NUMBER 82.

VOLUME III.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The Davis-Rankin block, Chicago, was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss, $300,000.

John Gilgan & Co., dry goods, Nashville, made an assignment Saturday. Liabilities $23,000.

Paul Lelander, clerk in a grocery store at Paducah, cut his throat Saturday because he feared insanity.

A man named Lane, at Effingham, Ill., killed his wife while in a fit of anger, and then very properly hung himself.

Mrs. Sarah Bratton, living near Bowling Green, committed suicide by hanging, Friday evening. Her mind was unbalanced.

Richard K. Fox says he intends to test the constitutionality of the law forbidding the sale of his paper, the Police Gazette, in Louisville.

An epidemic of hydrophobia is raging in Jackson county, W. Va. There is scarcely a farm in the upper part of the county upon which some animal has not been bitten by the mad dogs.

David N. White, better known as "Docson" White, ex-editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette, and the founder of the Republican party, is seriously ill at his home near Pittsburgh, Pa., and is not expected to survive.

The forty-first annual convocation of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Kentucky will be held at Mayville, May 9, 10. Extensive preparations are making for the most notable meeting ever held in the state.

J. Goldammer, dealer in dry goods, Owensboro, has been closed up by Geo. F. Haynes, commissioner, under a judgment. This is the result of a suit that was brought sometime ago against Goldammer by Kahn Bros. & Co., and several other Louisville and Cincinnati firms.

At Shelbyville, Ky., a crowd of young men concluded to serenade Dr. G. W. Priest and his new wife with tin cans, horns, drums and other instruments of torture. This didn't exactly suit the Doctor so he got his popgun and went out after them. The time made by those boys away from that house and into town when the Doctor opened fire was a most interesting one. One young man stopped a bullet with the call of his leg.

At Chillicothe, Mo., a duel to the death was fought with knives between husband and wife. While at breakfast the man accused his wife of receiving attentions from another man and to reply she went for him with a butcher knife. He returned the compliment with his bowie, and for a time the fight waxed warm. After the matinee it was found that both were so severely wounded that they would die.

August Krakow shot and instantly killed his wife at 642 Milwaukee avenue, about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He then fatally shot himself, dying about 7 o'clock. The police found Mrs. Krakow sitting in a rocking chair with two bullet holes in her head. She appeared to have died instantly. On the lounge in the rear room lay the husband, who was also dead. The most shocking stories are prevalent in the vicinity where the Krakows lived as to the death of all the members of the family. There were twelve in all, it is said, not one of whom survives. Mr. Krakow, who was 62 years of age, believed, it was said, that his wife poisoned all the children and attempted to poison him, and that this was one of the causes which led him to leave her.

The engineers, firemen, switchmen, brakemen, and a large number of the conductors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, struck Saturday. The strike includes the employees of all the divisions centering in Chicago, both freight and passenger. Several other roads leading into Chicago are in trouble and it is expected that the strike will extend to all the roads handling "Q" freights. The switchmen on the Panhandle have joined the strikers. By this move it is hoped to force the Burlington to terms through pressure brought to bear by the other roads. The Burlington has appealed to the other roads for help in the matter. The roads marked for the strike are the Chicago & Alton, the Fort Wayne, Panhandle & Rock Island and the Santa Fe roads.

Mrs. Stephen Cassidy, of Bowling Green, who has been bed-ridden for the past seven years, and during last week has been at the point of death, has been cured miraculously. Last evening, when the church bells rang, she says she heard these words: "Mrs. Cassidy, arise and walk." She immediately got up, and for the first time in seven years, walked from room to room, crying out that she never felt better in her life, and that she was restored through the instrumentality of Jesus Christ. She did not return to her bed until compelled to do so. Although given up by physicians, there is great hopes now of her ultimate recovery. She is the wife of Stephen Cassidy, a clerk in the grocery store of H. C. Hines & Co. Some think the days of miracles have passed, but the above are facts.

At noon Friday, a horrible gas explosion occurred at Keith & Perry's No. 6 mine, which resulted in the death of a large number of men and destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of valuable property. A second explosion occurred about the middle of the afternoon and added greater loss and disaster. The mine is 240 feet beneath the surface, and the men were just leaving for the dinner hour. The mine is supplied with two shafts; the south one is used by the men when ascending. Eight men were on this cage, and when about half way up there was a sudden trembling of the earth and a loud, deafening report, followed by a general collapse of the shaft, and timbers flying in all directions. As a result of the disaster twenty-one men are lying cold in death and thirteen are badly injured, besides Supt. Sweeney.

Ammonia in Baking Powders.

From the Scientific American.
Among the recent discoveries in science and chemistry, none is more important than the uses to which common ammonia can be properly put as a leavening agent, and which indicate that this familiar salt is hereafter to perform an active part in the preparation of our daily food.

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold over a flame, and it will almost immediately be entirely developed into gas and pass as a simple composition of nitrogen and hydrogen. No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening powder over soda and cream of tartar used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to these articles. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking, the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this act it uses itself up as it were; the ammonia is entirely diffused, leaving no trace or residuum whatever. The light, fluffy, flaky appearance, so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is said to be imparted to them only by the use of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest goods have been quick to avail themselves of this useful discovery, and the handiwork of their best bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of ammonia combined, of course, with other leavening material.

Ammonia is one of the best known products of the laboratory. If, as seems to be justly claimed for it, the application of its properties to the purposes of cooking, results in giving us lighter and more wholesome bread, biscuit and cake, it will prove a boon to dyspeptic humanity, and will speedily force itself into general use in the new field to which science has assigned it.

A man in Florida who had left his watch and pocket-book at home went up to a famous Wall street operator and boldly shook hands with him. He says now that he would not be afraid to venture alone into the presence of a Florida hotel-keeper, but even his friends say this is merely an idle boast.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. For sale at H. B. Garner's City Pharmacy.

The repeated announcements that this man and that refuses to sign with such and such a base-ball club have plunged the country into a condition of suspense bordering upon anarchy. We cannot understand how the clearing houses continue to do business with their wonted regularity and fortitude.

THEIR WEEKLY NEWS

TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1888.

GRAY FUR.

BY E. GERRARD.

In less than an hour the sleigh was at the door, a rough concern of unpainted boards, but able to hold half a dozen persons very comfortably. Hugo handed Clara and then got in opposite her. She feigned a little surprise for they had not exchanged a word since her decision.

"Oh, are you coming too, after all?" thought you had made up your mind to travel by the diligence.

"Of course I am going if you are," he said gravely, and it seemed to her almost a little severely. "You did not seem to think I was going to let you go through the forest alone with strangers."

There were two other passengers besides themselves, a small, highly colored man with a great deal of fur about him, and a lady with red hair and a shabby green overcoat. The ill-favored Jew took the reins and they drove away.

Leaving the high road soon after passing the village, the sleigh struck into a side track over a desolate plain leading in the direction of the large pine forest which lay beyond.

A rough track at other times, but today the road was smooth and even, as though carpeted by the snow. The air was cold but pleasant, for there was not a breath of wind, and after the confined traveling of the two past days the change was welcome.

Clara enjoyed it as she leaned back in the sleigh, and thought over the events of the last two days. She felt so sure and safe near this tall, quiet man, who from the first moment had assumed such a tone of protecting authority over her, and she was fain to confess that she was very glad to be cared for and protected in this manner, she who had never yet had any one to assume of protection had been more than an innocent piece of coquetry, for no delicate-minded girl likes to surrender to another so soon as to acquiesce.

Soon the forest was reached, and they were speeding along between rows of somber fir trees, standing straight and close together like soldiers drawn up for battle. Every branch was piled up thick with heavy snow, and now and then a twig, changed in color by the frost, showed as they drove along. Clara had to shake her fur cap repeatedly to free it from the snow burden.

"See my head is oppressed with the weight of diamonds," she said once, as brushing against a low, overhanging branch the clustering fringe of icicles detached itself with a crisp sound as of broken glass, and came raining down thickly over her head and shoulders.

"Despite his ill humor Hugo was laughing as she thus appealed to him with irresistible merriment."

"And now your fortune is all gone," he said, bending forward and helping her to brush away the broken diamonds which were clinging all over the gray Astrakhan fur.

Then Clara laughed, delighted at feeling that she had a secret in common with him, and her laugh rang out so clear and joyous through the frosty air, that the little fur clad man laughed, also, without knowing why, which made Clara and Hugo laugh again, because they alone had the cue to all this merriment. Only the red nosed man did not laugh, but because he failed to perceive any point in the joke, but went on fidgeting with the blankets as before.

All the undergrowth of little fir bushes was buried many inches deep in snow, their outlines totally effaced, or only barely indicated by a slight experience in the ermine carpet. Of a sudden the sleigh made a violent lurch out of the track, there was a bound, a scuffle, and then the four passengers found themselves struggling in the snow. The driver had apparently mistaken the track, and driven them right over one of the pine bushes, which had thus caused the overthrow.

Hugo's first care was to disentangle Clara from her position, the next was to feel for his revolver.

"It is gone," he exclaimed in dismay, drawing out his pocket, and feeling the empty pocket. "It must have fallen out here. It cannot be far off," and together with the red nosed and obliging fellow passenger he proceeded to search the premises. But in vain. The revolver was not to be found, not in the snow, not in the sleigh, not in the surrounding woods.

"You villain!" now exclaimed Hugo, addressing the squinting coachman, "do believe this! Where is your revolver?"

account of his late mishap, and then feebly set to work, alternately scraping and hammering at the horse's head, all the while loudly lamenting that he had ruined a good horse as well as breaking his own bones in the service of the gentleman.

"If you do not drive on at once I shall beat you to a jelly," at last roared Hugo, losing all patience, so, trembling sorely, the Jew resumed the driver's seat. He took another two minutes, however, to get fairly settled in his place, and was still fumbling with the reins when the passenger surrounded by half a dozen men, who had silently emerged from behind the giant stems.

"Wait! Wait!" shrieked the Jew, throwing down the reins. "We shall be murdered and robbed."

"Drive on, in God's name!" roared Hugo with stentorian voice, but the luckless coachman, apparently paralyzed by terror, could not budge, but rock his body and moan. "Wait! Wait!"

"Give us your money, good gentlemen, and we shall do you no harm," said the foremost of the band, advancing to the side of the sleigh, while two others had planted themselves in front of the horses, and two others through the ropes by which Clara's trunk was secured behind the sleigh.

"We are poor devils who are dying of hunger and have no other way of getting our bread."

Clara, trembling like an aspen leaf, had now clutched hold of Hugo's arm, and was so frightened, she murmured into his ear. "Take care of me now and always."

"I will," he answered, very low.

"Give me your money, good gentlemen, and we shall do you no harm," said the foremost robber, addressing himself more particularly to Hugo, and putting his hand on his forehead to assist him in submitting his case.

Hugo had grown rather pale, but did not for a moment lose his presence of mind. "Clara's little hand was still clasping his arm."

"My little hand," she said, addressing the robber in fluent Russian, "we are in your power, it seems, and resistance would be foolish. It is your good luck that you have found me here."

"The only one among us who has any money is this young lady, and she will give it to you, further, and let us drive on quietly. Permit me," he said to Clara, gently holding her hand from her clinging grasp, and to her stupefaction he now proceeded to take her fur cap off her head. "Here is the cap, you will find the money sewed into the lining. You do not believe me?" as the robber shook his head suspiciously.

"See if I do not speak the truth," said the robber, and he pulled out a small bag from his pocket, and he handed it to Clara, who had been looking at the robber's face with a mixture of interest and suspicion.

Hugo saw his opportunity, and quick as lightning he had swung himself on to the driver's seat, and snatched the reins from the man's hand. One stroke of the whip had caused the sleigh to start off at a headlong pace, which soon left the robbers far behind, quarreling loudly over the contents of Clara's fur cap.

Not for full ten minutes did Hugo relax his speed. He urged on the beasts to their utmost strength, leading them on by the reins, and the sleigh moved on at a rapid pace. The Jew did not attempt either excuse or explanation, nor did he try to regain his reins, but he kept on driving, having even forgotten to button up his coat, and the fur clad man was slain in different forms and different degrees.

reason why she twice stumbled on entering the broad, lighted corridor. Clara frowned a little and shook her head, as though impatient of her own weakness. She would walk quite straight and quietly till she reached a room, she told herself, and then she would sit down for a little. Her head was whirling so strangely, and large, fiery globes seemed to be dancing before her eyes, but she must not allow to guess how her knees were shaking, and she tightly closed her mouth to prevent her teeth from chattering against each other. Oh, what she could not have known, how her knees were shaking, and she tightly closed her mouth to prevent her teeth from chattering against each other.

The cashier of the State National Bank of Raleigh, N. C., has reported the amount of the defalcation is variously estimated at from $200,000 to $340,000. The impression begins to creep abroad in the land that Chauncey M. Depew has "got things fixed" in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New England. Just because he runs a railroad, this man Depew appears to have mighty little respect for our woolly Iowa candidate who is tramping in from the cornfields with whiskers on his teeth and the Burlington Hawkeye in his hands.

Since the hashaw of Tanager had the monumental impudence the other day to call an American man-of-war a "leaky jack," every body in this country has stopped abusing the national navy and gone to praising it. No one can fail to believe in virtues of La-cu-pla after reading the testimonials in "The Life of Life." Mrs. Henry C. Ray, of London, Ontario, O., spent $1,000 for La-cu-pla, and was cured by $5.00 worth of La-cu-pla.

Gen. Bragg has shown that he can stand up under the debilitating influence of the seductive national drinks of Mexico, but also he has never written poetry, so he doesn't deserve so very much credit after all. The very recent States poetry and greaser liquor will not mix worth a cent.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the blood, and builds up the system. Remember, we guarantee it. H. B. GARNER, Hopkinsville, Ky.

An almost incredible story comes from Michigan. It is to the effect that a wood-chopper went out into a pine forest the other day and cut down a hollow tree without finding a bear in it. The records show that nothing of the sort ever happened before in that state.

We see that Gen. Boulanger has been bounced inconspicuously from active service in the French army. We are not surprised to hear this; Boulanger's doom was sealed when Bonanza Mackay announced that he didn't know him.

Old and reliable Medicine Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofula, Syphilis or Mercular Disease, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. H. B. GARNER, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Manufactured by Rungum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. Sold by all druggists.

The impression begins to creep abroad in the land that Chauncey M. Depew has "got things fixed" in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New England. Just because he runs a railroad, this man Depew appears to have mighty little respect for our woolly Iowa candidate who is tramping in from the cornfields with whiskers on his teeth and the Burlington Hawkeye in his hands.

Don't Sleep. Nights is the complaint of thousands suffering from a nervous condition, and it is the best preparation known for all Nervous Troubles, Headaches, Neuralgia, and all the ailments of the nervous system. It is a positive guarantee at 10c. Sold by H. B. Garner, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Since the hashaw of Tanager had the monumental impudence the other day to call an American man-of-war a "leaky jack," every body in this country has stopped abusing the national navy and gone to praising it. Now let some other cheap foreigner say that Senator Ingalls is no statesman, and then see how quickly the whole United States will fly to his defense.

re-ru-na is a perfect panacea in all cases of cramp of the stomach and similar attacks. Patrick Burns invites you to his house, 27th and Mulberry Sts., Pittsburgh. He will tell you how Man-in-I cured his piles.

No one can fail to believe in virtues of La-cu-pla after reading the testimonials in "The Life of Life." Mrs. Henry C. Ray, of London, Ontario, O., spent $1,000 for La-cu-pla, and was cured by $5.00 worth of La-cu-pla.

Gen. Bragg has shown that he can stand up under the debilitating influence of the seductive national drinks of Mexico, but also he has never written poetry, so he doesn't deserve so very much credit after all. The very recent States poetry and greaser liquor will not mix worth a cent.

The reason why Acker's Blood Elixir is warranted, is because it is the best Blood Preparation known. It will positively cure all Blood Diseases, purifies the blood, and builds up the system. Remember, we guarantee it. H. B. GARNER, Hopkinsville, Ky.

An almost incredible story comes from Michigan. It is to the effect that a wood-chopper went out into a pine forest the other day and cut down a hollow tree without finding a bear in it. The records show that nothing of the sort ever happened before in that state.

Positively the best remedy ever discovered for all diseases of man and beast that can be reached by an external medical application, is Rungum Root Liniment. One trial will convince. Manufactured only by Rungum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

The Hon. Mr. Muffy, the famous Democratic lawyer and statesman of Racoon Gap, has purchased a phonograph in order that he may be talked to for the Supreme court vacancy. A perusal of the newspapers leads to the belief that a great many other prominent Democrats own phonographs.

We see that Gen. Boulanger has been bounced inconspicuously from active service in the French army. We are not surprised to hear this; Boulanger's doom was sealed when Bonanza Mackay announced that he didn't know him.
