THE LISTENING POST

● The golf course is the great equalizer and disqualifier. By merely looking at a person playing golf it is not possible to hazard any guess as to what manner of person a player may be, or what occupation or profession he may follow. Clothing worn by golf players is varied; no longer do all golfers wear knickerbockers. Some wear ordinary looking clothing, some wear knickerbockers. Some wear white trousers and sport shirts and some wear very abbreviated shorts. Some wear caps, some wear hats, some go bareheaded, and all that one can be certain of is that these strangers are playing or trying to play golf. A few days ago I noticed a man playing the local course and there was something more or less familiar about his appearance. I kept wondering why he seemed familiar and finally, when I made a bad shot and he also fired a ball into the wrong fairway our paths met and crossed. When he approached I saw why he seemed familiar, for he was the man who takes care of the adding machine in the office and I have been knowing him for a long time. But I never knew that he played golf.

● During the past two or three weeks I have been noticing several strangers playing here and some one told me that some men from the new air field at Union City had been making inquiries about playing here. I presumed that these men were from that outfit, and this surmise was correct. But there was nothing about their appearance to indicate that they held pretty high rank in the armed forces. One had in particular attracted my attention, for he was built like an Olympic runner. He usually plays in shorts, and he has the perfect straight legs of a champion runner and all-around athlete. Whether he can play golf very well I do not know, for I have never happened to see these strangers play except at a distance. I wondered about these men, and the other day I played with a Union City acquaintance and after the round these four or five men came to the stand to get a drink. The acquaintance introduced me to the men, and it was surprising that all were captains. It was Captain this and Captain that until I grew dizzy trying to remember the names. There is one good thing about such titles, however, for when I am uncertain of the name I can always say, "Hi, Captain," and get by with it.

● After being introduced to four captains, I think, finally said quite brightly: "Is everybody over there a captain?" thinking perhaps I might dig up a corporal or a sergeant or something on that order. Captain Somebody grinned a bit and waved a hand at an approaching man. "Here comes a Major," he said. "Just got his papers today," and so I shook hands with Major James, who is the commander of the Union City field. A story in the Union City Messenger told me about him the next morning. He had been a captain, but his promotion came through a few days ago, and while he was at the moment wearing the bars of a captain this was only because he had been unable to find any gold oak leaves in Northwest Tennessee. The new Major is a pleasant, whimsical sort of person, and while I guess all these boys look quite impressive in their uniforms they look like just clean-cut American boys in golf clothes. There is nothing military in their appearance when in golf clothing, except they stand a bit straighter and are in better physical condition than most civilians, but there is something about

BAPTIST PASTORS RECEIVE COMMISSIONS IN U. S. ARMED FORCES

Two Local Pastors To Serve As Chaplains In Army

Rev. E. A. Autrey, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. L. M. Bratcher, Jr., pastor of the Liberty Baptist church each received letters yesterday from the Adjutant General stating that they have been appointed Chaplains in the Army of the United States, with the rank of First Lieutenant. They were ordered to report for active duty on July 12th at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Rev. Autrey, who succeeded Rev. Woodrow Fuller as pastor of the First Baptist church here, came to Fulton about two years ago from Louisiana. No steps have been taken by the local church regarding his successor.

Sunday is the last day which Rev. Bratcher will conduct services as pastor of Liberty and a special invitation is extended to friends to come and worship. The morning service will start at 10 a. m. and the afternoon service at 5 p. m.

WAS IT UNLUCKY DAY? OR WAS IT LUCKY?

Ford Lansden, general Kentucky Utilities manager here, had a day yesterday which might be termed unlucky, but at the same time it might also be called a lucky day. Here is the yarn:

Ford took a round of golf and before starting out carefully placed his keys in the golf bag and thought he locked them in this compartment. Far out on the golf course he was hailed by Vester Freeman, playing behind him, who asked if he had lost any keys. Ford looked in the golf bag and found the keys gone. They had been found by the next players and Ford was happy.

Last night, continuing to play with his fine boy, Jimmy, Ford rode a bicycle around his neighborhood for a while. Later Jimmy after the fashion of sons, asked for some money to finance a trip downtown and when Ford reached for his wallet it was not in his pocket. Thinking he had lost it on the bicycle ride he at once turned that territory again, without luck.

He then drove to the Country Club and this was at 10:30—and as he drove up he saw his missing wallet lying under a bench where he had rested after his afternoon golf round. It had been there for three or four hours—and it contained several dollars, too. So the day might have been called lucky, after all.

Plastic Pane Resists Explosion Of Powerful Bomb In Demonstration

St. Louis, A newtype transparent window pane capable of resisting the explosion of a 150-pound bomb eight feet away has been developed for use in military and industrial construction.

Made of clear plastic laminated with wire mesh, the window material was developed by the Monsanto Chemical Company in cooperation with the United States Navy to end the menace of flying glass, especially in potential air raid zones.

Authorities say experience in England disclosed flying glass was one of the chief dangers in an air raid.

Tested under shock conditions, the plastic pane stood up without appreciable damage under pressure

Frankfort, Ky.—An order stopping assessment of state employees for campaign funds was granted Attorney General Hubert Meredith in Franklin Circuit Court here today.

The order in the form of a temporary injunction was issued by Circuit Court Clerk Kelly C. Smith in the absence from Frankfort of Circuit Judge W. B. Ardery.

Action was taken on a suit filed by Meredith against Gov. Keen Johnson and other administration leaders. The petition claimed assessing of state employees two per cent of their annual salaries already had begun and that leaders expected to raise a $200,000 campaign fund this year by this means.

"That'll stop 'em," commented the attorney general on his latest attack on the Johnson forces. "If they want to keep on with the assessments, they'll have to go into court and fight to do it."

"And if I get a permanent injunction, 'Happy' (United States Senator A. B. Chandler) can sell his swimming pool if he wants to finance his campaign."

Meredith declared assessing employees' salaries—which many officials have declared was on a strictly volunteer basis—had been carried on for many years by administrators here. He said it not stopped, another $200,000 could be raised for the 1943 gubernatorial contest, as well as the $200,000 for this year.

Declaring the acts charged violated the federal as well as the state Constitution, the suit asserted there was specific violation of the Federal Hatch Act. It forbids salary assessments of employees of state agencies receiving federal funds.

PRINCETON NEWSPAPER MAN HERE YESTERDAY

G. M. Pedley, publisher of newspapers in Princeton and Eddyville, was in the city late yesterday on a mixture of business and pleasure. Mr. Pedley, in addition to his two newspapers in West Kentucky, is director of the magazine, "In Kentucky," which is published quarterly by the State. He is a former president of the Kentucky Press Association and quite well known over the state.

MORRIS BELL, FORMER FULTONIAN, VISITS HERE

Morris Bell, former Fulton man, who has been living in California for the past nineteen years, is visiting his brother, Luther Bell, and renewing old acquaintances. It is his first visit here in many years and he states that he sees vast changes in all this territory. Many old friends are glad to welcome him on this visit.

War Expected To Spell Doom Of Chocolate Bar By Easter

New York.—The chocolate candy bar—an American institution comparable to the hot dog—may be as difficult to obtain as a rubber tire after this year.

"There probably will be plenty of chocolate bars available until the end of 1942," an official of the Association of Confectionery Manufacturers and Chocolate said today.

Early in 1943, however, supplies will begin to get tight," he added, "and by Easter of next year production virtually may half—unless imports of cocoa are increased."

His prediction drew substantiation today from a report of members of the cocoa and chocolate industry advisory committee to War Production Board officials that some processors of cocoa beans soon might be forced out of business because of a supply shortage.

Difficulties in the industry are traceable to the cocoa bean, essential raw product necessary for the manufacture of chocolate, imported chiefly from the African Gold Coast, South America, Mexico and the West Indies.

Shipping problems created by global war have limited imports of the bean to such an extent that the industry has eaten heavily into its warehouse stocks.

Processors are limited to 60 per cent of their last year's needs. W. P. A. officials have estimated the industry could expect to receive in the rest of 1942 only about 20 per cent of imports received in the like 1941 period.

Almost 900,000 bags of beans, or about 100,000,000 pounds of cocoa, are required annually to make candy bars and similar products. In June approximately 700,000 bags were stored in licensed warehouses, compared with 1,400,619 in June, 1941.

The 700,000-bag figure does not include unestimated stocks contained in private warehouses and does not allow for imports.

The W. P. B. estimated on April 1 that there were about 452,000,000 pounds of cocoa in the United States—almost a year's supply. About one-fourth of that amount is used in chocolate candy manufacture and the rest by bakers, in beverages and sold to housewives by grocers.

The revival at Salem will begin on Thursday night before the 3rd Sunday in July.

Church Program

A two-part program in observance of Church School Day was carried out at Mt. Pleasant Sunday with a full house in attendance.

An appealing pageant was presented by the children—"A Child For Sale," in which christianity made the successful bid over pleasure, wealth and fame. Directed by Mrs. E. J. Bennett, Mrs. Jack Vaden and Mrs. Jimmie Moore.

The Memorial service for the boys in the armed forces was likewise impressive.

A large flag containing the names of 20 boys was hung on the wall behind the pulpit. As the announcer called each name, giving the time of enlistment and his present location, his parents or a near relative came to the front, attached "his star" with a silent prayer for his welfare and remained on the pulpit stage for the conclusion of the program.

In behalf of those parents, Miss Sara Armbruster read a message expressing their sentiments and wishes in regard to his conduct while on duty and off. The substance of which was "Make the best soldier you can, but first be the best man." In other words, there's a personal victory to be won, as well as a national one and the latter depends on the success of the first.

At the close of the "Star Spangled Banner," Supt. J. W. Brinkley offered a special prayer for them. The honorees in 1940 in order of enlistment were R. W. Humphreys, Coast Guard, Ft. Totten, N. Y.; Charlie Dew, Pine Camp, N. Y.; Jack Dew, overseas; Sgt. Edward Via of Marines, on the waters; Alben W. Barclay, Mt. ## Navy Believes Japanese Reports That Houston Survivors Interned

Washington.—A navy spokesman today described as probably true Japanese radio reports that survivors from the American cruiser Houston and the Australian cruiser Perth are safe in an internment camp.

The Japanese controlled Batavia radio declared that Nipponese sailors from a destroyer had picked up some of the survivors from the Houston, lost in the Java Sea February 28. The broadcaster went on to praise the gallant fight put up by the Houston.

No information was given as to how many survivors had been picked up, but it was said that 1,000

Cairo, Egypt.—Reinforced British tanks and artillery struck with full fury late today at the rear of the Axis army in a carefully planned maneuver to counter the armored assault of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel upon the main British positions defending Egypt and the Middle East.

The inconclusive battle raged into the night. The decision, upon which apparently rests the fate of British and Allied power in the eastern Mediterranean, might not come for a day or two.

Picking his favorite time for a fight, Rommel hurled his armored legions upon the British at El Alamein, 60 miles west of Alexandria, when the sun would be full in the Allied eyes.

At that time, the British sent tanks and artillery pounding against his rear by way of his right flank.

With this surprise move the enemy, too, was forced to fight with the glare of the sun in his eyes.

Using All Arms

Both sides have thrown everything available in the region into the struggle, which is the climax of the Axis offensive of the past weeks.

The importance of the battle was recognized here. The enemy will take Egypt or be destroyed. The Allied troops will save Egypt or be destroyed.

There is scant chance of either side turning back now.

The reinforcements of both men and material that are reaching the Allied lines are beginning to show a marked effect, it was said here.

The British are rushing up 25-pound cannon and a new anti-tank six-pounder which are hammering away with a great gusto and determination and have proved an excellent deterrent to the German tanks.

The defenders of Egypt repulsed a heavy attack of enemy tanks and truck-borne infantry upon El Alamein Wednesday night.

Axis tanks broke through at one point but were engaged and hurled back.

WHY THE HARD WAY IS THE BEST WAY

The Treasury Department is spending much money, enormous effort, and a lot of the time and thought of its best executives to sell War Bonds and Stamps to the general public. The job it has undertaken, that of selling twelve billion dollars worth of Bonds and Stamps, in chickenfeed amounts, this year is an enormous assignment.

The Treasury could raise that amount of cash in 12 hours instead of 12 months, without wasting thought or energy, by simply calling up the Federal Reserve Board and stating its desires. But the Treasury prefers the hard way of doing it, for very good reasons which we Bond and Stamp buyers should understand.

When the government borrows money direct from banks, what happens is this: new securities are given the banks, which in turn assign an equal amount of credit to the government's account. This is actually the creation of new money, for the new bank deposits which come into existence through this procedure are new money every bit as much as if the Bureau of Printing and Engraving had issued that amount of new greenbacks.

This is a highly inflationary thing to do. By increasing the volume of money in existence without increasing the amount of purchasable goods, the government sets in motion forces which, if not strictly controlled, decrease the value of all outstanding money by so much. It was just such government borrowing from banks which led to the catastrophic German inflation of the Twenties, when one U. S. dollar would buy Reichsmarks in the quadrillions.

The Treasury prefers to sell its securities direct to you, because any purchaser other than a bank uses existing money to convert into government bonds. You either

Whether they are all fliers I do not know, but I know they have quiet and steady eyes and look straight at you when speaking and those eyes seem to see far off horizons. Perhaps I am imagining all this, but if they are fliers I can really see that their eyes would be different. Fliers are accustomed to far horizons, to burning speed and to looking at an earth that seems to be quietly spinning and turning at all times. Later those eyes must learn to spot enemy ships, and I guess all told that the men who fly really have a different look in the eyes. Perhaps it is the

FOR A U. S. SENATOR

A Free Steel-Girded Swimming Pool

There's Fun At Chandler's Steel Supported Plunge . . . But Kentuckians Die For Lack Of Steel On Far-Flung Battlefields.

THE FACTS—On May 1, four months and twenty-four days after Pearl Harbor, Ben H. Collings started the construction of a swimming pool in Senator A. B. Chandler's backyard at Versailles.

A standard pool of this type requires no less than 8,000 pounds of steel, in addition to incidental tubing and brass accessories.

Steel, as well as these incidental metals, is an urgent war-time need. Most people can't get it, because the government needs it so much.

Mr. Collings is a Louisville war contractor, who has been and is engaged on big contracts.

Senator Chandler is a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, which passes on legislation for the department that authorizes war contracts.

Mr. Collings and Senator Chandler agree that the pool was a personal gift to the senator, a token of friendship for which, incidentally, another citizen would have had to pay about $5,000.00.

THE BACKGROUND—All of us are being called upon to sacrifice these days. We donate our scrap metal. We bring in our scrap rubber. We buy war bonds. Some have lost their businesses and some their jobs in the face of national necessity. Many have sons in the armed services, in camps here and far across the waters. Some of these sons are "missing in action." Some of them we shall never see again.

THE QUESTIONS—What then of one who chisels on the national effort?

What of a high official who uses steel for fun, while for want of it the blood of Kentucky boys stains foreign shores and the oceans in between?

What of a senator, in this supreme and tragic hour, who accepts a costly present from a man whom he is in position to favor?

THE CONCLUSION—There is just one issue in this election. Just one issue in America. Just one issue in the world.

With Americans, with fathers and mothers and wives and sisters and brothers and sweethearts of men who are offering their lives for our freedom at stations all around the globe, that issue cannot be political or partisan. It is all-American. It is freedom. It is life. It is victory for those principles without which all patriots would choose to be dead.

No one reluctant to sacrifice, no one indifferent to the common burden of effort and hardship and anxiety and grief, no one who puts personal pleasure above national need has a place in America today—and least of all does such a one have a place in the high ranks of government.

EXPLANATION—It is out of these convictions that John Young Brown has become a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate. We invite support, not for him but for a sentiment, for a cause to which Americans have pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

What does the Fourth of July Mean to You?

Revolution. It inspired the peoples of South America to throw off the cruel Spanish yoke. And everywhere outside the Orient it gave the common man cause to hope for a happier world.

On this Fourth of July, 1942, our country is once more engaged in a terrible struggle against the forces of tyranny, brutality and greed. Thousands of our men already have given their lives battling enemies determined to drag civilization down to the level of the Dark Ages. Military necessity requires that all of us give up many vital liberties in order to win the war.

But with victory and peace, and vast social readjustments affecting everyone, we must guard against the aims of social-minded politicians who would try to establish in these United States of ours some evil principles we are fighting today.

Indeed, the great mass of us men and women who do the productive work, pay the taxes and fight the wars, must recognize every one of the rights and safeguards that make the American Way of Life.... which the system of free enterprise.... which in 166 years has made ours the greatest nation of all time.
