BURIAL HELD HERE FOR J. C. CHEEK

Funeral services were conducted at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the First Methodist church for Prof. J. C. Cheek, who died Friday morning at eleven o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Commodore Brann, in Oklahoma City. Services were conducted by Rev. G. C. Fain of Dyersburg, assisted by Rev. Loyal O. Hartman and Rev. E. A. Autrey. Burial was in Fairview cemetery in charge of Hornbeak Funeral Home.

After completing his school work in Lebanon, Ohio, he was first employed in the school at Huntingdon, Tenn. Later he went to Milan, Ripley, Humboldt, Hickman and Fulton. ## Twins Win Honors At Cayce High School

Lynette and Gynette Oliver, 17, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Oliver of Crutcheville, Route 2, by high scholarship have won the honor of valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of their graduating class at Cayce High School. Their scholastic records were 3.69 and 3.65 out of a possible 4.

The twins have been leaders in their class throughout school, and they have taken an active part in school activities. Lynette has won several honors in declamation in the county-wide contests. With their course of study in high school principally in the commercial department, they have been outstanding students in typing and bookkeeping.

Their attendance has been regular, despite the fact that before the inauguration of school bus service, they had to talk three or four miles to attend school. They are the sisters of Kenneth Oliver, who taught for four years in the Cayce school, but is now assistant Scout executive in the Roanoke, Va., area.

There are nine children in the Oliver family, with the twins the youngest. Every child has graduated from high school, with several being honor students. The twins were born and reared in Fulton county.

The semi-annual singing convention of Fulton and Hickman counties was held Sunday at Mt. Zion church, located between Beclerton and Water Valley. It is estimated that during the day about 1000 people attended, with singers coming from six nearby counties, including many outstanding quartets.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME, LATER DRUG STORE

The men in the truck were identified as Roy Smith, 50, and Frank Krouse, 48, both of Memphis. Miss Sylvia Hughes, the third occupant of the truck, was rescued by Carl Williams and Clifford Neal.

FARM BUREAU MAKES PLANS FOR BIG SHOW

At a meeting of directors of the Fulton County Farm Bureau held at Hickman last week, Friday and Saturday, August 22 and 23, were set as tentative dates for the Annual Baby Beef Show and Sale and the Bureau's annual picnic. The event will be held at the fair grounds in Fulton, according to announcement by Roscoe Stone, president of the Farm Bureau.

The 1941 show and sale of baby beef calves by Fulton County 4-H club and FFA boys and girls, will mark the fourth exhibition staged under the auspices of the Farm Bureau, and for the first time will be open to entries from Hickman, Carlisle and Ballard counties, which will materially enlarge the scope and interest of the event.

It is anticipated that over 150 calves will be shown this year as compared with 40 to 50 entries during the past three years when the show was restricted to Fulton county boys and girls.

"These shows and sales have been very successful," S. V. Foy, county agent stated. He credits the 4-H club baby beef projects and annual show with playing a major part in the substantial increase in livestock raising in this area. The sales have attracted buyers from over a wide area, and while prices have never quite reached those in some sections of the state, they have been well above the market and very gratifying, according to Mr. Foy.

The Farm Bureau picnic is one of the outstanding events of the year for members of this organization, the membership this year numbering over 700 which gives the Bureau the distinction of being the second largest in the state.

It is estimated that between 300 and 350 slabs will be made daily, employing some 300 to 400 persons, with a payroll approximating $4,000 or $5,000 a week.

Overruling a motion for a new trial, Federal Judge Boyd Monday sentenced Dr. W. A. Nailling, Union City, Tenn., physician, to three years and fined him $10,000 on a charge of selling narcotics illegally.

Dr. Nailling, 69, recently was convicted by a Federal jury at Jackson, Tenn., on eight counts in an indictment charging him with writing prescription for a drug addict.

Attorneys for Dr. Nailling indicated that they would file a motion for appeal and Judge Boyd directed that the fine be paid and held in escrow pending outcome of the appeal. The physician is out under $5,000 bond.

His sentence was designated to be served in a special institution for narcotic law violators not addicted to drugs.

WOMAN KILLED IN CAR-TRAIN CRASH

Mrs. Annie Butler, 48, of Wingo, was instantly killed and her nephew, John Logan Vaughan, 25, also of Wingo, was critically injured at 10:15 o'clock Monday morning when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Mobile & Ohio local train at the crossing on Highway 94 in Cayce.

Mrs. Butler was hurled forty feet from the car along the tracks as the collision occurred. Vaughan, driver of the car, was pinned beneath the automobile when it overturned. He was brought to the Fulton hospital where it was learned he had a fractured skull, fractured pelvis, a crushed right leg, lacerations of the face and upper body and internal injuries. His condition is extremely critical.

Witnesses said that Vaughan apparently did not hear the crossing bell or the approaching train as he drove on the track at the speed of approximately thirty-five miles an hour. Mrs. Butler and her nephew were enroute to Hickman where they expected to move.

The engineer of the train was quoted as saying he did not see the car until just before the train struck it. A coroner's jury, with Coroner E. A. Hammond in charge, returned a verdict of accidental death "by reason of the driver's failing to observe a railroad signal."

The auto was demolished.

Mrs. Butler is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alice Vaughan of Wingo and Mrs. Lillian Mullins of Hickman; two half-sisters, Mrs. Eva Gardner of Sedalia and Mrs. Jersey Davis of Fulton.

Pat Henry, well known Fulton county farmer and brother of Sheriff O. C. Henry, who witnessed the accident, suffered a heart attack and was brought to the Fulton hospital. He was returned to his home Monday afternoon.

THE FORUM

By J. PAUL BUSHART, Editor

A column conducted for news, views and comments, in which readers of The News are invited to participate. Mail contributions care of THE FORUM, this newspaper.

Prof. J. C. Cheek, well known and beloved citizen of Fulton, who died in Oklahoma City last week end, has left a record behind him that stands as a monument to his integrity and benevolent character. For years he was active in this county as an educator, first as superintendent of the Hickman schools, and later in the same capacity in Fulton.

I remember well my first day in school at Carr Institute, for that same day I met Mr. Cheek. Although just a tad in grade school, coming here from another community, everything was strange and new to me. I was standing, perhaps a bit forlornly at the hall doorway, when he walked up to me. Asking my name, he engaged me in conversation in his pleasing and inimitable way, and before I knew it I felt perfectly at home. Ever after that I always derived a great deal of pleasure by going to his office and talking with him.

I use this personal reference just to illustrate what has happened to hundreds of pupils who attended school under his administration. I have yet to find one who did not love him and delight in the pleasant moments that somehow seemed to accompany him. Yes, he was not only a great educator, he was a friend to children and to men. He took pride in the accomplishments of his pupils, and the progress and improvement of his community was forever in his thoughts. God spared him a long, useful life, and the deeds that he leaves recorded on the table of time are many and varied. Although you have gone to that land beyond, dear teacher, your pupils will cherish everlasting fond memories of you.

It now appears like the race for the office of county judge will have several entries this year. Judge Walker, incumbent, will seek reelection, C. P. Mabry, mayor of Hickman, and Pat Henry doubtless will make the race. Homer Robb, member of the fiscal court and magistrate of this district, will likely announce, according to reports. If there are any others from this end of the county we have not heard of them.

The jailer's race will probably have four or five candidates. Up to now we have not heard of any opposition for C. N. Holland, county court clerk, Wood Tipton, as county attorney, or Harry Lee Waterfield as state representative. But the election is several months off yet, and one never knows what will take place before then.

This year Fulton will elect a new mayor and board of council. It is rumored that Paul DeMyer will not seek re-election as mayor, and some of the councilmen will not announce. Friends of Smith Atkins have been endeavoring to get him to accept a nomination for mayor, as there is a good deal of work to be done by the city, and Smith is a proverbial "sparkplug" in getting a job done.

Every year we hear talk about the unsightly and unsanitary condition of the creek running through Fulton, and the danger it brings of floods. Everyone admits that something should be done to permanently settle this eternal problem, but so far no project seems to have gotten off to a good start. We are still wondering if the citizens of the community are going to allow this much-needed civic improvement to go undone. Practically every organization in town has at one time or another discussed the problem, and it seems to us that if we all get together with a grim determination to get the job done, that it can be done now. Let us eliminate this blight to our community.

A selectee who reported recently at Fort Jackson, S. C., to begin his year of military service brought a bedroom suit, a rowing machine and a bicycle.

The wedding of Margie Atkins and Alex Cummings of Minehead, Eng., was delayed because the bridegroom was too nervous to make the responses properly.

Pete, a canary owned by Mrs. Effie Bishop of Quincy, Mass., survived by burying his head under his wing when a fire filled the house with smoke.

A robber who took $9.70 from patrons of a night club in Norwich, Conn., returned the money to the proprietor with a note of apology saying he must have been drunk.

A psychologist declares that association with pretty young women is an aid to longevity. Perhaps, if one's wife is a poor shot.

Miss Katherine Dewey, 23-year-old head nurse in a New York hospital, is the new national bobbed racing champion.

The birth of boy and girl twins horrifies natives of Bali, in the Dutch East Indies. The house of the parents is destroyed, the site purified, and mother and infants sequestered for 42 days.

Money Talks

By Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

It may not be amiss to write about prices, you may be able to save some money.

It was reported several days ago that manufacturers have increased the price of men's and boys' suits from $1.50 to $2.50 and that prospects are bright for another increase from $2.50 to $5.00 a suit before fall. Producers point out that the cost of raw materials and labor has gone up considerably and that taxes are also adding to their costs. Rising raw material prices are due in part to the increased demand of the army and navy for uniforms, tents, blankets, etc.

When we realize that wholesalers' and retailers' costs have also gone up, it is fair to assume that the price of suits to consumers may rise appreciably over what it was a year ago. I would not be surprised to see retail prices of men's suits go up from $5.00 to $10.00 this fall.

The hardware trade reports advances in prices from 5 to 10 per cent on many items. Some of these increases will affect the average household as they are tinware, scissors, screen door sets, fuses, rubber-covered electrical wire, and galvanized roofing products.

These advances are, in part, due to the diversion of a large section of peacetime manufacturing capacity to manufacture of accesseries and parts used in connection with armament.

Cash wholesale food markets, in large cities, report that prices, as a whole, have advanced to the highest levels since 1937 and now stand around 20 percent higher than a year ago. Food supplies in the U. S. are still plentiful, but with the defense program in full swing demand for food has increased sharply.

All living costs are pointing upward, and all indications are that prices will be much higher this fall. May I again remind you that commodities on the shelf and in the closet are now worth more than dollars in the bank. This is always true in periods of rising prices.

Getting the Dates Mixed

By IRVIN S. COBB

THIS one is of the vintage of the days between the Mexican War and the Civil War days when the regular army was a few regiments scattered along the frontier, and the state militia was whatever and whoever appeared in the field on Muster day.

Muster day was the big annual event in the lives of the young men of the states carved out of the Northwest territory. On this day the Colonel—more often appointed on account of his oratorical ability than his knowledge of military matters—called the youth of the bushings together for a looking over. Majors, captains, and lieutenants vied in getting out a bumper attendance. Some were "critter" companies, which meant they were mounted on their own horses, and some were afoot; all without uniforms and none with complete equipment. Private Nels Garrett of the "Raccoon Blues," a company of the Indiana Rifles, expected a corporalship if things turned out right. He called his squad for a meeting the night before at Karn's stillhouse. Fortified by large drinks of Karn's "singlings," Nels' squad was ready for man or devil as they filed out before daylight for the trudge across the hills to the point of rendezvous.

Old man Slade and his aged wife also had it in mind to be on hand early. They cut across the woods and through the little graveyard and were just coming over the stile as Nels and his party hove into view in the uncertain light of the newborn morn.

Nels had expected everybody to be at the Muster, but he was scarcely prepared for this. Yet, if he was to be a corporal, he must take the initiative.

"Go on back," he cried, waving his arms to the apparitions on the burying ground stile. "Go on back. This here ain't Resurrection morn. This is the Raccoon Blues' Muster day!"

considered unfit for crops but now restored to fertility by use of lime, phosphate legumes and grasses and erosion control practices.

Supporting this conclusion are Census figures showing that land available for crops in Kentucky has been increased from 12,321,563 acres in 1930 to 13,212,628 acres in 1940—an increase of 891,065 acres.

Along with the increase in pasture, the Census report shows, the acreage of hay harvested in the state has been increased from 1,274,534 in 1929 to 1,533,212 in 1939. In the same period the total tonnage of hay harvested increased from 1,306,228 to 1,657,461, indicating that production per acre has been considerably improved by treatment of meadows with soil-building materials, Royce asserts.

While there has been a decrease in the number of work stock on farms in the state during the past ten years, the report shows that the total number of most other livestock has been increased. The total number of all cattle increased from 908,253 to 1,130,152, sheep and lambs increased from 838,477 to 938,956, and hogs and pigs increased from 667,421 to 1,053,242.

Average of most crops grown in Kentucky in 1939 were below averages in 1929. The total corn acreage was reduced from 2,843,222 in 1929 to 2,532,427 in 1939, though total production increased slightly—from 1,008,387 bushels to 61,052,096 bushels. The total acreage of all types of tobacco was reduced from 466,118 in 1929 to 361,005 in 1939 with total production reduced from 376,648,533 pounds in 1929 to 324,518,411 pounds in 1939.

CENSUS REPORT SHOWS KENTUCKY'S PLOWABLE PASTURE, LIVESTOCK, AND HAY CROP INCREASED SINCE 1930.

Evidence that Kentucky farmers have been doing a good job of taking care of their land in recent years is shown in preliminary figures on the 1940 Census. M. D. Royce, chairman of the Kentucky Agricultural Conservation Committee, points out.

One of the most significant figures in the report, Royce said, shows that plowable pasture in the state has been increased from 5,394,648 acres in 1930 to 6,703,333 acres in 1940—an increase of 1,308,685 acres during the ten years.

And, though several hundred thousand acres of this pasture is land retired from production of other crops, Royce pointed out, a great deal of it is land formerly

AS THE TWIG IS BENT

A Ten-Minute Talk by Dr. F. J. Moore of Portland, Maine.

As the twig is bent so grows the tree and as the spine is bent so grows the child. You, as a parent, have a responsibility we need not remind you of. You are ever conscious of it. You have heeded the excellent hygienic counsel in regard to the early, timely, necessary care of your child's teeth, eyes, ears and other vital structures. However we want to impress upon you the importance of a most vital part of your child's body, which in the past has not received the care and correction that its importance merits. In the future it will, for the modern art of manipulation or adjustment has proven to the world the danger present in spines, which are out of normal alignment, creating insidious nerve pressure, which disturbs vital organic function within the body, resulting in disease.

We are stressing to you, the parent, the importance of the spine, because of all the various causes of disease, the one which is foremost among all others is nerve pressure.

In the bony framework of your child's body the spinal column is essentially vital. It is composed of twenty-four movable segments or vertebrae, separated by pads of cartilage, and interlaced by networks of ligamentous and muscular tissue. The top of the spine joins or articulates with the base of the skull. The last vertebrae of the spine joins with the sacrum bone which is a part of the pelvis or hip structure. Below the sacrum is the coccyx or tail bone.

To realize the structural importance of the spine you must appreciate that it supports the skull, contributes to the support of the shoulder girdle and consequently the arms, furnishes attachment for the twelve pair of ribs, which form the important thoracic cavity, housing such vital organs as the lungs and heart. The spinal column also furnishes attachments of support for the pelvic or hip structure and to this of course the legs are joined. To complete this structural picture you must appreciate that the muscles of the neck, shoulders, back and hips are attached directly to the vertebrae of the spine, and in addition that there are vital soft tissue attachments directly to the spine that furnish support for internal organs within.

Now you can see that as the spine is bent so grows the child. Now you can see why the science of Chiropractic stresses the importance of the spinal column. Other sciences in the field of healing have considered the spine and taken steps to correct and prevent spinal curvatures and defects. Spinal examinations have been made in hospitals, in clinics, and in schools. Braces and corrective exercises have been used to improve conditions of spinal curvature, as kyphosis, scoliosis and lordosis. Corrective diets, to prevent and offset deficiencies in diet, have been utilized. All these efforts are entirely meritorious. In this work, however, there has been a missing link, without which this worthwhile work will never accomplish what it has set out to do. This missing link is Chiropractic, the art of examining the position of each vertebrae of the spine, and correcting by manipulation the position of those vertebrae that are not in normal alignment.

Therefore, you, as a parent, cannot conscientiously be satisfied with any treatment that does not include manipulation or adjustment as when there is need for same. With conditions as they are today there is only one way you will get definite corrective adjustment, and that is to take your child to a chiropractor. Besides his corrective treatment, he recognizes, too the importance of corrective exercise in the prevention of spinal curvatures as well as the need to offset or prevent deficiencies of diet.

The care of our child's spine is not all a matter of curvature consideration. There are numerous cases where but individual vertebrae are out of alignment, and the condition does not even approach that of curvature, but these individual vertebrae, if not corrected, can cause trouble. These are the average cases of spinal trouble that are most likely to be overlooked and later lead to more serious trouble. Here is another reason why you, as a parent, owe it to your child to have the spine checked at regular intervals by a spine specialist, a chiropractor.

We cannot leave this vital subject without consideration of that which is the most important item in the study of the spine and its relation to disease. That is the item of nerve pressure. From what we have discussed you must realize that if your child is to have a straight body the spine must be straight. If your child's bony or skeletal framework is to develop normally, spinal curvatures as well as displaced individual vertebrae must be considered. In the philosophy of health Chiropractic goes on beyond the consideration of mechanical skeletal defects and stresses the danger of nerve pressure at the spine. Chiropractic philosophy has proven that misaligned vertebrae in the spine can cause pressure on spinal nerves, resulting in abnormal internal organic function and disease.

This is the vital item that you, as a parent, cannot overlook. You must realize that there is danger to your child's health and development if this item of nerve pressure is not given proper consideration. Briefly we will show you how and why nerve pressure at the spine occurs. Housed within and protected by the skull in the brain. From the brain the spinal cord of nerve tissue runs downward, within the spinal column of hollow bony rings laid one upon another. These bony rings are the vertebrae. Let us look at one of these small openings. Half the opening is scalloped out of the lower border of the upper vertebrae, and half the opening is in the upper border of the lower vertebrae. This makes one complete opening called a foramen. In these small spinal column, between vertebrae, are located a vein, an artery and a spinal nerve branching out from the spinal cord. When you consider the pull exerted on the vertebrae by large and small muscles of the neck, shoulders, back and hips and the numerous shocks which the spine absorbs daily, you can easily see why and how a vertebrae can be pulled out of place or subluxated, resulting in nerve pressure on spinal nerves.

Over these nerves passes the force of life from the brain to control and govern function in various organs and tissues and glands. Nerve pressure at the spine results in a disturbance in this vital nerve supply and can do result in disturbed organic function and disease. There are other causes of disease. There are other primary causes and there are other predisposing or contributing causes, but this possibility of nerve pressure at the spine is one that you, as a parent, cannot afford to ignore. Spinal nerve pressure is the one most important primary cause of disease. Take your child to a chiropractor who recognizes this cause and takes steps to correct it and prevent it so that your boy or girl may develop a strong, healthy body and an alert mind with which to meet the world.

WHY IMITATE FAILURE?

For nearly a quarter of a century, smart boys and girls who write books and deliver lectures, have been telling us of the great things to be expected from Soviet Russia. It was to be a workers' paradise. The capitalist system was destroyed. The government became supreme, and the individual was a pawn of the state.

A quarter of a century is a long time. But if one can believe the record, results in Russia have been in reverse, rather than forward.

The principal idea of Russia communism is that government should own all means of production and distribution—all natural resources were taken from private enterprise and left to government to develop. Russia seized everything from private individuals. What has been the results? Want, starvation, stagnation, terrorism.

And, yet, in our own country, with Russia as an example to go by, we have those who would do, slyly and gradually, what was done in Russia ruthlessly and at one bold stroke. Government ownership, instead of fair and reasonable government regulation of private activities, is being promoted here in a subtle manner by tying up natural resources to the exclusion of their development by private enterprise. It's all done in the name of the dear people, the same as it was done in Russia. As officialism gains control, individual opportunity disappears.

Russia had its five-year and its ten-year program of electric power socialization. Witness the progress that same kind of program has made in this country. Apparently the field is being prepared to widen the net to include other natural resource industries.

If we are to learn anything from the object lesson of Russia, it should be to scrutinize all the laws of this land and discover to what extent our country is being influenced by Soviet ideas.

What the Puritans gave the world was not thought, but action.—Wendell Phillips.

"RETONGA RELIEVED ME AND I REGAINED 15 LBS."

Mrs. Shepard Had To Live On Milk and Soups and Was Too Weak To Do Her Housework. Now Eats Anything and Feels Fine.

The prompt relief brought by Retonga in thousands of cases often where every other means tried had failed, has brought grateful praise for this widely used medicine from coast to coast. Among thousands publicly endorsing Retonga is Mrs. J. R. Shepard, well known resident of Centerville, Tenn., who declares:

"Before I knew of Retonga I was so discouraged I felt like I would never feel good again. Indigestion caused me so much distress I had to live on milk and soups, and even these caused such terrible acid indigestion I was afraid to eat them.

Gassy bloating was so bad sometimes it almost took by breath away. I was so nervous I dreaded for night to come for I never seemed to get any sound sleep. I kept losing weight and strength until I could not do my housework, or even cook a meal.

"Retonga relieved me when everything else I tried had failed. Now my appetite and digestion are splendid, and I have no distress from gassy bloating. I sleep sound and rest good. I have regained fifteen pounds, and hardly a week goes by that my friends don't tell me I look so well. I wish I could tell everyone suffering as I did about this grand Retonga."

Retonga is a purely herbal stomachic medicine combined with Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves and strength. Thousands praise it. Retonga may be obtained at DeMyer Drug Store.

"Superior Coverage In The Fulton Trade Territory"

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

It has become obvious to almost everyone that labor is the Number 1 problem in the defense drive. On April 5th, defense director Knudsen said that 90 per cent of strikes must be eliminated or the defense program will fail. Under the best of conditions our arms program is not coming up to original hopes, and when strikes occur precious days and weeks are irretrievably lost.

The waste occasioned by strikes was computed in one of General Johnson's late columns. According to him, during January, February and the first three weeks of March, the strike toll was 1,129,000 man-days. And that, as he further observed, does not tell the whole story. Many of the strikes took place in key factories, the result being that other factories could not get needed materials, so hundreds of thousands of man-days were lost elsewhere.

Labor's excuse for strikes is that it is not getting its fair share of profits—that the industries which have been given war contracts are rolling up unprecedented gross revenues, and that the worker should be paid substantially more, and be given other, non-monetary benefits in addition. This argument may be valid in some cases. But, so far as most industries are concerned, gross profits are a poor gauge of net profits. The tax burden alone is taking most of the increased earnings, and there can be no doubt that taxes will be still higher in the years to come. You can carry on an operation in the most economical way when you have plenty of time—you must often take the most expensive way when the days are flying by and a deadline for delivery is at hand. The cost of most raw materials is on the rise. Long ago, top government officials said that no one is going to get rich out of this war. That will be largely true. Through taxation, the government can control and limit income just about as it pleases.

A number of thoughtful friends of labor are of the opinion that the strikes are, in a sense, suicidal—that they may alienate public good will to the extent that the immense gains made by labor during the past eight years may be lost. Every poll indicates that the public is "fed up" with what it regards as labor racketeering. They indicate an overwhelming majority of citizens favor some sort of forced mediation by government that will prevent strikes. As Raymond Clapper, a columnist who certainly has never been anti-labor, recently wrote,

Sweeping Into Popularity

The Sparkling New Drink With A Delightful Flavor!

Watch for the GRAPETTE Man in the Red, White and Blue Truck!

"Don't think that thousands of families, into whose homes conscription has reached, will not support the Roosevelt Administration if it is driven to take the hard-boiled way. Mr. Roosevelt will have public sentiment fully behind him."

This feeling is obviously shared in government circles. According to columnists Alsop and Kintner, "Such episodes as the Allis-Chalmers strike have filled the Congress, the best of all reflectors of public opinion, with violent resentment. The demand for strong measures to deal with the labor situation would have produced results long ago had not the House and Senate leaders struggled manfully to hold their followers back. The demand will soon grow too pressing to be ignored."

In short, unless labor "listens to reason," you can look forward to severe laws to control strikes. The late defiance of Secretary Knox and Commissioner Knudsen by a CIO leader in the Allis-Chalmers strike, was almost universally condemned by the nation's press. And the threat of far more important strikes in our most vital industries has caused some meaningful fist-clenching in Washington.

As the President has said, profiteering industry will also get short shrift. Government, through the priority system, can literally choke any business into submission. If worst comes to worst, he can use the power of commander. Labor leaders are mistaken if they think they can get away indefinitely with holding up the defense program. This is more than an arms drive—to millions of Americans it is a crusade. And they mean to see it through.

Military experts think the German steam roller will win some important initial successes, then will slow down as it hits the tough going. In the meantime, British sea control is now practically unquestioned, with a large part of the Italian fleet out of action. The decisive stage of the war may come soon.

Fire destroyed the barns of Albert Van Wormer's farm Saturday night, while the firemen were having their annual banquet. ### METHODIST STEWARDS MEET AT HICKMAN

The board of stewards of the Methodist Church of Hickman met Monday night in the office of Randle & Black, in regular monthly session. Various reports were heard, and plans were made for a revival to be held the latter part of August by the pastor, Rev. W. K. Dickerson, who will be assisted by an outside song director.

The Fellowship Supper was held Thursday night of last week at the church with a fine attendance, according to B. P. Black, after which the annual Lord's Supper was held.

The Hickman church has a total membership of 349, and much interest is being taken in the regular Sunday services as well as the prayer meetings on Wednesday nights.

The first Methodist church was erected in 1848 on the same site now occupied by the present edifice. The first church was remodeled in 1907, but was destroyed by fire in 1934. It was rebuilt the same year at the cost of $35,000 with the Rev. V. A. Deshazo as pastor. All indebtedness of the building with the exception of $1100 has been paid off, and this small amount will be cleared this fall, said Mr. Black, chairman of the board of stewards. The board is as follows: B. P. Black, H. L. Amberg, recording secretary and usher; H. C. Burch, H. C. Barrett, Paul Choate, usher; A. O. Caruthers, Ernest Fields, R. B. Goadler, usher; C. M. Hornsby, W. A. Johnston, vice chairman; T. M. Majors, F. T. Randle, O. H. Taylor, C. M. Watts, C. W. Middleton, Henry Sanger.
