YMBC PLANS BIG EXPOSITION

The Young Men's Business Club met Tuesday night at Smith's Cafe in the regular dinner meeting, at which time a delicious meal was served to approximately forty members.

After the dinner a business meeting was held at the club's offices over Atkins Insurance Agency. On the suggestion of Donald Hall, the club passed a resolution to take down all the candidate cards on telephone poles and trees over the cities of Fulton and South Fulton. William Henry Edwards and James Meacham heads of the two local scout troops, agreed to take on this work, with Mr. Edwards' troop taking East Fulton and South Fulton and Mr. Meacham's troop taking Fair Heights and West Fulton.

Billie Blackstone told members of the camping trip being held for Scouters and those interested in scouting at Camp Pakentuk in Illinois, the official camp for Scouts of the Four Rivers Council Area. Those who wish to go may contact Mr. Blackstone or Louis Weak. The group will leave Saturday afternoon, August 23, returning Sunday evening, August 24. The cost for meals will be $1.00. There will be no other costs as each person is responsible for his bedding.

President Homra asked for a report on the catalog for the Ken-Tenn Exposition. M. L. Parker gave this report, stating that the catalog will be ready for the public about August 20. Ads in the catalog are now all sold and it will be the most handsome catalog, as well as the most interesting from a reader's standpoint, that has been published.

Mr. Blackstone, head of the gate committee, reported that he is lining up his crews of ticket sellers and ticket takers and everything is rounding into good shape.

A report was also heard from Bill Houston, chairman of the grandstand. Enoch Milner, superintendent of the Agricultural community booths, stated that there has now been ten applications for booths and it appears that the West Floral Hall will be completely filled.

Orlan Winstead, superintendent of livestock, reported that the cattle interest is greater than ever and the show this year should far surpass the one of 1940. A report was also heard concerning the Poultry Show, which stated that the addition of another class and the fact that chickens are in better condition, should make this show better than last year.

Carter Olive, managing director of the Ken-Tenn Exposition, stated that work on the Fair Grounds is getting underway. The track has been graded and is in the best condition now that it has ever been. The road from the gate around the back of the track also has been graded and widened. The old judges stand has been removed and a new one will be erected to take its place.

The small cattle barn, formerly the race horse barn, has been wrecked and the salvage is being used to repair the main livestock barn and fence. The large barn at the north end of the track has also been wrecked.

Bushes and willows have been removed from around the pond and track and the grounds have been cleaned. A new platform, from which shows will originate this year, has been built, this being a permanent platform built in three sections so that it can be stored when not in use. It is 13 feet square.

Two new members were introduced into the club and they made brief, appreciative talks. They were Dick Mulford of Swift & Co., and Charles Andrews of Andrews Jewelry Co.

Farm Bureau Picnic Will Be August 21-22

The Farm Bureau annual barbecue and picnic, sponsoring 4-H Club and Future Farmers livestock show and sale, and 4-H Club Girls' Exhibit, will be held on August 21 and 22 at the Fair Grounds in Fulton.

Instead of combining these attractions into one day, as has been the custom in the past, the picnic, 4-H Club, FFA Baby beef and Fat Hog show, as well as the 4-H Club Girls' Clothing, Foods and Canning Exhibits, will be held on August 21. On August 22 will be the first annual Fulton District baby beef sale, this includes Carlisle, Ballard, Hickman and Fulton Counties. Approximately 110 calves will be offered for sale on that day. Buyers are expected from Memphis, St. Louis, Paducah, as well as local buyers in this vicinity. Representatives from Kroger Stores, Sears-Roebuck and other similar companies will also be there. Three hundred and fifty dollars will be awarded as prize money to the 4-H Club Boys and Girls and Future Farmer boys.

On August 21, Larry Williams, of Indianapolis, Indiana, will talk Farm Bureau to the rural people at 11 o'clock. Lunch will be served at 12 o'clock. All Farm Bureau members will be mailed two free dinner tickets for that day.

There will be a show of the Grand Champion calves of each County at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 22nd. The sale will begin at 12 o'clock. Mr. G. H. Shaw of Memphis will be the auctioneer. Lunch will be served at the grounds that day. Everybody is invited.

ANYBODY that's got a hankerin' fer worrin' is shore t' be congratulated on th' fine crop of things that this world offers t' worry about t'day. A feller named Dean Inge once sez, "Worry is interest paid on trouble before it fails due." Course trouble an' worry go hand in hand, but I know folks that ain't got no troubles that jist git plum worried out. But I can guarantee you no-buddy ever grew dispendent lookin' fer trouble. Trouble is th' easiest thing in th' world t' borrow and it's one of th' few things that can be successfully home brewed. When I wuz in Hollywood makin' my pitcher "Country Fair" I loaned a feller some money that had trouble and now he won't pay me, he not only won't pay me he won't even worry about it. I'm goin' t' be worrier if you don't listen t' Plantation Party, Wednesday nites.

"BEHIND THE SCENES IN AMERICAN BUSINESS"

NEW YORK. — SIMMERING — Price control legislation, the new tax bill, and eastern gas rationing all have sort of settled down for summer simmering on the back of the business stove . . . but retail trade is in front, and sizzling! Instead of usual hot-weather lull, this summer is proving by far the best that retailers have known in more than a decade. Increased purchasing power traceable to defense "boom" is the dominant factor, of course, but lately "scarce buying" has been increasing as consumers tend to purchase beyond their current needs because of threats of shortages and price rises. This is especially true in the case of durable goods and staple clothing. One men's clothing chain is showing a gain of 51.4 per cent over last year, and big mail order companies which do a substantial business in durable consumers' items, have had gains ranging from 30 to 42 per cent. A somewhat exaggerated example of how shortage and price-rise apprehension affects consumers is visible right now in the frantic rush at the silk stockings counters.

KNOWING HOW—The defense production program has produced what seem to be some "strange bedfellows" of industry—in assigning certain companies to handle defense jobs not closely akin to their regular operations. Rat trap makers are turning out army cots; pipe organ makers are making saddle frames; adding machine manufacturers are making automatic pistols; makers of cream separators are turning out gun tripod mounts—and so it goes. On closer inspection of many of these cases it is found that there is, after all, a basic kinship between the materials, or tools, or factory set-up for these companies' regular production, and the defense-goods production. In other cases there is almost no physical relationship whatever, but established industrial organizations get the War Department call to operate new defense enterprises simply because of the need for proven skill in management of big operations. Most recent example of the latter is organization of the Lone Star Defense corporation to construct and operate a $75,940,000 government ordnance plant near Texarkana, Tex. It was organized as a subsidiary of the B. F. Goodrich company, pioneer rubber concern, and the latter's management personnel was given responsibility for construction and operation of the plant, where about 8,000 persons will be employed in loading shells and bombs.

JUST HUMANS

"SILK STOCKINGS, SAYS SHE! HAVE I SILK STOCKINGS! HAVE YOU SILK STOCKINGS?"

BITS O' BUSINESS—Don't expect to see any definite percentage figures on how much production of autos—and refrigerators, washing machines, etc.—is to be curtailed; the raw materials situation is such that these industries, and the defense officials, will just have to go along, doing the best they can, month to month—predictions are out . . . Nation's department store sales for week ending August 2 showed another 27 per cent gain over same week last year . . . Farm commodities still exempt from price-control legislation draft—their prices would have to hit 110 per cent of "parity" before being subject to ceilings; at maximums, that would mean about $1.29 a bushel for wheat; 94c a bushel for corn; 26c a pound for flue-cured tobacco; $1.19 a bushel for rice, and 18c a pound for cotton . . . Look for open-mesh hose, in colors, and made of cotton, as relief for silk hosiery shortage; also hose with cotton or rayon tops and feet; du Pont expects to be producing enough nylon yarn for 40 per cent of nation's hosiery by end of the year.

THE FARM 'BUSINESS'—The rising generation of American farmers bids fair to be much better "business men" than its Dads and Granddads. Besides learning production-line growing technique, they're studying closely the economics of movement of farm products to their ultimate destination—the nation's dinner tables—and winning scholarships, en route. Last week three farm youngsters won college scholarships awarded by the A & P at the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association meet in Columbus, O., for their first-hand

The price control bill now before Congress should be passed in some form within the next month or six weeks. Many people believe this will put a stop to all price increases and that prices will be frozen at present levels. But after looking over the bill carefully, I doubt if prices will be held down to present levels.

If this bill is passed, what effect would it have on important groups of our population?

First, on the working man. Under the proposed plan there would be no ceiling put on wages, and there would be no bar to demands for increased wages. Consequently if prices could be stabilized, his purchasing power would be greatly enhanced.

Second, what can the farmer expect? There would be no ceiling on farm prices that are below "parity." Parity prices are prices that guarantee to the farmers the same purchasing power in the form of manufactured goods that they enjoyed during the five years prior to the first World War. This simply means that under this proposed law there would be no fixing of farmer prices since they would rise with the cost of living.

The price control bill would tend to stabilize many prices and should help the housewife some. But since farm prices are not subject to definite control and the cost of clothing and food are two of the biggest items in most family budgets, the budgeteer will still have some problems.

For the business man price control will mean more government regulations. It may mean an order freezing many prices at the July 29 level. This would likely mean lower profit margins as the uncontrolled elements of cost are increased (wages, taxes, and farm prices.)

The government is trying to avoid the dangers of inflation and deflation. But it seems to me a bill which will actually do this must place some ceiling on all prices as well as wages.

Pedestrians of Delaware must carry lights when they walk along the state highway at night. Violation of the law costs $5 penalty.

Miss Annie Cook of Austin, Tex., for over 30 years lobbied for a sum of money she claimed the state owed her because the University of Texas forced out of business a correspondence school she operated.

Back to God's Country

SOON after the Civil War ended a former trooper of Morgan's cavalry moved from his home in the Bluegrass region to California. He was a gentleman of genial habits and a natural orator. It was almost inevitable, therefore, that sooner or later he should enter politics. He announced as a candidate for the legislature on the Democratic ticket. He made a spirited campaign, but when the primary returns were in, of three candidates the ex-Confederate had finished third.

He called a meeting of his friends and made a speech. It was short but complete.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I'm going to quit this cussed country. I'm going back to Kentucky—the only fit place for a Southern white gentleman to live—where the niggers make your crop for you and the sheriff sells it."

Public opinion is a vital factor in any traffic safety program. Without it the police, motor vehicle administrators, school people, and other responsible official agencies are deprived of a most powerful force. Once the public knows, not alone what the officials are doing, but why they are doing it, the official task is simplified.

Any group of safety-minded people conducting a community safety program ought to see that the public is informed of all activities regularly. Minutes of their meetings should be published by the local press. Newspapers all over the country have co-operated splendidly and have been a remarkable factor in giving this information to the public and thereby have helped in safety work.

Hide nothing. If some influential person in your community is brought in because of some traffic violation, he should be given the same treatment as anybody else. Favoritism should not be allowed in the enforcement of a safety program; and once the public knows this, you will get public support, the public opinion will help your program.

It's Smart to Drive Carefully.

...try your hand at this electric quiz

Q: How much out of each dollar of living expenses does the average family spend for electricity?

A: In most cases less than 2c. This not only lights the house, it also runs the appliances—washes and irons clothes, vacuums the rugs, runs the radio, toasts the bread, etc. The average family spends about 21 times as much for food as it does for electricity—11 times as much for housing, 8 times as much for clothing, 5 times as much for transportation.

Q: Mrs. Smith says that household electric rates are about the same as they were 10-15 years ago. Mrs. Jones says they have been cut about in half. Who is right?

A: Mrs. Jones is right. Your electric rate today is about half as much as it was 10-15 years ago, and today you get about twice as much electricity for the same money.

Q: If electric rates have been cut in half, why is the average family's bill today still about the same as it used to be?

A: Most families now use about twice as much electricity as they used to because they now use better lighting and enjoy the benefits of more labor-saving and time-saving electric appliances.

Q: What has made reduction in electric rates possible?

A: The American way of business operation of the electric companies. Just as business operation of automobile factories has succeeded in giving you today a better automobile for less money than 10-15 years ago, so has business operation of this company, and other electric companies, succeeded in bringing better service to more and more people at less and less cost.

Q: Why is everyone who has a bank account or an insurance policy a part owner of some electric company?

A: The money you put in the bank, or pay to an insurance company, is invested in various businesses, including electric companies. If you have a bank account or a life insurance policy you are one of the millions of people who have a personal stake in the electric companies.

TODAYS BIBLE THOUGHT

BETTER RETURN GOOD FOR EVIL: IT IS THE SIGN OF REAL MAN: Say not I will do so to him as he has done to me. I will render to the man according to his work—Proverbs 24:29.

When either side grows warm with argument, the wisest man gives over first.

There is nothing so false that a sparkle of truth is not in it.

A good action is never thrown away.

He who repeats the ill he hears of another is the true slanderer.

Let Us Rejoice

WHEN we see the joy of children spontaneously and continuously manifested, and their assurance of the love of their parents, it might well inspire in us a greater confidence in the Father, God, who ever blesses all. That men stand in need of a fuller, more permanent joy is plain. Those who consider the subject of little importance would do well not only to remember how essential joy is to true living, but to recall how highly the Apostle Paul valued it when in his list of spiritual fruits, he placed it next to love.

The fundamental nature of joy can best be understood when it is discerned how all good is possible of attainment through the spiritual understanding of man's true being as the son of God. If God is All and man is created in His image and likeness — as is so clearly stated in the first chapter of Genesis — the possibilities of good in such a relationship must indeed be limitless. Here, then, is the scientific call to a joy far beyond what materiality could provide.

Many Bible characters have experienced great joy as the result of their understanding of God; but no one has so fully demonstrated joy to be the inevitable result of the understanding of man's unity with God as has Christ Jesus, the Way-shower. When he told his hearers (John 10:30), "I and my Father are one," he proved what he said by casting out every form of error. He also made it clear that those who understood his teaching would do even greater works than he was doing. True joy, then, is a spiritual quality arising from the fundamental fact of man's oneness with his Father, God, and it can never spring from the illusory pleasures of matter, mood, or caprice.

When the prophet Isaiah spoke of the manifestation of the Christ-idea, he sought to make it clear that joy was one of its notable characteristics. He wrote (Isaiah 61:3), "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; ... to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified;" while in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy has written a correlative passage which reads (p. 304): "Harmony is produced by its Principle, is controlled by it and abides with it. Divine Principle is the Life of man. Man's happiness is not, therefore, at the disposal of physical sense. Truth is not contaminated by error. Harmony in man is as beautiful as in music, and discord is unnatural, unreal."

One's understanding of the allness of God as the source of true, that is, of spiritual joy, is strengthened by a statement of the Way-shower's, which brings steadfastness and peace. He comforted his followers with the assurance (John 16:22), "Your joy no man taketh from you."

To lack joy is to be deprived of the logical outcome of spiritual understanding. Consistently to recognize the things for which we can be grateful is to cultivate joy and to enhance its loveliness. Let us then cheer our own experience, as well as the world about us, by the expression of more gratitude.

In the universe of God's creating, where the spiritual man forever dwells, there is no hectic rushing hither and thither to seek joy. Joy is a spiritual attribute which all may express here and now in the simple kindnesses of the daily routine. Thus we see how true it is that while good brings joy, joy also brings more good!

"Rejoice evermore. . . In every thing give thanks" (1 Thessalonians 5:16, 18). Not only with our lips, but in our lives should joy and gratitude be expressed, and this will result in untold blessings."

FARMERS REALIZE TIDY SUMS FROM TOMATOES

The first consignment of green tomatoes ever shipped from Hickman was sent out last week by E. A. Craddock of the Union City Canning Company, four carloads and several truck loads being sent to northern and eastern markets.

Fulton county growers are receiving 80 cents to $1 a bushel for 2,500 to 3,500 boxes being shipped daily. Craddock has contracted for 3,500 acres of vegetables, including spinach, turnip greens, mustard, peas, lima beans, pumpkins, and over 1,000 bushels of ripe tomatoes at 40 cents a bushel.

The Hickman Cannery is being enlarged and pressure cookers installed for increased canning, Craddock said.

FARMERS HAVE MORE MONEY TO SPEND BUT COSTS ARE HIGHER

Except in areas where drought has been most severe, Tennessee farm families are expected to have more income to spend from family living the last half of 1941 than they had during the same period last year, according to an outlook statement recently prepared by Frank Joyce, assistant economist with the U-T Agricultural Extension Service.

Prices of things which farmers buy are continuing to rise and higher levels are in prospect. Due to Government rationing and priorities, certain commodities may not only be high in price but unobtainable as well. Prices of woolen goods, articles containing metal, purchasing foods, furniture, leather goods, coal, building materials, automobile tires, and other commodities which farmers buy, have risen and further increases are expected during the last half of 1941.

There is still time for many farm families to provide adequate supplies of home-grown foods before winter comes, Joyce states. With rising costs of living in prospect, producing food needs at home is highly important. Producing food at home, paying debts and making badly needed improvements have lost none of their usual importance in the program of farm people in Tennessee.

Cost of operating farms are rising with further increases in prospect. Farm wages have risen due to scarcity and to higher wages paid in defense greatly in prices in the next few months.

SILO SIMPKINS SAYS

Make your farm make a living. Limestone is quarried in every state except Delaware and New Hampshire.

Bad silage is generally the result of high moisture and low acidity. Cotton futures sold on the New York Cotton Exchange recently for 17 cents a pound, the highest price since early in 1930.

Hit-or-Miss spending of money, time and strength on the farm neither builds up the land nor makes old age more comfortable.

It is estimated that Tennessee farmers lose at least a million dollars annually because of fodder in Lespedeza and clover fields.

Records kept by Tennessee farm women under the direction of Home Demonstration Agents show that three-fourths or more purchased oatmeal, flour, Baking Powder, Peanut Butter, dried beans, Yellow Cheese, Vinegar, Salt, Salmon, and Cabbage.

The year is over half gone but there is still time to plant late Irish Potatoes, Crowder Peas, Bunch Beans, Turnips, Cabbage and other vegetables in the garden.

TIME TO TALK

Interest in the fine arts may have been increased severalfold since my earliest recollections, but there is some fine art that has suffered sadly with the coming of standardized life. I refer to the fine art of conversation, which the old-time neighborhood knew and practiced. We seem to be in such a hurry now that talk is only what is necessary to keep our business going. The talk of other times was of all descriptions but especially of the informative, educative type.

Living rather lonely lives during the working hours or days and often without a newspaper of any sort, people traveled around on Sunday to learn the news, local and foreign. It is true that some of the news came in distorted form but anything was better than remaining at home all the time at hard work, without knowing what was going on. Visiting was often as much for the information it brought as for the social features.

Every neighborhood had one or more men who had read more and thought out things a little better than the average. These people were sought out when there was some political or other stress on the minds of the sovereign voters. When current news ran out (news gleaned from the weekly paper), there was always the Civil War to fall back on. For the hundredth time each participant was asked to tell his version of the great conflict, for we believed that every person engaged must have known much of what was happening. What matter if we already knew the whole chronicle, with all the digressions? It was worth hearing again.

In spite of all that has been said on the subject about the cooperation of our time, I cannot help thinking that we are ever so much more selfish and individualistic now than formerly. Now when I want to learn the news, I do not seek some one out; instead I buy a paper or turn on the radio and want to murder anyone who talks while I am keeping myself informed about what the big world is doing.

If some fellow tries to get fresh and read aloud as we used to do, all of us give him a look that would burn him and the paper, too. After we have read or listened, we rarely discuss the news with our neighbors, for they have read or listened, too, and have the same opinion as we.

Talk became a means of transmission of most of the neighborhood culture; most of what we have learned came to us through the age-old methods of transmission, not through books. Mothers talked to their daughters and taught them the simple, humble arts of housekeeping and child care. Fathers at their work talked to their sons and instructed them in the work of the farm or the store, about the only institutions that we knew. Most of what they said could not be written down, because it would be nearly intangible. But from older to younger knowledge descended, hardly conscious of itself but gathering strength as all traditional things do by their passing through minds and characters.

We are devoted to our books and to the means we now have to pass along information and education and culture, but I sometimes wonder whether we are saving any time by depending too much on books and by pushing mor talk into the background.

A young Memphis woman, consulting a lawyer, was asked why she wanted a divorce. "I don't yet. I'm engaged to be married, and I just want to know what I might have to go through when I'm ready for a divorce," was the reply.

WHEAT QUOTA PROCLAIMED ON '42 CROP

In order that farmers may be informed on the wheat situation before planting time this fall, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard proclaimed a marketing quota on the 1942 wheat crop July 25.

Before the quota becomes effective it has to be approved by two-thirds of the wheat growers voting in a referendum which will be held next spring after the condition of the 1942 crop is determined. H. M. Pewitt, chairman of the Fulton County Agricultural Conservation Association, said today.

Proclamation of the quota at this early date will not only give the wheat growers ample time to study the situation, but will permit them to get all available information on possible crop failure and the possibility of new markets for wheat before their decision on the quota.

The quota was proclaimed by the Secretary on the basis of estimates which indicated a 640,000,000 bushel carry over of wheat on July 1, 1942, and on an estimated 1942 crop of 660,000,000 bushels. This figure is arrived at by assuming normal yields on the 55,000,000-acre allotment for 1942, which is 7,000,000 acres smaller than the 1941 allotment. A larger acreage of wheat or above normal yield, such as most farmers reported this year, would materially increase the 1942 crop.

With normal yields on the 1942 allotments, the total supply of wheat for 1942-43 would be 1,300,000,000 bushels compared with the quota level of 998,000,000 bushels. This quota level is 35 per cent above average domestic consumption and exports.

Domestic consumption of wheat during the past 10 years averaged 690,000,000 bushels annually and exports during the same period averaged 49,000,000 bushels. Thus total disappearances per year during the past ten years has averaged only 739,000,000 bushels compared with an estimated supply on July 1, 1942, of 1,300,000,000 bushels.

OFFICIALS PREPARE COTTON INSURANCE PROGRAM FOR 1942

Machinery for application of the United States Department of Agriculture's cotton crop insurance program to the 1942 cotton crop is being perfected by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation in Washington, H. M. Pewitt, Chairman of the Fulton County Agricultural Conservation Association, announced.

Details will be worked out in time for all cotton growers in Fulton County to apply for insurance on their 1942 crop before seeding. Growers will be able to insure 50 per cent or 75 per cent of their average yield, Mr. Pewitt explained. The insurance will protect them from all unavoidable hazards, such as drought, insects, including boll weevils, flood, plant disease, wind, fire and hail.

Guaranteed yields will be figured in terms of pounds of lint cotton, as will premiums. Premiums will be based on the crop-loss history of individual farms, adjusted to reflect the crop-loss experience of the county. Both yields and crop-loss averages will be figured on the basis of historical or appraised productivity over a period of years.

Premiums for individual growers also will be figured on a lint cotton basis, although payment of premiums will be made with a commodity note. All applicants for cotton crop insurance will sign a commodity note guaranteeing to pay their premiums on or before the date of maturity. This maturity date will approximate the time that cotton generally is picked in each State or about the time that indemnities are to be paid.

Payment of the note may be made in either cotton or the cash equivalent on or before maturity. If the note is not paid when it matures, the cash amount of the premium will be deducted from the indemnity paid the grower, if any, or from the first Government payment he receives, such as a cotton loan, parity payment of AAA payment.

A UNIQUE PARTNERSHIP

An unusual plan of cooperation, which is probably unique in American industry, is to be placed in effect by union makers of women's dresses and their employers in New York, with the object of establishing that city as the world's fashion center.

The plan was proposed last winter by a board representing the city's 85,000 members of the garment makers' union, and has been accepted by the manufacturers' trade association. The idea is to promote the sale of dresses under the label of "New York Creations," through an advertising campaign planned to cost more than four million dollars in the three years covered by the contract.

To raise this fund, the workers will contribute $100,000 and the manufacturers will put up one-third of one per cent of their wholesale volume. Donations will also be made by textile and other firms which expect to benefit from the program, which will be handled by a leading advertising firm.

As head of this drive, the interests concerned have selected Mrs. Dorothy W. Anderson, 38-year-old merchandise manager of a prominent apparel store of the metropolis, who has been associated with the dress industry for 15 years and is widely known as an expert stylist.

Aside from being an interesting experiment, this program marks what may be an epochal departure in the relations of labor and management in one of the country's most important industries.

LIME AND NATIONAL DEFENSE

Every year Kentucky farmers in the AAA program spread hundreds of thousands of tons of lime on their land. In 1940 the amount of lime spread in the program reached the all-time high of more than 1,193,000 tons.

What this may mean to national defense through improved health of the people is recognized by leading health authorities like Dr. Philip F. Barbour of Louisville, consultant on child diseases for the Kentucky health department.

Speaking of the entire southern Appalachian area, which includes much of eastern Kentucky, in a recent address Dr. Barbour said, "The absence of lime in the soil is leading to early disintegration of children's teeth. Perhaps nowhere else in the nation are there so many children with such poor teeth."

Dr. Barbour pointed out that more lime was spread on the soil in the Appalachian area last year than in any other similar area in the United States, but added that much more lime is needed.

Under the will of John L. Warren of Cambridge, Mass., a 5-year-old cocker spaniel is assured of his favorite meal, hamburgers and tomatoes, as long as he lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wright and Miss Betty Rhodes of Martin and Miss Adolphus Latta left Tuesday for Knoxville, Chattanooga and the Lookout Mountains. They will return this week end.

Vacationists going home should be well rested, refreshed, and ready for the ordeal of facing traffic.

Do not plan your return trip so that the entire driving distance must be completed within one day. Frequently people drive more than 300 or 400 miles a day; and near the end of the trip when darkness comes, they are tired and unable to pay attention to the increased traffic.

That's the time of day that driving is bad, and that's the time of day drivers should be alert.

Use your head and keep it above water—plan an early arrival and an early departure so that you will be on your toes and watching traffic all the time. That is your responsibility for your own protection and your family.

It's smart to be careful.
