Moro Reported To Still Be Alive

ROME (AP) - A Rome newspaper received a photograph of former Premier Aldo Moro following a phone call from his kidnappers today, and the picture showed him alive, a spokesman for the paper said.

The black-and-white Polaroid picture showed Moro seated in a chair, wearing a shirt and with his head slightly bent toward the right, the spokesman said. On the wall behind him was a five-pointed star, symbol of the Red Brigades, Italy's most feared urban guerrilla gang.

Police said a two-page communique from the kidnappers accompanying the photo denounced Moro as an imperialist "political godfather" and said he would be tried by a "people's tribunal," but it set no deadline or conditions for his release.

Moro, head of the dominant Christian Democrat Party, is regarded as Italy's most prominent political leader.

Anonymous telephone calls to the news media and authorities from purported Red Brigades members had demanded that 15 of the group's leaders on trial in Turin be freed in exchange for Moro.

A deadline set by previous callers for the threatened execution of Moro passed this morning; officials said they believed it was a hoax.

Police have one suspect in custody and several others were reported held for questioning, but otherwise a two-day search for the kidnapped politician and his captors has proved futile.

For a while earlier today, police thought they might be closing in on the kidnappers. They eventually caught eight men hiding in a farmhouse in the northwest outskirts of Rome, but identified them as hunters.

A massive search was launched for them when they jumped out of their van at a roadblock and fled into the farmhouse. Officers thought they might have been Moro's kidnappers.

Tens of thousands of policemen, some in helicopters others with dogs, were pressing the search for Moro nationwide, putting up roadblocks and stopping hundreds of motorists.

Police reported shooting a young man to death at one roadblock Friday night for disobeying an order, but said he had no connection with the kidnapping.

Authorities said a deadline, given by anonymous telephoner callers, neared for threatened execution of Moro, president of Italy's dominant Christian Democrat Party.

The Red Brigades, a Marxist urban guerrilla group, claimed responsibility for Moro's kidnapping and reportedly threatened to "liquidate" him late today unless jailed terrorists are released.

One man, Gianfranco Moreno, 32, was jailed as a suspect in the case and several others were reported held for questioning.

Moro, 61, was kidnapped Thursday by at least 11 men and a woman who killed Moro's five bodyguards. A getaway car was found later. It had bloodstains inside, but it was not known if Moro was wounded.

The government announced it was preparing "emergency measures" after a four-hour conference between Premier Giulio Andreotti and the leaders of the five parties in the parliamentary majority.

State Legislature Enters Final Day Of '78 Session

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - With the Kentucky Legislature entering the final day of the 1978 session today, tension is surfacing among lawmakers as they watch significant legislation either perish or survive.

The last two days of the session are ostensibly reserved in both houses for concurrence in amendments added in the other chamber. But a barrage of bills remain on the Senate and House calendars and they can be voted on by a suspension of the rules.

This leaves little time for thorough study of amendments that have been added by the other chamber. The situation prompted some complaints among House members Friday as Senate amendments to House-passed bills came up for concurrence votes.

During voting on a moped bill, which was amended in the Senate to delete registration requirements for the motorized bicycles, several members complained that House Majority Leader Bobby Richardson, D-Glasgow, was not adequately explaining that and other Senate amendments.

"I suggest everybody vote no until they slow down and give us a chance to look at these amendments," said Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, chairman of the Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

"I'm doing the best I can," Richardson replied. "They're not my bills. If you don't want to concur, it suits me."

If either chamber refuses to concur in an amendment, the measure is returned to the chamber that added the amendment and is asked to recede. If that body does not recede the amendment, the issue is put before a House-Senate conference committee to work out differences.

But as Rep. Hank Hancock, D-Frankfort, observed, that process could spell death for important legislation with an unwanted rider.

Rep. Gross Lindsay, D-Henderson, complained at one point Friday that Speaker William Kenton's ruling that Senate amendments must be voted on as a block unfairly handicapped potentially good amendments if they were considered in the same vote with a objectionable amendment.

Lindsay asked Kenton, D-Lexington, if that were also the practice in the upper chamber, but Kenton said he did not know. The House defeated 59-11 a motion by Lindsay to recess until Kenton reported on the Senate's procedure.

Representatives later were informed that the Senate, too, votes on amendments collectively.

New Offensives Are Launched

Guerrilla Strongholds Overran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The Palestinian guerrilla command said Israeli forces launched a major new offensive in south Lebanon today and were driving toward the port city of Tyre and the Litani River.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv issued no reports of a new drive. But Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, said earlier today his troops might push deeper into Lebanon unless Palestinian gunfire stopped.

Gur said in a broadcast over armed forces radio that Israel "wants very much" to stay within the 370-square-mile swath of land it has occupied since Wednesday, but "if terrorist fire doesn't stop, we won't hold ourselves back."

Tyre is about 15 miles north of the Israeli border and roughly nine miles north of the 6-by-62-mile border strip the Israeli invasion force seized this week.

Syrian President Hafez Assad declared today that his country's air space and land routes were available to any nation willing to send military aid to the Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon.

In a nationwide speech, Assad warned the world to expect that "resistance to occupation would escalate unless the aggression in south Lebanon stopped and Israeli forces were withdrawn."

Informed sources here said, meanwhile, that the United States is sounding out Syria, Lebanon and Israel on a proposed U.N. Security Council resolution calling for complete Israeli withdrawal from southern Lebanon.

A high-ranking Palestine Liberation Organization official, Said Kamal, said in Cairo, however, that the PLO would reject the stationing of a U.N. truce force in the embattled area.

Official reports said the Israelis took the guerrilla outpost of Tibnine, in south-central Lebanon, after an air and tank bombardment that left much of the town ablaze Friday, official reports said.

But the guerrillas said they still held Tibnine, were fighting off air strikes and that "help from Cuban friends is not necessary." Unconfirmed reports said the guerrillas might seek Cuban aid.

The guerrillas also kept up artillery attacks across the southern border, killing an Israeli civilian and seriously wounding two others, the Israeli military said.

A communique said two Palestinians on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River also died in a riot protesting Israel's invasion of southern Lebanon.

The battle for Tibnine followed the capture of four nearby Palestinian strongholds and an Israeli commando raid that blew up a guerrilla marine base near Adloun, a fishing village 22 miles north of the Israeli border.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman called the operation an "ambush by a select force," and that Carlos was the regional commander of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Lebanese sources said the commandos landed by helicopter at Adloun and that other commando strikes were made at guerrilla rocket launching bases north and east of Tyre, 12 miles above the frontier.

The sources said the raid at Adloun was preceded by a two-hour barrage from four Israeli gunboats. Fourteen refugees fleeing in two cars were killed in the blitz, guerrillas reported.

Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, addressing the same Tel Aviv news conference as Weizman, said the only real Palestinian resistance was artillery fire from north of the Litani River.

The Litani runs about 18 miles north of Israel's northern border. Israel calls it a "red line" that Syrian peacekeeping forces in Lebanon may not venture below.

Israeli jets have been bombing guerrilla positions north of the Litani since they invaded Wednesday to carve a 6-by-62-mile border security belt to halt terrorist raids like the one that left 35 Israelis dead on the Tel Aviv-Haifa road last Saturday.

Lebanese Red Cross officials said more than 250 Lebanese and Palestinians have been killed and 350 wounded since the invasion started. Israel said 15 of its men were killed and 57 wounded.

Carroll Uses 'Try Me' Approach On Workmen's Comp

An AP News Analysis

By SY RAMSEY

Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - Some days ago Gov. Julian Carroll, furious at the Senate's slashing of his workmen's compensation bill, put out word to two representatives of industry that he wanted to see them in his office.

As the story is told, the two entered the office from the front and sat waiting. Carroll came in through a back entrance, stared at them for half a minute and said: "Try me." Then, without another word, the governor went out again the back way.

The anecdote seems to underline what a handwritten letter from the governor also has said - that he will veto any compensation bill which goes beyond the administration version.

The letter was sent this week to Sen. Lowell Hughes, D-Ashtand, but copies were distributed by mistake to other legislators.

It is handwritten, which underscores its importance to Carroll, and it reiterates what he already has said - a veto is in the works unless the Associated Industries of Kentucky and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce back down from their insistence on changes that they feel would stem the continually rising premiums for which they pay in full for protection of work-related injuries.

In the final two days of the session, the juggling is occurring on two measures - House Bills 41 and 358.

The administration is trying to keep the legislation within previously set bounds.

If that happens, certain case law would be repealed which almost certainly will lead to future workmen's compensation increases. Also, the administration will pump another $8 million into a fund which would help lower employer premiums.

But industry has gone for broke in trying to reduce benefits for the disabled, among other amendments, with the goal of cutting premiums further.

That has precipitated the clash with Carroll.

Your Problems By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Loved your column on the school bus driver. Here's a message I hope you'll print. It says it all.

WHAT IS A SCHOOL BUS DRIVER?
A school bus driver is a person who smiles in the morning and smiles in the evening and eats Roloids in between.

A school bus driver gets there when nobody else can; finds houses which don't exist and children with no names.

He dries tears, dispels fears and finds lost notebooks.

A school bus driver has eyes in the back of his head and hears every word, even in sign language.

He is immune to noise. A school bus driver's favorite words (besides "Good morning" and "good night") are, "Sit down."

A school bus driver's worst apprehension involves five-year-olds with motion sickness - especially in the winter when the windows are closed and the heater is on.

Sometimes a school bus driver gets tired - but he seldom gets mad; and always, most faithfully, he gets there. - From the Wyoming Educator

Dear Ann: "Chilly in Philly" burned me up with that blanket indictment of Yankees, especially Pennsylvanians. I grew up with and fervently believed the Southern myth of the "damnyankee" - until, thank God, a sensible, sincere, courteous and hardworking Pittsburgh man taught me differently.

And may I remind "Belle from Richmond," who considers herself well versed in history, that Virginian General Lee took up his sword against the Union in deep sorrow - and laid it down at Appomattox with a vow to devote the rest of his life to rebuilding the nation he loved, a truly UNITED States, forged in bitter war. It surely must sadden the ghost of that gallant American to see that a fellow Virginian hopes for a "next time."

Reconstructed Rebel
Dear Ann: Thank you from all of us - both north and south of the Mason-Dixon line. You said it beautifully.

Dear Ann: We are very friendly with a couple who live nearby, and we go out together often. We always use our car although theirs is just as comfortable. It's always "What time will you pick us up?"

My husband is tired of getting stuck for gas and oil, parking fees, etc., while they get portal-to-portal transportation. How can we turn this around without appearing cheap? - Free Livery

Dear Ann: Next time say, "How about picking us up for a change?" The time after say, "It's our turn to drive." In this way you will get on an alternating basis. Far better to speak up than remain silent and build an ulcer.

CONFIDENTIAL to Sorry Now: Too bad you were so impatient. You should have stayed with him until he got his strength back. He said he was "tired" - not dead. Ask for another chance.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage-What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611 enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

To Your Good Health

By DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was much interested in the letter from the woman with the 5-year-old with recurrent urinary infection. My little niece had this problem and took medication, but nothing helped.

Then, after much praying, the answer was found to be that she had an allergy. She was allergic to citric acid, such as oranges, lemons, tomatoes, and so on. She is now on a diet and avoids citrus acid foods. I thought you would be interested in this. - A.G.R.

An allergy certainly must be on a list of things to investigate when there is chronic urinary tract disturbances of this kind, and tomatoes and citrus fruits are high on any list of allergy suspects. Others are eggs, milk, chocolate, food coloring and flavorings, wheat, some nuts and cola drinks.

Cystitis (inflammation of the urinary bladder) can be caused by infection of an organism, or it can be a reaction to a substance in food as it reaches a particular point in the digestive system. Also, an allergy can irritate a membrane (as in the bladder) and thus set the stage for actual infection.

Mrs. T.O. asks me if such an allergy can cause bedwetting.

The allergy-irritation combination is usually worth investigating in cases of enuresis (bedwetting). One study indicates that 5 per cent of allergic children are also bedwetters.

Incidentally, thank you, A.G.R., for your note, which points up an important fact about youngsters and urinary-tract symptoms.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently had a sugar-tolerance test, which confirms I have hypoglycemia. The Army physician's assistant seems to feel it is a question of metabolism rather than any physical malfunction. He feels I should be able to control the symptoms through diet, but he didn't give me any specific one and I'm finding it difficult to balance the several small feedings a day he recommends. I'm also trying to lose 20 pounds. - Mrs. R.L.B.

He probably meant that there is no physical malfunction, as for example in disorders of the thyroid, adrenal or pituitary glands. A mild hypoglycemia can be controlled by the standard six feedings a day of high-protein food (but with a little carbohydrate content). If you're trying to lose weight, fat should be reduced. I think you will find some help in the low-blood-sugar booklet, you ask about. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can Down's syndrome be predicted checking the fluid in the pregnant woman's fetal sac? When is it done? - L.F.

Yes, and this is one of the commonest reasons for having amniocentesis done. Laboratory tests of a tiny amount of amniotic sac fluid will show the characteristic chromosome situation of Down's syndrome (mongolism). This is usually done in the 14th to 16th week of pregnancy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please tell me if emotional stress could affect the developing embryo and fetus? - A.M.

Emotional stress would not affect the fetus. A more likely problem would occur after birth, when emotional stress in the mother might be transferred to the infant.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been told I have a vascular condition. What can you tell me about this? - K.D.

That's a very broad "diagnosis." The word vascular covers every vein and artery in your body, all your blood vessels and what can go wrong with them. Write again and be specific. Which vessels, what symptoms?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person had a stroke and wore corrective eyeglasses before it, does he need examination for new glasses afterward? - Mrs. J.R.

Yes, because eye muscles may be involved and a check for glaucoma is in order.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WITNESSING WITH POWER

The Scripture for this lesson is Acts 3:1 through 4:4. Selected verses from the Revised Standard Version of the Bible are printed here.

Acts 3:1-10

1 Now Peter and John were going up to the temple at the hour of prayer, the ninth hour. 2 And a man lame from birth was being carried, whom they laid daily at that gate of the temple which is called Beautiful to ask alms of those who entered the temple. 3 Seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple, he asked for alms. 4 And Peter directed his gaze at him, with John, and said, "Look at us." 5 And he fixed his attention upon them, expecting to receive something from them. 6 But Peter said, "I have no silver and gold, but I give you what I have; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk." 7 And he took him by the right hand and raised him up; and immediately his feet and ankles were made strong. 8 And leaping up he stood and walked and entered the temple with them, walking and leaping and praising God. 9 And all the people saw him walking and praising God, 10 and recognized him as the one who sat for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what had happened to him.

Acts 4:1-4

1 And as they were speaking to the people, the priests and the captain of the temple and the Sadducees came upon them, 2 annoyed because they were teaching the people and proclaiming in Jesus the resurrection from the dead. 3 And they arrested them and put them in custody until the morning, for it was already evening. 4 But many of those who heard the word believed; and the number of the men came to about five thousand.

Memory Selection: God, having raised up his servant, sent him to you first, to bless you in turning every one of you from your wickedness. -Acts 3:26

A 'New' Roman Catholicism

By The Associated Press

A new, broader kind of Roman Catholicism is emerging in the United States as portrayed in survey findings. It's more educated, more diverse in religious interpretations, its people at ease in differing - with official positions, yet loyal to the church, confident and devout.

That picture is in marked contrast to the past image of a homogenous bloc of uniform religious views and practice, with dissenters considering leaving the fold. But now they're staying explicitly in it, comfortable in doing so, dedicated to the faith, even though often disagreeing with authorities about its implications.

In short, as brought out increasingly by several recent studies, Catholics have come to terms with diversity of viewpoints within the church, accepting it without being edgy or alienated by it, undeflected by it from devotion to the church.

"We're finding that large majorities of Catholics do not agree with the church's position on such key issues as divorce and birth control, but they're staying within the church, and in many cases, are the most devout members," says George Gallup Jr., head of the Gallup poll organization. No longer, he adds, do they feel compelled by such dissent to drop out.

Gallup's latest broad-scale survey on the situation, commissioned by the Catholic Press Association and its results released last week, showed that a rising proportion of Catholics are college-educated, a third of them, double that of a decade ago, with their influence mounting.

They're more active in church life than those with only high school education, attend more regularly, rate their religion more important but also are more likely to disagree with official church positions.

Overall, 69 percent of Catholics disagree with church prohibitions of remarriage after divorce and 73 percent disagree with the church ban against contraception. The figures are higher for the college-educated, 74 percent and 83 percent respectively.

But the indications that they're also particularly devout suggest that differences with church authorities no longer dampens church participation.

A rising proportion of Catholics rate their faith as "highly favorable," and more attend worship at least once a week, now 58 percent compared to 55 percent a year ago. They're also increasingly involved in other religious activities such as Bible study, prayer and meditation groups.

An overwhelming majority of them - 84 percent - want closer relationships with Protestant and Eastern Orthodox Christians.

Mid-Continent Vice President Publishes Book

R. Charles Blair, vice-president of Mid-Continent Baptist Bible College here, is in the process of publishing a book of sermons under the title "The Church on the Rock." The book is being issued by Best Sermons, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia.

The seven messages in the book were preached as a series at the Hickory Baptist Church in 1974 and as individual messages in several churches in this area.

The book, which should be off the press in June, may be purchased from the author at a reduced pre-publication rate. Brother Blair has also been notified recently that he will be included in the next printing of "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

Thought For Today

METHODS OF MINISTRY
Matthew 25:34-36
By Charles Blair

When we say "ministry," we usually think "preacher." Actually, ministry in the name of Christ is a joyful possibility for every believer, and the ways of service far wider than we usually think.

Many unusual methods of ministry are in progress in western Kentucky already: Bible Colleges, furniture and clothing banks, food (groceries or meals) for those who live alone or have problems getting out of their homes, hospital and prison visitation, tract distribution, rest home services, prayer vigils, Bible discussion and devotions, radio and television preaching and religious music, Christian bookstores, youth teams, quartets, religious films, chaplaincies of various sorts, deacon family visitation, free Bible distribution, fruit baskets to the ill and elderly (especially at special seasons), toys for children at Christmas, "Easter baskets," a cup of cold water at the fair, outings for disadvantaged children, mission Sunday schools, church bus ministries, gospel puppets, gospel ventriloquists, children's church, Vacation Bible Schools and "Back Yard Bible Clubs," Christian grade and high schools, the publishing of church news, manual communications with the deaf, columns like this - the list is nearly endless!

But, someone says, many of these methods are controversial! Certainly, and not all are of equal value. But the above are all in use in this area already. They can be seen, evaluated, and used by those who find them helpful.

to the blind, or accepting foster children in our homes, or going to a "poverty pocket" or mission field to donate one's efforts in building a house of worship or providing specialized skills for ten days in place of a vacation? Or what about coffee and doughnuts for emergencies? Or what about a telephone chain in which those who live alone minister to another daily at a fixed hour, sharing a devotion as well as making certain of one another's health? Some people might even develop a "pick up hitchhikers" ministry, or other forms of "good Samaritan" work.

Shoveling snow for those who cannot, providing coal or wood for those who have trouble heating their homes, setting up a "Community Watch" or CB cross-check on possible crime; all of these and many more can be used in the name of Christ. Many are already being done; in which are you involved?

Guests To Present Special Service At Mid-Continent

On Monday, March 20, at 10:00 a.m., Dr. Tom Atwood, pastor of the East Baptist Church of Paducah, and East Music Director Tom Butler of WPSD-TV, will present a special chapel service at Mid-Continent Baptist Bible College.

Dr. Atwood, a 1977 Doctor of Ministries graduate of the Louisville Seminary, is a part-time instructor in the field of sermon preparation at the Bible College. Butler is well known both in church and community circles.

The interested public is cordially invited to this meeting.

Investor's Guide

By Sam Shulsky

HIGH COST OF SAFETY

Q. Our joint income is about $31,000. We have $40,000 in savings earning 5 1/2 percent. Should we buy municipal bonds? Would they be safer? Some friends suggest we buy tax-sheltered bonds for our 3-year-old son? Are children allowed to have income?

A. If, as I assume, you are a young-to-middle-aged couple it seems clear that your investing is motivated by extreme caution and by a refusal to face up to the problems which come from having accumulated money.

An income of $31,500 indicates a tax bracket which pretty well eliminates at least half the gain from a savings account. (And what taxes don't take, inflation will.)

I don't want to scold anyone who seeks to "play it safe," but I also cannot ignore the fact that there are only relative amounts of safety in today's financial world. And that you are paying a high price for yours.

To answer one of your questions directly: $40,000 in insured savings accounts is "safer" than $40,000 in any bond - municipal or otherwise - except, perhaps a government bond. So if your chief concern is to protect that $40,000, you're doing as well as can be expected in a world subject to many forms of investment crises.

If you try to do more you must assume the risks of the market place - bond market or stock market or real estate market, or antique market, etc.

A child certainly may have income and since his tax bracket is obviously lower (if not non-existent) you and your wife could shift $6,000 a year into custodian accounts in his favor. Since taxes are not the main issue, there is no point to tax-exempt bonds. And, since you are looking years ahead, some equity investments would make sense, too.

Q. Would you recommend investing in high grade bonds if you still have an 8 1/2 percent mortgage on your home? Could these bonds be redeemed in an emergency?

A. A corporate bond may be sold (not redeemed) at ANY time. The price you get depends upon market conditions - it may be more or less than the price you paid.

The question of whether to put investable money into 8 1/2 percent bonds or into extinguishing one's 8 1/2 percent mortgage depends to a great extent on the individual investor's needs.

A retired investor living on a tight budget would ease the strain considerably by wiping out the mortgage instead of investing in bonds because he would thereby save not only the 8 1/2 percent interest being paid out but the monthly amortization which, I admit, is a "saving" but not necessarily a comfortable one for those living on a modest retirement budget.

If the retired persons had no budget problems and felt more comfortable with the liquidity provided by a high grade bond, purchase of the bond while allowing the mortgage to "ride" would be plausible.

In the case of a younger, still-employed person interested in building capital, I'd vote to retain the mortgage and put money, instead, into growth equity securities or any other growth venture.

Q. Bank certificates run to 4 to 7 years. What is the usual maturity of corporation bonds?

A. You may go into the market and buy a bond that matures in 1979 or in 2009 or 2017. And you can sell any such bond tomorrow, if you like.

MY ANSWER

By BILLY GRAHAM

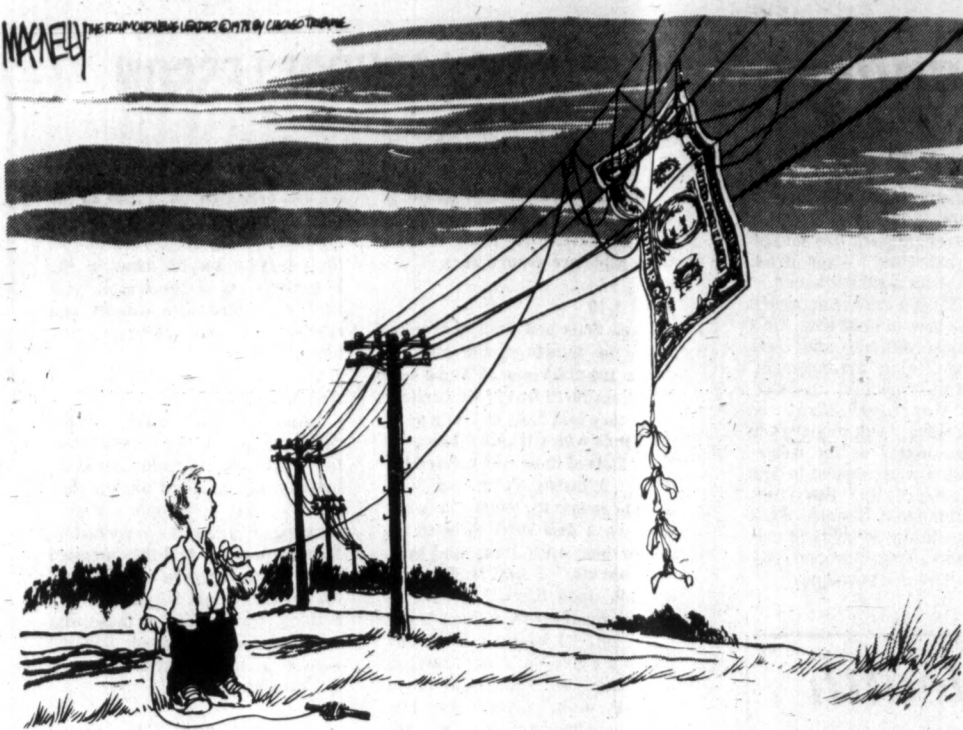

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I read recently that you have formed some kind of fund for disaster relief in the world. Don't you think it would be better if the money were spent for evangelism? - C.L.

DEAR C.L.: Is it true that we have a fund for disaster relief. Since it was formed a few years ago, we have sent hundreds of thousands of dollars to numerous parts of the world. Among others, we have aided the victims of floods in the United States, earthquakes in Guatemala, famines in Africa, and cyclones in India. Every penny designated for relief to the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association goes for that purpose, none is used for administrative expense.

Why have we done that, and why have Christians always been involved in relieving human suffering? For one thing, I believe Jesus teaches that we have a responsibility to help others. In fact, He said we would be judged for our failure to help those who were in need (see Matthew 25: 31-46). The Bible says, "Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to him, 'Go, I wish you well; keep warm and well fed,' but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it?" (James 2: 15-16, New International Version).

Also, such actions are a practical expression of our love for others. The Bible tells us that God loves the world, and we are to have the same kind of love. "We know that we have passed from death to life, because we love our brothers. If anyone has material possessions and sees his brother in need but has no pity on him, how can the love of God be in him?" (1 John 3: 14, 17, NIV).

Yes, we are called to proclaim the love of Christ, and sometimes it is important to do this by deed and not just words. If the unbelieving world does not see the love of Christ exhibited in our lives, it is little wonder that they do not listen to our message. But when we show the love of God to others by practical deeds of love, they are much more open to the message of salvation in Christ.

Sensing The News

The French Election

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

PARIS, France — A Spectre is haunting Europe, the spectre of French communists getting a foothold in the government of France.

This paraphrase of a few lines of the Communist Manifesto explains the fear among European businessmen and all the forces of freedom of Europe. They fear that the second round of voting in the French election will result in a victory by the so-called Union of the Left, a coalition of communists and socialists.

The issue, as the pro-capitalists see it, is whether France will continue as a bourgeois society or whether it will embark on a leftwing experiment in nationalization that will have a profound impact on other European countries.

If the Left coalition, headed by Francois Mitterand, wins on March 19th, nine of France's major industrial groups - almost 500 companies - will be nationalized. The country will be collectivized as never before, despite a history of state intervention in the economy. The huge wage increases promised by the Left would mean staggering taxes for middle class Frenchmen and companies and would produce a financial crisis. The likely result would be the establishment of a siege economy, with a strict protectionist character, and withdrawal from the Common Market.

A Left victory would give the communists an opportunity to influence the government's economic policy and to select cabinet members. It would show that the French electorate has learned nothing from 60 years of Soviet tyranny and subversion, from the proxy wars sponsored by Moscow, and from the protests of the Russian dissidents. French communists are Stalinists, not what are politely termed Euro-communists.

Other Europeans, especially the Germans, recognize the danger and are profoundly alarmed. If France goes left, the action will accelerate a shift to communist control in Italy. Moscow will be encouraged to intensify pressure against all centers of freedom in Europe.

The bulwark against these ominous developments is the French Constitution, designed by Charles de Gaulle, which gives the President of France, Giscard d'Estaing, control over the nation's security forces, the military and the police. His term lasts until 1981. It's not inconceivable, however, that a regime of the Left would attempt extra-constitutional action.

The tragedy is that France, which has come so far in 20 years in terms of modernization, should be faced with a socialist-communist threat and that the republic should be so closely divided. Unhappily, France is the victim of decades of Marxist indoctrination in schools and universities and Marxist influence in literature and the media.

Given this situation, Giscard d'Estaing has a difficult role in leading France and French civilization away from leftism toward a strong, healthy Euro-capitalism.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, March 18, the 77th day of 1978. There are 288 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, during the American Revolution, George Washington took over control of Boston after evacuation by the besieged British.

On this date: In 1837, Grover Cleveland, who held office as the 22nd and the 24th U.S. presidents, was born in Caldwell, N.J.

In 1937, a gas explosion in a school in New London, Texas, killed more than 400 people, mostly children.

In 1962, a cease-fire in the Algerian War was signed by French authorities and Algerian nationalists, in Evian-les-Bains, France.

In 1965, a Soviet cosmonaut became the first man to leave an orbiting spacecraft and float in space.

In 1970, Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk was deposed as chief of state while on a visit to Moscow.

In 1976, it was disclosed that British Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon would separate but would not get divorced.

Ten years ago: Ten bombings, 25 shootings and a land mine explosion in Northern Ireland left two people dead, bringing the death toll to 752 in 3 1/2 years of violence.

One year ago: The remains of 12 American airmen killed in raids in North Vietnam were turned over to an American commission visiting Hanoi.

Today's birthdays: Country music singer Charley Pride is 40 years old.

Thought for today: Customs may not be as wise as laws, but they are always more popular. Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister 1804-1881.

"A Conservative View"

Of Ilford North And All That

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

LONDON - The Laborites are singing Mr. Doolittle's song from "My Fair Lady." With a little bit of luck, they can't go wrong. In the face of a dozen adversities, they are positively cheerful.

For the past four years, James Callaghan's government has been clinging to power by its fingernails. Two years ago, it almost toppled. The administration has suffered the pangs of severe inflation, a weak currency, persistent unemployment, a distressing imbalance in trade. The Laborites have lost six by-elections in a row, most recently in Ilford North two weeks ago. Why, then, is Mr. Callaghan smiling?

The most obvious answer, of course, is: oil, beautiful oil, wonderful oil. The United Kingdom still is importing more than half its petroleum requirements, but in another two years - with a little bit of luck - a point of self-sufficiency will be attained. Meanwhile, North Sea oil is having a marvelously dramatic impact upon the balance of payments picture.

Oil provides only one element in Labor's optimistic view of things. Denis Healey, chancellor of the exchequer, sat in his sunny office the other day and ticked off a modest list. The Right Honorable gentleman is one of the most attractive figures in Mr. Callaghan's ministry, a large, rumped man with a roguish Irish eye. On this particular Friday morning, he was beaming with good humor, and this was all the more remarkable because his party had lost Ilford North the night before.

How to explain the good cheer? Britain's rate of inflation, in double digits a year or so ago, has dropped under 7 percent. The pound, which had slumped to $1.55 in October of 1976, is now holding steady at $1.90 to $1.95. Unemployment is just over 7 percent, but the rate is steadily dropping. Reserves have increased to the point that Britain is paying off some of its debt before the debt is due. The trade unions have proved astoundingly responsible in their wage demands. Britain's productivity, "which has been lousy in recent years," seems to be improving. To hear Mr. Healey tell the story, it is roses, roses, roses all the way.

But not exactly. England is still plagued by strikes. Last year saw nearly 10 million man days of production lost to strikes, almost triple the loss of 1976. The January loss this year was estimated at 769,000 working days, compared to 435,000 in January a year ago. On a single day earlier this month, a visitor could read of strikes or strike threats by teachers, nurses, hospital porters, railway engineers, journalists and actors. England's unemployment, while much better than it was, remains at a rate double that of West Germany.

Jeffrey Hart Says

Wrong RX For GOP

One newspaper columnist, not noted for his Republican sympathies, has all of a sudden come up with a lot of advice for that beleaguered party.

The Republicans have a very bright future, he argues in a lengthy essay, if only they become more "moderate" and make a special effort to appeal to blacks and other "minorities."

He also sees encouraging signs in the recent behavior of Republican national chairman Bill Brock and presidential hopeful Howard Baker, the Senate minority leader.

This bland political cocktail is precisely the wrong prescription for what ails the Republican Party.

Here is one feature of the proposed thesis. Call it an "electoral" argument. I quote the pundit:

"A strong case can be made, and black leaders unanimously make it, that heavy black majorities in such key states as New York, Ohio and Texas, as well as throughout the South, put Jimmy Carter in the White House in 1976." This is wrong, and possibly disingenuous.

Primary Factor

It is true that black votes did help Carter in 1976 - but they did it in the primaries. In the general election against Ford, Carter's share of the black vote differed little from that of recent Democratic candidates, Humphrey, say, or McGovern.

What really elected Carter in 1976 was, to put it bluntly, the Wallace vote. The Wallace vote was the swing vote. It made Nixon a landslide winner in 1972, but it crossed back to the Democratic side in 1976 to vote for the Southern Baptist. That political fact is about as obvious as Mt. Everest.

Yet the proposed thesis has been inspiring some novel Republican rhetoric. Listen to Senator Baker, speaking in New York last December. The United States, he announced, can no longer "afford or fail to remedy the consequences of that racism that has stalked our national life from its very beginnings...our cities' ghettos are packed with social dynamite. The staggering 40 percent unemployment rate among young black people and the unemployment rate of 14 percent of all black Americans is intolerable, if only because it is morally, politically and socially unaffordable."

Greater Cause

This kind of demagoguery about racism is unaffordable. That 40 percent unemployment rate among young blacks has more to do with the minimum wage legislated by Congress than with anyone's feeling about blacks. The unemployment figures for young whites are high too. Racism? The Republicans are not going to flourish under clouds of bleeding-heart rhetoric.

The swing vote in the U.S. is increasingly conservative. The Republicans do have a golden opportunity, particularly in view of the political weightlessness of the Carter administration. But to seize that opportunity, and recover that swing vote, they need a heavy dose of economic expansion, social conservatism and national pride.

Come to think of it, a lot of blacks would like that too.

were a pleasant sight to behold. Now with the weather not suitable to do much and the ground soft, seems this would be an ideal time for each one that has a mail box or paper receptacles in front of your home to take a look at their condition and put them in first class shape. If you have any pride in your home surely you want the first sight to your house to be a pleasant one, not to mention the benefit the carriers would enjoy of serving boxes that are in good order.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. W.N. Jones,

At times, while covering what we might call "serious news," there are occasions when some humor can be interjected — breaking the seriousness of the moment.

Take for instance this week when District Judge John Daughaday called a meeting to get publicity on an upcoming meeting he has scheduled to explain the businessman's part in seeing that checks — returned for insufficient funds — are moved through the legal process correctly.

Gene Hall, an officer with the Mayfield-Graves County Chamber of Commerce, commented during the discussion that in some cities a system known as "Honest Face" is being used by merchants to okay checks for payment on merchandise.

Hall's comment rang a bell with County Attorney Ben Lookofsky, who so graciously told a story about an encounter with "Honest Face."

Our county attorney told it this way.

He was in Nashville shopping and while writing a check to pay for his purchases, the store's clerk asked, "Do you have an Honest Face?"

Lookofsky, not being one to let anyone get anything over on him, seized the open-door opportunity and replied, "Why... yes I do."

The clerk allowed the county attorney to write his check and upon completion said, again, "You said you had an Honest Face, so go over to that machine."

Seeing some sort of contraption, Lookofsky strolled over to it and began reading the directions.

By this time, those attending the meeting here were almost in the floor laughing, and couldn't wait until he finished his story.

The directions were simple: "If you have an Honest Face, push this button."

Lookofsky did. After walking back to the counter, the clerk said something like, "What did the machine do?" Lookofsky replied, "Not a thing."

He was then told that Honest Face is a check cashing courtesy card system used to honor checks of those who participate in the program.

"I thought the clerk was trying to get smart with me," Lookofsky said.

Ky. Legislators Vote Pay Raise

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky legislators would get more money, retroactive to the start of the current session, under a bill passed Thursday by the Senate.

The House passed bill was approved 23-15 and sent to the governor after some last minute lobbying got the 20 votes needed to pass the measure.

The bill increases the lawmakers' mileage allowance by one cent a mile, raises their per diem expenses during the legislature from $50 to $75 and increases their monthly expense allowance between sessions from $550 to $750.

Sen. Gene Huff, R-London said the measure will mean a total increase of $100,000 this year and $331,000 next year.

Sen. John Berry, D-New Castle, objected to the pay raises, saying it wasn't a question of whether they were deserved but the impression they would leave with the public.

"We are dealing with a very cynical public," Berry said. "They don't have a very high regard for government, period, or a high regard for members of the General Assembly."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department reported Thursday that some 22,900 factory workers and some 20,000 transportation workers were laid off during the week ended March 11 because of shortages of coal or electricity.

The estimate, by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed a reduction of factory unemployment blamed on the coal strike from the 25,500 reported layoffs the previous week.

The actual total number of layoffs, however, may be substantially higher than those reported.

The bureau's figures represented a survey of some 900 of the largest industrial plants in 11 Midwestern and Mid-Atlantic states — those employing more than 1,000 people — and did not include layoffs of employees by smaller plants.

The impacts, however, were more concentrated in the five most critical states: Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia, with the Pittsburgh, Pa., area included.

In that "5.2-state" area were found 14,800 of the reported 22,900 factory layoffs.

(In Kentucky, Robert MacDonald, labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources, said layoffs in the state had stayed fairly steady in recent weeks.

While the Bureau of Labor Statistics did not explain the reduction of layoffs from the previous week, it appeared to reflect the improvement in coal supplies which has shown up in recent weeks as deliveries increased from mines not affected by the three-month-old strike of the United Mine Workers, and as conservation efforts slowed coal consumption.

Those improvements have allowed factories and electric utilities to avoid more serious curtailments of industrial operations and electric service that would have been necessary if the supply and consumption trends of January and early February had continued.

He said they included the approximately 20,000 coal miners on strike, and about 13,000 people in coal related jobs such as truck and rail transportation, mine construction and maintenance and clerical work at mines.

(MacDonald noted that utilities in Kentucky have not imposed mandatory power cutbacks and said that outside the coal industry and related fields, "I don't know of any major layoffs that have occurred in the state.")

The dollar's declines on world money markets since December alone will add about 0.75 percent to the nation's inflation rate, he said. Carter's energy program, he said, would add another 0.4 percent, although that is necessary for other reasons.

He said the decline in the dollar will make domestic inflation worse because not only does it increase the cost of imported goods, but it also removes competitive restraints on domestic prices.

He indicated he would not oppose cutting back the recent Social Security tax increase because that would reduce business costs. But he said the total tax reductions should not exceed $25 billion.

While the over-all outlook for the economy remains good, Miller said there are some "distinctly negative economic developments," including inflation, the trade deficit and the "sharp decline" in the value of the dollar.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter should take early action to increase fuel prices by imposing fees or quotas on oil imports if Congress fails to quickly enact his energy program, the new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board said Wednesday.

Chairman G. William Miller said he favors an import fee, and said the President should be given authority by Congress "to scale it as necessary to deal with the problem."

"I hope that takes place," he said. "We're getting down to very few choices and we need to do something soon," he said in appearance before the Senate Budget Committee.

Miller said that quick action to reduce U.S. consumption of foreign oil is one of two things the government should do to build foreign confidence in the U.S. dollar. The other is to "come up with a strong anti-inflation program," he said.

Miller expressed great concern about what he said is an apparent quickening in the pace of inflation above the current rate of 6 percent and which he said could darken the nation's economic outlook.

"I hope we have the courage to make inflation the highest priority for domestic economic policy—right now," he said. The problem has grown worse in the past few months, he added.

If anything, the 53-year-old Miller was even more outspoken than his predecessor, Arthur

Burns, in warning of the dangers of inflation and in questioning some of the administration's economic policies.

He said Carter's projected budget deficit of $60 billion for fiscal 1979 is too high and he also said he would prefer that more of Carter's proposed $25 billion in tax reductions go to business, rather than to individuals.

He indicated he would not oppose cutting back the recent Social Security tax increase because that would reduce business costs. But he said the total tax reductions should not exceed $25 billion.

Laurel County Still Hoping For 2nd Title

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Laurel County has perhaps the toughest hurdle in its race for a second straight Kentucky girls' high school basketball title, which will be decided here in two rounds today.

The Cardinals, 27-3, exploded past Paris in the fourth quarter Friday for a 66-56 victory in a rematch from last year's championship game.

Laurel County now faces Louisville Assumption, 22-11, which ended quarterfinal play with a 59-42 rout of Covington Notre Dame.

Barren County, 22-4, takes on Breathitt County, 30-1, in today's first semifinal game. The winners meet in an 8 p.m. championship game.

Fans who anticipated a head-to-head offensive battle between Laurel County's Sharon Garland and Paris' Beth Wilkerson weren't disappointed.

The tall, talented juniors ripped the nets from start to finish, with Garland winning the scoring battle, 28-24, and Wilkerson holding a 13-4 rebounding edge.

But the Cardinals are not a one-girl team. Garland was nearly smothered in the second half, often being double- and triple-teamed by the Lady Hounds' sagging zone defense, but teammate Bonnie Sizemore connected on four quick set shots that Paris' zone made available.

Sizemore finished with 10 points. Judy Henry scored 18 for Paris, which closed its season 18-7.

Assumption breezed past the Pandas with a steady offense, outscoring Notre Dame in every quarter. Marsha Thomas scored all her 10 points in the first half when the Rockets built a 28-18 lead. Laurie Mazzoni topped Assumption with 14 points and Mary Heim added 11. Nancy Berger, with 16 points, was the only Panda in double figures.

Barren County's front line of Belinda Bradley, Terri Wilkinson and Dana Taylor used the lob pass nearly to perfection against Owensboro's zone defense enroute to a 51-37 victory.

"I take the blame for the loss," said Red Devil

Coach Grant Talbott. "I coached a bad ballgame, but we weren't scoring off the press like we usually do. I'm very upset with myself because I thought this was really the year for us."

"If they had scored off the press in the first half, I might have been the loser," said Barren County Coach Bob Steenbergen. "We just relaxed when we got the big lead (40-19 in the third quarter) and it broke our concentration."

Slightly 'Unnerved' Vitas Gerulaitis Wins In Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis, who'd been making light all week of security arrangements and the nervousness surrounding the Davis Cup matches between the United States and South Africa, was a little unnerved.

He dropped the first set of the meet-opening match Friday night but regained his composure in time to beat South African Bernie Mitton 2-6, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5.

Then teammate Harold Solomon beat Byron Bertram 4-6, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1 to give the United States a 2-0 lead going into today's doubles match. Today's program pits the world's top-ranked team of Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt of South Africa against Americans Sherwood Steward and Fred McNeil.

Security precautions were in force to prevent any ugly scenes that might arise from opposition to the South African presence here. Anti-apartheid protesters numbering about 1,500 marched and chanted all afternoon in and near Vanderbilt University, site of the Davis Cup matches. There were no incidents of violence.

Mitton said in the second set the 23-year-old Gerulaitis "started passing well, and when he starts coming in well, he gets more confident."

The final set was close as the two traded breaks in the seventh and eighth games but Gerulaitis pulled out another when Mitton overhit a backhand and took the final game at love.

Tony Dorsett Is Arrested In Dallas, Tx.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy running back Tony Dorsett and a 27-year-old female companion landed in jail briefly Friday after police stopped the car in which they were riding.

Police spokesman Bob Shaw said Dorsett was arrested for disorderly conduct after he used profanity on patrolmen who stopped the car about 2:15 a.m.

Dorsett's companion was arrested on a misdemeanor drug charge involving 10 pills found in a small coin purse, police said.

Lt. Michael Hibbs said he was in an unmarked police unit when a car passed him exceeding the speed limit and weaving. A second man, Willie Harvey, was identified as the driver. He was not arrested.

Louisville Out In Midwest, 90-89

Corzine, DePaul Nip Cards

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Dave Corzine won one for DePaul ... and lost one for George Mikan.

Playing the best basketball of his career, the gifted DePaul center erased the great Mikan's career scoring record with a thunderous 46-point performance Friday night in the Midwest Regionals of the NCAA playoffs.

Fast becoming a sentimental choice around the country, Ray Meyer's stylish Midwesterners defeated Louisville 90-89 in double overtime on the strength of Corzine's production and moved into Sunday's Midwest finals against Notre Dame.

The Irish advanced to the Midwest showdown game at Lawrence, Kan., with a 69-56 decision over Utah.

Duke and Villanova advanced to the East Regional finals, also on Sunday, with victories Friday night. Duke whipped Penn 84-80 and Villanova edged Indiana 61-60 in the East semifinals at Providence, R.I.

The NCAA playoffs continued today with finals in the Midwest Regionals pairing Kentucky against Michigan State and in the West matching Arkansas with Cal State-Fullerton.

Corzine's spectacular show was clearly the high point of Friday night's action. He capped his performance by scoring the winning basket with less than 20 seconds left in the second overtime period. The 6-foot-11, 250-pounder said it was his best offensive performance ever and was "honored" to break the legendary Mikan's career record of 1,870 points.

Mikan, of course, was recognized as one of the sport's first truly fine big men. He played in the 1940s under the venerable Meyer, providing DePaul with some of its most significant basketball accomplishments.

Freshman Kelly

Trippucka keyed an 11-0 run in the final minute as Notre Dame caught fire at the end to beat Utah. The Irish blew a five-point lead early in the second half and trailed the Utes 50-49 when Trippucka sank a baseline jumper to give Notre Dame the lead back at 51-50.

Utah's Earl Williams drove in for a layup at 6:01, but the Utes then hit a fatal dry spell, going scoreless until Greg Dean hit a pair of free throws at 1:32.

Eugene Banks and Jim Spanarkel scored 21 points apiece to lead Duke over Penn. The Quakers threatened to upset Duke by taking a nine-point lead, 66-58, with about eight minutes remaining in the game.

But Banks, a 6-7 freshman forward, and Spanarkel, a 6-5 guard, hit on a variety of short jumpers and the Blue Devils' defense held Penn to one basket in nearly six minutes.

Rory Sparrow made a twisting, turn-around layup with 13 seconds left to give Villanova its victory over Indiana. The 6-2 Sparrow, who had 12 points for the game, scored the game-winner after Villanova's defense slowed the Hoosier running game to a walk.

Crenshaw Challenges At TPC Golf Action

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Even though Jack Nicklaus is in his customary position at the top of the heap, a new-look Ben Crenshaw could be the man to beat in the $342,000 Tournament Players Championship.

"I've never seen Ben hit the ball better," said Lou Graham, Crenshaw's playing partner for the first 36 holes of this event, billed as the annual championship of pro golf's touring players.

"He's playing very strongly, very solidly, hitting the ball very well."

"If he continues to hit the ball like that, Ben is going to be very hard to beat this week," said Graham, who shares the top spot with Nicklaus and the often-erratic Crenshaw halfway through this temper-testing affair that has produced the highest scores of the season.

The leaders are at 141, only three shots under par after two windswept treks over the reclaimed marshland of the Sawgrass course, a links-type layout that hasn't yielded a score lower than 70 in two assaults by the game's greatest shot-makers.

In addition to the three leaders, only Larry Nelson could break par for two rounds. He went out in wind and cold wearing two sweaters, a wind-breaker, mittens, toboggan cap and shot a 72 for 143. John Mahaffey, a third-place finisher last week, was the only man at par 144 after a second 72.

The average score of the day was slightly over 79, a fantastically high number.

Spartans To Meet Kentucky

Michigan St. Moves Quickly

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Events moved at an accelerated pace this season for Michigan State basketball Coach Judd Heathcote.

In his second season as coach of the Spartans, Heathcote finds himself coaching the 4th-ranked team in the country. And they're in today's finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Midwest Regional basketball tournament against top-ranked Kentucky.

The team's fortunes have come a long way from last year when it was 10-17 and a sixth place finish in the Big Ten.

"I was around when the basketball program was rebuilt at Washington State and then when it was rebuilt at Montana," Heathcote said.

"I felt confident we could do the same here, but it all happened much quicker than I ever dreamed it would."

Heathcote came to Lansing, Mich. at a time when he admits the dominate trait of the local fans was apathy.

"I knew I wasn't slipping into another UCLA when I came here," Heathcote said.

This year's team attracted sellout crowds for each of 13 home games and set a record home total of 128,518 as the current fervor. The fans' attention has been riveted to two hometown heroes, freshman Earvin Johnson and Jay Vincent.

"We've been thrilled with the change," said Heathcote, who said his teams played last year before crowds of 4,000-5,000 people. "The enthusiasm has penetrated the student body and the entire community."

be the catalyst who makes the Spartans go.

"He's made them an exciting, unusual kind of ball club and I think you have to go back to the Pete Maravich teams of Louisiana State to find one like it," said Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall.

Hall is hoping his Kentucky team will continue to display the aggressiveness they showed Thursday night while crushing Miami.

"We have to play with aggressiveness to be a good ball club," the Kentucky coach said.

Hall concluded his team was finally ready to bear down in search of Kentucky's first NCAA basketball title since 1958.

"We played with an emotion that has been missing in the latter part of the season," Hall said of Thursday's effort. "This is a senior ball club that knows they will not be this way again and they responded to this."

Only A National Title Can Top Them

Mideast 'Memories' For Joe B. Hall

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Joe B. Hall has no fonder memory since he became coach of Kentucky than of the victory his team gained in this town in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Midwest Regional tournament three years ago.

"It would take an NCAA championship to offset the greatest day I've had since I've been coaching here," Hall said Friday.

That victory — which overshadows all others in Hall's successful six year tenure at Kentucky — came in the 1975 Mideast Regional finals when his Wildcats upset then-top-ranked Indiana 92-90.

The victory snapped Indiana's 31-game winning streak and gave the Wildcats revenge for a 26 point drubbing that Indiana administered earlier that year.

"It is my greatest moment since I've been here as coach," concluded Hall, who has taken Wildcat teams to four NCAA championships. This year it is Kentucky which is top-rated and being pursued by Michigan State going into Saturday's Mideast Regional finals here.

Some of Kentucky's seniors share their coach's fond memories of that victory over Indiana. The 1975 Wildcats were a team which boasted of senior stars such as Kevin Grevey and Jimmy Dan Connors. But it also had two big freshmen in Rick Robey and Mike Phillips, who spent the day trying to contend with the Hossier's powerful center, Kent Benson.

"It was one of our biggest victories while I've been here and a thrill for me," said Robey, who has grown along with Phillips into the role of a senior leader of the team.

"I remember Indiana.

Indiana had beaten us by 26 points early in the season and we came into Dayton looking forward to the chance of playing them again."

The Wildcats — spurred on by a large contingent from their home state — caught Indiana with an additional handicap since their star, Scott May was

Sloan, N.C. Wolfpack Return To The Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Sloan remembers the first time he came to New York to play for North Carolina State.

"It was 1946," he recalls. "The coach made me buy a suit. I paid $18 for it and he said it reached like I'd had a bunch of burlap sacks sewn together."

"It was exciting to come here to the old Garden, dress in the dressing room where (former heavyweight champion) Joe Louis dressed, then to play in the arena."

"It wasn't much of a thrill, though, when all 10 or 12 of us tried to use that single showerhead."

Sloan returned to New York and the new Madison Square Garden as coach of the North Carolina State Wolfpack, leading them against Georgetown Sunday night in the semifinal doubleheader of the National Invitation Tournament.

"This will be the first time most of my kids have seen New York, much less Madison Square Garden, in a national tournament," Sloan observed. "The only thing I can do if some of them get a bit awed is just sit him down just recovering from a broken arm.

Benson's dominance was not enough to compensate for the handicap to May, who played the game anyway, and for the vengeful spirit of Kentucky.

Hall remembers what happened next.

a little bit. At the beginning, we might be a little mesmerized, but if you've got a tough bunch of guys, they're going to overcome it."

The 20-9 Wolfpack has overcome South Carolina and Detroit to reach the NIT semifinals against the 23-6 Georgetown Hoyas in the twinbill's opener. Rutgers, 23-6, meets the University of Texas, 24-5, in the nightcap that sets up Tuesday night's championship contest.

Coach John Thompson's Hoyas are well adjusted to New York and the Garden. They bested Holy Cross and Alabama there to win the ECAC Holiday Festival, and later rallied from a 22-point deficit to edge Manhattan 81-80.

"Yeah, the kids are glad to be back here," Thompson said.

Quadratic Favored In 'Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quadratic, a leading Kentucky Derby prospect, is the heavy favorite in a field of 10 three-year-olds at the $124,750 Louisiana Derby Sunday at the Fair Grounds.

Quadratic, winner of the Bahamas and Everglades handicaps at Hialeah, will carry jockey Eddie Maple and top weight of 123 pounds — three to 10 more than his nine rivals.

Quadratic will run from the post position in the 1 1/2-mile race, which will be worth $79,750 to the winner.

Battonnier, a successful campaigner at the Fair Grounds this winter, has the second-highest weight assignment at 120.

The rest of the field includes Aesops' Foibles, 118; As In Elbow, Smoke Pole, and Double The Money, 115 each; and Chief of Dixieland, Pool Court, Sly Shadow and Tornado Kid, 113 each.

Sunny skies and a fast track are forecast for the race.

Saturday's Fair Grounds feature is the $35,000 Debutante Stakes, a mile-and-1/16th race for fillies.

"I'll never forget the ride home," he said. "State police met us at the bridge into Kentucky and escorted us back to Lexington."

"There was a five mile motorcade which formed behind us and people stood on the fences along the interstate and waved to us as we passed. There were people in fields and on tractors cheering us all on our way home."

The 1975 Wildcats narrowly missed giving Hall a national championship. They beat Syracuse in their next game before losing to UCLA in the NCAA finals, 92-85.

Hall said this year's squad is not as quick as that 1975 team.

"We're a little more efficient offensively but not as good defensively," Hall concluded.

"Depth-wise I think we're about the same," he said.

Sunday, March 19

Your birthday today: Work at things you most enjoy. Artistic or creative urges will come into play. Romance will expand beyond your beliefs. Dreams can come true, but you must work harder at human relationships.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Talk out problems with mate. Health may need attention. Get more rest. Get ready for week ahead.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Take more time for family members. Be a better listener. Influential people do not want to be bothered today. Conserve energy. Gemini (May 21-June 20): Give some time to personal problems. A leisurely day spent with loved one may be the answer. A quiet dinner could be amusing and romantic.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Devote today to family and loved ones. Think more of others. Visit a museum or park. Use extreme caution when working with electrical equipment.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Be more moderate. Travel not advisable. Try to resolve disagreements with your mate before bedtime. Eat with restraint. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Check your car out carefully before using. Avoid travel if possible. Devote part of the day to rethinking goals. Exercise, but don't overdo.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Try to control your moods better. You may have to cancel a trip or journey. Get paper work in order. Revise budget; stick with it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be more patient, particularly in a traffic jam. Today favors lots of quiet time. Exercise and a more balanced diet will lead to better health.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Expect a day of ups and downs. Running away from problems can be expensive. Show more attention to your mate and children. Study Sunday papers to find a terrific house to buy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Loved ones may give you a hard time today. A burden carried home from the office could cause quarrels. Trips to the country could relieve tension. Show loved ones more appreciation.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Sort out a health problem. Turn down social invitations. Get more rest. Eat lightly. Avoid emotionally charged situations.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Limit spending. Seek advice from influential people who can give you "inside" word. Read legal documents carefully before signing.

Mon., March 20, 1978

Aries (March 21-April 19): Personal happiness may preoccupy you. Colleague may give you strong assist. New contacts could figure in financial success. Seek intellectual friends.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Don't let personal feelings color opinions in business matters. Put best foot forward. Dress conservatively. Be candid in discussions with mate.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Let creative ideas flow. Business agreement looks favorable. Entertain nicely but inexpensively. Get more sleep.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Teamwork is the key to success. Try something new. Take advantage of unexpected opportunities.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): An upsurge of energy puts you in a productive mood. Co-workers should be cooperative. Seek ways to increase savings. Swallow pride and get advice.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Concentrate on work. Money problems have abated. Seek fresh information. Health should improve. Be more patient.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid hasty decisions, especially where they affect your money. You will be in harmony with your romantic partner. Legal matters favorable. Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A phone call should improve your mood. Don't overlook the needs of children. It's a happy night for romance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Expect ups and downs. Key people show interest in new ventures; are even willing to put up cash! Love affair favored for singles.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Obstacles that stumped you last week no longer impede progress! Your leadership will pay off handsomely. Superiors will be impressed. Get in touch with contacts who live overseas.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Self-discipline, willpower will pay off. Rely heavily on your own judgment. Seek answers to financial problems. Romance brings happiness.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Raise or bonus may swell pay envelope. Show superiors all of your talents. Boldness will pay off. Gamble a little! Spend evening celebrating success.

Citizens on Radio

Broadcasters ask for local CB law

By E. Z. Strange

Citizens band radio operators in Yakima, Wash., have asked the City Council there to write ordinances that would permit city law officers to crack down on CBers who use foul language on the air, hog channels and interfere with emergency calls.

They've also sought support from the Yakima County Commissioners to get similar legislation effective outside the city.

According to a spokesman for the CBers, Harold Gordon, such precedents for local legislation have already been set by the State of Indiana and an unnamed town in Texas. "We want equipment confiscated, stiff fines and possible jail sentences for persistent violators," Gordon is quoted as saying.

The regional office of the Federal Communications Commission in Seattle does not have enough manpower to regulate CB users, it was claimed.

So if the airwaves are to be policed, it will have to be done locally.

Question arose as to how local lawmen could detect violators.

Then came the rub. Gordon said his group was a chapter of the so-called "CB Posse," organized by the American Law Enforcement Officers' Association in Washington, D. C. And he said some members could use direction finders, recorders and other electronic equipment to identify violators.

So the call for local enforcement to control CB, a suggestion that started out looking pretty good, suddenly opened up that age-old devilish question:

To what extent can vigilante action be trusted to correct a bad situation? How dangerous might it be to let unofficial private citizens assume the quasi-authority to gather evidence against alleged offenders?

ANTENNA LAWSUIT

Four New Jersey boys critically injured when a CB antenna they were setting up brushed a power line have been awarded a $375,000 court settlement against Radio Shack and the Jersey Central Power & Light Co.

Each was badly burned. Some lost toes. One nearly died in cardiac arrest.

Passaic County Superior Court Judge Charles S. Johnson awarded $120,000 to George J. Dillinsky, 18, $65,000 to his brother James, 17, $110,000 to Daniel Shields, 15, and $80,000 to William Cruz, 17.

The accident occurred May 12, 1976, when the four boys were erecting a CB antenna at Cruz's house in Wanaque, N. J. The high metal antenna tilted for some reason toward the nearby hot wire and electricity coursed down the rod and through the boys who were standing on wet grass.

The damage suit was filed against the Tandy Corp., parent company of Radio Shack, where the antenna had been bought, and against the Jersey Central Power & Light.

The suit charged that the antenna was unsafe for its intended purpose and there was insufficient warning to advise people of the electrical danger.

It probably cannot be considered a landmark CB court case until and if it goes through higher courts and maybe even the highest.

But it's clearly significant, even so, because so many CBers have been injured and killed in similar accidents.

In Georgia, the CB network that monitors Ch. 9 to offer help in emergencies calls itself RUSH: Radio Users Send Help. Signs on numerous Georgia highways read: "RUSH monitors Ch. 9."

Add the Pascagoula School District in Mississippi to that lengthening list of bus fleet operators who are installing CB radios in their vehicles for emergency communication in case of accidents and breakdowns.

Hints From Heloise

COFFEE LOVERS! Have I got a money-saving, taste bud-awakening idea for you!

I really enjoy my coffee. Nothing tastes better than that first good cup early in the morning while reading the paper.

I also enjoy many of those fancy, continental-type coffees that come in different flavors, but they really do get expensive. Also, many of them have sugar added, and that really boosts the calorie count (for those of us who count).

As the old saying goes, "I put my brain to work," and came up with an idea that saves money — considerably, and calories — lots.

I make my own. My favorite is cinnamon. I sprinkle some ground cinnamon in my coffee cup, add some artificial sweetener and then pour in the coffee. I add my creamer or skim milk and stir well.

I guar-an-tee that it will delight your taste buds, and have your humming with pleasure.

I also like nutmeg or allspice added, especially for after-dinner coffee. It is almost like a rich, sweet dessert for me, and really satisfies that urge to have something I don't really need. A dash or spoonful of cocoa, depending on how strong your taste preference is, will give your coffee a sinfully good, chocolate flavor that is unbeatable. Bon appetit! — Heloise

LETTER OF LOVE

DEAR HELOISE: Sometimes when I read a hint in your column I feel so smart, if I'd already thought of it. Other times I just think an idea is original with me and then realize that it had come from your column.

You're a real help to us all and I thank you sincerely. — Becky Scott

DEAR HELOISE:

I bake for birthdays, etc. quite a lot, and I love it. So when sending a round or sheet cake to someone, I cut heavy cardboard to fit, wrap with aluminum foil, and presto — a throwaway, and no lost containers or plates. — Mrs. A. G. Bishop

DEAR HELOISE:

My 69-year-old mother has everything she needs, and choosing a gift she would like

(and use) was not an easy task. Her eyesight is poor, but she still likes to keep up her correspondence with friends and relatives. I hit on the idea of addressing envelopes for her.

I obtained all the names and addresses of people she writes to, and set to work addressing envelopes. I used a rubber band to hold each different name and filled the envelopes alphabetically in the same box they came in.

I also included a variety of the new stamps since Mother is an avid stamp collector.

She loved this gift and still tells me how it helps her when she wants to write a letter. — Ruby Heerde

What a lovely gift! And a lovely person you are.

We certainly can't be too considerate when it comes to our senior citizens. Hugs. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a helpful hint for Easter.

Buy some small packages of unsweetened, powdered drink mix in grape, cherry, strawberry, etc. Put one package in water — enough to cover several eggs. Add just a pinch of salt and boil until the eggs are hard-boiled. Do the same with the other packages.

Not only will you have beautifully colored eggs (with no mess with egg dye), but your home will be filled with luscious aromas! — Mrs. Elsie Newberry

Elsie, you're a honey of an Easter bunny to have come up with something so easy, so fast — with no mess and no fuss!

We used coffee cans to boil the eggs in, added a different-colored mix to each one and had the loveliest eggs ever in minutes — with no clean-up afterwards! — Kisses — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

After taping the bottom of the plastic containers some tooth brushes come in, I store my crochet hooks in them.

I can readily see the size hook I need. — Mrs. Garland Welch

THIS COLUMN is written for you, the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

The pastor, the Rev. Harry Nall, and the members invite the public to attend.

Vandalism Reported At Mayfield School

An estimated $250 damage was done to Mayfield High School grounds Thursday night, Mayfield police have reported.

High School principal Ralph Colby reported to police that the damage was done at approximately 9:20 p.m. According to reports, a four-wheel vehicle dug deep ruts in the wet yard by spinning wheels and turning sharply. The vehicle's tracks circled over the school grounds and led across the area toward the Paris Road.

Police have made casts of the tire tracks in their investigation of the incident.

Police also said that Shelia McEndree, of 427 South Seventh Street, reported a window broken in her car which was parked at her home at 9:25 p.m. Friday.

Miss McEndree told officers she heard a loud noise about that time, and investigated to find a window on the driver's side of the car had been shattered.

The Snake River runs 1,038 miles from its origin in Ocean Plateau in Wyoming to its terminus in Washington's Columbia River.

Bhutto, Four Others Are Sentenced To Death Today

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Deposed Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto and four ex-security agents were sentenced today to death by hanging on conviction of ordering the murder of a political opponent.

"All these five accused shall be hanged by the neck till they are dead," the Lahore High Court ruled after they were found guilty of "hatching a conspiracy to assassinate" their longtime foe.

Bhutto, the 50-year-old U.S.-educated founder of the Pakistan Peoples Party, and the other four defendants were given seven days to file an appeal in the Supreme Court of Pakistan.

The 410-page judgement by the five-judge panel was unanimous. Bhutto and the others were present when the sentence was read by Chief Justice Mushtaq Hussain at the court in Lahore, 180 miles southeast of here.

Under the sentence, the five also face seven-year jail terms but these can be appealed too. If the convictions stand, however, Bhutto and the others would be barred from seeking political office.

Ousted in a bloodless military coup last July 5, Bhutto has been detained by the martial law government since Sept. 17. Other court cases pending against the former prime minister include charges of corruption and abuse of office stemming from his 5½-year rule.

Also convicted in the 1974 slaying were Mian Mohammed Abbas, former director of Bhutto's personally supervised Federal Security Force, and three security force inspectors — Rana Iftikhar Ahmed, Arshad Iqbal and Ghulam Mustafa.

According to testimony during the trial, Bhutto ordered the three inspectors to kill Ahmed Raza Khan, a leading member of the opposition Pakistan National Alliance.
