Members approved the following contracts: paint to the Bonnett Drug Company, Kentucky Hardware Co., and A. ANNOUNCEMENT

In making my announcement as a candidate for the Fulton city council, I have no special claims to make, other than that I am, like many other civic-minded citizens, deeply interested in the economic and civic welfare of our community. I fully realize that any city official owes an obligation to his community, to see that the duties of his office are properly administered, and that every effort be made to regulate and carry out these duties with full consciousness of the responsibility given an official by the people who elect them.

I am glad that I have had an opportunity to take part in community work here in my home town for the past several years. Those who know me best, know that I have always been eager to see our community improve and get ahead. I have aided in various programs promoting the progress of our city, as every good citizen in it does from time to time. Individual efforts for good streets, good schools, good social and moral surroundings, as well as ever-increasing business and industrial activity, providing more payrolls and improving general economic conditions, are all of vital importance to our community.

Changes are occurring throughout our nation. There are certain to be many more readjustments in the next few years in order to maintain economic equilibrium and preserve the American way of life. Every community in our great nation will be faced with problem after problem. The mayor and city council of every city and community will have to devote, in true civic spirit, much of their time and effort, to keep their community abreast of the time, and protect the best interests of their people. Whoever is elected to serve Fulton will have tasks to perform that will tax their ingenuity and best efforts.

Realizing these sacred responsibilities, I have after considerable encouragement from my friends and business associates, decided to announce for the city council.

This time there are two candidates for mayor, and eleven men have come out for membership on the council. It will be your job, as voters of this fine community, to go to the polls Saturday, August 2, and help preserve the good old American spirit of Democracy by voting for mayor, and six of these eleven men to serve on the city council. You owe it to yourself and your community to exercise your own best judgment and vote as you deem it proper and best. There's not a man offering himself as a city official, who does not do so because of his deep and sincere civic consciousness, and there's not one who would feel the least bit disappointed if he is not elected. They probably all feel, like myself, that they are willing and ready to shoulder the responsibilities of office, if you as voters feel that we should do so. But, being a small community, where most of us know the majority of the citizenry, we all realize that the job will be done, and done well, as long as the people are allowed the privilege of choosing their duly elected representatives as we in America like to do things.

For those who might wish to know, for the past nine years I have published and edited The Fulton County News. I am a graduate of Fulton High School, attended business college and studied journalism and law for two years. I reside on College-st in West Fulton. I am a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Young Men's Business Club, Elks Club and the First Baptist church. And in closing, I submit my candidacy to the approval of the voters in the Democratic Primary, Saturday, August 2nd.

Respectfully,

J. PAUL BUSHART

Storm Hits Cotton Gin At Cayce

A new cotton gin, construction of which was nearing completion at Cayce, was struck by the wind-storm which prevailed in this vicinity on Thursday afternoon of last week. Tom Neal Simpson, owner of the gin, states that reconstruction on the building will start immediately. The damage was estimated at about $1,000, which was partially covered by insurance. The new office and cotton storehouse buildings just completed there by Mr. Simpson were not damaged by the wind.

Workmen had just completed putting on the roof of the gin house and had installed corrugated sheet metal on one side of the structure, when the wind hit, swooping under the roof and lifting it off as it would a kite. Four or five men who were working in the building escaped to safety. The new gin occupies a site near the G. M. & O. depot at Cayce.

FULTON CIRCUIT

E. B. Rucker, Pastor

The Third Quarterly Conference of Fulton Circuit will meet at Dukedom Friday, August 1. The District Superintendent is away and will not notify the officials as he has heretofore.

This notice will give time for the members and officials to make plans for the conference. The Sunday School reports will include the months of April, May and June. The official board is always anxious and happy to make good reports. They have much difficulty sometimes with careless members who do not attend church regularly, and who do not contribute to the church as Children of the Lord and Masters.

There are some who for reasons they cannot help do not attend church regularly but make their offerings. The finances for the charge are away behind. Read your church bulletin and see how your church stands to date; then do your part to make reports as becometh the church of God.

Note the revival begins at Dukedom Sunday morning. Rev. H. K. Burkett will be the Evangelist. Make your plans to attend every service if possible. In the afternoon there will be regular preaching services at Pleasant Hill. Let's fill the house.

A caravan of efficient church workers will conduct several days of training for Christian workers at the First Methodist church in Fulton beginning Saturday. It is an opportunity for our charge. If you are trying to lead in any capacity in your church, or have any desire to ever do so come into town and let these workers teach you the better way. It would be very pleasing to your pastor to hear numbers from each church were attending and doing class work. Your pastor will be in the revival at Dukedom and cannot attend, sorry.

Four carloads of one year old Western ewes from the Ringling Ranch of Montana, which is owned by Clifford Ringling, nephew of John Ringling of nation-wide circus fame, were unloaded and distributed in Western Kentucky this week, according to Paul R. Farlow, agricultural agent of the Illinois Central System. Of this number, 375 sheep came to Fulton County to build up the sheep industry in this section. The project is financed by the Fulton County Farm Bureau under the auspices of S. V. Foy, county agent.

Mr. Farlow went to Montana four weeks ago when he obtained an option on six carloads of the fine western ewes, which will be crossed with purebred Southdown rams of Kentucky. This cross produces a very fine sheep for both mutton and wool purposes. Mr. Farlow, and J. K. Melton, Illinois Central photographer, were in Fulton early this week when the sheep were unloaded here. Both moving pictures and stills were made of the herd of sheep.

It is expected that this project will improve sheep production in Fulton county will add another important link to the expanding farm program in this section. Both mutton and wool are bringing good prices, and shepherds of this county will form an association to encourage production and stimulate marketing conditions.

Mr. Niles, who had been president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau for six years, appeared on farm programs in Fulton county on numerous occasions and was well known here. His death came unexpectedly following two weeks illness in a St. Louis hospital.

that Congressmen are always hesitant to vote high wages and high agricultural and raw material prices. But unless they do control these costs factors, we cannot hope to control the price of finished goods.

Price control is now a political problem as well as an economic one. For this reason, I would not be surprised to see, at least, mild inflation.

A ROGUE'S NAME LIVES

Hundreds of thousands of stately derricks dot the many oil fields of the world, and many other thousands of smaller hoisting devices also bear the name of "derrick." How this name came to be applied to various forms of lifting apparatus is interesting, for it confers a sort of immortality upon a rascal who became a famous hangman.

When Robert, Earl of Essex, a favorite of Queen Elizabeth of England, aided in the capture of Cadiz, Spain, in 1596, some sailors under his command engaged in the pillage of the city, even making attacks upon Spanish women.

Twenty-four of the culprits were condemned to death, but no one wanted to be the executioner. Essex thereupon pardoned one of them, a sailor named Derrick, in consideration of his hanging the other 23, which he proceeded to do.

Derrick evidently did a good job of it, for upon his return to England he was made hangman at the famed Tyburn prison in London. In the meantime Essex had incurred the disfavor of the queen, and had made a feeble attempt to incite a revolution against her. He was tried and condemned to death.

On February 21, 1601, Hangman Derrick had the painful duty of beheading the man who had pardoned him in Cadiz five years before, and he wielded the axe as skillfully as he had hitherto manipulated the noose.

But his name became a synonym for a hangman, and by extension to a gallows or other hoisting devices. Thus the useful derrick came to be so called.

Park Director F. H. Marvin reported to police that a thief had stolen the roof from a park bath house in Schenectady, N. Y.

The Fourth of July week end is history. Headlines in the paper read "Dead on Arrival."

A radio announcement Sunday night stated that 525 people were killed and that the figure would be much higher when the final tabulation were made.

What an insult to our intelligence, to our driving, and to our sense of justice!

I could write volumes here on the behavior of some of our people on the roads during this last week end. I fumed so long and furiously at some of their driving that a double barreled, sawed-off shotgun would have been a very appropriate weapon for me to use on the dumbbells who claim to be good drivers.

Some of them were "dead on arrival."

Money Talks

By
Frederick Stamm, Economist
Director of Adult Education
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

Talk of inflation is again heard in many financial quarters. "You can't keep prices down" seems to be the sentiment everywhere. This inflation sentiment is based on many factors.

First, we are in a war economy and we are using more of everything than we normally do. The demand for commodities is greater than the supply and this always boosts prices.

Second, governmental control of prices has not worked as smoothly as had been hoped for. The governmental price control agency has attempted to curb the price of finished goods but has paid little attention to wage levels. In fact, the government has encouraged wage increases in many industries and has also permitted higher raw material prices. As we all know, these are the important manufacturing costs, and whenever manufacturing costs go up considerably, the prices of finished goods must go up. If we really want to keep the price of consumer goods down, we must control the costs, that is, raw material prices and wages.

The government has also encouraged higher prices for agricultural commodities, and, as a result, we are seeing higher food prices. For example, flour prices are advancing because of the advancing wheat prices.

In the third place, inflation thinking is based on reports that price fixing legislation will meet considerable opposition in Congress. This opposition will come from Congressmen whose districts are booming because prices are going up. And we must remember

CHESTNUT GLADE

On Sunday there were two big birthday celebrations. Mrs. Charlie Bowen celebrated her birthday by inviting her many friends and serving a delicious dinner at the noon hour. Likewise friends gathered at the home of Mr. Buck Mason and helped him make another milestone a memorable one.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Brann spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brann. They returned to Memphis Sunday afternoon.

Several 4-H boys and girls from Chestnut Glade club attended the West Tennessee 4-H Club camp at the University of Tennessee Junior College at Martin this past week and every one reports much work completed and a lot of play and fun included.

Mrs. Milburn Connor was operated on at the Fulton Hospital last week, and is recuperating fine.

Mr. Joe Frank, Jr., left Friday night for Chicago in search of employment.

Farmers of this section are rejoining over the crop saving rain that came recently.

Miss Marjory Nell Williams has gone to Chicago where she will join her brother, Hassell.

Mr. Omar Pounds has purchased a new electric motor for his well. This is a great improvement over the former gasoline engine that he has been using, and he is very pleased with his new purchase.

Harrell Brundige is now employed at Milan. He is working with his father, who is a blue print reader on a contracting job.

Rev. Milton Brann filled his appointment at Memphis this Saturday and Sunday. He is keeping up his treatment for cancer on his tongue and thinks he is improving.

A draft registrant in Tampa, Fla., has faithfully notified his local board each of the four times he has moved since March, but has failed to tell his location.

Playing cards were designed by a crazy artist in 1392, and they have been driving people crazy ever since.

GAME PROSPECTS

BETTER THIS YEAR

Prospects for an abundance of wild game for Kentucky sportsmen during the coming hunting season now appear bright, according to reports which are being received by officials of the Division of Game and Fish from interested conservationists in every section of the state.

It has been reported time after time that the squirrel population has increased by leaps and bounds and that they are now so numerous that the farmers are complaining of damage which they are doing to the crops adjacent to wooded areas. Many young squirrels have been seen crossing highways and hopping along the roadsides which was not noted so much last year, although the nimble rodents enjoyed an unusually good season of hunting the little bushy-tailed animals during August 15-October 31, 1940.

With rains falling when most needed, reports have been received by the Division of Game and Fish which would indicate that those

Bob White Quail released by the Division and the sportsmen during April, this year have mated and are now escorting coveys of young birds proudly over the farmlands. Large numbers of the Bob Whites escaped the hazards of the 1940-41 winter and are also rearing broods of young birds. If mother nature will be kind for the next four months and favor man and wildlife with the proper seasons and if man will observe the game laws and protect the old and young quail, there is no reason why Kentucky number should not enjoy an exceptionally good hunting season this fall.

NOW A 5-DAY WEEK FOR A&P EMPLOYEES THROUGHOUT THE NATION

Stores Will Be Open Six Days A Week As Usual But No Employee Will Work More Than Five Days

Two months ago this company tried the experiment in a few eastern states of a five-day work week for our retail store employees. Now we are able to announce that we have adopted the five-day week as our national policy.

• This, we believe, constitutes the first five-day week and the shortest general working hours of any major retail food establishment.

• This shorter work week will be in effect before Labor Day in A&P food stores in thousands of communities throughout the country. It will be extended as far and as fast as possible. Frankly, however, we must recognize that in a few states and a number of cities the introduction of this policy may be delayed or even prevented by state or local labor regulations or local agreements.

• A&P food store employees affected by this policy will work only five days a week although stores will be open six days a week as usual. Their weekly salaries will not be reduced by their shorter work week. Our policy is to continually improve working conditions and salaries as evidenced by the fact that during the past year alone we have been able to make actual wage increases and to pay added compensation to our employees in an amount totaling more than $4,000,000.

• Many people are utterly astounded at the new low prices for quality foods in A&P Super Markets. They are getting so much more and better food for the same money that they wonder how we can do it. Frankly, it is simply because A&P Super Markets represent a new, more efficient, more economical way of distributing food to the public.

• This new, shorter week is still further evidence that the tremendous savings you can now make in buying groceries, meats and fresh fruits and vegetables in the great, new A&P Super Markets are made possible by savings through efficiency and that no part of these savings comes out of the wages of our employees.

FOR many years it has been a source of pride to us that we have been able generally to maintain the highest average wage scale and the shortest general working hours in a field where long hours have been traditional. Since we first cut the work week eight hours in 1916, there has been a long record of further reduction in hours, increases in wages and vacation schedules.

Because our new low prices have resulted in increased patronage, we have been able to further reduce our operating expenses and increase our efficiency and still further improve the working conditions of our employees.

At the same time thousands of families will testify that they buy their foods today at lower average prices in A&P Super Markets than in any group of stores in the highly competitive retail food field. Today, when you spend a dollar in one of our stores, more of that dollar actually purchases food and less of it goes to cover distribution costs and profits than ever before in the history of the food business.

There is no conflict between low prices and good working conditions. We have achieved both by constantly improving methods of bringing food from producer to consumer, cutting out waste and unnecessary handling operations along the distribution route.

The new A&P Super Markets have made possible savings so astounding that we would not have believed them possible five years ago. This year we are paying the highest wages for the shortest work week in the history of the food business and yet our customers throughout the country will save more than $50,000,000 on the food they buy as compared to the lowest prices we could charge on the basis of our own operating expense only five years ago.

We are more than ever conscious, in these unusual times, of an obligation to make every possible contribution to the American standard of living. We know that we are making it possible for the average family to buy more good food for the same money, or to buy the same quantity of food for less money.

We are happy to tell you that you can enjoy these savings with the knowledge that the people who serve you in our retail stores are sharing more than ever before in these good things. This means a better standard of living for you and for those who serve you.

This plan will necessitate slight adjustments in store hours which will be announced locally. We respectfully ask our customers for their cooperation and assistance in making this new schedule a success.

True Knowledge

WHAT is knowledge? Perhaps many people would answer that it is the amassing of material theories and beliefs around which material experience revolves. In one sense, "knowledge" is defined as "clear perception of fact or truth; familiar cognizance." Certainly, through continual research and investigation, many useful changes have come about for the betterment of humanity. But mere material knowledge omits the primal fact that God is the source of all true knowledge or understanding.

How fleeting and unreliable is mere material knowledge! The book of Proverbs admonishes men to search for the knowledge or understanding of God. As distinguished from the search for material riches or fame, it is made clear that they should, with great eagerness, apply themselves to the gaining of spiritual understanding. In the second chapter is the promise (Proverbs 2:3-5), "If thou criest after knowledge, and liftest up thy voice for understanding; if thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for hid treasures; then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God."

No riches are durable, no harmony assured, no health perpetual but that which is spiritual. Therefore should we strive to know God as the only cause and creator of man and the universe, the one Mind whence proceeds boundless good.

After his accession to the throne of Israel, Solomon was given the opportunity of expressing his greatest desire. God said to him (I Chronicles 1:7), "Ask what I shall give thee." Without hesitation came the answer (I:10), "Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people, that is so great?" Because his greatest desire was to express wisdom, intelligence, and justice in the fulfilling of his responsibilities, he was given not only these, but riches and wealth and honor as well. The reward of his sincerity was overflowing abundance.

Speaking of humanity's need to awaken from its material theories and weary toil to the understanding of God, Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes on page 34 of her Message to The Mother Church for 1901, "Godliness or Christianity is a human necessity; man cannot live without it; he has no intelligence, health, hope, nor happiness without godliness."

How urgently today the world needs to apply, in the solving of every problem, the wisdom, intelligence, loving-kindness, and justice that are from God! With what ceaseless joy and gratitude we may continue the search for the treasures of Truth, hidden only to material, limited, fearful thinking! . . . And as we begin to unlock these treasures which reveal man's spiritual nature as the child of God, we begin also to glimpse the reign of harmony as the only reality, here and now.

There is no insecurity, no possible failure, no chance or luck to mar our joy-filled search for knowledge of God. The more ardent we become, the more we feel the confidence and courage derived from giving sole allegiance to God, whose presence is ever with us, and whose power is the only power. . . . —The Christian Science Monitor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"The Lord will command his loving kindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, July 20, 1941, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Life." Including among the Scriptural selections will be: "For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light." (Psalms 36:9.)

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be included: "When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness." (p. 264.)

Continuous Activity

THE majority of mankind have been accustomed to considering employment as a material activity in which they engage for the purpose of making a living. When this activity is taken away from them for any reason, and the income which they have been receiving and which is considered necessary for maintaining a comfortable home, ceases, then doubt and fear creep in, together with the suggestion that they may be permanently cut off from any activity which will afford a living. This condition of thought is the result of holding the concept of man as material, finite, and limited in activity.

In the first chapter of Genesis it is clearly stated that man was made in the image and likeness of God. Christ Jesus said, "God is a Spirit" (John 4:24); and in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 465), Mary Baker Eddy has given Spirit as one of the synonyms for God. Therefore man, his image and likeness, or reflection, must be spiritual. . . . Spiritual man, therefore, is continuously expressing the uninterrupted activity of Life, God, Mind, and constantly manifesting intelligence and wisdom. Jesus had a clear realization of man's relationship to God when he said (John 5:17), "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work."

"Well," one may say, "granted that there is spiritual activity, what bearing has that on my problem? I need some concrete material employment that will bring in the income necessary to meet my human needs." True, we all do, but this can be demonstrated and made manifest in our experience by right, active, spiritual thinking about God and man's relation to God; in other words, by seeking "first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness" (Matthew 6:33), which Jesus said would be followed by the addition of "all these things" that are needful.

In "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 307) Mrs. Eddy says, "God gives you his spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies." It is our receptivity to these ideas which enables us to express right activity. If we go forth in search of work, understanding that we possess those spiritual qualities which are so much needed in the business world today, and holding uppermost in our thought the desire to give of what we have rather than the wish to get, this spiritual thinking will direct us to those who are in need of what we can give. The Bible promise (Luke 6:38), "Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom," is always fulfilled.

Sometimes we may be asked to perform services which we have previously thought were beneath us, but if we perform our present tasks humbly, gratefully, and efficiently, we shall soon find suitable and congenial occupation.

We can all be more active in our expression of thanks for all blessings by being more watchful and alert to seize an opportunity to help others, by doing some little act of kindness, and giving a word of encouragement to some one struggling under a heavier load than we are bearing. The thought that inactivity is a result of advancing years is one that must be destroyed. Mortal mind may argue that we are beyond the age when we can be of use in business, or, at best, that our opportunities to engage in lucrative employment are limited. Does God manifest failing faculties or other infirmities? No; that is unthinkable. Then man, his image and likeness, cannot be hampered by beliefs of age. . . . Sometimes we may be tempted to think that we have been wrongfully forced out of our place, to make way for some one else, and resentment and self-pity may try to control us. In the only real universe, the spiritual realm, there is no taking from one to give to another. Each of us has his work to do here and now, and that work is the daily endeavor to demonstrate man's oneness with God and to manifest the abundance of good which God has bestowed upon all of His sons.

INDEPENDENCE DAY RALLIES HELD BY "FIGHT FOR FREEDOM"

On the Fourth of July, last Friday, Independence Day in the 156th year of the freedom of the United States, Americans courageously faced the fact that, like Britain, this nation is now engaged in a war to death with Hitler.

This was the theme of Fourth of July speeches by hundreds of leaders of the Fight for Freedom crusade. From coast to coast, these FFF leaders in hamlets, towns, villages and cities brought before their audiences the blunt truth that the only way to keep the Nazis off the American doorstep is to intervene now.

In addition to pointing out the lesson for the United States, particularly for American isolationists, in the Nazi attack on Russia, Fight for Freedom speakers on Friday urged their audiences to "examine realistically the meaning of the Declaration of Independence, and the responsibilities and obligations that rest upon every American for the preservation of its principles."

Gilliam Harrison left Wednesday, July 9, for training camp.

FAILINGS OF THE GREAT

It has become quite common of late for authors and critics to dig into the private lives of great men, with a view to exposing their human frailties. There can be no particular objection to this, so long as it is not attempted to belittle the service these men have rendered to mankind.

Every man and woman has certain defects of character, and this has always been so. It is a further fact that some of those who have contributed most to civilization have been guilty of moral offenses which would be sternly condemned today.

As a matter of history, many of the world's greatest leaders have led reprehensible private lives, as measured by commonly accepted standards. It even may be asserted that in the case of the very highest types of genius this has been the rule rather than the exception.

But in estimating the permanent place which should be accorded these men in the esteem of the world, only the service which they rendered to humanity should be considered. A recent writer well expresses this idea, thus:

"Every leader must be tested not by his private conduct, but by his public behavior. Did he serve well his day and generation? If he did, all else will be forgiven and forgotten."

RAILROAD TRAINMEN ENDORSE WATERFIELD

BROTHERHOOD OF RAILROAD TRAINMEN

Phoenix Lodge No. 216.

Mr. Harry L. Waterfield
Clinton, Ky.

Dear Sir:—

At regular meeting of Phoenix Lodge 216, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, July 5th, 1941, you were unanimously endorsed by the Kentucky members present to succeed yourself as Representative in the State Legislature.

Your record has been more than satisfactory from the viewpoints of both Labor and Capital.

I personally wish to thank you for your effort in behalf of Bills No. 216 and No. 217 (The full crew and train limit bills) which you introduced and sponsored in the house last year.

With very best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Seal

How

gives you twice as much for your money

TWICE AS MUCH ENTERTAINMENT . . .

You and your family can now enjoy your radio to your heart's content . . . Today it costs you only half as much for electricity as it did in the days 'way back when radio was a static-screaming wonder.

TWICE AS MUCH HELP . . .

Today there are electric appliances that make short work of the hardest household jobs. And this story has a happy ending; with electric rates cut about 50% you can take advantage of these helpers at half what it would have cost you 10 or 15 years ago.

TWICE AS MUCH LIGHT . . .

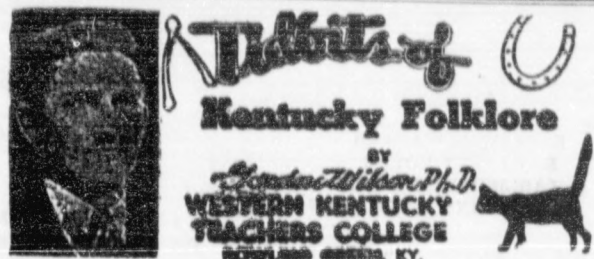

You can enjoy twice as much light today as you did 10 or 15 years ago for the same money. Your bill probably has not come down because you are no doubt using many more electric appliances than you used to.

TWICE THE CONVENIENCE . . .

Twice? Much more than twice! You'll agree there is no convenience that gives you so much for so little as electricity. Much of the credit for this goes to the employees of your electric company . . . the people whose constant aim is to give you better service at lower cost.

"NOW"

Among all the bywords that I have heard none seems more universal in extent than "Now." I have questioned people from all parts of the nation and have found that all children have used it and in exactly the same way, I suppose that it started by being used to mean literally what it says, as in "You let me alone now." But it soon lost this and acquired a slightly bellicose tone, as if it might have been a substitute for a word prohibited by parents or school teachers. Sometimes it did not have any sentence to intensify but appeared alone; when that happened, the poor little fellow who was using it had got so angry that he had run out of anything to say and was merely exploding.

Here is a typical use of the word. Two children are playing with a ball or other toy. One gets it and keeps it, though he is not the owner. The other one asks for it calmly for a while and then resorts to "Let me have my ball, now." If this does not bring it, there often follows a loud and angry appeal to Mammy to "make Jim give me my ball, now." If

Notice To The People Of Fulton County

I want to advise my friends and voters of Fulton county that I have been unable to get out and make a very active campaign this year, due to the fact that duties of my office have kept me closer than usual. Election year and proper handling of birth certificates for those seeking government employment in connection with the national defense program have added extra work in the office, in addition to the regular routine matters.

I have from time to time endeavored to see as many of you as possible, but I know that there are many whom I have been unable to contact, and shall be unable to see before election day. So I take this means of explaining to you the necessity of sticking close to my duties of office, and my inability to see everybody. However, I want to assure you that I am anxious that you give me consideration in the coming election, and promise that I shall always endeavor to render the best service I know how at any and all times. I feel that I owe you this obligation as a servant in the office which I now hold as County Court Clerk.

I am thankful for all past favors, and shall strive at all times to serve you to the best of my ability, in a courteous, efficient manner.

Sincerely,

Clardie N. Holland,

County Court Clerk of Fulton County

Mammy is too far away or too busy ironing or washing or cooking, fists come in handy. Diplomacy yields to warfare, just as if the youngsters were two great and mighty nations acting like small boys.

"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare. Too much is made of mere words that are supposed to be naughty. Since many such words were under the ban, we had to let our feelings out in some way. I have heard "Now" said in a tone that would make mere profanity sound reverent. There was no punishment ever offered for this strong word so far as I can recall; hence we could put into it every conceivable shade or tint of meaning. Only the initiated could know just how profane we were when we said the word.

The same thing could be said for many another harmless byword. Swearing as such was sternly forbidden by parents and by custom. Some people used bywords very much as we use salt and pepper, for seasoning and not to attract attention. But on occasions a thing that was merely "daggonned" could be so bad that the smaller boys and the women might very well blush with shame for ourselves and for the naughty man who said it. One of our teachers regularly called a boy "honey" when he was on the verge of administering a thrashing. We soon learned when that word was used to expect a scene, one in which the teacher would acquire more power and more respect. Some "honeys" were not very bad, but others were about as bad as blankety-blanks could be in ordinary society.

It is strange, after all, that mere words are expected to express what we mean. No amount of writing can explain the flavor of the simplest words uttered with passion. If we can ever perfect a simple and inexpensive way of recording all kinds of speech, I want to put down for future reference some of the "News" that I still hear wherever I go.

CLEVELAND'S FOUNDER

Because an editor's type did not fit the intended heading of his newspaper, the spelling of the name of Cleveland, Ohio, was permanently changed, according to a recent writer. The town was originally Cleveland, named after Moses Cleveland, its founder, who was born in 1754 and died in 1806.

When the Advertiser was established in 1830, the editor found the line of type he desired to use as a heading was too long for the page, so he omitted the silent "a" from Cleveland's name. The new spelling was soon adopted generally, and has been used ever since.

Moses Cleveland was graduated from Yale in 1777 and served in the Continental Army, later practicing law in his native town of Canterbury, Conn. In 1796 he led a surveying expedition for a land company in which he was a shareholder, and also negotiated with the Indians, along the great Lakes in the Western Reserve country.

On July 22, 1796, he selected the present location of the city as a site for a permanent settlement, and his party named it in his honor. Cleveland is now the sixth city of the United States in size, with a population of about 900,000.

FOOD CHAIN ADOPTS 5-DAY WEEK POLICY FOR ALL DIVISIONS

A&P Shorter Work Hour Plan, Tried Out In East, Will Be Extended Throughout Organization As Soon As Possible

John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, today announced the adoption of the five-day work week for retail store employees as the company's national policy.

The five-day, 48-hour week, first in the history of the retail food business, was introduced on an experimental basis in A&P stores in a few eastern states two months ago, Hartford said, and will now be extended throughout the entire A&P organization "as far and as fast" as possible.

"Frankly, however, we must recognize," Hartford said, "that in a few states and some cities the introduction of this shorter work week may be delayed or even prevented by state and local labor regulations and local agreements."

In Detroit, John Toolin, president of the Central Western Division, said that the shorter week will be in effect before Labor Day in A&P food stores in hundreds of communities throughout this area. He pointed out that the pay of employees affected by this policy will remain the same as for the six day week and although employees will work only five days a week, stores will continue to serve customers six days as usual.

"The new schedule is the latest step in the company's traditional policy of creating and maintaining for its employees the highest wages, shortest general hours and best working conditions in the industry," Toolin said. "During the past 25 years A&P has repeatedly broken with the traditional dawn-to-dusk working schedule of the food business, and since 1916 we have been able to reduce our store employees' work week by 34.2 per cent, or a total of 25 hours."

"These improved working conditions have never been achieved at the cost of increased prices to our customers or lower returns to our suppliers. They are the employees' share of the general reduction in operating expenses resulting from the consistently increasing efficiency of our method of distribution."

"The A&P's annual report to stockholders, issued last month, reveals that there is no conflict between low prices and good working conditions. It shows that our customers are currently enjoying the lowest retail prices in relation to our costs in the history of the grocery industry; that during 1940 our growers and shippers received 13 per cent more of the consumer's food dollar than they did in 1937; and that we were still able last year to give our employees actual wage increases and added compensation totaling more than $4,000,000."

Mr. Toolin pointed out that the new A&P schedule is in sharp contrast with the latest figures for working hours in the food industry.

contained in a survey made a year ago by a group of Washington, D. C., labor unions which revealed that the average working hours for retail employees in individual grocery stores in that city were 63 1/4 hours and for food chain store employees 54 hours.

Scales of Justice—and Wages

There is bound to be a good deal of discussion of the demands for increased pay that have been made upon the railroads. Here are some facts and comments:

The railroad labor unions have demanded wage increases averaging about 41 per cent. In the case of the Illinois Central, these wage increases would mean added costs of approximately $23,500,000 a year.

Such demands are naturally of interest to everybody—to those who use the railroad and foot the bill, to those who work for it, to those who have put their money in it.

These wage increase demands are so tremendous they bear no relation to profits, either that have been earned or that can be expected. There never have been and are never likely to be such profits in the business.

The Illinois Central has fortunately been able to keep up all payments on its interest-bearing obligations. However, the stockholders have not received anything for the last ten years—since 1931.

If increased pay should make it necessary to increase freight and passenger rates, that would certainly lead to further increases in prices, which is something we all want to avoid.

It should be unnecessary to say that labor is worthy of its hire. However, the pay of those whose labor runs the railroads must be within reason.
