THE LISTENING POST

● I have about reached a solid conclusion that the greatest invention of all times is a very simple thing. This conclusion comes as a sort of surprise to me, for in previous years I have entertained a prejudice against this simple thing. I am talking about gloves—which is an odd subject for gloves when the mercury is trying to climb out of the top of the tube. But I am talking about gloves, just the same.

● I have never cared greatly for gloves. As a child I wore mittens now and then, but in those rough and ready days the wearing of gloves was looked on as an affectation, and wearers were suspected of being sissies. I have thrown several pairs of mittens away when the boys began to call me a sissy, and at other times I have conveniently allowed them to be misplaced. That may explain my lack of enthusiasm for gloves, for I have had this feeling all the days of my life. Even after reaching maturity, when other boys and men were wearing gloves as part of a well-dressed ensemble, I have refused to wear them. I have had a few pairs give me at different times, but I steadfastly refused to wear them with any degree of regularity. Now and then in bitter cold weather I might wear some sort of gloves, but I never enjoyed the experience.

● In driving a car I could never wear gloves. It seemed to me that the car was not under proper control. I could not, apparently, feel the steady pressure of the steering wheel when my hands were encased in gloves and always had the feeling that I did not have proper control of the steering gear. Even in the old days of open cars I have driven many cold days when my hands grew quite numb, but never wore gloves.

● Now, when the thermometer is hitting high marks, I begin to appreciate gloves—which proves that a man never gets too old to learn new things. During the past few weeks I have been doing a lot of odd jobs which I have not done for many years, and some which I never did. Some of these chores involve handling heated metal and iron; others involve a good deal of grit, grime and oil and working with machinery. I started out without thinking of this problem and soon saw that handling those hot things required some sort of hand covering. So I bought a pair of these large cotton gloves, with a blue edge around the wrist, and pulled them on. I found at once that I could handle red-hot metal without trouble, as long as I did not hold the said metal too long. I have become quite adept in timing such things. I can pick up a red-hot piece of metal, shift it to its needed place rapidly and never feel the heat through those gloves. I can pick up a piece of steel which is also extremely hot and place it in position, if I do this swiftly, without suffering any burns whatever.

● Then I began to experiment. I soon found that when lifting heavy weights the cotton gloves gave me a better grip on the object to be lifted, and also found that in

Experts Say Japanese Still Have Tremendous Sea Power— Suffer Defeat But Not Disaster

Aircraft Carriers Have Suffered Particularly Heavy Losses In War

STUDY TURNS TO SALES TAX

House Committee Ends Row With Morgenthau

Washington. —The House Ways and Means Committee, having settled to its satisfaction a behind-the-scenes row with Secretary Morgenthau, plodded along today with scores of technical changes in the tax laws which would have little effect on the Administration's revised $8,700,000,000 tax goal.

The members already have made revisions in such procedures as corporation deductions for pension and retirement plans and were expected by Monday to return to the question of increasing excise taxes or adopting a sales tax to help swell the total.

Amid reports that Morgenthau was criticizing them when he said two days ago that he hoped the new tax bill would not be "too little or too late," ranking Republicans and Democrats summoned Morgenthau to the Capitol late yesterday for an explanation.

After a ninety-minute closed meeting, Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.), of the committee issued a statement which said it had been agreed that Morgenthau's remarks, made on the radio, "did not reflect and were in no way intended to reflect" on the committee or its procedure.

The committee thus far has failed by about $2,000,000,000 to achieve the Administration's tax goal.

Japan has suffered a terrific defeat in the battle for mastery of the mid-Pacific, Washington naval experts agreed yesterday, and her striking power has been badly blunted, but she still has left great strength with which to attempt a comeback.

Losses suffered by the enemy, on the basis of reports to date, were said authoritatively to indicate that while the victory of American air and naval forces was undoubtedly complete, the upset suffered by the Japs was somewhat short of disastrous.

This conclusion was based on the fact that statistics show that even in the greatest sea-air battle of the war—a battle which in some of its effects may be compared with Jutland in the World War—probably half of the enemy's fleet strength was not involved and must be carefully considered in all future Allied operations.

Prior to the start of the war the Japanese were reported to have ten battleships, eight aircraft carriers and forty-six cruisers. Experts now regard those figures as considerably short of the enemy's real pre-war strength.

It is considered possible that one or two battleships may have been completed since those estimates were made. Numerous aircraft carriers converted from merchant ships undoubtedly have been added to the fleet, and under the absolute secrecy prevailing in Japan, cruiser strength probably was much greater than ever was reported here.

Some Damaged Ships Repaired. Including the most recent action, the United Nations have reported sinking one Japanese battleship and damaging five; sinking four or five aircraft carriers and damaging six or seven; and sinking nineteen cruisers and damaging forty-five. The probability is that some of the vessels reported damaged early in the war have been repaired and restored to service.

What the enemy's strength and loss figures mean when taken together is that he still has enough sea force either to attempt new offensive actions or to put up a strong resistance against any offensive undertaking by American and Allied forces.

This, in the opinion of Washington experts, boils down to saying that while the mid-Pacific triumph has advanced the United Nations far along the road to final victory it has by no means clinched that victory. Only successful offensive action by the United Nations, using the swelling flood of weapons now pouring out of the arsenals of America, can do that.

Says Japs Lose Offensive. London critics saluted the victory as industrial evidence that

Army Trains Officers To Run Civil Government In Europe

Philadelphia. —The United States Army is training a corps of officers "to restore and operate civil governments in the countries of Europe as they are reconquered," Clarence E. Pickett, executive secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, said today.

Sixty officers are studying such administration at a Southern university, Pickett told the graduating class of Friends' Central School.

Assumes Utter Destruction. "They represent the expectation," he said, "that the destruction of the whole civil governments of these countries will be so complete, it will be necessary for the American Army to carry along with it a staff trained to operate them.

"It is interesting to observe that in doing this we are following the pattern so efficiently laid down by the Germans. It was only a few hours after Paris was conquered when a new mayor trained in Berlin but speaking perfect French, was installed."

Pickett said, however, that while the Nazis trained their men in "despotic government of cruelty, murder and repression," the United States was training its forces for the installation of democratic governments based on personal freedom.

Problem Elephant Remains Calm After Being Moved To A Farm

Kansas City. —Temple, the Swope Park zoo's irascible elephant, isn't the city's problem child anymore—she's a farmer's pet.

Temple moved in with the cows, horses, mules and chickens down on J. H. Whaley's farm.

The old timers said her little mind, and as for Temple, she was right at home—Ralph Martin, her keeper at the zoo until several months ago, made the trip with her and she followed him over the place like a devoted dog following its master.

Under terms of the sale Whaley paid $200 for Temple and agreed to retain Martin as her keeper until she becomes accustomed to her new surroundings.

Condemned to death because of her increasing violent outbursts of temper, in one of which she broke another elephant's tusks, Temple was relieved because William Culley, zoo director, couldn't find anyone who could shoot an elephant gun with any assurance of hitting the mark and not breaking his own shoulder.

RETALIATION IS PROMISED JAPS FOR USE OF GAS

Roosevelt Says Fumes Being Used
Against Chinese

Washington. —President Roosevelt accused Japan today of using poisonous gas against the Chinese, and said that if she persisted America would retaliate at once with gas attacks upon the Japanese.

"We shall be prepared to enforce complete retribution," the chief executive said. "Upon Japan will rest the responsibility."

Bringing the subject up himself at a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said this government had received authoritative reports that the Japanese were using gas in China. Then, he read a statement carefully prepared for him at the State Department to make the position of this government unequivocally clear.

"Authoritative reports are reaching this government that the use of Japanese armed forces in various localities of China of poisonous or noxious gases," the statement said.

MORE FATALITIES OCCUR IN ACCIDENTS BETWEEN 5 AND 6 P. M.

(H. K. Buck, local trainmaster, has released the following information regarding grade crossing accidents.)

A study dealing with rail-highway grade crossings accidents in 1941 was made public this week by the Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the study it was pointed out that while the number of fatalities in such accidents were 6.80 per cent greater in 1941 than in 1940, and non-fatal injuries increased 5.45 per cent, train miles increased 10.8 per cent. Of the total number of grade crossing accidents involving motor vehicles in 1941, 65 per cent occurred in the day time.

In the number of accidents, the hour 11 p. m. to midnight proved to be the time of greatest frequency, but fatalities were greater between 5 and 6 p. m. Saturday was the day of greatest accident frequency. November, December and January were the months of highest accident frequency.

The study showed that 56 per cent of the crossing accidents involving motor vehicles and freight trains occurred while the train was standing or moving at a speed under 20 miles per hour. Weather conditions were described as "clear" in 68 per cent of the accidents. The greatest number of train-motor vehicle accidents in 1941 occurred in Ohio.

Do not forget that our country needs you. Trucks and automobiles cannot be replaced. Will you not drive carefully. Cross crossings cautiously. Stop, Look, and Live!

Parley On Vital Shortages Is Called By President Roosevelt

Washington. —President Roosevelt began today a comprehensive study of the interlinked shortages of gasoline and rubber.

He summoned to the White House for conference eleven government executives vitally concerned with the problems.

To question whether he would order nationwide rationing of gasoline by mid-July the President responded to a press conference that he was going to begin talking about the gasoline situation at the noon parley.

The rubber problem also was to be canvassed, he said when his views were sought on the desirability of a nationwide collection of scrap rubber.

Jones, Ickes Called

Asked to attend the conference were Secretary of Commerce Jones, Interior Secretary Ickes (also petroleum co-ordinator), War Production Chairman Donald M. Nelson, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Defense Transportation Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman, Undersecretary of War Robert F. Patterson, Budget Director Harold Smith, Wayne Coy, executive director of the Office of Emergency Management, Archi-

The battle off Midway Island is continuing, the bulk of Japan's naval strength is involved, and the action may decide the course of the war in the Pacific, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, said yesterday in Washington.

Action also is continuing in the Aleutian Islands area west of Alaska, the admiral disclosed in the first revelation that the Dutch Harbor raid was more than a minor hit-and-run attack.

So far, Admiral King said, U. S. losses are "relatively inconsequential in comparison with those of the enemy."

Gives No Further Details. The admiral talked in general terms and gave no further details of the fighting in the battle off midway, which up to Saturday night had cost the Japs two and perhaps three aircraft carriers sunk and damage to one or two more carriers and three transports.

This was revealed at Pearl Harbor Saturday in a communique from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, who at the same time said one U. S. aircraft carrier was hit, some planes were lost, and light casualties among personnel resulted. There has been no communique from Admiral Nimitz since then.

Situation In North Pacific. The situation in the North Pacific, where the enemy attacked Dutch Harbor last Wednesday, is presently obscure, Admiral King said.

"We have none too clear a picture of what is going on," he told reporters, "but it is going on."

The great sea and air battle off Midway, which the navy had anticipated and for which it had disposed its forces, he declared, may decide the course of the war in the Pacific, depending on the full extent of damage done to the Japanese striking force.

Says Bulk of Jap Fleet Used. Again underscoring the importance of the Midway action, which Admiral Nimitz has described as a victory in the making King said the Japanese had thrown the bulk of their sea power into the attempt to occupy the outpost of Hawaii.

"It is one of their methods of operation not to send a boy to do a man's job," he explained.

baud Mac Leish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures; Arthur Newhall and Joel Dean.

Local rationing boards meanwhile were given power to call in holders of the unlimited "X" gasoline cards for questioning in a new campaign to cut down non-essential driving in the East.

The Office of Price Administration also authorized the boards to rescind any "X" card used illegally and to withhold any present or future gasoline ration cards from persons failing to answer its questions.

Must Prove Need

The boards were granted similar powers in regard to other cards calling for more than the minimum ration.

Under the permanent rationing program, expected to be introduced before July 15, motorists seeking supplemental ration cards for travel to and from work will be required to prove either that they have joined carsharing or pooling groups or that it is impossible for them to do so.

Those who say they take others to work will have to list the names of those transported and obtain their signatures.

ROOSEVELT AND HITLER VIE FOR FINLAND'S AID

It was no coincidence that on the same day the United States Senate was approving by unanimous vote the declaration of war against Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria as satellites of the Axis, Adolf Hitler was flying to Helsinki to extend birthday greetings to Baron Gustav Mannerheim, Finland's commander-in-chief, and to pin a medal on the veteran Finnish leader. Finland was conspicuously missing from the list of Axis satellites against which the state of war was recognized. The Finns, because of their tenacity, their honesty, their love of freedom, are especially close to the American people. The obvious inference from President Roosevelt's recommendations and the Senate's action was that American-Finnish relations would be maintained through up to the present Finland has been fighting alongside Germany against our ally Russia. And there was the further inference that such hostility to the United Nations would not continue indefinitely.

So Hitler, who is not accustomed to making good-will visits to satellite nations, much less pinning medals on their leaders, had a sudden yearning to cultivate Finnish friendship and Finnish co-operation. He needs Finland's active aid for the coming assaults on Leningrad. He needs the little northern country for attacks on Murmansk. Primarily he is fearful that the Finns already bled white in two unequal conflicts may drop out of the war thus allowing the Red Army to sweep across their northern coast and join hands with the rebellious Norwegians. He sees in the war declaration against the satellite nations only the omission of Finland.

That omission was calculated. Last November the State Department urged the Finnish Government to halt its invasion of Russia and thus demonstrate that it was a free agent. Helsinki's reply was that it was fighting a purely defensive war and that it would quit when its borders were safeguarded against attack. An assault on Leningrad would openly violate that pledge.

Therefore a diplomatic duel is on between President Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler. The one will use moral suasion, the other will threaten force; the one will emphasize that Finland belongs on the side of the nations fighting for freedom; the other will offer a place for the Finns in the Nazi new order. And Finland's choice, if it is free to make a choice, is to drop as soon as possible its traditional feud with Russia. That is emphasized by Hitler's unprecedented mission to Helsinki. —Courier-Journal.

working with various machines it was possible to do many chores without getting grit, ink and oil all over my hands. Naturally there are limits to the use of the gloves. If the work is of a delicate nature, like setting type, or handling type, where an accurate touch is necessary, I cannot use the gloves. But I have found so many things which can be done while wearing those gloves that I am continually surprised. I find that I manage to keep my hands in far better condition, avoid burns and cuts and scratches which I once took as part of the price to be paid, and so I am hereby giving a big hand to the cotton gloves.

Naturally a pair of such gloves lasts relatively a short time. They become inky and oily and grimy in a couple of hours, but they can be worn for several weeks. When they begin to wear holes in the fingers it is better to get another pair. The cost is not high. I believe they sell for a dime, and even now I can afford this price.

Dr. Edward A. Fisher, New York, believes you are less likely to suffer from migraine headache than persons whose face length has been shortened by loss of excessive wear of teeth.

Writing in the May issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association, Fisher explained that loss of teeth or excessive wear cause a backward movement of the lower jaw producing pressure against the structure of the ear and setting up a painful nervous disturbance.

He cited several cases in which inlays or onlays to restore the normal relationship of the jaws had "relieved" migraine headache.

But he warned dentists against making their patients' faces "too long."

MAN BNY CAR LICENSE, BUT THIEVES TAKE TIRES

Logan, Ohio.—Bert Wolfe is thoroughly disgusted and mad. He stored his car April 1, then purchased 1942 license plates on May 12. Two days later thieves broke into his garage and stole two tires and wheels.

"Even if I had the wheels, I couldn't get tires," complained Bert.

WINANT SAYS ALLIES NEED SOCIAL OFFENSIVE

Durham, England.—John G. Winant, American ambassador to Britain, told a meeting of the Miners' Association of Northern England yesterday that the United Nations must undertake a "great social offensive if we are to win the war completely."

Speaking in the area where recently there have been a number of small-scale strikes, Winant said that "to crush Fascism at its roots we must crush the depression in democracy."

"We must solemnly resolve that in our future order we will not tolerate economic evils which breed poverty and war," he said.

A BOTTLE BRINGS FRIENDS TOGETHER

Nashville, Tenn.—Aug. 3, 1940, Pete Desirey spied an empty whisky bottle floating in the Cumberland River and, on a whim, scribbled his name and address on a piece of paper, put it in the bottle and tossed it in the river.

Recently Robert H. Steele Jr., a Nashville youth in the Marine Corps, recovered the bottle at Parris Island, S. G. He wrote Desirey, and it developed that the two families had formerly been neighbors and close friends, but had been out of contact for 24 years.

Tigers Lose To Owensboro In Sunday Game—In U. C. Tonite

Traveling to Owensboro yesterday for a single game, the Tigers were turned back by the Oilers 8 to 3, with defeat being pinned on John Barger. Each team had a dozen hits, but tight fielding by the Oilers gave LeMasters the victory, and the Oilers managed to group their hits in crucial moments on Barger. In the sixth and seventh frames the Owensboro hitters worked on Barger for seven of their runs, scoring three in the sixth and four in the seventh. Another was added in the eighth for good measure. Barger worked seven innings, allowing eleven hits and seven runs, while Tommy Thomasson worked one inning, giving up a hit and a run.

Butch Derrick blazed the way for the Tigers in hitting with four for five, all singles, and none batting in a run, while Pierson poled a home run. Peret caught the game in fine style, while Pavoris played third base. He handled eight chances without an error. Joe Pollock, with a pair of hits, was also charged with two errors, the only ones registered by the Tigers. The Tigers had eleven runners left on base, which gives the idea of how tight LeMasters was when men were on the runways.

No ground was lost to Bowling Green by the defeat, as the Barons fell before Jackson. However, this brings Jackson up on the heels of the Barons by a margin of only two games, and turns the first division into a closely-knit affair. The Tigers now hold a two and one half game lead, while Bowling Green holds a two-game margin over Jackson. The Tigers go to Jackson the last three days of this week and this now looms as an important series. Tonight the Fulton team opens a three-game series in Union City and it would please Manager Mullen a lot if his Tigers could sweep that series. However, the Hounds have been getting tougher in recent days and will not be pushovers for anybody from now on.

Now is the time to renew your subscription to the Fulton Daily Leader.

THE BARGAIN "GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH" WAS THE FIRST CIRCUS TO TRAVEL BY RAILROAD—MAKING ITS FIRST TRIP IN 1872 IN 66 SPECIAL CARS.

MORE THAN SIXTEEN MILLION TONS OF ICE ARE USED EACH YEAR BY THE AMERICAN RAILROADS IN REFRIGERATION CARS, SWING CARS, RESTAURANTS AND THE LIKE.

"KEEPING 'EM ROLLING" EVERY MINUTE IN 1941 THE AMERICAN RAILROADS MOVED AN AVERAGE OF 904,000 TONS OF FREIGHT ONE MILE—THE HIGHEST AVERAGE IN RAILROAD HISTORY!

LIGHTS TO TELL VEHICLES' SIZE DURING BLACKOUTS

War Department Sets Illumination Rules

Cleveland. —By their lights you'll know the kind and size of motor vehicles you pass in the night during blackouts—and how to pass them safely.

If you're a civilian, you'll need a pretty good reason before civilian defense officials let you drive at all in blackouts.

In case you are permitted to use your car, a War Department specification tells you how private automobiles—as well as trucks, ambulances, fire and police vehicles, trolleys and buses—should be illuminated to screen them from enemy aircraft and provide maximum highway safety.

Drawn up by Army engineers with the aid of the office of defense transportation, the War Production Board, other Government agencies and electric companies, the rules are expected to be placed in effect soon by the Office of Civilian Defense.

First, you're cautioned to stay in the dark at least five minutes before attempting to drive on blacked-out streets and highways. This is to adapt your eyes to the low level of illumination permitted in blackouts.

You'll have one driving lamp—a ten-candle power bulb with reflector encased in black metal and shaded by a hood and mask.

Two small marker lights, placed near the usual front headlights, will define the vehicles' width.

A combination tail and stop light gives off a faint, red glow visible at 1,000 feet when the vehicle is in motion, and an amber glow when it stops. These lights are V-shaped and recessed to obscure them from low-flying planes.

CONTINUOUS RETREAT FOR GERMS IN ARMY

Atlanta. —Uncle Sam's soldiers are the healthiest fighting men in the world because the medical services are waging an offensive, not a defensive, war against sickness and disease.

Capt. Harry E. Wright, epidemiologist of the Fourth Corps Area laboratory at nearby Fort McPherson, bases his belief on more than 25 years of medical experience.

"Today we're not waiting for epidemics to break out in our Army camps," says Captain Wright. "We're going out to eradicate the causes of infections and lick sicknesses before they can get started on a widespread scale."

His laboratory reveals just how much intricate research and effort are involved in "keeping 'em healthy."

Every glass of water a soldier drinks has been tested to assure its purity, involving taking specimens of water supplies at every Army post in the Fourth Corps Area and analyzing them. Dames selling milk to camps must pasteurize their produce.

Perhaps the greatest weapon of preventive medicine is immunization. Vaccines and injections have made great epidemics of former years virtually unknown now, Captain Wright maintains.

HOUSE GROUP READY TO ADOPT TAX BILL

Washington. —The House Ways and Means Committee was reported Sunday night to be ready to adopt a new tax bill that will increase Federal revenues by around $6,000,000,000 a year, or about $2,600,000,000 less than the amount demanded by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

It is doubtful, some committee members said, whether the committee will go much beyond the $6,000,000,000 figure unless Mr. Morgenthau emphatically insists that he must have a bill that will boost revenues by $8,600,000,000.

In that case, committeemen declared, there is a good chance that the committee will report to the House a bill containing some kind of general sales or consumer levy that will hike the revenue figure to somewhere near the Treasury's desired goal.

Seven ranking committee members, in a recent showdown meeting with Mr. Morgenthau, were reported to have suggested that he submit to the committee a report on the sales tax question. Their attitude, it is said, was that if the secretary wanted $8,600,000,000 of revenue, the only way to get it would be through a general consumer levy.

PAPER BLACKS OUT, TOO

Easton, Pa. —The Easton Morning Free Press will print Monday what is believed to be the Nation's first morning newspaper blackout edition—"white" letters on black background.

A two column box reads: "So far as can be ascertained the Morning Free Press front page is the first in American newspaper history to be printed by the reversed plate method to commemorate Easton and Northampton County's first blackout. Although used in advertising production is employment for the printing of a news paper is a distinct departure."
