THE LISTENING POST

● I guess I am wrong, and for saying this I will probably draw down upon my thinning thatch the wrath and criticism of the millions who believe I am wrong, but I am firmly convinced that as far as I know and believe there is no such thing as a vitamin. I do not believe that there is any use in eating certain foods and working out certain combinations of goods in order to be certain of getting the required and necessary number of vitamins. Rather I hold to the firm belief that all that is necessary is to be reasonable about diet and as a general thing eat those foods which appeal to us. I know, naturally, that too much meat is a bad thing; I know also that certain vegetables have valuable attributes and, like the animals, we humans do need a more or less balanced ration.

● I confess, however, that I am exceedingly weary of the radio and newspaper and magazine advertising which harps so much on vitamins. To hear the radio announcers particularly, a listener might get the idea that all radio announcers are skilled physicians who can tell us what to eat, and if we carry out their suggestions we can all live a couple of hundred years and never know a sick day. It's vitamin this and vitamin that from morning until far in the night, and they talk so much of vitamins that I have already lost my taste for a number of foods which I had always liked before. I ate those things because I liked them, and since finding out they are rich in a certain vitamin I am beginning to taste those vitamins every time I try to eat the food. I don't like vitamins, and am now engaged in hunting for foods which have no vitamins whatever, or foods in which vitamins have not yet been discovered. I want to eat food because I like it. I do not want to eat food which is only recommended for its vitamin content.

● In the meantime I am leaning heavily on turnip greens and mustard. I know these things have all the vitamins in the world somewhere inside them, but thus far nobody has recommended them for this purpose and so I still enjoy my greens while I may. Lettuce is another green that I heartily enjoy and I know it has vitamins, but nobody has yet told me about it, so I can go right ahead enjoying it.

● Right now English peas are coming along in the garden, and nothing is better than English peas right out of a home garden. True, we get them fresh nearly all the time, but in a long trip they lose their freshness and flavor, and I always am eager to greet a dish of them right out of a home garden. Whether they have vitamins or not I do not know, nor do I care. I know I like them, and know they like me, and why worry about the vitamin content. The same thing holds good with string beans and stock peas and a host of other things which are now getting themselves ready in the gardens of this community. For days and days I have been feasting on asparagus right out of the home garden. Nothing is better, and while I faintly seem to remember some radio smartie talking about the vitamin content of asparagus, I have never been done so much as to ruin my taste for this noble vegetable.

● As a matter of fact I like most of the vegetables which are native to this section. Some I like

Mr. Jones came to Fulton from Water Valley, Miss.

The Dawsons are leaving in the near future for Chicago to make their home.

Jack T. Sisson of Haleyville, Ala., has been appointed assistant trainmaster here, succeeding Mr. Jones.

P. H. Croft, division engineer, Water Valley, was in Fulton today.

ALASKA COLONY NOW IS SHORT OF MANPOWER

Seattle — The need now of Alaska's Matanuska resettlement project, said the manager of its marketing co-operative, is more than manpower.

"The land is there, the climate and the markets," commented L. C. Stock, general manager of the Matanuska Farmers' Cooperative Association, here today. "The farms in the valley now can not produce enough to supply the market. We're particularly short on egg and meat production."

STUDENTS FILLING JOBS OF FIREMEN LOST TO SERVICES

Teaneck, N. J. — The war's demands on manpower has made possible realization of the boyhood dream of sleeping in a firehouse for ten Teaneck high school seniors, and they are getting $2 a night for it.

The bearded fire fighters, 17 years old or more and all six foot athletes, are filling in for department regulars lost to the armed forces and Dr. Charles H. Steel, the high school principal, they stay at headquarters from 8 p. m. to 7 a. m. Each boy works an average of every other night.

Arnold Says U. S. Is Probing Industrial Alcohol Manufacturers

Washington, —Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold testified today that government anti-trust lawyers are investigating the concentration of "production of industrial alcohol in a few companies."

Arnold, appearing before a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing, said he was not yet ready to bring any judicial action or make any charges public.

Chungking, China. — Falling with savage fury upon two Japanese columns thrusting into China along the Burma road, counterattacking Chinese wiped out one invading force of 1,000 men, killed 500 out of another of equal strength and trapped the remainder. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's high command announced tonight.

An official announcement said this triumph converted into disaster a Japanese attempt to flank Chinese troops of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in the sector near Chefang, 25 miles inside the Yunnan province from Burma.

AVG Protects Bombers
The flying tigers of the American Volunteer Group protected Chinese bombers which battered Japanese troops and trucks in Western Yunnan yesterday, an AVG communiqué said.

The Japanese aerial offensive in eastern China, aimed at destroying possible bases for bombing Japan proper, was stepped up today with bombings in Kiangsi and the east coast provinces of Chekiang and Fukien. Some 43 enemy planes in eight flights attacked various Kiangsi province towns, particularly the temporary capital of Kian.

Bloody fighting was said to have occurred yesterday afternoon when truckloads of Japanese reinforcements, moving up from the border town of Wanting, split into two forces and attacked both Chinese flanks.

Penetrate Line
Some enemy units penetrated behind the Chinese line, the communiqué indicated, but in the end, the battlefield was strewn with 1,500 Japanese dead with between 400 and 500, all that were left, pocketed.

From the Chinese account, it appeared that the defenders might have destroyed Japanese spearheads which Tokyo claimed had driven past Chefang to Lungling, 25 miles deeper into China. The Chinese acknowledged yesterday the loss of Chefang itself.

Submarine Warfare Is Producing Resourceful And Courageous Men

New York. — Submarine warfare is producing a breed of men resourceful and courageous as frontier Indian fighters of bygone years, a young submarine officer said Wednesday on returning to the Third Naval District from Far Eastern waters for a new assignment.

"The sub men are men," he declared. "They're a breed all their own. True, they get 25 per cent more pay, but it's the life, not the pay, that gets them to volunteer."

Any faint hearts are quickly revived by the will to make good, he said, in describing a sailor who wrapped rags around his knees as his submarine put to sea after war was declared.

"What's the matter—got housemaid's knee?" asked the skipper. "Well, Sir," replied the bluejacket, "I may not be able to stop 'em from knocking—but sure as hell I'm not going to let the Japs hear them!"

The officer, whose name was withheld but who was described as a former wrestler and football player at Annapolis, said his first submarine patrol out of Manila after war was declared lasted 52 days.

"Not once during that time did we see the sun," he said. "We ran submerged all day, surfaced only at night to charge the batteries. Continually, of course, we were hampered by lack of air power, for the Japs had control there."

"Our $6,000,000 sub had to do reconnaissance missions which aircraft could have done better—if we had the planes. The patrols, nevertheless, had their victories."

"While patrolling one day at periscope depth, the skipper saw three big Jap subs right there on the surface, in broad daylight. We were at extreme range, but decided it was worth a try. We let go the torpedoes. I can't tell you just what happened to those Jap subs."

Sub warfare "is part hunting, part being hunted," he said. "It includes long periods of waiting, waiting, waiting; long periods of looking, searching the horizon, stalking the sea. We envy the plane pilots who can go right out, take a crack at the Japs, and come back."

SENIOR PLAY LAST EVENING IS BIG SUCCESS

"Elmer, The Youngest," a howling three act comedy, presented by the Fulton High seniors last night at Science Hall, proved to be one of the most entertaining plays given in Fulton recently.

Jack Snow, in the title role of Elmer, brought the house down with his amusing antics. He turned in a splendid performance, as he gaily meddled into the love-life of his sister, Anne, brilliantly played by Donna DeMyer. Sara Nellie Alexander, as Carrie, was a scream as she carried on her feud with her brother, Elmer, and she gave a clever performance. As character actor, Martha Bell Strayborn and Layne Spence, as the mother and father of Elmer, were excellent. Billie Reed, playing Dr. Markham, fiancé of Annie's, and Harold Mullins, as Lance, an old sweetheart, provided the complications for Elmer to straighten out.

Both played their roles well. Hugh Mac McClellan, as Luigi, gave a clever impersonation of an Italian servant.

In the minor role, Mildred Mount, Shelby Davis, Fred Hassell, Martha Ellen Duley, and Doris Branch all did well.

Between acts music was furnished by Martha Ellen Duley and Virginia Ann Hardy. Ushers were Norma Samons and Grace Cavenar. Before the final act, Miss Mary Royster, who directed the play, was presented a gift by Donna DeMyer, in behalf of the play cast.

Rationing Of Passenger Traveling On Railroads Definitely Forecast

Washington, —Rationing of passenger travel on railroads and buses was described officially today as "definitely in prospect" while the government sent every city of over 10,000 population a blue-print for efficient use of public and private transportation.

In addition, it planned an appeal to motorists having more than five tires to sell the extra to the government.

In a day which found Congress and government departments increasingly concerned over the rubber and transportation situations, there were these developments:

Melbourne, —A communique from Allied headquarters today announced that action in the Coral sea naval battle had ceased and that the Japanese attack had been repulsed.

The communique announcing cessation of the great naval battle came on the sixth day.

American forces apparently had intercepted a great invasion fleet heading south along the fringes of the Australian defense area. Some authorities thought it was headed for New Caledonia, where United Nations reinforcements have been sent recently.

Allied Headquarters, Australia, —A great and fateful naval battle—the biggest ever joined by ships of the American line—raged on today in the Coral Sea off Australia, where a U. S. fleet, supported by British and Australian units, engaged Japanese formations for the immediate safety of this continent and the probable mastery of much of the Southern Seas.

First eyewitness accounts reaching an advanced Allied base said hundreds of Japanese crewmen had to dive overboard amid smoke and flame from two aircraft carriers sunk or damaged by aerial bombs in the first blow of the Allied assault.

Personal Losses
These reports said Japanese personnel losses may run into the thousands.

Japanese destroyers tried desperately but vainly to save the carriers, blasted into torn and blazing hulks by American bombing planes which pressed home their attack in a hell of anti-aircraft fire and challenging hordes of Japanese Zero fighters.

"We might have been blasted out of our beds last night if this hadn't happened," commented one naval spokesman ashore on the results thus far of the still-raging battle.

"But we got in there and did the job," he asserted, adding that "one Japanese carrier was seen sinking and the other was hit from stem to stern."

(According to the British news agency Reuters, this second carrier also sank.)

Late yesterday, a communique from this headquarters disclosed that ten Japanese ships had been sunk and six badly damaged and passenger space on railroads and inter-city buses was in prospect within the next few months, but that no decisions had been reached on just how this would be done—by issuance of credentials to "essentials" travelers or some less formal method.

An independent rubber dealer, Elliott E. Simpson of New York had told the committee that South and Central America had enough mature rubber trees now to meet "all the requirements of our war effort and the needs of our people many times over."

(Other rubber experts have asserted that Latin-America could supply only a fraction of this country's needs.)

Chairman Reynolds (D-N. C.), of the Senate committee considering the auto rationing bill, said there was no immediate prospect that rationing would be necessary.

THE ROSTOCK TREATMENT

Since the British Royal Air Force began its round-the-clock offensive against the Germans on April 11 a certain fearful and effective pattern of policy has emerged. It began without announcement when the R. A. F. bombed the Baltic port of Lubeck into devastated uselessness in one night. It developed more fully when bomber squadrons hammered another Baltic port, Rostock, for four consecutive evenings and until it was practically not there any more. Just now it seems that Stuttgart, famous industrial city, has been chosen as the next target.

Disregarding the human equation, which was eliminated by the Nazis in spite of every instinct and precedent of civilization, what is coming to be called "the Rostock treatment" appears excellent tactics for a nation so situated as the British are at the moment. The importance of Lubeck Rostock and Stuttgart to the German war effort is clearly tremendous. The first two places were vital for the shipment of supplies to the Nazi Army on the northern part of the Russian front, and the great Heinkel aircraft factory was located at Rostock. Stuttgart has electrical works, motor and truck factories, and a plant that provides much of the German supply of precision instruments for airplanes.

Inasmuch as the Germans chose total war of their own volition, and admire it, the psychological effect of the Rostock treatment should appeal to them as very excellent. It is not difficult to imagine the emotions of the people of other German communities of something like the size and industrial importance of those that have already been so hammered and smashed. If they know which would be next, even, it would be better than it is. Aside from its large practical results, the Rostock treatment must be highly effective as a maneuver in the war of nerves.

On the political front, too, we should think the Rostock treatment worthwhile from the British point of view. These people who are being raided from the sky night after night are the same ones who heard Reichsmarshal Goering say, blatantly and vaingloriously, at the beginning of the war that German cities would never be bombed. The reason he gave was clear and unequivocal. He promised the people of the Reich that hostile airplanes would be shot out of the sky as soon as they crossed into the air above Germany. Great Britain has nothing additional to fear, for the Nazis have done and will do their work, anyhow.—Commercial Appeal.

better than others, but I can eat practically all of them. I was never passionate about turnips, and artichokes sometimes fail to stir any desire in my taste. Onions as onions do not have a great deal of taste appeal, but when used in conjunction with other foods they are a noble helper. (I wonder if onions have any vitamins. If the odor is measured they should be high in vitamin content.)

At this season I begin to have less interest in meats and more and deeper interest in vegetables. There are so many things which come from a garden as to be almost unbelievable. Tomatoes, for example, make a noble dish, and while tomato juice is praised to the high heaven for having vitamins, little is said about rich, ripe, red tomatoes fresh from a garden. Whether they have vitamins or not does not matter—I only know they appeal to me mightily as the summer comes along.

Gosh, I have been talking about good things so much that here I am hungry and meal time three hours away!

ARMY HALTS HOUSING

FOR MEN'S FAMILIES

Washington — The War Department has announced all plans for construction of housing at Army posts for the families of officers and enlisted men has been canceled.

More than two months ago, officials said, a department order limited new housing construction by the Army, because of a scarcity of materials, to the minimum required for essential civilian employees.

The order has created a problem for officers assigned to new posts, or to older camps where family quarters are insufficient, officials said, and many officers now are able to take their families with them when they are transferred only when they can find houses in cities near the Army post.

STATE ORDERS BIG ASPHALT SUPPLY FOR ROAD REPAIR

Frankfort, Ky. —The State Highway Department has ordered 3,000,000 gallons of asphalt for state road repaid in an effort to stock up before wartime restrictions might further disable Kentucky's already curtailed road improvement program. Thomas H. Cutler, chief highway engineer, said today. Cutler, just back from a highway representatives conference in Washington, said officials there will place tank car restrictions against 17 eastern states, including West Virginia, on May 9. The tank cars are pressed now with war transportation and will not be available for asphalt handling after that date, Cutler said.

Cutler said he was advised the restriction might soon be applied to Kentucky.

The chief engineer said he had conferred in Washington with George Reed, Columbia, Ky., and Mayor Miller of Campbellsville on a suggestion that the War Department aid in constructing the state to aid in constructing a road near the Wolf Creek Dam project.

SONG OF TROOPER
TO GIRL MAKES HIT

Melbourne — He put his thoughts to music—and launched a career in music—when he thought of her in Massachusetts during his long voyage to Australia.

He is Pvt. Adrain Boudreau of Medford, Mass. She is Miss Higgins of Everett, Mass.

On a troopship Boudreau wrote a song, "This Is Not Time For Tears." In Australia, the manager of the Commonwealth's largest theatre induced Boudreau to sing his song. A packed house applauded thunderously and now an Australian firm is publishing the song.

Tigers Drop Tight Game To Barons As Thommasson Forces In Run

The ramping Tigers, riding the crest of a four-game winning streak, were stopped last night by the Bowling Green Barons in that city by the tight score of 3 to 2. It was the fourth straight game which the Tigers had played to one-run decisions, three having been won from Union City.

Tommy Thommasson was on the hill for the Tigers and held the Barons to 6 hits. However he walked five, and in the ninth, after walking Churchill purposely, and filling the bases, he also walked Currier to force in the winning run. The game was light hitting, each team getting six blows, but Manager Mullen clouted a homer for the Tigers in the fourth with no one on base. Derrick and Faudem had doubles.

The Tigers are back at Fairfield tonight with Hopkinsville, and the Hoppers will play here tonight, tomorrow afternoon and Monday night.

In other games played last night Union City beat Owensboro, and Jackson beat Hopkinsville.

BEHIND THE MEN BEHIND THE GUNS

More than one thousand Southern Bell employees now proudly wear the uniform of America's armed forces.

Behind them, ably doing their part, 26,300 intensively trained fellow telephone workers, efficiently serve their country at home. Not in uniform—but engaged in a task no less vital to the national war effort—constantly maintaining the efficiency of the far-flung communication lines of a country faced with its greatest emergency.

Nor have these loyal workers at home neglected the duty of every American. They have already bought $415,000 of war bonds, maturity value, and are subscribing over $117,000 every month for additional bonds—concrete evidence that these thousands of men and women are in every way "behind the men behind the guns."

Out of Every Dollar Comes Back to You in Government Benefits

★ Out of every dollar that you pay us for electric service we pass 21 cents on to Government in taxes. And Government passes them back to you in benefits—National Defense, Schools, Police and Fire Protection, Highways, Hospitals and Health Service, Charity Institutions, Courts...

Last year (1941) our total tax bill was about $2,265,000. That was $6,200 every day including Sundays and holidays. It was $18 for each electric customer, and $1,997 for each regular employee.

If our company didn't pay any taxes your electric rates would be much lower—but you would pay higher taxes. Do you want to do that?

Whenever and wherever Government goes into business political management replaces business management. It offers lower prices because it pays no income taxes on the business.

A nationally famous fact-finding service reports that aggregate taxes in this country have risen about 800% in the last 25 years—prior to Pearl Harbor. In the same period the electrical industry lowered its service rates an average of 55%—and improved the service immeasurably.
