NO LONG LINES—There aren't any long lines yet, but Calloway County motorists should get to the County Court Clerk's office early to beat the rush for license plates this year. License plates for 1974 must be on local cars March 1.

Measure Would Allow Corporation To Own Banks Across County Lines

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A bill which could change the underpinning of Kentucky's banking system has been introduced by Sen. Lacey Smith.

It would allow holding corporations to buy more than one bank across county lines, overturning a current restriction. The result, according to the Louisville Democrat, would be more competition, an expansion of banking services and the growth of loans to people in smaller towns.

Smith said his proposed changes, embodied in Senate Bill 123 and cosponsored by Republican Minority Leader Gene Stuart, R-Louisville, would be subject to "rigorous structures" of federal antitrust laws to prevent monopolies.

"Studies in the 34 states that have this kind of law indicate that the loan to deposit ratio has increased," he said.

The present barriers to individuals wishing to enter a particular bank area are "almost insuperable," Smith said, and corporations are forbidden to acquire banks.

Smith said the measure has nothing to do with branch banking, which is set out in other statutes.

Another banking bill, offered by Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, would prevent deposit of state funds in banks where the state treasurer or finance commissioner has an interest.

Hopkins said at a news conference earlier in the day at Lexington he has asked the Attorney General's office to determine if current law on the subject has been violated by the Democratic state administration.

He alluded to reports last year about a $680,000 state deposit in a Sturgis bank where Finance Commissioner Charles Pryor is a director.

The state spreads such deposits over more than 300 banks around Kentucky. It is against the law for a public officer to receive any interest or profit from use or loan of public funds in his hands.

A measure offered by House minority leader Harold Demarcus, R-Stanford, would make it unlawful for a motorist to have any opened alcoholic beverage within reach.

"This (HB 340) is not a so-called anti-liquor bill, but a bill to save lives," Demarcus said.

He said he learned that in the Canadian Province of Ontario, where the proportion of alcohol-related traffic deaths is low, it is a felony to open a bottle of alcoholic beverage outside a person's home or hotel room.

Sen. John Chris Cornett, D-Hindman, introduced SB 120 which would push the primary date in Kentucky from late May to early August, thereby cutting down the length of such campaigns.

Coincidentally, U.S. Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Louisville, said last Saturday he was introducing a bill at Washington to accomplish the same thing for congressional races.

Other bills introduced Monday:

HB 377 — Authorizing issuance of an "occupational license" to a motorist whose operator's license has been revoked or suspended, but who needs a license to earn a living.

The judge of the court of jurisdiction would have to make the recommendation. Brooks Hinkle, D-Paris.

HB 349 — Exempting all licensed operators 65 and older from paying tolls on Kentucky turnpikes. David Van Horn, D-Lexington.

HB 360 — Strengthening the 1972 statute on financial disclosure. Nick Kafoglis, D-Bowling Green.

HB 339 Allowing unused accumulated sick leave to be credited towards teachers' retirement. Hinkle.

Ward Finds Politics 'Refreshingly Honest'

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Sen. Tom Ward, a Presbyterian minister, says politics is "refreshingly open and honest."

"People ask me, 'Don't you find politics rough?'" the freshman senator from Versailles said in a recent interview. "I tell them I find a sense of real comradeship and respect for other people's views here."

"In politics as long as I get 51 per cent to vote for me I'm in office," Ward said, "while in the church you might have 80 per cent of the people on your side but a small minority could keep you from getting things done."

Several years ago the 39-year-old Ward embarked on a plan designed to make him financially able to enter politics.

After ministry work in Louisville and at the small country church at Pisgah in Woodford County, Ward resigned to enter business, taking over the Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise in the Virgin Islands "to finance what I wanted—hopefully to serve in elective office."

After two unsuccessful races, he beat three-term incumbent Wilson Palmer in the Democratic primary for the 30th District Senate seat.

"For the first time I seem to have put it all together," Ward said.

Just named minister-at-large by the Presbyterian Church executive board to work with the church's Hunger Task Force on hunger and malnutrition, Ward feels that his church work will mesh with his role as a state senator.

He hopes to provide an avenue of change for the people.

Ward remembers back when he was on the other side of the fence, "Involved in so many 'do gooder' causes that my wife told me I should form a group called Save The World, Inc., and he couldn't get representation."

"I founded our efforts frustrated by apathetic politicians—who didn't understand, didn't care, or who were against the things we worked for...the environment, economic development, better race relations," ward said.

"A man should exert leadership and vote his conscience—but if he gets too far ahead of his constituency, then he's in trouble."

Absent for the first week of the Senate session because of a chronic back condition, Ward suddenly stepped into the limelight as the "people's man" when he became a catalyst to a heated confrontation on strip mine reclamation and open committee meetings.

In that committee meeting a

Accidents Reported Up After Daylight Savings Time Begun

Local officials feel that traffic accidents have increased slightly since daylight savings time went into effect here.

Police Chief James Brown said this morning that he feels that predawn traffic accidents may have risen some since January 6, when DST went into effect as an energy savings measure.

"This is the first time our traffic patrolmen have had to use flashlights at school crossings," Brown said. He added that most motorists are cooperating and the situation is working out well.

Brown pointed out that one reason is that a relatively small percentage of school children in Murray walk to school. Only 20 or 30 cross each morning at Ninth and Main Streets, Brown said.

Bill Barker, superintendent of the Murray Electric System, said this morning it is really too early to tell if any significant decrease in electricity use has resulted from the change over of DST.

"The inconsistency of the weather has made it difficult to judge," Barker said. "But I doubt if there will be much decrease."

Barker did point out, however, that electricity use seems to be at about the same rate as last year, even after picking up some new customers who were on natural gas. "That might be seen as some decrease in usage," he said.

"One factor that will make comparison difficult for this billing period is that both the local Tappan plant and the city schools were closed down for a period around Christmas."

Four Persons Shot Monday, San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Four persons were shot to death and another critically wounded Monday night in a series of street corner shootings, police said.

The shootings all took place in a 65-minute period in three different areas of the city, police said. No arrests have been made.

"We have established that the first three victims were shot with a .32-caliber weapon and are proceeding on the assumption that all the shootings are the work of the same person or persons," said Police Capt. Paul Kiel.

Kiel said officers did obtain descriptions of the shooting incidents from witnesses.

Also, the recent warm weather can influence electricity usage by as much as 15 per cent, Barker said.

A recent Associated Press survey showed that nationwide, electricity savings were less than one per cent.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, backed by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, introduced legislation Monday urging Congress to repeal daylight savings time.

"It's time to recognize that we may well have made a mistake," Clark said. He added that the energy saving is not worth the risk to children.

Murray and Calloway County schools have followed the example of many schools across the country in advancing some schools' schedules in order to have the students coming to school after dawn.

A Murray State co-ed was injured recently when she was struck by a car in the predawn hours.

Eight children have been killed in Florida since DST took effect. Only two died in the same period last year. Bills similar to Clark's have been introduced in the House and in Florida.

Senators Walter (Dee) Huddleston of Kentucky and Lawton Chiles of Florida introduced legislation Monday to repeal year-round daylight savings time. Their proposal would not affect fast time during the customary late April to late October period.

In a joint statement, the two said nothing has happened since daylight time became effective early this month to indicate an over all energy saving. They said that what was saved by extra daylight in the evening was more than offset by light and heat consumed in the homes in the early hours.

Huddleston and Chiles said the only concrete result of the fast time has been the danger imposed on children who must wait in the morning darkness for buses and to their parents, businessmen and farmers.

In addition to the eight children killed in Florida, one youngster died in Virginia, one in Ohio, and two in California.

In addition, a woman pedestrian in Connecticut and an adult school crossing guard in South Carolina were killed in predawn auto accidents.

Neale Mason New Captain Of Auxiliary

A Change-of-Watch meeting and dinner was held by Division XXVII of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary on Saturday evening, January 26, at the Cabana Club, Paducah.

The immediate Past Captain, Lester Siegfried, Clavert City, turned over the Division charter and insignia of office to the newly elected Captain, Neale B. Mason of Murray.

Attending the ceremonies from Murray were Robert E. Johnson, Commander of the Murray-Kenlake Flotilla of the Auxiliary and Division Courtesy Motorboat Examination Officer, Shirley Johnson, Division Public Education Officer and Women's Activities Officer, and Dorothy Mason, Division Secretary.

Division XXVII of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, a civilian organization dedicated to assisting the U.S. Coast Guard in promoting boating safety, was established in November 1970 and has 114 members in the Lakes area who are available to assist the boating public in maintaining safe operation of their boats.

Members of the Auxiliary present classes in correct boat handling and procedures, examine pleasure boats as a courtesy check of safety equipment, patrol the Lakes areas to give assistance to boaters in trouble, patrol boat races and regattas to maintain safe conditions for both participants and spectators, and participate in search and rescue operations when necessary.

Plans for the forthcoming boating season were discussed during the meeting.

Calloway Debate Team Wins Trophies In Murray High Meet

The Calloway County High Speech and Debate team won two first place, and two third place trophies in the Murray High School Speech Tournament held Saturday.

Approximately 30 schools from Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama participated in the tournament, hosted by the Murray High National Forensic League.

Winning first place trophies in impromptu acting were David Robinson and George Taylor. Marketia Orr of C.C.H.S. won first place trophy in grab-bag.

Third place trophies were awarded to C.C.H.S. students

Jimmy Burkeen in Dramatic Humorous and to Teresa Moody for Dramatic Serious.

The Calloway Speech team received thirty-seven superior ratings. The varsity debaters had two wins and two losses in competition Saturday.

Scott Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kaye Willis, formerly of Murray and now residents of Huntsville, Alabama, received a second place award in Humorous Interpretation.

The Sweepstakes award was won by Memphis Frazier High School.

The N.F.L. expressed appreciation to the following firms and organizations for their contributions to the tournament: Perkins Pancake and Steak House, Bank of Murray, Peoples Bank, Murray-Ledger & Times, Purdon-Thurman Insurance, WNBBS, Federal Savings and Loan, Ward-Elkins, Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce, Purchase Industrial, and the Murray Lions Club.

The Murray High club plans to attend the Xavier tournament in Louisville and the Calloway speech team's next tournament will be in early February.

Fate Of Emergency Energy Bill In Doubt As Senate Delays Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of emergency energy legislation appears in doubt as the Senate heads toward a vote on a motion to send the bill back to conference with the House.

A final Senate vote on the bill was scheduled for this afternoon. But before that, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was expected to offer the motion to recommit the measure to conference.

Senate Interior Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who last week predicted passage of the bill, said Monday he doesn't know whether the move to recommit the bill will succeed. The bill would give President Nixon the authority to order gasoline rationing.

Nelson's motion is expected to include instructions to drop a controversial provision designed to prevent the oil industry from earning windfall profits.

Jackson blamed the effort to block the bill on "intensive lobbying" by the petroleum industry and the White House against the windfall profits provision. The industry and the administration reportedly organized a filibuster in December that prevented passage of the bill then.

The bill's opponents gained new strength Monday when Nelson, a northern liberal known to favor a windfall profits tax, announced his opposition to the bill on the grounds that it is unworkable. Nelson also objects to provisions in the bill that would suspend clean air requirements in order to permit the burning of dirtier fuels.

Jackson, the chief architect of the bill, has acknowledged that the windfall profits section is not entirely satisfactory but has insisted on keeping it in as a prod to Congress to pass new tax measures later in the session.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, John Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, said the price of domestic oil should

Dr. R. Bailey Binford Now Associated With Local Clinic

R. BAILEY BINFORD, M.D.

R. Bailey Binford, 37, of Fulton, is now associated with the Houston-McDevitt Clinic in a psychiatric and family practice capacity.

Dr. Binford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Binford of Fulton, and graduated from Fulton High School in 1954. He graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1958, and from the University of Tennessee Medical School in 1964.

He completed a rotating internship at the Highland Alameda County Hospital in Oakland California in 1965, and assisted in surgery at the Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington for one year.

In 1967, Dr. Binford did a one year residency at the University of Kentucky in pediatrics, and was in family practice for one year at Russell Springs, Ky.

In August, 1968, Dr. Binford entered a residency program at Emory Medical School in Atlanta in psychiatry, which included both adult and child psychiatry. At the completion of his residency, Dr. Binford entered private practice in psychiatry in Lexington until the present time.

A member of the American Medical Association, the American Psychiatry Association, the Academy of Family Practice, and the Kentucky Medical Association, Dr. Binford is a former member of the Fayette County Medical Society and served as vice president of his class his first year in medical school. He was president of his class for the last three years.

Dr. C. C. Lowry, president of the clinic, said "We are happy to provide office space for a physician of Dr. Binford's caliber." Dr. Binford's offices will be on the second floor of the Houston-McDevitt Clinic.

Country-Style Ribs With Red Cabbage Rate High in Flavor

Unfortunately some of the most economical pork cuts are among the least familiar. Country-style ribs are one of them.

Be ready with the recipe for Ribs and Red Cabbage when you bring this good pork buy home, suggests Reba Staggs, home economist of the National Live Stock & Meat Board. It provides an appetizing and satisfying dinner dish the family will enjoy.

Ribs and Red Cabbage

4 to 4½ pounds country-style ribs
1 medium head red cabbage, coarsely shredded (9 to 11 cups)
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons caraway seed
1½ teaspoon pepper
1½ cup chopped onion
1½ cup cider vinegar
1 cup water
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 350°F. Place ribs, meaty side up, in large roasting pan. Cover tightly and bake 1 hour. Remove ribs from pan and pour off drippings. Mix cabbage, flour, sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, pepper and caraway seed in roasting pan. Add onion, vinegar, water and raisins, toss until thoroughly mixed. Place ribs on top. Cover tightly and bake 40 minutes. Uncover and bake 20 minutes longer or until meat and cabbage are done, basting ribs occasionally. Sprinkle ribs on both sides with salt and arrange on serving platter with cabbage. 6 to 8 servings.

Hidden Treasures

It looks good and it tastes great, but what diners don't see is important too—the valuable nutrients built in pork that help keep the body healthy. Today's lean-bred, well-trimmed pork is an excellent source of high quality protein, B vitamins (especially thiamin, necessary for healthy nerves) and essential minerals, including iron. Nowadays you can count on fewer calories and more nutrients per serving with pork—an impressive food.

Wise-Olazabal Engagement

Miss Polly Eve Wise

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wise, 2424 Barrington Place, Rockford, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Polly Eve, to Victor M. Olazabal, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Olazabal of Murray.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Guilford High School, Rockford, Ill., and is now a student at Murray State University.

Mr. Olazabal graduated from Murray High School and is also attending Murray State University.

Wedding plans are incomplete.

Hints For Storing Food

By Isabel Crutchfield

NUTS: If you have leftover nuts from the holidays, either use them soon or store them. Nuts in the shell keep well in a nut bowl at room temperature for a short time. For prolonged storage, keep them in a cool, dry place. They may be stored in the freezer, but be sure to package them well in moisture resistant packages because nuts absorb moisture readily.

PEANUT BUTTER: Why is a stabilizer added to peanut butter? It helps to retard oil separation. Salt, and sometimes sweeteners, are used for flavor.

COCONUT: Buy flaked coconut if you are making coconut pies or cakes because it is easier to cut and serve your dessert. Moist or very moist coconut may be more desirable to use in foods that are somewhat dry.

FROZEN MEAT: Meat and poultry that is tender before freezing will stay tender after freezing if it is properly prepared, packaged, frozen and stored. However, if you have a tough piece of meat, don't think freezing it will make it any more tender.

COOKING FROZEN VEGETABLES: The secret of cooking frozen vegetables successfully is to cook the vegetable until just tender. That way you save vitamins, bright color, and fresh flavor.

CHECK YOUR FREEZER: I have had several calls this month about freezers that have gone off. The causes are probably many and varied, but checking yours every day or two may prevent your losing the contents.

With the freezer closed, food will usually stay frozen in a fully loaded cabinet two days. In a cabinet with less than half a load, you can not count on it staying frozen more than a day.

The length of time food in your freezer will stay frozen depends on the amount of food in it, the kind of food, the temperature of the food, the amount of insulation, and the size of the freezer.

If you are not sure that you can get the freezer started again while the food is still frozen, you could move it to a commercial freezer if one is available. If not, move it to another freezer or pack it in dry ice.

Whether food that has thawed is safe to eat depends on several things so the best thing to do is to check your freezer often enough so that if the freezer goes off you can move the food before it thaws.

James Biggs Speaks At The Murray Chapter Of Secretaries; Special Contests Planned Later In Year

The Murray Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) held its regular meeting on Monday, January 21, at seven p.m. in the educational building at Murray State University.

James Biggs, director of the Upward Bound program at Murray State University, was the special guest speaker. He gave a humorous philosophic rendition of Mark Twain.

Mrs. Ruth Harris, president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Faye Wells, co-chairman of the Kentucky Division annual meeting to be held on the campus of Murray State University in 1974 gave a report on the activities planned thus far for the state meeting.

Chairman of the Secretaries week committee, Mrs. Anita Thomas, reported on the Boss of the Year and the Secretary of the year contests. Members were asked to place their nominations for Boss of the year and nominations for Secretary of the Year were received. Both contests are judged by a panel of judges based on the qualifications listed on the nominations.

Finalists will be announced at a later date, and the winners of these contests will be announced at the Executive Night banquet to be held in April.

A social hour was held with refreshments being served by Mrs. Annie J. Nance.

Members present were Sandra Adams, Bettye Baker, Peggy Bazzell, Faye Billington, Linda Chadwick, Lajeanne Chapman, Patsy Dyer, Linda Farley, Helen Foley, Anna Ruth

Harris, Melva Hatcher, Wanda Hendon, Betty Meadows, Annie J. Nance, Doris Rowland, Frances Shea, Carol Sims, Helen Spann, Virginia Strohecker, Anita Thomas, Ann Thompson, Karen Thompson, Delma Trotter, and Faye Wells. Guests were Pat Eberhardt and Mr. Biggs.

South Murray Club Has Regular Meet At Gibson Home

The home of Mrs. Lottie Gibson was the scene of the meeting of the South Murray Homemakers Club held on Wednesday, January 9, at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Frances Carter presented the major lesson on the subject, "Buying Food For Our Families."

The craft lesson on "Learning To Do Needlepoint" was given by Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Annie May Owen, president, presided at the meeting. The devotion was given by Mrs. Joan Cavitt who read from Revelation 22:15 and spoke on "The Year Ahead." Mrs. Cavitt said this may be a time to set goals that can spur accomplishments.

When the women arrived they were served coffee and sweet rolls by Mrs. Gibson. At noon a potluck luncheon was served to the fifteen members and one visitor.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, February 13, at one p.m. at the home of Mrs. Claude Miller.

She paid the 'tuition' and got nothing for it

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I fell in love with a guy I'll call Motorhead. All he loved was his car. He lost his job and I finished making his car payments. I also paid some other bills for him, and even paid back some money he owed. My friends told me I was crazy, but I was stubborn and wouldn't listen.

Motorhead got a job, and now that he is working he is going with another girl and people say he is going to marry her. I feel like a fool but what can I do? How can I get my money back without my parents knowing? I don't want to go to court, and I don't have any kind of written "I.O.U." from this guy.

DEAR FOOL: Unless you have something in writing, you can't prove that Motorhead owes you anything. Call it the "tuition" you paid for your education and try to learn from it. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: I have lived here for 30 years and my husband is a respected member of the community, so I am unable to explain why I should have this problem.

I first noticed it in the department store where I shop regularly. The minute I enter, a buzzer goes off, and the store detectives appear and start watching me. Also, I notice the salespeople look at me suspiciously, so I don't dare even handle any merchandise.

I went to the dime store and noticed the same thing happened there, so I called for the manager and asked him why I was being watched. He very sarcastically said I wasn't, but if I had a clear conscience I had nothing to worry about. I left immediately without buying what I came for.

I now get the same feeling when I go to the supermarket. I've never stolen anything, but people keep watching me as tho I were a thief.

Should I bring suit against these people who are harassing me? I now order everything on the telephone because walking into a store is so humiliating.

DEAR INNOCENT: It's entirely possible that you are not being harassed, but that your imagination is working overtime. If you haven't discussed this with your doctor, you should. An imagined harassment is as damaging as a real one.

Miss Cindy Harrell Is Married To Ronnie Smith In Church Ceremony

Mrs. Ronnie Smith

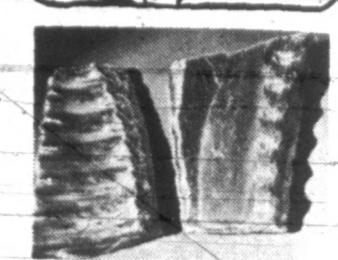

The marriage of Miss Cindy Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Harrell of Murray Route Three, and Ronnie Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith of Murray Route One, was solemnized on Friday, January 11, at seven p.m. at the Kirksey Baptist Church with Rev. Pete Carlisle officiating at the double ring ceremony.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length dress of white dotted swiss designed with an empire waistline with lace at the waistline, on the collar, the ruffles of the long sleeves, and on the hem of the skirt. Her veil and headpiece were those worn by her sister, Mrs. Barry Cain, in her wedding. She carried a bridal bouquet of yellow roses, white mums, and baby's breath with yellow streamers.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Cain, who was attired in a floor length pink knit dress and carried a nosegay of pink carnations and greenery.

Barry Cain was best man for Mr. Smith. Also present for the wedding were the bride's parents and the groom's sister, Miss Carolyn Smith, who was presented the bride's bouquet after the wedding.

The new Mrs. Smith is a 1973 graduate of Calloway County High School. Mr. Smith, a 1972 graduate of Calloway County High School, is now employed by Beach Builders, Murray. They are residing on Murray Route One.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Pork Country-Style Ribs.

Q. Where do they come from? How are they identified?
A. They come from the blade section of the loin which is located between the shoulder and center rib section. They can be envisioned as a pork loin blade roast which has been cut in half lengthwise with the blade bone removed. One section includes the rib bones; the other the back bone. Often the back bone is cracked at intervals, making it possible to carve into servings.

Q. How are they prepared?
A. Country-style ribs can be roasted (baked), braised or cooked in liquid. To braise ribs in oven, place on rack in roasting pan or Dutch oven, cover tightly and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 2 hours to 2 hours 45 minutes. (Glaze with jelly and bake uncovered last 15 minutes, if desired.) To cook in liquid, just cover ribs with water, add seasoning as desired, cover tightly and simmer for 2 hours to 2 hours 30 minutes.

Build a Better Day

It isn't too late to shed bad habits and resolve to eat a good breakfast throughout 1974. Simplicity is the keynote to success. The addition of pork to the morning meal arouses appetites, provides important protein and is quick: Build better breakfasts with bacon, sausage links or patties, thin panfried pork chops, Canadian-style bacon or ham slices.

Warm Colors, Fabrics 'In' For Spring

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gustave Tassell's spring collection for the House of Noelle looks snappy and dressy but very hot.

Tassell has kept the late Noelle's huge neck bows, which are crisp, fat and sexy. But they'd be devious on warm spring days. So would the satin and taffeta blouses which appear even hotter in black and brown.

However, hopefully and assuredly, the woman who buys them will step from cool limousine to cool restaurant with no fear of tell-tale signs of discomfort in high temperatures.

Priests aren't set yet, but so much the better. It's one of those lines people delicately refer to as "for the discerning woman" or "for the woman of taste." They're trying to say prices can rise to $2,000 if a business manager doesn't slap the designer's hands, jolt him out of his creative rapture and send him back to find less expensive fabric or less intricate detail work.

Tassell smashes solids together — blue and white, red and black. The look is clean, dramatic and glamorous. He generally steers clear of fussy prints and takes to window-pane plaids or polka dots, if he uses patterns at all.

Some of his best-looking designs are a series of narrow, dark blue capes. And some dark blue silk pajamas with full-length silk coat. His series of white wool coats get much applause.

Tassell says he's found an increasing interest in entertaining at home. Thus, the pajamas.

His day look is narrow. One bunch of simple, straight evening dresses with straight-cut necks cried out for one's best emerald and diamond necklace.

WOMEN IN RELIGION

Many new doors are opening in the church

Editor's Note: This is the second of two articles on women seeking equality in the church.

By JO ANN IVEY
Copley News Service

"There is no more striking illustration of the progress that has been made by woman than that afforded by her changed position in the church."

That quote, written in 1897 by suffragette Susan B. Anthony, is both timely and ironic 77 years later. While women have made progress in many other areas once blocked to them, such as business and the professional fields, they have met strong resistance in many religious fields.

Protestantism gave women their first opportunity in the nation as preachers and ministers.

It was Mary Baker Eddy who founded the Christian Science religion, the United States' only female-dominated denomination. They have no ordained ministers but a majority of the 6,000 practitioners of healers are women.

A less well-known group, the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel was founded by Aimee Semple McPherson in the 1920s. Like Christian Science, women outnumber men; today at least 40 per cent of their nearly 3,000 clergy are female.

Traditional U.S. Protestants have been slowly opening up their hierarchy to women. U.S. Presbyterians in the North began ordaining women in 1956; Southern Presbyterians followed suit in 1964. They have ordained 103 and 22 women respectively.

Both the Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church decided to accept women pastors in 1970. Even though a church may actively seek women for ordination the candidates themselves must pick up on the opportunity. The United Methodist Church gave women full rights to clerical appointment in 1956, but by 1970 only 322 of the 34,722 clergy were women.

It used to be that the only sect that recognized the equality of women was the Quakers. In many churches women were required to keep silence, as Paul had advised, in the church. Some were allowed to sing but were silent in the matters of church government. For some denominations even the missionary and charity work was left solely for men.

Now the charitable and missionary work of the churches is in a large part done by women. They have gained the vote in many church councils and there are such denominations as the Unitarians, Universalists, Congregationalists, Wesleyans and Free-Will Baptists, which ordain women as ministers and preachers.

Recently Margaret A. Haywood was elected as moderator of The United Church of Christ. Moderator Haywood's church has long ordained women as ministers. Women also head Presbyterian and Baptist groups.

In discussing the general outlook of women in religion a few major denominations are labeled "holdouts." These include the Episcopalians, Jews and Roman Catholics.

In terms of progress, while they may seem to fall behind other U.S. denominations, the truth of their progress should be measured in degrees.

Reform Judaism has the distinction of having ordained the first woman rabbi.

Others are expected to follow the lead of Sally Preisand, 26, who was ordained in June of 1972.

Reform Judaism has also accepted female cantors. Since World War II some Conservative Jewish synagogues have permitted women to pronounce the blessing over the Torah. Orthodox Judaism does not allow women to pronounce such blessings and still asks that women sit apart from men in the synagogues.

Scholarship Fund To Honor Herndons To Be Established

The Kentucky Baptist Board of Child Care in Middletown has established the J. D. and Ann Herndon Scholarship Fund.

The fund will be used to pay for the continuing education of children now under the care of the Child Care Program as they continue their studies beyond the high school level.

The establishment of this fund comes as a response of gratitude on the part of the Board to a man and his wife who have given of themselves for 29 years in the Program of Child Care among Kentucky Baptists.

Rev. Herndon, who resigned January 1 to become Superintendent of Missions for Christian County in Hopkinsville, served as Director of Development in the Child Care Program for the last four years. As Superintendent of Spring Meadows from 1959-1969, he demonstrated a deep love and interest in young people as they prepare for the future.

The fund will afford others the opportunity through their gifts of sharing his concern through the years.

The first pledge of $500 was made by the Women's Advisory Board who serve in an auxiliary capacity to the Board of Child Care. These women represent Child Care all around the state and have worked closely with Herndon over the years.

Roman Catholicism has been severely criticized for not allowing women to become priests. This is a papal decision but many "Catholic thinkers" feel that women deacons may someday be allowed and perhaps even women priests, though they admit the latter will be a long time coming. But it would be false to say that the Catholic church does not realize the full worth of women. Catholic nuns have headed hospitals, elementary and grade schools and many other positions requiring leadership.

Pope Paul VI does not allow women to be ordained priests nor does he agree with the concept of the breakaway nuns. His stand is that individuals must be in keeping with the "essential keepings" of religious life.

Many of the new nuns feel that the actions they have made are to strengthen their positions in the community and that they are moving "with the historical tide."

One nun answered the question of whether women will eventually become members of the Catholic church hierarchy with a quote from Paul, "In Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female."

Appreciation Certificates Are Given Heart Fund Workers Here

The home of Mrs. Willard Alls was the setting for the January 24th meeting of the Gamma Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Special guest for the evening was Charles Ross, Field Representative for the Kentucky Heart Association. He praised members of the sorority for the progress that had been made since the chapter adopted the Heart Fund Drive as a special service project seven years ago.

He emphasized that benefits of the Kentucky Heart Association fall into three major categories of education, research, and community projects. One such community project, the Heart Clinic for medically indigent children, has been well received in Calloway County and surrounding areas. Each June area children are examined and treated free of charge at the Calloway County Health Center. A certificate of appreciation was presented to Mrs. Kenny Thomas, Gamma Gamma President, for the club's activities throughout 1973. A special certificate of appreciation for seven years of continuous service as Murray-Calloway County Heart Fund Chairman, a volunteer work, was given to Mrs. Willard Alls. Mrs. Jerry Bolls was presented a similar certificate for her service as the 1973 Heart Fund Publicity Chairman. Both ladies will continue to work in these respective positions during the 1974 campaign, Mr. Ross said.

This year's campaign will be conducted throughout the month of February, beginning with "Coffee Day," February 1, at Murray, restaurants, "Business Days for Heart" will also be held during February. Cans will be placed in local businesses to receive contributions. February 16th, the members of the Gamma Gamma Chapter will collect for the Heart Fund during a Murray State Basketball Game.

Finally, a door-to-door solicitation will be made on Heart Sunday, February 24; thereby giving every individual an opportunity to help in the fight against America's and Calloway County's number one health enemy, heart and blood vessel diseases.

Following the business portion of the meeting, a delightfully interesting and informative program was presented by Mrs. Dan Hutson of Murray who told of her travels this summer and of the people that she met. Her excursions went from England to Switzerland, to Czechoslovakia, and then to Russia. It was an exciting trip as Mrs. Hutson recalled with enthusiasm the many people she met along the way. The members of the chapter felt as if they had visited these countries themselves by the time the program was concluded.

Mrs. Fred Gillum Hostess For Meet Contemporary Club

Mrs. Fred Gillum opened her home for the meeting of the Contemporary Homemakers Club held on Thursday, January 10, at one p.m. with the president, Mrs. Danny Cunningham, presiding.

The secretary, Mrs. Johnny Herndon, read the minutes and called the roll with each member answering by "naming her greatest joy during Christmas."

Mrs. Cunningham gave the craft lesson on "Macrame" which is the art of tying knots in strings or cord to create designs.

The lesson sheets on "Buying Food, Low Cost Meals, Food Labeling, and Money Management" were given each member.

The club member received cards and stationery to seal as a money making project. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gillum to Mrs. Lynn Robinson, Mrs. Johnny Herndon, Mrs. Michael McGuire, Mrs. Danny Cunningham, Mrs. Johnny Adams, and eight children.

The next meeting will be held on February 15, at one p.m. at the home of Mrs. Johnny Adams.

What Is A Grandparent?

The following article appeared in the St. Louis Globe Democrat on Friday, April 3, 1970 and we believe worthy of reprint. It was written by Joan Beck:

ONE of the happiest dimensions of a small child's life is usually his grandparents, because . . .

A grandfather is an extra dime or quarter whenever you need one, without saying "What did you do with that money I gave you last Saturday?"

A grandmother is sugar cookies and chocolate chip cookies and peanut butter cookies and not counting how many you eat and not always noticing how close it is to dinnertime.

A grandfather is for telling you secret stories about when your father was little and how he got a spanking.

A GRANDFATHER is for saying "Of course he needs a watch, a fine boy like that — why, he's almost 8 years old."

A grandmother is a soft lap on a rocking chair who doesn't put you down and go away to take care of your little sister just because she's crying.

Grandparents are to keep the baby so you and the other "big" people in your family can go on a special little trip together.

A grandmother is someone to mother your mother when she needs it.

A grandfather is to fix things your father never finds time to fix, like your tippy tricycle seat and the loose wheel on your racing car.

A GRANDMOTHER is to say how wonderful, how clever, how bright you are when you show her the pictures you painted at school and read the book you learned to read and give her the pin dish you made out of clay.

A grandmother is to write you real letters in the mail before anyone else, even understands that you know how to read.

Grandparents are to send you the kind of birthday cards that always have money in them.

GRANDPARENTS ARE to go to visit overnight all by yourself when you need to get away from it all for a while and you're not old enough to go anywhere else.

A grandfather is to tell you about how you could get a double-dip cone for a nickel when he was a little boy and then buy you one with a dip of licorice and a dip of chocolate swirl even though it costs 37 cents.

A grandmother is to sew on buttons and mend your sweaters and wash the baby's diapers if she's your mother's mother; a grandmother is "company coming" if she's your father's mother.

Grandparents are for sending you big surprise packages so the mail man says, "Boy, aren't you a lucky guy" when he brings them and even if there's clothes in them there's always something neat, too.

GRANDPARENTS ARE someone who likes your family to come and visit even when you have to take along the baby's bassinet and 60 zillion diapers and all those bottles and even the baby.

A grandmother is to say, "Don't you think he might stay up a little later tonight as long as we're here," and it works.

Grandparents are to make your mother happy when they call up long distance for no reason at all except it's Sunday and talk $5.75 worth.

A grandfather is to tell you what it was like in the olden days when there wasn't any television and there were dinosaurs.

First Step Toward Peace

The agreement for disengagement of Egyptian and Israeli forces along the Suez fully merits President Nixon's description of it as "the first significant step toward permanent peace in the Middle East." The agreement does more than promise a more stable truce. Secretary of State Kissinger appears to have established a new basis on which both the Arabs and the Israelis can approach the difficult negotiations that still lie ahead.

Egypt's participation in the agreement can be taken as a departure from the inflexible all-or-nothing attitude toward recovery of territory which has obstructed attempts at peace negotiations in the past. While the repossession of all occupied territory remains the Egyptian goal, President Sadat has established the precedent that this can be a diplomatic objective rather than a military one. The question now is whether Arab leaders who believe otherwise can be brought around to his point of view.

The troop withdrawal agreement is a far more portentous step for Israel. After bearing the brunt of a surprise attack last October the Israelis regained the initiative, turned the tide of battle on two fronts and fought their way to the west bank of the Suez Canal.

Thoughts

The wise man has his eyes in his head, but the fool walks in darkness; and yet I perceived that one fate comes to all of them. — Eccl. 2:14 before acceding to a cease-fire under U.S. and Soviet pressure. Now they are ready to withdraw their forces behind pre-October lines and are acquiescing to the return of Egyptian soldiers to some of the territory that had been under Israeli control since 1967.

In the field of destiny, we reap as we have sown. — John G. Whittier, American poet.

This is clearly a recognition by Israel that circumstances are leading no choice but to stake her future security on international guarantees — a step she has taken before with disappointing consequences.

As the chief architect of both the October truce and the disengagement plan, the United States of America has fulfilled a valuable role as an intermediary in the Middle East. At the same time, however, we have incurred no little responsibility to use the full force of our position in the world to assure that the promises of security made to Israel are not betrayed. If the few spirit of detente means anything at all, it must draw the Soviet Union into a clear commitment to use its influence for restraint of the hostile spirit still burning among its Arab clients.

With the signing ceremony at Kilometer 101 the focus of Secretary Kissinger's peace mission can shift to the still-smoldering Syrian front which poses true problems even more difficult to negotiate. The first step he has achieved in bringing Egyptians and Israelis to a meeting of minds on a truce line may be the proverbial first one that must begin a journey of a thousand miles. There is a long road to be traveled if real peace is to be achieved in the Middle East, but there is reason to hope today that the journey has at least begun.

Band Boosters Express Thanks

Dear Editor:

The Band Boosters Club of Murray High School is sincerely grateful to your organization for favorable comments and promotion of the Murray High School Band and its invitation to the Orange Bowl Festival next December. Since last September many citizens have taken notice of the quality of this group and its contribution to our community. Occasionally someone will question so much effort to finance and support such a group and this is understandable. Others feel that such band groups do very little to merit such support from the adults in the community.

It may be helpful to our citizens to consider the following two items related to the band members that could easily be overlooked:

Man hours of work spent in one year and investment in equipment. In 1973 band members spent 9,900 hours at summer band camp; 13,500 hours preparing and presenting football half-time features and 23,400 hours preparing and presenting concerts. This is a total of 46,800 man hours. Add to this 27,000 hours of individual practice and you have 73,800 man hours spent to present a group to the community that can command the respect of our citizens. If the estimated $25,000 to take one-hundred fifty persons to the Orange Bowl Festival is fairly accurate that gives the band members about thirty-four cents per hour for their 73,800 man hours.

The second item of investment is also interesting. Students and their parents have $30,000 invested in musical instruments; the school has $20,000 invested in instruments and $19,000 invested in uniforms. It is not difficult to evaluate these two items and detect that the band members, parents, and the school have a great deal of time, effort, and money already committed to the support of the Murray High School Tiger Band.

The Band Boosters are encouraged by the initial pledges and payments toward the Orange Bowl trip. This community has a band that it can justly be proud of and can support. We hope that when October 1974 arrives we will have the necessary funds to complete all plans necessary to represent Murray, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky, at Miami, Florida December 30, 1974 to January 1, 1975.

Respectfully yours,

State Government Report

Assembly Centers On Budget

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Most of the activity during the fourth week of the Kentucky General Assembly centers around the $4.4 billion budget proposal for fiscal years 1974-76 which was set forth last week by Gov. Wendell H. Ford in a speech to a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Hearings are being held this week by the joint Appropriations and Revenue Committees at which numerous state officials and interested citizens are scheduled to speak in behalf of or against various funded projects for the coming biennium beginning July 1.

Blessed with a big state surplus and accumulated federal revenue-sharing funds, the governor proposes to spend a whopping $264.5 million for new capital construction projects during the next two years.

The largest individual outlays are $31 million as the state's share of a new General Hospital for Louisville, $29.5 million for a new office building in Frankfort for the Department of Human Resources, $22 million for a new exhibition hall in Louisville, $15 million for a new maximum security prison and $10 million for a new state office building to house the Department of Justice.

There are also myriad smaller projects: new vocational schools, park improvements, university classroom buildings, a new state library and renovations at state hospitals and prisons.

The bulk of the money for the projects is federal revenue-sharing funds, and the governor plans to spend about $138 million of the state's expected $172 million in revenue-sharing funds over the next two years on the new construction projects.

The second biggest source of money comes from $30.5 million in general fund surplus gathered from the tax-payers of Kentucky and those who spend tax money within our borders.

"I am enthusiastic about our budget, enthusiastic about our present and our future," Ford said in his budget message.

Most Kentuckians interviewed by this legislator last weekend favor the governor's budget proposal, some expressing delight about the governor's pledge of no new or additional taxes during the next two years. Harold DeMarcus, House minority leader from Stanford, was among the legislators critical of Ford's proposals. He described the capital construction budget as "an effort to build monuments to Gov. Ford."

Various sections of Kentucky reacted bitterly over some facets of the budget proposal, notably strong vocal opposition by thousands of Jackson Purchase residents over the proposed "phasing out" of the Western Kentucky Vocational Technical School at Paducah, disappointment at Murray State University about the failure of the budget to include a school of veterinary medicine at Murray, and determined opposition in Hopkins County to the proposal of the budget to close Outwood State Hospital and School at Dawson Springs.

Teenagers take notice: Rep. Bob Benson, D-Louisville, has introduced HB 325, which would increase the minimum age for obtaining a driver's license in Kentucky from 16 to 18.

Both the House of Representatives and the Senate have passed House Bill 184, which sets a maximum speed limit of 55 miles per hour on the state's highways. The measure is back in the House, however, due to a Senate amendment that exempts emergency vehicles from the new speed limit. The House will concur in the amendment and the bill will become law in Kentucky on March 1 or when signed by Gov. Ford, whichever date is later.

Very few of the major issues and problems that confront the Legislature lend themselves to partisan haggling between Democrats and Republicans. For example—environmental controls, strip mining legislation, loan-rate measures, consumer protection bills, changing the state holiday for Veteran's Day, budget woes, Louisville's mass transit problems, Ashland's desire for new laws to set up warning devices and speed limits in school zones and most other matters are not party issues.

The public is often critical of the Legislature and the laws it produces. Much of the criticism is rooted in a failure to realize that the legislators are not superpersons but ordinary citizens with no offices to work from during a 60-day session, seeking in varied degrees the synthesis of public opinion from their constituents.

Three state holidays will cause inactivity in the Legislature on Roosevelt's birthday (Jan. 30), Lincoln's birthday (Feb. 12) and Washington's birthday (to be celebrated Monday, Feb. 18, though his birthday was Feb. 22). Bills introduced by Sen. Georgia Davis Powers and Rep. Mae Street Kidd, both of Louisville, would create another state holiday—Martin Luther King's birthday (Jan. 15).

It is expected that during this week a bill will be introduced in the General Assembly which would permit multi-bank holding companies in Kentucky along the lines already operative in 34 states. Advocates of this legislation claim "that some two-thirds of all bank deposits in the United States are held in banks owned by holding companies and that the major result of this change in the banking laws will be to give an important stimulus to the economic development of the state." Opponents of the legislation seem to include a majority of smaller banks across the state who fear "that the big banks, especially in Louisville, would soon buy up the smaller banks and we would have a concentration of money in Louisville."

Material being circulated among the legislators indicates that banks supporting multi-bank holding companies include Providence State Bank, The Paducah Bank & Trust Company, Bank of Ashland, Peoples Bank of Murray, Planters Bank & Trust Company of Hopkinsville, The First National Bank of Henderson, two Lexington banks and four banks at Louisville. An aide to Gov. Ford says that Ford "definitely favors the concept."

Opponents include most of the officials of the Kentucky Bankers Association, who claim that enactment of the bill would drain many local banks of resources that otherwise would be loaned to small businessmen, farmers and installment-plan buyers.

The Road Back Worth Traveling

To make it in 18 months from a prison cell to the Jaycee list of the 10 outstanding young men in the nation is no mean accomplishment, but a former safecracker named Gary Smith has done it. He not only put his own life in order after 105 arrests and five convictions as a criminal, but he has made a career of helping others make the transition from prison back to society with the organization Volunteers in Probation.

Our country's prisons have been more notable for their failures than their successes in finding the key to rehabilitation of criminals. Gary Smith's story suggests that in the toughest of prisons the hope and motivation to lead a better life can be kindled and nourished if the spark is there.

Checkoff Plan Gets New Trial

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1973 tax returns.

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A flop in its trial run a year ago, the tax-checkoff plan to help finance presidential elections will be put to a much fairer test when Americans fill out their 1973 income tax returns.

There are two main reasons for this. No longer must the checkoff be made on a separate form, as was the case a year ago. And, with 1973 returns, taxpayers do not have to list their party affiliations.

Legislation and court rulings have forced the changes in the campaign financing program under which individual taxpayers may designate $1 of their taxes each year to help finance the next presidential campaign.

Last year, only about $4 million was designated, as less than one in every 20 taxpayers took part.

Because of court rulings, the Internal Revenue Service not only must put the checkoff plan for 1973 directly on form 1040, but allow taxpayers to check off for 1972 as well. So there are two separate spaces on the front of form 1040 for this.

But taxpayers should be careful. The IRS has put these spaces in two different places. On form 1040, the first checkoff is on line 8, and is entitled "Presidential Election Campaign Fund." A taxpayer filing a joint return can have his spouse designate $1, too, in the same space.

The second checkoff, for 1972, is near the bottom of form 1040. It is entitled: "Note: 1972, residential Election Campaign Fund Designation." It applies to taxpayers who did not make the designation a year ago. There are about 75 million people eligible.

On the short form 1040A, the same checkoffs appear, but are trickier to find. The second checkoff, for 1972, is found on the back page of the short form, just above the space for the signatures.

Under a complicated formula, the money designated by taxpayers will be divided equally among the two major presidential contenders in 1976. There may be some small portion that will go to minor party candidates if they meet the qualifications.

The designation does not increase anyone's tax. It only means that taxpayers are earmarking $1 of their taxes for campaign financing.

But there are a number of uncertainties about the whole plan.

First, the money must be appropriated by Congress, even though taxpayers have officially designated the funds. Second, Congress could repeal the whole law.

The IRS has never been excited about the plan, fearing that it could lead to greater politicizing of the tax-collection process.

It explained that a year ago it decided to use separate forms for the plan to keep it out of the audit stream and reduce the temptation to set up lists of names for the political parties to tap for contributions, or give an agent some ax to grind.

No one knows how the public will respond with the 1973 returns. Those reluctant to list their party affiliations may now want to contribute. But those who contributed because they could earmark their $1 to the party of their choice may now be reluctant.

There's another feature on the 1973 return related to politics.

A maximum $12.50 tax credit per taxpayer is allowed for political contributions in 1973. To be entitled to that credit, taxpayers must have contributed at least $25, since the law provides a credit for half of the contributions with a $12.50 ceiling.

On a joint return, the ceiling is $25. Most taxpayers who contributed $25 or more will find it to their advantage to take the credit instead of an optional deduction, which is limited to a total of $50 per taxpayer (or $100 on a joint return).

A credit is subtracted from the tax due the government while a deduction is taken away from the income subject to taxation.

County Officials' Representatives To Appear At Hearing

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Representatives of county officials' organizations are expected to appear Thursday at a public hearing on controversial legislation designed to end the county fee system.

The hearing will focus, however, on amendments to the legislation which are expected to reduce that controversy.

"I don't think it's as controversial as it was," says Rep. Ralph Ed Graves, D-Bardwell, who sponsored the bill for the Interim Committee on Counties and Special Districts.

Graves has proposed a committee substitute to the initial legislation, House Bill 21, in response to complaints that the initial draft would have cost some officials money.

The substitute amends the maximum salary from $12,600 to $15,600 in counties with populations below 75,000 and from $15,600 to $17,500 in counties of more than 75,000 persons. Graves said the decision to raise the maximum was triggered by complaints from officials who said their salaries actually would be lowered, since the bill also would do away with a lump-sum expense account now received by county sheriffs, judges and attorneys.

The officials contended that the intent of the expense accounts had been to increase their salaries, since there was no requirement that the officials explain how they use the expense money.

While no formal action has been taken on the bill in committee, the measure already has encountered some criticism from some members of the House Committee on Counties and Special Districts.

Reps. Thomas Givhan, D-Shepherdsville, and Leonard Hislop, R-Somerset, sharply questioned the need for the bill last week, contending county officials resent the state telling them how to order their business.

Graves said the interim committee's data showed about 80 of Kentucky's 120 counties now are following poor accounting procedures.

He said about six county judges were indicted in Kentucky this year on charges relating to accounting.

Also, he said, the bill would specifically halt the practice of county officials' keeping county and private funds in the same account and cited the example of an official who might take county funds from his own account to make a speculative cattle deal with the thought that the funds could be returned once the deal paid off.

Among other things, the bill would set up uniform accounting procedures in all counties, would require that all fees go into a common county fund and would require all county officials to draft and submit annual budget requests to county courts.

Kentucky Hopes Dim As Vanderbilt Romps

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — When six of seven shooters surpass their average and a team hits a brilliant 81.5 per cent of its shots in one half, you've got a winner. Vanderbilt did; and crushed Kentucky 82-65 Monday night.

The secret to Vandy's success was its patience—especially in the second half, when the Commodores waited for the good shot and were on target 22 out of 27 times.

Kentucky had led by as much as 10 points in the first half, but Wildcat Coach Joe Hall noted afterward that "Vandy was patient once they got ahead" two minutes into the second half.

At that point, Hall said, Jan Van Breda Kolff "was just too quick and Vanderbilt was just too patient."

Hall credited Bob Chess, a 6-foot-9 junior from New Concord, Ohio for keeping Vanderbilt alive in the first half when Kentucky watched its 10-point lead dwindle to two at intermission.

Chess, who has played only 91 minutes out of a possible 600 before Monday night's game, came off the bench to hit four of five shots, along with two free throws, to put Vandy on the short end of a 36-34 half-time score.

Van Breda Kolff, who had only a 10.3 per game average before meeting Kentucky, was held to two points in the first half, but exploded for 20 in the second period to share the scoring honors for the game with teammate Terry Compton.

Sensation Waldrop Wins Over Liquori And Wottle

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I can't believe it yet," said Tony Waldrop shortly after running his third straight indoor sub-four-minute mile at the Philadelphia Track Classic.

"I used to watch Marty Liquori run on television," murmured the shy 21-year-old North Carolina University senior. "I never dreamed I would beat him in a race."

Waldrop beat Liquori, Dave Wottle, John Hartnett and Barry Brown Monday night in 3:58.9. He caught Liquori three strides from the wire and just edged the former Villanova star. Last Friday Waldrop ran a 3:59.7 at Madison Square Garden, catching Liquori in the deep stretch. Ten days ago he turned a 3:59.5 at Richmond, Va.

Liquori, who missed the 1972 Olympic Games because of an injured heel and has been dogged by the injury since, was impressed with Waldrop's accomplishments.

"I don't think anyone has ever ran three straight sub-four-minute miles indoors," Liquori suggested.

In the stretch of the gun lap, Liquori strained to hold on, but Waldrop finally caught him with the tape almost at arms length, and won by the tiniest of margins. Liquori also was clocked in 3:58.9.

Waldrop and Liquori broke the meet record of 4:00.6 set in 1970 by Kenya's Kip Keino. Wottle, running without his famous cap, finished third in the duel of five sub-four-minute milers, Hartnett fourth and Brown last. Wottle ran a 4:01.7.

Eastern Wins Over Bucs In Two Overtimes

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Eastern Kentucky freshman Larry Blackford sank a 30-foot set shot with five seconds remaining, to put Eastern Kentucky on top and clinch its 75-72 victory over East Tennessee in two overtimes here Monday.

The 6-foot-3 guard had eight points for the night, in the Ohio Valley Conference action.

The score was knotted 64-64 at the end of regulation play and 68-68 at the end of the first overtime.

The largest margin of the game was five points for each team. East Tennessee was ahead 19-14 midway through the first half, while Eastern led 52-47 midway through the second period.

Eastern, led by forward Carl Brown with 24 points, retains its share of the OVC lead with Austin Peay, Middle Tennessee and Morehead State.

Luther Takes Blame

Racers Stunned By Blue Raiders 74-71

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

"It was an obvious case of being outcoached. The taxpayers should ask for their money back."

If anyone said that about Murray State Coach Cal Luther following the Racers' 74-71 loss to Middle Tennessee in the Fieldhouse Monday, you would think it would have been an upset fan.

But it wasn't. It was none other than Cal Luther himself who took the blame for the loss which knocked the Racers out of their first place share of the Ohio Valley Conference lead.

And following Monday's league play, four teams, Austin Peay, Morehead, Eastern Kentucky and Middle Tennessee are now in a four-way tie for first place.

Planned Strategy

Following a free throw by 6-7 sophomore guard Fred Allen with 43 seconds left that gave the Blue Raiders a 72-71 lead, the Racers took the ball down court and elected to play for one shot.

"We knew exactly what we were going to do," said Luther. "We drew it out in chalk on the floor and I called it out but we did not execute."

With the clock ticking away precious seconds, the Racers had the ball out front and kept passing the ball back and forth, hopeful of finding someone loose under the basket for the crumble.

But nobody got loose. And with six seconds left, 6-6 sophomore Jesse Williams, who had his best shooting night of the season, gunned a 30 footer.

The ball fell unmolested into the hands of Allen who was immediately fouled by Coleman.

And with only one second left on the clock, Luther walked into the long corridor leading to the dressing room, Allen walked to the free throw line and the fans walked out of the gym as both free throws dropped in to make the final margin three points.

Takes Blame

"When you have a five point lead with five minutes left in the game and then when you can't get a shot off in 40 seconds, it's simply a case of being outcoached," Luther said.

"The strategy was there. But a team must be well-drilled, have the leadership and be organized. And it was my fault that they weren't."

"We can't play any better ball than we did, nor any better than we have been playing. We shot 53 per cent in the game and made only four floor mistakes in the second half. How can we do better than that?"

For Middle Tennessee, it was their first win over Murray since 1962 when they clipped the Racers 86-82 at Murfreesboro. And it was the first win for Middle Tennessee in the Fieldhouse since they edged Murray State 86-84 in 1969, a year in which the Raiders won both games with the Racers. In the series between the two clubs, the Racers now hold a 63-8 lead.

Six times in the first half the score was tied and four times the lead changed hands.

Mike Coleman, who again dominated the game for Murray, hit from under with 4:10 left in the first half to boost the Racers to a 32-31 edge.

The Racers did not trail again until early in the second half.

Missed Chance

With the Racers leading 39-33 and with a chance to increase the lead to eight, Starks was called for a costly charging foul with 1:21 left in the half.

And instead of running the lead up, Murray watched as Middle scored four of the final six points in the half and at intermission, the Racers led 41-37.

It was phenomenal shooting in the first half by the Racers that accounted for the halftime lead.

Murray gunned 17 of 26 shots for a 65.4 pace while Middle hit a cool .342 on 13 of 38.

Coleman, who hit seven of his 10 shots in the 20-minute period, led all scorers with 17 points.

And then in the second half, Middle's Three Musketeers who went to work with their shooting that amazed the crowd of 6,500 and frustrated the Racers' defense.

The gamble worked well as Starks performed well during the remainder of the game.

It was his five footer at the 9:28 mark that gave Murray a 60-59 edge.

But with the Racers leading 66-67 and with 3:07 left in the game, Starks made a mistake.

He missed the front end of a one-plus situation and Peeler came down and immediately sacked a five-footer to put the Raiders back on top.

Middle was holding a two point edge at 71-69 with just over a minute left when Coleman swiped the ball and his bear-like frame ambled down the floor and dropped in a layup to knot the count at 71 apiece with 1:02 left.

With the man-to-man defense closer than ever in the final minute, Adell got a little too close and fouled Allen who stepped to the stripe and hit one of his charity tosses with 43 seconds left to give Middle a 72-71 lead.

And then the Racers got the ball and came back down the floor to meet their doom in the final seconds when Williams' bomb fell off the rim.

Sorell paced Middle with 24 points and grabbed 14 rebounds as the Raiders had a 36-35 edge on the boards.

Allen added 20 points while Peeler tossed in 14, eight of those coming in the final half.

Coleman Superb

Coleman had another splendid performance as he hit on 13 of 22 shots and hit six of seven from the line for 32 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

If there could possibly be a bright spot in the loss, it was the performance of Williams.

Plagued all season by poor shooting, the smooth sophomore returned to his form that earned him a starting berth on the team last year as a freshman.

Including his last attempt that could have possibly won the game, Williams was seven of nine from the floor and tossed in 15 points and worked his way on the boards for seven rebounds.

Starks, although shooting just four of 11 from the floor, finished with nine points and grabbed 13 rebounds.

The other starters, Grover Woolard and Henry Kinsey scored two and five points respectively.

Murray has now lost two of its three home conference games and unless the Racers are able to win on the road, the chances in the league are dim.

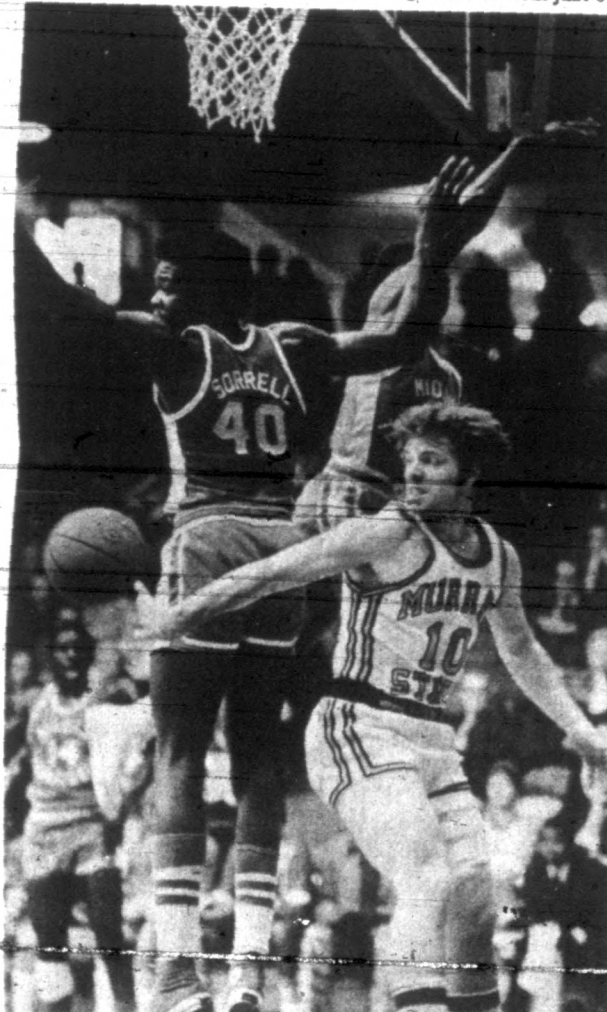

"We're going to decide who wins it," Luther said. "We are going to be in fourth or fifth place in the conference but we're going to be someone from winning it."

The Racers, now 3-3 in the league and 9-7 overall, will play non-conference for McNeese State in the Fieldhouse Saturday.

Middle is now 13-4 overall and 4-2 in the conference and will be at home Saturday to play Western Kentucky.

Michigan Knocks Off Wisconsin, Coach Doesn't Show Confidence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Well," said Michigan basketball Coach Johnny Orr with more than a bit of tongue in cheek, "we were predicted to finish eighth in the conference and maybe we still will."

Not the way they're going. The Wolverines, ranked 20th nationally, pulled away from No. 16 Wisconsin in the second half Monday night for an 83-75 triumph. The win boosted Michigan to a 5-1 Big Ten record and 13-3 overall.

The Badgers, 3-2 in the league and 11-3 overall, led by 51-49 five minutes into the second half, but Michigan went on top for good by outscoring Wisconsin 18-6 over the next five minutes.

"We were too sluggish and inactive," complained Badger Coach John Powless. "They covered more territory than we did and that's why they won."

There were three other ranked teams in action and all won. No. 7 Vanderbilt breezed by Kentucky 82-65, No. 8 Alabama whipped Florida 98-79 and No. 15 Louisville shaded Drake 75-73.

Campy Russell, the leading scorer in the conference, pumped in 14 of the Wolverines' 18 points during their critical surge, hitting 10 of them in a row. He wound up with 25 for the night and Wayman Britt added 16. Marcus McCoy and Gary Anderson scored 17 points apiece for Wisconsin.

The Badgers' starting lineup averages 6-10 while Michigan fields a team averaging 6-3-2, but the Wolverines rebounded the opposition 45-32.

Jan van Breda Kolff and Terry Compton scored 22 points apiece as Vanderbilt picked up its 15th victory in 16 outings. The Commodores remain tied with Alabama at 6-1 in the Southeastern Conference. The Crimson Tide, 14-2 overall, led all the way against Florida. Leon Douglas paced the winners with 22 points and T.R. Dunn added 16.

Louisville rolled up a 15-point halftime lead and held on against Drake. Bill Butler and Wesley Cox led the balanced Cardinals' attack with 16 points each.

In other top action, Purdue kept its Big Ten record intact by beating Ohio State 67-65 on the strength of two free throws by Frank Kendrick with one second left. And James "Fly" Williams watched from the stands in the second half as Austin Peay squeezed by Western Kentucky 98-97. Williams, the nation's second leading scorer, managed just one point in 11 minutes of first-half action, then appeared in his street clothes to observe the second half. Coach Lake Kelly declined comment on the matter.

Staggering Drunk

BOSTON (AP) — A packed crowd of more than 3,200 boxing fans at Boston University's Walter Brown hockey rink came close Monday night to missing the announcement of the decision in the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier closed-circuit telecast fight.

A drunken fan, who had annoyed fans during the evening while also falling all over the slippery ice, jumped into the ring after the final round and knocked down the two film screens.

Others jumped in and a few punches were thrown, but peace was restored quickly and the screens set back up — just in time for the announcement of Ali's 12-round unanimous decision.

Paper Reports Chargers Used Drugs Last Season

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Marijuana and cocaine were used by some San Diego Chargers football players last season, the San Diego Union reported Monday night.

"Their recent use has involved a number of players, splitting the squad into camps of users and abstainers," the newspaper said in an article for Tuesday's edition. It said the article resulted from its own six-week investigation.

Former Charger receiver Chuck Dicus, who was dealt to Pittsburgh at mid-season, is quoted as saying:

"I have too many friends on the team. I don't want to say anything to endanger their careers. But it's bad, really bad."

An unnamed National Football League official called the Chargers "the cesspool of the league" in drug use.

Ron Waller, who served as interim coach in the last half of the 1973 season, said, "If there was a drug problem, I just didn't want to know about it."

He said the Chargers' 2-11-7 record was a result of it.

Phillies Sign Cash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The signings of second baseman Dave Cash and two others gives the Philadelphia Phillies 16 members of their 39-man roster under contract.

Also agreeing to terms for the 1974 National League baseball season Monday were outfielder Mike Anderson, 22, who batted .254 with nine runs, and Roy Thomas, 20, a right-handed pitcher who was 15-8 at Rocky Mount of the Carolina League and 2-0 at Reading.

Cash, 25, came to the Phils last fall from Pittsburgh for pitcher Kenny Brett. Cash hit .271 for the Pirates last season and has a .285 lifetime batting average.

record, their worst ever, was due solely to the fact that "they didn't have a very good football club."

The team's alleged drug problems first came to light in documents filed in a suit by former Charger tackle Houston Ridge, saying pain-killers, amphetamines and anabolic steroids were easily available in the locker room during the late 1960s.

Ridge, who claimed improperly administered drugs helped cause a 1969 injury that ended his playing career, sued club officials and the NFL, and collected nearly $300,000 in a settlement.

Austin Peay Slips Past Hilltoppers

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Austin Peay came from a 13-point first-half deficit to squeak by Western Kentucky 98-97 Monday night as the Governors, sophomore star James "Fly" Williams sat in the stands during the second half.

Percy Howard hit 10 of 11 shots during the second half to wind up with 28 points and 11 rebounds for the game.

The Govs had six men in double-figures as the host club allowed the Hilltoppers move to a 33-20 lead with 6:57 left in the half before moving to a 65-57 margin of their own after the intermission.

Williams, who was averaging 29.9-second in the nation before the game, hit only one free throw during 11 minutes of first-half play. Williams appeared on the floor in his street clothes after the intermission and sat in the stands.

In the Fly's absence, Richard Jimmerson, with 16 points; Danny Odums, with 14; Joe Johnson, with 12; and Robert Turner and John Reid, 10 apiece, took up the slack left.

Gov Coach Lake Kelly refused comment about Williams' absence from the second-half lineup.

Johnny Britt kept the Hilltoppers in the game during the second half, firing 27 points for the evening. Four other WKU men had double figure performances.

This was the fourth in six OVC games for the Govs who are now 10-6 for the year. The Hilltoppers are now 2-4 in the conference, 8-8 overall.

Eighth Grade Tigers Get Revenge Over Heath Five

The Murray Middle School Seventh and Eighth Grade Tigers both captured wins at home Monday night as they defeated Heath in a pair of thrillers.

In the seventh grade game, the Tigers ran their mark to 8-1 with a 26-24 overtime win over the Pirates while the eighth grade increased their record to 7-2 with a 42-37 revenge win.

Jeff Karsave, who played only in the second half and had 12 points and 15 rebounds, hit on a rebound shot in the overtime to boost the seventh grade team to its win.

The Tigers trailed at all three quarter stops in the contest and had to battle furiously in the fourth period to force the game into overtime.

Several players had outstanding games for the Tigers. Alan Gibbs, starting his first game of the year, played a fine defensive game and tossed in four points while Craig Perry, also starting for his first time, had four points.

Lee Hopkins played a fine defensive game and grabbed six rebounds for the Tigers.

In the eighth grade game, the Tigers fought back from three points down to grab the win over Heath.

Frank Gilliam, sporting a 17 point scoring average, led all scorers with 16 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Gilliam had six points in the final period rally.

Eugene Bayless, starting for his first time this season, scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds. Jon Harrison and Kenn Perkins each had seven rebounds.

The seventh and eighth grade teams will be playing at Reidland Thursday along with the Murray High freshmen as a part of a tripeheader.

The seventh grade game will begin at 5 p.m.

Both of the Middle School teams now own wins over every team they have played this season.

The games at Reidland Thursday will close their season.

Montgomery, 24, was the No. 1 player on the SMU team in 1969-71. He had only three match-play losses in two years.

UCLA Back In Familiar Top Spot In College Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS UCLA is back in its customary No. 1 spot in the Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Bruins, who fell into the No. 2 position for the first time in three years last week, reclaimed the top spot by a wide margin today in the wake of Saturday's convincing 94-75 victory over Notre Dame. UCLA, 15-1, picked up 51 of 52 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, and piled up 1,038 total points.

The Irish, who snapped the Bruins' record 88-game win streak Jan. 19th with a 71-70 victory and took over the No. 1 position in the poll last week, fell to third this time around. One voter, unconvinced by UCLA's latest victory, gave Notre Dame the remaining first-place ballot.

North Carolina State, 13-1 after beating North Carolina and Purdue, moved up one spot to second. The Wolfpack collected 84 points, as compared to 864 points for the third-place Irish.

North Carolina remained fourth with 668 points. The Tar Heels, 13-2, followed up their loss to North Carolina State with a win over Maryland. Marquette, 16-1 after topping Long Beach State and Chicago Loyola, was up one place to No. 5 with 565 points.

Maryland, 11-3, dropped one notch to No. 6 after beating Canisius and bowing to North Carolina. Vanderbilt, 14-1, maintained the No. 7 position with victories over Tennessee and Mississippi.

Alabama, 13-2, advanced from No. 9 to No. 8 by virtue of wins over Kentucky, Georgia Tech and Georgia. Providence, 15-2, dropped one spot to No. 9 despite victories over Boston College and Rhode Island. And Long Beach State, 14-2, held onto the No. 10 spot after losing

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent NEW YORK (AP) — "Ali! Ali! Ali!"

The yells of the crowd rolled around the rafters of Madison Square Garden and played a song for the ears of proud Muhammad Ali.

Dancing, jabbing, playing a deadly tune on the profile of Joe Frazier like a ring Paderewski, the quick-fisted descendant of a Kentucky slave avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the one-time world champion and fought his way back near the pinnacle of the sport.

Unanimous winner in a 12-round slugfest that brought a crowd of 20,748 to its feet and thrilled the millions of Ali supporters throughout the world, Muhammad stood out today as the No. 1 threat to the heavyweight crown held by big George Foreman.

"George Foreman is a sissy fighter," Ali said, tauntingly. "He fights like a girl. Joe Frazier is a good fighter. This was a great event."

"I think we should fight again."

This is a matter that is to be decided by the men in the back room — the lawyers, the managers, the auditors.

But one thing is certain. Heavyweight boxing is alive again, because Ali is back in full cry.

Foreman, who slugged Frazier to the canvas six times and won the heavyweight crown in a second-round knockout a year ago in Jamaica, will meet Ken Norton, who broke Ali's jaw and split two decisions with Muhammad, in a title defense at Caracas, Venezuela, March 26.

Bob Arum, who is Ali's lawyer and head of the agency that handled the world-wide television rights to Monday night's fight, would like to match Ali and the Foreman-Norton winner in the spring.

Normally, Ali, because of the heavy income tax bite, would be better off to postpone such a fight until next year. But Ali will be 33 then, going on 34, older, slower and less sharp.

A "rubber meeting" between the plodding, aggressive Frazier and the nimble-footed, sniping Ali conceivably could be an alternative.

"I want him again — you better believe it," Frazier, a gracious loser said after the fight. "One more time."

"I think I won, but it could have gone either way. I hurt him more than he hurt me. He was wrestling and holding on."

Ali, a bombastic, bragging challenger, was a chastened winner.

"I'm not gonna duck Joe," he said. "I'm not gonna be like Foreman. I thought Joe was finished. He surprised me. He was much better than in the first fight."

"I think he deserves another chance. This fight can't be topped by any other fight."

No one in the packed arena and perhaps no one in the vast unseen audience around the world appeared disinclined to dispute it.

It was another great fight between two different types of fighter — the slugger against the master craftsman — but it had a different ending. In the first fight, March 8, 1971, when the two were unbeaten champions, Frazier was the unanimous 15-round winner.

In Monday night's 12-rounder, the two judges gave Ali a wide edge; Tony Castellano 74-1 and Jack Gordon 84, while Tony Perez scored it 65-1, all for Ali. A random-poll of writers at ringside had it 18-4 for Ali, with one even.

Ali, 32, came out dancing and flicking that long left of his like a serpent's tongue. Frazier, 30, bearded, grunting and snorting like an angry bear, came out flailing away, disdaining any punches thrown his way.

Ali, 212, took the first two rounds handily, beating a tattoo on Frazier's angry face.

"I'm gonna get you," snarled Frazier in the third. It was a round he won, twice jarring Ali's head back with vicious left hooks and pounding telling blows into Muhammad's midsection.

Ali continued weaving, darting, poking. They seemed to be harmless shots but they landed flush on Frazier's glowering face and they began to take effect.

Ali appeared to win the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds. He was an evasive target. Frazier, 209, swung wildly, connected occasionally, missed often.

In the sixth round, a lip reader could see Frazier snort. "I'm gonna get you." Before he would get the words out, Ali shot a blood red glove flush to his snarling mouth.

Frazier, obviously irked at his failure to drive home a telling or a knockout blow in the early rounds, picked up momentum in the seventh. He danced and taunted Ali, nailed Muhammad with thunderous left hooks.

Frazier fought well in the seventh and eighth, maybe winning both, as Ali showed signs of tiring. Ali became flat-footed. He moved with less agility. He took more punishment and administered less.

In the ninth round, Frazier grinned at Ali and motioned to him, "Come on, let's fight."

Swinging wildly, never giving ground, he brought blood to Ali's nose. He spit some blood from his mouth himself. But Ali hung on, tying him up and pecking away at his foe like a gifted swordsman.

Frazier remained the aggressor. He kept coming forward like an angry bull. He snorted. He puffed. He swung. Ali jabbed, poked, stung his man. "Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee."

The old Ali adage of strategy was never practiced more skillfully.

Then it was over — Ali by a unanimous decision.

It was a long road back for Ali, who had his crown snatched from him and who was widely abused for his failure to accept the draft and go into the Vietnamese war.
