TEMPERANCE MEETING HELD IN CLINTON

A mass meeting of temperance leaders in Fulton, Hickman and Carlisle counties was held at the Clinton court house Monday night with a large group attending. Edmund Wroe, city attorney of Clinton, acted as temporary chairman. Rev. E. R. Ladd, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Fulton, and Dr. W. B. Grissom, minister of the First Methodist church of Arlington, were the main speakers and both made splendid talks.

It was voted that the three counties unite in an organization for liquor control and that a general chairman be elected with two county chairmen to constitute the executive committee. The Rev. Carmen G. Sloan, pastor of the Fulton Nazarene Church, was elected general chairman, and county chairmen will be elected in a few days.

DID YOU SEE?

By DR. SAWIT
Ernest Hall, Sr., measuring off a strip of ground on the west side of his home that he has obtained. It looks as though he is going to have a larger yard and is changing his driveway. He already has a beautiful yard and this will certainly add to it.

The Cities Service Oil truck and Gulf truck running side by side out Maple avenue, and when they got to Page street it looked as though they were going to come to a dead end. But one turned one way and the other to their respective warehouses.

The Greyhound Bus and a tourist from Ohio, having it round and round Saturday afternoon in front of the Orpheum theatre. It appeared that neither would back up and there wasn't room for either to go ahead. So it was a deadlock, until some fellow came along and moved his parked car. Then the man from Ohio drove on, but not before he had called the bus driver a "Fresh Yeag."

Hendon Wright starting to take off from the airport on the Union City highway, when E. Myrick told him that he'd better be careful or that sky bronco would treat him rougher than the motorcycle did a few years ago.

Ed Bennett, who runs a cafe on corner of State Line and the Mar-tin highway, inspecting the work going on there. He has really made a big improvement on his corner.

A farmer, who lives within two miles of Fulton, telling about his smelling. He said that he has never been able to smell anything, no matter how strong the odor. He declared that he has a niece who lost her sense of smell when she was 20 years old and she hasn't been able to smell anything since.

A rug, fit for your home or mine lying on the sidewalk on Lake-st in front of Fulton Hardware. They are getting spiffy.

K. P. Dalton, president of the Fulton baseball association, having to have gasoline brought to him at Fairfield park Tuesday afternoon. Won't your car run without gas K. P.?

SERMONETT

For God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.—1 Peter 5:5.
Help me not to grumble dear Lord I pray,
But endeavor to be humble,
And keep cheerful all the day.

Rotary Club Elects Officers

Members of the Rotary Club elected the following directors at the weekly meeting held Tuesday at the Rainbow Room: Ford Lansden, Herbert Goulder, Leon Browder, J. O. Lewis, Bob White, G. G. Bard and J. R. Hogan. The directors then elected these officers: Ford Lansden, president; J. R. Hogan, vice president; J. O. Lewis, secretary.

Bob White was in charge of the program and he gave the origin of April Fool's Day. In keeping with the spirit of the day, several jokes were played on the members.

Dr. Forrest C. Pogue of Murray College will be guest speaker next Tuesday. Granville Parker, Tom Garner, K. E. Dawson and J. A. Tuttle were visitors at the meeting.

Sound Cotton Plan (An Editorial)

Informed observers throughout the entire country agree that the war abroad has created a serious plight for cotton farmers, and this has had a highly detrimental effect upon our whole national economy. For cotton farmers can buy manufactured products from other sections only in proportion to the returns they receive for their principal crop.

Necessary war-time foreign policies of our government have handicapped and prevented cotton exports, and cotton farmers feel that they should be given some special consideration in connection with the national agricultural program.

What appears to be a sound and just plan for dealing with the situation has been outlined by President Oscar Johnston of the National Cotton Council, and it will be presented to committees now considering Federal agricultural legislation for 1941.

The plan is designed to accomplish three major objectives: Improve and protect the income of the cotton producer, promote free movement of cotton through normal channels of trade, and avoid giving competitive advantages to materials which are cotton's rivals.

These are worthy purposes, and the detailed plan embodying the proposed legislation should receive the careful and sympathetic consideration of Congress. The attainment of the objectives named would be in the interest of the entire nation.

TVA OFFICIAL TALKS BEFORE LIONS CLUB

Mr. Jessup, official of the Tennessee Valley Authority, spoke before the Lions Club here last Friday, explaining the purposes and plans of this federal organization. He illustrated his talk with pictures showing views of the various dams, experimental farms and fields, etc.

Already vast changes have been made, and generations ahead will see even more far reaching benefits, he concluded.

"LIGHTHOUSE NAN" AT WELCH SCHOOL, APRIL 5

"Lighthouse Nan," a three-act comedy, will be given at Welch School Saturday night, April 5, at 7:30 o'clock. Teachers and individuals of the community compose the cast. The play is sponsored by the P-T. A. and proceeds will go for the benefit of the school.

SAFETYGRAMS

Pedestrians again take the lead in the number of fatalities in automobile accidents for 1940. In view of the things pedestrians do it is a wonder the toll is not much higher than it actually is.

Walking against traffic lights, walking on the wrong side of the highway, crossing in the middle of the block, taking a deliberate and indifferent attitude on intersection courtesy, stopping to visit at wrong places on the highway—these and many other causes have been responsible for the death of many pedestrians.

The automobile driver is not always to blame. The pedestrian assumes the same responsibility for the enforcement of traffic regulations as the automobile driver. If you are a pedestrian, act safely.

Farm Surpluses Block U. S. Pan-Hemispheric Program

64 Per Cent of Latin America's Exports Are Agricultural; 10 of Their 20 Leading Exports in 1938 Competed Directly With U. S. Farmers

Various proposals are now being set forth whereby the countries of Latin America will be joined more closely to the United States. Though there are some differences among the exponents of this policy business circles are, as General Robert E. Wood of Sears, Roebuck states, in agreement that the United States should extend its control and differ only as to how far south this direct control can be immediately applied. While some, like Wood, would stop at the Equator, other, such as those for whom Dorothy Thompson speaks, do not stop at all. In its reports the Department of Commerce sometimes seems to envisage plans in Patagonia and southern Chile, which is as far south as anyone can go in South America.

Since Latin American production is predominately agricultural, the farmers of the United States are particularly concerned with proposals for Pan-Hemispheric unity. Moreover, the Latin American output in large part would compete directly with United States surplus-producing farmers. Of Latin America's twenty leading exports in 1938, the latest year available, fourteen were agricultural and these comprised 64 per cent of the value of the twenty products. Ten of these agricultural products are directly competitive to a greater or lesser extent with our own products.

Analyzing Latin American exports to this country the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations of the U. S. D. A. states that Latin America's complementary or non-competitive agricultural exports "do not constitute the basis for any substantial and permanent increase in trade because their volume fluctuates with industrial activity in the United States."

A Foreign Policy Report of August 1, 1940 concludes, "The record of inter-American trade for the first six months of the war demonstrates the ability of the United States to supply the Latin American demand for goods no longer obtainable abroad. At the same time it shows that this country failed to take the place of Latin America's lost customers."

A survey of Latin American agricultural exports reveals that the United States does not at the present time offer a market for them and that whatever market we could supply would be largely at the expense of American farmers.

Wheat, corn, cotton, coffee and sugar could only find a market through the building of a much higher standard of living in Latin America. As the Foreign Policy Association comments, "There is little prospect that the present exportable surplus will be absorbed in the predictable future."

TAX FACTS ABOUT CITY OF FULTON

This Article Clears Up Eternal Question of Taxpayers of "What Goes With Our Tax Money"

It has been said that only two things are certain in life, death and taxes. There has been a tendency by state and federal governments to continually raise taxes, until some taxpayers whimsically remark that they much prefer the man with the scythe to the burden of increasing taxation.

Operating the city government in Fulton is very similar to that of other communities of like revenue and expenses. It has always been a problem to collect enough taxes to meet the overhead. Some administrations are more economical than others, according to records, but there has never been a great deal of variation in operating methods and expenses.

The total tax assessments for the city of Fulton in 1940 were $2,514,922.10, and the tax rate is $1.05 on each hundred dollars in valuation. The anticipated revenue yearly averages $24,904.02, with only about $21,945.41 collected annually. Of the $1.05 tax rate, 30c goes into the sewer sinking fund, 6c for the city hall sinking fund, and 69c for the general fund. The bonded indebtedness against the city of Fulton, bearing a direct obligation, at present totals approximately $92,000. Of this amount $4,500 are city hall bonds, $26,500 sewer bonds, $46,000 water works revenue bonds, $16,000 water works refunding bonds.

The city hall bonds were originally $10,000 in 1935 when they were refunded. Since that time $5,500 has been paid off.

The sewer bonds were issued in 1926 totalling $70,000. Since 1935 an aggregate of $27,000 in this indebtedness has been paid off, further reducing the original amount, and leaving only $28,500 balance.

The water works refunding bonds were originally issued December 5, 1904 for the sum of $25,000, after a bond issue was approved by two-thirds of the qualified electors in an election held September 5, 1904. Since then these bonds have been refunded on April 1, 1912, and again in 1933. There are now outstanding $16,000.

P-T. A. PLAY GETS OVATION FROM PATRONS

"Something Old, Something New," a play presented by the West Fulton Parent-Teachers Association Friday night at the Science Hall, was well attended. The play, directed by Miss June Dixon, who had to take a leading part in it due to the illness of Carolyn Atkins, was a comedy-romance that kept the audience bubbling with laughter.

Those taking part in the production were Jane Dallas, Earl Willey and Will Taylor. Lee, Elizabeth Payne, Jack Snow, Grace Cavender, Miriam Browder, Martha Neil Houston, Harold Mullins, Richard Rucker, Mildred Mount, Lillian Homra, Lois Jean Hindman.

Chaos often results from a good intention, in combination with an ignorant mind.

GETTYSBURG'S FAME

Although a small city of only about 5,600 people, Gettysburg, Pa., has numerous claims to fame, the principal one being, of course, that it was the scene of the greatest battle ever fought in the western hemisphere. Here the tide of war was turned against the Confederates when Meade defeated Lee in a three-day battle on July 1, 2 and 3, 1863.

Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address, delivered at the dedication of the battlefield as a national soldiers' cemetery on November 19 of the same year, has given added significance to the name.

Now it has been found that Gettysburg is the only town in the United States, large or small, with two newspapers the younger of which is more than 122 years old, the older being 141. The Star and Sentinel was established in 1800 and carried an account of George Washington's death in its first issue. The other paper, the Compiler, was established in 1818.

And in enumerating the contributors to Gettysburg's fame we should not overlook the doctory mayor of the city, who when told that Meade and Lee were approaching the place with their armies sent warnings to the opposing generals, calling the attention of each to a town ordinance which forbade the discharge of firearms within the corporate limits.

Wesson Wilson, attorney of Hammond, Ind., prefers golf players as jurors on his cases, because "they can be counted on to display sportsmanship in coming to decisions."

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

Well, I got through April 1 this time without someone pulling a fool's trick on me. Usually somebody, who must have their joke gets a good one off on me. I always did enjoy a good joke, though, even if it is on myself. I always figured that the fellow without a sense of humor never knows what joys there are in life.

I went along the creek this week, which runs through the city. It is surprising how much rubbish and filth can gather along its banks. This unsanitary condition is an eyesore to the community, and our city dads should see that the creek gets a good cleaning now that spring is here.

Another thing that needs more attention is our streets and back alleys. Most any time you can go down the main streets of our downtown business district and see old paper and trash scattered hither and yon. Let's keep our city streets cleaner, would be a good program for our street department.

Farming is making steady headway throughout the rural districts adjacent to Fulton. Besides the staple crops, there is considerable truck farming being done this year. Our county agent, Sam Foy, reports interest in truck crops is swinging upward in the county.

Many farm homes in Fulton and Hickman counties now have electricity. Use of this servant of man is making the farmer's work lighter and more efficient. Homes have been taken from the days of poor light, for today many rural homes have the same lighting systems city folks enjoy. More miles of lines are being strung and more current is being used.

Last year Fulton had a good softball league, with various Sunday School classes having teams. I have not heard anything about softball games being played this season. A park was established and seats arranged in South Fulton near the school. It's time that teams are organized if softball is to be played this year.

Fulton has one of the finest country clubs to be found in this section. Golfers will be turning out in increasing numbers now that the weather has opened up. Let's have more competitive matches this year, and a good tournament or two.

The drive to raise funds for the permanent security of the fair grounds here will start Monday, April 14, according to present plans. This is a project that needs the support of everybody, in Fulton and in the county. The Young Men's Business Club is endeavoring to obtain this property and deed it to the city as a permanent playground and meeting place for all outdoor community affairs. Let everyone do their part.

ANDREW MELLON'S GIFT

Through the beneficence of the late Andrew Mellon, banker, industrialist, former Secretary of the Treasury and philanthropist, the new National Gallery of Art in Washington was presented to the nation on March 18, and accepted by President Roosevelt.

Mellon's gift included the magnificent building, which is longer than the Capitol and most 15 million dollars, and his celebrated collection of paintings and sculptures valued at 50 million. At the same time S. H. Kress presented his collection of Italian paintings and sculptures, valued at 25 million.

It was announced that the 50 million dollar collection owned by Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia would be given to the National Gallery eventually, and that other valuable donations were in prospect.

This great collection of art treasures will be open free to the public every day in the year except Christmas and New Year's Day. The gallery will be open from 10 to 5 on week days and from 2 to 5 on Sundays.

The Mellon and Kress collection contains a total of 501 paintings and 44 sculptures, but occupy only a small portion of the vast marble building which has four acres of exhibition space.

In giving this splendid edifice and art collection to the people of the United States, Mr. Mellon stipulated that it should not bear his name, but that it should be known simply as the National Gallery of Art. His name will inevitably be associated with it, however, in the minds of his countrymen for generations to come.

NEW L. S. U. PRESIDENT

After a period of turmoil under the regime of the late Huey Long culminating in the conviction and sentence to the penitentiary of its president, James Monroe Smith, in 1939, Louisiana State University has made good progress toward rehabilitation under its acting president, Dr. Paul M. Herbert.

A few days ago the University's board of supervisors unanimously offered the permanent presidency to Major General Campbell B.

Hodges of the Regular Army, who will retire from the military service to accept the post, effective July 1.

General Hodges is a native of Louisiana, 60 years old and a bachelor, who has had a notable career since his graduation from West Point in 1903. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for service in France during the World War, and was military aide to Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt. He has recently commanded the Fifth Army Corps at Camp Beauregard, La. He was once military instructor at L. S. U. and declined the presidency when it was offered to him some fifteen years ago.

It is recalled that the first president of the University in 1860 was a military man, William Tecumseh Sherman, who resigned when secession became imminent. Sherman was a West Pointer, who returned to the service at the outbreak of the Civil War, finally succeeding Grant as commanding general of the United States army when the latter became President.

GOOD ROADS AND TRADE

Since the beginning of history the flow of commerce has caused the construction of highways. The growth and the prosperity of the United States since the coming of the automobile and the motor truck has been measured by the increase in improved highways. Business has been created by these highways and in many localities a balance has been struck where business cannot further increase because of the highways serving that locality cannot accommodate a greater number of vehicles.

When a saturation point such as this is approached, the growth of business stops and the flow of commerce goes elsewhere. Commenting on the highway situation, Harvey C. Freuhauf, president of a trailer company, recently said: "It is not by accident that we find better business along better highways. When a new highway is constructed it is not long before the commerce along that highway accommodates itself to the capacity of the artery. There it is apt to stop.

"In many parts of our nation business has reached a saturation point because of inadequate highway facilities. Let us stop diverting the money from highway taxes and apply them to building bigger and better highways and as a result produce a corresponding increase in business in the area served by these arteries."

AN amateur pugilist in a small town in Ohio accepted the invitation of a visiting professional who announced that he was ready to meet all comers.

The local prodigy mounted the stage, climbed through the ropes and gave his name to the announcer. As the announcer was introducing him the amateur tugged at his sleeve and whispered something in his ear.

"Kid Binks also desires me to state," he said, "that this is his first appearance in any ring."

He stepped back and the two men squared off. The professional ducked a wild swing, led with his right and knocked the amateur down with such violence that he fairly spattered when he hit the floor.

The master of ceremonies stood over the fallen one, counting him out. At eight the dazed youth got upon his knees. At nine he spoke in a husky whisper.

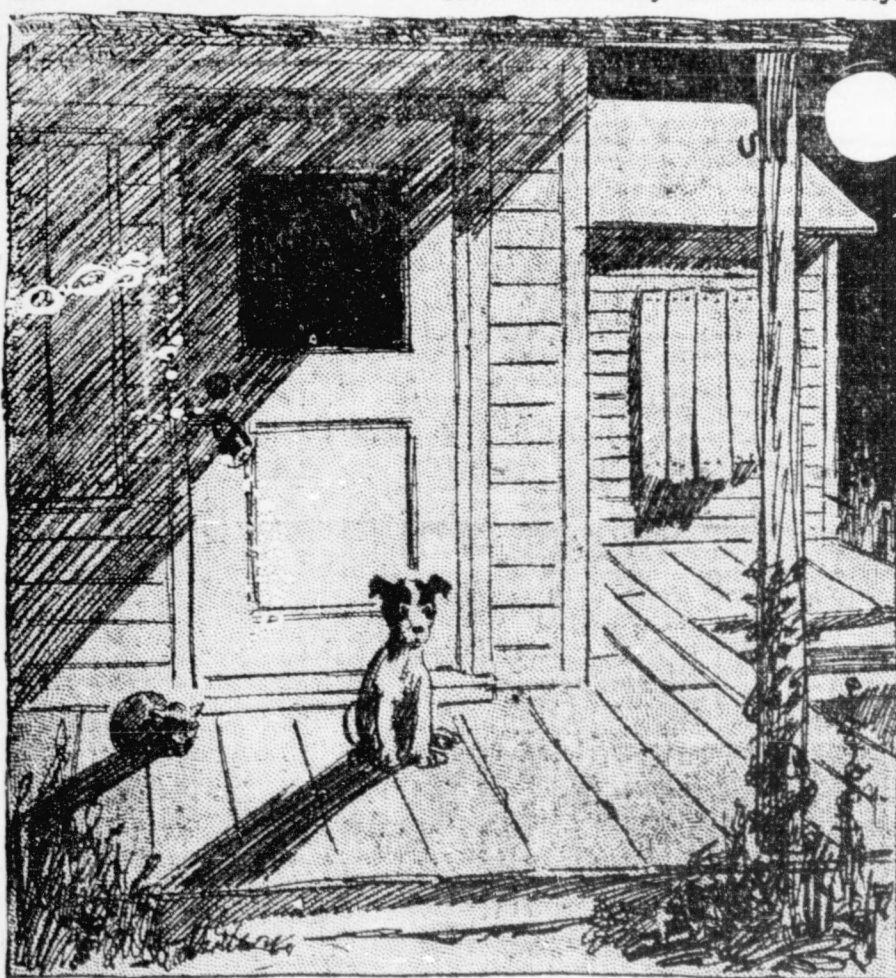

The announcer raised his hand for silence.

"Kid Binks also desires me to state," he said, "that this is his last appearance in any ring."

Columbia University is having an art exhibition of works created by faculty members in their spare time. Five of the better pieces admitted, however, are three cartoons and two portrait drawings, not by a professor, but by Patsy De Vito, a wall scrubber in the university's janitor department.

A wall switch has been invented to control the three-light intensity of electric lamps installed anywhere in the room.

$2,700,000 for Telephone Expansion

Nearly $2,700,000 will be spent this year in Kentucky by Southern Bell for constructing, reconstructing and adapting telephone facilities to meet governmental and other telephone needs of the state.

More than 600,000 men in the nation's armed forces will be trained in the South. Of these more than 33,000 will be located in Kentucky.

To care for these men there will be 71 military camps and establishments in the South.

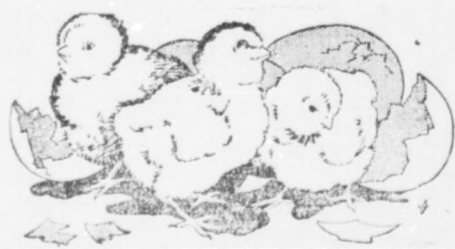

Necessary switchboards, numerous other equipment, and many miles of telephone wire have already been installed. Additional equipment is being provided as required.

An adequate communication service is vital to the defense program and telephone forces have been engaged for months in planning and installing the service to meet the maximum needs of government and industry for both local and long distance telephone service.

Telephone men and women are now better equipped and trained than ever before to do the big job ahead of them. They go forward confident of their ability to maintain the service at its present high standard of efficiency and dependability.

SPEED POSSIBILITIES

Certain aviation engineers predict that airplanes may eventually attain a speed of 1,000 miles an hour; also that non-stop flights around the world will be made.

As the apparent movement of the sun, due to the earth's rotation, is less than 1,000 miles an hour in latitudes above and below the equator, such a speed would present some interesting collateral experiences.

For example: Traveling west, one might circle the globe in daylight, as the plane would keep pace with the sun. Traveling east, the plane would meet the sun twice, so that it would apparently experience two days in 24 hours. Strangest of all, if the plane were flying somewhat faster than the visible movement of the sun, it might start out shortly after sunset and fly west to overtake the sun, which would appear to rise in the west. Continuing its flight, it would finally leave the sun so far behind that it would appear to set in the east.

A watch carried under either of these conditions might tell how long the plane had been in the air but would be of little use in determining the time of day at any given point during the flight.

REVEALING WHAT HAS BEEN TAKING PLACE IN CITY GOVERNMENT

$35,000. Another issue was made July 1, 1929 for $15,000. Then in 1933 another issue was made bringing the total of all work works revenue bonds to $55,000, to liquidate the issue of 1928-29, and to provide money for improvements at the water works. This improvement included installation of the present diesel plant, erection of the building that houses it, installation of pumps and sinking a new well. Today this amount has been reduced to $46,000, and is being cleared at the rate of $3,000 a year.

In 1927 a street building program was launched in Fulton by the city administration, and from December 30, 1927 to June 21, 1929, a total of $241,562.92 bonded indebtedness was issued for paving of streets and curbing. This however, was not a direct obligation against the city. Divided out in districts, this street indebtedness was as follows:

District 1—$40,638.10.

District 2—$19,650.52.

District 3—$4,025.37.

District 4—$56,576.02.

District 5—$31,672.61.

With the total street indebtedness originally standing at $241,562.92, it has gradually been reduced by the taxpayers until now it is only $10,925.70. In other words, since 1927, the property owners of Fulton have paid off $230,637.22 on street debts and bonded indebtedness. In the meantime nearly $325,000 in taxes have been collected by the city of Fulton, or a little less than $25,000 yearly.

But don't let all these figures fool you. The city of Fulton is in better financial condition than most cities in the state of Kentucky, and in many respects taxpayers are not burdened with taxation that their neighbors in other communities now have. Only good management and rigid economy have brought this about. Perhaps there are a good many things that Fulton needs, but with tremendous efforts being exerted on the defense program by the federal government this is no time for expansion by municipalities.

FOREIGN PROPAGANDA

Tens of foreign propaganda directed against the interests of the United States have been distributed throughout the country in recent years, much of which has been free by our postal service, according to Homer L. Challaux, director of the Americanism Commission of the American Legion.

He declares that one German propagandist, H. R. Hoffman sent to the United States through the mails by way of Russia and Japan more than nine tons of Nazi propaganda in a period of 12 weeks. Under existing international postal arrangements, postage on foreign mail is collected by the country in which it originates and is distributed without charge in the country of destination. Thus the country which sends out the greatest volume of mail obtains the advantage.

There are many organizations, both abroad and in the United States, which distribute Nazi, Fascist and Communist propaganda through our mails. Some of these have adopted deceptive names such as the American Fellowship Forum, the Nazi publication called The Free American and others.

At the present time all these subversive groups and their publications are engaged in attacks on the nation's defense program. Unfortunately, a few Americans in high places are also giving comfort to the dictators by trying to hamper aid to Britain.

However, public sentiment is now so overwhelmingly in accord with the policies stated in the new lend-lease law that neither foreign propaganda nor domestic criticism will have much effect from now on.

Even a jaywalker has rights, but they are very often the last sad rites.

MRS. PARRIS SAYS SHE HAD ALMOST LOST HOPE

Retonga Again Wins Grateful Tribute From Well-Known Resident Tells Happy Experience

Throughout all Tennessee, from city and town, village and hamlet, thousands of grateful, happy men and women praise Retonga. Among them, is Mrs. Maude Parris, for thirty years an esteemed resident of Centerville, Tenn., who declares:

"My suffering from sour, nervous indigestion was so bad I was always afraid to eat a bite of supper, for gas bloated me at night until my heart thumped like a trip-hammer and I felt like I would choke. My housework and everything else I did was a burden, and it was all I could do to stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. My bowels were so sluggish I had to take harsh purgatives three or four times a week. I dreaded for night to come for I knew I would be unable to sleep or relax. Morning often found me so let-down and miserable I hardly had strength to get into my clothes."

"I was resigned to suffering, but Retonga brought me relief I had not dared to hope for. My appetite returned and I eat without fear of distress. My nerves are calm, and sound sleep brought refreshing rest and strength. My neighbors noticed how much better I feel and want to know what I took. I tell them Retonga is responsible for my happy relief and well-being. It is the best medicine I ever saw."

Retonga is a purely herbal stomachic medicine, mildly laxative, combined with Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves and strength. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Co.

FARM SURPLUSES BLOCK U. S. PAN-HEMISPHERIC PROGRAM

the pressure of hemisphere surpluses with two direct suggestions, one for "intensive inter-American relief distribution"—a hemisphere F. S. C. C.—but without concrete proposals for paying the producers of these commodities. They also suggest "international commodity arrangements, the object of which would be to reduce future supplies of these products more nearly to the level of the existing demand." This letter is described by L. A. Wheeler, Chief of the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations, as a possibility "that is being explored."

Officials discussing "hemisphere unity" slide over this major problem and propose instead to transform Latin America into a source for raw materials which can no longer be obtained with ease in more distant places. While this is presented as an answer to Latin America's search for export outlets, it frankly applies only to tropical and semi-tropical products.

On the one hand such a program will be of little use to southern Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay and Chile, which are the principal source of 7 of Latin America's major agricultural exports today. On the other hand the plan envisages the growing of tropical and semi-tropical products most of which would take many years to develop.

Rubber is being discussed as one of these new commodities. But it takes seven or eight years to grow a mature rubber tree and it would take longer to secure enough plants and adapt them to Latin American conditions.

Mandioca flour from which "sizing" is made, is generally grown in tropical Latin America but "fresh capital, improved processing machinery, and better organization of the industry on a business basis would be necessary," according to the Department of Commerce.

The expansion possibilities of fibers are much acclaimed, but the Department of Commerce states that while the physical conditions are favorable, large capital investments and "a plentiful supply of cheap labor" are greatly needed.

The other products listed as having a great future include cinchona bark, from which quinine is made, camphor and tea. Silk is also mentioned. All of these would take many years to develop even if sufficient capital were available.

Apart from the fact that this whole plan for tropical and semi-tropical Latin America is directed toward converting these countries into a colonial empire of the United States it does not solve the export problem of the rest of Latin America nor can it be realized in the near future.

"BEHIND THE SCENES IN AMERICAN BUSINESS"

BUSINESS—Still going up. That's the phrase for almost everything in the business picture. Exports dropped for February, naturally, but even in that field non-agricultural items showed a gain, though not enough to offset big drops in farm exports. Department store sales dropped slightly, too, but that's in comparison to the week that, in 1940, led up to Easter. Otherwise, all is on the "up" side. Non-agricultural employment in February hit 36,594,000—highest February level on record. Refrigerator sales set new high for February. Freight car loadings at best level since November 9, 1940, and highest for any comparable week since 1930. Furniture trade orders for February were 46 per cent above the same month of last year, and the best for any February since 1929. Steel ingot production running at 99 1-2 per cent of capacity—and hitting 102 1-2 in some plants in Chicago area. Buying of new freight cars by railroads is at best rate since 1930, may exceed 100,000 cars this year.

PATRONAGE PREVAILS—While 71 per cent of the present federal employees were selected on the basis of fitness, and 650 cities have adopted the merit system, only a negligible few American counties have availed themselves of this modern, effective hiring policy, according to a report by Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, president of the National Consumers Tax Commission. "Patronage dies hard in counties," she declared. She cited the case of big Cuyahoga county, Ohio, where two-thirds of the present 2,500 workers got their jobs through political favor "despite the fact that for 28 years Ohio law has required all county employees to be selected on the basis of tested merit."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—A favorite sage observation of armchair economists is that swift-rising sales of alarm clocks and low-priced watches are sure sign of good times. It works out that way now, with demand for low-priced timepieces described as "simply terrific," because so many more folk find it necessary to get up on time o'mornings. Another factor in the watch sales boom is the orders from other countries, which formerly got a good share of their timepieces from Germany. Paradox is that one famous alarm clock making company has turned down an order for 75,000 bell-ringers, from England, because it's using the brass it has on hand to make inexpensive wrist watches instead. They can produce 10 wrist watches—the brass parts—with the amount of that metal one alarm clock would take. On the other hand, the outlook is for a considerable rise in the general level of watch prices, possibly even a disappearance of the time-honored "dollar" variety.

CHEMURGIC HEYDAY—As demands of defense put greater pressure than ever upon our raw materials, farm "chemurgy" comes to the fore. It means the use of agricultural products for the creation, viz chemistry, of industrial commodities, like wall-boards and plastics. At the national meeting of the chemurgic council in Chicago, Harold W. Delzell, development engineer of the B. F. Goodrich company, said it's even possible to make synthetic rubber from American farm products or by-products, such as straw, corn stalks, whey, culls of all kinds. Main problem is getting such by-products in sufficient volume, and concentrated at one point, for most economical processing. He said some equipment for "home-processing" on the farm is already at hand, while other machinery could be designed and made on a standardized basis, as are today's rubber-shod tractors. With the aid of transmission and V-belt, farmers are already using tractors to run several kinds of processing equipment, he pointed out, and estimated the development of such belting has stepped up the power potential of the modern farm by about one-third in the past decade.

Deep-Rooted in the People's Needs

America confronts an uncertain future, wherein trials and emergencies undoubtedly abide. To steady ourselves we must have faith—faith in our own works, faith also in those with whom and for whom we labor.

The Illinois Central has that faith. It knows its own strength, experience and ability. It knows, too, that its roots as an institution are anchored deep in the needs of all the people. So rooted, it asks that we its friends may picture it to others:

Not as a vast aggregation of capital totaling 750 million dollars; but rather as the combined savings of men and women, some of whom may be living just across our street.

Not as the employer of 30,000 men and women, most of them far away; but rather as the livelihood of some people we know, who trade at our store and send their children to the same school we do.

Not as the payer of taxes totaling ten million dollars a year; but rather as a helper to carry the burden of governmental support to which we all contribute.

Not as the producer of eleven billion ton-miles of freight transportation annually; but rather as the carrier that takes our products to market and brings us fuel, clothing and food.

Not as the producer of 640 million miles of passenger transportation a year; but rather as the carrier that takes us and our neighbors where we want to go and brings us all safely home.

Not as anything mysterious at all, but rather as a local business, a good citizen and, above all, a good neighbor.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY
Gordon Wilson Ph.D.
WESTERN KENTUCKY
TEACHERS COLLEGE
BOWLING GREEN, KY.

JUNK

It has become such a habit of ours to change the physical phases of our civilization that we soon laugh at what was just the thing a few days or years ago, feeling vastly superior in this attitude to those who cherish old things. We move to the lumber room or the basement or the attic what we not so long ago paid our money for and forthwith install some new thing—hoping thereby to keep our social notch and remain the envy of people slightly less fortunate than we. In their place of hiding the old discarded things furnish apartment houses for dirt-daubers.

and rats, waiting, meanwhile, for a change of taste that will search all places of deposit for fine old things that Mother and Grandmother used to own. For a period of months or years this valuable stuff is merely junk. What is left of it after a period of neglect may be worth unbelievable sums.

This reminds me of one of my schoolmates of years ago. He was left in charge of a fine old home while its occupants, a learned man and his wife, went to Europe. During the year a baby was born. There was no cradle among all the fine furniture in the big house but there was a child's bed just the right size. The caretaker was a pretty fair carpenter, and so he cut the legs of the bed down a bit, fastened on some home-made rockers, and all was well, until the owner returned and found that the family treasure, the rosewood bed, had been mutilated. That same young man, now middle-aged, would give a big part of his earnings for that fine old bed, in the years since his unthoughtful act he has learned that some are not junk though they may have been relegated to the storeroom.

We folklorists, with no notion of delaying progress, are forever trying to get people to see values before they pass, to seize upon some things that have no business ever being out of date, to promote a sane appraisal of things while they are plentiful and not redone and exposed for sale at staggering prices. Some institutions have passed because their day is over, definitely. Others have passed just because fads have come in to displace them. It is these latter things that we ought to hold on to, though all the neighbors should regard us as painfully behind the times.

If I were moralizing, I could turn some of this same doctrine to account. Undoubtedly, many customs died a natural death, and no amount of resuscitation would restore them. Others have been chloroformed unnecessarily. It is laughable how one generation often undoes what was proclaimed as the final chapter in human excellence in a preceding generation. I am one who praises the sensible dress of the modern girl; what I am afraid of is that, after years of freedom of breath as well as freedom of speech, fashion will deride some silly return to clothes that are hampering and unhygienic. Wouldn't it be laughable if we should see the wild, free children of our time trussed up once more in hoopskirts, and feet that have had a freedom denied to most feet since shoes were invented crowded again into moulds to suit some whim of style? As much as we appreciate sensible changes, we cannot deny that there is always a danger that common sense will go to defeat when it crosses swords with the style of the moment.

YOUTH MOVEMENT (American Style)

The tremendous and reassuring record of the United States Junior Chamber as revealed in an article by Charles E. Hewitt, Jr., in the March Reader's Digest, is a bright spot in a year of national jitters and world disasters. This all too little known "be of service" organization of America's young men, aged 21 to 35, has for fifteen years spit on its hands and dug in to master countless civic jobs around the nation. They have done everything from breaking a notorious gambling ring in Tampa, Fla., to personally painting numbers on every unmarked house in Texas City—from raising millions in back taxes to save Dayton, Ohio from bankruptcy, to inventing the "Safety with Light" program that is saving countless lives through modernizing obsolete lighting on streets and highways throughout the United States.

In a few years these young men have built a deservedly famous institution, numbering 129,000 in 1,000 communities, without any paid officers and without paying anything to "sell" themselves to the public. Their tremendous attraction throughout America has arisen simply from "getting things done." In giving new life to tired towns by their unselfish energies, they have built an astoundingly vigorous life and record for themselves. In welding, through discussion and action, the thinking of young business men, young workers, school teachers, lawyers, ministers, farmers, newspapermen, and young employers and young employees, the Jaycees have harked back to the type of democracy that made America and that will make it tomorrow.

There is a vital difference between this generation of young men in America and those in Europe, who, dull and depressed, followed the dictators. America's youth has followed the American pattern; To pitch in, without waiting for orders, wherever they saw their country and hometown needing them most. It is good to see how great have been the results, principle has been carrying to so and how much new strength the principle "make democracy work" has been carrying to so many communities. It is the soundest insurance for the future of America.

An elderly woman was caught washing her clothes in the large bird bath just off the capitol plaza at Harrisburg, Pa.

Menus of a certain Boston restaurant are planned according to the weather forecast.

"Why, I don't know what a fire-plug is," explained Mrs. T. B. Lasky, of Muskogee, Okla., when she was hauled into court for parking near one.
