Dr. Glenn H. Reynolds, Vice-President of the bank, announced today that the new building at 230 South Main Street would be completed in the near future.

The building will house the bank's main branch, along with several offices for the bank's executive staff.

Dr. Reynolds also stressed the importance of the project in boosting the local economy and providing additional banking services for the community.

The construction of the new building is expected to be completed within the next six months, with the bank planning to move into the new location by early autumn.

In addition to the main branch, the new building will feature a drive-through teller window and an expanded ATM network, allowing customers better access to banking services.

The bank has also incorporated environmentally friendly features in the design of the building, such as energy-efficient lighting and insulation, which will help reduce energy costs and promote sustainability.

With the completion of the new building, the bank is looking forward to serving its customers with increased efficiency and providing a more comfortable and modern banking experience.

FULTON HARDWARE & FURNITURE CO.
WASHINGTON.—While technocrats are engaged in fix proverbial $50,000,000,000 ($50 billion) loan for dollars, several members of Congress declared today that former estimates of the country's war-program needs, probably were not justified from the economic standpoint.

They said opportunities probably would be presented to raise billions not only by way of emergency loans but through the reduction of interest rates and mortgage extension plans. That would, they said, give a double feature to the total war effort.

Other Congressmen have argued that the country's war needs as it now stands would total $200 billion and that war loans would restore the nation's private capital markets.
