University Reorganization Takes More Definite Shape With Appointments Saturday

A major academic-administrative reorganization at Murray State University took more definite shape Saturday as the board of regents approved several top echelon appointments, including a new vice-president.

Dr. Constantine W. Curris, university president, said the election of three of the four vice-presidents and three of the five deans in the new structure authorized by the board Feb. 2 is the beginning in the effort "to put the pieces together."

Named as the new vice-president for university services was Dr. John M. Bartholomy, chairman of the department of special education. He will officially assume his new duties July 1. Two vice-presidents in the university's current organizational plan were reelected by the board, also effective July 1. They will have new titles, but each will continue to serve in essentially the same role. They are: Dr. Thomas B. Hogancamp, vice-president for administrative affairs since July 1, 1968, who will become vice-president for administration and finance; and Dr. William G. Read, vice-president for academic affairs since July 1, 1970, who will become vice-president for academic programs.

Deans named were: Dr. Joe N. Prince, College of Creative Expression; Dr. Walter E. Blackburn, College of Environmental Sciences; and Dr.

Donald B. Hunter, College of Human Development and Learning.

Each of the three is now serving as a dean of one of the six schools on the campus to be replaced by five new colleges. Prince is dean of the School of Fine Arts, Blackburn dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, and Hunter dean of the School of Education.

Prince's appointment became effective today—the other two will take effect at the beginning of a new fiscal year July 1.

A fourth vice-president and deans of the two remaining colleges have not yet been named.

Curris said a search committee has received more than 200 applications for vice-president for student development. The field has been narrowed to eight candidates, he added, and they have begun visiting the campus.

"All candidates for that vice-presidency who are now under consideration are from outside the university," Curris continued. "I hope to have a recommendation ready to present to the board by the end of April."

A search committee has also been organized and is at work on applications for a dean of the College of Business and Public Affairs and another will be formed this week to begin looking for a dean of the College of Humanistic Studies, according to Curris.

He said it would probably be a couple of months before he would have recommendations on those two deanships.

Besides schools now headed by Prince, Blackburn and Hunter, other schools in the academic structure to be replaced are the School of Applied Sciences and Technology, the School of Business, and the Graduate School. Under the reorganization plan, each college will handle its own graduate studies program.

Bartholomy, 38, joined the faculty in 1969 as director of the speech and hearing center on the campus. Formerly a faculty member at Ohio University in Athens, where he earned the (See University, Page 10)

Osborne Files For Reelection

Chief Justice Earl T. Osborne filed his papers, for reelection to the Court of Appeals, with the Secretary of State on March 29, 1974. He has represented the First Appellate District upon that Court for the past eight years. The District consists of Ballard, Carlisle, Hickman, Fulton, McCracken, Graves, Livingston, Marshall, Calloway, Crittenden, Lyon, Trigg, Caldwell, Christian, Hopkins, Webster, McLean, Muhlenberg, Butler, Todd, Logan, Allen and Simpson Counties.

Chief Justice Osborne was Circuit Judge of the 42nd

Earl T. Osborne

Judicial District, consisting of Calloway, Marshall and Livingston Counties for nine years prior to his election to the Court of Appeals in 1967. He is an advocate of judicial reform and has strongly supported reform measures as Chief Justice. He was born and raised in Ballard County, Kentucky and is a Democrat. The primary election will be May 28th.

Osborne is being opposed in the race for Court of Appeals by Commonwealth's Attorney, Boyce C. Clayton of Marshall County.

Election Official Says State Candidates May Need Bookkeeper

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The director of Kentucky's Registry of Election Finance says candidates for Kentucky offices might do well to get a bookkeeper to handle their campaign accounts.

"And those people who can't read or write better not run," says K.F. Vinzell.

These tidbits of advice are the result of new "teeth" in Kentucky's election finance laws under bills passed by the 1974 legislature.

House Bill 68, which is awaiting Gov. Wendell Ford's signature, faced its share of hurdles in the legislature, and supporters of election finance reform bemoaned each attempt to amend the bill. Several attempts succeeded.

But supporters acknowledged last week that the final product is a strong bill. Pending action by legislatures now meeting in other states, they say the bill puts Kentucky at the forefront in efforts to assure that candidates report contributions to their campaigns.

"I do think undoubtedly that compared with what other states have had in the past, this does put us in a position of having one of the best campaign reporting laws in the country," said Rep. Nicholas Kafoglis, D-Bowling Green, sponsor of the bill.

Kafoglis credits the current political climate with the success of his bill, noting that the Watergate disclosures were a factor in assuring passage in the legislature.

"Then, too, the fact that the Democratic Party has had some problems...made some people think we ought not to let the Republicans have this as a campaign issue," he said.

Kafoglis referred to the controversy surrounding reporting of donations during a Democratic fund-raising drive last spring.

One provision of his bill, a limit of $3,000 on individual contributions to any candidate in a campaign, is stronger than current federal law. Kafoglis said, although legislation to put a similar limit on donations to campaigns for national office is pending in Congress.

Under Kafoglis' bill and another measure, Senate Bill 220, which already has been signed by Ford, the Registry of Election Finance will have power far beyond what it now has. To handle the expansion of its role as watchdog over campaign spending, the registry will be hiring a full-time investigator.

Three Traffic Accidents Are Reported In City Over Weekend

Three traffic accidents were reported to Murray City Police over the weekend, according to department reports.

At eight p.m. Sunday, a three-car accident was reported at the intersection of Fourth and Poplar, involving cars driven by Clark J. Sheeks, 1323 Main, Pamela R. Tucker of Elizabeth Hall, and Howard F. Newell, 1323½ Main, according to police.

Investigating officers said the Tucker and Newell cars were parked, headed east on Poplar, and the Sheeks car was going east on Poplar at the time of the accident. Damage to the Sheeks car was to the right front, damage to the Tucker car was to the rear.

At 6:34 a.m. today, cars driven by Louise M. Owens, Route Six, and Edward E. Owens, 507 South Seventh, collided at the intersection of Fifth and Maple, according to police.

Officers said the Louise Owens car was going east on Maple and the Edward Owens car was headed north on Fifth when the accident occurred. Damage to both cars was to the right front.

Cars driven by David N. Durlin, of Mayfield and Jack L. Hixon, Route One, collided Sunday on the 121 Bypass, according to police.

Officers said the Durlin car was going west on 121 and the Hixon car was going east on 121 when the accident occurred. Damage to the Durlin car was to the left side, and damage to the Hixon car was to the left front, according to police.

Squad Responds To Fire, Break-Ins, Rescue Calls On Weekend

The Calloway County Fire-Rescue unit responded to two calls over the weekend, one to Kentucky Lake where a boat containing four persons from Michigan had capsized, and one to a mobile home fire at Dexter, Rt. 1.

The mobile home of Lammon Peeler at Dexter was totally destroyed in the fire early Sunday morning, which occurred while the family was out of town.

The rescue squad received the call to the blaze at 2:45 a.m. Sunday and arrived on the scene at 3:12 a.m. with three units and 19 firefighters. A spokesman for the squad said that after they arrived, some explosions occurred inside the mobile home.

Bud Miller, Marvin Weatherford, Tom Lyles, Ronnie Barnett, Randy Linn, Lloyd Key, Charles Tubbs and Ricky Edwards.

The call to Kentucky Lake was received at 12:30 p.m. Saturday and the squad arrived on the scene at 12:45 p.m. A spokesman for the squad said that the boat carrying the vacationers from Michigan had capsized and that two of the four persons had made it to shore on their own while the remaining two were picked up by the Coast Guard.

The trip was not in vain, however, as the squad discovered A. B. Livingston and his two sons from Hopkinsville on the far bank of the lake, where they ended up following the capsizing of their boat.

Break-Ins, Vandalism Reported

Murray City Police reported several investigations over the weekend, of break-ins and vandalism.

A cold drink machine at the Thoroughbred Restaurant was burglarized and $25-$30 missing, according to police. Officers said the machine was heavily damaged.

A break-in at Vernon's Boot and Shoe Store was reported to police. The intruders made off with about $150 in a bank bag, after reportedly picking the lock to the front door.

A break-in was also reported at the First Christian Church. The vandals broke the glass in a rear door and caused heavy damage to a vending machine in the church.

Seven tires were cut on one truck and three on another at the intersection of Fourth and Spruce over the weekend. The tractor-trailer rigs were parked on a lot at the corner of Fourth and Spruce.

Marketbasket Survey Shows Decline In Family Food Bill

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
The family grocery bill declined slightly during March, the first such drop in five months, an AP marketbasket survey shows.

More items went up in price than went down. But sales on meat and eggs cut the dollar value of the marketbasket in nine of 13 cities checked, with an average decrease of 2.2 per cent. It was the first month since October that marketbasket declines outnumbered increases.

The AP priced 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked at the beginning of each succeeding month. The latest check showed that 32.3 per cent of the items in the survey went up in price during March, 1974; 23.6 per cent decreased; 36.4 per cent were unchanged; and 7.7 per cent were unavailable on one of the two survey dates.

The marketbasket decreases ranged from a fraction of a per cent in Albuquerque, N.M., to 4 per cent in Boston where the price of a pound of chopped chuck dropped from $1.49 to $1.09.

The bill was up in four cities — Seattle, Wash., New York, Miami and Philadelphia — with an average increase of 1.6 per cent.

Prices in every city were higher at the beginning of April 1974 than they were on March 1, 1973. The marketbasket bill was up an average of 13.3 per cent over the 13-month period, with increases ranging from 6 per cent in Los Angeles to 25 per cent in Philadelphia.

Meat sales helped cut the bill. All-beef frankfurters, for example, declined in 11 cities during March and stayed the same in two. The average decline was 9 per cent. The average price for a pound of all-beef franks on March 1, 1973, was $1.09. On March 1, 1974, the average price was $1.35 and on March 30, 1974, it was $1.24. Eggs decreased in 10 cities, down four or five cents to about 75 cents a dozen in most places. The price increased in two cities, New York and Detroit, and was unchanged in Philadelphia.

Chocolate chip cookies were up in 12 cities during March, rising an average of 5 per cent.

They were unavailable in one city. The average price of a 14½-ounce bag of cookies was 61 cents on March 1, 1973; 75 cents on March 1, 1974; and 79 cents on March 30, 1974, for an over-all increase of 30 per cent. Sugar was up at the retail as well as the wholesale level. A five-pound bag of granulated sugar that cost an average of 68 cents on March 1, 1973, cost $1.00 12 months later and was (See Food, Page 10)

Theft Is Reported At School Site

Over $1,800 in materials was reported stolen from the construction site of the new North Elementary School on North 16th Street Extended over the weekend.

The Calloway County Sheriff's department, which investigated the incident, reported that Quality Construction Co., the contractors for the schools, listed 1,000 feet of copper lead wire, valued at $1,800, and two copper lead grounds, valued at $20 each, missing as well as a small quantity of gasoline.

The thieves gained entrance to the site by cutting through the chain link fence which surrounds the school property.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Suggests Financial Disclosure Law

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll says the 1976 General Assembly should consider a law to require legislators to fully disclose their financial status and interests.

Carroll said it no longer is sufficient to be an honest public official. "You have to prove it (nowadays)."

"We have got to consider legislation which makes their conduct and voting records above reproach," he said.

Carroll is an unannounced

Democratic candidate for governor in 1975 and, if successful, presumably would exert strong influence on the 1976 General Assembly.

He said he currently files his income tax forms with the news media.

"There is nothing you don't know about Julian Carroll financially," he said.

Carroll, speaking in a television appearance (WKYT) here, said the experiences of the past legislative session convinced him that ethics is one of two vital issues needing clarification.

The other, he said, is the need for legislative committees to inform the public adequately of coming major issues.

He noted as an example that a bill on deep-well exploration or gas and oil prompted unexpected controversy after it already had breezed through the House. Also, he noted that two measures liberalizing pension benefits for police and firemen in eight cities apparently did not even come to the attention of officials of affected cities until it was too late for a hearing to be called. The bills passed in amended form.

Carroll said he would put the 1974 session "in the median category."

"I will not try to say it outshined all others," he said.

He said one of the most misunderstood bills of the 1974 session was the bill to regulate abortion practices. Carroll, who declared before the session that he was against abortion, said some Kentuckians mistakenly believe the new law liberalizes abortion.

"The Kentucky General Assembly did not pass a law authorizing abortion," he said. "What it did was impose restrictions...It outlawed abortion to every legal extent possible under the Supreme Court ruling."

Basic Health Sciences Help Dental Research

Emerging from its earlier preoccupation with the mechanical arts, dentistry has begun to draw increasing sustenance from the basic health sciences, and now encompasses more than 30 disciplines, including biochemistry, cell biology, embryology, nutrition, physiology, and speech science.

In recent years, however, dentistry has begun to experience a new vitality, reports the National Institute of Dental Research which this year is observing its 25th anniversary.

Research has shown that interactions between diet, certain kinds of bacteria, and tooth susceptibility produce decay. National Institute of Dental Research scientists point out.

"If the diet is not high in refined carbohydrates, decay is low or absent," they say in a pamphlet, "The Expanding World of Dental Science."

"Similarly, if there are no decay-producing bacteria, or if the tooth surface is not susceptible, there is no decay. All three factors must be present for the onset of caries."

The search for a better means to replace lost teeth has taken a step forward with the successful use of plastic tooth implants in baboons. To study tissue reactions to the implants, several techniques have been used to fix them. Life-like plastic teeth have remained firmly in place for as long as six years, withstanding such abuse as the baboon's penchant for gnawing on the metal bars of his cage.

Periodontal disease, the insidious destruction of tissue supporting the teeth, accounts for most tooth loss after age 35. In the hope of diminishing this loss, National Institute of Dental Research studies are being made of factors such as diabetes, the bite, and local irritants which affect the teeth.

Studies on the mechanism of formation and composition of tartar, an important factor in the development of periodontal disease, also are being conducted.

Tartar is formed by an accumulation of plaque, a thin film that clings to teeth after eating if it is not removed. Regular brushing, mouth rinsing, and the use of dental floss are the best ways to remove fresh plaque.

For those persons who find it painful to brush their teeth because of dental hypersensitivity, dental research recently has developed both a toothbrush, Sensodyne Gentle, and a dentifrice, Sensodyne. The toothbrush has the gentlest, softest bristles available to minimize the possibility of pain or irritation from brushing, and the dentifrice has an active ingredient that helps block the transmission of painful stimuli.

All in all, the outlook for the understanding, treatment, and ultimate prevention of dental disorders has never been brighter.

Combine one cup ground veal, one-half cup thick white sauce, and one-third cup cooked peas. Season and chill. Shape into croquettes. Dip in sifted crumbs and fry until brown. Serve with tomato cheese sauce.

Veal salad is an excellent way to use up a cup of leftover veal. Combine diced veal with one-half cup diced celery, one-half cup sliced toasted almonds and enough salad dressing to moisten. Serve on lettuce.

SMART SHOPPER TIPS— Avoid costly extras such as snacks, soft drinks, and fancy bakery products.

Use reconstituted nonfat dry milk in cooking. Mix equal parts of fresh milk and reconstituted nonfat dry milk for a beverage. Buy fresh milk in gallon containers at the store. Sort through the food coupons in newspapers, magazines, and your mailbox. Save only those coupons for items that your family likes and you will use.

Stop by the day-old bakery counter or bakery resale store. Most products will be just as good on the second day and usually cost substantially less.

Compare brands. Make use of unit pricing to help you find the best buy. Select the correct grade of canned goods for the use. A lower grade of canned vegetables is fine for soups and casseroles. Use a lesser grade of fruits in molded salads and cooking.

Figure cost per serving, not per pound of meat. Cuts with lots of fat and bone yield fewer servings.—thus hamburger is a better buy than ribs at the same price per pound.—Mrs. Maxine Griffin, Federal Bld., Box B, Clinton.

WHAT IS THE ACTUAL MEANING OF THE WORD "Beauty"? (1) the quality that arouses admiration. That means that beauty includes skills, talents and character, as well as visual appearance. (2) Approval—so beauty calls for lady-like manners, habits and good taste too. (3) Pleasure—to be beautiful, we must give pleasure to others—which means consideration, kindness, generosity, humor and understanding. When we look at all the dimensions of beauty, we can see how easy it is to become that object possessing beauty, and we know that beauty is more than skin deep.—Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson, Hickman, Ky.

If you've redone a room and it has that stark look of "fresh from the furniture store," now is the time to go antique looking. Look for unusual and different accessories that fit your color scheme. Small, handpainted plates and one of a kind dessert dishes make nice ashtrays. Soup tureens, sugar bowl and preserve stands without tops, small odd pitchers, or a big ironstone cup would be an excellent flower container. Mustache cups, spoon holders, odd goblets, and the like are great for pencil holders.

Baskets of all sorts and pickling crocks work well as magazine holders. And what can add such a warm human touch to your family room as a crock or old churn full of wild bird seed setting by the door inviting everyone who passes to feed the birds. These are just suggestions. Walk through the little out-of-the-way shops and use your own imagination.—Mrs. Mildred W. Potts, LaCenter, Ky.

National FHA Week Activities Planned, Calloway High Chapter

The Calloway County High School Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America is observing National FHA Week, March 31 to April 6. Members of the Calloway FHA Chapter will carry out special activities and observances designed to share their experiences and accomplishments with family, friends, and neighbors.

The theme chosen for this year's National FHA Week is "Explore Roles—Extend Goals" to focus attention on what women in FHA chapters throughout the country are doing to explore the multiple roles individuals play in family, community, and career life.

Calloway members have scheduled a number of activities for this week, according to Malinda Taylor, president, and Patsy Burken, chairman of National FHA week.

On Sunday the girls observed "Church Day" with each member wearing something to designate they were a member as wearing a red and white dress or a pin about FHA.

Today, Monday, the reporter had a story in the local paper, over the intercom, and also planned an announcement for the local radio station.

Tuesday is "Poster Day" with members making posters on "American Heritage."

Wednesday is "Red and White Day" with each member to

1 egg
1/4 cup water
6 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cloves garlic, crushed
2 scallions, with green tops included, minced
8-ounce skinned boned chicken breast, cut into 2-by-1-inch strips
3 cups salad oil

Beat together the egg, water, cornstarch and salt until smooth; stir in garlic and scallion. Add chicken and fold over to coat. Heat oil to 400 degrees. With chopsticks or a slotted spoon drop chicken strips, one by one, into hot oil; reserve remaining egg mixture. Fry for 1 minute, then remove with slotted spoon or small strainer; chicken will look white. Return chicken to hot oil and fry until brown; when it floats to top, it is done. Drain on paper towels. ## Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

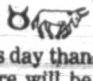

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1974

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)
Magnetic Mars forces stimulate your ambitions, energy and desire to be "in the middle of things." Fine! But don't waste time or talents on worthless ventures.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)
You can do more this day than you may realize. There will be plenty of opportunities to advance your status—both personally and business-wise.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)
Extra responsibilities indicated. Tackle regular duties first, then take on what you can—within reason. Don't overcrowd your schedule.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)
You may not accomplish ALL you hope to, but don't quit! Keep your hand on the wheel and keep pressing forward—to make SOME gains!

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Day may not be exciting but, if you look in the right places, you will find more than adequate reason for rejoicing. Get an early start!

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Sidestep any activity that could hamper your forward movement. You may encounter unexpected situations; much good, too.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Getting preliminaries out of the way thoroughly, but not fussily, will be your main line to success now. Emphasize coordination, accuracy, foresight.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Banish humdrum thoughts; reach for higher ones of better content and aspiration. You

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Calmness and serenity can see you over the day's rough spots. Aid someone who may be unhappy at the moment.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
An excellent day in which to display your competence in home, office or other areas which need your presence and skills. But do not try to cover too much territory.

PISCES

Work on whole week's plans. Be observing in all the right places. Take care in partnerships, handling the affairs of others.

YOU BORN TODAY are an unusually active individual, sometimes too impulsive, and tend to go to extremes in all your activities. You are highly imaginative and often give unusual "twists" to the most ordinary undertakings.

Although you could excel as a business and (or) financial leader, you have a strong bent toward music and, if you do not take up composing or the playing of an instrument as a career, could well make either a most profitable avocation. You could also either write or paint—depending upon your inclinations. Curb a tendency to insist on your own way in all things. ## Rev. Charles Yancy Is Speaker At Meet Of Independence Church Men And Women

The Independence United Methodist Men and Women met in a joint March meeting at seven p.m. at the church with Rev. Charles Yancy of the Kirksey and Coles Camp Ground—United Methodist Churches as speaker.

Rev. Yancy spoke on the "Nature of the Church." His scripture was from the book of Jude. He said that a building is not a church until the people are there and that the church has to start within each of us. He was introduced by Mrs. T.P. Jones, women's president.

The meeting was opened with a class song led by Mrs. Euel Burken and Rev. Richard Schorrey, church pastor, at the piano. Rev. and Mrs. Schorrey sang a special song that he had written. Following Rev. Yancy's talk, another song was sung by Rev. and Mrs. Schorrey.

Leon Duncan led the closing prayer and separate business meetings were held by the men and women. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Palmer of the Kirksey Church were special guests.

Mrs. T.P. Jones presided at the women's meeting. The minutes were read by Mrs. Wayne Burken and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Buel Hopkins.

The project of the month was for each woman to give a penny a pound toward the redecoration of the church. Plans were made for a visit to Fern Terrace by the group. The scrapbook for 1973 was shown, and Miss Cheryl Burken was praised for her design of the scrapbook. Mrs. Buel Hopkins led the closing prayer.

The women joined the Methodist Men for refreshments and fellowship in the basement. Present for the women's meeting were nineteen members and one visitor, and for the men's group were thirteen members and two guests.

Wake up! Charles is not your Prince Charming

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How can I meet Prince Charles? I have always admired him, and it has been my dream to meet him one day, but I'm not having any luck.

I've written him several letters, and each time his secretary has answered, saying: "The Prince of Wales regrets that he is unable to meet you."

I am a normal, intelligent 20-year-old college girl. I'm told I am pretty, and have a pleasing personality. I've read everything I could find about the royal family in general and Prince Charles in particular. I'll bet I know more about the royal family than most people living in England and the rest of the United Kingdom.

I hope you won't think I'm crazy, but I have even taken horseback riding lessons, and I plan to take flying lessons when I can afford it because I know those are Prince Charles' favorite sports. Also, if we ever meet I will have something to talk to him about.

Abby, you're supposed to have all the answers. Can you help my dream come true? CATHY IN BROOKLYN

DEAR CATHY: Sorry, but I don't have the answer to this one. Dreaming is all right, but we have to live in the real world. So, wake up, Cathy. Your "Prince Charming" could be someone you've already met—in a Brooks Brothers suit with a Brooklyn accent, yet!

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a family argument. My husband, who is 43, told our 17-year-old daughter that she was "filling out" nicely—then he asked her what her bra size was.

Our daughter became embarrassed, blushed, and said she didn't want to tell him. I came to her defense and said that the question was a personal matter, and I didn't think it was anything her father had to know.

He became angry and said that as her father he had a right to know! Our daughter was nearly in tears, and I ended the discussion by siding with her, and that is where we left it.

Now my husband is upset with both me and my daughter. Abby, do you think that was a proper question for a father to ask his 17-year-old daughter? OLD FASHIONED MOM

DEAR MOM: No! Your budding daughter's bra size is none of Dad's business. And while we're on the subject of measuring things, I wonder what your husband's I.Q. is?

DEAR ABBY: I am 35, happily married, and the mother of three. My husband and I enjoy a glass of wine with dinner. We never become intoxicated or anywhere near it.

My grandparents (my mother's parents) strongly disapprove of alcoholic beverages, so out of respect to them I never serve it in their presence.

I had eight other guests for dinner, but because my grandparents were here, I omitted the wine, even though my husband and I, my parents, and the other guests would have enjoyed some.

When my husband and I are dining in my parents' home, they always serve wine, but if the grandparents drop in unexpectedly, everyone rushes around hiding the wine bottle and glasses.

I don't want to hurt my grandparents, but I wonder if this is the proper way to handle the wine situation? ASKING

DEAR ASKING: Since you and your parents ordinarily enjoy wine at dinner, I think it is unnecessary to ditch the bottle and glasses when the disapproving grandparents unexpectedly drop in. You're probably not fooling them anyway.

Tough To Go Through

President Nixon said flatly the other night there would be "no recession" in 1974. We hope he is entirely right. The statistics are the thing that is disputing him.

Unemployment in January rose from 4.8 per cent of the nation's working force to 5.2 per cent, in the largest jump in four years. Food prices generally have risen 20 per cent in a year. Meat prices are expected to go up another 10 per cent or so in a month. The gross national product has been slowed in its annual rate of growth to a snail's pace.

As one of Hee-Haw's corn-fed comics remarked recently, "if it ain't a recession, it sure is the toughest boom I've ever seen." — Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times

Mixed Blessings

The warm weather we've been enjoying this winter, along with the rain and drizzle, is a mixed blessing.

It's easy on the coal pile, the oil tank, or the utility bill - depending on how you heat your home. But it's hard on the youngsters, who haven't had classes cancelled a single day this winter for snow or ice. It may be helping the people who sell umbrellas and galoshes, but it sure isn't good for those who peddle winter coats and mufflers.

And perhaps most important of all, it isn't doing much to rid this part of the country of those pesky pine beetles who've been killing our trees. Way back last fall, when the beetles were having a field day the foresters told us we needed some prolonged cold spells this winter if we were to get any lasting relief.

So if you have pine trees in your yard or your woodlands and if you have enough oil in the tank, you'd better pray for some sub-freezing temperatures. — Gainesville (Ga.) Times

Seen & Heard Around Murray

By James C. Williams

Well, Miss Gladys is gone.

She was one of the first people we met when we came to Murray twenty eight years ago.

Miss Gladys Scott was an unusual individual. Many times when people pass away the many things they achieved are listed, but in Miss Gladys' case, we would say her great achievement was that she was a moving force in whatever endeavor she entered.

An individualist of the first water, Miss Gladys had an opinion on most everything. Women's Lib never bothered her. For as long as we can remember she did what she wanted to. It never entered her mind that certain things might be just reserved for men.

We have no doubt but what she would have taken up truck driving if the inclination had struck her.

At the funeral home last Saturday we had the odd feeling that Miss Gladys would have greatly enjoyed being there and talking with all the folks who called. She loved people and loved to talk.

She did not agree with us all the time and usually let us know, but she never disputed our right to an opinion.

Miss Gladys could size up a person in five minutes. If she liked you, you had a real friend.

She was active in the First Methodist Church for 71 years. She was active in politics, business, Murray Woman's Club, civic affairs, church affairs. Her interests were unceasing. Her business acumen was proven, her leadership was unquestioned, and her ability to think things through is legend.

With Miss Gladys on a board, commission or committee, things were done and they were done with dispatch.

She had an inquiring mind and if there was an unanswered question, she kept pushing until she found the answer.

Along with all of her outstanding and most singular qualities, she was also a devoted wife and excellent mother.

In some mysterious manner, Miss Gladys could enter the world of business, the arena of politics, the work of the church, the field of civic affairs, and the profession of teaching, and still be able to retain all the attributes of a lady who placed the values of life on the real things and not on the phony and faded things.

She did things because she wanted to do things, not because she wanted to get her name on some board or other. Her remuneration was in the doing, not in getting credit.

Miss Gladys was a thoughtful and thought provoking person. When you were around her you listened and came away the wiser.

A great personality for whom we had the greatest respect.

Individuals of her calibre are few and far between.

'IT'S MAGIC!'

Tax Cut Plan Misguided

Two Senate Democrats, Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Walter Mondale of Minnesota, have looked over the nation's economic problems and figured out a way to kill two birds with one stone. A cut in income taxes would give the consumer more money to cope with inflation and would serve also to help business over a slump which some economists are calling a recession.

It sounds fine at first reading, but the senators have missed several critical points. For one thing, they can be no more certain than anyone else that there will be a recession with runaway inflation during the last half of this year, when their proposed tax cut would begin to pump more money into the economy. Further, even economists who disagree on the business outlook agree that inflation also is a more serious long-range threat to our economy than variations in the business levels. Finally, as welcome as a tax cut would be to most Americans, putting more money into circulation in a time of rapidly rising prices only diminishes the pressure that can eventually slow the inflation rate.

The administration, hoping to hold down unemployment, programmed a $9 billion deficit into the next federal budget. The Kennedy-Mondale tax cut proposal would increase that deficit by $6 billion. If there is indeed a recession, as the senators believe, declining tax revenues could increase the deficit even more. Recession is bad, to be sure, but is there no one in Washington willing to give at least equal weight to the inflation problem? Is there no one willing to face the fact that deficit federal budgets are just making it worse?

Treasury Secretary George Shultz is trying to cool the congressional ardor for a tax cut — as he should. He has pointed out that the slump in energy-sensitive industries is not having the "falling domino" effect throughout the economy that some economists feared. Some of the dominoes at the head of the line stopped falling recently. General Motors canceled plans to lay off 27,000 workers and close seven assembly plants. GM, for one, believes the worst is over.

Mr. Shultz has offered Congress an alternative if it insists on some anti-recession pump-priming. The government could adjust withholding rates for certain classes of taxpayers who now consistently have more money taken out of their pay than they really owe.

Since the government eventually gives this money back in refunds, leaving it in the hands of wage-earners would stimulate spending without adding to the budget deficit.

The proposal of an outright tax cut — now picked up by Democrats in both houses who are backing a $10 billion reduction — is a mixture of misguided economics and election year politics. It would do more harm than good in terms of the basic economic health of the country, and Congress should reject it.

Constructive Approach

The agreement by West Germany to pay the full cost of maintaining U.S. troops on German soil exhibits the constructive approach to economic problems in the Atlantic Alliance which President Nixon has been trying to achieve. The Germans are getting the message that neither the President nor the U.S. Congress is willing to overlook the price tag on the U.S. commitment to European security.

Maintaining some 300,000 U.S. troops in Europe is currently accounting for $2.1 billion of deficit in our international balance of payments. European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are now confronted by an act of the U.S. Congress last year requiring withdrawal of troops in proportion to the deficit that any country fails to make up through "offset" payments.

West Germany's example now must be followed by other NATO nations which have been slow to accept the economic responsibility that goes with the security they enjoy from the U.S. troop commitment. A refreshing turn in that direction already has come from the foreign secretary of Britain's new Labor government, James Callaghan. Britain, he told the House of Commons, cannot have a close defense alliance with the United States "without parallel cooperation on trade, money, energy" and other problems.

President Nixon says U.S. cooperation in European security can no longer be a "one-way street." We may finally be seeing some traffic moving in our direction.

Funny Funny World

BUSINESS, FINANCE & LABOR

Management of a Seattle aircraft components company brought in an engineering firm to do an efficiency survey. The employees weren't exactly sympathetic. "What do you do around here?" the efficiency expert inquired of one fellow. "I just hang around and twiddle my thumbs," he snapped sarcastically. The survey man moved to another desk and repeated his question. The second guy, getting into the spirit of the thing, replied, "I just hang around and twiddle my thumbs." The efficiency expert picked up his clipboard and wrote, "Duplication of jobs. Unload one of them."

In Chicago, the Committee to End Pay Toilets, having fought a successful campaign, is now moving on to Massachusetts, Florida and California. Obviously, a group that is flushed with victory.

In Burbank, California, service station owner Sven Johanson posted the OUT OF GAS sign and then realized something. He had forgotten to fill his own car. He had to hitchhike home.

A friend of Robert Sylvester's took the Penn Central train at Marble Hill station the other day and rode to town with a friend who is a Penn Central cop and was reporting to duty. The train was 20 minutes behind time and Don said that his pal was lucky since he had the perfect alibi, being a company cop. "No," said his friend. "We get docked anyway. The railroad won't excuse lateness."

Isn't It The Truth!

By Carl Riblet Jr.

The dance styles over the centuries changed from the cave man's stomp, to the minuet, to the waltz, to the fox trot, to the Charleston, to rock, to the frug and, in 1974, to something just discovered by young people—ballroom dancing. The dance, however, always has held to its original purpose, which is to draw the opposite sexes together.

"Dancing is wonderful training for girls: it's the first way to learn to guess what a man is going to do before he does it."—Christopher Morley in "Kitty Foyle."

I Say What I Think

By S.C. VAN CUREN and TODD DUVALL

It looks like Spring is finally going to win its battle against the killing frosts that have wreaked havoc on the state's fruit crop recently.

In a matter of days, the horses are going to be off and running at the state's race tracks, all of it leading up to the 100th running of the Derby the first Saturday in May. They're even thinking of running a few horses through the streets of Lexington in honor of the occasion.

With the centennial running of the Derby this year, there are plans for more celebrations than usual, with even a bit of English royalty thrown in to add a touch of dignity to the annual mob scene at Churchill Downs.

Actually, it's a shame Princess Margaret won't be able to stay around Kentucky to watch the really interesting race coming up, one that may provide bystanders as much or more entertainment than a neck-and-neck homestretch run for the roses.

Gov. Wendell Ford made official last week what just about everyone had predicted for more than a year. He's running for the U.S. Senate against incumbent Republican Marlow Cook and, although apparently the Governor was undecided for quite awhile about making the race, he is in it now full gallop.

Both leading contenders for Kentucky's Senate seat are Thoroughbred campaigners and about the only thing Kentuckians enjoy more than a good horse race is a good political race and the guess is they'll get one between Ford and Cook.

Cook, as the incumbent, may have a slight advantage, even with the Watergate scandals hanging ominously over the Republican Party.

Ford, however, has left little doubt his race will center on the Nixon Administration, not necessarily in regard to Watergate, but in the areas of runaway inflation, fuel shortages and bureaucratic inability to deal with the nation's problems.

The Governor's speech announcing his candidacy last week indicated he will try to tie the failures of the Administration to Cook's support of Nixon programs. How successful this will be hinges on just how dissatisfied voters are with the federal government by election day in November.

Cook, like most Republicans up for reelection this year, will try to disassociate himself from the failings of the Administration, including Watergate, while stressing the plusses of the GOP government.

However, he runs the dangerous risk of spending the campaign defending not only himself but President Nixon and the Republican Party in a state with overwhelming Democratic registration.

Ford has yet another advantage over Cook, possibly his most important. After making his peace with Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, Ford now has the services of a campaigner equal to himself and Cook may find he is challenged by two of Kentucky's more effective Democrats in a three-way race, with Carroll's goal the Governor's Mansion.

It ought to be an interesting race, right down to the wire.

Vacationers Head For 'Western Wonderland' For Kentucky Weekend

In another era vacationers broke the brown grip of winter and hastened the greening of spring by taking the waters of fashionable spas that dotted the Western Kentucky landscape.

Today in Kentucky's "Western Wonderland," vacationers head for the giant lakes, rivers, creeks, sloughs and even a bayou in everything from a canoe to a luxury houseboat, or they can travel over long, smooth highways and, in a radius of 100 miles, see everything from nature's mighty Mississippi River to some of the world's largest manmade lakes. All in a Kentucky Weekend.

Similar in location to its sister resorts of yesteryear, Lake Barkley State Resort Park covers 3,600 acres on the Little River embayment of Lake Barkley. Once, when Little River was a tributary of the Cumberland River, it was the site of several smart health spas.

A perfect base of operations for a Kentucky Weekend is Barkley Lodge (which, like the lake, takes its name from Alben Barkley, the beloved Kentuckian who became U.S. vice-president). The center of activities in Lake Barkley State Resort Park, the lodge contains dining and lunch rooms, lounges and meeting rooms, with a multi-storied glass facade turned toward the lake. Guest rooms, 120 in all, curve in two wings along the forested lakeshore. Planned recreation keeps activities going for the more lively, and others can stroll isolated paths in woods or just listen to the lake, as they please.

West from Lake Barkley, via US-68, US-45, US-62 and Ky-80, all sorts of interesting channels open up for the traveler. Land Between the Lakes is a 170,000-acre national recreation and conservation education area being developed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, on a 40-mile-long peninsula that separates Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. Along LBL's more than 300 miles of back-country trails are camping sites; Empire Farm, which tells of rural life as it once was; herds of buffaloes and eyries of eagles; old iron furnace ruins, and a landscape that sometimes hints of the time when this area flowed dark with some of the best moonshine whiskey ever made in the South.

On the western shore of Kentucky Lake are two more state resort parks, part of a system of 48 state and national parks that is called the finest in the nation.

Kenlake State Resort Park, near Aurora, features sailing among its many pastimes. Each spring and fall, sailboats compete for the Governor's Cup and the Watkins Cup at the two regattas.

Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park, Gilbertsville, is one of the commonwealth's finest and most popular vacation havens. Popular musical entertainment is a summertime feature of the park's program; in the fall a week-long Septemberfest draws square dancers from 35 states.

Towns in the eight counties between Kentucky Lake and the Mississippi River offer annual events that have a distinctive Kentucky flavor. Benton hosts Tater Day and a Big Singing during early spring. In August, Fulton has the International Banana Festival featuring street celebrations, entertainment stars and the world's biggest banana pudding.

Near Columbus is Columbus-Belmont Battlefield State Park, where Confederate forces tried to blockade the Mississippi River with a huge anchor and chain, part of which are now on display. The museum has a diorama of the battle, and some of the trenches are still visible along hiking trails.

Kentucky's strangest set of monuments is in a private cemetery at Mayfield, where the eccentric Henry G. Woodruff erected gravestone statues to horses, people and dogs, and one for himself when he was interred among them.

Remains of an ancient buried city, where mound builders lived in prehistoric times, can be seen at Wickliffe, on a bluff near where the Ohio meets the Mississippi River. During mid-summer, Paducah holds a week-long Summer Festival, but all year you can guide yourself to the city's sights by following a red line painted on the streets.

Kaintuck Territory, near Gilbertsville and Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park, is a 150-acre reproduction of a frontier settlement, with a steam locomotive ride, old-time theatrical presentations, live "gun fights" and medicine wagon shows. Returning to Lake Barkley and heading east, with the 100-mile radius, there is a choice of following US-68-Ky-80 (one and the same road) or the Western Kentucky Parkway. The parkway skirts Pennyville Forest State Resort Park near Dawson Springs, a watering place once famous for its restorative mineral water and verandahed hotels. A 15,000-acre forest and twin lakes are features of Pennyville. At the Central City interchange of the parkway, US-431 leads to Lake Malone State Park, whose 692-acre lake lies between the Pond and Mud rivers. Rough River Dam State Resort Park on Rough River Lake, and Nolin River Lake, are to the north and south, respectively, of the Leitchfield interchange of the parkway.

Along the southern portion of this Western Wonderland, US-68-Ky-80 takes the traveler from Lake Barkley east to the 351-foot high concrete obelisk at Fairview that marks the birthplace of Confederate President Jefferson Davis. A bank that Jesse James robbed still stands at Russellville.

Eastward, still on US-68-Ky-80, is Shakerstown at South Union, the westernmost of the U.S. Shaker colonies. Filled with Shaker artifacts, the Centre Family House is open. Original Shaker furnishings fill the spacious rooms and wide halls of the four-story brick building. Every July an outdoor drama, "Shakerstown Revisited," is presented during a 10-day festival.

Most Pitchers Aren't Ahead Of The Hitters

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON, AP Sports Writer

The pitchers aren't ahead of the hitters any longer — most of them aren't, anyway.

Item: California strikeout king Nolan Ryan fanned eight Los Angeles batters in seven innings but also walked six and gave up six runs on seven hits including Joe Ferguson's second home run in as many games — as the Dodgers whipped the Angels 8-4 Sunday in an exhibition baseball game. Lee Stanton of the Angels slammed a three-run homer off Al Downing.

Item: Mike Anderson, Willie Montanez and Mike Schmidt all homered off Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis as the Philadelphia Phillies trounced the Pirates 9-5. It was enough to curl Ellis' hair as the Phillies pounded him for 11 hits and all nine runs in six innings. Anderson's home run was his fifth of the spring.

Item: Oakland's Catfish Hunter was raked for 11 hits and nine runs in four innings as the San Francisco Giants whacked the A's 13-4. Dave Kingman, Dave Rader, Gary Matthews and Jim Willoughby all contributed triples to the Giants' 18-hit attack while Tito Fuentes had three singles.

Item: The Kansas City Royals tagged Luis Tiant, Boston's 20-game winner, for eight hits and seven runs while the Red Sox tattooed Paul Splittorff, KC's 20-game winner, for six runs on nine hits. When the slugging was done, the Royals over the New York Mets.

Item: Bob Gibson of St. Louis tuned up for his 10th straight opening day assignment by yielding seven hits in as many innings as the Cardinals downed the Chicago White Sox 5-2.

Item: Montreal's Ernie McAnally hurled seven strong innings — he limited Baltimore to three singles and retired 10 straight batters at one stretch — and the Expos held on to edge the Orioles 6-5. Jim Lytle homered for the winners and Jim Fuller hit a three-run shot for the Birds.

Item: Milwaukee's Clyde Wright surrendered home runs to Cleveland's Charlie Spikes and Dave Duncan on consecutive pitches in the Brewers' 6-2 loss to the Indians.

Even the winning pitcher suffered. Cleveland's Jim Perry was struck on the back of his pitching hand by a line drive off the bat of George Scott and went to a hospital for X rays, which were negative.

Now before the pitchers' union files a grievance along the hitters with Marvin Miller, let it be known that there were some hurlers who upheld the honor of the fraternity.

Item: Pat Dobson pitched seven innings of one-hit ball and Grae Nettles drilled a two-run single to lead the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory.

Murray Tennis Team Defeats Northwestern

For the fifth time this spring, the Murray State tennis team has shutout an opponent.

The latest victim was Northwestern Sunday afternoon on the Murray courts as the Racers defeated Doug McCracken by the identical scores.

Murray swept all six of the singles matches and the three doubles matches to account for the nine points.

With the win, the Murray tennis team moves to 6-1 on the season, with the only loss coming last week at Memphis State.

In the number one singles, Mikko Horsma defeated Ron Quick 6-2 and 6-1 while in the number two singles, Charles Wadlington defeated Doug McCracken by the identical scores.

The third position found Arnie Knudsen winning 6-2 and 6-3 over Bob Rosebaugh while in the number four singles, Mike Owen won 6-3 and 6-2 over Dave Harned.

Ross Boling, a native of Bowling Green, took the number five singles winning 6-4 and 6-2 over Stan Kahan while in the sixth spot, Del Purcell of Murray won 6-2, and 6-3 over Mickey Peccra.

The doubles teams were changed for the first time this season and in the number one position, Horsma and Knudsen teamed to win in split sets over Quick and McCracken, 6-3, 4-6 and 6-1.

In the second position of the doubles play, Wadlington and Purcell easily defeated Rosebaugh and Kahan 6-4 and 6-1.

In the number three doubles, Owen-Boling won 7-5 and 6-1 over Harned-Bossee of Northwestern.

Wednesday afternoon on the Murray State courts, the University of Kentucky will bring its strongest team in the history of the school to Murray for a dual match.

Action will begin at 1 p.m. This coming weekend, Murray will play Austin Peay and Middle Tennessee on Friday and then on Saturday, the Racers will face host Middle Tennessee.

Western Kentucky is the other team in the four-team event and the order of finish in this weekend's play could well be the way the teams will finish in the Ohio Valley Conference Championships which will be held in Murray on May 16, 17 and 18.

Hayes And Cheneir Combine For 69 Points To Pace Bullets' Win

By HOWARD SMITH, AP Sports Writer

"We know we can beat the Knicks now," declared Capital's Elvin Hayes. "This is just what we needed to win it all."

Hayes and the rest of the Bullets were brimming with confidence Sunday after dumping New York 99-87 to even their best-of-7 National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series at one game each.

"Against the Knicks, the players have the attitude that they're too tough to beat, and they go into a game tight," Hayes explained. "These games loosen you up because you know they can be beaten and that attitude carries over into the next game."

In Hayes' case, the confidence is not hard to understand. The 6-foot-9 former Houston All-American has collected 74 points in the first two games, despite an assortment of Knick defensive maneuvers. He got 34 of them Sunday to go along with Phil Chenier's 35-point outburst.

In Milwaukee, The Bucks took a commanding 2-0 lead over Los Angeles in their Western Conference semifinal series by whipping the Lakers 109-90.

The Detroit Pistons host the Chicago Bulls tonight in game two of the other Western Conference semifinal series. The Pistons took the first game 97-88 Saturday.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "The money I don't need," Lee Trevino said, "The win I do need."

Trevino, whose rags to riches career has won him more than a million dollars, was relaxing in the pleasant after-glow of his Sunday triumph in the Greater New Orleans Open, a victory that ended a 13-month famine for the man who has become an American folk hero.

He won it with what he called "about as near perfect a round of golf as I've ever played."

That was the seven-under-par 65 final round that completed an almost incredible performance. In four days of competition he didn't make a bogey, missed three greens and two fairways and finished with a 267 total, a distant 21 under par and the best 72-hole total on the pro golf tour this year.

His winning margin was a fantastic eight strokes, the biggest in more than 12 months.

"And you know, I'd never played this course good before," he said of the lake-dotted, cypress-studded 7,000-yard Lakewood Country Club layout. "Always before this course had eaten my lunch."

Youthful South African Bobby Cole, who had started the final round in a tie with Trevino for the top spot, finished with a 73 and was tied for second with rookie Ben Crenshaw at 275.

Crenshaw, who now has two second place finishes this season, closed with a 70.

Rod Curl and Larry Hinson followed at 276, Curl with a finishing 69 and Hinson 72.

Jack Nicklaus, the 1973 New Orleans champion, never really got into it. He had a last round 70 and was tied at 277 with Jerry McGee, 69, and Australian David Graham, 73.

South African Gary Player closed with a par 72 and a 279 total. Bruce Crampton of Australia had 71-281, Tom Weiskopf 70-282, U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller 70-283 and Billy Casper 74-286. Arnold Palmer did not compete.

Trevino collected $30,000 from the total purse of $150,000 and pushed his earnings for the year to $50,577.

Control grasses plus broadleaves — and minimize carryover, with Lasso plus atrazine.

Lasso plus atrazine tank mix controls giant foxtail, fall panicum, crabgrass and many other grasses, plus pigweed, common ragweed and many more broadleaves. It even reduces competition from hard-to-control weeds like buttonweed.

And you minimize carryover possibilities. Because Lasso by itself leaves no carryover, and you use less atrazine in the tank mix.

Csonka, Warfield And Kiick Sign With WFL

By The Associated Press
TORONTO (AP) — Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick — gears in the Miami

Dolphins' grind-it-out offense — have jumped for an estimated $3.5 million to the Toronto Northmen of the World Football League, giving the fledgling league almost instant respectability.

"We're guaranteed this money," said Kiick after the signings, effective for the 1975 season and for three years, were disclosed Sunday. "If we get hurt, if we die, if the WFL doesn't get off the ground, we still get it."

The trio — Warfield is a receiver, the other two are running backs — will play out their 1974 options with the team which they helped win the last two National Football League championships.

Miami Coach Don Shula, however, said he might not even play the three this coming season. But Csonka discounted any reprisal by Shula, saying, "He wants to win the Super Bowl again and so do we."

Each earned about $60,000 last season as Dolphins, plus the extra money — $15,000 each in the Super Bowl — for playoff victories.

No breakdown on how the $3.5 million would be divided among the three was disclosed. Presumably, Csonka would get the most money.

Kiick said the other 11 teams in the WFL, which will begin play in July, contributed $1 million to the contracts, highest-priced deals ever in pro football history.

"I am disappointed, shocked, sick, whatever," a bitter Joe Robbie, managing general partner of the Dolphins, said in Miami Sunday night after the jump was announced. In Toronto, "I feel (player agent) Ed Keating took three of our players to Canada, who were in a frame of mind to come back and listen when they left."

But Robbie said the Dolphins weren't concerned about any legal action "at this point."

Csonka, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards the past three seasons, said his financial future was a primary consideration in the move.

"In this case, it is one of the considerations, of course," the bull-necked fullback said, "but there are others... the Toronto club offered us more than we anticipated — even more than we had asked for in the exploratory package."

Robbie said he had asked Keating to return with the players from Toronto, where negotiating sessions took place, adding that the "$3 million wouldn't burn in two days." But, Robbie said Keating responded with a "take it or leave it" attitude and the Dolphin official refused to negotiate by phone.

"Everyone knows how I feel about them," Shula said. "They are great players. We were in a unique situation of being able to go after our third Super Bowl in a row next season. Our thought was to do everything possible to get everyone back."

Warfield, like Csonka, acknowledged that money played a part in his decision.

Kiick, who lost his starting position to Mercury Morris in 1972, also said pride was a factor in his decision to sign with Toronto.

"I have a lot of pride and I want to play a lot of football," he said. "I feel I can contribute to any football team. That is one of the big reasons."

The contracts were for "well in excess of $3 million," Keating said. "I hope this introduces a new concept in owner-player relationships."

Robbie said Keating asked the Dolphins to match a Toronto offer of $3.5 million — $3 million to be deposited in advance in a bank account, and a guaranteed three-year, no-cut, no-trade contract.

Csonka, a 6-foot-2, 240-pounder, is a six-year NFL veteran and pounded out a record 145 yards and two touchdowns in the Dolphins' 24-7 rout of Minnesota in Super Bowl VIII in January.

Warfield, a veteran of 10 NFL seasons, led the American Conference last year with 11 touchdown receptions. The 6-foot, 190-pound receiver made 29 regular-season catches for 514 yards, a 17.7-yard average.

Kiick was the Dolphins' No. 2 running back behind Csonka until he was replaced by Morris. His primary attributes have been his pass receiving and blocking, and what Shula has called his nose for the goal-line in short-yardage, scoring situations.

Despite Robbie's remarks, it appeared there was little resentment among their teammates.

Star cornerback Tim Foley said the team would miss the trio but didn't feel they were deserting the Dolphins. Foley said Csonka has "made a tremendous contribution to us and the team. I hope everybody is happy he's got such a good deal put together."

'Breds Win Two Saturday But Lose Twice Sunday

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor
Time after time, you've heard the television commercials about which shaving cream will shave you the closest with the most comfort.

There's a baseball team that's getting a lot of close shaves lately and this weekend, two were successful and two were not as Murray State broke even in four games.

On Saturday, clutch hitting provided the fine edge as the 'Breds shaved Austin Peay 3-1 and 7-6 in a twinbill sweep of a conference doubleheader.

But on Sunday, there was no protection and Brown cut Murray in a doubleheader, winning 6-3 and 8-7.

Following the two days of baseball, the 'Breds are now 20-6 on the season and will be playing a single game at 3 p.m. today against Brown before meeting the same team in a twinbill at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Although the two losses Sunday certainly didn't enhance the 'Breds' shot at receiving an NCAA bid for post-season tournament play, the team would have rather tossed the games to Brown than to Austin Peay.

Murray had previously wrapped up the fall title in the western division of the Ohio Valley Conference and now all the 'Breds need to do to move into the championship playoff with the eastern division winner is to win the spring title.

If Murray does not win the spring title, then a one-game playoff between the 'Breds and the spring winner in the western division would be held.

Clutch Hitting
It was clutch hitting Saturday that gave Murray two wins over Austin Peay, both games going extra innings.

In the opening contest, Greg Englar ran his season slate to 6-1 with a 2-1 win in eight innings. Englar scattered six hits, walked only one man and struck out five.

Both teams had scored a run in the first inning and another run did not cross the plate until the home half of the eighth when Murray put the game in the win column.

Murray High graduate Johnny Rayburn reached base on a walk and then advanced to second on an error by the pitcher on an attempted pickoff play at first.

And then with one out, freshman outfielder Terry Brown stepped to the plate.

Brown, in a pinchhitter's role, slammed the ball into right field and Rayburn crossed with the winning run and Brown was mobbed by his teammates.

Murray had only two hits in the contest, Brown's single and a bloop down the third-base line by Steve Barrett.

The script for the second game was much like that of the opener.

Murray trailed 6-1 going into the home half of the sixth when the 'Breds rallied for three runs.

Barrett and Leon Wurth each singled and Rick Weisman then walked to fill the bases.

Brown drove in the first run of the frame on a groundout and then sophomore backstop Gene Steuber followed with a single as did freshman Don Walker and Murray trailed only 6-4.

It appeared Murray would finally go down to defeat as one man was out in the bottom of the seventh.

Jack Perconte drew life on a walk and then Steve Barrett followed with a single to move Perconte over to third.

Perconte came in when Wurth grounded out and then Robert Mantooth tied the game on a single to score Barrett.

Finally, in the eighth inning, Murray put the game into the victory column.

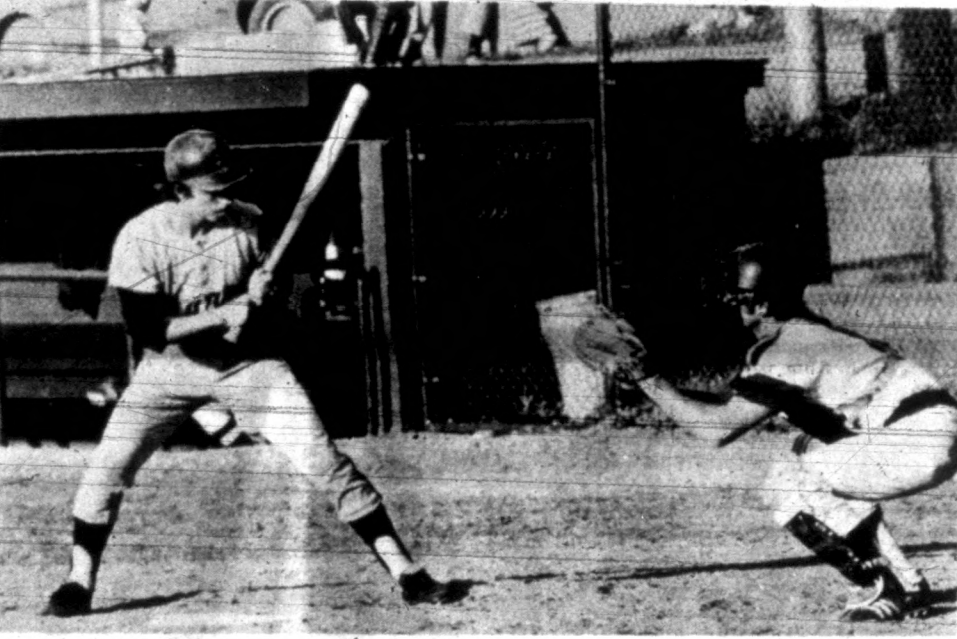

With two men out, pitcher Mike Thieke singled, Perconte singled and then the winning run crossed when Barrett hit a bloop down to third to drive in Rick Yates who came in to run for Thieke.

Thieke, who threw one pitch in the previous inning, got credit for the mound decision.

Barrett and Mantooth each had three hits to lead the 13-hit attack.

Wurth had a pair of hits while Perconte, Brown, Steuber, Walker and Thieke all added a hit apiece.

No Magic Sunday
The magical charm of the late inning rallies finally ended Sunday against Brown, but not without a close call.

HE HAS IT JACK—Jack Perconte of the Murray State Thoroughbreds looks back at the catcher after taking a pitch. Perconte is the leading hitter this season for the 'Breds who are currently 20-6 for the season.

MSU Women's Track Team Places Second

Babs Laha, Sue Sewing, and Debbie Hafer combined for 75 points as the Murray State Women's track team finished a strong second over the weekend at the Memphis State Invitational.

Tennessee A & I, who has several outstanding individual performers on the team, including Olympist Mamie Rollins, won the team title with 142 points while Murray State was close behind with 129.

Other teams in order of finish were School of the Ozarks 74, Memphis State 58 and Arkansas 51.

Scoring was on a 10-8-6-4-2-1 basis as six places were awarded in the events.

Miss Laha won two events and finished second in another for 28 points while Miss Sewing and Miss Hafer had 24 and 33 points respectively.

Miss Laha won the discus in a new Memphis State field record of 117-5 1/2 while Miss Sewing was third with a 109-3.

In the shotput, Laha took top honors with a 34-1 to defeat Miss Sewing who finished second with an effort of 33-8.

The only time Miss Laha was defeated in an event was in the javelin where Miss Sewing threw 124-5 to capture top honors and set a new field record.

Miss Laha was the runnerup with a 112-10.

Miss Hafer had a pair of seconds and a third-place finish.

In the 100-meter hurdles, Hafer finished with a 17.0 to take second while teammate Glenda Rudolph was clocked in 18.5 to finish fourth.

The 400-meter hurdles found Hafer taking second with a 1:10.7 while teammate Nan Grant was fifth.

Hafer's third-place finish was in the long jump where she went 16-1 while Betty Fitzhugh was 15-6 for fourth.

In the mile run, Nan Grant picked up six points with a third-place time of 6:21.

The 440-yard-dash found Brenda Bennett taking fourth with a 63.8.

Four members of the team claimed fifth place finishes.

In the 100-yard-dash, Linda Rudolph was fifth with a 12.0 while Nancy LeMaster was sixth with 12.9.

The 220 foot LeMaster fifth with a 30.5 while Brenda Bennett's 33.5 earned a sixth-place finish.

In the 880, Patty Earning took fifth with a 2:34.7, while in the high jump, Glenda Rudolph had a 4-5 for fifth and Patty Fitzhugh a 4-4 for sixth.

The 400 relay team composed of LeMaster, Rudolph, Rudolph and Bennett finished second with a 55.7 while the mile relay

Trailing 6-0 going into the last of the seventh, Murray rallied and had the tying man at the plate before the last out was recorded.

Robert Mantooth blasted a one-out homer to put the first run on the board and then Richie White reached on a walk and Gene Steuber lofted a deep drive into left which easily cleared the fence for a two-run shot and Murray trailed 6-3.

The rally continued as David Hughes and Perconte reached base but the game ended when Barrett popped up to third.

Mike Thieke pitched all the way on the hill, being touched for four runs in the first inning and a two-run homer in the seventh by Cirullo.

Thieke was charged with four earned runs while giving up seven hits, striking out six and issuing only two passes.

Murray had only five hits in the game, one apiece from Hughes, Perconte, Mantooth, White and Steuber.

In the second game, Murray dropped an 8-7 contest.

Brown erupted in the second inning for seven runs, four of which came on a grand slam homer by Bob Almon, who turned down a $100,000 major league bonus offer to play college ball.

Brown did not score again until the top of the seventh inning and that was the final run scored in the game.

Murray scored four times in the fourth inning on a double by Mike Cathey, a two-run triple by John Howland and a ground out by Perconte.

In the fifth, the 'Breds sent in another run to pull within two as Don Derrington had the RBI single.

Murray finally tied the game in the sixth inning at 7-7 when Richie White and Wurth knocked in runs with singles.

But Brown scored the tie-breaker in the top of the seventh on a two-out single and Murray failed to come up with a rally in the home half of the frame.

Curtis King started on the mound and took the loss.

Howland, White, Wurth, Derrington and Cathey all had a hit apiece in the contest.

Many Bills Affecting Education Enacted By 1974 General Assembly

By WILLIAM BRADFORD Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A Kentucky school teacher might remember the 1974 General Assembly for a $500 pay raise but for a girl in Lexington or Winchester, it might mean a chance to become a practical nurse.

Or it could mean a physically or mentally handicapped child anywhere in Kentucky will be able to go to school and get special instruction and training that he or she otherwise would not have had.

A number of bills affecting education were enacted by the legislature this year.

Altogether, they have led State Superintendent of Public Instruction Lyman Ginger to commend the late General Assembly and Gov. Wendell Ford for their "overwhelmingly favorable attitude toward public elementary and secondary education."

A major piece of legislation was Gov. Wendell Ford's $4.4 billion budget for the next two fiscal years, which contained about $130 million in additional spending in that area for the two years.

Teacher pay raises of 7 and 9 per cent for the next two years are already generally known as being part of that budget.

That would represent a raise of $54 per classroom unit next year and $758 more in 1975-76. Not all teachers will get that much, however.

School districts having more teachers than allotted under the Minimum Foundation Program will have to spread their allocation for raises among all the teachers on hand, meaning each will get less than the full amount. Some districts might add additional money of their own also.

Given less publicity as the budget bill wound its way through the legislative process was what new programs would result from a whopping $17.5 million allocated for construction or expansion of vocational education facilities. Most of that will be federal money, with the bulk of it being revenue-sharing funds.

Another major expenditure in Ford's budget was close to $15 million for additional special education units—providing 580 more next fiscal year and another 600 in 1975-76.

Don Bale, an assistant state superintendent of public instruction, says that number should provide such units for all school districts now wanting them. Special education provides special programs for children that are crippled or have special health problems as well as those who are neurologically impaired, emotionally disturbed, have visual or hearing handicaps, are retarded or have speech trouble.

The money for vocational education expansion, spread among 12 schools throughout the state, is substantially more than has been spent on such construction in any previous two-year period. In fact, the total spending for vocational education from Appalachian Regional Commission money—the previous largest source—over the past 10 years was $25 million.

Specific vocational education projects funded in the budget were:

—Paducah State Vocational School, $3 million in 1975-76 for a new school adjacent to Paducah Community College to offer postsecondary and adult training for the Purchase region.

—Jefferson State Vocational School $4 million next fiscal year for a new school providing vocational and technical education beyond high school and for adults in the greater Louisville area.

—Jefferson Manpower Skill Center, $1.8 million next year, to replace three unsafe or condemned buildings to offer a long line of technical training programs, from auto mechanics to health services and general office training.

—Owensboro Area Vocational Center, $1.65 million for a new structure to replace a 34-year-old building serving Daviess, Hancock, Ohio and McLean school districts besides adults in the Owensboro area.

—Northern Kentucky Area Vocational School, $1.65 million to expand that school and offer more health occupation programs as well as drafting, auto body repair, business subjects and industrial electricity.

—Center Kentucky State Vocational School, Lexington, $1.2 million in 1975-76 to expand its health occupations programs and the same other programs as in the Northern Kentucky school.

—Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, $330,000 in 1975-76 to add a second floor for business and office management and data processing programs.

grams. —Elizabethtown State Vocational School, $204,000 next year for additional equipment.

New or expanded vocational education facilities in Perry, Pike, Johnson and Monroe counties were included in the budget but made contingent upon receiving $2.67 million in Appalachian Regional Commission money.

Other legislation improved fringe benefits for teachers, especially for their retirement.

The 30-year retirement plan approved four years ago finally was funded, making it available for teachers when they reach age 55. Cost-of-living raises were given teachers already retired and part of the prior service deficit was made up, for teachers with service prior to when the current system was established.

Former Nixon Aide, Dwight Chapin, Goes On Trial In Washington Today

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential aide Dwight L. Chapin goes on trial today in federal court on charges he lied to a grand jury seeking information about the political espionage activities of Donald H. Segretti.

The opening day of the trial was expected to be devoted to jury selection. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell has said he hopes to complete the trial within a week.

Chapin, former presidential appointments secretary, was indicted Nov. 29, 1973 on four counts of lying to a grand jury. Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has said that ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III would be a key government witness against Chapin.

Dean, who pleaded guilty last October to conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the Watergate break-in, already has testified as a prosecution witness at the New York trial of former Cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans.

Another key prosecution witness will be Segretti, who served five months in a federal correctional facility after pleading guilty to misdemeanor violations of federal election laws. Segretti was released last Monday.

Like Dean, Segretti agreed to cooperate with the special prosecutor's office. Meanwhile, Vice President Gerald R. Ford has blasted the Committee for the Re-election of the President, describing it in a Chicago speech as an "arrogant, elite group of political adolescents."

Ford spoke Saturday to more than 1,000 midwest Republicans, including GOP National Chairman George Bush and presidential hopeful Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois. The audience stood and cheered Ford's biting remarks about the re-election committee.

He said the committee "violated the historic concept of the two-party system in America and ran roughshod over the seasoned political judgment and experience of the regular Republican party organization in the 50 states. The fatal defect of CREEP was that it made its own rules and thus made its own ruin," he said.

Later, Ford told a news conference he "spoke as my own man," that his remarks had not been cleared with the White House.

In other Watergate developments, Percy said Sunday in New Haven he expects Nixon to be impeached this year. Meanwhile, sources in Washington said quiet preparations are underway in several Senate offices for a possible impeachment trial. The sources also said other studies are underway by individual senators.

The Chapin indictment said he testified April 11, 1973 before a grand jury investigating Segretti's activities.

Chapin told the grand jury he never discussed the distribution of campaign literature of any kind with Segretti and was unaware that Segretti ever distributed such literature.

The indictment alleged that Chapin's answers "as he then there well knew, were false."

Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

After he was indicted Chapin, 33, took a leave of absence from his job as director of market planning for United Air Lines.

A graduate of the University of Southern California, Chapin hired Segretti, a college chum, allegedly to be a Republican plankster in the 1972 campaign.

But Segretti's pranks included the distribution of literature that appeared to come from various candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination and accused others of misconduct. Distributing political literature which does not identify the source is a federal crime.

Before he joined the White House staff, Chapin met H. R. Haldeman when both were in the advertising business in California. He worked for Haldeman in the White House.

Steelworkers Call Strike At Appalachian Hospitals

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —

The United Steelworkers of America called a strike today at nine facilities of Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., in three states.

The strike was called for 12:01 a.m. after union members voted to reject the health-care chain's final contract offer and agreed to call the walkout.

The Steelworkers' 39-month contract with ARH facilities in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia expired at midnight. Edgel Hutchinson of Lexington, sub director of Steelworkers District 35, said the result of two days of balloting, concluded Sunday, was a "unanimous vote" in favor of the strike.

Hutchinson and Jay Coberly, executive vice president of ARH, said a negotiating session between union and company bargainers has been set for 9 a.m. Thursday at Lexington. Coberly said a federal mediator will be in on the talks.

The strike involves about 950 maintenance and service employees and nurses' aides at the hospitals, out of a total non-professional work force of about 2,800.

ARH facilities affected by the strike are at Harlan, Hazard, McDowell, Middlesboro, South Williamson, and Whitesburg in Kentucky, at Beckley and Man in West Virginia, and at Wise, Va.

Coberly said: "We will try our best to maintain normal operations."

Another ARH spokesman said plans for carrying on normal operations will be left up to individual hospital administrators.

The spokesman said the ARH facilities involve a total of about 1,200 beds, including hospital and extended care facilities. That includes a tenth facility at West Liberty, Ky., which is not affected by the strike, since workers are not covered by the Steelworkers' contract.

Hutchinson said there might be scattered picketing, but added no patients or visitors would be hindered in entering any of the facilities.

Both union and company officials have said the disagreement on terms of a new contract centers on a wage increase and the union's effort to extend its representation to additional hospital workers.

Last week, a hospital spokesman said the union is seeking an 8-per cent wage hike, and the right to represent an additional 1,200 technical, clerical and "professional" workers.

Hutchinson disputed that, however, contending the union did not specify an 8-per cent wage hike and seeks to represent only about 800 additional employees.

The hospital system had offered a one-year extension of the old contract, turning down union offers for a 90-day extension.

auditor, part-time lawyer and part-time investigator.

For one thing, the registry will conduct random audits of political campaigns (auditing all candidates for any office for which one candidate is audited). Vinsel declined to specify how many audits would be conducted under the program, although all statewide offices probably will be audited.

The Senate bill requires candidates to set up one central campaign committee to handle money funneled in from any smaller committees. Vinsel says that will make the auditing job much easier.

One major provision of Kefauver's bill requires candidates to report contributions over $100, whereas previous law required reporting of donations over $500. The bill also requires that any contribution over $100 be made by check, rather than cash.

While Kentucky was the first state to set up an independent agency to handle election finance reports, the registry-to-date has been a sort of toothless tiger.

Its main tool was to release to the press lists of candidates who failed to meet deadlines for reporting campaign expenditures.

"We depended on publicity almost altogether," Vinsel said. In the case of county races, the task of prosecuting any person who failed to report expenditures fell to commonwealth's attorneys, but generally violators never were prosecuted.

Under House Bill 68, any voter may sue for an injunction to force compliance with the campaign law. Previously, initiation of court action has been limited to the attorney general, commonwealth's attorneys or the registry.

The bill also provides that the registry may require the attorney general to name a special prosecutor to enforce the law if commonwealth's attorneys take no action against violators.

Vinsel says the law, which would apply first to next November's general election, is actually aimed at deterring campaign violators, rather than ending them.

Last year, he says, less than 1 per cent of 3,252 candidates for various offices in the state failed to abide by campaign finance reporting laws.

The registry now plans to draft new, more complex reporting forms, requiring more detailed information. Vinsel says the overall effect of that-coupled with new tools for enforcing the laws-should be to keep candidates on their toes.

"I don't know that it will have any impact (on elections)," he said. "But I think they will be more careful."

Prosecution Opens Case In Trial Of Tony Boyle

MEDIA, Pa. (AP)—The prosecution opened its case today in the murder trial of W.A. "Tony" Boyle, the 72-year-old former head of the United Mine Workers union.

Special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague hopes to prove that Boyle initiated a plot to kill UMW rival Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, who was shot to death on Dec. 31, 1969 at his Clarksville, Pa. home, along with his wife and daughter.

The first order of business scheduled before Delaware County Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Catania today was the swearing-in of the jury, then opening statements by Sprague and defense counsel Charles F. Moses, followed by the first testimony.

Jury selection began last Monday and was completed Friday, with nine men, three women and two alternates approved, and dozens of others rejected.

The swearing-in of jurors, usually done immediately after they are all selected, was put off until today.

More than 100 persons have been subpoenaed to testify, including state police and FBI agents who investigated the murders.

Yablonski was killed three weeks after Boyle defeated him by a 2-1 margin for the UMW presidency. The election was later set aside by a federal court, and Yablonski's loyalist Arnold Miller defeated Boyle in another election.

The ailing Boyle was brought here from a federal prison hospital in Missouri. He was convicted of illegally using union funds for political contributions and last year began a three-year term.

Eight other persons have been accused in the Yablonski killings, including the three men allegedly hired to do the actual shooting.

Orders For New Look Into VA Win Favorable Comment

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)—President Nixon's orders for a new look into government services provided to veterans has won some favorable reaction from two Democrats involved in veterans' affairs.

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, chairman of the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee, and Rep. G. V. Montgomery of Mississippi, chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Insurance Subcommittee, commented Sunday after Nixon's nationwide broadcast.

In that broadcast, Nixon said he had ordered a "crack management team" to take a new, hard look at how to improve medical services and benefits for veterans.

Hartke said in a statement he was pleased that Nixon apparently was aware of problems plaguing the Veterans Administration. But he said he was disappointed that the "administration continues to oppose any GI bill increases above 8 per cent."

Montgomery said in an interview that he had no objections to Nixon's approach if the team "actually looks into progress and reports in two months."

He said he had found problems in the past of committees conducting studies but not reporting their findings.

Nixon said in his speech he wants answers within two months on better ways to help veterans get training, jobs and medical aid, and how to deliver their benefit checks on time.

He spoke from the Florida White House, where he is continuing a weekend stay through Monday. In his speech he followed up on a theme of aid to veterans that he had sounded on Vietnam Veterans Day Friday. That day marked the withdrawal a year ago of the last American servicemen from the Vietnam war.

Honeymooning Kissingers Appear Intent on Secrecy

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Acapulco's social set awaited word today on whether the newlywed Kissingers were open to invitations.

But Washington's most fabled swinger appeared intent so far on keeping a veil of privacy around his honeymoon.

Some 60 vacationers lined the Las Brisas dock Sunday and applauded as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the former Nancy Maginnes returned from a three-hour cruise around choppy Acapulco Bay in a speedboat called El Orate — The Lunatic.

Two boatloads of Secret Servicemen trailed El Orate around the bay, then packed into two cars to follow Kissinger's limousine back to banker Eustaquio Escandon's secluded villa overlooking the sea where the couple is staying.

"I'm sure there will be some parties or at least a dinner or two while they're here," said a leading Acapulco socialite wistfully. But he added that the Kissingers had accepted no invitations yet.

"Every man when he gets married is entitled to have some privacy," said a State Department spokesman.

Only a handful of persons knew in advance of Kissinger's wedding Saturday, among them former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Mrs. Kissinger's employer.

The former Miss Maginnes, who at almost six feet is noticeably taller than Kissinger, is head of international studies for Rockefeller's Commission on Critical Choices. She and Kissinger met 10 years ago when she enrolled in his foreign policy seminar at Harvard, and the professor recommended his pupil to Rockefeller as a foreign policy aide.

"Despite the 50-year-old secretary's well-publicized appearances with glamorous stars and starlets, Miss Maginnes, 39, has been his frequent companion for years, and a marriage was rumored for months.

Kissinger broke the news to Rockefeller Saturday morning ("By the way, Nancy and I are getting married.") and Rockefeller later announced the wedding to a meeting of mid-west Republicans.

The official announcement came from the State Department in the name of Mrs. Albert B. Maginnes of White Plains, N.Y., the bride's mother.

The wedding, attended by a handful of friends and relatives and Kissinger's two children by his previous marriage, took place before a judge in Arlington, Va. Rockefeller lent the newlyweds a jet for the trip to Acapulco.

doctoral degree, he was chosen for two consecutive years—1967 and 1968—as one of 15 outstanding faculty members from among about 450 on that campus whose courses were evaluated.

In recommending Bartholomy, Curris acknowledged the work he has done in developing regional speech and hearing services and in securing grant monies for the university.

A Michigan native, Bartholomy also served on the faculty at Albion College, Albion, Mich., and as a speech therapist in two public school systems in Michigan. He spearheaded the effort at Murray State that resulted in the beginning of construction last November on the $1,284,000 Speech and Hearing Rehabilitation Center.

Soldier Killed In Fall From Barracks

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—One soldier was killed and three others injured Saturday when a fire escape balcony on a barracks collapsed.

Dead is PFC Ted Thompson, 17, Greenfield, Ill.

Hospitalized were Pvt. Kenneth Mims, 19, Rockwell, Tex.; Pvt. Wilbert Franklin, 19, Baton Rouge, La.; and Pvt. Jay B. Lambreth, 17, Ashboro, N.C.

Post officials said five soldiers were on the second-story platform when a sixth joined them. The aluminum structure appeared to have pulled away from the building under the weight, witnesses said.

has experience teaching and coaching at the high school level.

In another move Saturday, the board named Dr. Edwin C. Strohecker as the director of libraries, effective July 1. He has served as acting director since last year. Strohecker also continues as chairman of the department of library science, the post taken by the native Pennsylvanian when he came to the campus in 1972.

In presenting budget guidelines adopted by the board for the 1974-75 school year, Curris expressed concern over increases in electricity rates by the Tennessee Valley Authority as reflected in charges by the Murray Electric System.

"I am not sure in what direction the university must go," Curris said, "but I do believe the university cannot stand still for continued increases in the electricity rate by the TVA that fall heavily upon us."

Noting that the university has no means to budget for the increases, Curris said it is "quite evident that no attention or consideration is being given to consumers, and particularly to those consumers that exist at the public trust and on fixed dollars. . . I don't think we can sit idly by and absorb or be subjected to monumental increases."

An increase in rates that became effective in January is expected to cost Murray State an estimated $80,000 to $90,000 a year more for power. TVA has indicated that another rate hike is probable for the quarter beginning July 1.

Curris also made special mention of the 5.5 percent provision in the state appropriation for cost-of-living salary increases for university personnel, noting that "we must do as much as we can" to provide for the increases in the budget.

He said a special budgetary effort will be made in behalf of full-time employees earning less than $8,000 a year, adding that they are hit hardest by inflation and that a straight 5.5 percent increase to people in that range actually penalizes them for their income.

An effort "to ameliorate or eliminate major salary inequities" was also spelled out by Curris in the guidelines. He explained, for example, that an investigation needs to be made to see if women are being treated fairly.

"We've got to look and see if we have inadvertently paid less to a woman professor or to a woman employee than to a male professor or male employee. . . doing the same work, with the same type of background and with the same credentials."

Curris said if such a situation is discovered to exist, equal rights legislation now requires that it be corrected.
