FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 1898

To make the war more popular in this country Spain should send Weyler to Cuba.

Nothing but war, and that too, with or without honor, will satisfy the organs of the free silver trust.

Is that Spanish torpedo fleet now speeding towards Porto Rico ever does any fighting it will be under the Stars and Stripes.

We'll all be Yankees in the end, with Spain, and none will glory in the name more than those who wore the gray a few years ago.

When McKinley said "I pray God for peace," he spoke as a Christian and a patriot, and that is why some people cannot understand him.

Even Congress itself subsided yesterday while waiting for Spain's reply to the President's ultimatum. That body is now face to face with actual war.

When asked by Spain what he meant by "self-government" for the Cubans, President McKinley replied, "Independence." That reply will become famous.

The world has been amazed at the rapidity and completeness of McKinley's war preparations, and that will stop this practice and will give

American yellow journals alone refuse to see.

The President has demonstrated to the country that he is conducting the correspondence with Spain himself, and is not consulting the secretaries or newspaper editors whose criticisms know not even the limits of common decency.

OAK GROVE CEMETERY.

Some complaint has been occasioned by the policy of desecration adopted by the present council in its management of Oak Grove cemetery and vast majority of complaint would be made were it generally known what is being done there. For many years that cemetery has been cared for with the hope of making it one of the most beautiful burial places in the state. One of the gifts of nature, which has done much to preserve the rustic beauty of the place, has been a number of large forest trees, which have been reserved during all the years since the cemetery was located. But for some reason or other these trees have become an eye sore to the present council or sub-committee in charge, and their destruction has been decreed. In fact several have been cut down—why or what for no sane person can tell. The very kind of trees that have been valued the most in the past and which are always prized the most highly in other cemeteries, are doomed to destruction by the present council.

This act of vandalism has been deliberately planned and ruthlessly carried out. Should the policy be pursued, the cemetery would have to be removed, for the beautiful oak grove from which the cemetery has taken its name is rapidly yielding to the destructive ideas of the cemetery management.

We believe that we are safe in making the statement that more money is being spent by cemetery management in large cities in securing and preserving trees than in any other manner of beautifying the grounds. First trees are especially valued and great care is taken in their preservation. But not so with our cemetery.

It is to be hoped that the council will stop this practice and will give orders that these old nature landmarks be preserved and that the few forest trees that grace Oak Grove cemetery be preserved. Instead of effacing the relics of nature let efforts be made to enhance the beauty of the charming spot and let Oak Grove be such not merely in name.

THAT SEWER OUTLET.

A good deal of abuse has been heaped upon the late Republican council by the usual vehicle of slander and malice because that council failed, as has been alleged, to secure proper title to the ground on which the pump house and well, with the outlet therefrom to the river, have been located and constructed. It is not necessary to go into details in regard to the arrangement which the old council had with the management of the Illinois Central railroad through Mr. Harahan, but it is sufficient to say that the well and outlet were not constructed until Mr. Harahan had given positive assurance that the city property and rights would be respected to the utmost.

None who know anything of the policy of Mr. Harahan or the policy of the Illinois Central would for a moment enter any idea to the contrary.

It should be further remembered that the well and outlet are already built and that too with the full knowledge and consent of the railroad company; that the city now has vested rights in that property which cannot be molested by the railroad company without fully indemnifying the city; that aside from any question of private ownership that might be raised by the railroad, the public has rights which would be accorded the fullest protection in any court of equity. It can furthermore be stated that, when the privilege was granted to the Illinois Central to use the city streets in constructing the river front road, and thus most materially adding to the value of the company's terminal facilities in this city, the question that now harasses the minds of our city council, was thoroughly canvassed, and the use by the city of the property now occupied by the well, pump house and outlet, was one of the considerations of the transaction.

Those persons who are losing sleep over this alleged negligence of the old council, will be able to find out of the present council much more culpable and that will cost the city far more than the arrangement between the old council and the Illinois Central in regard to the sewer outlet.

If the present council desires to reduce the contract between the city and the railroad company to writing, it has a perfect right to do so. It is the proper thing to do. In drawing up the document the rights of the city should be secured and protected in no uncertain manner. Let us resort to every means possible to discredit the administration of the previous council, and let us not forget that the city is not a party to the contract.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

As was announced in Wednesday's Notes, a new speaker is to address the men's meetings during the month of April. We will add now that Mr. Parker knows how to talk—how to talk to men—young men, and the man that fails to hear him will be loser.

After a very interesting game of handball last night, several of the players remarked that no game, not excepting basket ball, any way, equalled handball for genuine all-round exercise and recreation. Learn handball.

The March statistical report shows a marked increase in attendance at rooms during that month. The reading room, library, congress, ball room and gymnasium, and also the Sunday afternoon meetings, are holding tight up and some departments are daily growing.

Mr. H. E. Rosecrance passed through the city yesterday on his way to Mayfield where he addressed a mass meeting of citizens last night on the matter of establishing a Young Men's Christian Association at that place. Every year new associations are added to the already long list and Kentucky is not behind. The state committee's report shows that there are over 3,000 young men in the state who are members of the Y. M. C. A. and more than half of this number are associate members, thus showing the popularity of the organization among young men who are not affiliated with any particular denomination.

Thinks Spain Should First Make a Reputation.

Sullivan and Fitzsimmons appeared at Madison Square Garden, New York, last Friday afternoon and night for the benefit of the Maine fund. On being called on for a speech the champion said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: Before Spain talks about fighting us she should go out and get a reputation. From what we know about Spain I should say she fights best in the dark like a skunk."

"We should protect the sailors who protect us. We should teach the world that they cannot be murdered under the cover of night. And we should free Cuba. We should remember that there is a time when patience ceases to be a virtue. That time is here."

There is Irish blood in President McKinley. It will boil at the right time, and then Spain will go out of business in Cuba. Let us have all the war Spain can furnish. It won't be much. I don't think she could furnish postage stamps."

No Irish American fears war, but all the war Spain can give us wouldn't be as serious as the wind-up of an Irish picnic."

THE WAR SITUATION

As it Appeared in Washington
Last Night—President is Ready for Final Action.

Armed Intervention and War if Necessary Will Be the Next Move of President McKinley

The Washington correspondent of the Louisville Post summarized the situation in Washington yesterday afternoon as follows:

The president has fulfilled his promise to the Cubans, and Minister Woodford has laid the ultimatum of this government before Sagasta. There has been no hesitating, wishy-washy proceeding on the part of this government. The president has sought to gain peace without war, but the independence of Cuba even at the cost of war.

As I would yesterday, the government has to face the situation with a clear conscience. It has no troops in the island and great assistance in independence to the island.

Today this ultimatum is being considered by the Spanish court, and if the reply is today or tomorrow is not favorable, the flying squadron will be dispatched to intercept the Spanish ships and bar their passage to the Southern sea, or to Cuban waters. There has been no time to wait. The president has laid his ultimatum before the Spanish court, and if the reply is today or tomorrow is not favorable, the flying squadron will be dispatched to intercept the Spanish ships and bar their passage to the Southern sea, or to Cuban waters.

The restlessness of Congress has taken its toll, and his few republicans were shown no loyalty yesterday that a stone would be thrown at the president's feet. Any way, it was all in the name of the city of Cuba.

The ultimatum has been "Panic" and today he still hopes to effect the release of the struggling patriots without war and on terms honorable alike to Cuba, Spain and the United States. After this has been accomplished, then comes the Maine matter, and from that may come strained relations which will lead to complications ending in war.

Mr. McKinley's course has been and is being commended. He pursued the even tenor of his way, unaffected by the outside world's opinion of congress, and it is the end of the road for which all are striving. Peace and Cuban independence.

If this reply is what it is expected to be—unsatisfactory—it is to be assumed that Spain, in making it, does so with the determination to face war. My information this morning is that the demand made by this government for the independence of Cuba is not conditioned on any payment of money to Spain by anyone, but that Spain is to give up all opportunity to make terms for a money consideration with the Cubans if she is able to do so. Her failure to secure such money consideration is not, however, to result in any modification of the demand by this government.

Senators and representatives whose position demands that they should know the truth of this crisis state this morning that there is no longer any honest hope entertained by anyone informed as to the situation that the reply from Spain to the president's ultimatum will be satisfactory. It is anticipated that the character of the reply, which is expected late this evening, has already been indicated. Unless Spain takes swift position at the last minute, a declaration of war is expected by congress on Monday or Tuesday. The statement is made on excellent authority, confirmed and supported by other authority, which should be accepted as worthy of entire confidence, that all expressions of hope of a peaceful solution of the question indicated in the reply might be regarded as purely fortuitous and perhaps a sudden change in the attitude of Spain occurs.

On this same authority it is asserted that the president intends to send a message to congress on Monday contemplating war. The statement made was that he would recommend a declaration of war. It is hardly safe, however, to say at this time that he will make the recommendation.

The exact terms to be employed in his message cannot safely be anticipated, but the message will be sent unless there is some sudden and unexpected change in the situation, will at least contemplate a course by congress which in all human probability will mean war, even if there is not a
