THE LISTENING POST

● I was making up the paper yesterday morning and this job does not entail any massive intelligence. It is mostly mechanical—that is, after one has done this sort of work for many years—and I usually think of many things while engaged in the work. This sort of preoccupation may be to blame for some of the silly things which appear in the paper now and then, although most of these occur in other departments. Any time you happen to see the wrong heading over a story, or find a line upside down or part of one story hitched onto another, either the Listening Post or Factotum is to blame, but wrong words and bad spelling more often can be blamed elsewhere.

● Perhaps because I had just registered for the war I was thinking of earlier days and of the first war I ever knew anything about personally. I was thinking of boys who had volunteered for that war and gone to faroff, unheard of places. For instance, there was Bob Cowardin, who signed up and was gone for a long time. One day a sensation hit the town when it became known he was in the Philippines. Others came home later on who had been in Cuba and who had seen the storming of San Juan Hill. I was trying to remember some of the others who were boys in that day and just at this juncture I felt a hand on my shoulder.

● I turned around and found Granville Parker standing there. Granville is a Martin man, considerably older than I, but he belonged to the generation I was thinking of. It seemed that telepathy must have been involved, for I had been thinking so industriously of the boys of that generation that it came as a shock to find him standing right behind me. He was merely passing by and came in to pass the time of day with me. We talked of olden days, of some who have passed, and he went on his way without knowing how his visit had so perfectly timed in with my thoughts. When and if he reads this it will be his first knowledge of how his visit seemed to lift briefly a curtain long since permanently drawn.

● I thought of the old J. F. Parker store in Martin, before and after it built the huge three-story building it occupied for many years. It was the first three-story building ever erected in Martin, outside of an old tobacco factory which Tom Ryan built at one time. When it was erected it was a remarkable feat for that day and time, and the Parker store was really years ahead of its time in the store. I remember the store before the skyscraper was built; I can see clearly the father sitting in the sun in front of the old store, with long, white beard. I thought then he was terribly old. He must have been sixty, or possibly sixty-five, but his long beard, more usual than than now, made one think of old patriarchs and prophets.

● I remember more clearly, however, the new store, a block north of the old location and on the other side of the street. Here a modern store was installed, with tall ceilings and rolling ladders by which the storekeepers could reach the tallest shelf easily. I remember Granville and Will as they waited on me when I went there for shot for an air rifle. I remember Will selling me an air rifle once. Granville spoke of the fact yesterday that they always liked to wait on the youngsters, and while I never knew it then I do remember now that they sometimes left grownups to wait on a couple of boys when they came in to buy some trifling things. I have never seen a cleaner and better arranged store before or since.

● I had another memory, too. When the water plant was first put into operation the folks were extremely proud of their fire fighting equipment. This consisted

Storms Take Heavy Toll Of Lives In Two States, With Oklahoma Suffering Heaviest Loss In Life

Early Estimates Say From 200 To 1,000 Killed As Storm Strikes Boom Town Of Pryor Just As Shifts Were Being Changed At Huge Ordnance Plant

STATE IN HEALTHY FINANCIAL STATUS TO WITHSTAND WAR

Has Highest Amount In General Fund, Highway Accounts

Frankfort, Ky. —Kentucky appears to be in a healthy financial condition to withstand the revenue-reducing impact of war.

The state treasurer's office delivered its daily financial communiqué to Governor Johnson today and it showed $6,907,043.59 in the state general fund—highest it's ever been—and $6,690,732.76 in the state road fund.

Against the general fund was $220,100 in called warrants, bills which the state owes. The treasury office said most of these would be redeemed next week, cutting the warrant debt down to about $13,000.

The state road fund has about $21,000 in warrants against it and about $11,500,000 in encumbrances—contracts and unpaid for purchases.

However, this should not be considered as a deficit, for the department of accounts and control pointed out that considerable additional road revenue is forthcoming and that many of the contracts will lapse or never be filled, generally because of the war-curtailed road construction program.

Contracted-for road machinery may also be unavailable because of priorities, another factor which would decrease encumbrances.

Actually, accounts and control explained, the road fund has a net theoretical surplus of $1,905,640 which it considered "excellent."

The general fund picture is brightened by recalling that Kentucky not many years ago was under a warrant indebtedness of around $25,000,000.

East's Gasoline Ration Set At 30 To 50 Gallons Of Fuel Per Month

Washington. —Congressional circles heard today that the east's gasoline ration of 30 to 50 gallons a month, rather than the 2 1-2 to 5 gallons a week previously estimated by a spokesman for the Office of Price Administration.

Rationing, made necessary by transportation difficulties including the sinking of coastwise tankers by enemy submarines, is scheduled to begin May 15 in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

One lawmaker said he had been advised that the quota for private motorists would be fixed by Harold L. Ickes, petroleum coordinator, rather than by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

If the punch-card limit goes as high as 50 gallons a month, the average car owner should feel little hardship. Officials of the American Automobile Association esti-

Claremore, Okla. —A tornado struck Pryor, Okla., tonight and eye witnesses estimated the dead and injured between 200 and 1,000. Pryor is 18 miles east of Claremore.

Highway Police Dispatcher Jerome Quigley said eyewitnesses from Pryor told him that the main street of the boom town was heavily damaged, with many buildings leveled.

"They said the storm struck just at the change of shifts at the Oklahoma Ordnance works and that Main street was crowded."

Quigley was told that a shuttle train loaded with workers was blown from its tracks. The train shuttles between Pryor and Muskogee with defense plant workers.

Plant Not Damaged

The Ordnance works, south of Pryor, was virtually undamaged. Ambulances, doctors and nurses were being rushed into the district. Appeals were broadcast for sightseers to stay away from Pryor as they were creating a traffic problem.

At least five persons were reported killed and the list of injured was growing rapidly after tornadoes ripped through a two county area in Northeastern Oklahoma.

Three persons were dead and 12 injured after the storm lashed near Talala, a town of 200, 12 miles northwest of here.

Another person was reported killed at Tiawah, southeast of here. The decapitated body of a man was found along state highway 20, midway between here and Pryor.

Dispatcher Jerome Quigley said that an Army lieutenant who made his way to Claremore from Pryor, over back country roads, reported to the highway patrol office that 1,000 persons may have been killed or wounded. Pryor is 18 miles east of Claremore.

Quigley said he had talked to five other persons who had made their way from Pryor. Their estimates of the dead and injured ranged upward from 200 persons. Quigley asserted that the patrol had no direct information from the scene as all telephone lines were down and he had been unable to work the town by radio.

Minnesota Hit

Ortonville, Minn. —Two of the eight pupils in a small county school near here were killed and three others injured so severely they required hospitalization when a tornado demolished the building twenty minutes before school was to close today.

FDR To Make Clear In Talk His Opposition Of Short Week

Washington. —A high administration official said today that President Roosevelt would make clear in his message to Congress next week on the high cost of living that he is opposed to suspension of the 40-hour week law.

The Presidential message is expected to outline a program calling for freezing most commodity prices at about March 1 levels, drastic taxes on war profits and possibly wage control. It is to be sent to Congress Monday. Later, the President expects to discuss the program in a radio address to the nation.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented as taking the attitude that since most war plants were employing shifts of 48 hours or longer, the issue involved in the dispute over the 40-hour law was one of pay that could be handled satisfactorily in directive he might make to government agencies to keep wages in line with living costs. The law requires time and one-half pay for work in excess of 40 hours a week.

Furthermore, he was said to regard proposals to suspend or repeal the law as being tantamount to changing the rules while the game is in progress.

As for other labor questions, it was such issues as strikes and the open and closed shop were being worked out satisfactorily under existing agreements.

AUTHORIZE BOOST IN PRODUCTION OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER

All Rubber Produced Will Be Used For Military Purposes

Washington. —The War Production Board announced today that it had authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to increase the program for production of bunas synthetic rubber by 100,000 tons, to reach a total of 700,000 tons productive capacity by the end of next year.

The bunas program is in addition to the planned capacity of 100,000 tons of butyl synthetic rubber and neoprene.

WPB said the bunas program would be given all priority and allocation assistance necessary to assure production of not less than 350,000 tons during the calendar year of 1943.

It was emphasized that all synthetic rubber which will be produced for many months must be reserved for military uses, and none will be available for civilian needs, such as automobile tires.

Washington. —President Roosevelt outlined to Congress today a broad anti-inflation program which would fix general price ceilings, freeze most wages "at existing scales" and syphon into government coffers all individual income over $25,000 a year.

These steps, with taxes that would lap up all corporation profits not necessary to continued production, with a reduction in the present legal maximum prices for farm products, from 110 per cent of parity to 100 per cent, with increased war bond buying and debt paying, and with rationing of scarce essentials, would, he predicted, avert the cost of living hardships of the first World War.

Must Come Down

But, he warned, "our standard of living will have to come down." "We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort on a spend-as-usual basis," Mr. Roosevelt said in a special message to Congress. "We cannot have all we want, if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

By implication he opposed any change in the wage-hour law, asserting that most defense workers were now working more than forty hours a week, and that they should be paid time and a half for overtime, lest there be a reduction in their weekly pay envelopes.

In addition to slashing higher salaries down to $25,000 by taxation, he foresaw a process of stabilizing wages through protests to and decisions by the War Labor Board, which would "continue to give due consideration to inequalities and the elimination of substandards of living." Existing contracts between employers and employees should, he said, be honored fully "in all fairness."

The Office of Price Administration a general price order, freezing prices as of some time in the recent past, probably March. Tomorrow evening, at a time not yet announced, Mr. Roosevelt will make a radio address explaining the program to the people of the nation.

Asks for Quick Action

Except for taxes and for reducing the limit on agricultural prices, Mr. Roosevelt said in his message that no new legislation would be needed to make the program possible. He asked for quick congressional action on taxes and farm prices, however.

AFL About To Disagree With Lewis' Farmers Unionization

Washington. —The AFL is about to declare itself out of sympathy with the unionization of dairy farmers by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, but has joined the CIO in a friendly gesture to rural workers and those seeking a larger appropriation for the Farm Security Administration.

An AFL pamphlet to be circulated soon in farm areas now being canvassed by UMW organizers advises the farmers:

"The AFL does not—and will not—organize farmers into trade unions. No move in this direction has our sympathy or support. That is our stand!"

AFL President William Green also wrote to Senator Russell (D., Ga.), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on agricultural approriations, declaring his organization was "concerned over the attacks that have been made against the Farm Security Administration and the threat to its continued effectiveness under the drastic cuts that have been proposed in the House."

Green's action was in line with a recent announcement by CIO President Philip Murray that the CIO fully supported the FSA in maintaining and expanding its program as "a basic war measure."

The United Dairy Farmer Division of District 50, United Mine Workers (CIO), has announced a drive for the organization of 3,000,000 dairy farmers in the United States. Spokesmen said thousands already had joined, principally in the New York City milkshed, Michigan and Wisconsin.

NO PEACE IN DEFEAT

Hitler, needing another victory badly, has beaten France again. What else can Marshal Petain's announcement of collaboration with Pierre Laval mean? Today, in a moment as decisive as that of June, 1940, I again find myself with him. . . June, 1940, brought France the saddest moment of its history, unless this moment in 1942 is sadder still.

There must be more disillusioned people in France today than at the moment of French defeat before German arms. In 1940 disillusion was confined to that section of French opinion that had been deceived into thinking France strong. Now it includes even those who knew France was weak but imagined that in acknowledging that fact they could somehow find a rest from national responsibility. It has not been possible. Even had Britain fallen as many Frenchmen expected it to, in a few weeks after June, 1940, France could have found no security or comfort in a Nazi victory. Back of Petain's words stands the fact of France's continuing tragedy, the lesson of which is plain to all free peoples: that there is no peace in defeat, only more defeat.

QUESTIONNAIRE DELUGE

The machine tool manufacturing industry is of outstanding importance to a nation engaged in modern warfare. It is essential to successful prosecution of the war that the industry be utilized to its utmost capacity. Anything that stands in the way of such utilization hampers the war effort.

Currently American machine tool builders are complaining that the government is loading them down excessively with questionnaires sent by various divisions and departments in Washington. George H. Johnson, president of the National Association of Machine Tool Builders, in a recent address voiced an appeal to government bureaus to stop deluging the manufacturers with questionnaires and permit them to get on with their war work.

"Every one of these men no doubt is sincerely interested in getting what he believes to be important information," he said. "Each one sends out his own questionnaire. But the total is staggering. I doubt whether any one department which sends a questionnaire to machine tool builders has any conception of the number which this builder likewise is getting from other departments.

New Orleans was given permission to blast a section of the levee below the city in order to relieve flood danger to the city.

The City Council last night made additional plans for the beginning of the street paving work here.

While business men and manufacturers have the duty in time of war to do what they can to further the war effort, a corresponding obligation rests on the government to facilitate that effort, particularly not to place any unnecessary obstacles in the way. Overlapping governmental bureaus can place a tremendous burden upon business. One would assume that a clearing house for questionnaires going to the same industry would do much to avoid the difficulty of which the tool builders speak.

The government knows from experience how formidable excessive paper work can be. Wayne Coy of the Office of Emergency Management in a recent article spoke of the fact that for a while goods destined for various parts of the British Empire were shipped first to England and then rerouted.

After a time, the government was asked to ship the material direct to its destination instead of making it susceptible twice to U-boat attacks. One Washington official dissented, pointing out that the paper work would be too great. Excessive paper work appeared to him more forbidding than Nazi subs.

of a hose cart, hand-drawn and a hundred yards or so of hose. On the night when the water was turned on, folks wondered if the hose would throw water on top of the Parker building, that being the tallest building in town. A great cheer went up when the fire company came dashing up with the hose cart, hooked on to a fire-plug and then threw water on the very top of the big Parker store.

● I wondered yesterday if that exhibition was perhaps prophetic. For a few years ago the Parker building did burn.

● Speaking of that water and light plant, I am reminded that the town issued bonds amounting to $25,000 for the purpose of building this, and one Marlin man, I seem to remember, bought all the issue. This was Jim Lovelace, one of the early men of wealth, and he was also a considerable stockholder in the Illinois Central Railroad. The tall granite monument which stands in the old West Side Cemetery in Martin marks the last resting place of this man.

DISCOUNT REPORTS SHIP PROGRAM IS BEING DELAYED

Cargo Vessel Building Is Going Ahead Swiftly

Washington, — Discounting reports that the maritime construction program was lagging seriously, Senator Bailey (D.N.C.), declared today that the United Nations were fast forging the weapons which would smash the Axis by outbuilding Germany and Japan in ships and planes.

Bailey, who is chairman of the Senate commerce committee which handles merchant marine matters, said his investigation had convinced him that the cargo ship construction program was going ahead rapidly despite hindrances in the form of material shortages and some labor disturbances.

He pointed to a recent report that the United States alone produced 3,300 military planes last month and said he learned that Britain also was making tremendous production strides.

"We are going to beat the Axis by producing enough ships and planes to smother Germany and Japan," Bailey told reporters.

"We're going to have the ships to carry the war equipment and the men, and we are going to have the planes to protect those ships and to blast the enemy off the seas."

Asserting that the convoy system of transporting materials to England and Russia had proved highly successful, Bailey said he regarded submarine sinkings along the Atlantic coast as disturbing but not yet a serious threat to the war effort.

LONDON PAPER HITS AT BEAVERBROOK FOR N. Y. SPEECH

Critics Suggestion For Creation Of Western Front

London, —The conservative and influential Sunday Times tonight belittled the New York speech of Lord Beaverbrook, in which the British supply emissary urged a second front in western Europe, and said the suggestion was "hardly in the category of a service."

An early offensive, the newspaper added: "We will not be hustled by inopportune pressure from any quarter x x x."

It went on: "Responsible people in this country and in the United States are

SPORT TALK

The Tigers are pretty fortunate in the signing of two players over the week-end. With Hopkinsville in charge of Mel Ivy, a crack catcher, the Hoppers had no need for Leo Feret, who did the backstopping chores last season and he was turned over to the Fulton club. No catcher had been secured for the Tigers and Feret is known to be an adequate receiver. While he did not hit quite so well as Ivy did last year, he is a dangerous hitter in the clutch, and the chances are pretty good that he will hit better this year than he did last. In other words, he has pretty good form at the plate, and it is quite likely that this form will begin to show results this year. Last year he hit .251 for the Hoppers in 115 games. He poled seventeen doubles, four triples and two home runs during the season. He ranked a shade better on defense than did Ivy. His fielding average was .965 against a mark two points lower for Ivy. He will make a good man for the Tigers, for he is the hustling type, always on his toes and always watching closely the plays as they develop. He has a good arm and is not afraid to throw at the bases when it is necessary.

Thomasson, the former Paducah pitcher, should prove a lot of help for the Tiger flinger staff. With Paducah last year Thomasson won twelve games and lost eleven, for the only decent mark on the Indian pitching staff. When it is recalled that Paducah won only 46 games for the entire season, while losing 81, the feat of winning a dozen games is a mighty good mark. Several Paducah pitchers pitched good games many times, but the team could be depended upon to either kick the game away, or fail to get any runs for the pitcher who was throwing his heart out. Any pitcher who can win a dozen games for a team which wins less than fifty games in a year is bound to be pretty good, and Thomasson, with a good team back of him should be good for at least twenty victories. Probably with Jackson last year he would have won more than twenty, for the Generals always take care of their pitchers.

Thomasson worked in a total of 27 games during the season and it was seldom that any team beat him soundly. He had 114 strikeouts during the season and gave 55 bases on balls. Yep, he will be worth something to the Tiger pitching staff. With Thomasson and Julian Burgess in shape, presuming the Tigers round up as good a team as they had last year afield, those two flingers might win forty games between them.

The Tigers will get their first look at Kitty League opposition tomorrow afternoon. Manager Johnson will bring his Union City Greyhounds to Fairfield for a practice fracas, and the Tigers will then return that visit the following night by playing the Hounds at Turner Field. The Greyhounds have been in training for some little bit, but as far as this column knows, have played no games. The Hounds are still the property of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Union City folks say that the Cards are going to really take care of them this year. Last year the Hounds had the second bad season in a row, finishing in fifth place, with a mark slightly under the 500 percentage. By all reports the team, going to be a lot better this year and pre-season dope indicates the Hounds will be definitely first division caliber.

Teams at Jackson, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville and Owensboro are rounding into shape, and it is said that the Hoppers and Barons give evidence of having strong outfits. Mike Powers at Bowling Green always knows how to get hold of ball players and knows how to handle them, and it is likely that the Barons will be strong from the beginning. In Jackson Mickey O'Neill has not started talking yet, but he will before long, and there is every reason that the Irishman will come up with another tight-fielding, strong-pitching combine that will be hard to beat.

WAR SETS New TEST FOR RAILROADS

IN A decision which calls for loyal acceptance by shippers and travelers as well as by railroaders, the War Production Board has severely curtailed the use of materials to build railway equipment. There will be no further authority to build passenger cars, and the building of locomotives and freight cars will be held below the numbers which the railroads figured as being required to meet increasing demands for transportation.

It was a choice between guns and transportation. That choice must have been exceedingly difficult to make. We know there was a fair, urgent and complete presentation of transportation requirements. The decision rested, as it had to, with those responsible for the most effective use of all our nation's resources in critical materials, manufacturing facilities and labor supply. These men have complete information regarding war production and must direct all requirements toward the maximum effort to win the war.

We all realize and agree that the needs of war come first—in transportation, as in everything else. When it becomes necessary to divert materials from transportation in order to insure an uninterrupted flow of war production, that necessity can be appreciated and will be accepted by all concerned. Then it becomes our duty as patriotic citizens to face the situation ahead of us and alter our plans accordingly.

It means that all of us engaged in railway transportation—shippers and travelers and railroaders alike—have got a harder job to do with fewer and less adequate tools than we had anticipated. That's our challenge. Our answer is that we'll buckle down and do our very utmost to meet the requirements.

The job is simply harder, not impossible. We on the Illinois Central are resolved there'll be no failure here from lack of trying.
