THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1898

It is quite refreshing to see a paper that has not the nerve to take a position on a single question, even on the financial issue, call McKinley a coward.

This Editor and Manager of our esteemed morning contemporary prints a picture of himself on the first page of this morning's issue. The likeness is a good one, and is worthy of the preferred position given it.

A CHANCE FOR PEACE.

Though the action of President McKinley in delaying his message does not of itself give prospects of a peaceable settlement of the trouble with Spain, yet one ray of hope appears. It is said that the Queen Regent of Spain is negotiating direct with Minister Woodford, and that these negotiations may avert war. It should be the prayer of every patriot that such may be the result. No reasonable person wants war for the sake of war. President McKinley, as much as he desires peace, would choose war in preference to national disgrace. War cannot be averted except by the yielding by Spain to all the demands of the United States. If this be not done, the President's war message goes to congress, war will follow.

The Queen Regent is in a position, if any one is in the Spanish government, to make the necessary concessions. In doing so she would run the risk of incurring a revolution, but the more optimistic friend of the Queen admits that a revolution will almost certainly follow a war with this country. The Queen, however, has given ample proof of her patriotism. Not long ago she subscribed for several million dollars worth of bonds, thus furnishing Spain with money to prepare for war. Her loyalty is the pride of her people, and the strength of the position of her family on the throne of Spain.

Last fall the Queen took affairs of state in her own hands, and recalled Weyler, and sent Blanco to Cuba. This she did without the authority of her cabinet. It is probable that her action in thus removing Weyler, was the sole cause that prevented a war between this country and Spain last fall. If she has the courage and the power to make the concessions demanded by this government, war may now be averted.

The chance is a small one, for even should she make the necessary concessions, the destruction of the Maine will yet remain, and the settlement of that question may precipitate war.

THE PRESIDENT'S COURSE.

The action of the President in delaying his message has called forth a storm of abuse from many of his political opponents. The inconsistency of this abuse is shown by the fact that these same persons who are abusing the President are at the same time lauding Consul-General Lee. They forget or purposely ignore the fact that the President and Consul General Lee are acting in perfect harmony. In fact there is every reason to believe that the President, in delaying his message, acted upon direct advice from Lee.

The following telegram was sent from Washington yesterday by the Associated Press:

Washington, April 6.—Senator Davis stated this afternoon that the President had sent for him for the special purpose of asking delay on the message and had shown him as a reason for the request a telegram from Consul General Lee, saying that if the message should be sent in before Monday he would not be responsible for the lives of Americans in Cuba.

Furthermore, the very fact that the President was able yesterday to push Congress and that that body so willingly agreed to the delay of the message, is ample proof that the statements made in the above telegram are true. The temper of Congress is such that nothing but extraordinary developments could have restrained the warlike impatience of that body.

The criticism that are so reckless and freely made upon the President are based upon the assumption that McKinley is a traitor, but his critics are unsoldierly patriots. They are also based upon the assumption that these rural editors know more about the actual situation and facts in the case than even the President and Congress. This assumption is somewhat absurd, but perfectly correct with the nerve, egoism and ignorance of the average country editor.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S VIEW

Of the Destruction of the Maine and the Situation.

The following is taken from a letter written by an Englishman to a gentleman in this city, May 1, 1898. He has been a close observer of the contention between Spain and the United States. He expresses his views without reserve:

Well, as to the blowing up of the Maine, it was a dastardly piece of work, and I sincerely trust that the Spaniards, if guilty, as supposed, will pay heavily for the outrage, which was attended by appalling loss of valuable life. My sympathies are entirely with America, there can be no question about that, and I think I am safe in saying that the entire British public is with you, as heart and soul. I do not think you will have to carry the gun for Uncle Sam in the event of war breaking out. The younger men will be required to look after that part of the business, and doubtless, as their fathers did before them, will acquit themselves with all the valor that has ever distinguished the great Anglo-Saxon race above all others. Besides, Kentucky is too remote from the center, around which the conflict will rage, for you to get your hand in. The war will be principally naval—at least to begin with—as Cuba will doubtless be invaded by United States troops immediately. The idea of an invasion of America by Spain or an invasion of Spain by America is too absurd to be entertained for a moment. The troops that got into either of the countries would never get away again. However, the clash of arms is not apt to come for some

NEWS NOTES

The bill prepared for the reform of the currency and the protection of the house committee on banking and currency, has been introduced in the house.

The senate has passed a resolution providing for the erection in Washington of a monument to the late Albert Pike, to be erected to the United States by the Scottish rite Masons of the southern jurisdiction of this country.

The navy department has concluded to purchase four of the ten ships contracted for Monday. The four vessels selected, and which are now the property of the government, are the Morro line steamers El Rico, El Norte, El Sol and El Sur.

The house has passed bills granting pensions to Ann M. Smith, widow of Maj. Gen. Andrew J. Smith, at $30 per month; Adolphine Krenz, widow of Brig. Gen. Conrad Krenz, at $30, and to increase the pension of Gen. James W. McMillen to $50 per month.

The war department and the general of the army are considering the question of utilizing the eleven square miles which the government owns at the Chickamauga military park, as a training camp for concentrating troops in the south for organization and instruction.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST GUN.

The first 120 ton gun for coast defense is now being completed. It is of 14 inch caliber and is the largest gun ever made. It will hurl a mammoth projectile nearly 15 miles with falling effect.

Society Notes.

Thou honored daughter of an honored state.
Thou fairest in a land of women fair—
Well might thy sisters envy thee the fate
Which gave to thee the honor thou didst bear.
So richly and well; Kentucky's women where—
Save in this commonwealth we all adore—
Where canst thou find a queen that's half so fair?
And, quick the answer comes—
"Thy lived of yore!"
And thou didst sweetly grace that fatal day.
When into Neptune's living arms we gave.
With cheers and shouts and happy laughter gay.
The battleship, which soon will break the wave!
Well might thy brilliant eye with triumph glow:
Well might the blood of pride infuse thy veins—
Pure water thou didst spill upon her.

The sea will wash away all woe.
Ten thousand eyes beheld thee standing there.
Beside the monster hulk of steel and wood—
Kentucky's representative so fair.
A true-born royal princess of the blood.
Thy gentle hand didst smite that giant ship.
She rushed ashore the tramways to the sea.
Then gladness cheers came forth from every lip.
Brave, loyal-hearted cheers for her—and thee.

—E. Carl Lacey.
Mr. Lacey lives in Lebanon, Ky. and is a bright and attractive young man. His popularity is not confined however to his home, as he has a number of friends here who appreciate him both socially and in a literary way. His poems deserve the highest praise, and his readers predict that a brilliant future is in store for him.

Dr. F. T. Fort, a young and popular M. D. of, ever, is standing here, will, in case of war, likely receive the appointment as surgeon on one of the vessels belonging to the U. S. navy.

Mr. M. W. Rawls, of Evansville, is in the city.

Mr. Will Farley returned yesterday from a dying trip to Dyersburg, Tenn.

Some very popular young gentlemen are seen carrying jugs along the streets. What is in them we do not know, but it looks "powerful queer."

The P. B. K. met last evening. A very delightful meeting it was for both members and visitors. The subject under discussion was the time yet. There will be a lot of diplomacy used up before the cord which unites the two nations snaps, and you know President McKinley is too cautious a man to declare war, even to please his people, before he has got all arrangements made to carry on the war to a successful issue. You cannot over-estimate the value of a good, clear head, like the president's, during a great crisis like the present. I believe President McKinley is the right man in the right place at the present moment, and I am watching the course of events with great interest.

LOST HIS MONEY.
Mr. Fred McKnight, of the City, Was Robbed at Metropolis.

Left the City on a Houseboat for New Orleans last Monday.

Metropolis, Ill., April 7.—Tuesday Fred S. McKnight and a companion, from Paducah, landed their boat up in East Metropolis. They were visited by Phineas Gaskett and others. Mr. McKnight's coat was on his bed, and in the pocket was $200, which was missed shortly afterward.

Mr. McKnight filed a complaint and a warrant was issued for Gaskett, but McKnight would not let the officer make the arrest, unless he saw him spending money freely. Gaskett heard of the warrant from Mr. McKnight's companion and skipped.

The shooting affray of last Sunday was continued until 10 a. m. Friday. This is the case in which a young white man, named Lash Davis, was assaulted by three negroes.
