cost much more expensive.

● I take it that none of the crew of the Japanese submarine ever knew of the attack and its success, for they must have gone down before the bombers roared over Diamond Head. They did their job and paid for it with all they had to pay—their lives.

WELCH STOCK BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Local Fire Department Is Called

A large stock barn, belonging to John Welch and located South of Duketown, was completely destroyed by a fire of unknown origin last night about 10:30. A great deal of stock and equipment was also lost.

The Fulton Fire Department was called, but little could be done towards saving the barn. The barn was partially covered by insurance. Two horses, seven mules, seven cows, five calves, 175 barrels of corn and 300 bales of hay were destroyed by the fire and the barn, which was one of the largest in this section, was a complete loss.

OPA Puts Price Ceilings On Eight Major Scarcity Articles

Washington.—The Office of Price Administration tonight put price ceilings on eight major "scarcity" articles—refrigerators, typewriters, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, ironers, radios, phonographs and cooking and heating stoves—to check a "sharp" inflationary price movement.

The price action, broadcast yet taken by OPA, covered the principal items whose manufacture has been ordered halted or curtailed in order to convert the industries to war production and conserve critical materials.

It was OPA's greatest incursion into the field of retail price control. Moreover, the orders also set maximum prices on wholesale marketing and in two instances—vacuum cleaners and typewriters—also were put on manufacturers' prices.

The ceilings are effective next articles, not to used ones. On six of the articles—typewriters, domestic washing machines, ironing machines, phonographs, radio receiving sets, and domestic heating and cooking stoves and ranges—the price decrees were 60-day "temporary orders," pegging prices at the level of last Thursday, March 9.

The two permanent price ceilings applied to household vacuum cleaners and attachments and to household mechanical refrigerators. In these instances the ceilings were fixed at the manufacturers' recommended retail price lists.

Wholesale figures on the vacuum cleaners and refrigerators were "frozen" at the level prevailing October 1-15, 1941. The wholesale maximums on the other six articles were fixed at the price of March 19.

The ceiling are effective next Monday, March 30.

In figuring the maximum prices on radio sets, phonographs, washing and ironing machines, cook stoves and ranges, retailers were instructed to take the highest net price at which each model was sold last Thursday, or if no sale was made that day, then on the next previous date. In the case of typewriters the ceiling date is March 5, the day before the War Production Board froze all sales.

McKellar Demands End Of NY A And CCC As Coddling Agencies

Washington.—Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), contending that the Federal Government was "making mollycoddles" out of young men at considerable expense when they should be serving in the army or war industry, demanded today abolition of the National Youth Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The Tennessee Senator was the opening witness at a Senate Labor Committee hearing on legislation which would discontinue the two agencies.

He testified that a committee of NYA students recently called upon him to ask that he not press the pending legislation, and that one student told him he did not want N. Y. A. discontinued, because he wanted to "keep out of the army."

"I know more about what I can do for my country than the generals in the army," McKellar quoted the student as saying. N. Y. A. was "undertaking to advertise and work in every way in the world to keep their appropriations at the highest point possible."

He read a letter from Aubrey Williams, N. Y. A. administrator, addressed to the New Jersey state administrator prior to United States entry into the war urging that vacancies left by N. Y. A. workers who found jobs in private industry be immediately filled.

Seeks to Fill Quotas

Williams proposed an "intensive drive to speed up the process of registration" so that as vacancies occurred, quotas could be filled.

"I don't believe," McKellar observed, "that any government official who is dealing with giving out government benefits ought to advertise in any way to be people to accept those benefits."

He contended that N. Y. A. and C. C. C. were "perfectly proper" in depression years when young people could not obtain jobs elsewhere but asserted that their maintenance under present conditions was "indefensible" because the government needed all the money it could raise to defeat the Axis nations.

McKellar said he would propose a $25,000,000 appropriation to continue vocational training as a defense measure.

Johnson Agrees To Accept Meredith's Offer Of Attorney

Tells Attorney General He Doubts Sincere Motives

Frankfort, Ky.—Attorney General Hubert Meredith revealed late today that Gov. Keen Johnson had offered to give "a fair trial" to Meredith's proposal that his office be entrusted with collection of state welfare department claims.

The Governor's offer, announced, also had accepted with conditions—his offer to assign one of his assistants to serve as legal adviser to Finance Commissioner J. Dan Talbot. In addition, Meredith was asked by Johnson to assign the same assistant attorney general to serve as the Governor's counsel.

The Governor's proposals were made in his reply to a letter Meredith addressed to him last week. In his letter Meredith had offered to undertake collection of the welfare department's delinquent claims in the interest of economy, to supply legal advice for all departments of the state government and to "forget" previous animosities between himself and other officials of Johnson's administration.

Meredith pointed out in making public the Governor's reply that he had waited several days for the chief executive to do it, but the latter had declined to do so.

"I shall reply to the Governor's letter in a few days and explain to him why I can not agree with him that the public business should be conducted in secret."

In his letter Johnson told Meredith that he did not consider it proper for an attorney advising a state official "to deliberately and designedly seek every opportunity to propagandize through the press his personal venom or prejudices or to impugn the purposes or the motives of the officer, who, in good faith and a sincere desire to obtain the correct legal advice, requests the attorney's advice."

BAPTIST REVIVAL DRAWS CROWD

Last night at the Baptist church

Evangelist House brought a message that should have warmed the hearts and increased the faith of every Christian who heard him, and also should have made the sinner long to claim a God so powerful as his father and friend.

Taking as a text James: 2-3, Rev. House reminded his audience that all the heroes of the Bible were men of prayer. He said in part, "God will not hesitate to set aside the very laws of nature to answer our prayers when the answer brings glory to his name. He piled up the waters of the Red Sea at the importunate prayer of Moses. He stopped the sun in its course for two hours and twenty minutes that Joshua and his soldiers might win a victory he had promised. Christ prayed often and long. Surely we can do with no less prayer than our Lord."

"We have not, because we ask not. We leave God out of our plans and discount his word in unbelief. Our problems as Christians could all be solved in the prayer room so much more effectively than in a committee room. We ask and receive not because we ask amiss that we may consume it upon our lusts. Our own hearts are not in tune with God's will and we have not met his conditions for answered prayer. We must ask God to forgive our sins as we have forgiven each other and if we have failed to forgive we cannot truly pray, for God is not concerned with the position of the body and the beauty of words but rather with the condition of the heart and the attitude of the soul."

George Washington prayed at Valley Forge and Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown! Lincoln prayed for the preservation of the union while the battle of Gettysburg raged! Wilson called a day of prayer and fasting and the Hindenburg line was broken and the Armistice signed! Perhaps the greatest birthday present that President Roosevelt received was the message from General Douglas MacArthur that his boys crawled from the fox holes of Bataan and stood with uncovered heads to pray that God would guide and keep the President.

"God is a 'big' God and willing to do for us big things if we will ask in faith. Let us turn to him in this, our hour of need and carry our soldiers and our leaders to his throne for guidance and blessing as regularly as we eat."

Services are conducted each evening at 7:30 o'clock. We urge everyone to come and enjoy this great preaching of God's word.

Girl Federal Workers Approve Of Transfer To Philadelphia

Philadelphia.—Girls, Philadelphia's a swell town—"because it's so easy to get dates here."

Take it from the girl Government workers transferred here from Washington with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization.

Some may be homesick, others feel the pinch of a wartime housing shortage and all grumble about the city's 1-2 per cent wage tax but—"I've had six or eight dates since I've been here," said slim, trim Kay Williams, immigration worker, "and in Washington I averaged one a week—and thanked my stars for it."

Washington, The Navy reported tonight that the United States destroyer Pillsbury and Edsall have been missing since early March in waters around Java and must be presumed lost.

Each ship had a normal complement of about 45 officers and men. The Pillsbury was believed to have met her end in the vicinity of Ball Strait, between the islands of Java and Bali in the Dutch East Indies, after the great naval engagement of Feb. 27-28 in the Java Sea during which American and Allied forces previously were reported to have lost a total of 13 vessels.

The Navy communique reporting the loss of the two destroyers said the last report from the Edsall placed her in waters south of Java.

Bound For Australia

The time at which the vessels were last reported and the scene of their disappearances indicated that they probably were trying to reach Australia after the Japanese, in the Java sea battle, had established domination over the waters around Java.

Both the Pillsbury and Edsall were old World War type destroyers, commonly known as four stackers, and both were 1,190-ton ships.

Loss of the Pillsbury and Edsall failed to cut the total number of American vessels lost by enemy action and other causes since last fall and to 16 the number by enemy action alone.

American losses in the battle of the Java Sea included the cruiser Houston and the destroyer Pope.

Other ships of the Asiatic fleet which have been lost included the submarines Shark and Sealion, the destroyer Stewart and the gunboat Asheville.

Both the Pillsbury and Edsall were built at Philadelphia in 1920. The Edsall was christened by Mrs. Bessie Edsall Bracey, a sister of the late N. E. Edsall, a seaman for whom the ship was named.

Edsall was born in Columbus, Ky., in 1873 and was killed by hostile natives at Samora in 1899 while assisting a wounded officer to safety.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to the many friends who were so kind and thoughtful to our family in the passing of our husband and father, the late A. M. Khourie. Only those who have suffered such losses can appreciate what these kind words and deeds mean to those who sorrow. May the blessing of the Father be with one and all is our sincere wish. ### ALLIES KNOW WE'RE IN IT, EVEN IF WE DON'T

Who says we can't get started fighting for many months?

Newspaper and radio commentators have begun to bore us with the repetitious fiction that "once America really gets in shape to fight, the Axis will know it's in a war." Scanning the news, it seems to us the U. S. has somehow got a long way toward offensive fighting since December 7.

General MacArthur's new post is the best proof of all. The Japs have already met the airmen of his Pacific command, and it begins to appear that in Australia the Allies will have air superiority for the first time. Australia is already a beehive of U. S. war activity.

Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has just appointed another U. S. general to command two Chinese armies. The American volunteers have been hammering the Japs to pieces along the Burma road and in Burma itself for quite some time.

The flow of American supplies to northern Russia ports has become so great the Nazis have withdrawn 200,000 badly needed troops into Norway, and risked dangerous concentration there of their whole navy, for an all-out effort to cut that lifeline.

Frank Kent, habitual critic of all things having to do either with the Roosevelt administration or organized labor, this week paid unreserved tribute to the production pace of U. S. aircraft plants. The President's enormous warplane quota will be met and surpassed, he says.

Just to show that the departure of Gen. MacArthur doesn't mean the surrender of Bataan, U. S. forces there have just beaten off a new and angry Jap attack with severe enemy losses.

So strong has the American expeditionary force become in Northern Ireland that the Nazis have loosed their stooges in the Irish Republican Army to seek out full information, with the probable idea of attempting invasion before their chances disappear altogether.

So effective has the U. S. Navy's work been along the lend-lease route to Britain that Hitler's U-boats have mostly removed themselves to our own territorial waters, where patrolling is less well-developed but where much less damage can be done.

Our Allies know we're in this war in a fighting way, whether we are aware of it or not. The Australians, Filipinos, Chinese, British and Russians have concrete proof. Naturally they're all asking more help, and more and more. But a realization of what we are already accomplishing would help to speed our present and future efforts. The mistaken accounts which set our past accomplishments at naught are nothing but preachments of defeatism.

A recognition of this is the Treasury's plan to drop the word "defense" from the names of defense bonds and stamps. War bonds and war stamps are the proper terms—just as we in West Kentucky describe ours as a war industry, though it would have been called a defense plant before Pearl Harbor.

The President and his military and production officers are embarked on a program of attack. It is necessary that we all think in terms of attack. It will help our thinking along this line to realize that all American efforts to date have been directed toward attack. —Sun-Democrat.

WAR ILLS CALLED SIGNS OF INADEQUACY

Berkeley, Calif. — The amount of shell shock suffered in the present war will depend on the public's attitude, says Dr. Karl M. Bowman of the University of California.

"It is never a thing to be proud of, but neither is it a thing to be blamed on the individual," he says. "All sickness is a confession of inadequacy and the same is true of war neuroses."

"The incidence of mental afflictions will be large if war neuroses are accepted and glorified as was done during the last war."

LLOYD GEORGE CRITICISES BAN ON RED NEWSPAPER

London. — David Lloyd George, Britain's Prime Minister in the last war, said in a statement tonight continued suppression of the Communist newspaper Daily Worker "is an act of stupid, wanton, partisan spite."

"No wonder there remains suspicion in Russia as to the genuineness of our co-operation. We are fighting a battle of freedom against great odds. Do not add to these odds by deeds which cast doubt on the sincerity of aims."

20 SURVIVE HORROR TRIP

Snatched From Death In Celebes Sea

New York — Snatched from death at sea by a huge Dutch bomber sent their ship to the bottom of the Celebes Sea, twenty survivors of the American freighter Ruth Alexander have arrived here after a series of hair-raising adventures.

"It was nothing to sneeze at," said Pantryman Robert Marshall as the group debarked from a United Nations vessel yesterday—and his colleagues agreed.

22 Days Under Fire
For eighteen days as their 3,150-ton ship lay at pleaside in Manila they were under direct fire of Japanese bombers; for an additional four days after they had fled to Corregidor they were the target of bombers, and two days out in a mad dash for home they finally got it.

Three times the big Jap bomber circled them, First Officer Joseph D. Cox of Healdsburg, Calif., said, the first time inspecting, the second bombing but missing and the third bombing and not missing.

Only One Killed
Only the second cook was killed and twenty-eight other survivors of the crew of forty-nine have reached San Francisco on another ship.

Tossing about in lifeboats for five hours after the bombing, the crew of the Ruth Alexander thought the end had come when they saw a big plane nearing them. In fear it was an enemy craft, all but three wounded sailors leaped into the sea. Although the plane was a Dornier, made in Germany, it was part of the Dutch Navy and it picked up the lucky mariners and took them to Borneo whence they caught a ship home.

BURMA YANKS PROUD INVADER

Japs Are Forced To Increase Air Strength

London. — The Japanese have rushed heavy airplane reinforcements to Burma in an effort to seize air superiority, informed sources said today as the Burma command reported a damaging attack on an R. A. F. base for the second successive day.

The Japanese were pictured as determined to end the superiority hitherto held by the American Volunteer Group and their R. A. F. allies, and a military commentator interpreted this bid as preliminary to a major assault by ground forces.

Authoritative circles declared the Japanese were far from attaining command of the air despite their reinforcements. It was assumed that the Allies also were reinforcing their squadrons.

Airplane Damaged
Ground troops, an informed source said, were quiet while Japanese planes attempted to knock the A. V. G. and R. A. F. out of the battle. A British communique acknowledged that the Japanese damaged a central Burma airbase. A mighty fleet of sixty bombers and twenty fighters raided the field again Sunday and the Allies admitted some of their planes "were unaccounted for." Only two Japanese raiders were claimed shot down. Just where the A. V. G. is now based is not disclosed.

House Military subcommittee today that a statement by Robert R. Guthrie, resigned W. P. B. executive from Paducah, Ky., that he had opposed conservation of wool "has no foundation in fact."

Rice said that as early as last May he had urged curtailment in the use of wool and denied Guthrie's testimony last week that he had "impeded the war effort."

"I have always given Mr. Guthrie's branch information on current procurement programs as soon as the services had decided themselves what they wanted to buy," Rice said.

Opposed Blanket Order
He said there were "a number of arguments" over details of a wool freezing order but he was not involved and "I do not know what the detailed arguments were." He also said that while he had opposed a blanket freezing order on nylon as such, "I never opposed the conversion of du Pont's nylon production for military needs."

SPORT TALK

The training season for the local Kitty League team will begin about April 20, according to President K. P. Dalton of the local baseball association. Some of the players who will be sent here by Detroit will probably train at Winston-Salem and not arrive here until later, but those who are not affiliated with the Tiger farm system will report directly to Fulton and begin practice at Fairfield. Some uncertainty appears to exist as to how much help can be expected from Detroit, as the Tigers have reduced their farms this season. Players for Fulton will probably come from Winston-Salem, although Beaumont, Texas, is still a Tiger farm. Last year Muskegon was the Class C team which dealt in players for Fulton, but this year the Reds, if operating, are not in the Tiger chain. It will be remembered that this Michigan team trained in Fulton and left several players here when the move was made back home to start the season.

Julian Burgess, tall right handed hurler of last year, will be back this summer. He talked with local officials some days ago and gave assurance that he would be here, and expressed the belief that he would be in pretty good shape by the time he came. Burgess is a teacher in a junior high school and does a lot of coaching on the side. While doing the coaching he takes a lot of exercise personally and this gets him in shape for the summer's campaign. Burgess was one of the headiest pitchers the Tigers had last year and Manager Mullen depended on him a lot, both for his pitching and his ability to coach some of the younger players. Burgess will likely win fifteen or eighteen games during the summer, and he also is worth while as a hitter. Several times last summer he won games with his hitting and was used frequently as a pinch hitter.

Dave Derrick and Frankie Faudem, Detroit kids, are said to be willing to come back and both should be a lot better this year than last year. Last season was their first season in organized ball, and that year is certain to have made them better. Faudem was as good an outfielder as a club might wish, and his hitting, while in and out a lot, was better than fair. He was terribly weak on left handed flinging, but at the last seemed to be overcoming this weakness to a certain degree. He had a bad habit of pulling away from a left handed curve, and this made him look bad when a smart leftie was fogging 'em in. Against right handed throwing Faudem was much better and really cracked out the hits in a majority of the games.

Derrick to my mind, was the best shortstop in the league last year. Not as good a hitter as some other shortstops, Derrick did have a nice stance at the plate and hit with devastating force now and then. It is likely that his hitting will be better this year, for he is just a kid and the year's experience made a far better player out of him towards the close of last season. He covered lots of ground in shortfield, and his arm was such that he could flag fast men at first on drives into deep territory. Few runners managed to beat his throw when he really cut that ball loose. Reese, the tiny second baseman, will return, so I am told. With Manager Mullen on third base, this rounds out an infield with the exception of the sterling Popeye Walker. Uncle Sam has Popeye now and I'll guarantee that whatever post has him they will know they have quite a first class first baseman and a comedian of top rank. Wish Walker was coming back for the 1942 season.

It isn't likely that Ivy will be back to do the backstopping, and the Tigers will miss his work a lot, too. Ivy did a real job here last year and made us forget Ray Clonto to a certain degree. Here's hoping the team can find a catcher as good as either one of these boys.

CIVIL DEFENSE COURSE BEGINS AT PADUCAH

Paducah, Ky. — A six-day civilian defense course for law enforcement officers of fifteen Western Kentucky counties began today at a local hotel under the direction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The day was devoted to the F. B. I. quarterly police conference. The program included a discussion of national defense intelligence work by law enforcement agencies by H. K. Moss, special agent in charge of the Louisville field division, and talks by Mayor Pierce E. Lackey, chief of Police W. E. Bryant and W. F. McMurry of Paducah's civilian defense council. Sixty officers attended.

DAIRY DELIVERY STRIKE AFFECTS THOUSANDS

Reading, Penn. — Thousands of families in this area went without delivered milk for a second day today after a strike of drivers and processing employees closed thirteen of the city's seventeen dairies.

Hundreds made over-the-counter purchases at closed dairies without interference from pickets, members of Milk Drivers and Dairy Employees Union (A. F. L.).

Robert Stauffer, business agent said deliveries were being made "on request" to homes with small children or invalids and added "we are co-operating with hospitals and institutions."

Five hundred workers struck for a wage boost, Stauffer said.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

We started our meeting Monday by sewing on baby blankets for the Red Cross. In the next two or three weeks we are going to try to finish them. When the blankets are finished they will be three rows of blue and three rows of pink. On the pink part there will be blue briar stitch and on the blue part there will be pink briar stitching.

We then sang "God Bless America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," the roll was called and dues were collected.

As we are divided into three patrols and each patrol is going to decorate two boxes to collect tin and lead foil. Each patrol planned to meet at a certain day to decorate them.

We also welcomed another new member, Emma Ruth Cavendar. Those who brought money marched to the Post Office and bought defense stamps. Helen Shelton, Scribe.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

WITHOUT an intercommunication system consisting of cables and wires, the modern battleship would be all but worthless. The wiring is just as important as the gun turrets or the steam power. The ship might have all the appearance of a first class performer, but she would be of little value in action.

Some men are like an unfinished ship. They have the potentialities, but without skill they are not capable of doing a job that requires responsibility. They are mere shells of efficiency until the "wiring" or training is acquired.

Today thousands of men are working in the New York Navy Yard, busily engaged in building this nation's two-ocean navy. These men are given opportunities to advance to better jobs. The task demands skilled technicians and mechanics. Every department must have highly trained men to direct those who build and fit together the parts of gigantic battleships.

The Navy is proud of the spirit of the men who build ships, but that is not enough. Such workmen must be perfectionists. There is not much time to train men, but every effort is being made in that direction.

The big jobs in the shipyard, like those in any other great American industry, are handled by those men who are properly "wired" to produce with speed and efficiency. You have to have the "know how!"

CLEAN UP WEEK

It is a well known fact that the house fly breeds in animal manure, kitchen offal and other refuse. It constitutes the most common link between filth and food. From the uncovered garbage can and other filth he goes directly to the kitchen and dining room, depositing his filth on kitchen utensils, dishes, tableware and the food itself. For a number of years health authorities have been stressing the part which the fly plays in spreading such communicable diseases as typhoid fever, tuberculosis, the diarrheas and the dysenteries. Unfortunately, however, there still remains a degree of indifference on the part of the public regarding this menace. As a result premises are not always kept clean, and rubbish and filth are permitted to accumulate.

All citizens of Fulton should co-operate with the CLEAN-UP movement. Premises should be cleaned up, inside and out, and kept clean. Urge your neighbors to do likewise. Where there are no dirt and filth, there will be no flies.

The fly appears early in April, multiplies rapidly. One fly breeds millions by August. Don't let these millions come into existence. Keep the first fly from breeding.
