LID OFF AGAIN; LAW IS VIOLATED

DRINKS BOTH SOFT AND HARD EASILY OBTAINABLE IN LAWLESS CITY

Louisville, Sept. 17.—Louisville was a city of pandemonium last night. With only a few exceptions all the public saloons were open and the proprietors of these places were freely selling all kinds of alcohol. It is stated that the liquor traffic is being conducted with free license by the police. Several men were arrested on the charge of promoting the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The police have been ordered to close all the saloons, but it is stated that the police are unable to enforce the law due to the pressure of the saloon owners.

Protest

To the authorities,

I am writing to voice my strong objection to the recent decision to allow the construction of a large shopping mall in the heart of our downtown area. This decision was made without considering the impact it would have on the community.

Firstly, the construction of the mall would lead to a significant increase in traffic, causing congestion and making it difficult for people to get around. This would have a negative impact on the local businesses, as well as on the residents who live in the area.

Secondly, the mall would lead to a significant increase in pollution, with the increased traffic and the energy required to power the stores. This would have a negative impact on the environment and the health of the residents.

Finally, the mall would lead to a significant decrease in the value of the surrounding property, as people would be less likely to invest in the area. This would have a negative impact on the local economy.

I urge you to reconsider this decision and find a solution that benefits the community as a whole.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

DELLS OF FREEDOM.
In historic and picturesque times a young lad stood at the foot of a stairway and when glad tidings of joy and victory came to those who had fought for freedom, they hailed the move in all the world—"Freedom and our independence!" Everyone should have an interest in the schools and should be willing to make sacrifices for their success, for it is the school and the church that are the monuments of our country. The public schools are the most important of all the consolidated ranks of schools, and must be fought for, with all the energy of the nation, with the greatest of all the national interests.

CIVILIZATION AND REFERENCE.
Threatening Strike of Cuba.
The attack on the White House yesterday, which saved the life of the President, was a complete victory for the President's forces. The report that the President had been wounded is entirely unfounded. The President was not even near the scene of the outbreak. The President, it is said, was taking a stroll on the south lawn of the White House. The rioters were subdued without loss of life.

The WOODEN WOMAN.

By L. O. FREEMAN.

The accounts of the other spirits of the "wooden woman." The expression on her face, which was the result of many years of wandering, and even when she stood among men she seemed to be carried on by the force of the country being studied and the speed with which she traveled, was her own. She was always in a hurry, and the spirit of the country she was in seemed to be the only thing that mattered.

In the summer when the weather was warm and the days were long, she walked through the fields, her hands full in her lap, and her voice was full of the sound of the wind. She was always looking around her, as if she were constantly aware of something, and was always moving forward.

In the winter when the weather was cold and the days were short, she walked through the snow, her hands full in her lap, and her voice was full of the sound of the wind. She was always looking around her, as if she were constantly aware of something, and was always moving forward.

In the spring when the weather was mild and the days were short, she walked through the fields, her hands full in her lap, and her voice was full of the sound of the wind. She was always looking around her, as if she were constantly aware of something, and was always moving forward.

In the fall when the weather was cool and the days were short, she walked through the fields, her hands full in her lap, and her voice was full of the sound of the wind. She was always looking around her, as if she were constantly aware of something, and was always moving forward.

The world was her home, and she was always on the move. She was a spirit of the country, and the country was her home. She was always looking around her, as if she were constantly aware of something, and was always moving forward.
