MSU Awarded Grant, Instrument For Chemical Research Program

Murray State University has been awarded a $70,000 federal grant and been given a $125,000 instrument to do chemical research on water wastes from a textile manufacturing operation.

Both the two-year grant and the permanent donation of the piece of equipment (a high resolution mass spectrometer) to the chemistry department at the university were authorized by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency for the study of organic compounds before and after treatment of effluents. Dr. Marshall Gordon, professor of chemistry and author of the grant proposal, said the J. P. Stephens, Inc., textile manufacturing plant in Wallace, N. C., is the cooperating firm designated for study by the EPA as typical of the textile industry.

"By working with a progressive company that is willing to invest money to lead the way," Gordon added, "we expect our study to identify organic compounds to serve as a model from which recommendations can be made to the entire industry."

Dr. John J. Porter of Clemson University will serve as a consultant for the project. Gordon explained that Porter's knowledge of dyes and textile chemistry "will help immensely in determining what kind of organic compounds we can expect to find."

Work on the project, which has been funded for 1974 and 1975, will be done at Murray State in cooperation with the EPA-supported Southeastern Research Laboratory at the University of Georgia in Athens. The study will be made as the Stephens firm makes a transition from primary to tertiary treatment of water wastes.

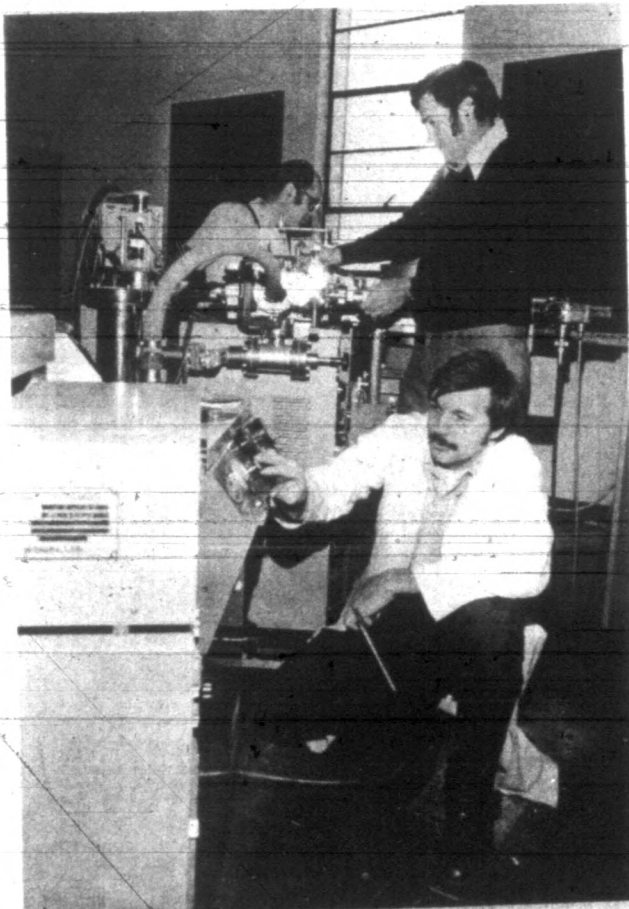

"Although a wealth of data is available on inorganic compounds," Gordon pointed out, "not much is known about the organic compounds of textile water wastes. Their structure is more complicated, and analysis takes more time and more sophisticated equipment."

Gordon said the instrument donated by the EPA to the university complements the gas chromatograph-mass spectrometer computer system that has already been built on the campus. The new equipment, according to Gordon, will enable people working on the project to accumulate much more precise data.

Water waste samples will be monitored periodically by Gordon and his associates both before and after treatment. Study of the wastes and the nature of the changes they undergo during and after treatment will provide information to be used in devising new methods of textile waste treatment.

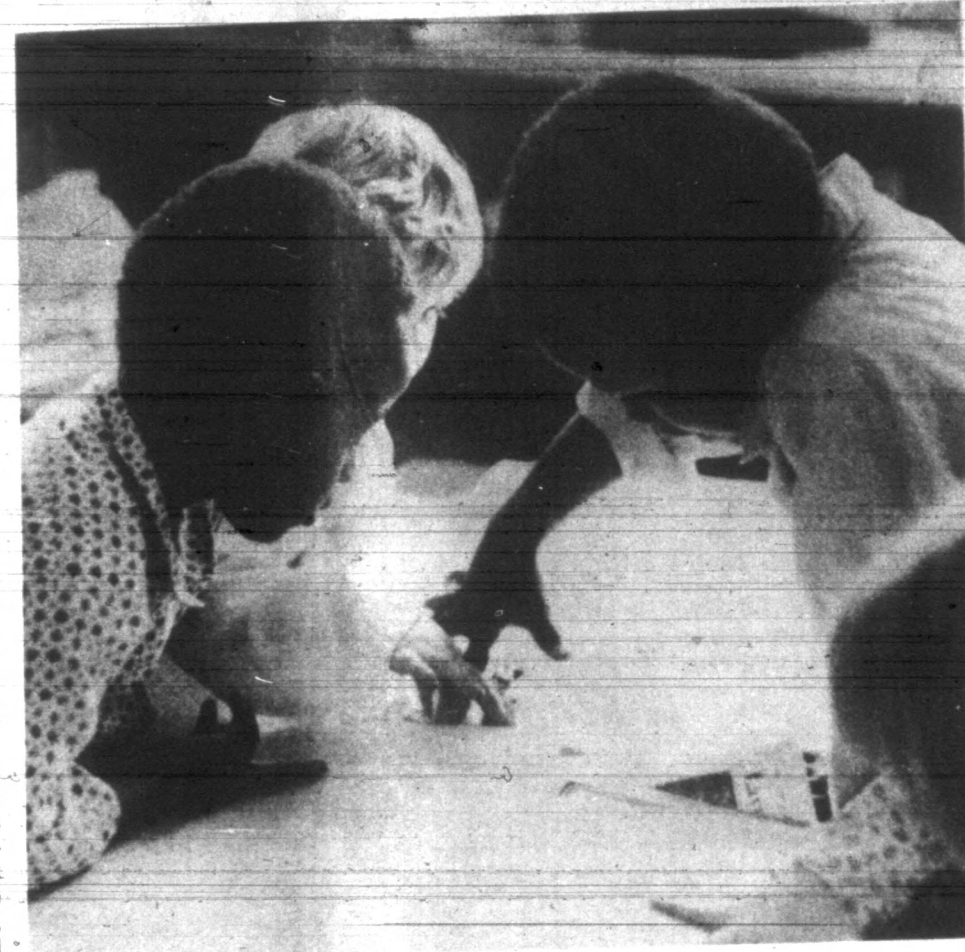

"Tremendous volumes of water are used in textile manufacturing," Gordon noted, "and several chemicals are used in various stages of processing—dyes, dye carriers, sizing compounds, finishing resins and polymers, detergents and scouring solvents."

Fixed Budget Hampers Efforts Of Murray's Headstart Program

HEADSTART—These four-year olds are enjoying fingerpainting at the Murray Headstart kindergarten. It's not all fun and games, though, as the children are prepared for first grade basic learning at the center.

By DAVID HILL
Lester & Times Staff Writer
Twenty-five thousand dollars is a lot of money to most people. But when you compare it to the City budget, or County budget, or the budget for schools, or industry, it really isn't a lot.

The Murray Headstart Program is operating on a $25,000 budget, with salaries for seven staff members taking $19,000 of that sum.

That leaves about $6,000 for the program—for a whole year—for 36 students. Not very much is it?

Lucille Arnold and Genese Reid, both certified teachers, are doing one tremendous job with low-income children, four and five years old, under circumstances that would discourage all but the most determined educators.

Lucille and Genese, together with five other dedicated staffers, give children from low-income families a chance to start the first grade on an even basis with other kids.

They also give them breakfast and lunch, both balanced meals. The food for these meals has to come from the meager budget too.

"If we had any bills, we couldn't make it," Mrs. Arnold said. "Tappan gives us the building free, and pays the utilities, too." The kindergarten is located in the old Douglas High School building, owned by Tappan, and is donated rent-free to the Headstart Program. Although the program is under the Murray Board of Education, the funding comes directly from the federal government. "They just won't seem to raise our budget," Mrs. Arnold said.

Headstart differs from regular kindergartens, in that the children are taken for check-ups, dental work, and are fed two meals a day. There is no charge for any of the students, and insurance is provided, too.

Transportation is the biggest problem for the program. "There are so many kids out in the county who we could help so much, but there is just no way to get them here," Mrs. Arnold said.

Volunteers are a scarce commodity at the Headstart Program. Anyone would be welcome, Mrs. Arnold says, even for just an hour a week; it doesn't have to be on a regular, daily basis. All help would be appreciated.

Volunteers are not limited to parents, either. Anyone with a little spare time on their hands welcome at the center. They'll find plenty to do, helping the children fingerpaint, or draw, or any of the several other activities planned there.

"It isn't all play-time by any means," Mrs. Arnold said. "We are here to get these kids ready for school, and if we can teach colors, and shapes, and maybe even how to write their name, then it's just that much that the first grade teacher won't have to do."

Several civic groups have donated equipment and the fire department gives toys to the class, but what is needed is some cold hard cash, and some volunteers to help out with the class.

Students from nursing classes at the university and at the Vocational School also help out, but more volunteers are needed.

Donation Made For Band Trip

The Murray Middle School P.T.A. recently donated $100.00 to the Murray High Band Boosters to help finance the Murray High Band trip to Miami and the Orange Bowl.

Dr. Willard Ails, president of the Middle School P.T.A., said that the executive board of the P.T.A. felt the contribution was important and necessary because Murray High students were first Murray Middle School Students and the P.T.A. also felt the trip would be prestigious not only for Murray High but an important event for the city of Murray.

The Murray Middle School P.T.A. is proud of the Murray High Band and their outstanding achievement and wish for them the best of luck, Dr. Ails said.

The next meeting of the Middle School P.T.A. will be March 7.

Agenda Short For Meeting Of City Council

Only four items are on the agenda of a special meeting of the Murray City Council, to be held tonight at City Hall.

Employment of personnel for 1974, leases on police cars, the use of the Douglas Center Building, and the resignation of police chief James Brown are the topics for discussion, according to Mayor John Scott. The meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m. today in the council meeting room.

Legislature Will Consider Using Revenue Sharing to Pay Bond Debt

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The legislature may explore the possibility of using federal revenue sharing money to pay off Kentucky's highway bond debt instead of for capital construction.

Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, chairman of the Joint Appropriations and Revenue Committee, said it boils down to the question of which approach would save the commonwealth money.

The state is counting on at least $170 million in accumulated and forthcoming federal revenue sharing money in the next biennium and Gov. Wendell Ford in his proposed new budget has earmarked most of it for new buildings and maintenance. Clarke said that possibly by paying off turnpike debts earlier, the state might save considerable money in interest.

On the other hand, he added, if certain buildings aren't constructed soon, the costs and interest on them might rise.

"We don't know the answer and we need experts to tell us," he said, declaring that finance department officials might be asked to provide the data to the committee, which now is holding budget hearings.

Transportation Commissioner James Gray Tuesday spelled out the projects planned with a proposed $26.5 million transfer from the General Fund — which in a sense also is part of the federal revenue sharing windfall.

The road fund needs help for the next two fiscal years because fuel tax revenue is declining during the energy crisis. Gray acknowledged that the $26.5 million proposal "is an unusual element in our budget."

Generally the Road Fund finances its own needs through highway use taxes. In a crisis the law allows diversion of money from the General fund which finances most other government services.

Gray said the $26.5 million would be used this way:

$4 million for resurfacing, making a total of $8 million each year for such projects.

$4 million to start, surfacing projects that otherwise could not be done.

'Never To Resign,' Nixon Pledges Cooperation In Impeachment Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vowing never to resign, President Nixon has given a qualified pledge in his State of the Union address to cooperate with House impeachment investigations.

Nixon's promise came in a dramatic finale to the Wednesday night speech delivered to a packed joint session of Congress and to millions listening and watching across the nation.

But he said his cooperation would have to be tempered by his presidential responsibilities, a remark that drew skeptical comments from some Democrats.

Declaring that "one year of Watergate is enough," Nixon called on the Democratic-controlled Congress to join him in making 1974 "a year of unprecedented progress" in accomplishing a 10-point agenda of national goals.

He called for action to "break the back of the energy crisis" and said he was sending Congress major proposals in the fields of health insurance and welfare reform.

He promised action to safeguard personal privacy, a proposal that produced audible snickers from some Democratic lawmakers. He said Arab leaders will meet soon to consider lifting their oil embargo and he disclosed his proposed federal budget would total $304.4 billion, with increased defense spending but no new taxes.

Nixon drew one of his biggest cheers of the night when he declared that a lasting peace is "the chief legacy I hope to leave from the eight years of my presidency."

He combined revisions of previous proposals and some new ones in the 10-point program, which he called "an agenda of truly significant progress."

It also included a pledge there will be no recession, continued efforts towards "a just and lasting settlement in the Middle East, continued efforts towards his goal of American self-sufficiency in energy by 1980, decentralization of government, increased transportation aid to communities and reform of the federal educational aid system.

Although most of the 30 interruptions for applause came from the Republican side of the House chamber, GOP and Democratic lawmakers joined later in hailing Nixon's goals, while generally splitting along partisan lines over Watergate.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Nixon was frank in addressing Watergate and "I particularly liked his offer to cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee."

That panel's chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said he interpreted Nixon's offer to cooperate consistent with his presidential responsibilities as meaning cooperation with limitations.

The Democrat said he will take a wait-and-see attitude regarding Nixon's legislative proposals, including national health insurance.

While agreeing that President Nixon is right in his "optimism about the economy," Huddleston said he is afraid the chief executive "underestimated the potential for trouble both as to inflation and the possibility of an economic slowdown with a resultant loss of jobs."

Huddleston agreed with the president that "One year of Watergate is enough." He says he hopes the president will provide the cooperation he has promised in the various investigations still underway.

Campus Lights Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the 37th annual version of "Campus Lights" at Murray State University Feb. 21-22-23 are now on sale.

Richard W. Farrell, chairman of the music department and faculty adviser to the traditional musical production, said the tickets are available on the campus or by mail order.

Admission is $2 per person with all seats reserved. Groups of 25 or more are also eligible for a special group rate of $1.75 per ticket.

Tickets will be on sale in the lounge of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Building Friday, Feb. 1, and beginning Monday, Feb. 4, in the lobby of the Waterfield Student Union Building from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and in Room 204 of the Doyle Fine Arts Building after 2:30 p.m.

Mail orders are being accepted for each of the three performances. They should be sent, along with a check for the proper amount and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to: Richard W. Farrell, Chairman, Music Department, Price Doyle Fine Arts Building, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071.

Farrell urged people who plan to attend to buy tickets as early as possible to get the seats of their choice.

Sponsored by the Murray State chapters of two professional music fraternities—Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia—the all-student production involves a company of about 150 people under the direction of Ed Collier, a senior from Lorain, Ohio.

Proceeds from the show, as in past years, will be used to provide scholarships for incoming music students at the university. Scholarships amounting to $2,600 were awarded to music students from the proceeds last year.

Curtain time in the university auditorium for each performance will be 8:15 p.m.

Murray High School Class Of 1963 Reunion

The 1963 class of Murray High School held its tenth year reunion on December 22.

Class members and their families met informally with their former teachers in the morning at the new Murray High School cafeteria. Under the direction of Mrs. Judy Adams Baucum the families enjoyed conversation, coffee and donuts, and a tour of the new facility by Eli Alexander Murray High principal.

At seven p.m. class members and their guests met for dinner at the Holiday Inn. Hunter Love was present to photograph the class and class members are urged to pick up their free picture at Love's Studio.

Dr. Eddie L. Grogan gave the invocation. Following the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schultz and Mrs. Tom Rowlett, special guests, were introduced.

The master of ceremonies was Dr. Tommy Wells, class president. Each class member received a booklet of the class with up to date history of its members.

Mrs. Cecilia Wallace Crossett read the will and Mrs. Patsy Purdom Miller read the prophecy. Special awards were presented by Mrs. Patsy Spann Oakley to the following:

Red Howe, first to reply; Jim Olla, traveling longest distance; Teddy Clark, least hair; Tommy Wells, most education; Judy Adams Baucum, changed the most; Joyce Yarbrough Thee, youngest child; Sharon Churchill and Ronnie Rogers, couple to marry within class.

After a short business discussion led by Mrs. Janice Paschall Nix, the class dismissed to meet at the Bank of Murray University Branch to continue the evening festivities.

The 1963 class graduating with fifty-six members had thirty-eight to attend college. Thirty-one received the B. S. or B. A. degree. Twenty are doing post graduate work with ten having received Master's degrees, two M. D.'s, one D. S., and two candidates for the Ph. D.

'Unchain' sister for a needed vacation

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 59, and since my husband's death three years ago, I've been stuck taking care of my aged parents, 82 and 84.

I do everything for them, and get no salary. I am just about broke, and really should have a paying job. Dad is senile and almost totally blind and deaf. Mother is diabetic and bedridden. Both are weak and failing.

My problem is this: I want to visit my married daughter in California. Her baby is 2 years old and I haven't even seen him yet. I haven't had a day off in three years. My sister works, and I can't get anyone to stay with my parents for two weeks. I am all worn out, and need to get away. My daughter will pay for my trip if I can make it. Please help me.

DEAR CHAINED: Your parents also are your sister's parents, so why not ask sister to request a two-week leave of absence and give you a long overdue, much needed respite? Or contact County Welfare and ask if they can help you. I wish you luck. I.P.S. I hope your parents don't know that you feel "stuck" with them. Knowing that they're a burden would make their miserable lot more difficult to bear.

DEAR ABBY: A 22-year-old graduate student in whom I have more than just a casual interest tells me that she is married "in name only" to a Japanese student. She says he has been in this country for four years and he wants to remain longer, so in order to keep from being sent back to Japan he had to marry a citizen—so she married him.

This girl insists that she has never had anything to do with him sexually even though they live together. She swears up and down that she's telling me the truth, and she married him because she likes to "help" people.

Abby, doesn't this strike you as being somewhat unusual? Or can this girl be for real? — SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: It's a rather bizarre situation, but anything is possible. Even if the girl is telling you the truth, she's still a married woman, so if you're smart, you'll regard her as somebody else's wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon and am planning my wedding. My older sister was married two years ago in the most beautiful wedding gown and veil I ever saw. I always dreamed of being married in it.

Now I have second thoughts about wearing it because I am very superstitious, and my sister has had terrible luck in her marriage. Her husband got her pregnant right off the bat and ran off, saying he was joining the Marines. She found out he never joined the Marines. He went back to an old girl friend who lives in a nearby town.

Anyway, Abby, I would feel creepy wearing my sister's bridal outfit. Do you believe if I wore it it would bring me bad luck? — SUPERSTITIOUS

DEAR SUPERSTITIOUS: No. But if you do, don't wear it.

Dr. Mildred Hatcher Speaks On "Southern Folklore" At Meeting

The J. N. Williams Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy celebrated the January birthdays of Lee, Jackson, and Maury with a delicious brunch at the Perkins Pancake House.

Dr. Mildred Hatcher, speaker of the day, gave an interesting, entertaining, and sometimes hilarious talk on "Southern Folklore," stressing the fine collection of epitaphs which she has copied from old tombstones in Calloway and nearby counties.

The speaker said "folklore is really unpublished history; it mirrors the struggles, hopes, and fears of our ancestors. Folklore keeps alive the beliefs, customs, legends, and language which are such an important part of our past. The dry facts of history and recorded by many, but only in folklore do we find the true reflection of the people and of the period in which they lived."

Dr. Hatcher said that she has found that the epitaphs on old tombstones give us some of our most interesting sidelights on the thought patterns prevailing during our country's development. She quoted as evidence of the practical thinking of the pioneer, several of her prized epitaphs: "I expected this—but not just yet;" "Once he wasn't, then he was, now he ain't again;" "A sinner saved by Grace, If Saved At All;" "Died February 4, 1891, A true blessing for all;" "Mother—She's at rest, And so are we."

The speaker urged that each one make every effort to preserve our rich heritage of American folklore. "Take time to write accounts of the old stories, games, pranks, songs, superstitions, and legends which you have had passed down to you by word-of-mouth," Dr. Hatcher said. "Preserve old autograph albums, postcards, letters and diaries, scrap books account books as succeeding generations may find it interesting to know that great grandmother liked her tea well enough to pay $5.00 in gold for a pound of it after it had been brought through the Northern Blockade during the War Between the States."

GOLDEN BROILED PORK CHOPS PAIRED with fruit kabobs, laced with bacon, radiate warmth at winter table.

Watch a bleak winter day turn to bright sunshine when "Ol Sol" comes to the dinner table. This Sunburst Pork Chop Platter provides menu sunshine to warm up the dining scene. The chops and fruit kabobs share the broiler as well as the platter, making this a quick meal as well as a delicious one.

This appetizing platter is a bright choice from the viewpoint of good nutrition too, says Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board. Place 6 pork chops, cut 1 to 1½ inches thick, on rack in broiler pan so top of meat is 5 to 6 inches from heat. Broil 12 to 17 minutes, season with salt and pepper and turn. Before or while chops are broiling, prepare kabobs using 6 slices bacon, 12 prunes (plumped and pitted) and 2 oranges pared and cut in 6 wedges each. Thread 1 slice bacon back and forth on each of 6 5-inch skewers, threading 2 prunes and 2 orange wedges between the folds of bacon. Place kabobs on broiling pan after chops are turned and continue broiling until chops and bacon are done. Allow 6 minutes for kabobs on one side and 4 to 6 minutes on second side and allow 12 to 15 minutes for broiling second side of chops.

Divider Offers Dual Storage

A counter divider added between kitchen and dining area offers storage space serving both rooms.

Cabinets on the kitchen side hold the usual collection of pans, bowls, plates and other gear, while narrow shelves on the dining area side hold glasses, cups, saucers and small bowls.

The divider is framed in 2x4-inch western wood and the narrow shelves, either open or enclosed by doors, are of 1x6-inch western pine or fir.

Tasty Pork Steaks Top Rice and Onions For Thrifty Entree

After "the party is over" the piper must be paid! Holidays often mean there's a budget to balance and bills to face. 'Tis now the season for economizing.

Costs can be cut and good eating provided at the same time by judicious selection of meat cuts, according to Reba Staggs, home economist, National Live Stock and Meat Board. She suggests pork blade steaks for one humble yet hearty meal. Among the more thrifty market selections, they provide many important food nutrients.

Family Pork Steaks
3 pork blade steaks, cut ¾ inch thick
1 tablespoon lard or drippings
½ teaspoon salt
3 to 4 medium-sized onions
¾ cup rice, uncooked
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon sage
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water

Brown pork steaks in lard or drippings in large frying-pan and sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes. Remove meat to absorbent paper and pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings. Lightly brown onion in reserved drippings, stirring occasionally. Add rice, 2 teaspoons salt, marjoram, sage and pepper and stir to combine thoroughly. Stir in water. Place pork steaks on top of rice mixture. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes or until meat and rice are tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Tasty Omelet
To give piquancy to omelets, add grated cheddar, Swiss or Parmesan cheese. Use at least 1 tablespoon of the cheese for each egg used in the omelet.

Miss Elizabeth Anne Riley And Dennis Neil Clark Are Married At Church Of Redeemer, Cairo

Mrs. Dennis Neil Clark

Miss Elizabeth Anne Riley became the bride of Dennis Neil Clark in a lovely holiday wedding Wednesday, December 26, ten o'clock in the morning.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Riley of Murray and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larrie Clark, also of Murray.

The traditional ceremony of the Episcopal Church was read by a family friend, Rev. Elsworth Stone, in the Church of the Redeemer, Cairo, Illinois. The church was beautifully decorated with poinsettias, white mums and greenery in keeping with the holiday season.

Mrs. Larrie Clark, mother of the groom, served as organist. Her selections included the "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell for the processional and recessional. Schubert's "Ave Maria" was used along with other wedding music.

The double-ring ceremony was read in the presence of family and close friends.

The bride entered the church, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a candlelight velvet wedding gown, made by a family friend, Mrs. Alberta Korb. The gown was of princess design, featuring a yoke and a Victorian neck, edged in lace, the fitted sleeves were also edged in lace. Its simplicity was accented by a circular veil of candlelight illusion attached to a velvet cap.

She wore a heirloom locket, a gift of the groom's parents and a hair clasp of her mother's. She carried a cascade bouquet of red silk flowers surrounded by holly.

Mrs. Eddie Mastra, cousin of the bride, served as her attendant. Her formal green velvet gown with ecru lace trim was made identical to that of the bride's. She carried a long stemmed red silk rose tied with velvet streamers.

Johnny Riley, brother of the bride, ushered his mother to her seat. She was dressed in a dusty rose dress with a cranberry crushed velvet coat and matching accessories.

The mothers wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

Reception

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained the wedding party with a reception and buffet luncheon at their home in Murray.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. John Shroat and Mrs. Fred Phillips, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Eddie Mastra and Mrs. Lonnie Bland of Louisville, cousins of the bride.

The house was decorated with hurricane lamps, red candles and seasonal decorations. The bride's table held a two-tiered wedding cake, made with red and green poinsettia design, topped by white bells. The table appointments were in silver and crystal. The cloth was caught at the corner with holly.

The bride and groom are making their home in Murray where they are students at Murray State University.

Mrs. Wilson Is Leader At Good Students Give Program At PTA Meet At Kirksey

The Kirksey Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday, January 22, at 1:30 p.m. at the school.

Mrs. Clint Greer had the devotion reading John 13:34 "What Does It Mean To Love?" and John 13:35 with comments concerning love for one another.

Mrs. Harold Fones, program chairman, introduced the student of Mrs. Rachel Neale's fourth grade who gave the play "Braham and The Tiger."

The second part of the program was presented by Mrs. Marlene Beach's sixth grade entitled "Fashion For Everyone" with the trend on the light side.

Randy Jones, Jerry Riley, and Rickey Colley, students in Mrs. Beach's sixth grade, led the pledge to the flag.

Mrs. Billie Bazzell, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Earl Lamb, secretary, read the minutes and also an appreciation note from the teachers and students of Kirksey Elementary for the money PTA gave each room for games and equipment.

Anyone wishing to play PTA Basketball may contact either Mrs. Charles Duncan or Mrs. Ralph Darnell.

Mrs. Beach's room won the room count by having the most mothers present. Mothers in Mrs. Neale's room and Mrs. Beach's room served refreshments during the social hour.

Wintertime DST Needs Reconsidering

Wintertime Daylight Savings Time has resulted in a savings in electricity of less than one per cent according to a recent Associated Press survey.

Several U.S. Senators have indicated that a mistake may have been made in implementing DST during the winter months.

Local school systems have moved their starting times up by one-half hour in an attempt to allow our students to be en route to school after dawn.

But it is still dark between 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. when the majority of the students who walk to school leave their homes.

We agree with the Senators that a mistake might have been made. We feel that a savings of less than one per cent is no justification for endangering the lives of our school children.

An MSU coed, a pedestrian, was seriously injured in a predawn accident several days ago. Several "close calls" involving students standing on the side of the road awaiting a school bus have been reported.

One instance that was related to this newspaper involved the driver of a large truck who said he narrowly avoided a tragic accident. The truck driver said that he was driving on one of our local roads on a recent morning, in darkness, when all of a sudden, he noticed several children at the side of the road were walking out onto the pavement.

Apparently the children had mistaken his truck for their school bus, which is comparable in size and similarly lighted.

This apparent mistake would not have been made if the children were awaiting their bus in the daylight hours.

We support the legislation introduced by Senators Dee Huddleston of Kentucky and Lawton Chiles of Florida that would repeal year-round daylight savings time.

Money On Parks

(From The Hopkinsville New Era)

Announcement from Frankfort the other day that Kentucky plans to spend $14.1 million on the state parks system the next two years has revived a question kicked around the commonwealth in the past.

Should Kentucky continue to pour more and more money into its parks systems when the lodges and other facilities continue lose money every year?

On the surface the situation appears to be another example of the man who insisted upon sending good money after bad. Instead of getting back the money the man in the fable succeeded only in losing still more of his dough.

But there is more to the question than this simple statement of hard-core economics. Does the parks system in any state have to operate in the black every year to justify its existence? Can losses be written off on the grounds such recreation sites are a come-on for tourists?

Almost every retail business engages in this practice from time to time. It offers items as specials on which it makes no money and may even lose a little. The come-ons are justified on the ground that they get people inside the store and they will spend money they could never have spent if they had remained outside the building.

Out-of-staters who spend their vacations at one of our state parks spend far more money in Kentucky than what goes into the coffers of the parks. Kentucky gets sales and gasoline taxes from them and Kentucky businesses pick up temporary but affluent customers.

There seems no doubt the state parks in Kentucky lose money. The system lost only $4 million during the past year. The "only" was used in describing the deficit because the parks had dropped about $5 million the previous year.

But Kentucky has a $230 million investment in the finest state park system in the United States and it would be short-sighted to allow facilities to deteriorate. Money has to be spent in upkeep on any kind of property. Since parks are maintained as an "attraction," it would be foolish for Kentucky or any other state to allow them to become rundown.

Whether Kentucky got its money's worth in the building of several of its parks and lodges can be questioned, however. Some of the architects, for example, may have been carried away on landscaping. The new plan to spend $60,000 for a restroom building at Lake Barkley is worth some eyeing.

It is likewise possible that Kentucky over-extended itself in building state parks. It may not need as many as it has, yet still another is now planned at Dale Hollow Lake on the Clinton-Cumberland County line. Like several of Kentucky's toll roads, some of its parks will probably never make money.

One suggestion is that state lodges should be closed in the winter, since they lose most of their money during the off-season. But the larger lodges should be kept open all year, if for no other reason than that no hotel can keep a competent staff if it shuts down for four months every year.

It is a reasonable guess that most Kentuckians would be satisfied if the parks could break even in a normal year. There is a possibility ours might come closer to this goal if Frankfort could cut down on the number of unneeded political plum jobs in the system.

No business can break even if it has to carry a load of dead weight in the operation.

Roll Call Report

WASHINGTON—Here's how Kentucky Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Jan. 21 through Jan. 23, the first three days of the 1974 session of Congress.

HOUSE

THIRD-WORLD LOANS—Rejected, 155 for and 248 against, a bill authorizing a $1.5 billion U.S. contribution to the World Bank's International Development Association.

Unless the Administration-backed bill is revived, the U.S. will withdraw its traditional support of the I.D.A. Most of the loans are used for improving agricultural and transportation systems.

The money was earmarked for easy-term loans to nations with per capita incomes of less than $375. The borrowing nations pay no interest and have 40-year terms. India, Pakistan and Bangladesh receive a majority of the I.D.A. loans.

Supporters argued that the U.S. needs to continue its leadership role in helping third-world nations develop their economies.

Opponents said the price tag is too high. Some opponents argued against no-interest loans for foreign nations while U.S. consumers face high interest rates.

Rep. John Breckinridge (D-6) voted "yea." Reps. Frank Stubblefield (D-1), William Natcher (D-2), Romano Mazzoli (D-3), Gene Snyder (R-4), Tim Lee Carter (R-5) and Carl Perkins (D-7) voted "nay."

SENATE

SEATING SEN. METZENBAUM—Tabled, 53 for and 22 against, in the Senate's first roll call vote of the new year, a motion to delay the final seating of Ohio Democrat Howard Metzenbaum to the Senate post vacated by now-Attorney General William Saxbe, a Republican.

The tabled motion would have temporarily seated Metzenbaum while the Rules Committee investigated his dispute with the Internal Revenue Service over a $118,000 tax deduction he claimed in 1967 and 1968. The matter is pending in U.S. Tax Court.

In tabling the proposal, the Senate in effect killed it and cleared the way for Metzenbaum to take his seat.

Supporters of the tabling motion—mostly Democrats—pointed out that Metzenbaum has a private citizen's right to argue with the IRS. Sen. Sam Ervin (D-N.C.) said that Metzenbaum met the Constitutional requirement of age, citizenship and residency.

Opponents—all Republicans—argued that fair play dictated an investigation of Metzenbaum such as was given Vice President Gerald Ford. Sen. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) argued that the Constitution gives the Senate the right to pass judgement on its members.

Sens. Marlow Cook (R) and Walter Huddleston (D) voted "yea."

Letter To The Editor

'Equal Rights' Law Disputed

To the Editor:

The controversial Equal Rights Amendment that was ratified by narrow margin in Kentucky's special session, June 1972, should be rescinded. Debate and reasoning ended in 1972 when, at the very last minute, the proponents of ERA turned up with Dee Huddleston banners and we had yet another display of people blindly putting partisan politics ahead of their country.

The immediate and dramatic effect of ratification of ERA would be a grab of substantial power by the Federal Government over matters that heretofore have been generally acknowledged to be the primary and, in some cases, the exclusive legislative responsibility of the States. These would include family law, divorce, child custody, alimony, minimum marriageable age limits, dower rights, inheritance, survivor's benefits, insurance rates, welfare, prison regulations, and protective labor legislation.

All state and local laws, policies and regulations involving any difference of treatment between the sexes will be overridden by Federal legislation, which means, ultimately, administrative regulation.

specified men or women will be subject to challenge in the Federal courts, as a constitutional issue, and ultimately by the U. S. Supreme Court. For example, the women's liberationists are already demanding revision of primary school textbooks which, they claim, are "sexist" because they perpetuate the "stereo type" of women as mothers and homemakers.

To abolish unreasonable and unfair discrimination against women is a worthy goal which can be achieved by specific legislation and by application of the Equal Protection Clause of the Constitution. To enact to ERA for this purpose is about as unwise as using an atomic bomb to exterminate mice.

The ERA will not promote women to better jobs, will not elect more women to public office, and will not convince men to help with the housework. It will cause massive disruption of our military defense and chaos in our laws.

For more information about this very important amendment please contact THE KENTUCKY WOMEN'S COMMITTEE TO RESCIND ERA, 122 Woodside Pl., Ft. Thomas, Ky. 41075

Huddleston voted "yea" and Cook voted "nay."

UNEMPLOYMENT FOR STUDENTS—Rejected, 35 for and 45 against, an amendment to exempt students who have on-campus jobs from paying unemployment insurance taxes.

The amendment was one of many non-germane amendments offered to the POW and MIA Tax Relief bill.

In rejecting the amendment, the Senate affirmed the existing law requiring certain students to pay into the federal unemployment insurance fund. These are students who work on-campus in establishments not directly administered by the institution.

For example, a student working in a university-run book store does not pay for unemployment insurance. But if the university forms a non-profit corporation to run the book store, or if the book store is run privately for profit, all of the book store's employees pay unemployment taxes.

Supporters argued that working students need the extra cash that now goes to pay for unemployment taxes.

Opponents argued that non-student employees would lose their jobs to students if students were exempted, because the employers would not have to pay matching unemployment taxes.

Huddleston voted "yea" and Cook voted "nay."

An AP News Analysis

Watergate Book Not Likely To Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP)—At an extraordinary moment in American history, President Nixon has once again urged the nation to close the book on Watergate. That is not likely to happen soon.

Even as Nixon urged an end to the Watergate investigations Wednesday night, he gave a qualified pledge of cooperation with one that is just beginning.

And that may be the most significant of all: the House inquiry into possible impeachment proceedings against him.

That Constitutional process raises the prospect that members of the Congress Nixon was addressing will one day vote in judgment of him.

Nixon's Watergate statement seemed directed beyond the House chamber, to the nation and the voters who elected him.

One Democrat said he thought it an appeal to the people "to tell Congress to get off his back."

Specifically, Nixon said it is time for the Watergate special prosecutor to stop investigating and go to trial. He said he has turned over all the material needed to prosecute the guilty and clear the innocent.

"I believe the time has come to bring that investigation and the other investigations of this matter to an end," he said in his State of the Union address.

"One year of Watergate is enough."

That is a familiar theme. Nixon and his spokesmen have said before that enough is enough, that it is time to put Watergate aside and turn to other business.

The investigations he wants ended include those of three federal grand juries in Washington, the Senate's special Watergate committee and the House Judiciary Committee.

Beyond the grand jury investigations are indictments and trials likely to continue for months, and certain to fuel the Watergate controversy.

The Senate panel has authorized, but postponed, renewed public hearings. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the chairman, said that the inquiry would have concluded long ago had Nixon "been willing to give us the evidence in his possession."

That Ervin statement has by now become a litany. It is for the House committee to take the initial step in direct judgment of the President himself. Nixon said he recognized the special responsibility of that panel.

Nixon said he will cooperate so the committee can conclude its investigation and make its decision. He added a proviso: he will do nothing that would in his judgment weaken the office of president or impair the powers of his successors.

Implicit in that limitation are such long-disputed issues as the proper boundaries of executive privilege.

And if Republicans generally praised the promise of cooperation, Democrats quickly challenged the limitation.

So there are almost certainly battles ahead. No man, certainly no president, could be expected to cooperate with accusers who want him ousted from his job.

And nothing he said at the Capitol altered the determination he has expressed to congressional allies:

"Now is a time to fight and to fight like hell."

Computers Check Returns for 'Credibility'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1973 tax returns.

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Every federal income tax return is checked for what the Internal Revenue Service calls "over-all credibility" by the agency's computers.

But this shouldn't deter taxpayers in searching for every possible deduction and claiming every penny if they are entitled to them, the IRS says.

The computers help ease the task of auditing. They are programmed to "grade" each tax return according to the norm for income and deductions.

If a taxpayer goes over the norm by a large amount in one area, say deductions for contributions, but is below or at the average in other areas, his chances of being audited are probably less than those who are above the average in all areas.

That's what the IRS says it means by "over-all credibility."

There's one key thing that taxpayers should remember in this computer age: keeping good, detailed records is the best way to counteract any possible audit.

Once a taxpayer has determined that it is advantageous to itemize deductions on the 1973 federal income tax return, the search for eligible expenses should begin.

For homeowners, every penny of interest paid on the mortgage is deductible. So are all the real estate taxes, and some other state and local taxes. Usually, the mere fact of home ownership qualifies a taxpayer for the long form and itemized deductions.

Many homeowners may claim deductions for casualty and theft losses, although this area is often overlooked. Fire damage or a burglary loss qualify as deductions.

There's a common error in this area. Such losses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed $100. Many taxpayers fail to subtract this amount when claiming the loss.

Note: For 1972 returns, the IRS tried to eliminate this common mistake by putting the $100 in the appropriate column.

Result: Many taxpayers added the $100, instead of subtracting it. For 1973 returns, the $100 is no longer in the column. The taxpayer will have to do that himself.

Taxpayers may claim a reasonable amount as deduction for maintenance costs and depreciation if they were required to use their homes in any way in connection with their jobs or business.

The IRS tries to keep a pretty tight rein on these deductions, saying that the amounts can be deducted only if the home is required to be used by the employer for business purposes.

But the agency has been losing a number of tax cases in the courts in this area. Many taxpayers are claiming there's a fuzzy line between what's required and what's expected of them as employees.

For taxpayers with sizeable deductions in this area, it's probably best to seek expert advice.

The Person Nobody Knows

The Man Who Dreamed To Be A Major League Star

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor
The strapping black kid from Chicago's South Side stood on the mound and wiped his brow. He got his signal from the catcher and then cut loose with a fastball that cut the outside corner of the plate for a called third strike.

Cheers greeted him as he walked off the mound, with his second victory in the Little League World Series. And looming in the depth of his 12-year-old mind was the dream of someday becoming a major leaguer.

Today, Marcelous Jewell Starks still has dreams of making it as a professional. But this time, it is a different sport.

And although most Murray State fans think Starks never will make it in professional basketball, the 6-8 senior center feels different.

Wants A Chance
"People down here are the judge and the jury. They think because I don't have the speed, I'll never make it in professional ball," Starks said. "I just want a chance, nothing more, nothing less. Everything in life is a chance. Nobody knows what's going to happen so how can people say what's in store for me?"

Last summer, a person came to Murray State to visit some old friends and this one person has played an important role in Starks' attitude toward becoming a professional player.

And that person was none other than Stew Johnson, the first black ever to play at Murray State.

Stew Johnson, the best outside-shooting big man in the game today and a member of the ABA All-Star Team. Stew Johnson, a man who at one point almost quit and forgot about the sport he loved.

"Stew showed me a lot of things this summer while he was here. He showed me some moves under the basket and taught me how to push, to hold and to get away with it."

"Every day we would go to the gym and he'd work with me on my outside shooting."

It worked well too. Several times in pick-up games, Starks, the student, outshot Johnson, the teacher.

But shooting a basketball wasn't all Starks did this summer.

He ran and he ran; and he ran so much he almost fell from exhaustion. But he didn't quit. He kept pushing, kept using that last ounce of energy, straining for one goal: personal satisfaction.

That's the way it was with him when he was playing baseball. The satisfaction of winning and the hope of someday being a star.

"There wasn't much to do in the summertime where I lived. Everybody was poor and about all we did was play baseball. And then in the winter, we'd get a bunch of guys together and play basketball."

A scene that is common in every ghetto across the United States: A group of black youngsters working to condition their bodies and prepare for a future in professional athletics, an escape from the ghetto.

Being "hungry" is what they call it. And there were a bunch of starving kinds on the South Side.

Changes Sports
As his body began to grow, Starks realized basketball might well be his best sport.

And during his freshman year at Chicago Hirsch, last year's Illinois State Champions, Starks took his first step down the long basketball trail.

A trail that has always been uphill and sometimes finding Marcelous falling on the stones along the path.

Like the Murray and Morehead game two weeks ago, Marcelous was having an off night early in the first half and the Racers were getting blown off the floor by Morehead.

So when Coach Cal Luther took Starks out, Luther was applauded for his move and Marcelous was greeted with boos and a few outlandish verbal insults.

"I heard them, how could I keep from it? But when I came back on the floor, I came back ready to play, whether they booed me again or not."

And in the end, they were cheering "Celous." It was his three-point play in the final seconds that gave Murray State a miraculous comeback win.

At Western Kentucky last Saturday, who was it that pulled down 24 rebounds and played his most outstanding game of his career? It wasn't the Hilltoppers' center, Ray Bowerman. It was "Celous."

Starks never got a lot of publicity in high school. After his first year at Hirsch, he transferred to Bowen High.

He started varsity as a junior and a senior. During his senior year, he averaged 20 points per game and 21 rebounds, in addition to being selected to the All-State team.

Many Offers
He received scholarship offers from the University of Southern California, Drake, Memphis State, Montana, Jacksonville, Weber State, and Arizona State before electing to attend Murray.

"Kayo Willis is the man who got me here at Murray," Starks said.

"He told me Murray was a good basketball school and that I would like it here. I actually thought Kayo was the varsity coach."

His freshman year found Murray winning all 21 of its games and being ranked as the sixth-best freshman team in the country.

He averaged 20.1 points per game and 19.6 rebounds. Only two schools managed to come close to the Racers' freshmen.

Paducah played Murray to within three at the Indians' gym and the Bethel varsity team played the Racers to a three-point game.

"We pulled the crowds. Sometimes the gym would be full, just to watch us play."

As a sophomore starter, Marcelous averaged 14 points per game and 10 rebounds and last season as a junior, he scored 15 points per game and averaged 11 rebounds.

And from the floor, Starks hit 61.3 per cent of his field goal attempts, second to Bill Walton of UCLA.

Starks, who once ate 19 hamburgers in a contest, is not hitting as well from the floor this season as he did last year.

But still, he is shooting .549 from the floor and is averaging 14 points and 12.6 rebounds.

More Improvement
And with each game, he keeps on improving, showing that hard work pays off.

"There's no question about it," Murray Coach Cal Luther said.

"Marcelous is really developing into a fine ballplayer for us. He spends a lot of time watching himself on film, recognizing his mistakes and then working not to make those mistakes again."

"He's learned how to use his power against bigger and quicker people and he knows what shot to shoot and when to do it. He's a hard worker and a student of the game," Luther added.

Marcelous takes each day, each game, each problem, one at a time. He takes things the way they are and he still has a dream.

It began one hot summer day in Chicago on a baseball mound.

The means of the dream are changed. The end is the same. And Marcelous knows, that without work, a dream can become a nightmare. But by paying the price, the dream can come true.

Marcelous Jewell Starks has paid more than the price. He's paid four long years of his life.

Bryan Station Leads In Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lexington Bryan Station moved into the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press High School Poll this week, doing it the hard way.

The Defenders eliminated previously top-ranked Central from the Louisville Invitational Tournament last weekend then went on to win the trophy with a victory over Louisville Ballard.

Bryan Station collected all 12 first place votes, 120 points, from sportswriters and sportscasters.

Louisville Central, with 102 points, dropped into the second slot for the first time this season.

Owensboro, which finished fourth in the LIT, retained its No. 3 rating and Lexington Henry Clay clung to the fourth slot.

Louisville Ballard was placed fifth, the same as last week, followed by Lexington Bates Creek; Louisville Male; Butler County; Clay County; and Madisonville.

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Ashland, Atherton, Edmonson County, Elizabethtown, McCreary County, Murray, Scottsville, Shawnee, Tilghman.

Houston Coach Leaves Ice And Fights With Fan In The Stands

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

You pay your money and you take your choice, the birthright of every fan, may have to be amended to paying your money and taking a chance.

That's because Bill Dineen is on the prowl.

Dineen, the Houston coach, enlivened a rather one-sided World Hockey Association game by charging into the stands to battle a fan.

"I've never done anything like that before," said Dineen after his Aeros were tripped up by the Cleveland Crusaders 5-1. "But I reached the point where I couldn't take it anymore. The fans have a right to cheer, but this guy became too abusive."

In the other WHA game, the Chicago Cougars downed the Vancouver Blazers 4-2.

In the National Hockey League, the New York Rangers shaded the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2; the Vancouver Canucks whipped the Detroit Red Wings 7-3, and the St. Louis Blues outscored the California Golden Seals 6-4.

Dineen wasn't the only one who wanted to get closer to the fans.

Gordie Howe took a trip up the aisles, too, and it wasn't for hot dogs.

Witnesses said that Howe followed Dineen into the seats and scuffled with a fan of his own.

The incident was apparently touched off by fan comments directed at the Houston bench, including a reference to "bush leaguers."

Dineen couldn't have enjoyed the action in front of him any better than the insults behind.

Ray Clearwater scored two goals and Russ Walker added another, giving Cleveland a 3-0 lead after 20 minutes. Paul Anderson and Phil Smyr gave the Crusaders a 5-0 lead in the second period before Murray Hall finally put the Aeros on the scoreboard.

Cougars 4, Blazers 2
Reg Fleming scored his second goal of the season at 4:53 of the third period to snap a 2-2 tie and help Chicago past Vancouver.

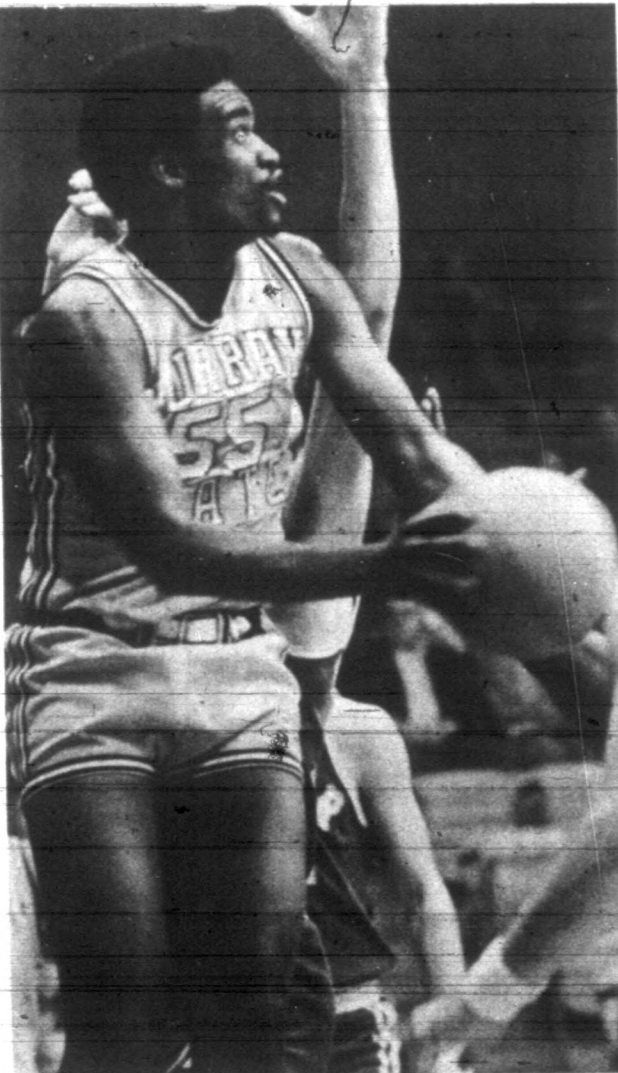

Canucks 7, Red Wings 3
After four years, Vancouver finally broke the ice.

The Canucks skated away with their first victory in the Olympia since entering the league in 1970. Vancouver had lost nine games and tied one during that period.

Bobby Schmautz scored his 25th and 26th goals of the season and Larry Gould and Orland Kurtenbach scored second-period goals 14 seconds apart to spark the victory.

Rangers 4, Penguins 2
Blad Park fired in a blistering slapshot at 9:44 of the final period that snapped a 2-2 tie and led New York to victory.

Blues 6, Seals 4
Garry Unger, the Most Valuable Player in Tuesday night's NHL All-Star Game, had his third 3-goal performance of the season to lead St. Louis.

Calloway County Hosts Sedalia Friday In Homecoming Game

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

How long can the Calloway County High School winning streak continue?

That appears to be the main question this weekend as the Lakers prepare for their Homecoming Friday night with Sedalia. Other Friday night games will find Murray High at Ballard Memorial and North Marshall at South Marshall.

Calloway County, earlier rated as the top ballclub in the First Region, has won five consecutive games and has not lost since Dec. 28 when Paducah St. Mary grabbed a 64-56 win in the semifinals of the Tilghman Invitational.

That loss was later avenged in an 84-79 win at Calloway County.

The last game for the Lakers was Tuesday night at home and Coach Jerry Conley's crew romped over North Marshall 84-57. In a previous meeting earlier this month on the Jets' floor, the Lakers struggled to win by four points.

"We handled their press very well throughout the game. Our guards did a fine job in getting the ball through the press and they scored 18 points between them," Conley said.

"One of our bright spots was the performance of sophomore David Williams. He had 10 points and played a fine game for us."

"Howard had one of his best games, he put it all together on both ends of the floor. And Wells just dominated the boards. He had 17 rebounds in the game for us."

Sedalia should provide no problem at all for the Lakers and Calloway County should run its record to 10-6 with a win.

And then next Tuesday, a game that will determine just how much the Lakers have improved will decide the fate of the winning streak.

Calloway County will visit the running and gunning Carlisle County Comets.

Twice this season the teams have played, with Carlisle winning by nine at Calloway and then in the Mayfield Invitational; the Comets led by as much as 30 as they blew off the Lakers 89-70.

"We are playing different type ball than we played in the tournament," Conley said.

"We were bothered by their press in that game. Now we aren't worried about it, we know we can get through it. I'm actually looking forward to playing them this time."

The Comets have had some disciplinary problems since the tournament as senior guard John Martin and junior forward Thomas Jenkins were suspended by Coach Tom Buchanan.

Both starters are now back in their roles and the Comets are again becoming one of the top teams in the Region.

Tigers Go For 13

Murray High will be going for victory number 13 at Ballard Friday.

The Tigers' last outing was Tuesday in an 85-68 romp over South Marshall.

Ballard is an inconsistent club. They earlier defeated Carlisle County and then Tuesday night, they were blown off the floor by Paducah St. Mary 98-77, a team that has lost twice this season to the Comets.

The Bombers are led by 6-1 senior ace Leo Henderson who plays well as a guard or a forward.

Murray High will be playing three games next week, two of them coming on successive nights.

Monday night the Tigers will host Hickman County in a makeup game and Tuesday night Fancy Farm will visit the Murray gym in another makeup game.

Hickman County, last year's First Region Champions, has won six of its last seven games and is now sporting a 12-6 overall mark.

The Falcons return to the starting five this season a pair of outstanding players, guard Ricky Weatherspoon and forward Sidney Spate.

Like last season's team, Hickman County will play a slow-down type offense and play a sticky defense.

Fancy Farm is the weakest club the Tigers will meet in their next three upcoming games.

The Gophers are a small and scrappy team but should not be able to play with the Tigers.

Tuesday night, the Gophers won over a very weak Cairo Camelot team 102-72.

One For Rebels

For the first time in four weeks, South Marshall will have only one game this weekend and that is at home Friday with arch-rival North Marshall.

When the clubs played two weeks ago at North, the Rebels brought home an 82-70 win over the Jets.

South is now 13-9 following their loss at Murray High Tuesday.

In that game, junior forward Larry McGregor scored 31 points, the same total he tallied last Saturday night at Benton when South Marshall took an overtime win.

The meeting between the two schools Friday will be the last time they will ever play in a regularly scheduled game.

Next season the two schools will combine with Benton to form the new Central High Marshalls.

Thompson's 39 Leads Wolfpack To Conference Win Over 'Terps

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell once boasted that his club would become the UCLA of the East, but with North Carolina State around the Terrapins can't even be the UCLA of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

David Thompson knocked some of the air out of Driesell's basketball Wednesday night, scoring 31 of his 39 points in the second half and rallying second-ranked North Carolina State to an 86-80 ACC college basketball victory over sixth-ranked Maryland.

It was the third straight time that Coach Norm Sloane's club has had the last laugh on Driesell.

In other action involving top teams, fourth-ranked North Carolina topped Wake Forest 77-67; 12th-ranked Pittsburgh pounded Westminster, Pa., 106-71, and 14th-ranked South Carolina smashed Niagara 85-60.

Thompson provided the glue as he pumped in 10 points in a 17-4 State spree that carried the Wolfpack from a 67-59 deficit with 9:03 left in a 76-71 lead with 4:35 remaining. The 6-4 junior has totaled 80 points in State's two victories over Maryland this season.

Maryland, now 12-4 after ending a 13-game winning streak at home, pulled to within 82-80 on a tap-in by Tom McMillen, who led Maryland with 28 points, with five seconds to play. But Monty Towe padded the margin by adding two foul shots and a field goal before the final buzzer.

State is unbeaten in five ACC games and has won 23 straight against conference opponents. The Wolfpack, 14-1, have lost to No. 1 ranked UCLA this season.

Maryland's record in the ACC dropped to 2-3.

Assistant South Carolina coach Don Walsh, taking over for the hospitalized Frank McGuire, made his record 1,000 with the victory over Niagara.

Brian Winterts' 25 points made Walsh's new seat on the bench more comfortable.

Mitch Kupchak scored 19 points and grabbed 14 rebounds in leading North Carolina past Wake Forest.

Darrell Elston helped with 15 points and Walter Davis added 13 as the Tar Heels stretched their conference record to 6-1 and over-all mark to 14-2.

Pitt reeled off 24 points in the first half, built up a 53-18 half-time lead and breezed to its 16th straight victory.

Billy Knight scored 24 points for the once-beaten Panthers.

Contest For Girls To Be Held By Optimists

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Artie Gilmore, Kentucky's tree-top tall center, often has been accused of not playing up to his potential and "dogging it" during his brief American Basketball Association career.

Statistics would tend to bear out that criticism, since the 7-foot-2 pivot man's figures have dwindled steadily in each of his three seasons with the Colonels. Gilmore, meanwhile, continually has denied the charges — and Wednesday night he added emphasis to his claim, spearheading the East to a 128-112 victory over the West in the seventh annual ABA All-Star game. The 24-year-old center was named the game's most valuable player after scoring 18 points, leading the East with 13 rebounds and — topping both teams in blocked shots — with four.

Babe McCarthy, the East coach and Gilmore's coach during the regular season, pointed to the towering youngster as the difference in the game. Julius Erving of New York agreed with McCarthy. "Artie did it all," said Erving.

Gilmore, the ABA's Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player in the 1971-72 season, was more excited about the three boats he received for being voted the game's outstanding player. "I love scuba diving," he explained. "I'm really good at it, and I'll probably take the boats to Florida with me in the summer and do some scuba diving."

The East's victory and Gilmore's selection as the MVP overshadowed a glittering performance by Swen Nater of San Antonio. The 6-11 Nater, who was understudy to Bill Walton, UCLA's two-time All-American and Player of the Year, scored 29 points and grabbed 22 rebounds, both game-high figures, in 28 minutes.

Nater set four All-Star game records, including most rebounds (22), most offensive rebounds (13), most two-point field goals (13) and most two-point field goals attempted (24).

The young Spurs center, the only rookie on the West team, was the recipient of loud cheers from the crowd of 10,624, the largest ever at the Norfolk Scope. He had begun his pro career this season as a member of the Virginia team, before being sold to San Antonio in mid-November for $300,000.

Nater, however, did not have as much offensive support from his teammates as did Gilmore.

The East, conforming to its pregame plan of trying to outrun the undermanned, slower West, raced to a quick early lead, sprinting to a 9-0 advan-

Foreman Says He's An International Citizen

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — While Muhammad Ali claims to be the people's champion, George Foreman, the official holder of the heavyweight boxing title, is just a man of the world.

"I'd like to think that I'm as close to being an international citizen as anybody in the world right now," Foreman said Tuesday at the formal announcement of his third straight fight outside of the United States — a March 26 title defense against Ken Norton in Caracas, Venezuela.

While knowledgeable boxing people believe legal entanglements involving his finances and his management are keeping Foreman from fighting in the United States, the champion said:

"The title don't belong to any one country. I won the championship outside of the United States."

Foreman won the title by stopping Joe Frazier in two rounds at Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1973. In his only fight since, he knocked out Joe "King" Roman in one round in Tokyo last Aug. 31.

Foreman is guaranteed $700,000 against 40 per cent of all income and Norton is guaranteed $200,000 against 20 per cent, said Barry Burnstein, president of Video Techniques, Inc., which will promote in conjunction with Telemidia de Panama.

"Before I fought Ali, I was walking around with holes in my pockets instead of money," said Norton, who almost quit the ring two years ago because he was unable to make a living.

He got $40,000 for his first fight with Ali, which he won, and then $200,000 for the rematch, which he lost.

Timeout With Brandon

For all of those fans who are hoping Fly Williams will not be playing Monday night when Murray State plays at Austin Peay, don't be too optimistic.

I talked this morning with Austin Peay Coach Lake Kelly and he said Fly has been reinstated. Kelly said it is on a day-by-day basis though and any more temper tantrums could result in serious disciplinary action by Kelly.

Williams was suspended Monday after the first half of the Governor-Western Kentucky game. He spent the remainder of the contest in the stands watching the game in street clothes.

He was suspended by Kelly for an indefinite period, with the Austin Peay coach saying Williams could not come back unless he met certain conditions.

Kelly did not comment on what caused the actual suspension.

Williams is scoring 27.9 points per game and is the top scorer in the conference. The Racers' Chug Coleman is averaging 26.8 while Leonard Coulter of Morehead is averaging 24.3.

Williams' average went down because he only scored a point before being benched in the first half Monday.

The Hughes Television Network covered the ABA All-Star game last night. I don't know about anyone else, but I really got a thrill watching former Murray State star Stew Johnson playing in the game.

Stew scored six points for the losing West team.

The Murray State track team will be in Macomb, Ill., Friday night for a dual meet with Western Illinois University.

The season opened last weekend as the Racers finished sixth in a seven-team invitational at the University of Illinois.

In that meet, Murray could have well finished second or third but Coach Bill Cornell did not double anyone in any of the events.

Several individuals will be participating in two events this weekend.

Sam Torres will be running both the mile and the two mile while Bert Jacobs will be in the 300, the 440 and on the mile relay team.

Gordie Benfield will be doubling in the 1,000-yard-run and the mile.

Here is next week's sports calendar:

Monday—Murray State at Austin Peay, Murray State Women at Austin Peay and Hickman County at Murray High.

Tuesday—Fancy Farm at Murray High, Calloway County at Carlisle County and Ballard Memorial at South Marshall.

Wednesday—open date.

Thursday—Calloway freshmen at Reidland, Murray High freshmen at North Marshall, Friday—Carlisle County at South Marshall, Benton at Calloway and Murray High at North Marshall.

Drive For Overseas Markets Forces Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — The drive for overseas markets by multinational corporations is forcing upon the world a host of decisions it has avoided for years.

The most basic of these concerns loyalty. To what country or countries does the multinational corporation owe allegiance? To that in which it is headquartered, or those countries in which it operates?

An example of the conflict that can arise was dramatized in recent weeks when the Exxon Corp., considered to be America's largest industrial company in terms of assets, cut oil supplies to American military forces. It did so, it seems, to satisfy the demand of its supplier, Saudi Arabia.

Glaring examples such as this are multiplied dozens of times in less dramatic ways.

The fact is that ground rules for doing business are sometimes absent in the multinational arena, leaving the world's industrial nations to operate in each other's markets on a problem-at-a-time basis.

The informality of these enormously valuable relationships was described last November by Thomas A. Murphy, General Motors vice chairman, in an address to the National Foreign Trade Conference.

Explaining the cornerstone of GM's approach to good relations with its host countries, he commented:

"We at General Motors will continue to function as a good citizen in each country where we work. Our mission is to serve the people and the markets of every host country profitably by creating value and jobs."

He said that under the "guest philosophy," each subsidiary must adapt policies to the laws and customs and values of its host country.

While it also professed belief in a guest philosophy, International Telephone and Telegraph Co. clearly found it impossible to apply in Chile.

Canada has rebelled against dictates from U.S. corporate headquarters. The Indonesians are angry at the Japanese. Congress still debates whether U.S. jobs are "exported" to foreign subsidiaries of multinationals.

What are the rights of multinationals to close foreign operations and throw local residents out of work? Who should be the boss, a local or a foreign executive? Should raw materials be imported or purchased locally?

The problem has a dozen facets.

The United States doesn't trade with Cuba, but does that mean Latin American branches of the Big Three U.S. automakers shouldn't ship cars there? Whose national policy should they follow — host or headquarters country?

Congress, the European Economic Community, the United Nations and others continue to study the problems.

Harrel Bramley To Be Stationed At Chanute AFB

SAN ANTONIO—Airman Harrel Z. Bramley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bramley of 506 N. Second St., Murray, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Chanute for specialized training in fuel services.

Airman Bramley, a 1973 graduate of Murray High School, attended Murray State University.

Navy Announces Band Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reduction in the number of its military bands from 39 to 16 was announced Tuesday by the Navy.

Navy Secretary John N. Warner said the lowering in musical volume will save $2 million a year.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., had been critical of the overabundance of bands in the services.

Air Force officials also said that over the last five years they have cut back from 35 to 25 bands. Figures for the Army were not available.

Highlights of President Nixon's State Of The Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of President Nixon's nationally broadcast State of the Union speech delivered to a joint session of Congress on Wednesday night.

WATERGATE
"I want you to know that I have no intention whatever of ever walking away from the job that the people elected me to do for the people of the United States."

"I have provided to the special prosecutor voluntarily a great deal of material. I believe that I have provided all the material that he needs to conclude his investigations and to proceed to prosecute the guilty and to clear the innocent."

"I believe the time has come to bring that investigation and the other investigations of this matter to an end. One year of Watergate is enough."

"I will cooperate with the Judiciary Committee ... so that it can conclude its investigation, make its decision ... There is only one limitation, I will follow the precedent ..."

of never doing anything that weakens the office of the president of the United States ...

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
"In our relationships with the Soviet Union we have turned away from a policy of confrontation to one of negotiation ... With the People's Republic of China ... we have begun a period of peaceful exchange and expanding trade."

ECONOMICS
"There will be no recession in the United States of America ... I pledge to you tonight that the full powers of this government will be used to keep America's economy producing and to protect the jobs of America's workers."

ENERGY
"I can announce tonight that I have been assured ... that an urgent meeting will be called in the immediate future to discuss the lifting of the oil embargo."

"However, it should be clearly understood ... that the United States will not be coerced on this issue."

"Let us do everything we can to avoid gasoline rationing in the United States of America."

HEALTH CARE
"I shall propose a sweeping new program that will assure comprehensive health insurance protection to millions of Americans ... And it will not require additional taxes."

TRANSPORTATION
"The program I have proposed this year will give communities not only more money, but also more freedom to balance their own transportation needs."

EDUCATION
"Last week, I recommended a number of important new measures ... Advance funding will give school authorities a chance to make each year's plans knowing ahead of time what federal funds they are going to receive. Special targeting will give special help to the truly disadvantaged among our people. College students ... will be able to draw on an expanded program of loans and grants."

"The time has come ... for a major initiative to define the nature and extent of the basic rights of privacy and to erect new safeguards to ensure that those rights are respected."

WELFARE
"I urge the Congress to join me in mounting a major new effort to replace the discredited present welfare system with one that works, one that is fair to those who need help ... fair to the community, and fair to the taxpayer."

DEFENSE
"In the coming year ... increased expenditures will be needed ... to give us the military strength we must have if our security is to be maintained and if our initiatives for peace are to succeed."

Wheat Exports At Record Levels, Report Indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is exporting wheat at record levels, with Communist countries the leading buyers, government figures show.

The Peoples Republic of China and the Soviet Union currently are the biggest buyers of U.S. wheat, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday. The statistics were for the six-month period ending Dec. 30.

"Overall the grain has been so big that only 178 million bushels will be left in the wheat reserve next summer about the time a predicted new record U.S. harvest begins to come in. That would be the smallest stockpile since 1947."

Here is the situation: China was shipped 95 million bushels of wheat worth $272.4 million in July-December last year. That compared with 20.8 million bushels valued at $35.3 million in the six months a year earlier.

Russia took another 72.2 million bushels worth $149.4 million, compared with 97.6 million bushels at $154.8 million a year earlier.

Those are the two leading buyers of U.S. wheat during the marketing year ending next June 30. Total exports to all countries are estimated at 1.2 billion bushels.

Total deliveries to all countries for the six-month period totaled a record 714 million bushels valued at $2.62 billion.

That was up from 475 million bushels worth $848 million in July-December 1972. Besides the increased quantity, export prices rose from an average of $1.79 per bushel at Gulf ports to $2.78 in the six months last year.

The wheat export surge began 18 months ago with huge orders for wheat from the Soviet Union. Prices at the farm level and at export points began rising sharply after July 1972. For example, the price of hard, winter wheat at Houston at mid-January was $5.80 per bushel, compared with $2.78 a year ago.

In an ironic development Tuesday a Soviet trade official suggested in New York that if the United States runs short of wheat this spring the Russians might be able to sell some grain to U.S. buyers.

Vladimir S. Alkhimov, a deputy minister of foreign trade, said it would be "no problem" to provide U.S. buyers with additional wheat if needed.

World Roundup

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 280,000 coal miners are voting today and Friday on whether to strike. Their leaders predict an overwhelming "yes" despite a last-minute peace proposal from Prime Minister Edward Heath. Returns are expected to be in by Sunday; results are to be announced Tuesday, and the strike would start Sunday, Feb. 10, if the necessary 55 per cent affirmative vote is received and the government doesn't open the way to a satisfactory wage settlement.

HONG KONG (AP) — An American civilian and five South Vietnamese servicemen captured by Chinese soldiers 11 days ago in the Paracel Islands left Hong Kong today after their release by China. The American, Gerald Emil Kosh, 27, of Lafayette Hill, Pa., walked unaided across the border river bridge although he had been reported suffering from hepatitis. He was flown to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines for treatment, and the South Vietnamese were flown to Saigon.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — President Hugo Banzer's military regime claims it has put down a peasant rebellion in central Bolivia after 10 days of sporadic clashes in which five peasants were killed and more than a dozen injured. The peasants were protesting the government's 100 per cent increase last week in the price of a number of staple foods, but Banzer claimed they were deceived by Communist agitators.

MOSCOW (AP) — Young Anatoly Karpov, the choice of some Soviet experts to take the world chess title from Bobby Fischer next year, has two of the three victories he needs to defeat Soviet grandmaster Lev Polugaevsky in the quarter-finals of the eliminations to pick Fischer's challenger.

Report Critical Of Jails In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A new report declares that medical services in Kentucky's prisons and jails are "helter-skelter, inefficient and very spotty" the report, prepared by a task force of the Kentucky Public Health Association and released Wednesday, said that medical facilities and services in penal institutions in Kentucky were not meeting the health-care needs of the inmates.

The task force, working on the study for nine months under the direction of Dr. Philip Weiler of Lexington, based its report on visits to 48 penal institutions of various types and sizes and on questionnaires sent to officials and inmates of 123 other institutions.

One of the recommendations of the task force was for Kentucky to create an office for forensic health in the state Department for Human Resources. That office would coordinate health services for state institutions and set health care and environmental standards for each type of institution which then would be subject to inspection.

The task force said it found many conditions in jails and prisons that recreated health hazards to the inmates, some to the extent that they could be considered offering inhumane treatment.

Among the worst conditions listed by the task force were prisoners kept in jails that did not have glass or other material on windows, had roaches crawling on cooked and uncooked food to be fed to prisoners, had no lavatories or showers and no way for prisoners to get help in case of emergency because the jailer did not live in the jail.

Medical histories of inmates showed they represented a high risk group with higher than expected prevalence of chronic diseases, particularly alcoholism, heart disease and drug problems.

Although most of the ailments existed prior to incarceration, the task force said, 12 per cent of the inmates reported their ailments occurred or became worse while in jail.

The task force also said it found a high prevalence of mental illness among the prisoners, but many institutions did not use proper mechanisms for detecting or caring for them.

House Approves Bill Establishing Regulatory Board On Mobile Homes

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A bill that would set up a state board to regulate the mobile home and recreational vehicle industry was approved by the House Tuesday.

The measure, HB 65, passed 72-15 after the House turned down a move by Rep. Phillip King, D-Covington to postpone consideration of the bill indefinitely. The House rejected King's motion 58-14.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Glenn White, D-Winchester, is similar to a bill that died in the last session after encountering opposition from former State Democratic Chairman J.R. Miller.

White said one of every 27 persons lives in a mobile home and urged passage of the bill as a means of increasing safety for occupants.

The measure would set up a seven-member Mobile Home Certification and Licensure Board to license manufacturers, salesmen, mechanics and dealers and would set fees to be paid by the industry. The revenue from fees would be used to pay for operations of the board.

The board would be headed by the state fire marshal, whose office would be in charge of enforcing regulations. It also would establish the National Fire Code as the standard for construction of mobile homes and recreational vehicles. Any such vehicle coming into Kentucky for sale would have to carry a seal of approval issued by the board.

King contended the measure would simply set up "another bureaucracy" and said it would be unfair to single out the mobile home industry for such legislation. He also objected to a provision that would call for four of the seven members of the regulating board to be industry representatives.

Crude Oil Stocks Up In Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy chief William E. Simon says it's still too early to step up gasoline production, although stocks of crude oil are creeping upward.

In another three weeks, it would be safe to decide whether to increase gasoline production in anticipation of summer travel, Simon said Wednesday.

Gasoline production has been cut back to allow for increased production of fuel oil.

Simon made his comments shortly before the American Petroleum Institute issued its weekly oil statistics reporting imports for last week increased 3 per cent.

API also said crude oil stocks had leveled off, ending a steep decline, while jet fuel stocks rose and distillate oil and residual oil stocks declined slightly.

Meanwhile, the federal government said it will guarantee truck drivers enough fuel to operate and proposed drivers be allowed to pass on their increased fuel costs.

In other energy related matters: —Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter charged the major oil companies and the Nixon administration conspired to impose cost increases of up to 40 per cent for bottled gas.

—Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., said while the oil companies were supposed to be preparing for the energy crisis they "were" spending at least half as much money on advertising as they were on research.

—New regulations limiting price increases on propane gas were announced by Simon.

—Congress was told by two tax experts that multinational oil companies pay little or no U.S. tax on profits earned abroad.

Temple Hill Lodge To Hold Meeting Saturday

Temple Hill Lodge No. 276 Free and Accepted Masons will meet in a stated meeting on Saturday, February 2, at seven p.m. at the lodge hall.

Work will be in the E. A. and the F. C. degrees. All members are expected to attend and visitors are welcome, a lodge spokesman said.

Doll Collection Of Mrs. Heise Now On Display At Library

Mrs. Edith Heise has her collection of antique dolls on display at the Calloway County Public Library.

Included in the display is her special collection of dolls made from clay entitled "Spirit of '76."

This same project and display of Mrs. Heise will be taken after being shown at the local library to the State Capitol at Frankfort where it will be on display for most of the year in celebration of the Kentucky Bicentennial.

Motorists In States Where Speed Limit Not Lowered Ignoring Nixon's Request

By BILL O'SHEA
Associated Press Writer

Americans in the 23 states where speed limits haven't been lowered to 55 miles per hour are ignoring a presidential appeal to slow down voluntarily and save gas.

But an Associated Press road check of the 50 states also shows drivers are staying close to 55 m.p.h. in the states where the speeds have been reduced.

AP reporters took to the highways in every state and kept their speedometers at 55 m.p.h. In the 27 states with 55 m.p.h. limits they found most cars keeping to the limit. Some cars passed them but mostly at speeds under 60 m.p.h.

In states without lowered limits, drivers were still pushing hard on the gas pedal and zoomed past the reporters in large numbers.

The Emergency Highway Energy Conservation Act signed into law by the President on Jan. 2 provides for a cutoff of federal highway funds to those states failing to lower their speed limit to 55 m.p.h. or below by the beginning of March.

Many states plan to have the 55 m.p.h. limit in force by March to beat the federal deadline, but others still have legislation pending.

In Illinois where legislation is pending on reduced speeds, newsman Charles Chamberlain

Carpentry Class Starts Tuesday At Vocational School

The Murray Vocational School will offer a class in Carpentry entitled "Woodworking Machine Tool Set-Up and Operation" to adults beginning on Tuesday, February 5, at 6:30 p.m.

The class will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. for six weeks.

The operation and use of saws, planer, shaper, sander, joiner, etc., will be covered in the class. Harold Grogan, Carpentry teacher at the Vocational School, will be the teacher.

The registration fee for the class will be $5.00 which will be due on the first class meeting.

To register for the class, call or visit the Murray Vocational School. The phone number at the school is 753-1870. Registration may be made between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

They're not asking much, just a little of your time. Go by the center, and spend an hour with the kids. If you don't like it, don't go back. But chances are, you'll find yourself spending as much time as possible for a reward that's hard to find anywhere else.

said it was an ordeal to drive the Northwest Tollway at 55 m.p.h. Trucks and cars whizzed past him.

"It was like living by the side of the road and watching the world go by. The most ignored sign on the road reads: 'Energy-saving speed, 50 miles an hour.'"

In the states with lowered speeds, state troopers and police agencies said they were enforcing the speed limit whenever the state's highway crews have changed the speed limit signs.

"You would have expected increased violations with the lower speed limits, but that hasn't been the case at all," said one New York State trooper.

A spokesman for the Georgia State Patrol says the 55 m.p.h. limit won't be enforced until it becomes law. "Then we plan to enforce it strictly," he said.

Authorities in California, Pennsylvania and Maryland and Maine agreed that motorists seem to be far more conscientious in observing the 55 m.p.h. limit than they were of previous 65 or 70 m.p.h. limits.

Adult Farmers To Meet At Calloway High On Monday

Farmers enrolled in Adult Farmer Classes being conducted throughout the county, will meet in the Calloway County High School lunch room to hear C. E. Thompson of Louisville discuss "Safety On the Farm."

Thompson represents the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and will discuss OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Act), a government regulation to safe practices on the farm.

All farmers in the area are invited to attend this meeting. Refreshments will be served by the local Calloway County Farm Bureau.

Bill Abolishing Fee System Draws Sharp Opposition Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A bill designed to abolish the fee system in Kentucky counties drew sharp opposition today from representatives of county officials' groups.

The objections came at a public hearing on a committee substitute for the original bill, HB 21. The main change in the revised version incorporates present expense accounts received by some officials into their salaries.

However, those appearing in the early part of the hearing indicated they were not familiar with revisions made in the past two weeks.

Asa R. Little Jr., of Menifee County, president of the Kentucky County Attorneys Association, said his group opposes the bill and urged that a two-year study be undertaken prior to any final action. Little contended, among other things, that a requirement that county officials submit budget requests to their fiscal courts would put a "great burden" on some officials.

Fayette County Judge Robert Stevens of the County Judges Association said his group will present a specific list of proposed changes in the next few days.

Retired Teachers Will Meet Here On Tuesday

The Murray-Calloway County Retired Teachers Association will meet Tuesday, February 5, at 12 noon at the Colonial House Smorgasbord.

Garvice Douglas of Lone Oak will present a musical program. All retired teachers are invited to attend, according to Carmon Graham, president.

Truckers Strike Beginning To Be Felt In Kentucky

CORBIN, Ky. (AP)—Gasoline pumps were reported blocked by trucks along some Kentucky routes last night as a strike by independent truckers was beginning to be felt in the state.

At Corbin, King's Truck-Stop was closed after 9 p.m. The manager said truckers were blocking the diesel pumps. London radio station WFTG reported there were 40 rigs on the truck-stop property.

Hodges' Truck-Stop at London reported about 25 trucks at the pumps last evening but it was not necessary to close early. A truck driver heading south from Dayton, Ohio reported most of the six truck-stops along his route were closed.

Independent truckers in the Owensboro area were scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. today. They will be asked to cooperate in the nationwide strike.

A spokesman for the Independent Truckers Association in Owensboro, Bill Choate, says he expects all of the city's 300 independent owner operator truckers to join in the shutdown.

The Owensboro truckers says they will, if they join the strike, stop all rigs at the edge of town and ask the drivers to cooperate to prevent any violence or damage. They say there will be no blockade of bridges or slow-downs on the highways.

Choate says the drivers want a maximum price per gallon on diesel fuel, an amended speed limit and an increase in freight rates and gross weight limit.

Licensed Practical Nurses To Meet Monday

The Licensed Practical Nurses will hold their regular meeting on Monday, February 4, at seven p.m. in the conference room of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital.

Mrs. Audrey Hendon, president, urges all practical nurses to attend.

Nixon Promises No Recession In 1974

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has told Congress to expect economic stagnation, increased unemployment and high inflation in 1974, but he said there will be no recession.

His no-recession pledge, however, did not promise an economic bed of roses but only a choice of thorns: if necessary, he said, he would speed up federal spending and stimulate still more inflation, rather than let a tight-fisted anti-inflation policy destroy too many jobs.

In his annual State of the Union message on Wednesday night, Nixon said inflation and the energy crisis were combining to worsen the nation's economic outlook and he warned the day of bargain-priced energy was over.

Broadcasting nationwide a shortened version of his message, Nixon publicly scorned

"the perennial prophets of gloom, telling us now that ... America may be headed for a recession."

"Well, let me speak to that issue head-on," he said. "There will be no recession in the United States of America."

"Primarily due to our energy crisis, our economy is passing through a difficult period, but I pledge to you tonight that the full powers of this government will be used to keep America's economy producing and to protect the jobs of America's workers."

He elaborated in the complete printed text of the message, which said "a slowdown in economic growth is inevitable in 1974."

"During the early part of this year output will rise, little, if at all, unemployment will rise somewhat and inflation will be high," the message said.
